Lockney students exhibit 101 animals in Floyd County Livestock Show

Bits and pieces from hither and yon:

The trial to determine whether Austin will have to abandon its current system of at-large elections for City Council, in favor of single-member districts, is now under way in Federal Court before Judge James Nowlin.

The opening gun was fired by Mr. David Van Os, Attorney for the NAACP, which, among others, is bringing the suit. Austin has had a black councilman since 1971, and a Hispanic councilman since 1975, but plaintiff's argument runs to the effect that this does not really matter...that what matters is that they have been elected by anglo votes, and this shouldn't happen. The argument goes, from plaintiff's standpoint, that if minority councilmen did not have to worry about anglo votes they could really get their teeth into things of substance. Mr. Van Os said they could then begin fighting for issues like police brutality, unemployment, and housing, rather than nuclear power and the environment, which, he said, are of little real concern to the minority community.

The people of Austin, in a recent election, said they would like to keep things as they are. But that matters little in this day and age. If the Federal Courts decide otherwise, it will be otherwise.

We have written before of the difficulty we had in trying to find someone in the Attorney General's office who knew what the law was in relation to the statutes under which cities operate in Texas, or, for that matter, even where the laws are codified in the statutes. We should have waited a few days.

We see by the papers that former State Representative Foy Salinas of Lubbock has been hired by the AG's office. Salinas, you may remember, was the legislator who lost his bid for reelection to a young black man running as a Republican. Salinas was beaten for a very simple reason. Back when the Mothers Against Drunk Driving began actively calling for stiffer penalties against drunk drivers, Salinas publicly implied that the effort had racial overtones, and was motivated by "honkies" who wanted to penalize his constituents. That tended to make voters in his largely Hispanic Lubbock district somewhat unhappy, and they turned him out of office, in favor, of all things, a black, conservative Republican.

Not to worry, gentle reader. Salinas has now gone to work for Mr. Mattox, our Attorney General, as a "special assistant". A reporter asked Mr. Salinas, who is not a lawyer, what his new duties would entail. His reply was quoted as "anything that they need me to do—mostly explain to members (of the legislature) what the Agency (the attorney general's office) does."

We can all now sleep better, knowing the office of Attorney General is in such good hands, with Jim Mattox heading it up and Foy Salinas explaining to the Legislature what Mr. Mattox does when he is not in court defending himself.

We see by Mr. Bullock's latest report that the "city sales and use tax allocation" for Floyd County jumped 24 percent over the same period last year, with Floydada up 31 percent and Lockney up eleven percent. This contrasts with Hale County, which increased 2 percent. (Plainview went up only 1.5 percent.) That is not an exact indicator of sales activity within a city, but it is a fair measure, over a period of time, of business activity. Perhaps one thing it does indicate is that more people are spending their money with hometown merchants now, which is a good sign.

The 41st annual Floyd County 4-H and FFA Junior Livestock Show is drawing to a close as we go to press with the Lockney section of the paper. Complete results of the show and sale can be found inside the paper.

There were a total of 223 animals shown this year and this count includes barrows, sheep, and steers. Lockney had 101 animals placed from 1st through 11th places in the show. In the barrow division Lockney's Troy Bigham showed the Grand Champion Barrow which was a Hampshire. Troy also had the Breed Champion Hampshire.

Other top winners in the barrow show included Wymon Rexrode who showed the Breed Champion Berkshire; Scott Howard, the Breed Champion Chester White; and Clay Harrison, the Reserve Breed Champion Chester White. Heath Rexrode had the Reserve Breed Duroc and Boyd Jackson, the Breed Champion Poland China.

In the lamb show Keri Dee Lusk exhibited the Reserve Grand Champion lamb which was a Hampshire. She was also the Reserve Breed winner of the Hampshire division; Lisa Terrell had the Reserve Breed Cross.

In the steer show Colt Golden showed the Reserve Grand Champion steer which was an Angus which was also the Breed Champion Angus. Troy Bigham showed the Reserve Breed Angus.

The annual buyers luncheon and sale was set for 1:30 p.m. Monday.

The annual stock show event was concluded Tuesday night with the annual banquet sponsored by the Floyd County Farm Bureau. The banquet was held in the cafeteria of the Lockney Elementary School.

Announced at the banquet were the stock show queen, winner of the sweepstakes trophy, the winners of the judging contest, the winners of the showmanship in barrows, lambs and steers, and also the herdsman awards were to be announced.

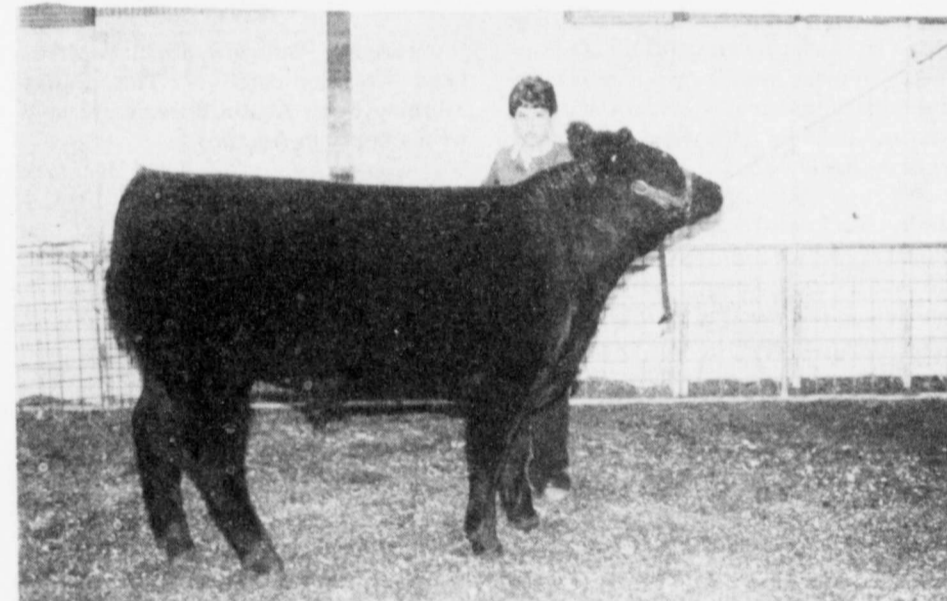

Though the number of animals were down in both the local and county shows, there were still some exciting days in the past two weekends for the 4-H and FFA students.

TROY BIGHAM—Grand Champion Barrow.

KERI DEE LUSK—Reserve Grand Champion Lamb.

COLT GOLDEN—Reserve Grand Champion Steer.

Armed robbery occurs at local service station

Monday afternoon, February 11, between 2:00 and 2:30 p.m. an armed black man robbed Highway 70 Texaco, owned and operated by Verner (Squaler) and Helen Hodel.

Mrs Hodel was operating the station when the robbery occurred. The man entered the station and asked for $5.00 worth of gas and when Helen opened the cash register to put his money in it the man pulled a gun and said he wanted all the money. He took about $136.00 in cash, but did not take some $2 bills that the Hodels had marked. The bandit then got in his car and left heading west on Highway 70. He was driving a rust colored automobile.

Law enforcement officers have furnished several photos of suspects, but as of Friday noon no suspects had been identified.

After the robbery occurred Monday afternoon, Hale and surrounding counties law enforcement officers stopped at least two possible suspects but the leads did not result in any arrests.

The investigation is still ongoing at this time.

This is the second business in Lockney to lose money or merchandise in a four-week period. On January 22 Schacht Flowers, Jewelry and Gifts was burglarized. It is not known the dollar value of what was taken in this incident but many pieces of high quality jewelry were taken. The perpetrators of this crime gained entry to the store by breaking the front glass door. Investigation into this burglary is also ongoing.

Heather Thyen wins new bicycle

When Heather Thyen, 7, chose a box of Smurfberry Crunch Cereal at the grocery store, she got more than a box of cereal.

For inside was a sticker which proclaimed "SMURF FOR PRESIDENT", and the sticker entitled Heather to a new bicycle.

Heather's mom, Mrs. Ken (Marlys) Thyen of the Lone Star community, returned the sticker to the cereal company, but really didn't expect anything to come of it. Several weeks later, Heather received a letter verifying her as a bicycle winner. And one day a big box arrived via United Parcel Service.

The Thyens had to do a little bit of assembly on the 20-inch BMX dirt bike, a Laser Roadmaster. Heather's brother, Brian, age nine, thinks the bike is just fine and probably rides it more than Heather does. Brian likes the handle brakes, but Heather isn't too comfortable with that feature.

Winning a bike has been a thrill for Heather Thyen. And now both she and her brother carefully read all cereal boxes to see if something special might be offered.

BIKE WINNER—Seven-year-old Heather Thyen of Lockney won this BMX dirt bike through a breakfast cereal special promotion. She is the daughter of Ken and Marlys Thyen.

Stamps available at post office

An adequate supply of "D" stamps and other nondenominated items is available at the Lockney post office to help customers make a smooth transition after the February 17 postal rate change.

Postmaster Meriwether says that the nondenominated "D" stamps in sheet, coil, and booklet formats represent the new 22-cent first-class rate. There are also nondenominated postal cards and plenty of two-cent stamps that, when added to 20-cent stamps, make up the new first-class letter rate.

"Nobody likes to see higher postal rates, but this increase is moderate and justified," Postmaster Meriwether said.

"Since the last increase in November 1981, the cost of living in the United States, as measured by the Consumer Price Index, has gone up almost 13 percent. The 22-cent stamp is only a 120 percent rise."

"The nondenominated items are available because we estimate that stamp inventories in post offices at present will fall short of public demand and, we want to avoid customer inconvenience in Lockney," he said.

Commemorative stamps, beginning with the Jerome Kern stamp, and other 22-cent stamps, are expected to replace the "D" stamps by the end of March, the Postmaster said.

Cross opens local dental office

Dr. Ricky M. Cross of Plainview opened a dental office in Lockney on January 2. Cross is the son of Marion and Darla Cross of Plainview and the grandson of O.C. and Wynona Allison of Lockney.

Cross was graduated from Plainview High School; however he attended Lockney school while in the 4th and 5th grades when he and his family lived here. Upon graduation from high school he entered Texas Tech University, where he studied pre-med. Transferring to Baylor Dental School, he graduated in June, 1984.

When asked why he entered the dental profession Cross commented "I had an uncle in the army who was a dental assistant and he was always talking about the things he did and I became interested in becoming a dentist. I also had several friends in school that were interested in the dental profession."

Upon graduation from Baylor, Cross set up his own practice in Plainview in the office of Dr. Gary Abercrombie. On January 2 he opened the Lockney office, which he operates on Tuesday and Wednesday of each week. Of the Lockney office Cross said, "I would like to have enough (business) to move my practice to Lockney and have a full time practice for the people here." He currently has Jolene Walters of Plainview working as his receptionist and assistant in the local office.

Cross offers all types of general dentistry practices, including teeth cleaning, filling cavities, and tooth extraction.

The Lockney office is open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on both Tuesday and Wednesday and appointments can be made by calling 652-2322 on the two above mentioned days or call 293-4284 in Plainview any other day of the week.

School board to call for computer bids

In a regular monthly meeting of the Lockney School Board on February 11 the board approved a motion to call for bids on a computer system for the superintendent's office. The announcement calling for bids will not be published for several weeks as all of the specifications have not yet been decided upon.

Present for the meeting were two representatives of computer firms to discuss different computer systems that could be used by the school.

The board also approved the judge for the school board election in April. Kenneth Wofford will serve as the election judge. The positions on the board that are coming up for election are those held by Eddie Teeter and Jim Bob Martin. Both are three year terms. At press time it was not known if these two men would seek reelection to their seats on the board.

In other action the board approved the 1985-86 school calendar and a resolution to tax automobiles for the 1985-86 tax year.

The board approved hiring Randall Robbins as the new ag teacher through May, 1985, and approved the use of school facilities for adult education classes which, if there is enough interest, will be GED classes.

Justice of the Peace R.H. Ford retires from post

Justice of the Peace R.H. Ford, who serves precincts 2 and 3, has tendered his resignation to Floyd County Commissioners' Court. The resignation will be effective on March 31, 1985. The resignation will be accepted at the regular meeting of the court on March 11. Applications are now being accepted for the position in the county judge's office at the courthouse.

A special session of the court will meet on March 18 to consider the applicants and tentatively select a replacement for Ford. The official appointment will be made on April 1.

This Week

SOFTBALL MEETING

There will be a meeting of the Lockney Women's Softball Association on March 5 at the Lockney Junior High cafeteria at 7:30 p.m. This will be a meeting to elect new officers for the upcoming softball season. Anyone interested in playing this year should attend.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

As of February 1, 1985 subscription rates for The Lockney Beacon were increased by $1.00 for the in-county and the out-of-county subscriptions. The new rates are $12.50 for those mailed in Lockney and $13.50 for all those which do not have Lockney addresses.

The increase was necessary due to the new postal increase and also because of the new tax imposed on newspapers.

WHITE ELEPHANT & ART AUCTION

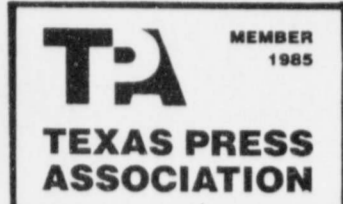

Art Assn. fundraising event will be Saturday, Feb. 23 at 7 p.m. at the Massie Activity Center in Floydada. There will be dinner, entertainment and auction. For tickets call Gleyenn Earle Cummings, 652-3771. Advance tickets are required.

SPRING PLAY

Anyone interested in taking a speaking part in the Arts Association spring play, "Harvey" please contact Vera Jo Bybee at 652-2357. The cast consists of six men and six women, ranging in age from 20 to over 65, from only one line, to major roles. Also, anyone willing to work backstage, or help in costumes, scenery, please let it be known. Everyone is needed.

Diverse teachings in FFA benefit city and country

MATT WILLIAMS has always been very active in farm related projects, as he was raised on the farm, and showing animals is just one of his ag related interests. This is his first year enrolled in FFA and says he will continue to take the classes in the future since he plans to enter an agriculture related field in his adult life.

Some people may still maintain a misconception of the FFA program in the public schools. The program is no longer geared strictly toward those students who plan a future career in the agriculture industry. The program now offers a diverse teaching of many things that can benefit students from the city and the country.

Many of the subjects taught in FFA now include those which offer practical, on hand experience useful to students whether they choose an ag related field or another field to enter in the future. Now they are taught, not only the raising, breeding, and care for animals and crop related information such as weed control, insect control, soil content and what crops are best in certain types of soil. They are also instructed in various woodworking projects, welding, minor automobile repairs, and even some electrical wiring is taught. These subjects present a wide variety of fields in which the students of FFA learn from on hands experience and may be influenced by something in the FFA program as their future career interest.

Examples of the meeting of "city" and "country" in the FFA program are two boys enrolled in the Lockney FFA program. Ricky Patterson and Matt Williams, both freshmen, enrolled in FFA for different reasons.

Ricky, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Patterson of Plainview, transferred to Lockney this year. The family is planning to move here soon. Ricky was raised in the "city" though he has spent a short amount of time on the farm. This helped in making his decision to join FFA. Patterson commented, "I thought I'd try it and see if I liked it and I do. I will probably take it for another year." Patterson said this was the first time he had worked with animals, but is enjoying it. He chose to raise and show a pig in the stock shows this year. In the local show his pig, a Spotted Poland China, received 5th place and in the county show it placed 4th. He is also planning to attend the Houston Show, along with 19 other Lockney FFA students to show his pig.

When asked if he was learning much from the program, Patterson said yes and also added that "I probably could not learn many of the things I have without the program."

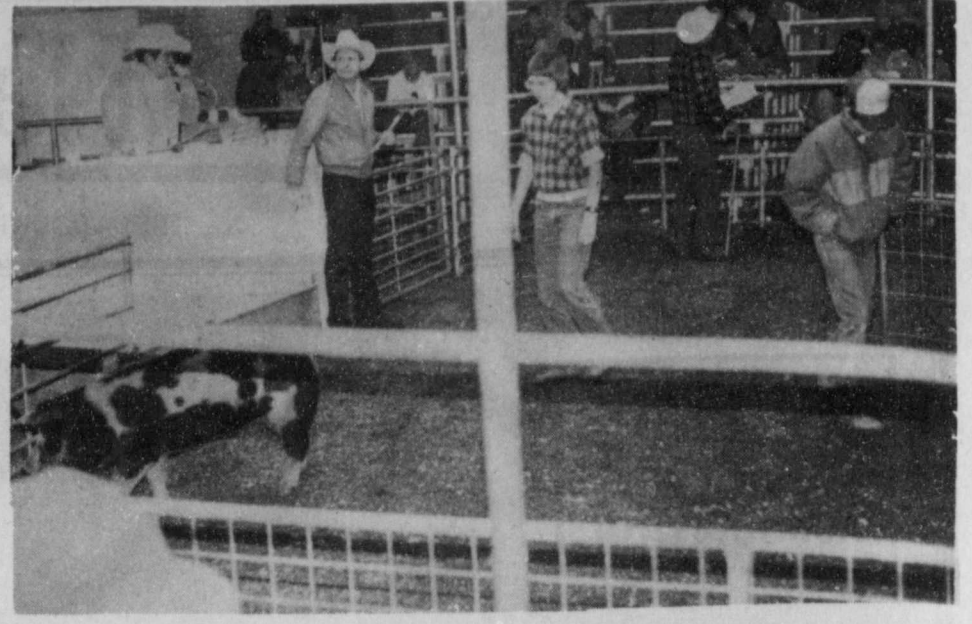

Matt Williams, son of Jerry and Kay Williams, commented that he took FFA for a different reason, "I am planning to go into some agriculture related field, ranching or farming, maybe both and there is no where else for me to learn the things this program teaches me in those areas."

Matt was raised on the farm and has been very active in helping his parents on the farm and in raising the registered Angus cattle in the JK Angus operation. He drives a tractor and is active in the breeding of the cattle for which the farm is famous. Matt also commented, "I need the experience and the things this program has to offer for my future and that's why I took it."

Both Matt and Ricky commented that they would not have the opportunity to learn the things FFA has taught them if it were not for the program.

On the subject of the problems FFA is facing in being funded and even being totally eliminated from the public school program, Matt said "They better not stop the program. It offers many things that many of the students could not learn anywhere else."

Not only is the FFA program good for boys but there are three girls enrolled in the FFA program in Lockney. These three girls, Lori Smith, Terri Bailey, and Renee Curry, will be interviewed in next week's edition.

RICKY PATTERSON drives his barrow during the Floyd County Livestock Show sale. This is Patterson's first year to show any kind of animal and his first year involved in the agriculture program, but he does plan to continue the FFA classes in the future.

Marshall Formby Remembered

"Dedicated to the God-fearing unquenchable spirit of the Texas pioneers who—with their sweat and blood—laid the foundations of the Lone Star State."

By Richard Morehead

When Marshall Formby died in Plainview in late December, I thumbed through his fine book "These Are My People" and its above dedication caught my eye.

Although born in Hopkins county, near Dallas, Marshall Formby became one of the most true-blue West Texans the region every produced. Had he been from a more populous part of the state, Formby probably would have become Governor of Texas. He did receive 139,094 votes in the Democratic primary for Governor in 1962—carrying West Texas. John Connally won the office against Formby and such well-known candidates as Price Daniel, Will Wilson, Gen. Edwin A. Walker and Don Yarborough, a Houston lawyer who was runner-up.

Marshall would have made a great governor for all the people, not just in his beloved West Texas. He served as state senator, highway commission member, on Texas Tech's governing board, and the Coordinating Board for Higher Education.

All these were high honors, but Formby was just as proud of his service as County Judge in Dickens County. Never did he let anyone forget that he grew up in McAdoo, Dickens county, and that his youth was spent in the ranch country below the Caprock.

Formby became a very successful businessman, mainly in broadcasting. Once he was co-owner of KFLD-Floydada. Formby also became a lawyer, but most of his time, was spent in public service, including the Corps of Engineers in World War II.

When Formby appeared in military uniform in Austin during the war, in his capacity as senator from the Lubbock district, I thought he presented a rather unlikely appearance. Basically, Formby was a comfortable, country-boy type, full of humor and disarmingly smart. He knew people and how to deal with them.

While on the Highway Commission, and later, he maintained a long-distance conversation with Dewitt Greer, the Aggie engineer who did more than anyone else to build the state's marvelous highway system. Jokes were common between the two. When Jackie Sherrill became head coach of the A&M football team, Greer received a frantic card signed "Jackie." Its message was "Send money!"

Greer knew instantly that Formby was the writer. Sherrill had been receiving enormous publicity, much of it negative, because A&M officials had agreed to pay him more than $200,000 a year, plus other benefits, to coach its football team.

One of Formby's greatest assets was his wife, Sharleen. Particularly in his last years, when Formby's health became very bad, Sharleen served faithfully as his able assistant. She could write a book about her life with Marshall Formby. She is an unsung heroine.

"These Are My People," which Marshall Formby published in 1962, should be read by everyone interested in the Plains and Caprock country. Although written a fictional style, it is clearly biographical and filled with real people and real history from one who knew it well and how to express the character of its people.

Harley Sadler, for example, is the subject of one chapter. Old-timers in West Texas knew Harley, who brought a traveling tent show through every year. He was a popular and welcome figure.

Formby noted that Sadler brought his show to Spur for a week every year for twenty years. The plays were cleaned up if they contained off-color lines, but the shows were good. I saw them too, in Plainview and Floydada. Sadler never scheduled a show which conflicted with a church service.

The book also printed pioneer recipes such as Texas Son-of-a-Gun stew, as Formby said it was "referred to in high society." The recipe is too long to repeat here, but includes about every part of a beef that is normally thrown away or fed to the dogs. It's said to be good eating.

Formby is one of Texas' true originals, and one of the most useful citizens of his time. All of us will miss him.

(Reared in Plainview, Richard Morehead became chief of The Dallas Morning News Austin Bureau. He now writes books in Austin.)

Hallmark is DAR Good Citizen

Lockney Senior Brent Hallmark was one of five area high school students honored with a tea by the Mary McCoy Baines Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution last Saturday in Plainview. The tea was held to recognize the five students who had won the DAR Good Citizen contest.

Hallmark and the other four students attended the tea for the naming of the chapter winner, who will go on to compete at the state level. The chapter winner was Sandra Gurierez of Petersburg.

As in contests in the past, the students competed on three levels. The personal segment reviewed the student activities, awards, offices held, special interests, service given to the church and community, future plans, and hobbies. A national, civic, and patriotic quiz is given and a patriotic essay written by each entrant. Hallmark is planning to seek a career in computer science.

Rhodes to celebrate golden anniversary

Loran and Inez Rhodes of Lockney will observe their 50th wedding anniversary with a family luncheon Sunday in their home.

The couple has one daughter, Mrs. Dan (Janie) McAnally of Monahans; three grandchildren, Lori Bayley of Lubbock, Jeff Bayley of Canyon and Jennifer Bayley of Monahans; and three step-grandchildren, including Danny Russell McAnally of Monahans. Both Mr. Rhodes and Inez Newman moved with their families to Floyd County in 1924. The couple was married February 22, 1935, in Clovis, New Mexico, by the Rev. Frank Nix in the Baptist parsonage. In 1937 they moved to the Lockney area where he was a farmer until retirement.

Baptist women present current mission program

Baptist Women of First Baptist Church met Monday, February 18, at Neva Smiths for current mission program and Bible study.

Melba Atkins was in charge of the program, "When They Come and Go." Persons who move are more open to overtures for friendship, invitations to church and new ventures during the first six months in a new place.

Bible study was conducted as a group activity on the subject, "Love That Reaches The Extended Family," with the ladies reading scriptures from the Bible pertaining to love in action.

Neva Smith brought the calendar of prayer remembering missionaries with birthdays.

Those present for the meeting were Eva Whitfill, Elvira Stewart, Helen McLeod, Ruth Mitchell, Melba Atkins, Jewel Fortenberry, Faye Ferguson, Ann Handley, Pauline Sams, Agnes Frizzell and hostess, Neva Smith.

In times like these...

By Mary Jo Fielding

Scientists have long thought that acid rain is linked to sulfur dioxide and nitrogen-oxide emissions, especially from distant coal-burning power plants. Those discharges are chemically transformed at high altitudes and swept eastward by winds, and then fall back to earth hundreds of miles away as acidic rain, snow, fog and dust. These transformations are suspected of stunting tree growth and killing lakes.

In the search for answers, scientists are examining clouds at a 4,800-foot mountain summit and analyzing fish, water and soil samples from 1,200 lakes spread over 6.5 million scenic acres in upstate New York. Some of the remote lakes are accessible only by helicopters or sure-footed llamas.

The summit of Whiteface Mountain, 4,867 feet above Lake Placid, is considered one of the best places in the world to study cloud chemistry. At the larger base stations 1,500 feet below the Whiteface summit, scientists sample air and water vapor, and look for the reasons why growth of red spruce, balsam fir, and other soft-pine species has fallen off by 40 percent in the last 20 years. On Whiteface Mountain at 3,800 feet the balsam trees are still growing but with sparse midsections dotted with bare branches and brown needles instead of green ones.

Just as extensive is the search for answers about acid rain's impact on lakes, shoreline vegetation, and fish. Walter Kretser, director of the lake project observes, "We have ponds right next to each other, separated only by a ridge. One will be acidic and won't support fish. The other one will be fine."

Llamas, which can carry up to 100 pounds of gear through rugged mountain terrain are used for treks to the most remote lakes. To protect them from deer hunters, the llamas wear halters festooned with chartreuse ribbons.

Sherlock Holmes was never more inventive than the sleuths now tracking the mystery killer of the Adirondack lakes acid rain.

El Progreso Club holds Valentine party

The El Progreso Study Club met with Jeanette Marr for their Valentine party February 13 at 3:30 p.m.

In Jeanette's absence her sister, Kathryn Cooper, and Hazel Johnson acted as hostesses.

Pauline Sams presided. The topic for the next meeting was changed to antiques. Kathleen Thornton will present the program.

Roll call was answered with "My Favorite Valentine Memory." Most answers were about the first Valentine party at school.

Mrs. Sams introduced the program presented by Merle Mooney who gave the love story, "Two From Galilee" by Margerie Holms.

It was a beautiful love story about Mary and Joseph and their parents.

Refreshments were served to Pauline Sams, Dimon Schacht, Bobbie Kellison, Alice Mitchell, LaVerna Sams, Faye Ferguson, Arla Copeland, Dorothy Shipp, Mary Blanchard, Katherine Ball, Katherine Cooper, Hazel Johnson, Lennie Abbott, Cornelia Johnson and Merle Mooney.

After exchanging Valentine gifts the group was dismissed with the reading of the club collect lead by Alice Mitchell.

Antipasto Salad Platter

- 2 bunches romaine, torn into bite-size pieces
- 1 small head lettuce, torn into bite-size pieces
- 1 small green pepper, chopped (about 1/2 cup)
- 1 small red onion, thinly sliced

- 1 can (14 ounces) artichoke hearts, drained
- 1 jar (2 1/2 ounces) whole mushrooms, drained
- 1 cup bottled creamy Italian salad dressing
- 1/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese
- 12 thin slices provolone or mozzarella cheese
- 12 thin slices salami
- 12 cherry tomatoes
- 12 large pitted ripe olives

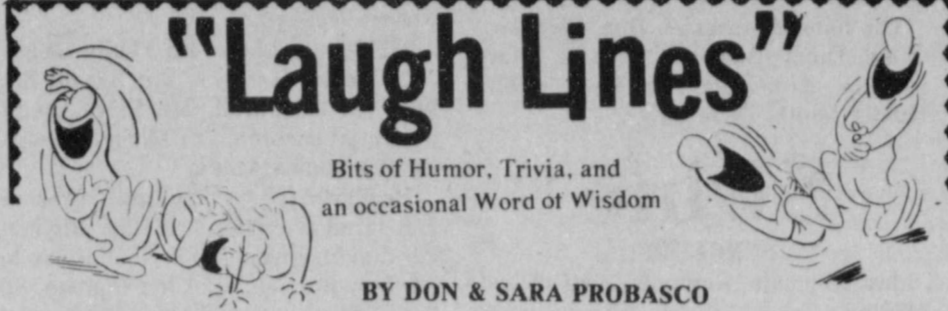

Divide romaine, lettuce, green pepper, onion, artichoke hearts and mushrooms between 2 large plastic bags. Fasten bags and refrigerate no longer than 24 hours.

Shake salad dressing and Parmesan cheese in tightly covered container. Add about 1/2 cup to each bag. Fasten bags securely and shake until ingredients are coated. Place salad on platter. Garnish with tomatoes and olives. Roll cheese and salami; arrange around salad.

"Laugh Lines"

Bits of Humor, Trivia, and an occasional Word of Wisdom

BY DON & SARA PROBASCO

Next to surviving an earthquake, nothing is quite so satisfying as getting a refund on your income tax.

The folly of human nature is neatly summed up in the following story: A school teacher who was approaching retirement chose to invest her lifesavings in an enterprise which had been presented to her by a con artist. When her hard-earned money disappeared, and her dreams of wealth were shattered, she went to the Better Business Bureau to ask for help. "Why didn't you come to us BEFORE you made this investment?" asked the Bureau agent. "Well," replied the lady sadly, "I was afraid that if I asked you first, you'd tell me not to do it."

Our forefathers made a serious error. What they should have fought for was representation without taxation.

Here's some excellent Income Tax Advice: Pay it!

Never confuse motion with action.

One of the maladies of our age is that the young are so busy teaching us, that they have no time left to learn.

You know you're getting older when it takes more time to rest than it did to get tired.

Truth will be truth, regardless of lack of understanding, disbelief, or ignorance on the part of anyone.

The truth is: crime is on the rise everywhere. The best way to protect yourself and your family or business is with good locks. Be sure that yours are in good working order, then USE THEM.

Kiss Farming Goodbye

Gone would be the sweet smell of the alfalfa.

Gone would be the sprawling oak next to the field, where you always stopped for lunch.

Gone would be the smell of the sticky, muddy earth after a rain.

Gone would be the barn where you played as a child. And pondered life as an adult.

Maybe not today, tomorrow, or next year. But someday, unless you invest in the future of farming by investing in the Future Farmers of America.

USDA accepts bids for African countries

The U.S. Department of Agriculture's Commodity Credit Corporation today announced the successful bidders in the sale of $66.7 million worth of wheat, corn and rough rice to private exporters for resale to African countries hard-hit by severe drought.

Alan T. Tracy, Acting Under Secretary of Agriculture, said the Kansas City, Mo., commodity office of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service made the following contract awards on January 18:

Exporter	Country	Commodity	Quantity (metric ton)
The Pillsbury Company	Togo	Wheat	13,143
Louis Dreyfus Company	Sudan	Corn	16,398
Cargill, Inc.	Kenya	Corn	104,919
Balfour MaClaine Int. Ltd.	Benin	Rice	20,000
Balfour MaClaine Int. Ltd.	Tanzania	Rice	10,000
Balfour MaClaine Int. Ltd.	Senegal	Rice	40,000
Comet Rice Inc.	Mali	Rice	15,000
Comet Rice Inc.	Benin	Rice	10,000
Comet Rice Inc.	Burkina Faso	Rice	48,000
Comet Rice Inc.	Guinea	Rice	25,000
Tradex Americas Inc.	Mali	Rice	12,000
	Mali	Rice	12,000

The sales, made under the second invitation for offers issued Nov. 30, were made to private exporters on a competitive bid basis. The commodities were sold instore at the warehouse location, and the exporters will pay all processing costs plus the cost of transportation to the important country, Tracy said.

"These food sales will go toward relieving hunger in some of the most severely affected countries of Africa," Tracy said.

CCC received bids for 279,504 metric tons of wheat, 245,000 metric tons of corn and 867,647 metric tons of rough rice. The contract awards totaled $2,066,986 in wheat, $14,327,995 in corn and $50,323,890 in rice, based on CCC's acquisition cost.

Tracy said procedures have been established which will ensure the

The commodities must be used in the destination country and cannot be reexported. Fifty percent of the total quantity of commodities sold under this program will be shipped on U.S. flag vessels, according to Tracy.

The quantities shown for rice are the milled rice equivalent of the rough rice sold by CCC. The Kansas City commodity office will announce the lots that were awarded and the total contract values.

commodities are not translated to other countries and that the exports will not displace commercial and aid commitments. The government of each eligible country must agree that purchases under this program will be in addition to normal commercial purchases and existing food aid commitments

"As I Sit"

Editor's Note: The following poem was written by high school student Terri Balley and recently won first place in the high school division of the Night Writer's poetry contest in Plainview.

As I Sit
By Terri Balley

I sit in class just staring out the window
I see how the wind blows the trees.
I see the leaves as they try to hold on.
Trying not to let go, no matter how hard the wind may blow
But, some how, they always lose their grip
because it's too hard

it's just too tough.
As I sit here, just looking out the window
I see the tree as life
I see myself as one of the leaves trying to hold on to life,
Trying not to let go.
As I see myself as one of those leaves,
I see my self falling,
falling to the ground.
I cry for help, but it's too late.

It's too late for anyone to help me, because no one hears my cry.
So as I sit just looking out the window
I wonder if it's all really worth it.

Farmers have until March 1 to participate

Faced with plentiful supplies of wheat and feed grains, farmers need to give careful consideration to participating in the 1985 farm program.

Farmers have until March 1 to decide whether or not they want to participate in the government farm program, which mainly offers some income and price protection for those agreeing to cut base crop acreage by 10 percent in the case of feed grains and 30 percent for wheat.

"Due to increasing surpluses of wheat, corn and grain sorghum, farmers can expect average prices for their 1985 crops to be at or near the national loan rate," says Dr. Ed Smith, grain marketing economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

For instance, the United States is boasting a 1.4 billion bushel carryover of wheat, enough to satisfy about 55 percent of the market needs during the 1985-86 marketing year, even if not a single bushel was produced this year.

While stocks of corn and grain sorghum are less than wheat—about a 21 percent carryover is projected—feed grain producers also face average prices for their 1985 crop that will be near support price levels, believes Smith.

"Confronted by less than glowing market prices, producers participating in the farm program may receive near maximum deficiency payments (the difference between target prices and loan rates)," Smith notes. "This makes the program fairly attractive and worthy of farmer consideration. Extension Service studies have shown that added returns from farm program participation in Texas would range from $8 to $24 per acre for dryland production and $33 to $41 per acre in irrigated areas.

"The decision, as always, revolves around the cost and benefits of the choices and the level of risk one is willing to take," says the economist. "It all boils down to whether or not the benefits and risk reduction associated with the acreage reduction program outweigh lost net revenue from the idled acres."

The Extension Service has budgets and worksheets available to aid producers in making farm program decisions, adds Smith. Interested producers should contact their county Extension office for more information.

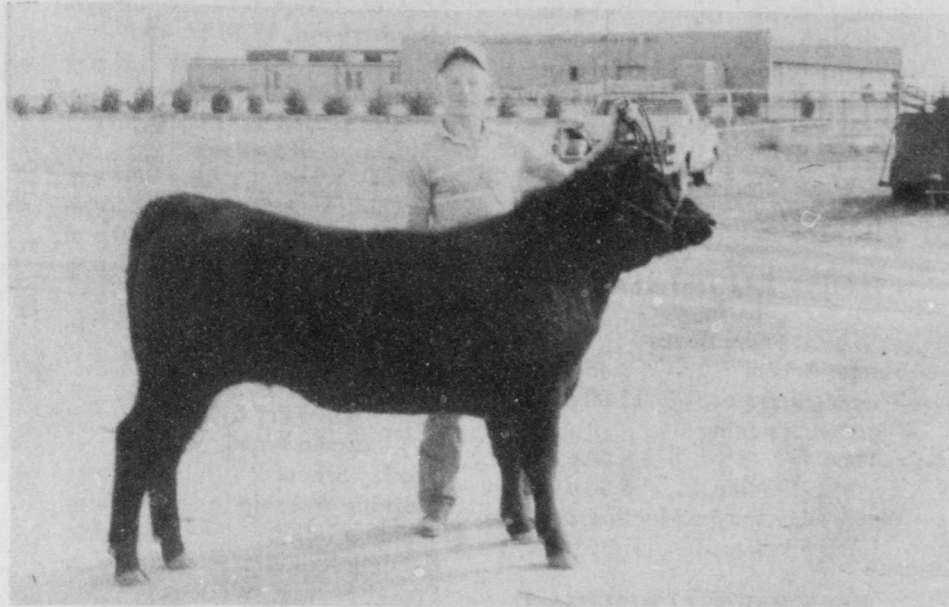

Former Lockney resident to be honored Sunday

Frieda Mild, a former resident of the Providence Community, has written a book entitled "The Potter's Clay" which describes her experiences as a missionary in New Guinea along with her husband the Rev. Andrew Mild, former pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church. The struggles, joys, and hardship along with waiting and wondering about God, their work, and their lives are described with personal feeling as the Potter molds the clay. Not only a first hand account of life as a missionary but practical application to all who struggle to answer God's call.

An autograph party will be held at Trinity Lutheran Church in the Providence Community on Sunday afternoon, February 24, from 4:30 p.m. to 6:00 p.m. Friends, acquaintances, and anyone interested in reading this inspiring book are cordially invited. Copies of the book will be available.

Florence and Leon Wofford returned Friday from Marion, Louisiana, where they visited with her mother, Gordie Miller.

On February 1 Mrs. Miller celebrated her 90th birthday with a small party attended by her son, W.T. and Gertrude Miller of Marion, the Woffords, and several grandchildren and great-grandchildren. For the past 25 years, until last year, Mrs. Miller spent three or four months of each year in Lockney with the Woffords.

Members of First United Methodist Church of Lockney enjoyed lunch at the church after the morning worship service. Following lunch, a layette shower honored Andrew Logan Beachy, infant son of church pastor, the Rev. and Mrs. Bill Beachy.

Jane Lindsey and daughter Kristi of Wichita Falls spent the weekend in Lockney with her parents, Mae and Condo Willis.

Sarah and David Stowe of Plains visited Sunday with Sarah's parents, Florence and Leon Wofford.

C.L. and Lucy Dean Record took advantage of the school holiday on Monday and went to San Antonio to visit over the weekend with their son, Breck and Kay Record.

R.L. and Bettie Knox went to Austin this past weekend to visit with their son, Ricky and Lee Knox and Riley.

Kyle Brock, son of Byron and Charlotte Brock, is a member of the Texas Tech University livestock judging team which won first overall at both the Arizona National Collegiate Judging Contest and the Fort Worth Livestock Judging Contest.

Lockney Care Center Capers

By Linda McCullar

We started the week with exercise and arts and craft; some of the residents played dominoes instead of arts and crafts.

Pam Armstrong judged our Valentine doors. Employees were each assigned a door to decorate, a tradition at the Care Center. The winners were: first, Anita Gutierrez; second, Lupe Rodriguez; third, Janie Palomin; and most original, Cinde Clarke. They opened their prizes at the Valentine party on Thursday.

We also had a Valentine's luncheon for the residents, families and staff. We served bar-b-q chicken and everyone brought different kinds of salads, vegetables and desserts. We all enjoyed the food and fellowship. After the lovely meal, the residents, staff, and visitors gathered in the lobby for the big event. We crowned our Valentine's King and Queen, Clyde Morrison and Mary Jo Fielding. The King and Queen were determined by votes from employees and residents. We would like to congratulate both Clyde and Mary Jo. Upon being crowned, they were presented with a corsage and a boutonniere, hand crocheted by Glenda McCullar of Floydada.

The totally surprised, but happy king and queen were also presented with a box of candy. We had a Valentine cake donated by Mr. Blake Barton, which we cut and served at the party. All of the residents had a lovely Valentine's Day. A big thank you to all who helped in making a memorable day for them. A big thanks goes to the employees for decorating the doors.

Also this week, Mrs. Applewhite brought a presentation on Abe Lincoln's life on February 12, his birthday. She talked about his life from childhood thru his adult life, up through being President of the United States. She did a fine job; all the residents enjoyed her speech. We would like to thank Mrs. Applewhite for her fine performance.

We showed a film, ate popcorn and drank punch during the film. The film was "The Honorable Sam Houston." It was a very excellent afternoon as usual.

This was an exciting and enjoyable week at the Center. Thanks to all who participated. Until next week.

CEDAR HILL NEWS

By Grace Lemons

We have some beautiful days this week with no moisture. The nights have been cold and we have had quite a bit of wind.

The Assembly of God Church had special services Sunday night with David and Shirene Reddout from Springfield, Missouri and their friends, Bo and Shiela Nicklson, students of Central Bible College, presenting the services. The Reddouts are missionaries who will soon begin their service in Holland.

Glenda Kay and girls of Hereford and H.L. and Melba Presley of LeFores were dinner guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jackie Thompson and attended church with them at the Assembly of God Church.

Clara Mize is improving rapidly after breaking her shoulder recently and was able to attend church again at the First Baptist Church in Floydada.

Cecil Whitehead and Lois Durham were both able to leave the hospital and go home after spending several days as patients in Caprock Hospital.

Durrel Fortenberry returned home the early part of the week from a trip to Houston, to Beaumont, and to Shreveport, Louisiana where he visited his son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Donnie Fortenberry and grandson, Chad.

Grace Lemons visited Clara Mize Monday afternoon. She also visited Cecil Whitehead and Lois Durham who were patients in Caprock Hospital.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at 2:00 p.m. in Lovington, New Mexico for Ronnie Graham. Graham was killed in a plane crash. He is related to the Fortenberrys and Browns.

Several from here attended the PCA meeting held in the high school auditorium in Plainview Saturday beginning at 9:00 a.m. with lunch at noon and dismissing at 1:00 p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Burselton announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Carla Jean to Steven Carl Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill G. Jones of Levelland. The couple will be married April 27, 1985 in the First Christian Church in Floydada.

Jonnie Carol Cogdell and John Patrick Courtney were united in marriage in the chapel of St. Martin Episcopal Church in Houston Saturday the 15th at 7:00 p.m. The Rev. Claude Payne performed the wedding ceremony. Carol is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D.M. Cogdell of Cedar Hill. She graduated from Mary Baldwin of Staunton, Virginia and University of Texas. She also attended England University of Bath and Harvard University. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Ray Courtney of Temple. He graduated from Tulane University in New Orleans, Louisiana and Baylor University of Law. She was given in marriage by her father and her sister, Connie was maid of honor. The groom's father was best man and the groom's brothers, Joseph Sayles Courtney and David William Courtney of Austin were ushers. The reception was held at the Country Club in Houston.

The couple will live in Houston after a wedding trip to England. She is employed by Vinson and Elkins law firm and he is an attorney with the law firm of Andrews and Kurth.

Visitors in the home of Lindsey and Billie Ruth Lackey Wednesday were former residents, Frank and Velma Floyd of Ackerly.

There is no power on earth that can neutralize the influence of a high, pure, simple, and useful life.
