The board members of the Floyd and Surrounding Counties Fair met for their regular monthly meeting on June 3 at the ag building of Lockney High School.

Jim Bob Martin was elected to the position of vice president.

The board and interested persons present for the meeting discussed the upcoming fair and the preparations for the event.

The carnival this year will again be the Pride of Texas carnival and carnival tickets will be available soon. Tickets will be one day passes that will sell for $7.50 each. Lawson Rowell will be in charge of ticket sales and may be contacted for more information at 652-2282.

The fair will be open on Thursday, September 12. Several exciting events on that day will include the opening of the children's barnyard, which will be open on all three days of the fair. On Thursday night there will be a square dance sponsored by the Lockney and Floydada Whirlers Club. The square dance will start at 8:00 p.m., and there will be a $2.00 charge for each dancer. WATER, WATER EVERYWHERE—Small lakes, much like this one just west of the Lockney Coop, can be seen all over the county after the heavy rains last week. Another 1 inch of rain fell on Monday, June 10.

Heavy rains hit area

Last Tuesday and Wednesday Floyd County was deluged with rainfall that has not been seen in such a short time or in the large amount since about 1979. At that time Lockney had a total of about 35 inches for the year. It was also very wet in 1981.

Rainfall amounts from last week's storm ranged from 4 1/2 to 9-2/10 inches. The City of Lockney had about 6 1/2 inches as reported to the Beacon by Ernie Muse. The Providence Community had between 6.8 and 7 inches as reported by Keith Jackson and John Quebe. The elevator at Sterley reported 6 inches as did residents of Aiken. Lone Star Grain Company at Lone Star reported between 6 and 7 inches and amounts in the Pleasant Valley Community range from 4 1/2 to 6-4/10 as reported by Warren Mitchell and Delton Jack. A reported 7 inches of rain fell in the South Plains Community.

The largest reports of rainfall seem to be south of Lockney from the Erick Community to Barwise. In the Erick Community Bill Race reported about 6 inches and one mile south 8-1/10 inches were reported. Oliver Clark reported between 6 and 7 inches. G.L. Hight reported 7-6/10 and John Dorman in the Barwise Community reported the largest amount of 9-2/10 inches.

County agent Richie Crow was contacted on Monday morning, and he commented that it is still too early to tell just how much of the area cotton crop was lost and to what extent the cotton was damaged by the rainfall. "Most of the farmers in the area have been in the fields over the weekend using the rotary hoes to break the crust on the cotton. It is very important to get air to the young cotton, and the damage will not be fully accessed for several more days. There will be damage to the fields that have lake bottoms in them. Where the water has stood on the crops for several days is where much of the damage will be encountered. This not only holds true for the cotton but also in the wheat and corn fields. Water standing on these crops could cause the grain crops to fall down," said Crowe.

Rumor has it that the hardest hit areas seem to be in South Plains and Sterley where they had hail along with the rain. Lon Colvin of the South Plains elevator said, "Much of the cotton crop has washed out of the fields or was beaten down by the hail."

Not only has Floyd County been effected by the rainfall, but in a conversation with Neil Taylor of Lake Mackenzie on Monday afternoon, Taylor said, "The lake has risen about 18 feet due to the rainfall. The level of the lake is between 108 and 109 feet, and water is still running into the lake. Most of the shoreline has disappeared, but the visitors to the lake can park at the top of the lake and walk down to the swimming areas."

He also commented that the dry picnic areas are only accessible on foot because of the rise in the lake. And he commented that the lake is six feet higher than it has ever been.

Producers should consider replanting options carefully

Recent heavy rains and other severe weather have damaged or destroyed large acreages of cotton on the Texas High Plains. Thousands of acres will have to be replanted in June and producers need to use care in selecting varieties and cultivating practices for an abbreviated growing season.

Replanting is complicated by several factors. First, growers are nearing the cutoff date for planting to allow the crop to mature before harvest. Second, there are limited supplies of seeds for the more desirable varieties for late planting. Many producers will have to look at alternate crops such as grain sorghum, sunflowers, forages or, where they have sufficient water, soybeans. Farmers should bear in mind that before replanting any alternate crop, the producer must be certified by his local office of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

Producers who replant cotton in counties north of Lubbock should consider varieties that fall into the very early maturity class. Producers in the central counties around Lubbock should use very early or early maturing varieties for planting until approximately June 10. After June 10, only the very early varieties should be used.

Producers south of Lubbock can use the early maturing varieties until mid-June. After that time they should give priority to only the very early maturing cultivars.

Late planted cotton generally requires a slightly higher than normal planting rate. Research has shown that 55- to 60,000 plants per acre (4 to 4.5 plants per foot of drill) is a good plant population for late cotton. This requires a planting rate of 20 to 25 pounds per acre, or six to eight seed per foot of drill.

Pre-emergence herbicide residues are frequently a problem in replanting. On land treated with Caporal of Karmex, seedling injury can generally be avoided by busting down to about four inches or more below the soil surface. Residual problems are unlikely to occur with Sancap and Dual unless the chemicals were applied to cotton planted in deep furrows. In such instances, it would be advisable to replant in untreated soil.

Decisions concerning irrigation must be considered after late cotton is up and growing. Because the yield potential for late planted cotton is reduced, field having adequate moisture at replanting may not require additional summer irrigation. Yields and quality of late planted cotton are frequently reduced by overwatering.

Likewise, application of nitrogen fertilizers to late planted cotton tends to encourage vegetative growth and delay maturity. Application of foliar fertilizer to cotton damaged by hail or foliar disease is not recommended. The leaf area of the damaged plants is usually too limited for such fertilizers to be of much benefit.

Unfortunately, there is no way to predict what type of weather conditions this crop will encounter later in the year. It is possible that warm, open weather could prevail into October and November. However, long term weather records indicate that fiber development is generally halted by cool night temperatures by mid-October. Consequently, producers might be well advised to limit their inputs into a late planted crop.

Lockney chamber meets

Lockney Chamber of Commerce directors met Tuesday morning week for breakfast at Strickland's Restaurant, and set August 10 as date of the annual Main Street USA celebration.

Cindy Smith was named chairman of the entertainment program which will run from 4 p.m. to 8 p.m. on Main Street. Persons interested in appearing on the program should contact Smith at 652-2170. Clubs or individuals are encouraged to set up sidewalk booths for the event.

Treasurer J.D. Copeland reported that the chamber has a paid membership of 72, an increase from last year.

Lockney General Hospital administrator Terry Keltz met with the directors. President Jack Covington led the meeting.

The Chamber agreed to pay a $25 bonus to the wheat producer who delivered the first truckload of marketable wheat to an elevator which held membership in the chamber. This year's premium went to Byron Brock, who brought in 12,360 lbs. of wheat about 1:30 p.m. on May 28 to Patterson Grain in Lockney. The wheat tested 10.7 moisture and 58 lbs. to a bushel.

The chamber directors are in the process of gathering information about the senior citizen center which was completed recently in Quitaque. The chamber is seeking to determine if there is enough interest among Lockney senior citizens to start a similar project.

Main Street U.S.A. planned

Main Street, U.S.A., an entertainment extravaganza, will be presented again Saturday, August 10. This will be preceded by a "Dollar Day" sale in cooperation with local merchants.

Jack Covington, Chamber of Commerce president, said, "We are looking forward to this event which will be the highlight of the summer, and we are expecting a large crowd. Westwind, a group consisting of musicians from Lockney, Floydada and Silverton, will be the main attraction of the evening. Other talented individuals and groups who will be entertaining are Lisa Mosley, Terry Keltz, and the string group headed by Dowell Brewer and Louis Stapp."

In order for the event to be a success, participation will be needed from local merchants and talented individuals and groups.

Those interested in performing should contact Cindy Smith at 652-2170.

A drive spearheaded by the Chamber of Commerce to erect a billboard is now underway. The sign will be large, welcoming visitors to Lockney and will also chart a history of district wins in various school activities. The Chamber is organizing the drive, but it needs contributions to get the sign erected. Persons interested in helping or contributions should call Jim Bob Martin, Boyd Lee or Buddy Wiley.

Monthly sanitation charge increased by city council

The Lockney city council met for its regular monthly meeting on June 6 at the city hall.

Bids on sealcoating of approximately 21 blocks of Lockney streets were opened. The low bid was from High Plains Pavers, Inc. for $18,450.00.

Paul Mangum requested an increase in the contract fee he receives for collecting trash in the city. The council approved the increase, but, in order to meet the increase, the council elected to raise the sanitation charge from $3.00 to $4.00 per month.

In other business the council reviewed the applications for the position of water department clerk but no decision was reached at the meeting. A new clerk will be hired to replace Anna Anderson who will be leaving that position on June 14. The council also approved the payments of current bills and the minutes of the May meeting were approved.

Jackson Tire featured as Business of the Month

Featured as the Business of the Month at the Lockney Rotary Club for the month of June will be Richard and Peggy Wiley, owners of Jackson Tire Co.

Wiley began working at Jackson Tire Company in 1950 and, except for a four year stint in the Army, has worked there for the past 31 years. In 1962 Wiley bought half interest in the business and in 1963 became the sole owner after the death of his longtime friend and employer, Dwight Jackson. For several years Wiley operated with a full line of gasoline, oils, tires, batteries, and other accessories. Later he specialized in the tire business after becoming Floyd County's largest "Safemark" tire dealer.

Wiley was born in Dexter, N.M. and in 1937 moved with his family to the Ramsey Community. A year later the family moved to South Plains where Richard attended grade school. He graduated from Floydada High School in 1947.

Peggy (Whitaker) Wiley was born in Plainview. She graduated from Plainview High School in 1952 and was employed by Southwestern Bell Telephone. While working for the phone company, she spent one year in the Abilene office. She also worked for a short time in the Lubbock office before returning to Plainview in 1954.

Richard and Peggy met at the 1955 Old Settlers Day celebration and were married in August of that year. They lived in Plainview for a few months before making their permanent home in Lockney.

The Wileys have three children, all born and educated in Lockney. Donny and his wife Donna will soon be moving to Rocksprings where Donny will be the assistant head football coach. He is a graduate of Angelo State University.

Buddy is a South Plains College graduate and is presently in business with his father at Jackson Tire Company.

Melody is employed by the Seagraves Elementary School system. She graduated from Wayland Baptist University.

The Wileys are active members of the First Baptist Church where both have taught young people and young adults in Sunday school. Richard is a 32 degree Mason and both are active in the Order of the Eastern Star.

In times like these... By Mary Jo Fielding

It looked a bit like an Old West cattle drive, but hard-bitten ranch hands stood spellbound as exotic animals by the hundreds, giraffes, wildebeests, zebras, ostriches, and oxens, ambled across the Rio Grande Valley scrub.

The animals, part of Texas A&M University's research on endangered tropical species were being moved from a ranch near Laredo to new homes near Austin. The vital purpose of the drive is to begin a controlled breeding program designed to help rescue many kinds of animals from the threat of extinction. Such strange roundups are becoming a frequent sight across the southern U.S. spurred by wealthy landowners who provide havens on private lands for fauna from rhinos to reptiles. Many of the animals were brought in their native lands and flown to this country.

At least 600 ranches in Texas now are home to rare animals according to the Exotic Wildlife Association of Kerrville, Texas, and also dozens of private preserves have begun in Florida, New Mexico, Hawaii, and elsewhere. Some have thrived so well that the United States has become a net exporter of species of exotic deer, antelopes, and other hoofed animals.

Tony Mantzell, a Fort Worth natural-gas baron, has a ranch, Fossil Rim, that has raised rare animals for more than 10 years. He explains, "We create a true 'home on the range' for animals that are being killed at a merciless rate in their homelands. There are plenty of wide-open spreads in Texas that will make an ideal home for many generations of animals."

In the past years, more than 20,000 tourists have paid nominal fees to drive through his open range and photograph sable antelopes, wildebeests, European red stags, giraffes, Saharan addaxes, and Grusy's zebras. His ranch also has generated animal sales of $600,000 during the past six years.

Enloe replaces Clem as Energas general manager of operations

Jim Enloe, director of customer billing and accounting services for Energas Company (OTC), will be promoted to general manager of operations for the entire company on June 1, according to an announcement made today by Dennis S. Gillmore, senior vice president of Energas.

In his new position, Enloe will have overall responsibility for the management of all Energas division, district and city plant operations as well as general construction and agribusiness within the 30,000 square mile West Texas service area of the gas company.

He succeeds Vernon L. Clem, vice president, who will retire on July 31, after almost 39 years of service to the company.

Enloe, 47, joined the company in 1963 in Pampa, Texas, and progressed to officer manager there before being named assistant manager of the Amarillo district in 1974. He was appointed interim district manager in Amarillo and promoted to general superintendent of service for the company in 1982.

Enloe attended Frank Phillips College and Texas A&M University. He is past director and president of the Amarillo Downtown Lions Club, past director of the Red Cross, and a member of the Trinity Fellowship.

He was born in Pampa, attended Pampa High School, and served in the Texas Army National Guard.

Enloe and his wife, the former Mary Lou Harper of Pampa, have two children, Jennifer Robin, 15, and Andrew Darrick, 10.

Clem, 59, joined the company in 1946 as a compressor station operator at Tahoka, and held numerous other positions prior to becoming district manager in Plainview in 1968. In 1978, he transferred to Lubbock where he was placed in charge of the West Texas division. Named vice president in 1981, he transferred to Amarillo in 1984 in connection with the restructuring of the company's operations divisions.

Widely-known and long active in West Texas community affairs, Clem is a member of the executive committee of the West Texas Museum on the campus of Texas Tech University and serves as a director of the university's Red Raider Club and the Texas Tech Foundation.

Hello everyone,

Monday our weekly bus trip took us to the Floydada County Museum and watching children play in the park while we had ice cream treated by the Dairy Queen. There were eleven residents on the bus-the-best group yet.

Wednesday was a wet day. The residents had their monthly birthday party. Euna Bradshaw turned 86 years young on the 4th. Afterwards they played musical chairs. Everyone who played had lots of fun and won cookies as a treat. During the week, Mrs. Laura Pratt has been welcomed in to our family, but Friday she took ill and was admitted to our local hospital.

Johnnie Newman was readmitted to the home on Friday. She had spent several days in the hospital.

Thursday we had movie and popcorn was served. The residents watched Run Appaloosa Run. Everyone enjoyed the movie.

The staff enjoyed a party in the front lobby on Thursday put on by Anna Turner of Merle Norm's Cosmetics. She spoke on wardrobes, how to buy, and how to be in fashion on a budget.

Friday was our weekly bingo game. Cookies and bananas were served as special treats for the week. Our weekly winners were: Mary Jo Fielding, Nena Loudermilk, Betha Cunyus, Edna Hunter, Luis Roberts and Clyde Morrison. Blackout winners were Mamie Wofford, Bessie Hunt and Mary McCracken.

If you are interested in volunteering a few minutes to spend with the residents, come by or call 652-2502 and ask for Helen.

Until next week.

Floyd County 4-H'ers win at state round-up

Twenty Floyd County 4-H members attended the Texas State 4-H Roundup held in College Station, Texas, June 4-6, 1985. Each year some thirty-two different contests and demonstrations are conducted for teams and individuals. The fourteen extension districts in the state are composed of about 20 counties each. Each district is allowed to send their top two places to 4-H Roundup.

This year Floyd County had the second largest delegation in District 2 to make the trip to Texas A&M University. The experience and tradition these 4-H'ers carried with them paid great dividends in the rewards they received. The following is a list of 4-H'ers, their contest and ranking.

Cooperative Demonstration, Earl Broseh, 1st.

Focus on Health, Angie Bertrand & Becky Reeves, 6th.

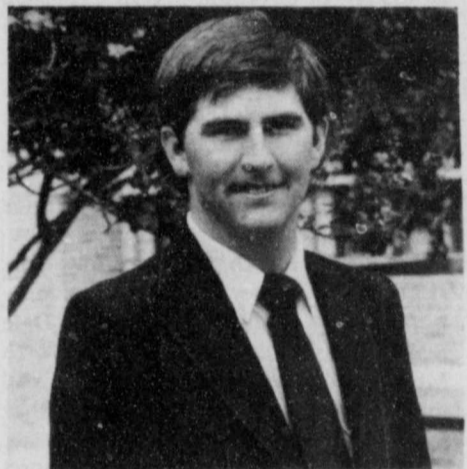

Natural Resources, Jason Brown & Chad Edwards, 9th.

Grass I.D. Contest, Shannon Edwards, Matthew Redding, and Jana Lawson, 4th — Team (Shannon-5th high individual)

Rifle Contest, Matt Mitchell, Ryan Rexrode, Kim Zimmerman, & Dean Smith, 13th.

Share-The-Fun, Heather Holt, Gwen Lane, Lisa Terrell, Don Chesshir, Scott Howard, Robbie Ryan, Clay Adrian, and Matt Williams, 1st — Musical and 3rd — Overall.

The 4-H members were accompanied on the trip by Connie Bertrand, Betty Edwards, Juanita Broseh, Charlotte Mitchell, Wanda Lane, Linda Terrell, Missy Bertrand, Warren Mitchell, and Extension Agents Mary True and Richie Crow.

EARL BROSEH, son of Kenneth and Juanita Broseh of Lockney won 1st place in the Cooperative Demonstration sponsored by Texas Federation of Cooperatives and Texas Ag. Cooperatives Council.

Lockney Briefs

Descendants of the late Bradley and Belle Yeary, who came to Floyd County in 1900, gathered June 2 in Lockney Rebekah Lodge Hall. Two of the couple's children: Es and Nell Yeary of Floydada and Bessie and Bill Sauls of Quitaque, were present, as well as a daughter-in-law, Sylvia Yeary of Lockney. Another son, Frank and Nora Lee Yeary of Silvertown were unable to attend.

Grandchildren and their families present included Pete and Maxine Yeary of Jacksonville, Milton Yeary and family of Jacksonville, Mason Yeary and family of Fort Worth, Jack Yeary of Lockney and Wilma Stribbling of Lubbock, Max and Vikki Yeary, Charles, Mandy and Bradley of Floydada, Jacqueline and Chuck Hovey and Trevor of Lubbock.

Among the friends who called in the afternoon were Raz and Georgia Ford and Edna Lackey, all of Lockney; Ernestine Gilly, Goldie Cybert, Betty Yeary, Geraldine Callaway and Clara Mize, all of Floydada; Grigsby and Lillie Milton, Darla and Jerry Chappell, all of South Plains.

Jacqueline and Chuck Hovey and Trevor visited with her father, Jack Yeary, and grandmother, Sylvia Yeary. The Hoveys recently were married and after the Yeary reunion, they left for Tampa, Florida, where they will make their home.

Wade Jackson recently was awarded a $200 scholarship from the School of Business at West Texas State University, where he is a senior. He was listed on the President's Honor List for the spring semester with a 4.0 grade point average. He is the son of Keith and Gayle Jackson of Providence.

COTTON FIELDS—Fields of cotton like this one still have an uncertain future. The full damage caused by the heavy rains last week will not be assessed for several more days and the 1 inch rain that fell on Monday, June 10, has not helped producers any. This cotton needs hot, dry weather if it is to survive the hardships Mother Nature has put upon it.

Country Sausage Muffins

Richly flavored with fried pork sausage and French onion dip, and brightly colored with bits of pimiento, "Country Sausage Muffins" promise to arouse even the jaded appetites of "breakfast skippers."

They're easy to prepare. Simply combine the few ingredients, pour into muffin tins and bake. With enriched self-rising flour and enriched self-rising corn meal, preparation is quick.

Country Sausage Muffins

12 muffins

- | | |
|--------------------------------------|---------------------------------------|
| 1/2 pound pork sausage | 1 jar (2 oz.) pimiento, |
| 1 cup enriched self-rising flour | chopped and drained |
| 1 cup enriched self-rising corn meal | 1 cup (8 oz. carton) French onion dip |
| | 1/2 cup milk |
| | 2 tablespoons pan drippings |

Fry pork sausage until crisp; drain, reserving drippings. Stir together flour, corn meal, cooked sausage and pimiento. Combine onion dip, milk, and pan drippings. Add liquid all at once to flour mixture, stirring only until flour is moistened. Fill greased muffin cups 2/3 full. Bake in preheated 425° oven 20 to 25 minutes, or until golden brown. Cool slightly before removing from pan.

Bill Beachy re-assigned

Visiting until Sunday with Rev. Bill and Melanie Beachy, Michael and Andrew, were Bill's sisters, Pam Orr, Timothy and T.J. of London, Ohio; and Becky Pearson, Heather and Kyle of Plain City, Ohio. The women's parents, Alvin and Donna Beachy of Plain City, had visited in Texas for nearly a month. They left for their home on Sunday also. Joined by Bill's brother, Randy Beachy of Abilene, the family went to Midland Wednesday of last week as Rev. Beachy was ordained an elder of the Northwest Texas United Methodist Conference. Rev. Beachy was ordained four years ago as a deacon. He had to complete education requirements, serve a two-year probationary period, and be examined by the conference board of ordained ministry before he could be made an elder.

Rev. Beachy has been re-assigned to Lockney United Methodist Church for another year. The congregation honored the Beachys with an old-fashioned "pounding" Sunday night after church.

Owen and Kathleen Thornton attended the annual conference in Midland. Owen was voting delegate from Lockney UMC.

1st Baptist Church honors 'Fantastics' with banquet

Several Sunday school classes of First Baptist Church were hosts May 31 for a banquet honoring the "Fantastics" — senior adults of the church.

About 45-50 persons attended the banquet in the garden room of the church. Master of ceremonies was Larry Mullins. Each guest was given a corsage or boutonniere by Tammy Adams.

Solos by Carla Robnett and Shelia Poole were on the program. They were accompanied by Ann Race. Mrs. Poole accompanied Heather Holt, Shandra Bybee and Rachelle Ford as they did a humorous song, "Classical Cluck."

Jason Bybee, Kip Holt, Scott and Kimberly Redden dressed in costume to perform the "hoky poky". A surprise appearance by the "Andrews Sisters" was a highlight of the program. Buddy Wiley, Jeff Race and Boyd Lee pantomimed "Mr. Sandman."

Guests were seated at quartet tables covered with yellow cloths. Centerpieces were brass candlesticks holding yellow tapers. Green napkins and yellow fans tied with yellow ribbon completed the table decor. The menu featured ham, green beans, baked potatoes, salad and sherbet.

USDA has toll-free hotline

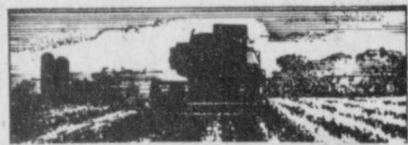

If the best things in life are free, the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Meat and Poultry Hotline can be added to that list on July 1, when the service becomes toll-free.

"An estimated two million cases of food poisoning occur every year, and many can be prevented by proper food handling," according to Donald L. Houston, administrator of USDA's Food Safety and Inspection Service. "The hotline's home economists can help consumers with questions ranging from how long to keep meat and poultry in the refrigerator to how to pack a safe picnic lunch.

"Changing the hotline to a nationwide toll-free number allows us to reach just about anyone who needs our help," said Houston.

Consumers dialing the new number -- (800) 535-4555 -- can get food safety tips for meat and poultry products and report problems experienced with such products. The toll-free hotline will operate weekdays from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. EDT.

"The toll-free number makes the service more accessible," Houston said.

Operate Farm Tractors Safely
Most tractor accidents can be prevented:

- Follow operating, maintenance, and safety instructions in your operator's manual.
- Take breaks to reduce fatigue when operating your tractor.
- Dress appropriately, including a bump cap and safety shoes.
- Train all tractor operators, and don't allow extra riders.
- Keep shielding in place and make sure hydraulic lines are connected right and leak-free.
- Match ground speed to operating conditions and watch where you are going. Look for overhead powerlines. Avoid ditches and steep slopes.
- Use flashing lights and display SMV emblem on the road.

"A test conducted in three states last fall showed we could anticipate 24,000 calls during the first year of the new service."

Callers in the Washington, D.C., metropolitan area can reach the hotline at (202) 447-3333. Hearing impaired individuals can reach the service by dialing either the "800" or the local Washington number. Both provide access to a telecommunications device for the deaf (TDD).

Since 1982, the hotline has operated without a toll-free number and has handled about 2,000 calls each year, Houston said.

For more information about the hotline, write to: Public Awareness, FSIS-USDA, Room 1163-S, Washington, D.C. 20250.

Disaster loans available

U.S. Senator Phil Gramm has announced that residents of several Texas counties are eligible for emergency loans from the Farmers Home Administration to speed recovery from natural disasters.

"This assistance will allow us to cushion the economic impact of the disasters and help speed economic recovery," Senator Gramm said.

Wet weather blight could pose threat to cotton

The thunderstorms which rumbled across the South Plains and caused flooding of many acres have increased the potential for a fungus that can seriously damage young cotton plants, warns a cotton agronomist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Ascochyta—commonly called wet weather blight—is a disease that periodically causes serious problems on the Texas High Plains, said Dr. James R. Supak, the cotton specialist. "Outbreaks generally follow three to five days of rainy, cool weather in late May or early June," Supak noted.

Infestations of the disease are more likely to occur in young plants that have been damaged by hail or blowing sand, he said. The disease is caused by a fungus that overwinters in the soil on old crop residues. Raindrops splash the fungus onto the stem and leaves of the cotton. The return of warm, open weather usually stops the development of the disease before serious plant infection occurs. "However, when the proper weather conditions—cool, cloudy and wet—occur, the fungus survives and becomes established in leaf and stem tissue," the Extension agronomist warned.

"In a matter of days, this disease can destroy most of the plant leaf tissue and even kill many seedlings. As the disease develops, the stand of cotton seems to disappear as the leaves begin to discolor and break off. This gives the impression the entire field has been destroyed by the disease," Supak said.

Leaf infections start as small, round spots or lesions which are purple to brown. These rapidly grow in size and unite with other spots. The centers of the spots become tan or ashy in color, and may fall out as the tissue dies. In severe infections, dark, elongated lesions may also develop on stems and leaf petioles. Under conditions favorable to the disease, these lesions can girdle the stem and kill the plant, but Supak said this isn't common in West Texas.

Since Ascochyta blight tends to attack young plants early in the growing season, its damage frequently is associated with or mistaken for seedling disease. Generally, young plants already infested with seedling disease are more susceptible to the blight. But Supak said that even strong, healthy seedlings can develop blight infections, especially if they're subjected to wind and sand abrasion prior to the onset of cool, wet weather.

In evaluating blight damage, first consider how the planting came up to a stand, Supak said. "If emergence was rapid and uniform with good early growth, then the crop should have a good strong root system and has the potential to recover quickly, even though leaf damage may appear extensive. On the other hand, a slow-emerging, slow-developing crop is apt to have a higher mortality rate and sustain more permanent damage that limits recovery and yield potential."

Next, make a stand evaluation by digging up all the seedlings in a three- to five-foot space of row at several random locations in the field. "It's better to dig, rather than pull the plants to get a good look at the taproot and secondary root systems of the plant. Examine each seedling and discard those with obvious root and stem damage," the cotton specialist said.

Check the terminal buds for new growth. If there is healthy green tissue visible in the bud area, the plant has the potential for rapid recovery with the return of warm, open weather.

In making the final stand count, the Extension agronomist said to include the obviously healthy plants as well as plants that may have missing or damaged leaves but have clean roots and stems and evidence of new growth in the terminal buds. "If the count averages two or more plants per foot of drill and there aren't too many skips more than two to three feet long, the stand is adequate for near optimum production."

There are no recommended chemical treatments for the control of Ascochyta blight. Warm sunny weather, protection from wind and sand, and tillage to allow aeration and evaporation of excess moisture are the best control measures. "Generally, once the sun breaks out and the temperatures rise, the spread of the disease will stop," Supak said. "At this point it's important to provide protection against blowing sand and break up the crust to allow aeration and more rapid warming of the soil."

Because disease damage symptoms can develop rapidly, Supak said, the first impulse is to destroy the sickly looking crop and start over. "Too often the decision to replant is based more on emotion than on a hard-nosed evaluation of the crop condition. The best approach to Ascochyta blight problems is to make a good stand evaluation after the return of warm, open weather. If the stand is adequate, give the crop four to five days to "react" before making the final decision regarding replanting."

Farmers' market to meet June 18 in Lubbock at 7

"The High Plains Farmers Market Association was officially organized on Thursday evening, May 16th," announced Johnie Turpen, Marketing Specialist for the Texas Department of Agriculture. "The turn-out of the farmers was excellent. I believe Lubbock is going to have an exceptional market."

The association elected officers, adopted rules, selected a location, and an opening day. The following decisions were made.

The market will open Saturday morning, July the 13th at 8:00 a.m. and be open every Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday through out the produce season.

The market will be located at the Harris Underwood Warehouse on the corner of 24th and Avenue E. Mr. Underwood is donating the use of this facility to the High Plains Farmers Market Association. "This is a tremendous gesture by Mr. Underwood," says

Wayne Robertson, Chairman of the Board of the Association. "It is an excellent location for both wholesale and retail sales."

Board members elected for the 1985 market year are: Wayne Robertson, Chairman of Petersburg; Jimmy Collins, Sec./Treas. of Petersburg; Terry Bradshaw of Levelland; Arvil Campbell of Ralls; Richard Lopez of Lubbock; Toby Thomas of Lubbock; C.P. Smith, Vice Chairman of Hale Center; Ray Bowen of Lubbock; Dick Cade of Slaton; Jean Langley of Lubbock; and Jimmy Marr of Petersburg.

The next meeting of the High Plains Farmers Market Association is scheduled for June 18th, at 7:00 p.m. at the High Plains Water Conservation District Office #1, 2930 Avenue Q. Dale Redd, President of the Fort Worth Market will speak about their successful market and slides and a video of other markets around the state will be shown. Farmers interested should contact Johnie Turpen at (806) 799-8555.

Safety — A Full Time Job

Each year, workplace accidents kill some 11,300 people, injure 1.9 million more and result in losses to American business of approximately $33.4 billion. The American Society of Safety Engineers (ASSE) believes that there is a need to focus the attention of both the American worker and American business on the need for increased safety awareness. To this end, ASSE, through its 119 chapters across the United States, is asking that both the employer and the employee alike set aside the week of June 16-22 as National Safety In The Workplace Week.

damaged leaves but have clean roots and stems and evidence of new growth in the terminal buds. "If the count averages two or more plants per foot of drill and there aren't too many skips more than two to three feet long, the stand is adequate for near optimum production."

There are no recommended chemical treatments for the control of Ascochyta blight. Warm sunny weather, protection from wind and sand, and tillage to allow aeration and evaporation of excess moisture are the best control measures. "Generally, once the sun breaks out and the temperatures rise, the spread of the disease will stop," Supak said. "At this point it's important to provide protection against blowing sand and break up the crust to allow aeration and more rapid warming of the soil."

Because disease damage symptoms can develop rapidly, Supak said, the first impulse is to destroy the sickly looking crop and start over. "Too often the decision to replant is based more on emotion than on a hard-nosed evaluation of the crop condition. The best approach to Ascochyta blight problems is to make a good stand evaluation after the return of warm, open weather. If the stand is adequate, give the crop four to five days to "react" before making the final decision regarding replanting."
