1985 Floyd County Fair plans are announced

Plans for the Floyd and Surrounding Counties Fair have been finalized and the fair is fast approaching. The 1985 event will be September 12, 13, and 14 and many different events are planned.

Kicking off the fair, Thursday, will be the departmental judging. All entries in the women's agriculture community exhibit, childrens, craft, and flower departments must be in place no later than noon on Thursday, September 12. Judging in the various departments will be from 1:00 p.m. to 3:00 p.m. on that day.

Thursday evening the Whirlers Square Dancing Club will be having a square dance in the entertainment building. Sid Perkins of Plainview will be calling and there will be a $2.00 cover charge for all dancers. All spectators will be welcome with free admission.

Friday

Friday will kick off at 9:30 a.m. with the Ladies Day programs. There will be four different programs and the subjects will include stenciling, quilting, a style show, and travel. See separate article for more details.

Friday evening at 5:30 p.m. the Younger Brothers will play a free hour long concert as a preview to the dance that night at 9:00 p.m.

The gospel singing will follow the concert. Music for the gospel concert will be provided by The Singing Farmers of Hart and the Praise Makers of Lubbock.

Closing out the day Friday will be the Younger Brothers dance at 9:00 p.m. There will be a $5.00 admission charge for the dance.

Saturday

Saturday will be the big day for the fair.

At 8:00 a.m. all livestock to be shown in the stock show must be in place to be weighed and classed.

At 9:00 a.m. the Fun Frolics, sponsored by the junior class will begin in the upstairs portion of the main fair building. Also at the same time all entrants in the chili cookoff must be in position to start cooking their chili.

The parade will begin at 10:30 a.m. as will the junior showmanship contest. See separate article for the parade details.

The steer show will begin at 11:00 a.m. and the steer judging will follow.

The Little Miss contest will be judged at 1:30 p.m. in the entertainment building. This contest has been changed to earlier in the day to eliminate some of the problems in having it judged at night with the queen pageant.

The childrens playday and rodeo will begin at 2:00 p.m. and the tractor pull will follow.

The chili cookoff will be judged at 5:00 p.m. Also the awards from the stock show will be presented at the same time in the livestock barn.

Closing out the fair will be the fair queen pageant at 7:00 p.m. Entrants will be modeling a sportswear and a formal outfit. The top ten entrants will be asked to answer a question on stage.

Throughout all three days of the fair, the Pride of Texas carnival will be running. Tickets for the carnival are on sale now at various ticket outlets and from fair board members. They are $7.50 each and each ticket will allow the bearer to ride as many rides as they wish on any one night of the fair.

This year's fair promises to hold lots of fun for all members of the family so make plans now to attend.

1985 LOCKNEY LONGHORN varsity has completed three weeks of two a day workouts as well as scrimmage games against Post and New Deal. This week they will be putting the finishing touches on and will be preparing to face Tulia Friday night in Tulia at 8:00 p.m. All of these young men and their coaches have been working very hard so make plans to be in Tulia to cheer the 'Horns to their first victory of the season.

Lions Club to sponsor new warning system

The Lockney Lions Club met on Friday, August 30 to sponsor the collection of $3000.00 to install a new warning system which will work with the Lockney Cable T.V. system. This new system was proposed by Danny Smith, one of the new owners of the cable company in Lockney.

This new system, called a weather audio override, will allow a designated official to override all programming on the televisions that are hooked up to cable. Announcements of any threatening weather conditions or other emergencies that may arise can then be made.

James Race, chairman of the committee appointed to oversee the project for the Lions Club, said "We really don't have any type of warning system for the Lockney citizens other than the siren warning. With this new system, the civil defense and weather watching people could contact a designated official if threatening weather approached. The citizens would be advised of weather conditions and would know when to seek shelter." Race also commented that "Even though the Lubbock T.V. stations carried weather alerts, none of them concentrate on the smaller communities. If we had our own system of alert the local people would be kept informed on the current threatening conditions."

Danny Smith, new owner of the cable company, said, "We reach enough homes in the city of Lockney that if this system were to be installed everyone could be alerted to threatening weather. This new system would allow the designated official to interrupt programming on all channels on every TV that is connected to cable."

It is hoped that other civic clubs in Lockney will help contribute to the $3000.00 cost of the new system. Smith commented that donations from private citizens would also be accepted "with great appreciation." If every citizen in the city limits would give just one dollar the system would just about be paid for."

Members of the Lions Club Committee in charge of collections for the project are James Race, Warren Mitchell, and Danny Smith. For those wishing more information or wishing to make a donation to the project contact one of those three men.

Childrens events for fair planned

There are several planned special events for children at the 1985 Floyd and Surrounding Counties Fair. All of the childrens events are planned for Saturday, September 14. These events will be in addition to the annual carnival by the Pride of Texas.

Beginning at 9:00 a.m. the Lockney High School junior class will be sponsoring games and races for the younger children, called Fun Frolics. It will include tricycle races, go fish games, and much more. The Fun Frolics will be held in the upstairs portion of the main fair building.

Following the parade, which is scheduled for 10:30 a.m. Saturday morning, there will be a special show for the children in the entertainment building. Ronald McDonald, of the Plainview McDonalds, will present his magic show. There will be no admission, so make plans to have your children there for the show.

Also planned for the children is the annual playday and rodeo starting at 2:00 p.m. The rodeo events will include barrel racing, pole bending, goat ribbon racing, and a baseball throw for children age 6 through 10. Each event will carry an entry fee of $1.00.

For children age two through five there will be boot races, sack races, stick horse races, baseball throw, goat ribbon races, and barrel racing on a stick horse. Each of these events will carry an entry fee of 50 cents.

The last scheduled event will be the childrens peddle tractor pull for kids ages three through 6. It will be held on the concrete slab just east of the livestock building. There will be no entry fee for the tractor pull. This is a new event added to the fair this year. It is being sponsored by the Lockney FFA chapter. It will be supervised by the Lockney FFA chapter members and Lockney FFA advisor Randall Robbins. It is open to both boys and girls and all youngsters are encouraged to participate.

1985 Lockney Longhorns

In times like these... By Mary Jo Fielding

The long-predicted invasion of killer bees has become real in California. Killer bees are descended from African bees brought to South America for research in 1956 and have been moving steadily northward. No more deadly than their domestic counterparts, they are infinitely more ill-tempered, and swarms have been known to kill small animals. Too, they show little interest in pollinating the kinds of crops California depend on, plus a tendency to chase away bees that do.

First noticed about a month and half ago in the San Joaquin Valley, the bees beat their expected due date (1990) by sneaking in on oil-drilling gear. Their underground hive contained thousands of dead insects when discovered the first of this month, but experts said at least two queens and their colonies had probably moved on, possibly to breed with local bees and reproduce offspring with dominant killer instincts.

A 20-member state SWAT team began searching 400 square miles of surrounding territory. The consequence could be "much worse than an infestation of Mediterranean fruit flies," said entomologist Norman Gary. "These are the most defensive bees on Earth and they are not compatible with human activity." If the valley's highly developed agriculture does not include enough wild flowers on which the killer bees feed, they could wither away like aliens in an inhospitable atmosphere.

DANNY SMITH, new owner of the Lockney Cable TV Service, recently addressed the Lockney Rotary Club. Smith said no rate increases are planned and the service will continue to operate as it has in the past.

Four Ladies Day programs planned for September 13

The Ladies Day programs at the 1985 Floyd County Fair promises to hold something of interest for all those who attend.

Her program will include quilting techniques and patterns. She will have samples of her quilting work which will be discussed. She will also be providing practical, hands on experience in quilting. Those interested in trying quilting techniques may bring a 14 inch hoop and a 16 inch square of fabric, or the fabric stenciled in the first program may be used.

For those participating in both the stenciling and quilting programs, there will be fabric, stencils, batting, thread, and needles available for a cost of about $2.50. Also hoops will be available for about $4.00 each. Those who wish may bring their own supplies from home. There will be a lunch break from about 11:45 a.m. to 12:55.

Style Show
From 1:00 p.m. to 2:00 p.m. a style show will be presented. Local merchants in the show from Lockney in-

Travel
Pat Thornton of International Tours of Plainview will present the final program of the day from 2:15 to 3:15.

Her program will include travel tips such as packing, passport information, and planning for all kinds of trips. She will also discuss various tours and travel destinations. There is no gate charge or admission charge for any of the programs.

Door Prizes
Throughout the day door prizes will be given away. Brown's Department Store and The City Connection of Lockney; and Anne's Sewing Basket and Hale's Department Store of Floydada, will all be donating door prizes. The grand finale of the day will be the prize of a trip to Disney World in Florida. This trip will include air transportation by Delta Airlines, three nights and two days at the Sheraton Lakeshore Hotel and admission to Disney World.

All those attending may register one time for each program they attend. Door prizes will be awarded throughout the day's programs. Winners must be present to win. The trip will be given away at the end of the travel program.

Care Center Capers

by Helen Pigg
Hello to all of our friends.

We started this week off with a bus ride to Plainview so we could get new craft supplies. This week Carl Mercer, Bessie Hunt, Hassie Arnold, Mary Joe Fielding and Alma McDonald all enjoyed, not only the bus ride but, getting out and helping find the craft supplies we needed. Before heading back home, we stopped by Sonic's Drive-in and they treated us to cookies and ice cream. Thanks a million to Sonic. The residents sure do appreciate these treats and it is very nice of the business to do this for our lovely Senior Citizens.

Wednesday we all enjoyed watching "The Parent Trap" while we cooled off with lemonade and popcorn.

Thursday Sue Dietrich came from Plainview and we had a wonderful time working with dough art. Many lovely items were made by the residents which we will be selling at our Christmas Bazaar this year.

My step-son Jason Pigg of Amarillo has volunteered to build the turtles a nice swimming pool. As I write this column, he has it almost finished. He dug it by hand and then mixed the cement and poured it. When he got tired, I had to help with the cement. Jason is 14 years of age, and has spent several days with the residents. He helps them play ball during exercise class and they love having a young person working with them. (This is a hint we would love to have some young people join our volunteer program.)

Laura Wilson has been nice enough to volunteer to help me expand our volunteer program. Many thanks Laura.

Bessie Jackson has decided that she wanted to make her home at the Care Center, moving in this past Wednesday. Bessie sees to it that nobody gets lonesome by visiting the other residents every day. A big welcome goes out to Bessie from staff, residents and volunteers.

G.A. McAda has decided to return home with his wife for awhile. We are certainly glad that he has improved enough to do so. However, we will all miss G.A. Good luck G.A. and come back to visit us.

The residents have enjoyed having black eyed peas to shell and then eating them for lunch. A special thanks to Mrs. Opal Taylor for bringing all of the lovely peas.

Other food items fresh out of the garden which we have enjoyed are: water-melons from David Jackson, cantaloupes from Mr. John Carthel and summer squash from Myrtle Gibson.

Next week we'll let you know about Friday's dinner on the ground with guest speaker Gene Hawkins, as our news must be in early because of the Labor Day holiday.

God Bless. Until next week.

Jones wins scholarship at ROTC training camp

Editor's Note: The following article was published in the Fort-Worth Star-Telegram and was written by Wendy Dowkings. Jayme Jones is the granddaughter of Mrs. Dorothy Merrell and the great-granddaughter of Mrs. R.L. Lackey, both of Lockney.

With the poise that once helped her win a beauty contest, Jayme Jones stepped off the plane. She glided across the floor, her short blond hair, slit skirt and dainty blouse ruffling in the breeze—and her combat boots swung over her shoulder.

Sound a bit contrasting? On the contrary, the boots — along with fatigues, helmet and rifle — were very much in place as Jones underwent six weeks of Army basic training camp at Fort Knox, Kentucky, earlier this summer. Slogging through mud with rifle in tow, dodging machine-gun fire and hiking at 5 a.m. became second nature to the 20-year-old former college cheerleader during the competition for one of 40 two-year college scholarships.

The journey to Fort Knox began back in March, with a letter from an Army recruiter impressed with Jones' 3.77 grade point average at Tarrant County Junior College — good enough to win a two-year scholarship to Texas Christian University. But when Jones contacted TCU, the scholarships already had been given out.

Then came word that Jones could win a scholarship after exceptional performance at Reserve Officer Training Corps training camp at Fort Knox. So, although she had not been in ROTC in junior college, Jones went, along with 300 male and 150 female students also vying for scholarships.

Jones' family saw basic training camp as a rather drastic shifting of gears, said her mother, Carolyn Jones.

"I couldn't imagine the little powder puff of a daughter I raised going out there in the woods," she said.

But go she did, and Jones came away with a full scholarship that will pay for tuition, room and board and a $100-a-month stipend for living expenses.

"I always think that if you want something you should put everything into it and not be mediocre," Jones said.

That same philosophy earlier had led her to compete in three beauty pageants, working hard at dieting and exercising, and going on to win the title of Miss Gaines County 1982 when her hometown was Seminole, Texas.

It's in her character, Jones said, to tackle big challenges, because she wants to get "everything out of life that I can. If I live to be 70 I want to look back and say, 'I did this; that was good.'"

One instance at basic training in which she did not think, "That was good," stands out in her mind, however. She was training — running with a machine gun in the rain — and fell face-first in the mud.

"I lay there for a second," Jones said, but she had hardly any time to think of how miserable she was when a sergeant appeared and encouraged her to get up, start over and do better.

The Army officers "yelled at us, but they didn't treat us like they treated the Army privates who trained not far from us," Jones recalled. "They humiliated them to get them to do better."

"Since we weren't in the Army yet and since we were college students, they treated us a lot better. They expected us to be able to pull ourselves together and improve ourselves."

The experience also taught Jones to work with people and "how to get along in life without a facade, without makeup and nice clothes, but with just yourself," she said.

"We're absolutely excited about her winning the scholarship. She'll be an absolute asset to the program," said Capt. Gregory Ellison, assistant professor of military science at TCU.

He said there are plenty of openings for "quality folks" like Jones, who want to work in corporate management during the four years she will spend in the Army after graduation.

"I've thought a lot about the advantages of entering the service after I graduate," she said. "I have a lot of friends (who are business majors) who, when they graduated, looked for a job for a year. When they find one, they have to spend years working their way up to a management position. In the Army, they start you off with responsibilities."

Social Security

By Terry J. Clements

Do you receive social security or supplemental security income (SSI) checks? If so and you have been thinking of trying to work even though still disabled, you should know about special rules in the social security law that may help you:

Trial work period - Most of you can continue receiving full benefits for up to 9 months while testing your ability to work while still disabled. After the 9 month trial work period a decision is made as to whether you are performing "substantial gainful activity." If you can, benefits end after a 3-month adjustment period. If you can't, payments continue.

Extended period of eligibility - You have additional protection for 15 months after the trial work period. During this period benefits can be reinstated if you remain disabled and discontinue substantial gainful activity without having to make a new disability application.

Continuation of medicare - If monthly social security payments end because of work activity and you are still disabled, medicare entitlement can continue for up to 24 to 36 months.

SSI Special payments - You may continue getting SSI checks even though performing substantial gainful activity after a trial work period if you remain disabled. You are eligible as long as you are still disabled and would otherwise be eligible under the SSI rules.

Under certain conditions, you may be eligible for medicaid coverage even though your earnings from working and other countable income are too high for you to receive monthly SSI checks. You must continue to be disabled, or blind unable to afford similar medical care, and be unable to work without medicaid assistance.

If you are a blind person who works, the rules in the social security law are similar to those for disabled people. However, there are some important differences you should be aware of. For example, average monthly earnings of $610 or less in 1985 are never considered substantial gainful activity if you get social security checks. And you have some additional deductible work expenses that other disabled beneficiaries do not have.

For more information about the special rules that help disabled and blind beneficiaries who want to work, you may contact us at 1401-B West 5th Street, or call us at 293-9623.
