This is the second year in a row that the Lockney band has received top honors in the spring contest.

This Friday, the high school band will be leaving for Kansas City, Missouri, for the band trip. While there the band will be playing in another contest.

Making the band trip, in addition to the band members and band director John Lewis, will be sponsors Buck and Glenda Ford, Don and Ethelyn Vernon, Betty Jackson, Marvin and Linda Lemons, Ruby Stephan, Sharon Kinard, Jack and Myrtle Gibson and Mr. and Mrs. Severo Perez.

Other upcoming band events, in addition to the spring concert are the band banquet on April 26 and junior high and sixth grade contest on May 10 in Hale Center.

Methodists to honor pastor

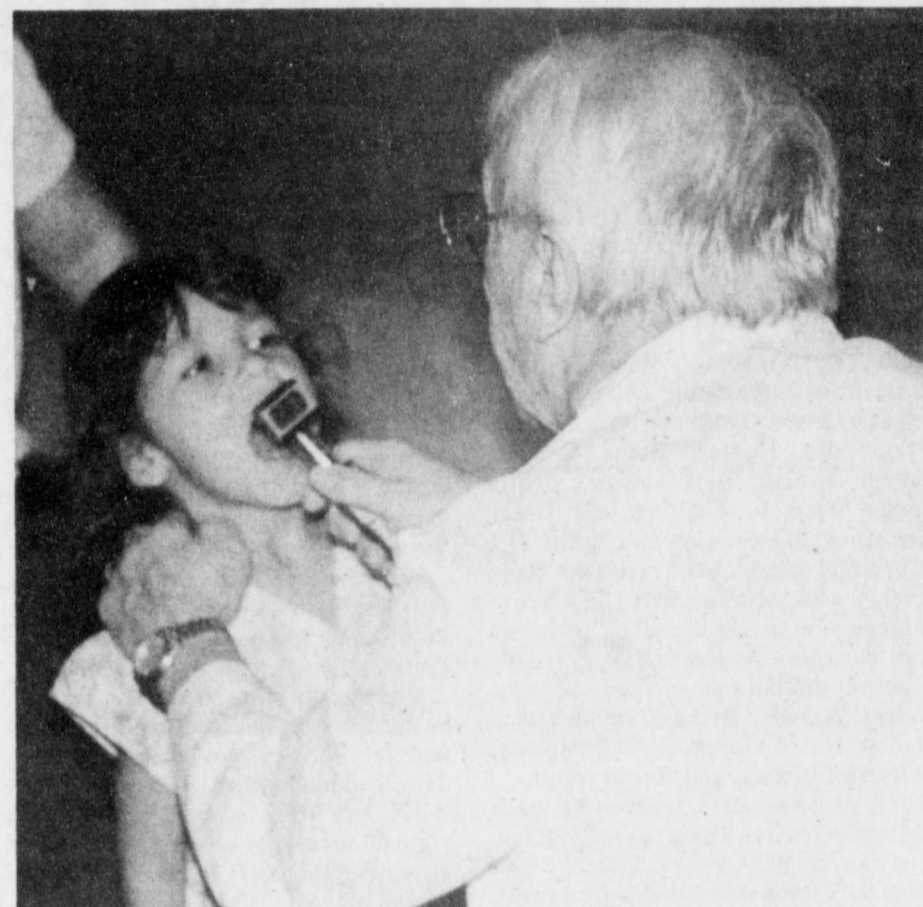

The First United Methodist Church of Lockney would like to invite the community to a special service this coming Sunday morning, April 20th at 10:55 a.m. It will be a special service honoring Bill and Melanie Beachy. Bill has been pastor of the church since August of 1984.

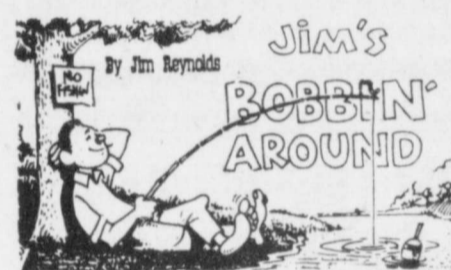

This special day is a way in which the church and community can respond to the needs of the Beachys, who will possibly move to Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania this summer. The Beachys feel called to a ministry of teaching. Bill has been accepted to the doctoral program in Formative Spirituality at Duquesne University, while Melanie has been accepted to the Master's program in the same field.

The worship service will feature Bill and Melanie in Concert. Kim King, president of First National Bank of Lockney, will preside at the service. There will be a special time with "Dilly Downs" for children. A love offering will be taken.

Bring a friend and enjoy an hour of beautiful music with the Beachys.

OPEN WIDE—This little lady was just one of the 47 youngsters that heard the expressions open wide, and breath deep at the preschool clinic last Tuesday afternoon. Children were also screened for dental problems, vision and speech problems.

HOORAY FOR OUR SIDE

Was the USofA right or wrong in bombing Khadafi and Libya on Monday?

That subject captivates all coffee shop talk this week.

Cast a "yes" vote from this viewpoint. Obviously nobody wants war, but we're doggone tired of Uncle Sam's innocent citizens being blown from the sky, bombed in West Berlin and being the A-1 target of crackpots.

It's time to halt this mess! What do Khadafi and the other nuts recognize except strength? Nothing.

Terrorism will only worsen until they realize Uncle Sam will retaliate. According to intelligence reports, hundreds of other terrorist attacks had been planned by Libya and her friends prior to the Monday bombing. Perhaps even this was not strong enough; maybe Khadafi must receive yet another message.

On the surface, few nations agree with out air strike of Libya. But even the Russians privately regard Khadafi as a "nut" . . . they understand our situation plenty well.

Paul Harvey says one caller reportedly stated that this was the first April 15 in years that he hadn't complained about mailing his IRS check to Uncle Sam. It seems that our people, almost without exception, are rallying around the Stars and Stripes again.

RULES FOR RAISING DRUG-ADDICTS

Houston Police Department has drawn up a list of "Twelve Rules for Raising Drug-Addicts." It's not fool-proof, but closely adhering to the list will certainly help in raising spoiled brats.

The "rules":

1. Begin with infancy to give the child everything he wants. In this way he will grow up to believe the world owes him a living.

2. When he picks up bad words, laugh at him. This will make him think that he's cute. It will also encourage him to pick up "cuter" phrases, that will blow off the top of your head later.

3. Never give him any spiritual training. Wait until he is 21 and then let him "decide for himself."

4. Avoid use of the word "wrong." It may develop a guilt complex. This will condition him to believe later, when he is arrested for stealing a car, that society is against him, and he is being persecuted.

5. Pick up everything he leaves lying around — books, shoes, clothing. Do everything for him so he will be experienced in throwing all responsibility onto others.

6. Let him read any printed matter he can get his hands on. Be careful that the silverware and drinking glasses are sterilized, but let his mind feast on garbage.

Pre-school clinic registers children for 1986-87

The Lockney Athena Study Club held its annual pre-school registration and clinic last Tuesday afternoon and pre-registered 47 children for the 1986-87 school year.

On hand for the clinic were members of the study club who weighed and measured each child. Also Dr. W.J. Mangold and Dr. Gary Mangold gave each child a short physical examination.

Karen Quebe, school speech therapist screened each child for speech problems. Dr. Ricky Cross gave dental exams of each child, and Dr. Stewart Webb of Plainview screened each of the children for vision problems.

South Plains Health Provider nurses were on hand to update each child's shot records. Those children who needed boosters were given them free of charge by the nurses.

The 1986-87 kindergarten will be somewhat one sided as girls pre-registered outnumber the boys. There were 32 girls and 15 boys registered at the clinic. Also for the next kindergarten class there will be six boys and five girls moved up from the early childhood class.

This year marked about 35 years for the preschool clinic and possibly by next week we will have a feature story on the history of the clinic and how it got started.

Five Lockney citizens vie for county offices

On May 5, five local residents will be hoping for a win in the Democratic primary, which would then advance two of the five into the November general election.

Floyd Jackson and Jerry Williams will be running on the ticket, and one of them will advance to the general election in November. They are both running for county commissioner, Precinct 2, a position which at the present time is held by Bob Jarrett.

Jackson was born and raised in the Lockney area and has been involved in farming and ranching all his life. At the present time he and wife Carolyn live in Lockney. At the recent political forum which was held by the Chamber of Commerce Jackson said, "I would like to see the county's taxes reduced, but we do have one of the lowest tax rates around. If I am elected I will try to make a hand."

Jerry Williams presently resides north of Lockney. At the forum Williams commented "I have lived in Precinct 2 all my life and raised my children here." He and wife Kay have three children and Kay is a teacher at Lockney High School. "The job of county commissioner carries a lot of responsibility and it is very important. I feel qualified for the job because of my association with many other organizations and because of my leadership skills."

Williams has served on the county stock show board for the past 20 years, served on the Lockney School Board for seven years, and has been associated with the fair board, 4-H, FFA, and is a director for the Texas and National Angus Associations. Williams commented, "It would be an honor to serve as the county commissioner for Precinct 2."

There are three Lockney men seeking the position of justice of the peace for Precincts 2 and 3. They are Mike Mooney, appointed incumbent of that office, Bill Fewell and Garland Sams.

Mike Mooney has served as the justice of the peace since April 1, 1985 when he was appointed to fill the unexpired term of R.H. (Raz) Ford who retired last year. Mooney has farmed in Floyd County since 1948.

During the recent forum Mooney commented, "I would like the chance to serve the voters of Precincts 2 and 3 for a full term as the justice of the peace. This job carries a lot of responsibility and I have the training to do a good job. I have attended J.P. school and would like to hold my office."

W.H. (Bill) Fewell is also seeking election to the office of justice of the peace. Fewell is a twenty-six year Lockney resident. He commented, "Most of the justice of the peace work is in the area of traffic citations and I feel that I have kept up with the traffic laws of this state and I feel that I can serve well in the office of justice of the peace. If elected I would attend the next J.P. school held. I would like the opportunity to serve those residents of precincts 2 and 3 and if elected would do my best in the office."

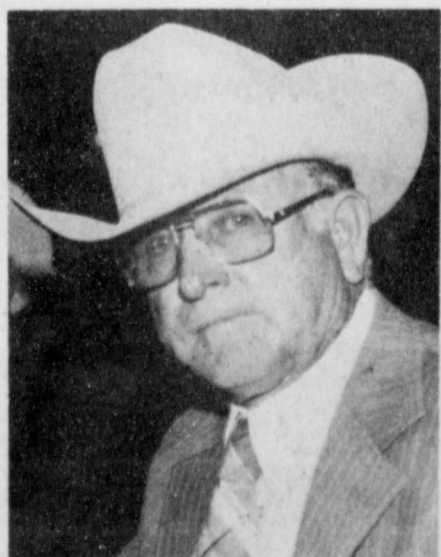

The third candidate for justice of the peace is Garland (Kokomo) Sams. Sams had earlier said that he was withdrawing from the race for family reasons which took much of his time, however at the time Sams had elected to withdraw from the race it was too late to remove his name from the ballot and so Sams has announced that he is once again an active candidate for justice of the peace.

Sams is a retired mechanic who is a native of Floyd County. He said, "Consider me an active candidate that would like to win the justice of the peace Precincts 2 and 3 position."

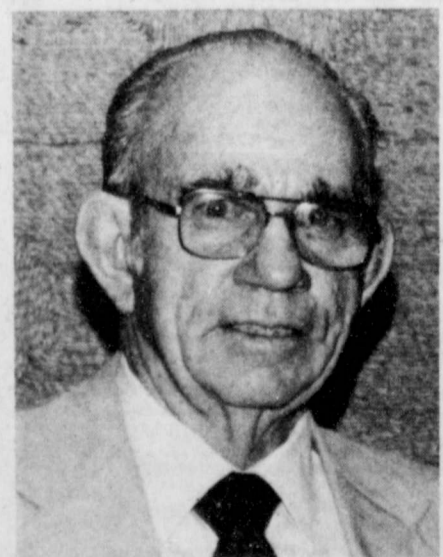

All five of these Lockneyites are subject to the results of the May 3 Democratic primary elections and the two who win will then be subject to the general election in November.

He is a kind of man high officials call on when it's time to send in the cavalry. He is the proconsul of crisis. Such is a diplomat, Philip Habib. Political parties in the Philippines got a fantastic amount of attention when Habib plunged into the election quarrel between President Ferdinand Marcos and Corazon Aquino.

Prime Minister Menachen Begin. Then a series of heart attacks led to Habib's resignation from the Foreign Service in 1978. However, the veteran negotiator was called back into action as a trouble shooter by Jimmy Carter to review U.S. relations with Cuba and by Reagan in 1981 to help settle the war in Lebanon.

30 YEARS OF SERVICE—Recently Lockney Postmaster Doug Meriwether presented Donald Reecer with a pin for 30 years of service with the post office. Reecer began working at the Lockney post office on March 14, 1956 as a clerk inside the office. In 1969 he took over rural route 1 and remained there until 1980 when he took over rural route 2. The letter which was presented to Reecer along with his pin said, "You have demonstrated pride in yourself and your organization. You have provided service to the customers of our community. You have produced quality work in your performance."

Care Center Capers

By Bonnie Purdom

Alice Hall from the retired senior volunteer program, will be in Lockney for a recruitment party April 26 at 2:30 p.m. This will be held in the lobby of the center, so don't forget to put that on your calendar. At that time she will explain the benefits of being a member of R.S.V.P.

The bus trip to Plainview was pleasant with the Sonic Drive-in treating Eva Cresswell, Bonnie Julian, Esker Pyle, Edna Hunter, Betsy Cunyas, George Settleff, Earl Mercer, Bessie Hunt, Mary Jo Fielding and Grace Glasscock, to ice cream and cokes.

In crafts this week the residents made lovely plates, with lace trim and a flower arrangement inside the plate, to use as wall hangings. These ladies are really talented craftswomen. They include: Bessie Jackson, Betsy Cunyas, Edna Hunter, Nina Loudermilk, Eula Malone, Mary Jo Fielding, and Bessie Smith.

The exercise class is growing each day with: Andres Pena, Floyd Barber, Earl Mercer, joining these ladies, Betsy Cunyas, Bonnie Julian, Eva Cresswell, Hattie Arnold, Eula Malone, Bessie Jackson, Grace Glasscock, Edna Hunter and Mary Jo Fielding in staying physically fit.

It is kite flying season with the wind up, we plant to try our luck at kite flying Tuesday afternoon. George Settleff, Henry Merrell, Andres Pena and Floyd Barber say they know how. I sure hope so it should be quite an experience.

The residents enjoyed lunch on the grounds Saturday at noon for Family Day. This will be a regular bring-a-dish luncheon, the 2nd Saturday of every month. Each month a speaker will address a different issue, relating to senior citizen care. Please put this on your calendar and be there.

Laverne Munoz's father passed away Friday. The staff and residents wish to express our sympathy to the Thomas Word family.

We have two new additions to our little family and we wish to welcome Ruth Raverson and Beulah Clark to the center.

It is always a joy to see the families visit. Grace Glasscock's sons visit regularly with a big smile. He is a delight to his mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Esker Pyle's son is a big help to us all, assisting with various activities. Thanks E.M. for all that you do.

Clyde Morrison's and Euna Bradshaw's nieces visited last week and joined us in exercise class. We always enjoy visitors joining in on activities, it livens things up a bit.

May God be with you and yours until next week.

Sunbeam recalls coffeemakers

In cooperation with the Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC), the Sunbeam Appliance Company of Oak Brook, Illinois, has announced the voluntary recall of 8,200 under-cabinet Model 15306 Sunbeam Coffeemaker® Flavor-Lock® drip coffeemakers, date coded as GJA, GJB and GJC. Sunbeam has learned that the heating element in some of these coffeemakers can loosen with use and shift position to cause a hot spot. Under certain conditions, the plastic shell of the coffeemaker can ignite to create a fire hazard.

From January 1985 to date, Sunbeam received 15 reports that this model coffeemaker caught fire. These reports involved some property damage to nearby combustibles and included a January 1986 minor hand burn incident in Illinois. No other injuries were reported.

Recalled units can be identified by the model number 15306, the service number 15-30AC, and the date codes GJA, GJB and GJC all stamped into the metal plate on the back of the coffeemaker. The recall is limited only to the indicated model number, service number and date codes.

Owners who identify their coffeemaker as being recalled should discontinue use of the product. To obtain a free replacement, owners should return their recalled coffeemaker via parcel post, with name and return address indicated, to: Coffeemaker Program, Sunbeam Appliance Company, 1329 Warford Street, Memphis, Tennessee 38108. Owners need not return the glass carafe with their unit.

Sunbeam will replace the model 15306 coffeemaker with an upgraded deluxe unit that has a digital clock and a 24-hour timer. Consumers are advised to insure the product against loss during shipment. Sunbeam will reimburse

Texas savings bond sales increase by 40 percent

Sales of U.S. Savings Bonds during January 1986 in Texas amounted to $28,095,341, an increase of $5,163,035 for 39.9% over the January a year ago, T.J. Morrow, District Director for U.S. Savings Bonds Division in Dallas, Texas, has announced. These sales represent 7.6% of the state's 1986 assigned dollar goal of $370,000,000.

Sales of Series EE Bonds amounted to $8335.00 during January 1986 in Floyd County, Lewis McDaniel, Volunteer County Chairman, said. These sales represent 5.7% of the County's 1986 assigned dollar goal.

Nationally, January 1986 sales of Series EE Bonds totaled $575 million, an increase of 39% over 1985 sales, highest January total since 1979. Savings Bonds held by the public topped $80 billion in January, increasing $451 million in the month to $80.25 billion. Much of the growth in sales is due to Savings Bonds' new market-based rate which was effective November 1, 1982. This rate is adjusted on May 1 and November 1 each year. Bonds held at least five years earn 85 percent of the average rate on 5-year Treasury securities or 7.5 percent, whichever is higher. The current rate for the six month period ending April 30, 1986 is 8.36 percent. The average rate for the period November 1, 1982 through April 30, 1986 is 9.69 percent. Bonds held less than five years earn interest on a fixed, graduated scale. The latest information on Bonds can be obtained by calling toll-free - 1-800-US BONDS.

TRAVELING WITH THE CHILDREN!

With all this great weather we've been enjoying, thoughts of travel and vacations enter in.

And for any family man, thoughts of travel bring remembrances of traveling with the kids and all the challenges that presents.

I saw a proper saying the other day from author Robert Benchley who, no doubt, is or has been a family traveler. According to Benchley, "Traveling with children corresponds with third class travel in Bulgaria."

Very well put, Mr. Benchley. For all the wonderful things we have to say about our children . . . most of them are not said about the way they travel.

We've tried to be the model "travel parents." We read the magazine article about travel games and we make the advance preparations. Let's see, cassette players with lots of stories and books, counting games, songs, loads of toys, coloring books . . .

Finally, preparations are complete and the gang's loaded up. The kiddie cassette stories begin and all's well with the world.

We don't want the children eating or drinking in the car because we want the car to have some type of resale value at trade-in time. Yet, when six-year-old Kristopher and two-year-old Shanna start to whine ten minutes after we depart home, we find ourselves rather vulnerable to most of their demands.

"Are we there yet?" . . . How many more?" the questions soon begin. "Be quiet and drink your juice," we respond. Later we scream at them for spilling their drinks and wiping chocolate on the velour seats.

Last time we took a major trip I made my own advance preparations to better cope with our own traveling environment. After listing to Pete's Dragon twice and the Three Pigs a couple of times I grabbed my own set of headphones, plugged them into a portable stereo and cruised down the road listing to motivational tapes, intermixed with some of my own tunes (I'm not recommending this because I'm not sure it's legal in Texas for the driver to don headphones.)

Being able to relate to the trials of family travel is what made Chevy Chase's "Vacation" movie so funny. It was a series of events (quite exaggerated) that have happened to us during travel.

One of my very favorite parts of that show is the scene where the father (Chevy) and the mother are singing kiddie songs while the two junior high kids quietly slip on their headphones and jam out to some hard rock music.

Vacation season's right around the corner . . . may yours be filled with adventure and joy. --Brad Tooley in The Canyon News

HOGOBOOM NOT SO GOOD TRADE BAIT

Could it be that Gary Hogoboom has goofed?

The only Cowboy starting quarterback (remember when he started 10 games in '84 while Danny White was injured?) in recent memory not to have led Dallas to a playoff berth, Hogoboom has demanded to be traded because he never regained his starting status. In fact, he carried the issue too far and now can't turn back.

To his amazement, none of the other pro teams has knocked down the Cowboys' door in quest of a trade for Hogoboom, now regarded as the team's third string signal-caller.

Our guess is that he will eventually be traded for a marginal performer or a third round or lower draft choice. The only other alternative is his release by the Cowboys.

From this viewpoint, Hogoboom definitely has the arm and other physical tools necessary to be an NFL starting quarterback. He has not yet developed, however, the ability to spot open receivers. His high percentage of interceptions seem to be caused primarily by his forcing the ball into a crowd.

The only certainty at this point is that Gary H. will not be wearing a helmet with stars on the side this fall.

To demonstrate, she sang a few bars: "God Bless America, land that I love; Through the night with a light from a bulb."

That's the same daughter Old Unk took out in the woods several times and tried to lose, but each time he had to fetch her back so she could show him the way home. --Burnis Lawrence in The Crosbyton Review

IMPROVE THE SYSTEM?

"When Pilgrims landed in this country, there were no taxes, no depression, no foreign aid. The men hunted and fished. The women did all the work. Then the white man thought he could improve on that system." --Blackie Sherrord Agriculture is the life-blood of Floyd County. Let's all support it.

Help prevent sexual abuse of children

Sexual abuse of children is a serious problem in the United States. Sexual abuse may be defined as "anything sexual between an adult and a child in which the purpose is to gratify the sexual needs of an adult." Estimates of the incidence rate of sexual abuse vary, but many researchers agree that one in four girls and one in eleven boys have a sexual experience in childhood with a much older adult. While most sexual abuse victims are female, this may partially be due to the fact that males are much less likely to report sexual abuse. It is clear that the number of reported cases is just the "tip of the iceberg"; many children feel fear and guilt and do not report the incidents.

The popular image of the sexual offender as being a "pervert" or "molester" or "dirty old man" is not accurate. In from 60 to 80 percent of the sexual abuse cases the abuser is known to the child, either a relative, neighbor, or acquaintance of the victim.

Children need to be encouraged to report sexual abuse, for two main reasons:

1. Sexual abuse is not usually a single, isolated incident, but typically occurs repeatedly over a period of time, often years. If no intervention occurs, the abuse will continue for this particular child and may extend to other children as well.

2. The child may feel that he or she is to blame for the sexual episodes. The resultant guilt can have a devastating psychological impact on the child. This psychological trauma leads to the most long lasting damage to the child, not the physical trauma which may or may not occur. Therapy for the child needs to begin as soon as possible, to prevent lifelong psychological problems.

If a child reports a case of suspected sexual abuse to you, you should do the following:

1. Remain calm. The way in which the child's parents and involved professionals react are believed to be the most important factor in determining how traumatic the experience will be for the child. Your becoming emotional will not help.

2. Report the incident to your local Child Protective Services worker (in Lockney 652-2416 or 652-3548, in Floydada 983-2280, 24 hours a day) or on the toll free Child Abuse hotline (1-800-252-5400). In either case the incident will be investigated promptly and confidentially.

God's Glory In The Storm

The season for thunderstorms is now upon us. We are privileged to witness some of the most spectacular events of nature in the thunderstorms that roam the plains. Because of the favorable atmospheric conditions we often can see more clearly the clouds and lightning. Others who live in other parts of the world may never see these spectacles. Our thunderstorms are probably very similar to the storms that developed over the eastern Mediterranean Sea and moved inland over Palestine and neighboring states.

Long ago David was credited with authoring a song which captured the glory of God as seen in a thunderstorm. Apparently David intended that the song cause a remembrance, a feeling, and an acknowledgment of the power and protection of God over our lives. My sources reveal that Psalms 29 was sung at the close of the Festival of Tabernacles. The wheat and vintage harvests were past, the new year had just begun, and the end of six months of dry weather was replaced by the beginning of the winter rains.

Psalms 29 contains at least two elements about a thunderstorm which should cause us to worship God. First, a thunderstorm is known for the thunder, lightning, wind, and precipitation that it produces. Each of these characteristics can be seen as a blessing or a curse. The obvious power and potential for destruction of a thunderstorm gets our attention. Soon we will be reminded almost daily of the destructive force of the storms. The storm affirms that God is omnipotent, and yet that he protects us. God deserves our respect because of his power and his protection.

Secondly, the thunderstorm is a blessing. Even the rains or other forms of precipitation may be very destructive in some storms. However, the rains are usually welcomed. We ultimately depend for survival upon the rains that fall. We are essentially powerless without God's gifts from the storm. We may choose to live as though God is not our provider and sustainer, but Psalms 29 teaches us the truth. A thunderstorm is God's visual aid to instruct us to remember, to respect, and to acknowledge him. There is more to a thunderstorm than what we see, hear, and feel. It is our reminder that God is to be glorified by the way we live.

Registration is needed for care of children at home

Want to care for other people's children in your home? If so, you must register if:

- *you will be caring for six or fewer children (plus your own children and brothers and sisters of the other children during after-school hours. But you can't have more than 12 children at one time.);
- *the children are under 14 years old.
- *the care is less than 24 hours a day; and
- *the care is regular—for more than four hours a day, more than two days a week, and for at least five consecutive weeks.

Write, call, or visit a licensing office of the Texas Department of Human Resources (DHR). The people there will answer your questions and give you the papers you need to register.

You'll get instructions, forms, check lists, and other information. The check lists will help you make sure you're following the rules. (Otherwise, state courts may fine you or not let you operate.)

The rules are for the sake of the children. For instance, your home must be inspected for fire prevention, health, and safety. And parents must give you emergency medical information about their children.

When you're sure your home is set up by the rules, fill out the registration form and mail it to DHR. DHR will mail you a notice of registration and place your home on its list of Registered Family Homes.

After you're registered, DHR will be on call if you need help. There will be community child care workshops which DHR will invite you to.

A DHR representative will visit your home upon your request or if there is a complaint. Although the Department will not inspect your home routinely, a small number of homes will be visited—unannounced—each year.

Registration is to help you give children good care. By finding out who's registered, parents know which homes to choose from.

Everyone benefits. But registration also makes child care everyone's responsibility. You must supervise yourself. And parents help oversee the care of their children receive.

THEN and NOW!

To many the idea of gangsters brings to mind the 1920s and 1930s, when characters such as Al Capone ruled Chicago. His legacy lives on, at least in one form. Then: Al Capone controlled the Chicago underworld in the 1920s. His gang ran most of the illegal operations in the city. He was the sole chieftain of a vast illicit empire of misdeeds with an annual income estimated at $110 million. From 1928 to 1932, Capone's headquarters were located in the grand Lexington Hotel. In 1931, a federal jury convicted Capone of income tax evasions. On May 5, 1932, Capone left the hotel for Alcatraz Island to serve his sentence. He served almost eight years in prison and then retired to his home in Miami, Florida, where he died in 1947.

Then: In the 1930's, the underground vault owned by Al Capone was sealed with tar and cement.

Now: This once luxurious Lexington Hotel will be the site of a television special, during which Capone's vault will be cracked open on live television. Tribune Entertainment Company and The Westgate Group, the two-hour special will be hosted by Geraldo Rivera. Speculation as to the contents of the vault runs from cars and money to guns and bodies.
