Crappie fishing 'still good' at Mackenzie Lake

"Crappie fishing is still good" at Mackenzie Lake, according to an early week report from lake personnel. "Several nice fish were caught over the weekend, using minnows and white jigs up Tule Creek in about ten feet of water."

A lake record hybrid striper was reeled in Thursday morning by Don Montgomery of Amarillo. The fish weighed in at 11 1/4 pounds. Montgomery was using for bait a white Mr. Twister grub.

Mrs. Christine Smoot of Olton landed a 5 pound, 9 3/4 ounce largemouth bass on Saturday morning. Her bait was a minnow.

Lake officials report that "several nice, smallmouth bass were caught last week." Walleye and catfish are "still slow."

FIGHTING TERRORISM!

We don't like war, and we don't like instigating acts of aggression toward any country, but we have an overriding disdain for acts of terrorism and countries that make it a policy to blackmail the U.S. or any other peaceable country through such means.

To the surprise and shock of Americans, we have watched as the U.S. has taken the military initiative against Libya. War is never fair. Children and other civilians sometimes fall victim to such action instead of the irresponsible decision-makers who should reap the results of their inhumane actions.

It is a natural human response to question our country's attacks on Libya, and the subsequent repercussions. But we have confidence and trust in the judgement of President Reagan, his foreign advisors and staff to make the best decision for this country's future. Few times in history have the people of this country been so frustrated and angry as the months they sat through the hostage crisis in Iran, as well as other acts of defiance and killing which involved innocent civilians.

The U.S. has been the victim of terrorist actions for too long... and the situation has been perpetuated by our sometimes empty threats and exclamation of horror at crimes against U.S. citizens, as well as citizens of other peaceful countries.

Men and "mad dogs," like Moammar Khadafy, who condone and instigate such acts of slaughter against innocent citizens are on a level with those on death row... and should be due the same punishment.

Tornado scare!

On Sunday, May 4 a tornado was reported south of Plainview, where it struck a trailer house located on Highway 400, and was reported by Lubbock television stations to be headed for Lockney. It was also reported by the Hale County sheriff's department to be headed for Lockney.

The report from the Hale County sheriff's office came to Floyd County at about 11:02 p.m., the same time it struck the trailer house. At that time the sheriff's department notified the Lockney Volunteer Fire Department who immediately sent out two spotters. About a half hour later the fire alarm sounded calling out more spotters to help in watching the weather. There were about five local men out watching for serious weather which could hit Lockney, in addition to local sheriff's department deputies.

Several citizens had asked why the tornado alarm had never sounded for the Lockney residents to take cover when the reports came in. According to fire chief Craig Ellison "we had several spotters out and they determined that the cloud in question was going to miss the Lockney area and was headed North northeast toward Silverton. It completely missed the city of Lockney. We are trying to provide the best possible service to the community. We were out there watching and saw no danger to Lockney."

Ellison also commented on a cloud watch program which was held by the Fire Department several weeks ago. "We wanted to have the program for the citizens of Lockney. We invited more than 300 people from the various clubs and organizations and also the churches in Lockney to attend the program. On the date we scheduled the program we were unable to get a building big enough to accommodate the entire community so we invited club and organization members. Of the 300 invited only two people showed up. We were very disappointed at the turnout. We had invited two men from the National Weather Service in Lubbock to give the program. It was very informative and explained which clouds are dangerous to the community."

Ellison asked that the public be informed of the schedule of fire alarm bells which sound frequently in Lockney.

A normal emergency, such as fire, ambulance, wreck, etc., the alarm will ring three times in quick succession. A tornado or severe weather threatening Lockney will be signaled by eight (8) rings in succession followed by a pause and then eight (8) more rings. When the threatening situation is over the all clear signal will be two rings in succession followed by a pause and then two more rings.

It should also be noted that the fire department meets every second and fourth Tuesday each month at 7:30 and on those nights firemen will be called to the meeting by two rings of the alarm.

"The Lockney volunteer fire department is doing its best to keep Lockney covered whether emergency service, through the fire and ambulance vehicles, or through their weather watch system," commented Ellison.

In times like these... By Mary Jo Fielding

His tumble on the icy streets of Moscow was a harbinger of the difficulties lying ahead for a Soviet diplomat who has spent the last 24 years in the United States.

Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin took a spill in late March just before flying back to pack his bags in the U.S. where he was accustomed to much milder winters. Hobbled with a cane at the Soviet Embassy, the 66-year-old dean of the Washington diplomatic corps listened to a round of roasting before departing again in mid-April for his new post as one of 11 secretaries of the Communist Party.

Now Dobrynin faces the greatest challenge of his career: Finding the key to a stable, peaceful relations with the U.S. while Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev tries to rebuild the flagging Soviet economy. Dobrynin may also direct the campaign against the U.S. Stars space-defense program.

In Washington Dobrynin was as popular as an ambassador could be and still represent the Soviet Union. "My favorite Bolshevik" is what veteran diplomat Averell Harriman once called him. Others were charmed by his sense of humor and his ease in dealing with people.

Having visited 40 states and grown fond of such American fast-food restaurants, home movies and pop music, he may be more comfortable in the U.S. than in Russia, some say.

Lockney church youth compete in state finals

Seven members of the youth and children's Bible drill team from the First Baptist Church of Lockney competed in the state finals in Amarillo April 18-19.

Attending were Allen Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Bob Martin; Rance and Ryan Ford, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Ford; Timothy Manley, son of Mrs. Carol Manley; Hadley Fletcher, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Fletcher; Tami and Robert Vernon, daughter and son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Vernon.

Allen, Rance, Ryan and Timothy received "Excellent" ratings at the competition. Timothy and Tami received "Good" ratings.

The purpose of the youth and children's Bible drill is to help children increase their knowledge of the Bible, to develop skills in effectively using the Bible and to promote the development of memory skills.

To qualify for state competition the children must first be qualified in their local church and association. They were required to give quotations, complete phrases, recite the books of the Bible and to give scripture references for key passages in the Bible.

Attending with the group were Charlene Telez and Melissa Griffin. Leaders were Kay Martin and Mr. and Mrs. David Fletcher. Coaches for the Lockney Bible drill team are Ethelyn Vernon and Linda Stallings.

Ann Ford attends seminar

Ann Ford recently attended a seminar on the Lifecall Security System. She brought back information on a new system for calling for help when you cannot reach the telephone.

Lifecall is a miniature radio transmitter that you wear on your belt, around your neck, or carry in your pocket. It gives security to older or handicapped persons.

When a situation occurs that the wearer cannot reach the telephone he presses the button on the unit and within seconds this automatic digital telephone dialer sends your coded message electronically over telephone wires to a monitoring center. The signal is decoded, your identity is established and your problem evaluated. The system retrieves your name, address, directions for getting to you, the nearest ambulance service, police department, your key holder, pertinent medical information, your doctor's name and phone number and promptly notifies the professional services and help is on the way.

Ann stated that "There has been a three year government study which shows that users feel more comfortable living alone, have more peace of mind resulting in fewer medical visits. People are more satisfied with their living conditions and lives in general."

Fertilization is a key to successful gardening

A successful home garden in West Texas requires a fertilizer management program, say two specialists with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"All vegetables require relatively large amounts of plant nutrients," says Dr. Roland E. Roberts, Extension vegetable specialist. "Most home gardeners will have to provide additional nutrients by applying fertilizers or composts."

"If your soil is naturally rich in nutrients, you are lucky," adds Dr. Michael G. Hickey, soil chemist and director of the Extension Soil Testing Laboratory in Lubbock. "However, you may find it necessary to give your garden a nutritional boost through the use of fertilizers."

West Texas soils generally contain an adequate supply of essential plant nutrients, with the exception of nitrogen and phosphorus, the Extension specialists noted. In some soils and situations, iron and zinc may be needed in small quantities.

The amounts and types of nutrients required for your garden can be determined from a soil test by a qualified laboratory, such as the Texas Agricultural Extension Service laboratory at Lubbock, Roberts said. Local county Extension agents can explain the simple procedure for collecting and submitting a soil sample, he added.

Over-fertilization, especially with the "complete" fertilizers, not only wastes your money, but can cause gardening problems, Hickey said. "On many older gardening sites in our region, we find that excessive fertilization with phosphorus has induced zinc and iron deficiency," he said.

If you use a "complete" fertilizer, be careful, because it may contain nutrients you don't need, the soil chemist cautioned. Some "complete" fertilizers will contain trace elements or micronutrients which may be of limited usefulness for soil application, he added.

The content of most fertilizers is designated with three numbers on the label that indicate the percentage of total nitrogen, available phosphoric acid, and water soluble potash in the fertilizer. As an example, a "complete" fertilizer such as 10-10-5 contains 10 percent nitrogen, 10 percent available phosphorous, and 5 percent water soluble potassium. A nitrogen source, such as 21-0-0, contains 21 percent nitrogen, but no phosphorous or potassium.

Choice of a fertilizer material will depend on the type and amounts of nutrients needed, and the cost of the material. For example, Hickey said, if you are purchasing a fertilizer strictly for its nitrogen content and plan to apply it to the soil and till it in, you should buy the one in which the proper nitrogen amount is the least expensive.

Additional organic matter, such as compost, peat moss or manure, can benefit the home garden, Roberts said. Organic matter helps improve drainage and aeration in clay soils, and increases the water holding capacity in sandy soils. It will likely improve the general soil fertility of any soil, the specialists agreed.

Care must be taken with manure application, he cautioned. Nutrients—particularly phosphorous—will be added, but so will salts, which can be harmful. Don't exceed a rate of 10 pounds of dried manure or 50 pounds of feedlot or stable manure for each 100 square feet, they advised.

Compost is refuse that has been converted into a "synthetic manure," the Extension specialists said. Leaves, grass clippings, small prunings, weeds, and vegetable matter from the kitchen can all be used. "In our region, grass clippings will predominate," Hickey said. Depending on your lawn fertilization practices, compost from grass clippings will be high in nitrogen.

To utilize compost or peat moss, spread about five bushels of the material over 1,000 square feet and mix it thoroughly into the soil, Hickey said.

A new nationwide effort to provide more information to Medicare patients about hospital discharges and the patient's right to appeal discharge decisions was announced recently by Health and Human Services Secretary Otis R. Bowen, M.D.

Under the plan, information about discharge procedures will be provided to every one of the more than 9 million Medicare patients admitted each year to hospitals which are reimbursed under Medicare's prospective payment system. The information, prepared in consultation with organizations representing Medicare beneficiaries as well as national health care provider groups, will tell patients which information they are entitled to receive about their hospital discharge and how to appeal if they think they are being asked to leave too soon.

All 5,400 hospitals paid under the prospective payment system are providing the information to Medicare patients.

The prospective payment system, put into effect in October, 1983, changed the way Medicare pays for most hospital inpatient care. Under prospective payment, hospital services for Medicare patients are reimbursed according to diagnosis. The rates reflect average costs of treating specific conditions.

Beneficiaries should understand that Medicare does not tell doctors or hospitals when to discharge patients. That is a decision to be reached jointly by patients and their attending physicians.

Any Medicare patient who has a question about medical treatment, the need for continued hospital care or the discharge date should first consult the doctor. In addition questions can be addressed to the hospital's patient representative or discharge planning staff.

Under Medicare rules, hospitals must inform Medicare beneficiaries 48 hours in advance of a hospital-initiated discharge.

If the patients feel they are being asked to leave the hospital prematurely, they or their authorized representative should file an appeal by telephone or in writing with the peer review organization, a physician organization under contract with Medicare to review the hospital treatment of Medicare patients. The name, address, and telephone number of the peer review organization servicing that hospital will be listed on the written message.

The peer review organization will review the case in question and arrive at a decision within three working days after having received the appeal. If the decision supports the need for continued hospitalization, the patient can remain in the hospital under Medicare payment until the next discharge decision point is reached.

If the peer review organization decides that Medicare payment is no longer appropriate, the patient becomes liable for all hospital costs starting the third day after receiving the written discharge notice.

The Social Security office has a supply of sample notices similar to the type that will be given by hospitals to patients. Persons interested in receiving a copy can obtain one by contacting the Plainview Social Security office at 1401-B West 5th street, or call us at 293-9623.

U.S. action against Khadafy has not been a popular decision with the leadership of the majority of the other countries. But then the U.S. has seldom been perceived fairly by the rest of the world, even while many of these countries have been on the receiving end of an almost endless endowment of benevolences from the U.S.

On the other hand, we admire and respect Margaret Thatcher and the British government for standing by the United States as it makes a statement to the world that terrorism is not acceptable.

And we pray for the day when the U.S. and other countries can share a peaceful, respectful existence. —Brad Tooley, The Canyon News

NOTHING FOR NOTHING

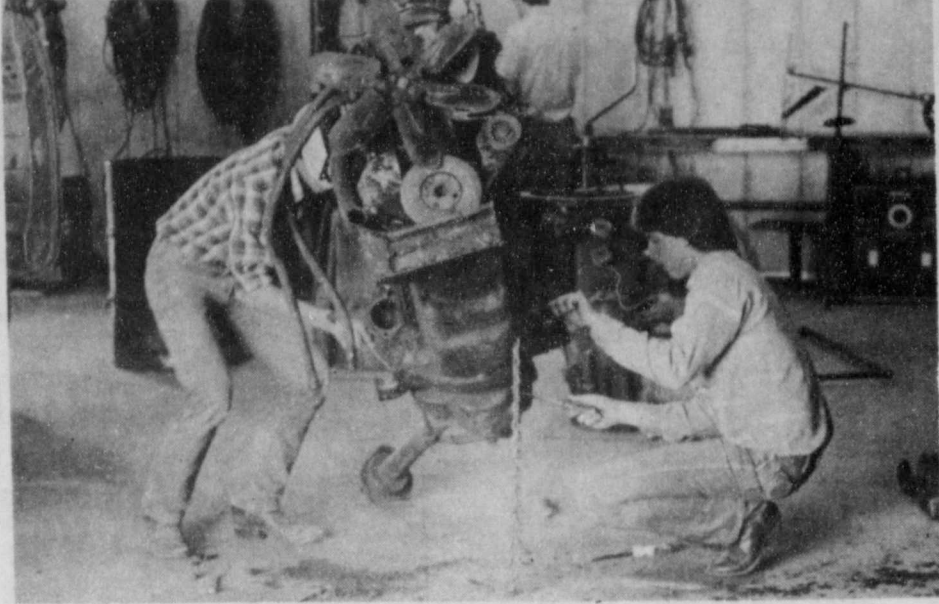

The members of the Rotan School board failed to act on an agenda item last Monday night entitled "life passes for board members" and in doing so passed up the opportunity to attend school sporting events and other admission functions for the rest of their lives -- free.

Their action, in my opinion, speaks highly of the caliber of people on the Rotan School Board as a body.

I don't suppose anyone would have really objected to the board voting themselves "free lifetime passes to school activities," after all they catch a certain amount of flak and some would say "that is a small payment for what board members have to go through."

I think their action last Monday night, by not approving "lifetime passes" for the board goes a long way in letting their community know that they are serving in their respective capacities out of "service to the public" and that's what they signed up to do.

I applaud the board, individually and collectively, for "taking no action" on the agenda item. —Kim Peace, Rotan Advance

GUESS WHO PAYS

Noticed in the Amarillo Daily News that "A District of Columbia city council panel has passed a bill to prohibit discrimination in health insurance against people who may have a high risk of developing AIDS."

"The bill's protections do not extend to people who have already been diagnosed as having Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome at the time they apply for health or life insurance. But the bill, subject to final approval by the City Council, would prohibit insurers from denying, canceling or altering coverage on the basis of an individual testing positive for exposure to the virus."

"An insurer also could not use age, occupation, sexual orientation or marital status to predict whether an individual may develop the often fatal disease in the future. And an insurer could not request a person to take a test to screen for exposure to AIDS within five years of the effective date of the law."

While not professing to know much about insurance, we've heard cases about people with major physical ailments who have had insurance coverage cancelled. Too, physical examinations are required for most insurance. Under the above mentioned proposals, AIDS patients could not be cancelled.

While the intent obviously is not to discriminate against que, oops, homosexuals — pushed by the Gay Rights Movement — this has all the earmarks of reverse discrimination.

Secondly, it is a firm indication of this nation's moral condition!

Garza placed second in the 1600 meter run with a time of 4:33, which was also his best time of the season. He beat his old record by four seconds.

Also qualifying and competing in the regional meet were Todd Hallmark in the 400 intermediate hurdles. His time was 42:80 which was his best time of the season even though he did not place at the meet.

Randy Race competed in the shot put and had a throw of 42 feet, eight inches but did not place at the regional meet.

Coach Mickey Crowe commented, "These young men have done a great job this year."

Lockney also had four young women competing in the regional meet. Melinda Molina ran the 1600 meter run with a time of 6:11 and placed 10th. Ron Thomas placed 8th in the shot with a throw of 31 feet 9 inches. Varie Harris did not place in the long jump, but she placed eighth in the triple jump with a jump of 33 feet, 7 inches.

Coach Patti Purser said, "No girls will advance to state, but each competed well with an all time best on their times and throwing distances. This was a good experience for these girls to participate and see what lies ahead for next year."

FFA members attend Area I convention

By Raetta Starnes

The F.F.A. chapters of Area I held their annual convention last Friday and Saturday, May 3 and 4, at Lubbock Monterey High School.

At 6:30 p.m., Friday afternoon, registration of voting delegates began.

The voting delegates from Lockney of the 1st session were Boyd Jackson, Aaron Kidd and Lori Smith. Rick Malir, national president, addressed the members and delegates and the meeting began. Sweetheart and talent teams were then elected to represent Area I at the state convention in July.

The next day at 7:30 a.m., registration of voting delegates once again took place. Voting delegates for the 2nd session from Lockney were Loretta Turner, Raetta Starnes and Lori Smith. The meeting was called to order by State President Aaron Alejandro of Area I. State and area officer elections were held at that time in which Bruce Cobb, member of the Lubbock Cooper Chapter and student at Texas Tech, was elected to be the nominee of Area I for state president. The new Area I president is Matt Snyder of Three Way. After Woody Glass, former Area I president gave his final farewell, Matt was inducted as the new Area I president. The convention then came to a close with the closing ceremony.

Those that attended from Lockney were Randall Robbins, chapter advisor, Robert and Scott Armstrong, Robert Wofford, Joe Widener, Jeff Webb, Raetta Starnes, Loretta Turner, Lori Smith, Aaron Kidd, Boyd Jackson, Rex Mathis and Ricky Basaldua.

Race, Stallings compete at State meet

For the second year in a row Lockney was represented at the State power lifting meet in Austin. On Saturday, April 26, Randy Race and Allen Stallings competed in the meet held in Gregory Gym in Austin.

Allen Stallings competed in the 123 point weight class where he finished 14th in the State. Allen had totals of 250 pounds in the squat, 185 on the bench press, and 320 in the dead lift. He is a junior and will be back for one more year on the Lockney power lifting team.

Randy Race competed in the super-heavy weight class. He also finished 14th in the State. Randy had totals of 390 in the squat, 270 in the bench press, and 500 pounds in the deadlift. Randy is a senior and will graduate this month. He is planning to attend Eastern New Mexico State and play football for the Greyhounds.

Coach Mickey Crowe said, "I was very proud of these two young men, just for making it to the State. This is a great accomplishment and they represented Lockney well."

Task force combats barky cotton

Farmers, research scientists and educators—backed by cotton industry agencies—are stepping up their battle against a problem which has cost cotton producers more than $85 million in a 14-year span.

Plains Cotton Growers, a Lubbock-based producer organization, and Cotton Incorporated, the producers' national research and promotion arm, have formed a task force to combat plant bark which frequently contaminates stripped fiber.

Other participants in the task force are the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, the Textile Research Center at Texas Tech University, the USDA-Agricultural Research Service Ginning Laboratory in Lubbock, the ARS of Clemson University, the Agriculture Marketing Service Classing Office, and the Natural Fiber and Food Protein Commission of Texas.

Pieces of bark picked up in harvesting add to the non-lint content in a bale of cotton, and is said to make some textile processing and spinning more difficult. Because of this, cotton containing bark is downgraded by federal classing offices and is sold on the market at discounted prices.

It can reduce the bale classification one or two grades, which can mean a loss to the producer of $5 to $20 a bale, explained Hal E. Brockman, senior vice president of research for CI.

"We realize (the cotton) is barky, but we don't know why it is getting in there. It's exceedingly expensive to the producer," said Tommy Fondren, Crosby County farmer and PCG president.

While research has been done to define and establish causes of barky cotton, it isn't clear why there is more bark in some years than others, Fondren said.

Figures compiled since 1967 by the Textiles Research Center at Texas Tech show that in the 25 cotton producing counties around Lubbock, the bark has ranged from a high of 68 percent in 1971 to as little as one percent in 1977. The 1985 crop is running between 25 and 30 percent bark, Fondren said.

Stressing that much work already has been done on the problem, Robert J. Boslet, CI president, noted that his organization has conducted 16 research projects on barky cotton since 1982.

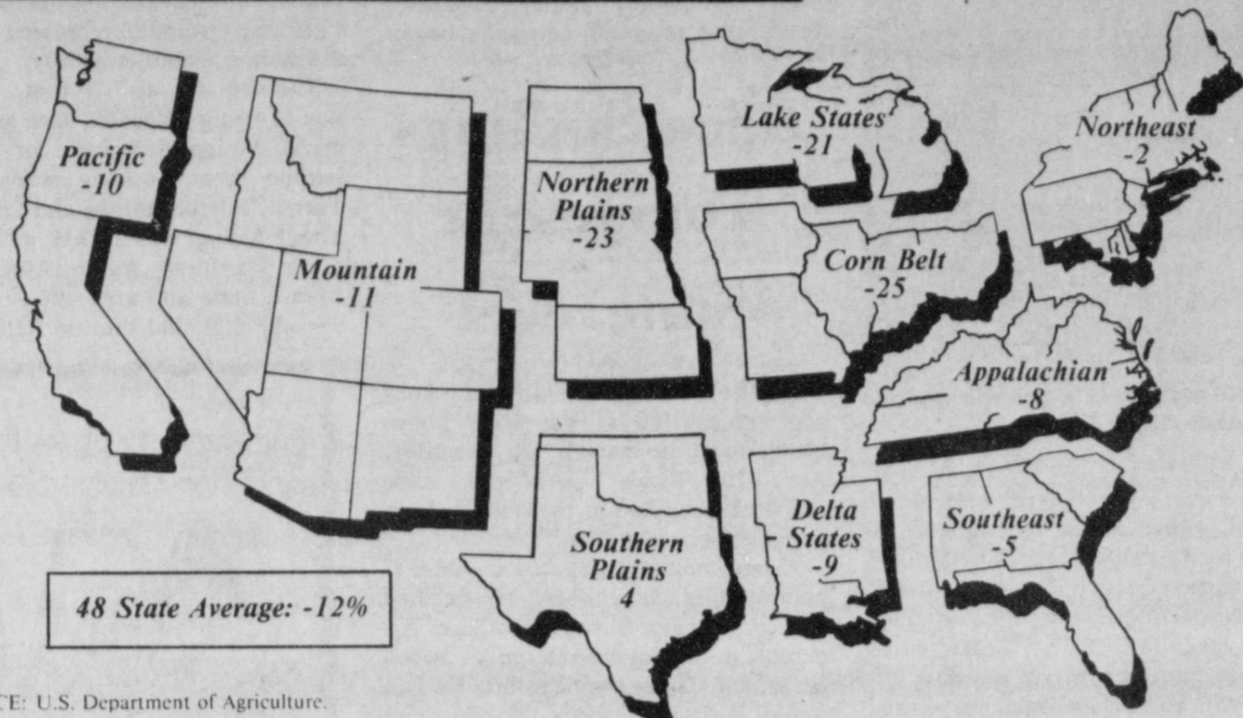

"We have been working at least five years with the (USDA-ARS) ginning laboratory north of Lubbock airport," and with the Experiment Station and Extension Service, and Texas Tech's Textile Research Center, Brockman said.

Many publications of the Extension Service and CI address the problem, Brockman said. "We are trying to bring together all this knowledge in a usable form for the producer."

A major part of the effort, he said, will be educational programs by the Extension Service to get the information from the task force to the producers.

"Cotton Incorporated's role, both as an integrated part of research and as coordinator between the Plains Cotton Growers and other public and private research sectors, will allow top researchers to work together to advance the profitability of barky cotton from farm to mill," Boslet said. He said CI has made an initial allocation of $30,000 to the work of the task force.

Temperatures mislead producers

Soil temperatures can help High Plains farmers establish a planting date for cotton, but several other factors also must be considered, says a cotton specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"Research studies have shown we are likely to get acceptable stands of cotton after the minimum soil temperature at the eight-inch depth averages 60-degrees Fahrenheit or more for at least 10 days before planting," noted Dr. James

R. Supak, Extension cotton agronomist. But producers also need to consider the calendar date, long-range weather forecasts and typical weather trends for the area, he cautioned.

Although several weather stations on the South Plains reported the 60 degree average minimum soil temperature was reached in mid-April, planting this early is risky, Supak said. Typically, this area can expect to receive more high winds, blowing sand, and several days of cool, wet weather into early May, he explained.

Thirty-day forecasts to mid-May generally predict near normal temperatures and near to slightly below normal rainfall for the South Plains. Long term weather records indicate that a drop in soil temperature can be expected during the first week of May.

"This follows rains triggered by cool fronts, which are common at that time of year," Supak said.

The relatively high soil temperatures reported in April may partly result from measurements being made in relatively dry soils, the Extension agronomist said. "In most irrigated fields, or those that received appreciable rainfall recently, the 10-day average soil temperatures are generally several degrees cooler," he said.

It isn't uncommon for the weather during the last few days of April to be more favorable for planting than the

High summer utility costs can be cut

Another sizzling Texas summer is approaching. For some consumers, that means paying high utility bills or enduring uncomfortable homes. In the typical Texas home, most annual utility dollars are spent on summer cooling. However, there are some uncomplicated measures which will help alleviate this problem.

An energy conserving lifestyle and an investment of time and money in home energy projects can yield savings on utility costs without affecting comfort. Anyone planning to build a new home should take advantage of the opportu-ity to generate long-term energy savings. A house which is designed, oriented, constructed, and operated properly may use half of the energy required to operate the typical Texas home of the same size.

The Floyd County Library is joining with the Energy Efficiency Division of the Public Utility Commission of Texas to inform Texans about the saving possible through residential energy efficiency. The public is invited to come by the library for brochures and information on saving energy in the home or building a new home for energy efficiency. For specific questions on energy efficiency topics, call the ENERGY HOTLINE, 1/800/643-SAVE. There is no charge for the brochures or the phone call. This project is a public service of the Floyd County Library and the Energy Efficiency Division of the Public Utility Commission.

SOLVE WATER PROBLEM

Professor Idris R. Traylor, director of the Texas Tech University International Center for Arid and Semi-Arid Land Studies (ICASALS), spent last summer examining ancient irrigation and water conservation techniques in the city of Avdat, located in the Negev Desert in Israel.

"People in Avdat practiced runoff agriculture. This method involves moving what little rain fell onto the crops by means of rock channels and catching it in storage reservoirs called catchments for later use. The area has very little rainfall, yet large orchards and crops

Farmers' Purchasing Power At All-Time Low For Third Time In Past Seven Months

Following upon a 3% decline in January, prices received by farmers dropped a further 2.4% in February. The February price level was 10% lower than for the same month a year ago.

Leading the decline were a 20% per cwt. drop in milk prices, a 20¢ a bushel decline on barley, a 14¢ drop per cwt. on grain sorghum, a decline of 4¢ on eggs, and drops of 4¢ a bushel on corn and 3¢ on wheat and oats. Minor gains were made in prices of soybeans, flaxseed, and wool.

Prices paid by farmers remained unchanged as a whole from January, with price declines for feed, fuels, and energy offsetting price increases for feeder livestock and family living.

Fuel prices took a sharp decline in February with bulk-delivered gasoline dropping 10¢ a gallon and diesel fuel prices dropping almost 13¢ a gallon from January. The gasoline price of $1.04 a gallon was at the lowest level since January, 1980, while the diesel price was the lowest since December, 1979.

With costs persisting at high levels and farm prices sagging—the U.S. farm parity ratio—the yardstick of the purchasing power of prices received by farmers dropped by two points to 49%, equalling the all-time low sustained in August and September of last year.

Initial Steiger PUMA tractor delivered in Minnesota

It was an historic day recently in Redwood Falls, Minnesota, at Schoffman, Inc., the tractor dealership where Steiger Tractor delivered its first PUMA 1000 to a proud owner. Tim Baune of Wabasso, Minnesota, and his father Ed were presented with a gold key to their new PUMA.

Baune's PUMA 1000 represents Steiger's entry into the under-200 HP tractor market. The PUMA, with its steerable front-axle option, allows the operator to attain precision row crop steering control by locking out articulation and making up to 12 degrees of steering adjustments in the rows with the front axle only.

At the end of the row, articulation locks back in automatically for a 12.8-foot turning radius.

USDA targets five million acres for leaveout program

Annual rental payments on the land will be limited to $50,000 per farmer and will be in addition to annual commodity program payments.

The signup earlier this year fell far short of the acreage expected to be accepted into the program, Harris points out. Nationally, about 838,000 acres of highly erodible cropland were entered into the CRP, with only 29,052 of those acres being in Texas.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture had initially targeted 5 million acres for the program in 1986—825,000 of those in Texas. Over a five-year period, the USDA hopes to put some 45 million acres of the nation's cropland into the program, with 11.5 million acres targeted in Texas.

According to Harris, bid prices on land accepted into the program during the first signup period ranged from $5 to $90 per acre across the nation, with the average being $41.82.

"Acceptable bid rates in Texas ranged from $35 per acre in western sections to $50 an acre in coastal and southern parts of the state," notes Harris. "Acceptable rates for the second bidding period are not dictated by those accepted during the first round. Producers are encouraged to submit bids that are reasonable from their standpoint since the bids could become 10-year contracts."

Texas savings bond sales up 15%

Sales of U.S. Savings Bonds for the first two months of 1986 in Texas amounted to $61,167,991, an increase of $8,922,042 for 14.6 percent over the January-February 1985 period. T.J. Morrow, district director for U.S. Savings Bonds Division in Dallas, announces. These sales represent 16.5 percent of the state's 1986 assigned dollar goal of $370 million.

February sales of Series EE Bonds were $33,072,650, an increase of 11.4 percent above February 1985.

Sales of Series EE Bonds amounted to $32,817 during February 1986 in Floyd County, Lewis McDaniel, volunteer

February 1986 total for the county was $41,152,000, which represents 27.8 percent of the county's 1986 assigned dollar goal.

Nationally, February 1986 sales of Series EE Bonds totaled $520 million, an increase of 32 percent over February 1985 sales and marks the first time February sales exceeded $500 million since 1979. Sales of U.S. Savings Bonds for the first five months of fiscal 1986 increased 40 percent and redemptions decreased 12 percent compared to the same period for 1985. Savings Bonds held by the American public reached an all-time high of $80.83 billion during county chairman, says. The January-

February. Much of the sales growth can be attributed to the new market-based rate which was effective November 1, 1982. The current rate in effect (November 1985 thru April 1986) for bonds held five years or longer is 8.36 percent. The average rate since November 1, 1982 is 9.69 percent. Bonds held at least five years earn 85 percent of the average rate on five-year Treasury marketable securities during the holding period or 7.5 percent, whichever is more. Bonds held less than five years earn interest on a fixed, graduated scale.
