SPAG seeks seed money for rail spur

South Plains shippers, counties and cities will be asked to provide $30,000 in "seed money" to be used to purchase railroad spurs serving those communities, members of the South Plains Rural Rail Transportation District Board said Tuesday.

The affected railway spurs lie in eight counties - Lubbock, Crosby, Floyd, Hockley, Terry, Lynn, Gaines and Dawson. All commissioners courts, except those in Lynn and Gaines counties, have approved resolutions to join a special district to purchase the rural rail spurs and operate shortline railroads. State law allows creation of these special districts, however the districts have no taxing authority and must generate revenue through user fees.

Floyd County has appointed Commissioner-Elect Connie Bearden, to represent the county in this special district.

Tim Pierce, South Plains Association of Governments director of economic development, said Santa Fe Railway announced plans more than a year ago to sell or abandon 224 miles of rail spurs in the Lubbock area. The spurs are in the above mentioned counties.

Pierce said the Texas Railroad Commission provided a $20,000 grant and another $8,500 was raised from South Plains communities for a feasibility study by Wilbur Smith Associates, a Columbia, S.C., rail planning consultant.

That study, which was completed in June, set a net value of about $8 million on the rail spurs and real estate, and estimated that another $17 million in repairs would be needed, Pierce said.

According to Pierce's assumptions the five spurs could be purchased for about $4.5 million and another $3.5 million would be needed for repair on the lines. He also estimates that the district would need $2.2 million a year for operating expenses debt repayment.

The assumption also includes a projected $2 million grant from the Economic Development Administration.

According to a story in the Lubbock Avalanche Journal, Pierce said a Pennsylvania council of governments recently used a combination of federal, state and local funds to finance the purchase of rail spurs from Conrail, and Pierce said he will contact that group to see how they put that package together.

The Avalanche story further states that Lubbock County Commissioner Boyd Roberts said the district needs additional information on revenues and railroad operations before negotiating with Santa Fe.

Whether the district raises the $25,000 to $30,000 from shippers and local governments will be an indication of the support for keeping the rail spurs, Roberts said.

Commissioner Bearden stated that he will be calling a meeting in the very near future inviting all interested parties to determine if Floyd County desires to participate in the possible purchase of the rail lines.

According to Bearden, Floyd County will have to raise $5,000 for their portion of the next step in the possible acquisition.

Ten burglaries in Floyd County have been cleared and property recovered, with the arrest of a 21-year-old Plainview man. The man remains in the Hale County Jail on warrants charging him with burglary of a vehicle in Lockney and in Floydada.

The burglary he is currently charged with occurred on the night of Nov. 23. A 1987 Chevrolet pickup truck belonging to Dick Ellison of Lockney was broken into and stolen was a Remington Model 1100, 12 gauge shotgun.

Formerly, Mr. Ellison had the serial number of his shotgun recorded at his home. The description of the shotgun and serial number were entered into the crime computer.

On Friday, Nov. 25, Hale County Sheriff Charles Tue contacted Chief Leonard Gilroy, Lockney, and reported that the shotgun that had been stolen was located at the Mogg's Auction Service in Plainview.

On Saturday, Nov. 26, the Plainview man who sold the shotgun to the auction service was questioned by the Hale County Sheriff's Department, the Lockney P.D. and the Floydada P.D. The suspect confessed to six burglaries in Floydada and four burglaries in Lockney. A large amount of stolen property was recovered from the suspect and his home in Plainview.

"We were, the Lockney and Floydada Police Dept., being eaten up with burglaries. Dick Ellison having the serial number from his shotgun was the break we needed to clear not only his burglary but many others," stated Chief Gilroy. "We have had seven guns and a lot of tools stolen but no one had the serial numbers on the guns or had their tools engraved with their driver's license number."

"All the burglaries would still be unsolved if Mr. Ellison had not recorded the serial number on his shotgun. We cannot tell you how important it is to record the serial numbers on your guns and engrave your Texas drivers license number on your tools and other property. Without identification chances of getting your property back, when stolen are slim."

Other burglaries which had occurred earlier in the week and which were cleared up with this arrest were as follows:

Nov. 24 a 1987 pickup was burglarized in southwest Lockney. Taken in the burglary was a Remington 12 gauge shotgun valued at $350.00. A vent window was broken to gain entry;

Nov. 24 a GMC Van was also burglarized in southwest Lockney. Taken was a flashlight and jumper cables;

Nov. 25 a 1984 pickup was burglarized in southwest Lockney. Taken was a toolbox and a .22 semi-automatic rifle.

Christmas at the Museum

The Floyd County Historical Museum and all of the museum board members extend an invitation to everyone in the community to attend Christmas at the Museum '88.

This Christmas party, an annual event at the museum, will be held from 2:00 p.m. until 4:00 p.m. on Sunday, December 4. The site of the festivities is north of the courthouse in downtown Floydada. According to museum officials, "The party is our gift to the people of Floyd County and we hope to see everyone on Sunday afternoon."

Twenty-five board members have committee assignments for the party, covering all aspects of the yuletide celebration from exhibits to refreshments, from greetings to goodbyes.

June Sherman of Lockney and her committee will be staging a special one week display of afghans. More than 25 of the handcrafted covers will be featured in the exhibit. Many of the afghans have a history spanning years while others will be completed just in time for the party.

Stated Sherman, "We decided to feature afghans at our annual party because so many Floyd County people collect or create them in their homes." She added, "The afghan is a work of art and the museum will furnish a special place to display them."

The afghan display will be on exhibit from Sunday, December 4, until Friday, December 9. Anyone having an afghan they would like to see included in the display should bring it to the museum no later than Friday, December 2.

Edwina Hollums of Floydada and her refreshments committee will be serving refreshments from an old black cook-stove which has been set in place. The stove was utilized for many years by the Hollums family and is one of many items donated to the museum in the past.

Earl Brose of Lockney will entertain with renditions of both Christmas and country western music during the party.

An "old fashioned" Christmas tree and assorted Christmas decorations will grace the museum interior thanks to Nancy Marble and her decorations committee. Among the decorations will be "two bushels" of red and green paper chains contributed by second grade pupils at A.B. Duncan Elementary School.

Other museum officials will be on hand to man the registration table, show the museum exhibits and greet guests at the front door. And of course, Santa Claus will be Santa!

Anyone having Christmas items they would like to see displayed at the museum only on the day of the party should contact the museum by Friday, December 2.

Lockney teachers conduct writing workshops

Linda Terrell and Kay Williams, teachers in the Lockney school system, and Jody Nance Stansell, formerly from Lockney and a teacher in the Lubbock school system, were invited to participate as a Texas Tech Fellow in a summer institute on the teaching of writing.

The institute is held at Texas Tech University and is sponsored by the Caprock Area Writing Project. The project is funded by a grant from the University of California at Berkeley and with matching funds from the Texas Tech University Office of Development. They receive support from several independent school district in the area, one of which is Lockney.

Outstanding teachers of composition from the area are brought together and they work to extend their knowledge of the writing process. They work to improve the quality of the writing their students do.

Twenty teachers are chosen for each class. Each must be a successful practicing teacher. In classes they work on all subject matters. They share methods, which have worked in their classrooms, with each other and according to the teachers they have fun doing it.

When Terrell and Williams finished their ten week courses they became teacher consultants and are co-ordinators of classes being taught in Lockney to Lockney teachers at the present time.

The Lockney I.S.D. began ten week writing workshops in October. They have met in the Home Economics Department on Tuesday nights and have studied ways of teaching writing. Teachers have come from other schools and held the classes.

Those teachers participating are Leslie Patterson, Jontha Lee Mercer, Linda Marr, Billie Lam, Shelia Poole, Terri Fortenberry, Charlanne Burson, Zeldia Ellison, Amy Brice, Margie Savage, Trenea Aston, Jim Haney, Tonda Jolly, Jeanette Marr, Janice Moerbe and Karla Robnett.

These teachers teach kindergarten through twelfth grade. Language arts, Math, Science, Social Studies, Home Economics, Chemistry, Biology, English, and Spanish are some of the varied classes the teachers teach and they plan to incorporate the writing lessons into all of them.

Linda Terrell, Lockney junior high Language Arts teacher states "The best way to learn to write is by writing. I believe students should write daily."

"I begin my classes with writing and I try to make the topics so exciting and interesting that the students actually look forward to the activity.

"This takes much pre-planning and organization, but it's worth it! As the year progresses I see the students writing improve."

Students are encouraged to write to discover and write to express and evaluate ideas.

Teachers who teach students to write instill in them a life skill. They are better able to create their own individual voices. They are more capable of thinking situations through, and coming to logical conclusions are made simpler.

Teachers have reported that student scores on the essay portions of the TEAMS (Texas Education Assessment of Minimum Skills) tests have improved. These tests are required statewide.

Lockney schools have been ranked in the top ten percent of the best schools in the state of Texas. Part of the evaluation included the TEAMS test scores. These test are given in the uneven school years, third, fifth, seventh, ninth and eleventh.

Kay Williams, language arts teacher at high school says, "I am convinced that if all teachers will instruct and encourage their students everyday to write what they have learned or have not learned, we will see a rebirth of literacy in the United States."

Duvall stated, "That saw has cost me a lot of money, but I have enjoyed it."

There are many wooden items in the store. They range from tulips to toy boxes, shelves to sleighs, quilt racks to small tables and chairs for children.

Duvall has taken his work to several arts and crafts shows in the area but according to him, "The orders I took for items to be delivered later, got to be too much like work."

Wood items can be bought either stained or natural and ready to paint.

Duvall's Country Craft will be open from 9 to 5 and is located one and one half miles west of Lockney on Highway 70.

Children's choir perform at First Baptist Church

Donald Webster, music minister of First Baptist Church, Lockney, announces the "Kids of the King" (children's choir) presentation of "The Mall and the Night Visitor," on Monday evening, December 12, at 7:00 p.m. Admission is free and everyone is welcome to attend. Refreshments will be served in the fellowship hall following the performance.

The Christmas musical is composed by Betty Hager and Fred Bock. The presentation is under the direction of Zella Ellison, the children's choir coordinator. She is assisted by Sandra Cummings and Johnny Dorman.

"The Mall and the Night Visitor" is a musical that is inspiring as well as fun. It is a story written in attempt to answer the question, "Can the Spirit of Christmas be found anywhere these days?" An investigative angel, dressed to look like Sherlock Holmes, is sent from Heaven to check on popular shopping malls around the country. At the Spend-it-all Shopping Mall, Sherlock Jones (our hero!) discovers that stores in the Mall are dispensing all sorts of holiday spirit, mostly the wrong kind, until he happens along little Jessica, who, by her loving and caring, exemplifies the true Christ-like Spirit of Christmas. As everyone's attention is drawn to the mall's creche display, the baby Jesus becomes the clear focus. He is the reason for the season, and He is the true Spirit of Christmas!

Children participating are: Coby Marr, Brady Marr, Tiffany Ellison, Kelli Clark, Leanne Galloway, Mandy Galloway, Mary Lindsey Poole, Cynthia Martin, Sarah Martin, Josh Robnett, Julie Robnett, Eric Bartlett, Christy Armstrong, Jeffery Griffith, Kim Cumbe, Christopher Manley, Joe Marks, Erin Shaeffer, Aaron Graham, Heather Graham, Jason Clark, Arthur Herrell, Leslie Hickerson, Adam Cummings, Dottie Jo Harrison, and Cory Harrison. Allen Martin will be helping out, also.

The manger scene will be portrayed by the younger children. Those children are: Micah Higgs, Gray Higgs, Robert Bartlett, Katrina Bartlett, Rachelle Webster, William Herrell, Courtney Cummings, Alana Galloway, April Dorman, Melissa Shaeffer, and Janel Rodriguez.

THE NIGHT BEFORE CHRISTMAS 1988

Arts Association presents original Christmas play

Floyd County Arts Assn. is sponsoring an original stage play, The Night Before Christmas 1988. The one hour musical by Penguin Productions will be performed by professional actors who will be touring the states of Texas and Louisiana during the month of December. It will be held in Floydada on December 5 at Duncan Elementary at 3:30 p.m. and in Lockney at the elementary school on December 6 at 9:45 a.m.

Penguin Productions is a touring theatre company whose staff is dedicated to bringing wholesome, quality entertainment to children. Since 1979, the company has produced 25 tours, performing for hundreds of thousands of excited school children. Actors chosen to tour with Penguin Productions go through an extensive audition conducted before each production.

The original The Night Before Christmas 1984 was such a success that the producers decided to continue this show as a Christmas tradition. The storyline remains unchanged, but each year the script is updated to depict the trends and fashions of that year.

The play takes place in Santa's workshop and the cast includes Mrs. Claus, Rudolf, elves, and two children of 1988 America. In order to please the striking elves and reindeer, Santa must convince these modern children to enjoy their childhood and not to be in such a hurry to grow up. He succeeds in a funny and very touching 60 minutes that bring out the holiday spirit in everyone.

Lockney Hospital holds blood drive for holidays

The holiday season is one of laughter, joy and gift-giving. Many patients in area hospitals await the life-saving gift of blood.

Lockney General Hospital is sponsoring a holiday blood drive at the Lockney Beacon Friday, December 16th 3:00pm to 6:00pm.

December is traditionally a time of decreased blood donations. Donors are busy with holiday preparations. Blood drives are not as frequent, which makes collecting 100 pints per day very difficult. This is the amount required to service area hospitals, including Lockney General, on a daily basis.

To help meet this community's blood need, please plan on giving the Gift of Life on December 16th. For more information, call the hospital at 652-3373, or United Blood Services at (806) 797-6804.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Lockney Beacon,

I would like to submit this article for possible print. I think the latter part will reflect the feelings of a growing number of citizens in Lockney. If it accomplishes nothing else, I hope it will cause people of every age, sex, color, religion and national origin to begin thinking about solutions to an increasing problem that exists in our community.

For the first time in a number of years I laid in bed awake far into the early hours of the morning listening to every sound that came from outside the house. My senses quickened by a recent burglary that left my two vehicles with shattered windows, I got up several times just to pace the floor, wondering if the night would bring another crime that would touch the lives of innocent people. Not since my last night in Can Tho South Vietnam had I experienced the paranoia that comes from knowing that darkness is a shield to the enemy. I recalled the stories told by Vietnamese peasants living in rural areas of South Vietnam, of how they lived in constant fear of their property being destroyed and their lives being taken by the hands of communist aggressors determined to enlist loyalty to the National Liberation Front. I remembered staying awake in a mosquito infested bunker listening for the smallest sound that could be the only warning of an approaching Vietcong bent on destruction and murder.

A movement in one of the children's rooms brought my thoughts back to reality. Suddenly I thought to myself, "What am I thinking?" "This is Lockney, Texas, rural America not Vietnam." "Rural towns are where people choose to live to experience a quality of life that is far removed from fears associated with communist aggression." "As rural Americans we are suppose to be able to rest at night without the worry of someone destroying, stealing or threatening our property." Convincing myself I was making too much out of recent events, I returned to my bedroom and went to sleep.

The following day, the Lockney Beacon revealed I was not the only person in our small town to be the victim of crime during the past week. Not only had other property been vandalized, burglarized and damaged but also, two very special people in our community returned home to be confronted with a burglar armed with a butcher knife. Suddenly I realized my thoughts had not been as irrational as I had concluded. That article in the paper and the previous vandalism at my home lead me to believe there certainly was a valid reason to fear for our property and lives, even in Lockney.

It is not that I felt I was immune to crime and suddenly found myself vulnerable, nor have I been so naive to think that crime has not been a part of rural life. The difference for me is that crime in our town appears to be getting worse and I am angry! I am sick and tired of seeing peoples lives torn by the cruel actions of thugs who have no regard for the value of human lives and property. I am appalled to watch the face of our town gradually beginning to look like a

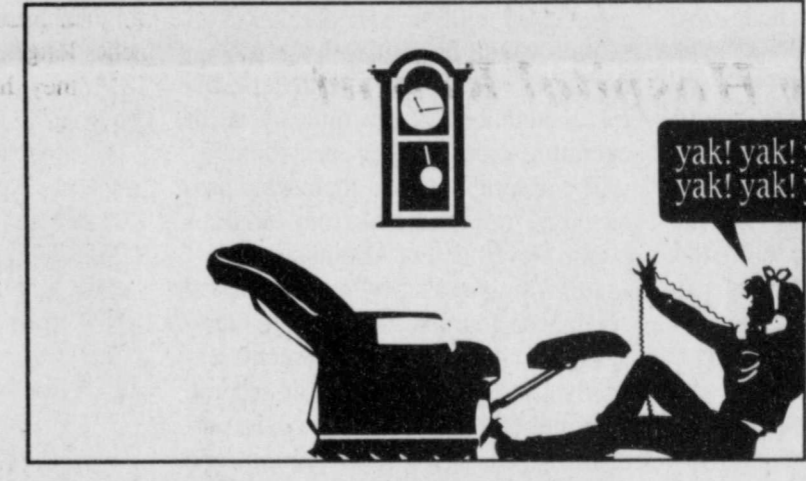

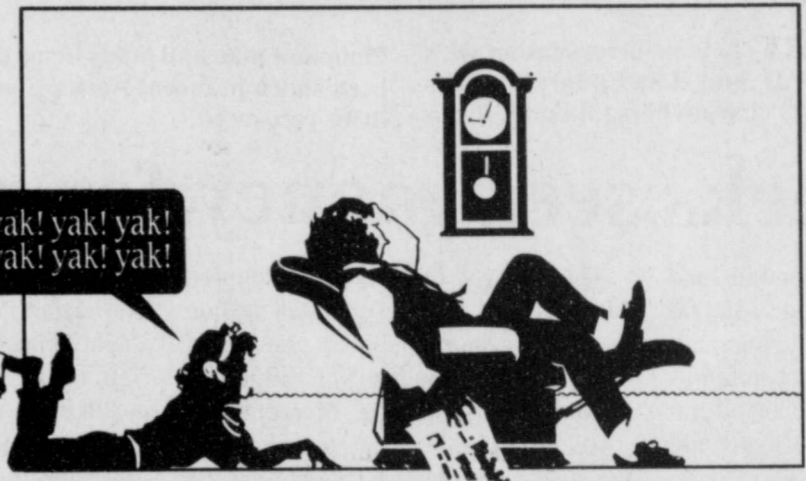

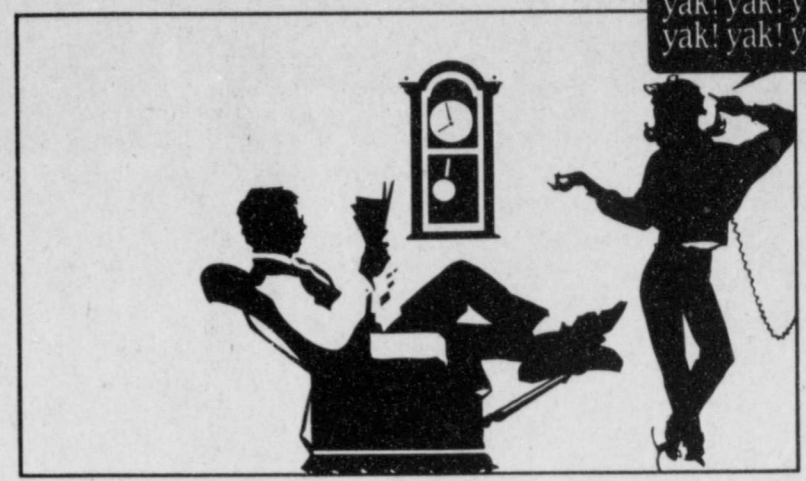

New York City subway station because of vandalism. I am outraged to hear of the perpetual exposure and availability of drugs to the school age children of our community.

What can we do? One strategy I know will not work is to passively set back and do nothing. I do not know what the answer is but I think it is high time we as citizens of Lockney band together in one common goal of developing solutions to the problems of crime in our community. I think our law enforcement officers are doing all they can legally do. It is becoming more and more apparent that we as citizens must also intervene in some manner of support in this war on rural crime. One thing for certain, if we do nothing, everyone will eventually experience the anger and humiliation of having their Constitutional rights of freedom violated.

Terry Keltz - an angry citizen.
