

Five Floyd County men listed on memorial wall

The names of five young men from Floyd County are among the 58,156 names of servicemen killed or missing in the Vietnam War that are etched on the Vietnam Veterans Memorial in Washington, D.C.

The soldiers from Floyd County who lost their lives are Timothy James Hartman and George William McGhee of Lockney and Ken D. Burns, Tommie D. Emert and Bernard Jaffe of Floydada.

Residents of the south plains of Texas have an opportunity to see a replica of the Vietnam Veterans Memorial at 19th Street and Boston, on the Texas Tech University campus in Lubbock. The exhibit will be open through March 4.

During a ceremony Sunday the names of 135 servicemen from West Texas who lost their lives in the war were read. They included the five from Floyd County.

At the end of the reading the comment, "We shall never forget them" was made by Sal Garcia.

The replica is a half scale of the original. It is known as the "Moving Wall" and is 253 feet long.

Many families who have been unable to travel to Washington, D.C. have found the names of their sons and daughters etched in the metal of the replica.

The idea for the memorial was the brainchild of Jan Scruggs who had served in Vietnam in 1969-70 as an infantry corporal. He wanted to recognize those men and women who had served in Vietnam.

No federal funds were set aside for this memorial and it took Scruggs two years to raise the money needed. Contributions came in from over 275,000 individuals and amounted to nearly $9,000,000.

Maya Ying Lin, a Yale architecture student, designed the memorial. She stated, "The memorial appears to be a rift in the earth, a long polished black stone wall, emerging from and receding into the earth."

"Death is in the end a personal and private matter and the area contained within this memorial is a quiet place meant for personal reflection and private reckoning."

There were four standards set for the design of the wall. It must be harmonious with its surroundings, be reflective and contemplative in character, contain the names of those who had died in the war or who were still missing and make no political statement about the war.

A design contest was held and Maya Ying Lin was the winner.

More people visit the memorial in Washington, D.C. than any other monument. Many tears have been shed. Flowers and notes are left regularly and it gives time for remembering and reflecting.

Following is a list of those from Floyd County who served their country and fellowman in the Vietnam War between the years of 1964 and the early 1970's:

PCG director election is Monday

Floyd County cotton producers and agribusinessmen will elect a Producer Director to Plains Cotton Grower's Inc. at a 7:30 a.m. meeting on Monday, March 6 at Nielson's Restaurant in Floydada.

Announcement of the election comes from J. Kevin Belt of Lockney, current Floyd County Producer Director to the 25 county cotton organization, and Delton Stone, also of Lockney, Businessman Director.

Each of the counties in PCG territory has two directors, one a businessman and the other a cotton producer. They are elected on alternate years for two year terms. Each is eligible for election every second year.

All producers and businessmen are invited to the meeting. However, under PCG by-laws, only current dues paying members of PCG will be eligible to be elected a director or to vote in the election. This provision of the by-laws will be fully explained at the meeting.

A PCG representative will conduct the election, review and answer questions about recent and planned PCG activities.

Money could come your way

There could be money in your future if your name appears on the 1989 version of the Texas Treasury Unclaimed Money Fund List to be published in 19 large metropolitan newspapers on Sunday, March 5.

Names listed under the Lockney section of the list include Mr. and Mrs. D.M. Codgell, Jr., Santiago Jackson, Bonnie Timothy Johnson, Rick Kellison, T. V. Rankin, and Thomas Oliver Simpson

According to state treasurer Ann Richards, more than 110,000 Texans have a total of $60 million in lost or forgotten money coming to them this year. The 110,000 are named in the above-mentioned directory soon to be released. All listed accounts, other than those from safe deposit boxes, are worth at least $50.00 with the largest account totaling $177,000. Safe deposit boxes are listed regardless of the value of the contents.

Generally, accounts on the list are from checking or savings accounts, utility deposits, oil royalties and corporate stock. Most accounts are dormant three to five years before being turned over to the state.

Persons finding their names or the names of deceased relatives on the list may call the Texas State Treasury at 1-800-654-3463 which will open March 5 at 12:00 noon. Those listed or their heirs may also write to: State Treasury, P. O. Box 17728, Austin, Texas 78745.

Money which is not claimed is used by the state for education and general state services such as highways and law enforcement.

The BBB of the South Plains advises consumers to exercise CAUTION in getting involved with a new pyramid scheme entitled 24 Hour Madness Dash for Cash. From the number of phone calls received by the BBB, Postal Inspector and police, it is evident that an "epidemic" of this quasi chain letter has hit the South Plains. In this particular version, participants use money orders as the basis of exchange. Local businesses selling money orders report a great volume of business due to this activity. Chamber banquet features humorist

John Erickson will be the speaker for the annual Lockney Chamber of Commerce banquet. The event is scheduled for 7:00 p.m., Friday, March 10, in the elementary school cafeteria.

Tickets are priced at $7.50 for the meal and program and $3.50 for the program and are available from any Chamber director or the following: First National Bank; Consumers Fuel, Schacht Flowers, Lockney Gin; D. & J. Gin; elementary school, junior high school; high school; Dee Copeland's office; and J. & K. Insurance.

Current directors of the Chamber are: David Foster, president; Jim Bob Martin, vice president; Merle Mooney, secretary; and J. D. Copeland, treasurer; Larry Mullins; Floyd Evans; Johnny Dorman; Buddie Robnett; Nelda Howard; Robert Delgado; Margaret Schacht; Gayle Reay; Mike Mooney; Jack Covington; and Terry Keltz.

Identities of the communities "Man of the Year", "Woman of the Year", and "Family of the Year" will be revealed at the banquet.

The honorees have been chosen by a committee consisting of community organizations and churches.

BBB warns against chain letter fraud with this type of scam, the person at the top of the ladder (the one who started it) gets all the cash and there comes a time when those involved reach what is termed "the saturation point" (this happens when there are no more people to ask to participate). It is mathematically impossible for everyone to make a lot of money with this kind of get-rich-quick scheme.

The U.S. Postal Service states that as long as the mail service is not used for ANY part of the promotion, it would not be considered a chain letter; however the P.O. is extremely interested in knowing if the mails are used in this scheme. If people's names and addresses show up as participants on a letter, they can be tracked down by the Postal authorities if an investigation is started.

Microwave popcorn lacks nutritional value

Popcorn, loaded with saturated fats, salts, flavorings and preservatives for microwave ease, is far from the nutritional, low-calorie snack many Americans think they are eating.

"Unlike the traditional Indian health food with about 25 calories and loads of fiber per cup, microwave popcorn can be a nutritionally questionable snack," said Dr. Mary Kinney Sweeten, a registered dietitian with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

More than 70 brands of microwave popcorn lined grocery shelves to meet the 11.9 billion quart-demand for popcorn that Americans ate last year.

"Taste-teasing flavors contain 4.5 and 7.9 teaspoons of fat in a typical two-to-three serving pouch," Sweeten said. "Fat is used for cooking ease, not flavor."

A few companies are offering microwave popcorn for the health conscious, providing salt-free and artificial butter varieties.

A revolution to reduce saturated fat in the diet has Americans shying from fats, coconut oil, and palm kernel oil to less saturated vegetable oils, she said.

"Health-conscious popcorn eaters should read the fine print on packages, noting that avoiding butter-flavored popcorn does not necessarily eliminate fat intake," Sweeten said.

The best advice for the health-conscious popcorn consumer is to stick with air-popped with butter flavored salt or chili powder to add flavor, she said.

"If you must have microwave popcorn, read the label and buy the brand with the lowest fat content per serving," Sweeten said.

Girl Scouts focus on world peace

Girl Scouts focused on world peace through world friendship during February. Lord Baden-Powell, who founded both Girl Guides and Boy Scouts in England, and his wife, Lady Olave Baden-Powell, who served many years as World Chief Guide, shared a February 22nd birthday. In honor of their expansion of the two organizations around the world, Girl Scouts held special observances. Family banquets with international themes; individual troop ceremonies honoring the 1989 hundredth anniversary of Lady Baden-Powell's birth; multi-troop festivals with each troop presenting aspects of a different country; international pen pals and foreign foods tasting teas are some of the ways Girl Scouts celebrated. There are 112 member nations in the World Association of Girl Guides and Girl Scouts. Junior high and senior high-age Girl Scouts are preparing for a 1991 first-hand experience in world friendship—a trip to Our Chalet in Adelboden, Switzerland, one of 4 World Centers maintained by the World Association.

Monday and Tuesday meetings set for Federal Crop Insurance and the Texas Agriculture Forum

All Texas agricultural producers, processors and suppliers will have the opportunity to participate in two events scheduled for their benefit in Lubbock, one on March 6 and another March 7, according to Donald Johnson, Executive Vice President of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc.

The first, on Monday, March 6, is a meeting of the Texas Agricultural Forum, beginning at 8:00 a.m. in the Holiday Inn-Civic Center, 801 Avenue Q.

On the following day, Tuesday, March 7, a hearing will be conducted by The Commission for Improvement of Federal Crop Insurance. Registration for the hearing will begin at 9:00 a.m. in Lubbock Plaza, 3201 South Loop 289.

The Texas forum was organized in 1984 to bring out in public discussions the options and alternatives facing agriculture. It is made up of representatives from established agricultural commodity associations, general farm organizations and individual leaders interested in marketing alternatives, legislative needs, research initiatives and other matters of economic importance to Texas agriculture.

The morning Forum session will be devoted to in-depth assessments and discussion of the legislative and regulatory outlook in Washington, led by Republican Congressman Larry Combest of Lubbock and Democratic Congressman Charles Stenholm of Stamford. Both are members of the House Agriculture Committee in which future farm legislation will be developed. Both also serve on the Cotton, Rice and Sugar Subcommittee.

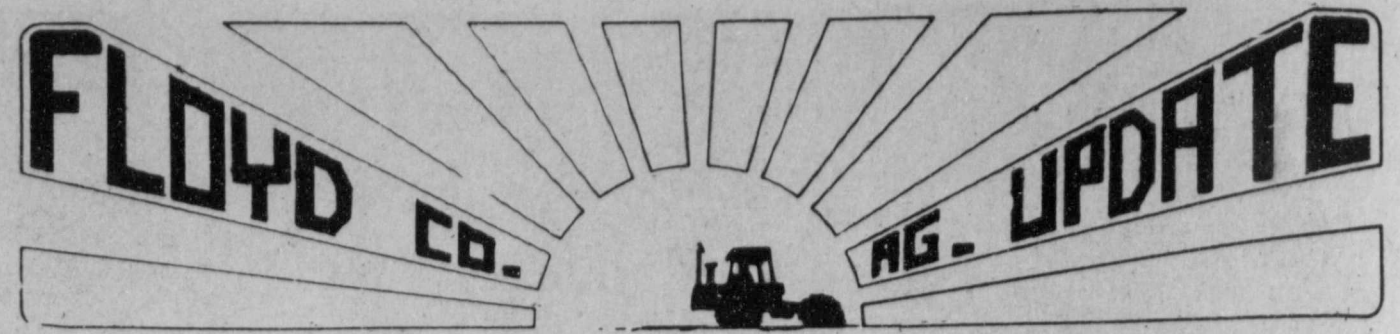

Speakers in the afternoon will include Texas A&M Deputy Chancellor Dr. Charles Arntzen, Dr. Neville Clark, Director of the Texas A&M Experiment Station, and Dr. Zerle Carpenter, Texas Agricultural Extension Service Director. There will be time for questions and discussion after each topic, with an overall discussion period at the end of the meeting.

The Federal Crop Insurance Commission was authorized by Congress last year in response to the low level of farmer participation. The Lubbock hearing is the first in a series being held to receive producer suggestions on program improvements. Suggestions deemed worthy by a majority of the Commission's 25 members will be included in its recommendations.

Producer, ginner and PCG Board Chairman Myrl D. Mitchell of Lenorah in Martin County last November was appointed to represent cotton on the Commission by then Secretary of Agriculture Richard Lyng. He and eight other Commission members are expected for the Lubbock hearing, along with the Commission's executive director, Kellye Evesole.

Written testimony will be accepted in advance at 1255 23rd Street, N.W., Suite 880, Washington, DC 20037. Time for oral testimony may be reserved by calling (202) 887-6700, and others who request time at registration will be heard on a first-come first-served basis as time permits.

Program improvements already suggested to Mitchell by the PCG Board are (1) effective unit division, (2) harvest or not harvest decisions left to producers after insurance adjustments, (3) a way to hold guaranteed yields up, and (4) faster adjustments.

Glasson elected TFB director

Vernie R. Glasson, III, director of public affairs for the Texas Farm Bureau since 1984, has been elected by the TFB Board of Directors as executive director of the 326,000-member farm organization, effective April 1.

He will succeed Warren Newberry, who has served as administrator of the TFB since 1972, and who will retire on April 1. In Newberry's 17 years as top staff person, the organization increased membership from 136,943 to 326,167, a gain of 189,222 member families.

As chief administrator, Glasson will direct the activities of 675 employees of the TFB and its service headquarters. He will work closely with TFB president S. M. True of Plainview in carrying out the directions of the 13-member Board of Directors.

A search committee appointed by True recommended the 42-year-old Glasson for the position. The Board, opening its three-day meeting Wednesday, made the selection of Glasson the first order of business.

Glasson is married to the former Ann Rogers of San Antonio. They have three sons, Troy, Brad, and Matthew, and one daughter, Laurel Ann. The family resides in Bruceville, near Waco.

Reared on the cotton and grain family farm at Sinton, near Corpus Christi, he was active in his early years in 4-H, Future Farmers of America, forensics and athletics.

He attended the first Texas A&I University in Kingsville in 1969 where he studied agriculture for two years before getting a B. S. Degree in secondary education with majors in government and speech.

He served in the Air Force from 1969 until 1973, and is a Vietnam veteran.

Upon discharge from service, Glasson was employed by the Texas Farm Bureau as a field representative in West Texas. In 1974, he was appointed associate director of commodity activities and moved to the Waco headquarters.

Glasson was employed by the American Farm Bureau Federation as assistant director of national affairs in its Washington, D. C. office in 1975. From 1979 until 1982, he served as chief lobbyist in legislative and regulatory activities.

In 1982, he was named field services director for the AFBF's southern region, and came back home to Texas, to live in San Antonio.

The Texas Farm Bureau revamped its legislative activities in 1984, and persued Glasson to take the position as director of a new public affairs division.

Since 1984, he has directed the public policy/governmental affairs program for the state's largest farm organization. He directs a staff of four state affairs lobbyists in Austin and the national affairs director stationed in Waco.

His division also includes departments for regulatory affairs, legal affairs, agriculture in the classroom, and research, education and policy development.

As director of Public Affairs, Glasson was active in the establishment of the Texas Farm Bureau Friends of Agriculture Fund (AGFUND), the organization's political action fund, and has served as coordinator since 1987.

Glasson is a member of the Bruceville Baptist Church, the Waco Rotary Club, Texas Agricultural Council, and the American League of Lobbyists.

Estate planning seminar set

Texas farmers and ranchers have several opportunities in the coming weeks to attend seminars on estate planning.

"The seminars are being conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System, as part of a continuing effort in farm and ranch management," notes Dr. Wayne Hayenga, Extension Economist. "They are designed to help farmers and ranchers learn how to reduce taxable estates and learn new methods for passing their operations to the next generation."

Titled "How to Lower Your Estate Tax Burden," the seminars are slated for:

Granbury, March 6-7
Austin, March 21-22
Corpus Christi, March 29-30
Lubbock, April 4-5

"Of major importance is how every farm estate will be affected by new estate tax rules," points out Hayenga. "The best tax planning of the past may be the worst under the new law," including deductions, expenses and tax rates. Among these are wills, by-pass trusts, gift disclaimers and ways to own property.

There will also be a separate segment of the program devoted to treating beneficiaries fairly.

Another discussion will enter on estate planning tools for agriculture and will deal with corporations, partnerships, selling part of the business to heirs, and oil and gas interests.

The second day of each seminar will be devoted to special estate tax rules for agricultural estates. These include special farm land valuation, deferred estate tax payment rules, life insurance, "flower" bonds and other property.

"Estate planning is a step toward reduced estate and income taxes," says Hayenga. "This process should start when you plan to inherit substantial property, when you have an active and growing business, when you still have time to take tax-saving actions, when you have minor children, and when your children marry or divorce."

Crop rotation combats disease

By C. Mark Brown
Extension Agent-
Entomology (PM)
Crosby/Floyd Counties

As farmers plan for the 1989 crop year, they need to give particular attention to disease control practices. One of the best and least expensive ways to fight diseases is through crop rotation. Some of the most common soil borne disease problems noted in the Crosby-Floyd area include cotton seedling disease, bacterial blight, Verticillium or Fusarium wilt, charcoal rot, downy mildew, and head smut.

Rotation prevents the continuous development of disease organisms that would otherwise build up in the soil and attack one plant species. Rotation breaks the cycle of organism development and thus helps limit the damage potential when the susceptible crop is grown again. A three year rotation is most helpful, however, a short rotation is better than none at all. According to Dr. Wendell Home, Extension plant pathologist, the three most common crops used in rotation systems in Texas are cotton, corn, and sorghum.

Of course, on some farms continuous cropping must be practiced for a variety of reasons. In this case, other forms of disease control must be practiced. These include planting a more disease resistant variety, using a fungicide, adjusting fertilizer rates, and planting on raised beds. Such practices may cost additional money but may be necessary to achieve the same levels of disease control as with crop rotation.

With producers looking at ways to squeeze out a profit in these hard economic times, disease control is one practice that should not be taken lightly. Producers must remember that losses to diseases mean losses in net profit and thus they should use practices that keep diseases at their lowest level.

For more details, or for disease resistance ratings of varieties of corn, sorghum, cotton, and many fruits and vegetables, contact your local county Extension office.

BENEFITS FROM FREEZE

The Arctic front that recently blasted through Texas blew in some benefits for agriculture by reducing insect pest numbers. According to Dr. John G. Thomas, Extension entomologist at College Station, the prolonged sub-freezing temperatures will have an enormous impact on insects affecting Texans. The below-freezing temperatures, which set new records or tied existing records for continuous cold hours in many parts of the state should allow producers to realize less damage, thus farmers in many areas of the state should save on insect control costs. This often means the consumer benefits as well.

When the Arctic air spread over the state, many insects were very active as opposed to their usual winter diapause state. The cold weather caught them off guard and killed many of them.

Moisture or rainfall also has a significant impact on survival of insects, along with the availability of host plants to provide shelter. Other factors impacting winter survival include the cold tolerance of individual insect species and activity of predators and parasites during the fall and early winter months.

Dr. Don Rummel, a scientist at the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Lubbock, stated that in order to slow boll weevil activity, that 10 days of cold weather, rather than the 5 or so recorded, would have been ideal. However, he stated that since we were quite dry, that the dry cold should have significant impact on boll weevil numbers. They will continue to monitor the boll weevil situation as the winter progresses.
