Floyd County begins Centennial celebration

celebrating the beginning of Floyd County's centennial year.

The breakfast was held in Lockney at the elementary school on Saturday, January 6, at 7:00 a.m. Chairman of the event was J.D. Copeland, member of the Floyd County Centennial Committee Council.

Bill Gray, chairman of the Centennial Committee, served as Master of Ceremonies. Garry Higgs, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Lockney, led the in-Approximately 80 residents of Floyd vocation and Gray then led the pledge to County attended the kick-off breakfast the American flag and the pledge to the Texas flag.

> Bill Hardin, Floyd County Judge, came forward and read a proclamation from Governor of Texas, Bill Clements, proclaiming the year of 1990 as the 100th birthday of the County of Floyd.

He then introduced the county offiand a member of the Lockney City cials present and those presently running for county offices. They were, C.L. Mooney, Justice of the Peace of Precincts 2 and 3; Connie Bearden, Commissioner of Precinct 1; Floyd Jackson, Commissioner of Precinct 2; Kay Crabtree, Commissioner of Precinct 4; Barbara Edwards, County Clerk; Penny Ogden, representing the District Attorneys office; David Cave, District Judge; Howard Gene Bishop, candidate for commissioner of Precinct 4; and Randy Hollums, candidate for District Judge.

Dan Smith, Mayor of Lockney, welcomed the guests to Lockney and stated that he was pleased that the kick-off breakfast was held in Lockney and hoped that each Floyd County person would take part in the Centennial celeing the breakfast and stated that he wished to invite everyone to all the events being planned in Floydada during the coming year.

Travis Jones, president of the Floyd County Pioneer Association, thanked everyone for coming and gave a review of the plans that are being made for the pioneer reunion. He told the group that plans are underway to hold a two day reunion this year, starting on Friday and continuing through Saturday. The reunion will held on the customary Saturday closest to May 28.

Olin Watson, Centennial Chairman for Floydada, told the group that events have been planned for each month this year and that he hopes for good turnouts for each event and other events that will be planned later in the year.

Chairwoman of the Lockney Centennial Committee, June Sherman, told the group that Lockney also has several events in the planning stages and is hoping for a successful event filled year.

J.D. Copeland was introduced as chairman of the kick-off breakfast and he commented that he is proud of the effort that is being made to celebrate the county's birthday.

When asked who in the gathering had been in Floyd County the longest Jimmy Willson of Floydada stated that he had been here 68 years and Boyce Mosley of Lockney said that he had been here 58

Bill Gray introduced the Reverend John Ballard, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Lubbock, as the principal

Ballard's first comments were that he was not sure what a 'principal speaker' was and he looked up the word 'principal' in the dictionary and found that it meant "What's left after all interest is gone". He stated that he hoped the group had some interest left.

Ballard asked each person in the group to tell those sitting next to them, "I have never seen you looking better" and after this was done he told the group "And I have never seen Floyd County looking better."

He went on with, "According to doctors, you are what you eat; according to automobile dealers, you are what you

City council hears engineering presentation

The Lockney City Council met Thursday, January 4 in their regular session. Mayor Dan Smith introduced Jamie Johnson of Wellington to the council. Johnson is a member of the engineering firm of Ober J. Engineering Company. In his presentation he stated that his firm would like to represent Lockney as the city engineer.

He, his brother Dickie and his father,

Ober make up the members of the firm. The senior member of the family, Ober, is a graduate of Texas Tech. He was resident engineer for the district Texas Highway Department in Quitaque for many years before moving to Wellington where he worked in the same capacserved in the Navy and was a consulting engineer at Texas Instruments in Dallas before coming home to join the firm.

Dickie is a graduate of Texas University with a degree in engineering. Each is a certified surveyor.

When they formed their company they decoded to work with small towns and have done work in Silverton, Turkey, Roaring Springs, Hale Center and others. They did the concrete work for the Ollie Liner Center in Plainview and currently have the bid to do the paving around the Azteca Milling Plant.

Johnson told the group that his firm would work with the council on all projects and do all that the council asked of them whether it be full time on the job participation or part time inspections. He gave a run down of the cost of the work that they have done for other towns and communities and gave the council an estimate of their charges

At the present time Johnson and Dickie McCarty, city supervisor, are working on figures for the water district that show the amount of water being pumped. The water district has asked the council for the figures so a decision can be made on whether or not the water system presently in use is adequate. Hour meters have been installed on the pumps to measure the amount of water

The decision on hiring an engineering firm was tabled until another meeting. A discussion was held on the seal coating of streets that has to be done this

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harlen Curry of Denver City. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Teeter of Lockney.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father.

The guests were seated in pews marked by pine boughs, pine cones and red cranberries, each with tiny gold wire looped across a Christian Dior ribbon bow of red, gold and green stripes.

Altar rails were entwined with Douglas fir pine boughs and pine cones. Inside each side of the rails were large white poinsettias.

The couple repeated vows before an altar featuring a 15-branch candelabrum on each side. Two flanking spiral candelabrum were filled with red tapers, Douglas fir, pine, white poinsettias and red cranberries, giving the illusion of a woodland bower. Christian Dior ribbon formed large looped bows and stream-

Each side of the sanctuary entrance featured intertwined heart-shaped vine wreaths with white doves and ribbons edging each wreath.

After the bride was escorted to the altar, Dion Hancock and Evan Aldridge sang "Just You and I." Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of Ginza design in white feather-glow satin. The handbeaded bodice had a sweetheart neckline and a basque waist. Renaissance sleeves featured a satin pouf at the shoulders accented by a pleated satin bow. The sheer sleeves extended to a point over her hands. The chapel train fell from a double-pleated bow at the hipline and was dotted with lace motifs and edged in lace scallops.

The bridal headpiece was a glazed satin hat with a fingertip veil. The same lace motifs were beaded across the brim

They wore Alfred Angelo creations of irridescent emerald taffeta. The bodice of each featured bateau neckline and a modified version of the Renaissance sleeve ending at the elbow. The V-front waistline accented the circle skirt and high-low hemline. Each bridesmaid wore a headpiece of hand-rolled rosettes in emerald taffeta flanked by holly leaves. Emerald satin slippers accented the dresses. The bride's attendants each carried small nosegay bouquet of one large white poinsettia surrounded by Douglas fir greenery and Christian Dior ribbon of red, gold and emerald green.

The flower girl was Brittany Aston. Her dress was a miniature version of the bridesmaids gowns. Her headpiece was an emerald green fabric bow centered with tiny hand-rolled rosebuds and holly leaves. She carried a white wicker basket with pearls and emerald moire ribbon twined around the handle. The inside was edged with an emerald taffeta ruffle and holly print fabric. She dropped cinnamon scented potpourri as she preceded the bride down the aisle.

ensembles. The attendants wore boutonnieres of small white poinsettias accented with holly leaves and loops of the Christian Dior ribbon found in the bridesmaids bouquets.

Ushers were Clint Ellis, cousin of the bride; Ritchie Thornton; Rod Welch; and Rick Hamilton, cousin of the

A reception in the church fellowship hall followed the ceremony.

Guests were registered by Heather Holt. The table was covered in white lace with a emerald green underskirt. A white plume pen and hurricane candle globe was accented by Douglas fir pine and pine cones. The bride's book featured the couple's engagement picture on the front.

The bride's table was covered with a white lace cloth with Christian Dior bow accents and a silver punch service. The three-tiered wedding cake was topped with crystal bells and holly accents. The bridal centerpiece was highlighted by seven green tapers with white poinsettias and Douglas fir pine and red cranberries surrounding the tapers and poinsettias, and Christian Dior ribbon accents. Serving at the bridal table was Rhonda Fontenot, Tonya Sefcik and Stacy Tolle. The groom's table was covered with a forest green cloth featured a chocolate cake with chocolate holly accents. Guests were served from a pewter coffee service by Heather Holt and Dion Dibrell.

Prior to the wedding the groom's parents hosted the rehearsal dinner in the club room of the Denver City Community Building. The tables were decorated with Christmas accents and covered with red and green table cloths.

The bride is a graduate of Angelo State University with a degree in business. She is employed by the First National Bank of Lockney.

The groom is also a graduate of ASU with a degree in accounting. He was a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon Fraternity. He is engaged as a self-employed farmer in Lockney.

The couple is living in Lockney.

State Board of Insurance explains personal liability

Texans' personal automobile liability insurance policies fully cover them when they are driving borrowed or rented vehicles, the State Board of Insurance said today.

The regulatory agency issued the statement to eliminate confusion over compliance with Texas' mandatory car automobile liability insurance law.

It has come to the agency's attention that many people with valid coverage have been ticketed and convicted for driving without insurance while operating borrowed vehicles.

"A personal automobile policy providing the minimum amount of liability insurance required by law is equally valid whether the policyholder is driving his or her own car or one borrowed from someone else," said Dan Collins, director of the State Board's Automobile and Miscellaneous Lines Division.

Auto liability insurance pays for injuries and property damage arising from accidents for which the named insured is legally responsible.

State law requires all motor vehicles to be covered by liability insurance that will pay up to $20,000 per person, up to $40,000 per accident, for injuries and $15,000 for property damage.

Problems have arisen when drivers presented their personal auto policy or proof of insurance card while driving a vehicle other than the one identified on their insurance papers.

In some instances, police officers and judges have determined that his was insufficient as proof that the borrowed vehicle was covered.

The standard Texas Personal Auto Policy explicitly states that the insured is covered whenever he or she has an accident - without limiting coverage to

Cold virus eludes cure

No medicines can kill the more than colds during a season and parents with

The policy language says the insurance company "will pay damages for bodily injury or property damage for which any covered person becomes legally responsible because of an auto

"Covered person" is defined as "You or any family member for the ownership, maintenance or use of any (emphasis added) auto or trailer."

There are certain coverage exclusions, including cases involving intentional injuries or property damage, use of a vehicle without permission and use of a non-owned vehicle that is furnished for the policyholder's use on a regular

The Texas Personal Auto Policy also covers accidents involving the policyholder's own vehicle when driven by another party.

The mandatory insurance law does not require that documentation presented as evidence of financial responsibility include identification of particular

The law says evidence of financial responsibility may be either the policy itself, a photocopy of the policy, an insurance binder or a written instrument issued by an insurer. The statue requires a proof-of-insurance document to provide only the following information: name of the insurer, name of the policyholder, the policy number, the policy period and either the policy limits or a statement that the coverage meets the minimum requirements of Texas law.

With cooperation of the Texas Department of Public Safety, copies of this news release are being distributed to police departments throughout the state.
