Marr and his wife, Linda have two sons, Coby and Brady.

They are members of the First Baptist Church. He teaches a Sunday school class and is involved in the Royal Ambassador program. He is an organizer of the little league baseball program.

Sandra Cummings read the following to introduce Marr:

This year's recipient of the Citizen of the Year Award is a Lockney native. After graduation from Lockney High School, he or she attended college at Texas Tech. In June of 1973, this person married his or her high school sweetheart. The couple has two children, both of whom attended Lockney schools.

For the last twelve years the honoree has been involved in a successful career in agriculture, including both production and sales.

He or she has been a leader in many community activiites such as the Floyd County Fair, the Chamber of Commerce, city government, and several youth organizations. This person has been a faithful and dedicated church member and worker. In the letter of nomination it was said that this person has always been willing to do anything for anyone, and do it with a smile.

We hope that up to this point our description of the citizen of the year has been general enough to keep you guessing. We don't have time to list all of the many specific things that this person has done for the community, but we did want to take time to list a couple of accomplishments that you might not know about-there is only one person in this room tonight who was named "Mr. Legs" in high school and at one time supported his family by selling pickles and baby food.

We are proud to announce to you this year's honoree, our Citizen of the Year, Gary Marr.

Merle Mooney announced to the audience that since this is the Centennial year for Floyd County the chamber decided to give a special award to a person that is thought of as "Mr. Lockney".

She read the accomplishments of J. D. Copeland and presented him with a plaque naming him "Centennial Citizen of the Year"

LISD trustees discuss legislation and funding

The board of trustees for the Lockney approved by the trustees. The competiregular monthly meeting Thursday, March 8, at 7:30 p.m.

Superintendent Dub Hallmark, explained current legislation and pending legislation before the Texas legislature concerning equitable funding for Texas schools.

"The Governor has stated that he will not raise taxes and will look at any funding over $200 million critically," said Hallmark.

"I don't think any bills will be passed in this special session, but I have to believe that because we are a poor school district we should benefit no matter what the outcome."

Mrs. Evans, Lockney elementary principal, informed the trustees about Tyler Bybee, a first grader, that has placed in the top 10 in a National Good Housekeeping magazine writing contest.

Bybee, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louie Bybee, wrote a story about a memborable football game in which father had made a touchdown.

Bybee placed in the top 10 out of 35,000 children who competed. He was then awarded an IBM computer and printer for himself, his teacher and the school. If he goes on to win first, he and his family will be flown to Washington D.C.

Principal James Poole, told the trustees about Robin Marks who won 2nd place in a writing contest sponsored by the Texas Young Lawyers. She received an expense paid trip to Austin where she was presented with a plaque during ceremonies held in the Texas House of Representatives on Jan. 13. Students were asked to write their papers on the theme "The Ideal Supreme Court Justice."

The school board members voted unanimously to approve the purchase of a new van to replace the van that was wrecked in February.

A math UIL competition trip was also

Mayor Dan Smith announced to members of the Lockney City Council that the final bond payment had been made on City Hall. The last payment of $10,000 made the building free and clear. The announcement was made on March 8 at the regular meeting of the council.

Jim Jeffers, Plainview City Manager and Dave Blackburn, Plainview City Attorney, met with the council to discuss the proposed regional landfill that the city of Plainview is planning to construct in Hale County. Lockney has been invited to join in the effort.

Mayor Smith told the council that new rules from EPA have been issued and that the Lockney landfill will have 18 months from the date the rules are issued to close the landfill. At the present time the date for the rulings has been set for June.

The concil read through the contract that Jeffers presented and heard an explanation on how Plainview intends to set up the regional landfill.

A permit has been applied for, land east of Plainview has been located and is in contract for purchase and new equipment is being purchased for use at the landfill.

At the present time Hale Center is the only town in the area that has signed a contract. The final date for signing has been moved up to the first of April.

Councilman Aston made the motion to table the landfill issue until the April meeting. At that time the council will Julie Hancock, who had filed earlier, withdrew from the race because of a company rule that prohibits employees from holding public office.

The two positions that will be open on the school board are those of Dr. Gary Mangold and Keith Jackson. Jackson has not filed for re-election.

Because of Spring Break, March 19-23, anyone wishing to sign up for school board should contact Jackie Lou Holt at home, 652-3456.
