

Students earn honors at substance abuse media fair

Students representing Lockney schools fared well in the 1990 State Substance Abuse Prevention Media Fair. Lockney is a member of District 17 and the students won their district competition before being sent to the state competition.

The students were honored at the Texas Association for Education Technology fall conference. Each received a plaque for their winning entries.

Lockney High School students David Perez, Orlando Mondragon and Clint Bigham garnered first place in the 10th - 12th grade division of Computer Programming.

Glenn Truett won third place in the 7th to 9th grade Multi Media division and also placing third in the K-3 Graphics division was Lindi Miller. She entered a drug abuse poster.

First grade students of Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Rexrode at Lockney Elementary School won first place in the K-3 age group in the Audio Division.

The Substance Abuse Prevention Media Fair is unique project now in its fourth year of existence. Students from across the state of Texas compete by creating and producing drug prevention messages in the formats of audio, computer programming, video, photography, multi-media, and graphics. Winners are selected from each grade grouping: kindergarten through third, fourth through sixth, seventh through ninth, and tenth through twelfth grades.

Participating schools or school districts sponsor their own Media Fairs, with the winners going on to regional competition. Participating Education Service Centers throughout the state sponsor regional Media Fairs and submit the winners for state competition.

Cosponsors of the Substance Abuse Prevention Media Fair are:

Texas Association of Educational Technology (whose membership includes media directors and coordinators of instructional resources within educational institutions), and Texans' War on Drugs, a statewide, nonprofit organization dedicated to the prevention of drug use through awareness and education, and Education Service Centers/Satellites which serve as the information link to/from school districts.

STATE WINNERS--Clint Bigham, Orlando Mondragon and David Perez were first place winners in the 1990 State Substance Abuse Prevention Media Fair. The trio represented Region 17 in the 10th to 12th grade Computer Programming Division in the state contest. They received a plaque at the TAET State Convention.

Local police department is investigating burglaries

The Lockney Police Department is investigating two home burglaries that occurred late Wednesday night, November 21, or early the next Thursday morning.

According to police, sometime between 7:00 p.m., Nov. 21, and 12:25 a.m. on Dec. 22, someone entered a window of a house located in the 700 block of S/W 2nd Street.

Taken in the burglary was a brown leather type cassette case, about the size of a brief case, containing approximately 30 cassette tapes. Also taken was a gold single blade knife with an Eagle engraved on the case and blade. A 1957 Chev. model car was also taken. The model was new and still unassembled in the box. The total value of items taken was approximately $105.00.

The property in the above burglary has already been recovered and a suspect has admitted to the burglary.

Also on Nov. 21, at approximately 11:00 p.m., three boys (who appeared to be Junior High or High School age) were seen running from a home in the 200 block of N/W 4th Street, carrying items. The boys were described as white males wearing baseball type caps.

The person who observed the boys called the police and it was later learned that the house where the boys were seen had been burglarized. The home had been entered through a kitchen window.

Taken in the burglary were approximately 5 Nintendo games, including: Zelda II, Mario Brothers, Marble Madness, Wheel of Fortune and John Elways. Also taken in the burglary was a plastic long neck beer bottle bank, approximately 2 1/2 feet tall. The bank had approximately $250.00 in change inside. Total value of the items stolen is estimated at $450.00.

Lockney Police Chief Lennie Gilroy stated, "We have only had a couple of home burglaries in the past year. The holiday season is on us and home and other burglaries always pick up this time of year."

"If you are going to be out of town for the holidays, or any time, please let the police department and trusted neighbors know when you are going to be away. Be sure and lock your doors and windows.

"If your windows do not have proper locks replace them or you can help secure them by drilling a 2" deep hole above the window track and inserting a large nail into the hole. This will help keep the window from being opened from the outside.

"Burglars don't want to be seen or heard, so they usually won't risk breaking glass. Most burglars are amateurs in search of an 'easy target'. Keeping doors and windows secure will be your best deterrent."

Gilroy also stated that the police department has engravers available to lend out. "Please take the time to engrave items around your home. Recently we have recovered two bicycles that we felt had been stolen. One of the bicycles had a Texas drivers license number on it and the bicycle has been returned to the owner in Floydada. The other bicycle has no identification markings on it and we don't know where it return it."

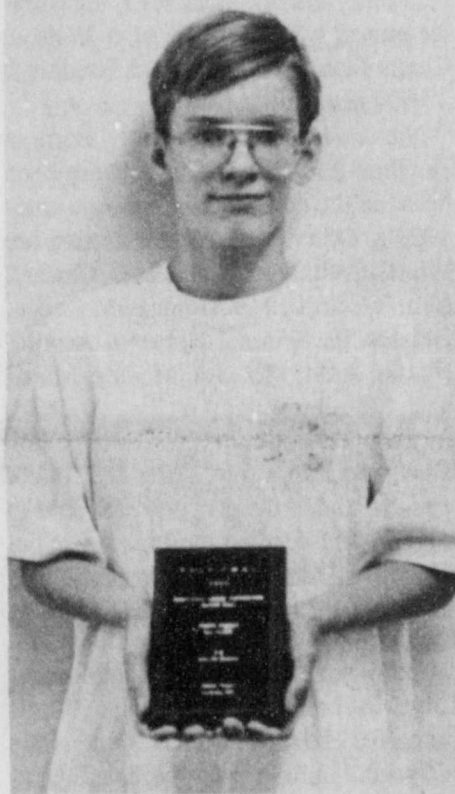

"This has happened on several occasions continued Gilroy. "Remember when they made your stereo or microwave they made millions more just like it and without serial numbers or your drivers license number engraved on the item chances of recovery are lessened."

Gilroy stated that the biggest theft problem in Lockney is in the area of vehicle burglaries. Toolboxes and other items are often stolen from the rear of pickup truck.

"A toolbox is an easy target," said Gilroy. "Try to secure or lock your toolbox and engrave your tools with the abbreviation, TX, and then your drivers license number."

"You should also write down the serial numbers on your firearms. Firearms are easy for burglars to carry off, and easy for them to sell. Without the serial number it will be very hard to recover your firearm."

"We have been able to recover a number of firearms in the past, because the owners took to the time to list serial numbers."

LISD teaching staff has 622 years of experience

Lockney Schools can look with pride at the quality and professional attitudes of its staff. The staff consists of forty-six (46) teachers with bachelor degrees and ten (10) with master degrees.

The combined total years of experience of the professional staff is 622 years. The staff has a total of 437 years experience in this district. The average years of experience is 10.08 years, ranging from no experience to 33 years of experience.

Having a desire to attract and keep top-quality personnel, the board has attempted to keep us competitive with schools our size, by paying $1100.00 above base for a master degree teacher and $900.00 above for a bachelors degree teacher. All employees have a portion of their health insurance paid in the amount of $50.00 per month.

The school board and the community have been appreciative and supportive. The district takes pride in its willingness and ability to provide the classroom teachers with supplies and materials as requested. The buildings and their appearance continue to be a top priority.

Skill Enhancement

During the 1989-90 school year, local inservices were conducted in several areas, including gifted and talented and drug-free schools. Inservices were provided by outside sources and through the TI-IN network. Several teachers attended a regional institute sponsored by the Texas Association for the Gifted and Talented. Four teachers were trained as presenters through the Caprock Area Writing Project administered by Texas Tech for the University of California at Berkeley. In addition to providing training for these teachers, the school district provided a ten week writing course for any interested teacher. Twenty-one teachers participated. Inservice was provided for teachers in the elementary school for the "Sing, Spell, Read and Write" phonics program. Teachers at each school were also given opportunities to visit classrooms in other districts and to attend appropriate inservices at the Education Service Center.

Included for review is a breakdown of the staff by campuses.

DELL RAY of Aiken, maintenance employee at Cargill Hybrid Seeds, recently was given the outstanding achievement award of a trophy and certificate by the Clarklift of Los Angeles, CA., master mechanic class. Dell Ray is a one-year employee at Cargill Hybrid Seeds, having been a farmer for the previous 24 years. He is a brother of Roy Ray and Judy Mangum, both of Lockney. Dell and his wife Mae, formerly lived in Tullia.

Prairie Chapel Community: from the beginning to 1990

By Mollie Huffman

The Weathers School was formed around 1911-1912. James A. Weathers owned the land purchased for this school. He was the father of six children, one of them being Lockney's own Eva Pearl (Weathers) Whitfill. He was a Baptist preacher, preaching at Meteor, now the Aiken Community. He moved to Floyd County in 1904, not long after the county was formed. His children attended Meteor School.

The Weathers School was formed to make school more accessible to children in the Northwest corner of Floyd County. The T.H. Boedeker boys attended school at the Weathers School. It was several miles to the southwest of their home, many miles to travel by foot or pony. Mr. Boedeker was to become a trustee there until Prairie Chapel was formed. He then served on the Prairie Chapel Board of Trustees.

Ball games were big among neighboring schools. One of the pep squad yells for the Weathers school was "Rip Van Winkle and his bulldog pup. We're for Weathers, and we never give up!"

The first teacher for the Weathers school, Cassie Tierce, who later married Frank Whitfill, boarded with the James A. Weathers family. Another teacher was Thelma Thompson.

The Bobbitt School began as a one room school, later adding the second room. The school was located four miles north of Lockney on the land where the microwave tower now stands. Paul Cooper, Herman Huffman and John T. Carthel attended school at this school. Huffman and Carthel still reside on their respective home places and Cooper has only recently moved to Lockney in this year of 1990.

The Bobbitt School was named from N. Haynes Bobbitt who had settled northeast of Lockney. That place was later known as the Roy Tinsley place and now the Kenneth and Juanita Brosch farm. Bobbitt School was used for community gatherings as were all country schools. Presbyterians, as well as Baptists, Methodists and Church of Christ held services at the school. A Brother Bone, the Presbyterian preacher, held Sunday School and church many Sundays. The Methodist had a preacher from Lockney on some Sunday afternoons.

A partial list of teachers at Bobbitt School are: Miss Annie Hughes, Herman Huffman's first teacher; Vester Duck, Miss Mary Beedy, P.L. Huddleston, who had sons Oscar, Carl, Lee, Perry and Stanley. Miss Grace Hawkins, Miss Escol Bond, Miss Ollie Moore and Miss Annie Roberson, daughter of J.H. and Medora Roberson. Annie Roberson married Walter Griffith. Miss Moore rode her horse from Lockney, along with her brother Joe, meeting John T. Carthel at his home and riding on to school. Harding Nall and Frank A. Cunyus were also teachers at Bobbitt in its later days. Miss Escol Bond boarded with the Huffmans the year she taught. She left to marry, downstate, a young man who had served his country in the armed services.

In the year 1990 the Prairie Chapel schoolhouse is still standing. One of the few country school buildings still standing as a landmark to our pioneers. Prairie Chapel School District was formed in 1923. The school buildings of the Bobbitt and Weathers schools were moved and used until such time as a brick building would be built in 1924.

The consolidation election was held across the road north of the new standing building in a garage. At the time of this election W.W. Allen owned the property where the election was held. The property was later owned by Mike Mooney. The election had to be held in a public place easily accessible by both districts. This was the only place available. A garage. Charlie and Julie Huffman helped hold this school election.

A five acre plot of land was purchased. This land was located seven miles north of Lockney, one-half mile south of the Fort Worth and Denver rail track, South Plains Line; now the Burlington line that runs from Childress to Plainview. After construction of the school, sheds and corrals were built to house the many horses the children used to get to school.

The first trustees for Prairie Chapel School were France Carthel, G.E. Tannahill, J.M. Cooper, R.T. Spence, E.M. Wharton, Frank Walter, W.W. Allan and T.H. Boedeker.

A partial list of teachers who served this thriving school are: Mr. and Mrs. L.A. Cooper, and Mrs. Coopers sister, Elizabeth Thacker around 1930; Ruth Cooper, 1925; Herbert Nicholas, 1924; Irene Finley; Mr. and Mrs. Boyd; Mrs. Craig (Irene) Winters; Eunice Coleman, late 1920's; Mrs. Mattie Wood; Miss Atkins, Juanity Cowart (Drake) and Maudie Meredith. Maudie later taught a second time as Mrs. Clay Muncy. Mrs. Herman (Helen) Huffman served as substitute.

The Prairie Chapel School District extended to the south to just south of John T. Carthel's home. The reason for this line, according to John T. was that when the Lockney School District organized, their boundary was to be a five square mile area, extending two and one-half miles each direction from Lockney. The northern most line included the Cowart Section, Frank G. Jones and E.J. Foster places. West to the Hale County line. East to the Roseland School District. Some of this area east was taken into the Sterley School District when the Sterley School was built. Prairie Chapel Community was a thriving community as it is today. Lots of school parties, Easter egg hunts, square dances, school plays, community meetings, workdays, Home Demonstration Club meetings and those all important basketball and baseball games were held at the school.

A playa lake is located one-half mile from the school and north of the railroad track. This railroad track is raised in this area hiding the lake bed. Many a child played hookey here and was often seen hiking that way. Sometimes found there by the teacher, especially if she missed several of the "brood." This track had a wooden tressel to drain water to the lake and let cattle cross unharmed to pasture. When the tressel was removed in 1983 the timbers were left for the people of the community. An inscription was found on one of the timbers that read: "Good Luck to Me When I Go Back to School", Aubrey W. Weathers, April 1, 1937. It has been learned that Aubrey had been ill during that year and unable to attend school. This was done to while away the lonely hours. The lettering is six to seven inches tall and took quite a bit of time to design. There also is a horseshoe carved in the timber. Aubrey died before he could be reminded that his inscription had been found fifty years later. He was a resident of Missouri at his death. Imagine all the stories those old timbers could tell!

There are few vacant houses in the area known as the Old Prairie Chapel School District today. Several families have remained over the years, raising their families to continue the tradition of farming in the years to come. We are proud of the heritage of the community and the enthusiasm these families have. Farming is the main interest in this community in 1990. Very little of the land has been placed in the CRP program, a government program to return erodible land back to grass. There are ten center pivot irrigation systems used to irrigate the fertile soil. The first irrigation wells were put in by the Texas Land Development (TLD) in the early 1900's. The first farmer owned well was put in by John T. Carthel in the year of 1934. There are several tail water pits to contain the irrigation runoff until it can be recirculated on the crops. Every drop of water that is run in a bar-ditch is a wasted dollar in the 90's. The cost of fuels to irrigate have escalated so over the years that the farmers are using every mean of conservation available. Chiseling and using furrow dikes are popular practices for the dry land farmer. This helps the land absorb every drop of precious rain that our semi-arid land receives. Crops that have flourished in the community are King Cotton, wheat, milo, corn, millet, sunflowers, honey and grass seed. Gardens abound in the Fall.

The original Prairie Chapel community reaching to the Hale County Line would have included Wilson Photography owned by Chuck and Joyce (Carthel) Wilson; Wilson Flying Service owned by Corky and Alice Wilson, Cereal Elevator and Caprock Feeders, a 30,000 head cattle feedlot.

Names like Paul Cooper, Herman Huffman and John T. Carthel have been heard in the community since the early 1900's. Other names heard around are Whitfill, Cunyus, Boedeker, Carthel, Belt, Wofford, McCormick, Mahagan, Glasscock, Brosch, Harston, Arnold, Martin, Auld, Mooney, Mosley, Martinez, Quebe, McAnally, Brown, Jackson, Kidd, Stapp, Tannahill, Foster, Ford, to name a few. After the school was disbanded the property was sold to a group who formed the Prairie Chapel Church of Christ. This property was sold and the group scattered, some to Plainview and some to Lockney. The property was then sold to Malcolm and Lily Marshall who have made it their home for the past eighteen years. The old school building is standing as a landmark being used for shop and storage.

Prairie Chapel is located toward the center of the Northwest portion of Floyd County. The high point of this part of the county. On a crisp cool Fall morning, the mirages of this semi-arid territory, let us reach far into the canyons to the North and East and into Hale County on the West making Plainview look a stones throw from us. We are proud to live in this county that is celebrating it's 100th Birthday in 1990. What a honor to have a heritage that his part of the world has.

Mangold recertified as family practice specialist by ABFP

Dr. William J. Mangold, M.D., of Lockney, has been recertified as a diplomate of the American Board of Family Practice (ABFP) as a result of passing a recertification examination offered by the ABFP. The physician thus maintains a specialist status in the medical specialty of family practice.

ABFP diplomates must continue to show proof of competence in the field of comprehensive, continuing care of the family by being recertified every six years. The family practice specialty was the first to require diplomates to be recertified on a continuing basis.

The written examination is designed to prove the candidate's continuing competence in the basic components of family practice—internal medicine, surgery, obstetrics and gynecology, pediatrics, psychiatry and neurology, and community medicine.

To qualify for certification initially, a physician must have successfully completed three years of residency training in family practice and passed an intensive certification examination. There are some 380 residency training programs in teaching hospitals and university medical centers across in United States.

Nearly 39,000 family physicians have now been certified in the specialty. Most are members of the American Academy of Family Physicians, the national association of family doctors. The Academy was the first national medical group to require members to take continuing study, and was chiefly responsible for securing specialty status for family practice.

Bowden-McLaughlin exchange vows

Robin Lynette Bowden and Jimmy Wesley McLaughlin exchanged wedding vows Saturday afternoon, Nov. 24, at First United Methodist Church of Lockney with the Rev. Lanny Wheeler, director of pastoral care at Kings Manor Methodist Home in Hereford, officiating.

Parents of the couple are Bob and Nancy Bowden of Hart and Jim and Charlotte McLaughlin of Petersburg.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white satin gown designed with a sabrina neckline complimented by short puffed sleeves. The princess bodice was enhanced with Alencon lace encrusted with white pearls. The natural waistline allowed the ball gown skirt to fall gracefully to the floor, and sweep into a ruffled mid-cathedral length train. She wore a hat of satin, Alencon lace, and silk roses with pearls. The pouf with scattered pearls added softness to the back of the hat, and allowed the fingertip illusion veil. She carried a cascading bouquet of mauve columbine and white alstromeria accented with white stephanotis and swedish ivy with satin and lace streamers.

Tamera Bowden of New Deal, the bride's sister, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were LuAnn Smith of Albuquerque, Kathy Kellison of Lockney, and Karen Brinkska of Vincennes, Indiana. They wore tea length navy floral print polished cotton dresses with elbow length puffed sleeves on shaped bodices with basque waistlines. They carried nosegays of mauve columbine and light blue clematis, white bell flowers and primrose satin ribbon.

Jennifer Fortenberry and Kori Kellison, both of Lockney, were candlelighters.

Eddie Fullingim of Petersburg was best man. Groomsmen were Jay Darby of Dallas, Ted Matthews of Petersburg and David DePrato of Austin, brother-in-law of the groom. Ushers were Clay Simpson of Floydada, Bobby Sansom and Doug Fullingim, both of Petersburg and Zane Bauer of Llano.

Debbie Herbert of Ransom Canyon registered guests. Musical selections were presented by Lea Ann Malone, pianist, of Hart, and organist Sandy Watson of Lockney. Vocalists were Zelda Ellison and Phil Cotham, both of Lockney.

A reception was held following the ceremony at the Plainview Country Club. Assistants were Lezlie Thompson and Valarie DePrato, sisters of the groom, and Kelly Fortenberry, Tandi Gant, Kim Clark, Connie Osmanski and Cindy Davis.

After a wedding trip, the couple will reside in Lockney.

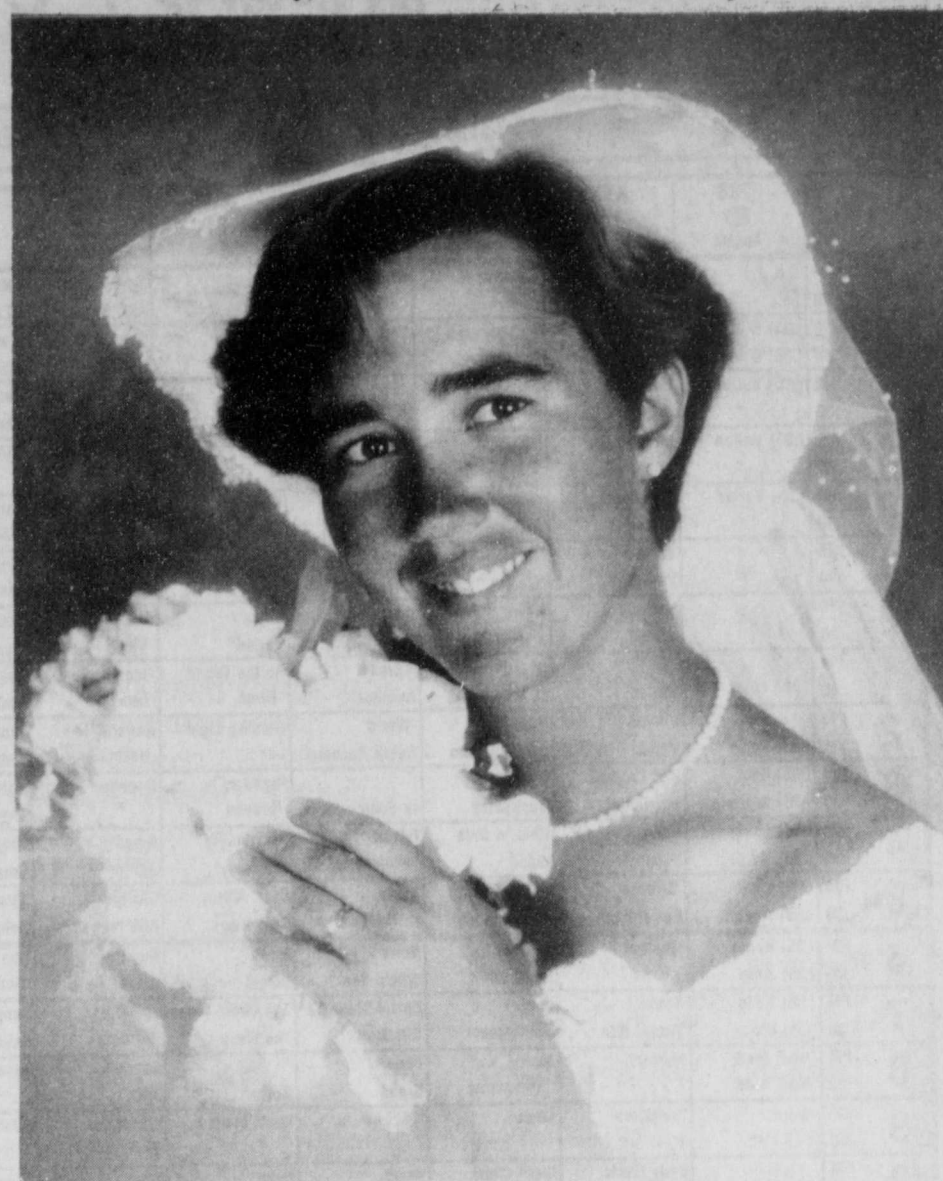

The bride is a graduate of Hart High School and received a bachelor's degree from Angelo State University. She is a teacher/coach at Lockney I.S.D.

McLaughlin is a graduate of Petersburg High School and attended Texas Tech University. He is a farmer in the Petersburg area.

The groom's parents were hosts for a rehearsal dinner at the Plainview Club.

A dinner in honor of the couple was given at the Plainview Club by Marsha George and Luis and Cynthia Menezes, cousins of the bride.

Showers included a lingerie shower in the home of Cindy Cotham, Lockney; a bridal coffee in the home of Mamie Rich of Hart; Christmas shower in the home of Lynda and Tandi Gant of Lockney, a bridal shower in the home of Teresa Willis of Petersburg and a bridal shower in the home of Kathy Kellison of Lockney, and a rice bag party with the Lockney Girls Basketball Team.

Dr. Charles Craig visits Il Penseroso Study Club

Il Penseroso Study Club met Thursday, November 15, in the home of Sandra Cummings. Julie Dorman was hostess. Traci Tannahill and Donna McCarter were co-hostesses.

Dr. Charles Craig presented a very interesting program on his trips to Mexico. He and several other go every year to offer medical and dental treatment to the Natives. We commend Dr. Craig on his 23 years of effort to help those who are unable to help themselves.

Mexican Pecan Candy

1 quart sweet milk
1 pint sugar
1 pinch soda
1 cup pecans

Mix sweet milk, sugar and soda in a large kettle, stirring well. Cook over a slow fire with a lid covering the mixture all the time it is cooking. The candy takes four to five hours to cook, and when it is done, the candy is very thick. Beat it for a few minutes, then add the pecans, which have been ground fine. Pour on wax paper, roll, let cool, slice and serve.

Homemade Pies

Even in our busy work-a-day world, Americans still love a good pie. That's one reason why pie shops have become so popular.

There's really nothing better than a flaky crust homemade pie with your favorite filling to set off that special meal. And, thanks to modern conveniences, homemade pies from scratch really aren't that difficult or time-consuming to make.

Here are some interesting facts about pies dating back to the "good old days" perhaps you didn't know.

Ever wonder why a pie is "round"? The shape, it turns out, dates back to early American colonial homemakers who made pies shallow and round trying to s-t-r-e-t-c-h ingredients - thus "cutting corners."

And, then there's this in an 1883 cookbook.

"In England, the term pie is applied almost exclusively to savory or meat pies." (What we now know as pies were then and still are called tarts.)

When it came to making pastry, the same book offered the following guidelines about ingredients.

"Flour should be best quality, perfectly dry and sifted. If flour is damp, the paste made from it will be heavy.

"Butter, unless fresh is used, should be washed from the salt, well squeezed and wrung in a cloth to get out all the water and buttermilk. If left in, will help in making paste heavy. (Obviously, this applies to living on a farm!)"

"Lard should be perfectly sweet. This may be generally ascertained by its appearance and flavor.

"Berry pies are generally so juicy that they do not cut well. To overcome this difficulty, the beaten white of an egg may be added to thicken the juice. But, a better way is to add a small quantity of rolled crackers or cracker crumbs."

With the trend toward lighter and more wholesome foods, baking guidelines today are much different and easier to follow.

Pie baking tip: To protect a baked crust from getting too brown when heating a filling in it, put the pie - still in its pan - into a second pan. This will keep the crust from receiving too much heat.

OUR HERITAGE

Our National Cathedral

Majestically overlooking Washington, D.C., National Cathedral is a vision of Gothic beauty. The sixth largest cathedral in the world, it truly is a focal point of the nation's capital. And on Sept. 29, 1990, exactly 83 years after the laying of its cornerstone, the final piece of limestone will be put in place. National Cathedral — officially, the Cathedral Church of Sts. Peter and Paul — will be completed.

The inspiration behind the cathedral started more than 200 years ago. According to legend, Joseph Nourse, then secretary of the treasury, told President George Washington and city planner Maj. Pierre L'Enfant of his dream to have a church built on his homestead of Mount St. Alban, which commanded the highest spot in Washington, D.C.

Initially, little effort was made to pursue Nourse's dream. L'Enfant had included a description of a "great church for national purposes" in his city plans, but distrust between church and state during the late 1700s caused the plans to be set aside. It was not until after the death in 1850 of Nourse's granddaughter, who left 50 gold dollars for a "free church on Alban's hill," that a fund was created to preserve the land for the cathedral. Many citywide planning meetings were held to rally support for the cathedral. In 1893, a congressional charter created the nonprofit Protestant Episcopal Cathedral Foundation to construct and operate the cathedral.

Although actual construction did not begin until 1907, the cathedral began its national ministry almost immediately. A new Episcopal diocese was created, and the first Bishop of Washington, Henry Yates Satterlee, was consecrated in 1896. The first service was held outdoors to celebrate the end of the Spanish-American War in 1898. And on Sunday, Sept. 29, 1907, President Theodore Roosevelt participated in the festivities to lay the cathedral's foundation stone from Bethlehem.

Dr. George Bodley, an Englishman, and Henry Vaughn, an American, were commissioned as the first architects. Their design was based on 14th-century English precedent: laid out from east to west, cruciform in plan with a curved apse, a two-aisled nave, a high tower above the crossing and a tripartite west front with two towers. Indiana limestone was selected for the stonework.

Building a Gothic cathedral in the 20th century challenged the ministry. Craftsmen were needed who still worked in stonemasonry and stained-glass design. Although the Bethlehem chapel inside the cathedral opened in 1912, construction was slow. During both World Wars, building came to a complete standstill. For many involved, building the cathedral has been a lifetime mission. In fact, Peter Cleland, master mason at the cathedral, has three generations of the Cleland clan from Scotland working on its completion.

While based in Episcopal tradition, National Cathedral has from its inception strived to serve as "a house of prayer for all people." And as its more than 400,000 annual visitors and 200,000 worshippers can attest, once inside its towering nave, with soft, colored light streaming from the magnificent stained-glass windows, any visitor would feel welcome.

Consumers take comfort in cotton

Americans are rediscovering that there's no place like home. And with the continued transformation of homes into personal havens, there's increasing interest in the fashion and comfort of natural fibers for every home fabric end-use. "Cotton is definitely benefiting from this trend," says Pete Turner, director of Home Fabric marketing for Cotton Incorporated. "There's a tremendous renewal of interest in natural fibers for end-uses that in the past were purchased without much consideration of fashion or comfort."

There's an additional incentive to buy natural fibers right now in an environment of cautious consumption. The growing emphasis on natural fibers led to the development of natural fiber showcase home by Kaleidoscope International, Ltd., a leading supplier of 100 percent cotton decorative fabrics. Kaleidoscope International recently unveiled its second annual Natural Fiber Showcase during the International Home Furnishings market in High Point, NC.

The showcase, co-sponsored by Kaleidoscope, Cotton Incorporated, The Wool Bureau, Inc., and 3M Scotchguard Fabric Protector, features gallery-style rooms decorated with 100 percent wool floor coverings, as well as furniture and decorative accessories all under the natural fiber umbrella. "Kaleidoscope is a natural fiber company and we want the pure quality of cotton for all our decorative fabrics," says Dianne Lewis, president of Kaleidoscope. "Consumers want to be around natural fibers because they are more comfortable."

Survivors include her husband; a son, Mark of Abernathy; a daughter, Debbie Hobbs of Odessa; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Finis Wrinkle of Childress; two sisters, Joann Baker and Dorothy Rasseberry, both of Childress; and two grandchildren.

Texas sweeps national awards

Keep Texas Beautiful has won a first place award in the State category of Keep America Beautiful, Inc.'s 1990 National Awards program and eight other Keep Texas Beautiful affiliates captured six first places, one second place and two third place awards to distinguish Texas as the undisputed leader in these national awards designed to honor ongoing community programs that motivate individual responsibility and promote changes in individual and community practices.

Texas First Lady, Rita Clements, will represent Texas and Keep Texas Beautiful in receiving the State Award at the National Awards luncheon in Washington D.C. "This recognition is a well deserved feather in the Texas cap. The effective working partnership built between businesses, homeowners, local governments and Texas is the keystone to its successful program."

With the decline in the domestic petroleum market over the past few years, Texas has been hit hard. Determined to see their way through these difficult times Texans have banded closer together. Keep Texas Beautiful, Inc. has drawn on this sense of unity and in concert with our State Department of Highways and Public Transportation "Don't Mess With Texas" message, struck a cord with Texans and played a large role in renewing pride in our State. Since the introduction of this catchy slogan, and the accompanying Keep Texas Beautiful grassroots program litter along Texas highways has been reduced by 65%.

Recycling has seen a dramatic 154% increase in "multiple material" participating communities this year. Innovative programs using handicapped employees to sort products and the adoption of curbside recycling pilot programs have addressed the markets for recyclable products.

Our law enforcement efforts are aimed at telling Texas that if you "Mess With Texas - You'll Pay The Price!"

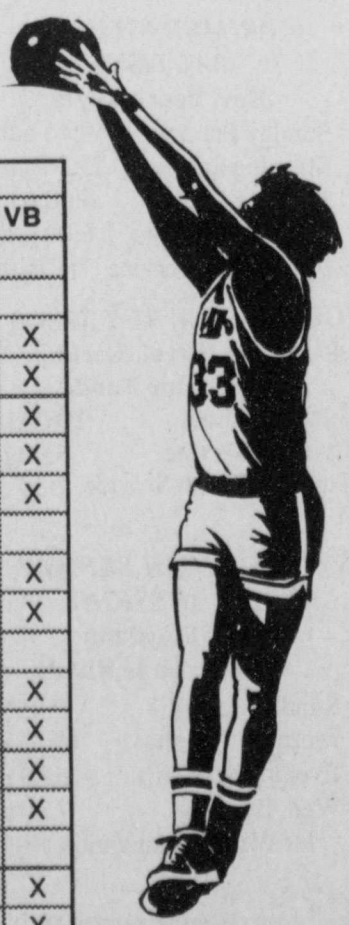

The citizens of Texas are getting a great return on their investment as we strive to preserve and enhance the natural beauty of the Lone Star State.
