NO. 29.

Hard Wheat For Castro County, Texas.

I see an article in Farm and Ranch of July 25, regarding macaroni wheat and I write you to get advice as to what wheat you consider best to raise in this country. I have about 20 acres in corn which is almost a failure. I want to cut the corn in a few days and sow it in wheat. I want to get all the good pasture that I can. Advise me fully regarding the kind, where I can get it free from Johnson grass seeds.

Perhaps you could tell me of some that was raising a suitable wheat that would be nearer than Dallas. Also I wish to sow some winter oats. What do you advise to plant and where do you think I could secure the seed? Also tell me as near as you can about the price of wheat and oats. I regard you as being fully in line with the best seeds and the best methods of sowing and your advice will be highly appreciated. I live far out on the plains in Castro county, we have a dark sandy land—just sand enough to call it sandy. It is not a close tight land.

Yours truly,
J. S. McCLURE.

Castro Co., Texas

ANS.—From observation of the wheat in the field and from discussing the matter with the Superintendent of the United States Cereal Farm, near Dallas, it appears that Medeah wheat is one of the hard wheats best suited to your conditions, because it withstands winter freezing most successfully, and is, at the same time, a luxuriant fall grazing wheat. I do not know of anyone nearer than Dallas who has this wheat for sale. Plant five pecks to the acre and you will receive the very best results. Medeah does not sprout in shock quickly. Systematic experiments are lacking relating to the planting of frost resisting oats at your elevation and latitude. Therefore I am unable to name varieties of oats that are better in this respect than the Texas rust proof.—Farm and Ranch.

Jim McCormack, of Cook county, has temporarily taken up his abode in our town until he can make arrangements to follow the avocation of farming. He brought with him a good supply of wheat and corn which he no doubt intends to use as an experiment in the Panhandle. We believe that one can sow such grain in this country with a fair assurance of success—at least this year's yield will bear us out in the opinion.

For Trade.

I have two nice young jacks, one three years old past—the other two years old past, and one stallion 6 years old, a natural saddle horse, which I will exchange for cattle. For further information see or write

Rural Philosophy.

Knowledge is valueless if ignored. The man that saves his time saves his money. A job that's worth doing is always worth doing about right. Vim and vigor are the vital forces in achieving success. The smallest event often becomes the greatest achievement. To have a show in these days, a man must be an accumulator. If every man saved his time as he saves his money, he would have money. It's generally the afternoon farmer that goes into agony about hard times. Failure establishes one thing—that your determination to succeed was weak. It's no use denying when you've been outdone—better acknowledge the corn. The hand who does the least work generally has the best ear for the dinner horn. The man who idles away today puts a mortgage on tomorrow that is hard to lift. The world is flooded with papers and books, and we can learn something each day. All the argifying won't convince some men of what's right, anyway you can fix it. It's generally a man's own fault if a bunco roper bamboozles him more than once. The man who saves his money is always ready to take advantage of a profitable investment.

DON'T BELIEVE ALL YOU HEAR.

The Pine Bluff (Ark.) Graphic gives some good advice that is worth more than gold in the following: "No one is to be more profoundly pitied than he who believes everything reported of his neighbor. Such a disposition may be termed cancer of the heart and eats out all the charity, mercy and faith in his kind. We are dependent upon each other for life and happiness in this world, and life is a dreary, dark dungeon if we lose faith in humanity. There are frailties enough in human hearts, but the world holds millions of men today who would die for honor, and whose word is as sure as life. Millions of pure women worthy of all esteem live in our country, rear their children in the fear and admonition of the Lord and will one day pass through the peerly gates, and he who sees evil in innocent actions and imputes wicked motives to others is a human hyena, unworthy of the name of man. This custom of believing every evil report is so common that the most notorious black guard in a community holds the power to tarnish the name of the purest woman, leaving upon it a smirch never to be effaced. No weakness is productive of so much harm as that of credulity in reference to slander, being responsible for more broken hearts than any other sin. If you want to be kind or just or merciful, as you would obtain mercy, hold fast to faith in the integrity and purity of your friend. Cheap Rates to the Panhandle. For the purpose of enlarging the Public's knowledge of the true conditions holding in Northwest Texas—(The Panhandle)—"The Denver Road" has put in effect round-trip party home-seekers rates to points along its line. These rates are upon a basis of one fare for the round trip for parties of five or more persons traveling together on one ticket, and carry the privilege of stop-overs at pleasure at all points North of and including Vernon, Texas; passengers being allowed a limit of 30 days in which to return. In view of the fact that the Panhandle is enjoying the most rapid growth of any section of Texas, for which there is ample reason, this move upon the part of "The Denver Road" is a wise one and will doubtless result in the splendid agricultural and business opportunities of that section becoming better known and appreciated within a very short period of time. This section of Texas abounds in resources and the land, being still available at very low prices, is now being rapidly taken up. Go to REDFEARN & Co for Gent's and Ladies' shoes.

An exchange says we are all poor critters. Not long ago a prominent merchant in a neighboring town received a letter from a large distilling firm asking for a list of names of citizens who might be interested in the literature issued by the firm setting forth the merits of a new brand of whisky and promising him a commission on all sales. The merchant being somewhat of a joker himself, set down and made out a list of the prominent prohibitionists of the place and forwarded it. He forgot all about the matter until about a month later, when it was called to his attention by a letter from the distillers enclosing a draft of $16.50 with thanks for list, which had been found peculiarly remunerative.—Western Publisher. Some people think it a little strange that it should last week frost in many parts of Texas, even as far south as Austin and still not frost in the Panhandle. There is nothing strange about it. It frosts a month earlier every year in central Texas than it does here in the Panhandle. The altitude is greater here and the air is lighter. The crops do not mature so early and nature has provided that the seasons shall be longer. The famous Upper Red River valley stands without a peer as a farming and stock raising section.—Memphis Herald.

J. S. Murphy, the Burton-Lingo Lumber Co. dispenser, says he can show his fellow idlers a few points on making a "Weary Willie" easy chair. He has got it down almost to a scientific precision.

Miss Mae Lair is now employed with Mrs. W. D. Street in the Millinery department and will be pleased to see her friends there at all times.

Wade Stephenson will have a neat little cottage erected with in the next 15 days. We understand that it will be somewhere in the southwest portion of town.

The brick yard men were in the city again yesterday. It is stated that they are making arrangements for the necessary machinery with which to proceed to business.

J. T. Miller and family, who are well known here, came in Wednesday from Kansas, where Mr. Miller has been employed as a harvest hand. He still lives at Texico, having gone there some four months ago.

The Hale County Herald says the barbecue at Plainview last Thursday was a grand success. Primarily, it was a railroad meeting, but Bro. Shafer didn't turn the "badger" loose—only reporting a few speeches with the proviso that the figures etc., would be forthcoming this week.

W. D. Street lectured at the court house Wednesday evening on "Prohibition from a Biblical standpoint." He contended that prohibition, or as he puts it, "legislation against wine and strong drink" is directly against the teachings of the Holy Writ.

The Rose-Chautauqua company, which gave an entertainment last night at the M. E. church, was fairly well attended and every one present expressed themselves as being well pleased with the performance. They will continue the series here for several nights so we are informed and will tonight illustrate "In His Steps."

G. W. West and family, of Keytesville, Mo., has arrived here and will make a temporary residence in the W. C. Kenyon house. Mr. West informs us that he is an agriculturist by occupation and will shortly make arrangements to do some extensive farming in this country. Mr. West is a pleasant appearing gentleman and we have no doubt that he will make a first class citizen.

Otto Jennings was among those who returned from Kansas City Wednesday. He says that on Monday some 23,000 head of cattle were on the market at that place and that on Tuesday butcher cows sold as low as $2.00.

R. A. Sowder is equipping his law office in grand style, having received within the last few days a handsome roll top desk, a nice book cabinet and a "splinter-fired" new Oliver typewriter. Some one has said that his correspondence with a matrimonial bureau had increased to such an extent that he felt the latter acquisition would be a great aid in dispatching the great volume of business.

M. S. Lusby presented us with two little violets this morning that contains more of the odor of sweet things than anything of its size we have ever inhaled. They are a new variety of this delightful flower and came from Mr. Lusby's old home at Taylor. We will sell a limited amount of this exhilarating essence at 5 cents a smell—your money refunded if not satisfied.

J. G. Adams, the Temperance Lecturer, lectured at the M. E. church Monday evening and held the undivided attention of a good audience. His discourse was interspersed with anecdotes and illustrations and those who did not altogether coincide with his views on this great question were impelled to give him credit for many good points.

Attention Ladies!

Mrs. W. D. Street has a splendid line of Dress Suits, made to order and ready made, Dress Skirts made-to-order and ready made, also a nice line of Snawls and Fascinators. When in need of anything real stylish in the Millinery line do not fail to call on her.

J. W. St. Clair went down to Hereford Wednesday on business.

Mrs. O. C. Davis returned Wednesday from Panhandle City, where she has been visiting for the past two weeks.

T. M. Laster, the genial Section foreman on this end of the P. V. & N. E., came down the road Monday with his force from Amarillo, where he had been for the past two weeks laying switches.

Earl Cobb stopped off here Monday evening on his return home from Roswell, where he had been taking in the Fair. He brought back with him a box of apples for his parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Cobb.

We haven't heard anything definite about our brick yard proposition this week, which promises fair to become a great enterprise of our town, but we wouldn't be surprised at any old-time hearing of a car load of brick coming in for a walk down Evelyu street.

Several of our citizens who are entirely above suspicion of ever having belonged to the Buffaloes, have this week been testing the quality of a little vial of vinegar held in the possession of a few mirth-provoking fellows. We'll not mention any names, but Jack Campbell will tell you how it happened. That little sense of taste in a man's appetite will cause him to do some queer things at times. Where necessity ends in one's wants, curiosity begins; and no sooner are we supplied with every thing that nature can demand, than we sit down to contrive artificial appetites.

The Dunbar building, contracted for on the south side of the square is to be 120 feet long by 30 feet wide with a fourteen foot wall and glass front. Dunbar is as silent as a clam as to who will occupy the building and the character of the business to be run there, but the News gets it from other sources that a general line of hardware will be the stock in trade and that Mr. —, and others will handle the business. L. A. Robeson is to be the builder of the house.

Stock are fat. Some of the neighbors have been selling cattle. Mr. Luna brought Frank Ames's calves, some 80 head, giving $8 per head, and some cows at $13.50 per head. There are others for sale here but the owners want a little more than that price for them.

Mrs. George Black, who has been confined to her bed for twenty years and suffered severely most all of that time, is now able to be up and about the place. She says she feels well and is satisfied that she is now on the road to perfect health. G. B.

The boys are having a good deal of fun with Wesley Cox. He is a wheat raiser and never raised any cotton until this year. He undertook to pick some in the usual way, but it hurt his back. He made a slide, fixed a seat on it with a box in front; then he hitched a gentle horse to the slide and picked cotton while he rode. He says that beats breaking ones back or wearing out ones knees at the business.—Leger News.

CHAMPION BEEF EATER.

Post Dispatch.
Former Mayor Robert Van Wyck retains the title of champion beef eater in greater New York.

An effort to beat his reported record of two years ago of eight and three-quarters pounds at one sitting failed in a contest just held in Williamsburg. The contestants were: Michael Schaupauf and F. Oschmann.

Fully five hundred Brooklynites watched the contest. The time limit was one hour and forty minutes.

Schaupauf took the lead at the second steak, holding it until the finish, when it was announced that he had eaten, in addition to a hundred clams and crackers, five and three-quarter pounds of steak, fifty oysters, two loaves of bread, a large bunch of asparagus and ten crabs.

Announcement is made by "The Denver Road" (The Ft. Worth & Denver City Railway), that tickets will be sold to COLORADO points, from Oct. 4th to 8th inclusive, for one fare plus 50 cents for the round trip. This rate is considerably lower than the regular Summer Tourist rate and as the tickets will be good until October 31st, same as the Summer Tourist ticket, it is expected a large number of people will take advantage of same.

"May I print a kiss on your lips?" I said.

And she nodded her sweet permission; So we went to press, and I rather guess

We printed a full edition.

"But one edition is hardly enough" She said with a charming pout. So again in press, the form was placed

And we got several "extras" out.

A country paper tells of two little boys who asked their mother if they might play store in the dining room. "Yes," she replied, "if you don't make much noise." "We'll be quiet about it, mom," said one, "We'll be storekeepers that don't advertise."

Saves Money on His Burial.

Detroit Tribune.

Simple and inexpensive was the funeral of the late Lord Salisbury, England's late great Premier. Some $70 all told was the cost of the obsequies. This was in accordance with the statesman's wish. He was rich, but abhorred ostentations and vulgar display. Inrites to the dead and the burden imposed on the poor in attempting what is called "respectable funerals." The dead Premier's example is "wholesome and in keeping with his great life; but if his were to be the limit in American funerals, which are so strictly up to date as a rule and sometimes very "nobby" many undertakers would have to be buried at public expense. The man who was "just walking around to save burial expenses" was unselfish, but built a monument to his own memory more enduring than the fame of a Congressman.

This is the season of the year when the wide-awake advertiser looks after Fall Business by occupying generous space in the local paper. It is proper to have representation there all the year, but now is the day of increased inches and attractive display, if the business man would demonstrate the power of printers ink judiciously spread. Fresh goods and popular prices are now in evidence with men who make use of the columns of the newspapers.

"There is an old negro living in Carrollton," relates the Bosworth Stars Sentinel, "who was taken ill several days ago and called in a physician of his race to prescribe for him. But the old man did not seem to be getting any better, and finally a white physician was called. Soon after arriving, Dr. S. felt the darky's pulse for a moment and then examined his tongue. "Did your other doctor take your temperature?" he asked. "I don't know, sah," he answered feebly. "I hain't missed anything but my watch as yet, boss."

The doom of the rural mail carrier is sounded by an item that is going the rounds—a wonderful new machine has been invented. It will deliver the mail to the farmers, throw kisses at the girls along the way, cuss the fellows who do not give the road, read the postal cards, keep posted on the market and bring packages from town. All the farmer has to do is to think right hard about what he wants and this machine will deliver it. Such rot would give a man the tree toads.

Rulings on the Terrell election law are being continually asked of the Attorney General, and it looks like a school will have to be taught in each voting precinct before a set of officers can be had capable of holding an election under the law, and it is safe to conclude that this abomination will prove a more fruitful source of litigation than our complicated land laws. If you think the law easily understood, just ask the first dozen men of good average intelligence you happen to meet, to explain to you the best features of it and to give you an idea of what it will cost the taxpayers of the state over and above the old law, to hold primaries and general elections. When you get through with these, then have three or four good lawyers to explain the provisions of the law to you one at a time and see how well they agree in their explanations of the act, then when you find that the opinions of all these differ, get a member of the legislature who voted for its passage to explain its practical workings so clearly that you would be enabled to hold an election as presiding officer in strict accordance with its provisions. Your "Uncle" is glad that our faithful and efficient representative voted against the bill, and hopes his shadow may never grow less. —Uncle Zeckiel, in Boyd Index.

The Episcopal Church held last Friday night at the M. E. church has been the first service held in Canyon City for four or five years and it is the intention of the General Missionary of the Panhandle to establish a service every month. Subject for next address, will be "One of the many mis-conceptions of the Episcopal Church."

One of our deputy county officials who has found it extremely hard to secure the services of the "main guy," has formulated a set of rules which he thinks will bring the delinquent to time: "Wages will be $6 a day. Breakfast will be served in bed; working hours will be from 10 a. m. to 2 p. m.; all heavy work is to be done by the boss; cigars furnished free. In the event the boss is found working the entire term of office in compliance with these rules, will have, in the event of his death, the epitaph of an incorrigible office seeker on his tombstone, viz: "Here lies John Jones in the only place for which he never applied."
