

A CANOEING ... EPISODE

"Steady. Don't stir. I'll be with you in a moment."

A young girl in a narrow, sharp pointed boat, with rowlocks of oar-riggers, had been caught in some rushes where the current was strong, had lost control of the boat and was on the point of being capsized. A young man in a canoe was paddling swiftly toward her. He caught her boat by the nose, extricated it from the rushes, picked up an oar from the water, handed it to her and held the boat till she had got both oars in position.

"Look out! Don't get flustered. There: dip both oars at once."

But instructions did not avail. The girl was demoralized, and every move she made tended to destroy her equilibrium. The young man attempted to instruct her, but lost his patience, called her stupid, apologized and ended by taking her into his canoe. Then, towing her boat behind, he paddled upstream.

"Where shall I take you?" he asked.

"Up where the lake begins. We have a little summer cottage there."

Horace Fletcher had just been graduated from one of the oldest colleges in the country. He had been captain of the university boating team and had been a medium scholar. In other words, he was an "all round" good man. Nothing seemed more physically and intellectually helpless than this young girl, who did not look to be more than seventeen—she wore a skirt to her ankles—who had no skill to sit in a narrow boat and hadn't sense enough to keep out of one. As he paddled on he felt it his duty to say something to her and, being full of college life, began to chat about it. She listened to him attentively while he told her of college athletics, college pranks and college gatherings of girls and students—indeed, just such matters as would interest a schoolgirl.

She made so little response to all this that Fletcher at last relapsed into silence. "She's better fitted," he remarked to himself, "for a kindergarten than a companion for a grown man." But silence was not entertaining, and Fletcher, thinking that his conversation might not have been simple enough for her, started in again, this time gauging his chat for a girl of fourteen.

"Girls differ as to their amusements," he said. "I have known a girl of sixteen who was a companion for a grown man, and I have known a girl of fourteen who hadn't yet given up her doll. Do you—I mean, rather, did you—take much interest in dolls?"

"I've got them all now," she replied. "I think there are six of them."

"Hm! Well, some girls don't like to part with their dolls."

The girl looked over the water toward a cottage they were nearing and said that she thought she would rather pull home herself than be inconspicuously carried home. So Fletcher put her into her boat, started her, and by this time, having collected her faculties, she did fairly well. He watched her till she reached the landing, then pulled on to a summer hotel a short distance beyond, where he proposed to spend the night.

He found the guests dining on the piazza, the dining room having been cleared for a hop that was to be held that evening. Stumbling on some people he knew, they persuaded him to take part in the festivities, though he was obliged to do so in canoeing costume. When the music struck up for the first dance he noticed a girl come in on the arm of an elderly man, gracefully sweeping the waxen floor with a train of white skirts, and it suddenly dawned upon him that she was the girl he had rescued. Passing him she gave him a cordial smile in which there was mingled something of amusement. It was evident to Fletcher that he had been mistaken as to the girl's age, that the short skirt she had worn was for boating and that he had been making a guy of himself. He rushed to one of his friends for information.

"That girl," said the person inquired of, "is Miss Edith Hawthorne. She has just been graduated from college, taking every honor for the senior year and most of the prizes during the rest of the courses. She is considered to have the best mind of any woman who has been graduated at college since it was organized. Shall I present you to her?"

"Present me!" Rather take me out and drown me!"

Miss Hawthorne was looking at them and, though she could not hear the words spoken, saw by Fletcher's expression their intent and, walking across the floor, joined them with all the confidence of a middle aged woman.

"I want to thank you," she said to Fletcher, "for extricating me today and apologizing for permitting you to mistake me in my short skirt for a little miss. Your error was apparent from the start, and I could not resist the temptation to let you go on in it."

"I will forgive you for a dance," said Fletcher, the color of a Jacqueminot rose, and, to cut an embarrassing interview short, he sailed away with her to the inspiring music.

When they parted they had discovered that they had mutual friends in the city.

"Good night," said Miss Hawthorne. "When we all get home come and see my dolls. I have them all in a little room by themselves. They've been there since I gave them up. But I was only twelve, not fourteen."

Fletcher's canoeing trip was ended. He remained where he was till the last day of his vacation, then followed his schoolgirl to the city.

MARY COOLIDGE.

ALL OVER THE HOUSE.

Borax the Most Useful of Household Antiseptics.

Do you know how useful borax is in the household? It is one of the most powerful antiseptics known. It is used to wash the head—as much as one can hold in the hollow of the hand to about a quart of water; it destroys dandruff, allays the heat of sunburn, bleaches out tan and redness, helps freckles and moths to a great degree, in a weak solution relieves inflammation of the eyes, as after crying and in rheumatic affections, and is an invaluable ingredient in almost every dentifrice and cure for canker in the mouth and for any gum boil.

It cleans the brush and comb. It is a whitener and purifier everywhere when used with discretion.

The laundress finds it softening hard water, whitening her clothes without destroying them.

The table maid finds it giving new luster to her glass, lays her silver in a hot solution of it and does not have to cleanse it laboriously half so often.

Kitchen Suggestions.

Clean your iron cooking utensils with a piece of soft red brick.

Brown paper moistened in vinegar will polish your tins until they shine like silver.

Rub a drop of olive oil on your knives and forks before putting them away, and they will retain their brightness and be free from rust.

To clean flatirons, rub them on green cedar.

Wash your stove with vinegar before polishing and mark the result.

Pour a tablespoonful of castor oil around the roots of your calla lilies to produce quick, large blooming.—Woman's Home Companion.

The Dining Table.

The care of the dining room table is very simple. Once a week rub hard with a soft flannel moistened with paraffin oil and turpentine, then with a piece of soft, old linen. Let it rest for an hour, then rub hard with a piece of chamois or clean, old linen. Give it a daily rubbing with chamois or linen. White spots on a table can often be removed by rubbing with kerosene. If the spots are very deep, rub gently and rapidly with linseed oil and powdered rottenstone. Do not use great pressure, and be sure not to let the powder get dry.—Ladies' Home Journal.

Spiced Cherries.

Spiced cherries are an enjoyable relish and can easily be kept all winter. They are made of four pounds of whole cherries, over which must be poured while boiling for four successive days a quart of vinegar boiled with two pounds of sugar, the peel of two lemons, two ounces of stick cinnamon and one of whole cloves. The spices should be kept in a muslin bag. On the fifth day boil the cherries with the vinegar and put while hot in closely sealed jars. Plums or damsons may be pickled in the same way.

Lemon Soap.

Kept as a soap on the toilet table, a slice of lemon will work wonders on the skin. Its acid searches out the hidden grime that may be contained in the pores and cleanses these tiny pipes as soap could never do. No polisher for the nails can excel in efficiency this same lemon juice, which takes out all stains from the corners of the nails, polishes up their horny texture, makes them shine and softens the thin skin at the roots so that the half moons at the end show up well.

Antidotes For Poisons.

Soda, saleratus, potash or any other alkali is rendered harmless by acids, as vinegar, tomato juice, etc. Arsenic needs oil or melted fat, with magnesia and lime water in large quantities, till free vomiting is brought about.

Phosphorus, which is quite frequently bitten off the ends of matches by children, demands magnesia and large drafts of gum arabic or any other sort of gum water.

Sweetening Sour Milk.

An experienced cook states that sour milk in which soda has been thoroughly dissolved in the proportion of one-quarter teaspoonful of soda to one cupful of milk can be used as sweet milk if only a little less baking powder is used in the flour than with sweet milk.

List your land, in Randall county, with Brandon at the News office. He will have some purchasers here before long. See him about this.

A Gotham Incident.

There are all sorts of people in New York, even to a motorman who stops his car long enough to lie down on the sidewalk and have a fit. He wanted to proceed on his journey after it was over, but an ambulance surgeon and a policeman prevented. By an odd coincidence there was a basement shoe shop opposite where he stopped his car in which was a sign, "Come In and Have a Fit."

The Sea Serpent.

Scientists are seriously considering the report of the commander of the French gunboat Avalanche, who tells of having twice seen a sea serpent in the bay of Faitsilong, on the coast of Tonquin. It did not differ from the usual vision, being huge in size, with a ruffle along its back. Shots fired at it glanced harmlessly. Cameras were brought on deck, but the monster had disappeared.

Its Judge Parker of New York, and ex-senator Henry G. Davis, of West Virginia.

Everything points to indications that the Panhandle's old-time prosperity is coming again in all its vigor this year. Cattle are almost sure to go higher within the ensuing six or eight months; other kinds of stock are selling at good prices, and crops—this promises to be a record-breaking crop year.

FORTY-FIVE thousand packing house employes walked out on a strike Tuesday and nearly all the packeries, including those of Fort Worth, are closed. This virtually means a closing of these markets to stock shipments until some arrangements are made. From all reports it promises to be one of the greatest strikes on record and its effect on both consumer and producer will be far-reaching.

Local ranchmen in discussing the market situation say that the Panhandle will not have the usual amount of stuff to go out this year, and that shipments to market are going to be late. Cattle were in thin condition so long as a result of the protracted drought that some time yet will be required to get them in shape for market. The low prices brought by the half-fat stuff that has been shipped out already has had the proper effect in causing a let-up in the procedure, which will result in no further sacrifice of cattle. Grass is reported growing nicely all over the range country and cattle are taking on fat rapidly. There is plenty of grass and water, apparently, to carry everything through in good shape until fall, when if the expected fall rains materialize, stuff will go into the coming winter in very satisfactory style.

Ex President Grover Cleveland is perfectly delighted at the outcome of the National Democratic convention. The English papers are also highly pleased with the ticket and especially with the gold standard affirmation.

If Jupiter Pluvius only wreathes his face with such a broad smile that a little water will come about the first of next week on the Plains and Randall county particularly, the revelation that will be shown visitors to the reunion in the way of a beautiful county will be something akin to marvelous. Even if the old fellow persists in frowning and keeping his face wreathed in an unending exhibition of indifference between now and that time this country will not be ashamed of its gay raiment of early spring. The entire Plains country is covered with a rich green verdure refreshing to the eye and suggestive of peace and plenty. From a season of dearth and calamity the country has emerged into the glad sunshine of a plentiful prosperity. Nature is a wise old dame, after all.

RANDOM THOUGHTS.
G. A. B.

In speaking of the early days of the Roman republic, Macaulay said:
"Then none was for a party;
They all were for the State;
Then the great men help'd the poor,
And the poor men lov'd the great;
Then lands were fairly portioned;
Then spoils were fairly sold;
The Romans were like brothers,
In the brave days of old."
Referring to "then" and touching on the conditions of his day, Cowper gives utterance to the following:
"But the age of virtuous politics is past,
And we are deep in that of cold pretence;
Patriots are grown too shrewd to be sincere,
And we too wise to trust them."
While not altogether agreeing with Cowper on his sentiments as set forth in the above lines yet it is true that a very great extent we, like Rome, are turning from a nation of patriots to a country of partisans. Those familiar with the history of the Grecian republics and later on with that of Rome cannot fail but note the repetition in our own country of many of the courses which led to the downfall of those ancient commonwealths. It was not until those people became rich and powerful that the political grafter got in his deadly work and then followed the purchase, for gold, of legislative bodies; whole senates and chief magistrates became an easy prey to corruption and the boasted liberties of the masses was no more. Gold sought to rule in those days; it succeeded and today, with us in high places as well as low its pernicious practices are clearly visible. Millions were spent in our last National campaign to secure a man who was "conservative"—friendly to GOLD. Seats in our National senate and in the House have been bought and paid for out of "slush funds" and at many times the price attached as compensation to those so-called "public servants." And it is sheer nonsense to say that men who will thus publicly and shamelessly purchase an office will not sell the rights of the people. But as one Congressman said during a debate in the House a few years ago: "D—n the people, what have they got to do with it anyway?"

"I am a Democrat." So spoke that slick politician, David B. Hill, a few years ago, and yet in the two last presidential campaigns we found him doing his level best against the Democratic National ticket. This very man, Senator David Bennett Hill, with the words "I am a Democrat" still warm upon his lips did more, perhaps, than any other one man to bring about the defeat of W. J. Bryan. It was not that he had anything against Bryan as a man, or doubted his honesty or ability. Oh no! Not anything of that sort, but simply because Mr. Bryan stood for honest government and was unpurchasable. With Senator Hill it is gold—the rule of gold—first and always; Democrats must bow at his altar, take his man, accept his terms and then "I am a Democrat" holds good.

And now unreasonable as it may seem the mountain has come to Mahomet—the Democratic party has gone to Senator Hill. "Take Parker and you win, reject him and you lose!" says this great wily apostle of the money power—we took him. Again Hill says: "Make the surrender complete; declare for sound money—the gold standard—even as the Republican party has done!" And, had it not been for Bryan coupled with the fear of a revolt from the Democratic ranks in some of the Southern and Western States this too had been yielded. As it is while the Hill gold plank was not specifically included we have accepted his known gold measured candidate and by silence in the platform the head of our National ticket is practically uninstructed: When Grover Cleveland fastened the gold standard upon the country he repudiated the platform declaration upon which he was elected but in this particular Judge Parker is left to his own sweet will, purposely unhampered by his party. It is bad in this respect, surely, but it might have been worse. Now, as to the Republicans, they are hopelessly gone on this momentous issue: they are wedded hard and fast to a government of, by and for gold and its resulting evils, while there is yet grounds for belief that the Democratic party, uncommitted as it is in its present National platform upon this issue, may ere long return to those principles enunciated at Kansas City. In this lays the only hope of the nation.

The present National Democratic ticket, standing as it does for a free hand of the chief executive power of the Nation on financial legislation, is the most loathsome dish of crow that this writer has had set before him saving only those of Greeley and Cleveland; it is sickening, extremely so, but being a Democrat far removed from the Cleveland-Hill tribe of bolters he proposes to stand by the colors, as he has ever done, believing that when the rank and file of the democracy awakes, as it surely will, that this sell-out for spoils will receive the righteous condemnation its iniquity so justly merits. Barring the silence of the National platform on finance and the income tax issues the document is alright and so also is the personal character of the men who form the ticket; their ability too is beyond question.

Clark Smith, the manager of Hotel Victoria, says he thinks the town will be filled to overflowing with guests during the reunion. His hotel has already made arrangements to accommodate 72 guests, besides the regular complement of boarders, and exclusive of his expectations for the final "grand rush". All the hotels in the town will have their hands full from now until after the reunion.
J. I. Phillips, the photographer, would appreciate a share of the patronage of the people of Canyon City and surrounding country. He will treat you right, give you good work and do it promptly.

RE-UNION PROGRESS.

The executive committee and also the sub-committees are doing an unusual amount of work this year in the endeavor to make the coming Reunion surpass, if anything, that of last year.

Among the prominent speakers invited who have already promised to attend are

Judge Jno. Veal, of Amarillo.
Judge H. E. Hoover, of Canadian
Dr. W. H. Freeman, of Lockney.
Rev. G. S. Hardy, of Clarendon.
Congressman Stephens, Vernon.
Hon. Jerry Simpson, Roswell.
Hon. Temple Houston, Ind. Ter.
Rev. B. H. Carroll, Waco.

These gentlemen alone are sufficient guarantee that in so far as the speaking is concerned that the program will be a good one.

Among the additional attractions over last year, not the least by any means is a

BALLOON ASCENSION.

This will be had each day of the carnival, probably in the evening. The aeronaut, G. W. Riesto, of McKinney, is to go up in his balloon to a height of at least 2,000 feet. The committee has not concerned itself with the matter of his coming down. This attraction will take place from about the grand stand and will of course be free to everybody.

The day music will be furnished by the Hereford Band.

The entire program for the night entertainments at the grand stand has not yet been determined, but perhaps one of its leading features will be a Trade's Carnival.

All stock were removed from the grounds the first of this month and will be kept off until after the Reunion. This will give us a fine carpet of grass and be a great improvement over last year.

The committee on the Fine Stock Show has not yet reported, but in all other lines the work is moving along nicely and the visitor can rest assured that he can have a "good time" if he wants to.

Everything points to indications that the Panhandle's old-time prosperity is coming again in all its vigor this year. Cattle are almost sure to go higher within the ensuing six or eight months; other kinds of stock are selling at good prices, and crops—this promises to be a record-breaking crop year.

FORTY-FIVE thousand packing house employes walked out on a strike Tuesday and nearly all the packeries, including those of Fort Worth, are closed. This virtually means a closing of these markets to stock shipments until some arrangements are made. From all reports it promises to be one of the greatest strikes on record and its effect on both consumer and producer will be far-reaching.

Local ranchmen in discussing the market situation say that the Panhandle will not have the usual amount of stuff to go out this year, and that shipments to market are going to be late. Cattle were in this condition so long as a result of the protracted drought that some time yet will be required to get them in shape for market. The low prices brought by the half-fat stuff that has been shipped out already has had the proper effect in causing a let-up in the procedure, which will result in no further sacrifice of cattle. Grass is reported growing nicely all over the range country and cattle are taking on fat rapidly. There is plenty of grass and water apparently, to carry everything through in good shape until fall, when if the expected fall rains materialize, stuff will go into the coming winter in very satisfactory style.

Ex President Grover Cleveland is perfectly delighted at the outcome of the National Democratic convention. The English papers are also highly pleased with the ticket and especially with the gold standard affirmation.

If Jupiter Pluvius only wreathe his face with such a broad smile that a little water will come about the first of next week on the Plains and Randall county particularly, the revelation that will be shown visitors to the reunion in the way of a beautiful county will be something akin to marvelous. Even if the old fellow persists in frowning and keeping his face wreathed in an unending exhibit of indifference between now and that time this country will not be ashamed of its gay raiment of early spring. The entire Plains country is covered with a rich green verdure refreshing to the eye and suggestive of peace and plenty. From a season of dearth and calamity the country has emerged into the glad sunshine of a plentiful prosperity. Nature is a wise old dame, after all.

RANDOM THOUGHTS. G. A. B.

In speaking of the early days of the Roman republic, Macaulay said: "Then none was for a party: They all were for the State: Then the great men help'd the poor, And the poor men lov'd the great: Then lands were fairly portioned: Then spoils were fairly sold; The Romans were like brothers, In the brave days of old."

Referring to "then" and touching on the conditions of his day, Cowper gives utterance to the following:

"But the age of virtuous politics past, And we are deep in that of pretence; Patriots are grown too shrewd to sincere, And we too wise to trust them."

While not altogether agreed with Cowper on his sentiment as set forth in the above yet it is true that to a very great extent we, like Rome, are trying to ing from a nation of patriots a country of partisans. The familiar with the history of Grecian republics and late with that of Rome cannot but note the repetition in our own country of many of the courses which led to the fall of those ancient commonwealths. It was not until people became rich and powerful that the political graft in his deadly work and the lowered the purchase, for legislative bodies; senators and chief magistrates became an easy prey to corruption and the boasted liberty of the masses was no more. Sought to rule in those days succeeded and today, with high places, as well as pernicious practices are visible. Millions were secured a man who was a native—friendly to Seats in our National senate in the House have been and paid for out of "stush" and at many times the price attached as compensation so-called "public ser And it is sheer nonsense that men who will thus and shamelessly pure office will not sell the people. But as a congressman said during in the House a few years ago: "Down the people, what have they got to do with it anyway?"

"I am a Democrat." So spoke that slick politician, David B. Hill, a few years ago, and yet in the two last presidential campaigns we found him doing his level best against the Democratic National ticket. This very man, Senator David Bennett Hill, with the words "I am a Democrat" still warm upon his

"Take Parker and you win, reject him and you lose!" says this great wiley apostle of the money power—we took him. Again Hill says: "Make the surrender complete; declare for sound money—the gold stand-

The "most popular lady" contest for the beautiful $10 dress hat at the Canyon Mercantile Co. is waxing warm this week and the temperature of the enthusiasm has not been effected by warm climatic conditions, either. There is an absolute guarantee that every person will receive his or her money's worth of merchandise and the hat is such a beauty that the incentive to award it to a friend by voting with every 50 cent purchase is very tempting. The contestants, together with the vote received up till yesterday noon, can be found elsewhere in this paper.

Plans are under headway to arrange for a Baptist protracted meeting to begin at this place immediately after the reunion, the purpose of such arrangement to perfect a permanent residence for an annual State encampment where this denomination will be enabled to obtain choice spirits to contribute to its success. Amarillo and Canyon City Baptists are already at work on this meeting and it is thought that the service of the Carroll brothers can be secured for this year's meeting. A location near the town will be selected for the meeting and ample provisions will be made to make the camp a place where the stockmen can come with their families, cooks, cowboys, "chuck" wagons, ect., and spend two or three weeks in social enjoyment and for social instruction. A more definite announcement of the success of this venture will appear in next week's issue if the arrangements have developed tangible proportions.

NEW RAILROAD CHIPS.

It must not be thought that because the News has had little, if anything, for the last month or so about prospective Plains railroads, that all rumors touching them have subsided and that the regions of the air in that respect are thoroughly clarified, for such is not the case. Here are a few chips which came in on the last breeze, to wit:

1. Our latest Amarillo exchange says that General Gordon will be ready in a few days to begin the good work at Amarillo, going south.

2. That one day this week a whole car of surveying apparatus including grade stakes, was switched off here at the stock pens and that Santa Fe surveyors would begin at once the laying off of a line from here south.

3. Others claim that this identical car of surveying instruments and grade pins is intended for the new line billed to start from Umbarger. At any rate, these same surveyors, together with their accoutrements, were conveyed yesterday to Umbarger from here by rail, having sent on a wagon and team and camping outfit to the same place early in the morning.

4. It is reported that L. G. Conner has not been seen in town since the arrival of the special car. Our correspondent is out now hunting him in order to get his version of the matter.

There are a great many things that might be said on this line but as the News will not prevaricate, if it knows it, they can go over until next issue.

His Only Wish.

Nothing so touches the heart strings as the loss of a favorite child. Anyone who has experienced such a misfortune will sympathize with Mr. N. J. Lewis of Newbury, Florida, who writes: "I am so thankful that I have found a cure for dysentery. For three years I have been troubled with this disease. Chamberlain's Cholera, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy was recommended to me and has effected a cure. When it comes back one dose is all that is necessary to set me right. I only wish I had known about this remedy a year ago when my dear little baby, one and a half years old, took dysentery and died in three days. The doctors tried to stop it but failed, and I buried my very heart strings with my child. No household should be without this valuable remedy. For sale by S. V. Wirt, Druggist."

Notice.

The revival services for the Methodist church will begin the 3rd Sunday in August and continue two weeks. All Christian people are earnestly requested to assist, and everybody cordially invited to attend these services.

J. E. Stephens, Pastor.
Wright, Gamble & Co. are putting on new clothes for the reunion—they are having their building painted.

RE-UNION PROGRESS.

The executive committee and also the sub-committees are doing an unusual amount of work this year in the endeavor to make the coming Reunion surpass, if anything, that of last year.

Among the prominent speakers invited who have already promised to attend are

- Judge Jno. Veal, of Amarillo.
- Judge H. E. Hoover, of Canadian
- Dr. W. H. Freeman, of Lockney.
- Rev. G. S. Hardy, of Clarendon.
- Congressman Stephens, Vernon.
- Hon. Jerry Simpson, Roswell.
- Hon. Temple Houston, Ind. Ter.
- Rev. B. H. Carroll, Waco.

These gentlemen alone are sufficient guarantee that in so far as the speaking is concerned that the program will be a good one.

Among the additional attractions over last year, not the least by any means is a

BALLOON ASCENSION.

This will be had each day of the carnival, probably in the evening. The aeronaut, G. W. Riesto, of McKinney, is to go up in his balloon to a height of at least 2,000 feet. The committee has not concerned itself with the matter of his coming down. This attraction will take place from about the grand stand and will of course be free to everybody.

The day music will be furnished by the Hereford Band.

The entire program for the night entertainments at the grand stand has not yet been determined, but perhaps one of its leading features will be a Trade's Carnival.

All stock were removed from the grounds the first of this month and will be kept off until after the Reunion. This will give us a fine carpet of grass and be a great improvement over last year.

The committee on the Pine Stock Show has not yet reported, but in all other lines the work is moving along nicely and the visitor can rest assured that he can have a "good time" if he wants to.

The Reunion has been advertised liberally, the railroads, especially the "Pecos Valley" and "The Denver," lending willing hands to the good work and the prospects for a "crowd" of Easterners is excellent. Morgan's Coat of Arms.

J. Pierpont Morgan is gifted with a great deal more of humor than is generally known. Not long ago, while in London, he was introduced to a lady who made some pretensions to poeage. "Pardon me," said this lady haughtily, "to which Morgans do you belong?" "Oh, we are an independent branch," replied Mr. Morgan slyly, "but we date back to the Norman kings." "Ah, then you have a coat of arms?" Mr. Morgan dug down into his pocket and brought forth a shining American twenty dollar gold piece. "This," he said, "is our coat of arms; a few other families have adopted the same emblem. But," he continued confidentially, "we are gathering them in as fast as possible."—Argonaut.

A Tibetan Trap.

A method of obstruction and destruction practiced by the Tibetans against the invading British forces is a sort of booby trap. A rough tilting table is fixed on an eminence; the higher end is secured by cords, and on the farther edge huge masses of rocks are piled. When the enemy passes on the road below, the Tibetans cut the cords, and the table tilts automatically and launches the rocks upon the heads of those far underneath.

Strength of a Trolley Wire.

A trolley cable three-quarters of an inch in diameter became slack and sagged across the railroad track at Hudson, N. H. It caught an engine moving at full speed just under the headlight. Strange to say, it did not break, but instead tore up telegraph poles for some distance and finally knocked a house off its foundation. The train was halted with its driving wheels still revolving.

A Rapid Talker.

The German emperor's speeches are always taken down by his own special shorthand writer. Otherwise it would chance at many places that no one could be found capable of reproducing them verbatim. His majesty starts at about 260 syllables a minute, but, warming to his subject, approaches and occasionally exceeds 350, which makes it pretty warm work for the reporter.

The Boy Understood.

Elihu Root, who has returned to the practice of law in New York city, has engaged a new office boy. Said Mr. Root, "Who carried off my paper basket?" "It was Mr. Reilly," said the boy. "Who is Mr. Reilly?" asked Mr. Root. "The janitor, sir." An hour later Mr. Root asked, "Jimmie, who opened that window?" "Mr. Lantz, sir." "And who is Mr. Lantz?" "The window cleaner, sir." Mr. Root wheeled about and looked at the boy. "Look here, James," he said; "we call men by their first names here. We don't 'mister' them in this office. Do you understand?" "Yes, sir." In ten minutes the door opened, and a small shrill voice said, "There's a man here as wants to see you, Elihu."
