TRESSES OF JOAN OF ARC

Dispute as to Whether Famous Maid of Orleans Was Blonde or Brunette.

Was Joan of Arc's hair fair or dark? That perpetual and palpitating subject of discussion has come to the front once more in France in consequence of the quarrel between M. Clemenceau and the people of Orleans over the annual fetes. A writer in the Figaro has summed up the evidence, which seems to be as follows:

A number of writers have concluded that Pucelle's hair was dark, but their conclusions are all derived from two sources—the testimony of a writer who was not born until after Joan's death, and the famous single black hair, found in 1844, attached to the wax seal of a document addressed by Joan to the town of Riom. Authorities, however, declare that the practice of sealing with hair was very rare, and that it had quite disappeared before the fifteenth century.

On the other hand, a portrait exists in the museum at Orleans which in all probability dates from about 1450, or less than 20 years after the heroine's death, and in that portrait she is represented with fair hair. Other paintings and writings of but little later date bear the same testimony, so that on the whole the balance of evidence goes to show that "La bonne Lorraine" had fair, not dark, tresses.

HIS SUNDAY TEETH.

"See that old farmer chap, with the drooping cotton umbrella?" said a city dentist, pointing to a fellow passenger in a Broadway car. "Well, sir, he's worth a half million—though I didn't suspect it until I had done a professional job for him."

"He was referred to me by a mutual friend in his home town. He wanted a plate for the upper jaw, and surprised me by rejecting a rubber one. 'I want the best,' he said. 'I'm 80 now, and I guess I might as well have it.'"

"He further surprised me by leaving an order for a solid gold plate, value $100—and he pulled out a roll as big as your arm to leave the deposit."

"Several months after delivery I met him and asked how the gold plate and new teeth worked. 'Finest in our town, I tell ye,' he said. 'But I ain't wearin' 'em, only on Sundays. That saves 'em, ye see.'"

"Which explains in a way why he's worth half a million."—N. Y. Globe.

THE NEW BABY.

Proud Mother—Everyone says that he's the very image of his father, and that he grows more like him every day.

Cynicus, the Bachelor—Yes, I'm afraid he is a bit like him. But you needn't mind that so long as the child has good health. No doubt he'll grow out of it in time.

BE GOOD TO THE CANARY.

Do not use a painted cage. The bird will peck the cage more or less, and the paint thus imbibed is very injurious.

The larger the cage the better it is for the birds, and if not new it should be scalded and well dried before putting them into it.

The cage should be thoroughly cleaned every morning, placing a piece of clean brown paper, not newspaper, on the bottom. Perches should also be washed daily.

Canary seed principally should be given, though now and then a little rape is beneficial.

A piece of cuttle bone is needed always, and now and then a lump of sugar.

Guard the cage from draught, from exposure to cold at night and also from too much heat.

FAVORS DRILL FOR BOYS

Canadian School Inspector Gives Many Reasons to Show That It Is Beneficial.

Mr. J. L. Hughes, inspector of schools at Toronto, gives the following reasons in the Nation in Arms why boys should drill:

"Boys like drill.
"It develops them physically.
"It trains them to be responsibly obedient.

"It reveals the need of individual training.
"It defines in a boy's mind a consciousness of the need of co-operation.

"It develops a genuine patriotism, not an arrogant or offensive consciousness of national importance, but a genuine faith in himself and his country. When a boy wears his country's uniform, and follows his country's flag, and keeps step to the patriotic music of his country, he gets a real patriotic spirit in his heart and life. Such a spirit is one of the basic elements of a strong and balanced moral character.

"When a boy learns drill in his youth he is ready throughout life to take his place creditably in the ranks of a country or regiment.

"Drill makes boys executive and the schools of the past have failed in defining executive power."

THE SIMPLE AND HAPPY LIFE.

Wife—And if you go to your club, don't leave your umbrella there.

THE FIRST OIL WELL.

With the death of James P. Smith of Titusville, Pa., there passed the last of the group of men who appear in the famous Drake well picture, taken in the autumn of 1861 by John A. Mather, the noted oil region photographer. The group in the picture included Col. Edwin L. Drake, the man who drilled the well; William and James P. Smith, practical drillers, who assisted with the work; Peter Wilson, Titusville merchant and steadfast friend of Col. Drake, and Albridge Locke. The five men are dead. This picture adorns the offices of hundreds of oil operators and refiners, and is the only photograph of the first oil well. The only person now living connected with the picture is John A. Mather, the photographer.

AS TO BELIEF.

Do we want to believe in things simply because they are true? Why, no, it takes no effort of the imagination to believe in a demonstrably true thing; we get more entertainment out of believing in things because they are wonderful, because they sound as if they might not be true and then again as if they might be true. That is the reason we have always believed the story of Jonah and the great fish; we are glad that we believe it; but if some one would explain to us that it was, after all, a scientific possibility, we shouldn't be proud of believing it any more; it would not interest us one way or the other.—Uncle Remus' Magazine.

READING HUMAN NATURE.

To be an expert in reading human nature is just as valuable to a young lawyer as a knowledge of law; it is as valuable to a physician as a knowledge of medicine. The man who can read human nature, who can "size up" a person quickly, who can arrive at an accurate estimate of character, no matter what his vocation, or profession, has a great advantage over others.—Success Magazine.

The two cases of the Canyon Coal Co. vs. the Pecos Valley Lines, for full value of coal appropriated by the defendant company while in transit, wound up the civil docket for the term. The first of these cases was submitted to the court without a jury, and the plaintiff's demands, $119, were decreed. A new trial was granted on this, to come up next court. The other case was submitted to a jury and a verdict given for $170.10, the full amount of plaintiff's claim.

In probate matters the Rider estate was declared "closed" and J. M. Burkhalter of Ceta, filed his application to qualify as Survivor in Community on the estate of his deceased wife.

TASSIE.

More Cement Sidewalks.

A. M. Smith has a petition signed by a majority of the property holders along the south side of West Evelyn street, asking the City Council for an ordinance requiring cement sidewalks from the public square to the school building. In this connection the city will also be asked for street crossings and for a gravel center, twelve feet or more wide, on the street.

The property owners will, of course, defray the sidewalk expense and Mr. Smith is of the opinion that said owners will provide, to some extent, the means for graveling the street, leaving the balance of this gravel bill and the crossings for the city to meet. Some public spirited citizen, J. A. Edwards, perhaps, is looked for to donate the gravel.

All of this is good for the individuals immediately concerned and good for the town generally and The News wants to see it materialize.

AMARILLO REJOICING.

Monday night Amarillo, in mass meeting assembled, raised the balance of the money necessary to secure the Santa Fe branch line from Panhandle, also a division point, temporarily.

The News says a "division point temporarily" because Avery Turner, official head of the Southern Kansas and Pecos Valley department of the Santa Fe, in his open letter to Amarillo, published in the Daily Panhandle of last Saturday, said:

"I offered the Amarillo Commercial Club what was then the full value of property required for divisional terminal here, BUT DISTINCTLY STATED THAT IT WAS WITHOUT ANY OBLIGATION TO MAINTAIN THEM HERE."

In this Mr. Turner was referring to the amount the railroad was to pay for the shop grounds proper, $15,000, the remainder for the right-of-way, Amarillo to Panhandle, to be paid by Amarillo. From this it clearly stands out, first, that the railroad company pays for the terminal grounds out of its own money, and second, that said railroad is under no obligation to maintain such terminals there for any period of time.

How then, in the face of this statement by Mr. Turner, to say nothing whatever of the illogical position of a great railroad going so far out of its natural course, can Amarillo or any one else say, as the Panhandle does, that "the Santa Fe shop proposition is settled?"

But, aside from this shop question, Amarillo has reason to rejoice even for the branch line. The shops they cannot hope to hold, notwithstanding this temporary advantage. "It was only by the hardest kind of effort, in the face of the strongest kind of opposition, that Vice President Turner succeeded in having the company consider Amarillo as the point for the proposed improvements," says the Daily Panhandle. And, such being so, is it not flying in the face of common sense to say that Amarillo has anything like a cinch. Mr. Turner himself, the avowed friend and champion of Amarillo, says not. Amarillo is rejoicing, nevertheless, she has the branch line and hopes to keep for all time the "divisional terminal" and her cup of happiness is full even to overflowing on her less favored neighbors. On this last point the Daily Panhandle says:

While Amarillo will be the immediate and greatest beneficiary, our smaller sisters in all directions will come in for a share of the benefits. We are proud of Canyon, our enterprising neighbor on the south, for her pluck and energy. Had we failed in our task she was ready to step in and carry off the rich prize. She has every right to aspire to greatness that we can claim, and all honor to her for her manly efforts and aspirations.

Canyon City does not begrudge Amarillo the branch line from Panhandle, but she never will, so long as chance offers and it seems to be as good today as ever, give up the fight for what by nature and by sound business judgment she is entitled to—the Panhandle main shops and round houses of the Santa Fe.

"TOO PESSIMISTIC."

"You are too pessimistic," remarked a friend to The News editor, one day last week. The News man confessed that, perhaps, he was; that it was one of his besetting sins along certain lines. Circumstances over which he had no control, made life "rocky" for him in his beginning and an extensive, sharp, biting contact with men in business lines and in the courts has not tended to brighten his later view of things.

While thus admitting his inclination toward pessimism, as the word is commonly understood, rather than optimism, The News man does not wish to be taken as falling out with mankind in general, or as holding to the frequently expressed opinion that "the world is getting worse" for, on the contrary, he believes with all his heart that as the nations of the earth improve in knowledge they get better. There has been back-sets, of course, such as the "Dark Ages," and the like will in all probability occur again, this old world of ours goes down the stream of time, but on the whole mankind has been getting better and still better, morally speaking, since Adam was cast from the Garden of Eden.

The charge, "too pessimistic," was brought to bear during a conversation in which The News editor seriously questioned the feasibility of such business ventures as self-sustaining "Panhandle Colleges" under present conditions, waterworks and sewerage systems for Plains towns with less than 3000 population and standard gauge railroads without trunk line business relations. For this opinion and for the further reason that The News editor expressed himself as having little use for the average gold plated promoter he was dubbed a pessimist. And, if the charge fits the facts, as stated, he is.

SILVERTON BRETHREN IN ERROR.

The Hereford Brand and the Canyon City News are spitting at each other. Better quit, brethren, it don't pay. Put in the space used for spitting, something of interest about this great big country that will interest people who are homeseeking. Silverton Enterprise.

Our brethren of the Enterprise are in error—we are not "spitting."

Hereford, from a newspaper standpoint, is the best town of the entire Panhandle. Its business people, energetic, progressive and keen sighted enough to thoroughly appreciate the value to the town and surrounding country of a local newspaper of the first class have so patronized "The Brand" office with advertising and commercial printing as to make the issue of such a paper at Hereford not only possible, but profitable. And "The Brand" in return is filling the bill, paying not only measure for measure on the generous patronage received, but bringing to the investors—its patrons—large returns in the way of interest. Hereford, thru the excellence of "The Brand," has been favorably mentioned not only in Press Associations but in newspapers all over the land and always with good effects. It was so while Joe Ray steered "The Brand" and 'tis none the less so now.

The News, in its comment on The Brand account of things "talked of" at Hereford, was not "spitting." It was merely, in a friendly way and with the very best of feelings, referring to the credulity of The Brand editor and pointing out to him, and others affected that way, of the danger of overdoing even the best of things.

There is a vast difference between things "talked of" and things planned and on foot, and, if a newspaper would maintain the credibility of its news columns it must pointedly draw the line between mere speculation and actual facts. For instance, a railroad talked of and planned for a certain course, by certain people and under given conditions is news so far; that this railroad is assured, unless actually guaranteed in a commercial sense, is purely a matter of speculation. So The News is not "spitting" with The Brand, nor does it seek to call that paper in question for anything save the credulity of its editor on some things "talked of" for Hereford. The Plains is a great country with a bright, very bright future before it and Hereford is one of its best towns and there are plenty of facts to exploit, aside from speculation, to interest all the homeseekers required.

SPECULATING TOO MUCH.

Little minds are always flattered when their opinions are shared in by those in high places. The News on divers occasions and sometime ago pointed out the tendency of the times with regard to the almost consuming mania for speculation or gambling, to its causes and to its sure call for a day of reckoning. In a recent issue, referring to this prediction, The News said this day of accounting had come. Several of the great dailies are now taking exactly the same view of the situation. The Dallas News, conservative and generally clear sighted on such matters, says:

The financiers of the country are now discussing the cause of the stringency in the money market. They differ, but few of them even mention the true cause. That cause is that we have been speculating too much for the past few years. As long as the spirit of gambling and speculation enters largely into business affairs, so long there are going to be depressions.

In thus quoting its great namesake The Canyon City News does not claim that "great minds run together," but only that great truths can and do frequently come out of small things and that the backing of a big name, such as the Dallas News, is highly appreciated.

ABOUT SANITARY REGULATIONS.

The want of proper sanitary regulations for Canyon City and the difficulties to be encountered therewith has bothered Mayor Haney for some time. He has written to several haying experience with such things and from the mayor of his old home town, Weatherford, has received a reply as follows:

MY DEAR MR. HANEY:

I am in receipt your good favor of September 5th and beg to state in reply that we have solved the sanitary conditions of our city by the completion of a sewer system with septic tanks and as soon as all the necessary connections have been made we can justly claim of having the cleanest, healthiest and prettiest city in Texas. Without a sewer system it is very difficult to arouse the citizenship to observing sanitary laws. During my administration as mayor I have had the council to authorize me employing a sanitary officer during the summer months. This sanitary officer was instructed to examine all the alleys, closets, back yards, in fact every place where attention was required and notify the parties to clean up, use disinfectants, etc., and a failure to do so, the sanitary officer was instructed to file a complaint in the Corporation Court. By this means we have had a general cleaning up every summer. In addition we have a scavenger who cleans up the square and the gutters on the main streets daily, for which we pay him $25 monthly. This is about all the information I can impart to you on the subject.

Wishing you a successful administration of affairs, I am, with best regards and all good wishes, Yours very truly,

HENRY MILLER, Mayor.

Our citizens will soon be called upon to adopt and carry out some system of sewerage sanitation. Let every one think seriously and kick before and not after the plan is adopted. Speak out!

FAIR.

Except the rain Sunday night, the illustration, fair weather with beautiful moonlight nights, tells the tale for this week.

Alfalfa, millet and other hay cutting going on, also wheat sowing. All other crops and grass growing to "beat the band."

A Faithful Friend.

"I have used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy since it was first introduced to the public in 1872, and have never found one instance where a cure was not speedily effected by its use. I have been a commercial traveler for eighteen years, and never start out on a trip without this, my faithful friend," says H. S. Nichols of Oakland, Ind. Ter. When a man has used a remedy for thirty-five years he knows its value and is competent to speak of it. For sale by S. V. Wirt, druggist.

City Council Proceedings.

Wednesday evening at a call meeting of the City Council the following business in substance was transacted:

The street committee was instructed to have graded at once Chestnut street from West First street thence to the school building.

Action on the petition for an ordinance requiring sidewalks on the south side of West Evelyn street was deferred until all resident owners affected should sign the same.

The Mulkey school, on the south line of the county, opened Monday with Miss Lilly Leonard as teacher.

Chronic Diarrhoea Relieved.

Mr. Edward E. Henry, with the United States Express Co., Chicago, writes, "Our General Superintendent, Mr. Quick, handed me a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy some time ago to check an attack of the old chronic diarrhoea. I have used it since that time and cured many on our trains who have been sick. I am an old soldier who served with Rutherford B. Hayes and William McKinley four years in the 23d Ohio regiment, and have no ailment except chronic diarrhoea, which this remedy stops at once." For sale by S. V. Wirt, druggist.

Harrison-Surratt.

The News editor acknowledges the receipt of an invitation to be present at the marriage of Olin C. Harrison of Seymour, to Miss Margaret Elizabeth Surratt at the home of the bride in Waco, next Wednesday.

Mr. Harrison was engaged with our First National Bank for some time, going from here to Seymour, where he purchased the Baylor County Banner and of which he has made quite a success. On this last most important step in life, his marriage, his friends in Canyon City most heartily join with the newspaper fraternity in congratulations and best wishes.

Diarrhoea Cured.

"My father has for years been troubled with diarrhoea, and tried every means possible to effect a cure, without avail," writes John J. Zirkle of Philippi, W. Va. "He saw Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy advertised in the Philippi Republican and decided to try it. The result is one bottle cured him, and he has not suffered with the disease for eighteen months. Before taking this remedy he was a constant sufferer. He is now sound and well, and although 60 years old, can do as much work as a young man." Sold by S. V. Wirt, druggist.

The Fort Worth Record, by a special from Austin, informs its readers that the Santa Fe has recently secured a charter for a branch line from Panhandle to Amarillo. The Daily Panhandle says that work is to begin on this line at once. As Canyon City is to have the main trunk line of this great system it can well afford to congratulate Amarillo on getting this branch line.

So far our physicians have been exceedingly backward about accepting the invitation of The News to express themselves thru its columns on present sanitary conditions referring to cesspools and such like. Discussion is wanted in this respect, not for argument, but for competent, reliable information to the end that the council may deal with this troublesome question intelligently.

Oscar Smith—Randall County Land Co.—will office in the Smith building.

John Crawford has sold out at Cordell, Oklahoma, and moved to Plainview.

J. B. Rhea, the Boyina stockman, is in town the guest of Judge Henson.

The school in the Cruikshank neighborhood will begin Monday with Miss Maud Brandon as teacher.

Will Foster, last week week, bought from J. M. Postern 75 acres on the Tierra Blanco east of town at $3200.

From all trade reports and from railroad sources a coal famine, far worse than that of last winter, is promised for this winter. Everybody about Canyon City, who can do so, should lay in a supply before the cold weather strikes us.

Hereford and Plainview put on the "piano contest." Tulia has the "organ, diamond ring and watch" scramble. The whole shooting match was turned down here. Canyon City will give her customers lower prices on the goods sold and the cost of these prizes—always high with half a dozen profits added—will go into every buyer's home. The old idea that these things are "absolutely given away" is now too thin for argument with sensible folks.

The Plainview News devotes several columns to the Winn-Wayland nuptials. It was a wedding at home with ample notice beforehand and therefore deserved full recognition thru the public prints. The list of presents is a very long one. Won't somebody give The News a chance to write up such an affair here? Going away to marry or having an exceedingly quiet wedding has been all the rage here. Who'll be first to adopt the Plainview plan?

P. Friemel of Umbarger, in town Wednesday, informed The News reporter that on the preceding day while Fred Garro was threshing at his place fire from the engine caught in one of his stacks consuming about 150 bushels of wheat. By hard work, Mr. Friemel says, some 50 bushels in the sheaf was saved from the burning stack and by setting up all night his straw stacks were also saved from the drifting sparks. A spark from the smokestack is assigned as the cause.

Miss E. Bowyer, the popular milliner at the Supply Co., returned Thursday of last week by home and St. Louis from her vacation trip to Portland, Oregon. She has many interesting things to tell of touching the beautiful scenery along the Columbia river, the waters of the Sound, the regal appearance of the "City of the Saints," etc., but declares that while all these sights are grand, almost beyond description, she is more than pleased to get back to the land of sunshiny days and cool nights—the Texas Plains.

PROFITS IN BROKEN GLASS

Modern Industrial Conditions Allow of No Waste Where By-Products Are Possible.

The waste from glass furnaces is now made useful. In a fire-resisting mold are placed fragments of glass of various colors, which are then raised to a high temperature. The coherent mass thus produced can be dressed and cut into beautiful mottled blocks and slabs, forming an artificial marble of decorative surface.

Designs in relief can be obtained by pressure while the material is still plastic. From broken glass a "stained glass" window can be made by firing, without the ordinary slow process of "leading." A prosaic soda water bottle in the final fulfillment of its destiny may dazzle the eye as brilliant "diamonds" or other "precious stones."

Thus does waste come to resemble the most valuable commodity. It properly handled and utilized.

A CHOCOLATE CURE.

In an obscure but picturesque little village of Germany there is a place called the "Chocolate Cure," where thin people go to become stout, the patients eat and drink cocoa and chocolate all the time, while they rest, admire the scenery, gossip and grow fatter every day. The true secret of the great success of this treatment is the happy way chocolate has of fattening just the right places, settling in the hands, the neck and the shoulders, making the fair patient prettier and plumper all the time. The really effective part of this cure may be tried at home by persevering women, and the medicine is so palatable and the methods so simple that there is actually, it seems, no reason why all should not be at least the desired weight.

THEY'LL NEED IT.

Neighbor Boroux—Land sakes, man, that grass isn't high enough to cut. Mr. Lend—I know it. I'm just getting a little pleasure out of my mower before the neighbors borrow it.

WHAT HE WANTED TO KNOW.

"There," said the great magnate when his attorney entered, "look over that dispatch."

"Um," observed the lawyer after reading the story, "looks rather bad. Sixty-seven indictments! Gracious! I don't like that."

"Don't like it? What are you talking about? I didn't send for you to find out whether you liked it or not. What I want you to do is to find out whether I am going to Europe or to stand on my technicalities."

READY TO SETTLE.

Daughter (tentatively)—Father, William is coming to-day to see you about me, and please don't forget that it will cost his feelings a good deal to approach you on the subject.

Father (grimly)—Oh, let him come along with the cost of his feelings. I'll foot the bill.

YOU SAVE MONEY WHEN YOU BUY ARBUCKLES

That isn't all you save either. You know people who have drunk Arbuckle's ARBUCKLES all their lives. Look at them. They like it and they haven't had to quit drinking it.

Don't let any man sell you something instead, which may ruin your stomach and nerves.

The Boy Slave.
In future years, when you are gray
And wide, deep furrows mark your brow,
You will not fondly wish to stray
Back to the scene that claims you now.
Since men put profit over shame,
To you no childhood has been lent;
Denied the joys that youth should claim,
You start your journey old and bent.
O'er all the present ills you bear
I deeply grieve, and shed my tears
For those sweet memories that ne'er
May gladden you in future years.
—Chicago Record-Herald.

Advertisement of a Lost Day.
Lost, lost, lost!
A gem of countless price,
Cut from the living rock
And graven in paradise;
Set round with three times eight
Large diamonds clear and bright
And each with sixty smaller ones,
All changeable as the light.

Lost where the thoughtless throng
In fashion's mazes wind,
Where trifling folly's song,
Leaving a sting behind,
Yet to my hand 'twas given
A golden harp to buy,
Such as the white-robed choir attune
To deathless minstrelsy.

Lost, lost, lost!
I feel all search is vain,
That gem of countless cost
Can ne'er be mine again.
I offer no reward,
For till these heartstrings sever
I know that heaven intrusted gift
Is left away forever.

But when the sea and land
Like burning scroll have fled
I'll see it in his hand
Who judgeth quick and dead,
And when of scathe and loss
That man can ne'er repair
The dread inquiry meets my soul
What shall it answer there?
—Mrs. Sigourney.

Listening.
Golden stars across the heavens
With their small feet softly creep
Fearing lest they should awaken
Mother Earth, who lies asleep.

Listening stand the silent forests,
Every leaf a little ear,
And in a dream the mountain
Shadow arms outstretches near.

But who called? I heard an echo:
Through my listening heart it fell.
Could it be her voice—or was it
Nothing but the nightingale?
—Heinrich Heine.

DEED OF TRUE BRAVERY

English Officer's Wonderful Display of Coolness in a Situation That Was Desperate.

It is not often that you hear a son declare himself in favor of his father as the bravest man in the world, says a writer in the New York Press. I asked an Englishman the other day the question, "Who was the bravest man you ever knew?" His reply: "My father. He was a colonel in the army, stationed in India. One night while encamped near the base of the Dhaulagiri, in Nepal, just south of the Chinese boundary, he was bitten in the wrist by a snake. Instead of alarming the regiment, he quietly caught the reptile by the neck, walked a quarter mile into the wood, struck a match and examined the creature. It proved to be a cobra di capello, whose bite is believed to be sure death in seven or eight minutes. My father's arm was beginning to swell. He threw the snake away and with his sword hacked off his arm above the elbow, using the trunk of a tree as a chopping block. Every officer carried a ligature in those days. He bound one around his arm and walked back to camp, where he waited patiently for the surgeon to wake up and dress the wound."

WHY DICKENS LIVES.

Why is it that the sales of Dickens' works, in England alone, amount in a single year to more than those of any later novelist during his whole lifetime? The readers of his novels do not lack intelligence, and a good number of them are of a sufficiently advanced culture to detect his faults. But whatever the higher criticism may disclose against him, there still remains the fullness of his robust human sympathy and that mastery of genius which forever holds the mind even of children, as that of Shakespeare's does—H. M. Alden, in Harper's.

DON'T BE SERIOUS, ALWAYS?

There are just as many people who do not play enough as there are people who play too much. Play is a very important part of our existence. Perpetual seriousness has a depressing, repressing influence upon the mind, so that it does not get complete relaxation. There is always a mental strain. A bow that is always bent loses its version. Perpetual seriousness is not normal; it is an indication of an abnormal mental condition. Play is natural to all living creatures.

IDLENESS IS AN ATROPHY.

The prosperity of a people is proportionate to the number of hands and minds usefully employed. To the community, sedition is a fever, corruption is a gangrene and idleness is an atrophy. Whatever body or society wastes more than it acquires must gradually decay; and every being that continues to be fed and ceases to labor takes away something from the public stock.—Dr. Johnson.

WHY, CERTAINLY.

She—Why, what an enormous latch key you have, Herr Huber!
He (proudly)—Yes, you see one must have a big one for a four-storied house.

SENSITIVE SUBJECT.

"Spacer out of a job? Why, I thought he was running a fashion department in a woman's magazine."

"Yes, but he caused the magazine to lose so many subscribers they fired him."

"How in the world did that happen?"

"Why, the lobster headed his column 'New Wrinkles for Women.'"

—The Wasp.

POINTED.

Patience—She has the figure of a Venus.

Patrice—What are you talking about? Why, she's all points!

—Well, Venus is a star, isn't it?"

PACE IS TOO RAPID

Physician Explains Reason So Many American Men of Large Affairs Break Down Easy.

A prominent physician at Carlsbad reckons on two or three fingers the chief ailments of Americans who consult him. They are the results of overindulgence at the table and the worry habit contracted by going the pace. The pace, as every one knows, may be the too-enthusiastic pursuit of any branch of business or social life. A moderate chase gives no one cause for worry. It is when one gallops all the time that there is mischief. To a staid and sober observer who cannot see more than one side of a condition at a glance it appears possibly that it would be easier and pleasanter to take the remedy of moderation in this country than to have to cross annually to foreign parts in search of a cure. But he would find difficulty in leading any outside of his own circle to agree with him. Getting into shape to require the cure is two-thirds of the fun, and the other third is found in taking the cure.

A TIME FOR HASTE.

The nobility and gentry of Little Plowboro were recently gathered in the village schoolroom to enjoy some tableaux vivants by local performers, says Pearson's Weekly.

The curtain had just fallen on a really creditable picture of the death of Nelson, shown to slow music, when a friend of the gentleman representing the greatest naval hero, rose to make his way towards the stage.

"Keep your seats, please," said the stage manager. "We're much obliged for your kind applause, ladies and gentlemen, and we're going to give you the death of Nelson over again."

"Oh, are yer?" came from the hero's friends. "Then if you'll tell Nelson 'is kitchen chimney's afire, and 'is wife's jest 'ad a couple of fits, 'praps 'e won't die so blessed lingerin'."

HIS INTRODUCTION.

The "announcer" for one of Manhattan's defunct athletic clubs went to a northern New York town for a rest. There was a concert in the hotel parlor the evening of his arrival, and he was asked to introduce the performers. "Ladies and gentlemen," he began, "the first number—the first number will be a duet on the pyanner between Miss Agnes Toohey of Troy and Miss Muriel Schwartz of Rochester. In this duet," he continued, pointing to one of the amateurs, "Miss Toohey; in the other duet Miss Schwartz—both members of this club."

AN OPPORTUNITY NEGLECTED.

She is a charming old lady, but somehow she has never quite been able to reconcile herself to the telephone. The other day she was called up by Mrs. B., a friend of many years, and the two had a long chat.

"There," said the first old lady, just after she left the telephone. "There, I meant to give to Mrs. B. that handkerchief she left here yesterday."

THE ARTFUL GIRL.

"She must love dogs!"
"But she doesn't, really."
"Then why does she always have one?"

"It's a secret, but I'll tell you. She uses them to flatter her beaux."

"How does she manage that?"
"Why, every time she gets a new admirer she ostentatiously neglects her pet to make it plain to him that she prefers him to the dog."

TOO DANGEROUS TO BE TRUE.

Hezekiah—"I won't deny that I sent a subterfuge when I was drafted during the war—fact is, I'm proud of it! That there subterfuge told me himself that he killed more'n a hundred an' fifty rebels!"

Obadiah (dryly)—"I've heard that subterfuges wuz dangerous, but you can't make me swaller that yarn!"—Puck.

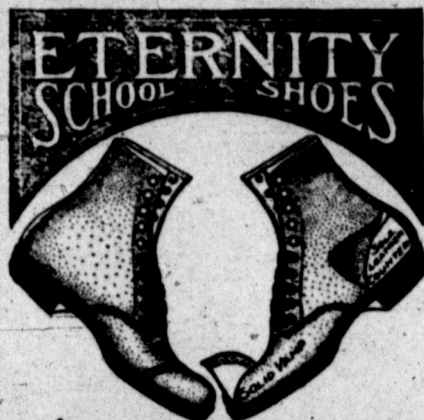

A KIND WORD.

"So you don't share the general indignation toward the railways?"

"No," answered Farmer Cornstossel. "I have always felt that a locomotive was entitled to a great deal of credit for sticking to the track, instead of snorting up and down the country roads like an automobile."

Eternity

The boys and girls we cannot neglect at any time. The great men and women of the future are the boys and girls of today and they deserve to be properly shod in good shoes.

"STAR BRAND SHOES ARE BETTER"

"Eternity" school shoes have two full soles from heel to toe that are put on with screw fasteners. That's why they keep the feet always warm and dry and the soles can't rip and pull apart. As they have a neat, dressy appearance, these shoes can be used for both service and dress.

Female Weakness

"Last Fall," writes Mrs. S. G. Bailey, of Tunnetton, W. Va., "I was going down by inches, from female disease, with great pain. After taking Cardui, Oh! My! How I was benefited! I am not well yet, but am so much better that I will keep on taking Wine of Cardui till I am perfectly cured."

Despite the envious attacks of jealous enemies and rivals, Cardui still holds supreme position today [as in the past 70 years] for the relief and cure of female diseases. It stops pain, tones up the organs, regulates the functions, and aids in the replacement of a misplaced organ.
