

SWINE BREEDERS' ASSOCIATION MEET

CLARENDON ON OCTOBER 1-2 WITH GOOD PROGRAM.

Many Notable Hog Raisers Over the Plains and State Have Places on the Program.

One of the most profitable meetings that the farmer will be invited to attend this year will be the Northwest Texas Swine Breeders' association at Clarendon on October 1 and 2. On this program will appear men who have raised fine hogs all their lives and who know all about the business. The News trusts that a number of representatives from Randall county will go to the association and get some practical points about hog raising.

The following is the program:

OCTOBER 1ST

$5,453.36 TAXES COLLECTED.

City Tax Collector J. H. Jowell Reports This Sum Collected to Saturday Night.

Saturday was the last day for paying taxes before they were placed upon the delinquent list and a penalty added for not meeting the obligation at the time set by the city officials. The day was a very busy one around the collector's office as about half the taxes collected were paid in on Friday and Saturday.

Collector J. H. Jowell reports that the taxes on the roll amounted to $6,938.49 of which he collected the sum of $5,453.36, leaving a balance of $1,485.13 which will go to the delinquent list and upon which a penalty will be paid. Mr. Jowell reports that a good per cent of this amount will possibly be collected this month.

meetings held each year at different places in the Panhandle.

Byron Gist, Secretary,
Giles, Texas.

Better Farming Needed.

J. L. Moore, of Carthage, Mo., was a business caller in the city this week and Tuesday made the News office a pleasant call. Mr. Moore says that the articles of H. M. Bainer run in the News has been a great benefit to the farmers of the county and to those considering moving here. The question of educating the people to do better farming is of the greatest importance to the future of the country, and Mr. Moore highly praised the News for publishing so many fine articles on the subject. Mr. Moore has great confidence in the Plains as a farming country and believes that as soon as the country is filled with farmers trying to farm only what they can handle well and are provided with a few hogs, cattle and sheep, this will be the garden spot of Texas.

New Meat Market.

A new meat market has been opened on the west side by J. M. Arnold and L. L. Van Sant. These gentlemen were connected with the Market-Grocery until recently, Mr. Arnold owning the meat business in this firm. They are good business men and are making their announcement to the people of the county in this issue of the News.

First Home Tomatoes.

E. A. Oberst reports that he brought to the city last week the first home grown tomatoes offered on the market. They were of very fine quality and were readily sold. Mr. Oberst says that he has fine crops this year and is well pleased with the Plains.

Life of Washington.

Prof. J. A. Hill will give an illustrated lecture at the Normal auditorium next Tuesday night on the life of Washington. This will be the first entertainment of the year for the new students and for the citizens of Canyon generally.

Barley Makes 15 Bushels.

Arthur M. Olson was a business caller at the News office Saturday and says that his barley made 15 bushels to the acre. His wheat and oats were not so good. Mr. Olson came here from Illinois three years ago.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS OPEN ON MONDAY

PROSPECTS FOR SPLENDID YEAR'S WORK IN SCHOOLS.

Good Faculty Selected, All of Whom Have Had Experience in Their Lines of Work.

The Canyon public schools will open next Monday morning at nine o'clock and the prospects are that no better year of school has ever been held in the city than this one. The building and equipment of the local school are equalled by few on the Plains and no better faculty has ever been selected.

The year's work will be hard as Superintendent T. J. Yoe is going to make every effort possible to complete the affiliation with the state university which was almost completed last year. Students graduating next May will have more credits than any graduate preceding them.

The following are the members of High school:

T. J. Yoe, superintendent, science and mathematics.

Mrs. Ada T. Wray, principal, English.

Mrs. J. N. Shinn, history.

R. N. Hicks, of Pittsburg, latin.

Intermediate department:
Miss Cora Shipe, English.

R. L. Alexander, of Huntsville arithmetic, agriculture and physiology.

Mrs. M. E. Lock, of Shamrock history, geography, drawing and writing.

Primary department:
Miss Minnie Conner, of Commerce, fourth grade.

Miss Avis Baird, third grade.

Mrs. T. J. Yoe, second grade.

Miss Sue Garretson, of Hubbard, first grade.

Wheat Makes 12 Bushels.

Newt Reeves reports that his 45 acres of wheat north of the city made 12 bushels to the acre and was of excellent quality.

J. W. Ross, of Ralph, was in the city Tuesday to order some stationery from the News office for the firm of Craig & Ross. Mr. Ross came to the county three weeks ago from Haakel and has formed a partnership with J. M. Craig dealing in general merchandise, coal and grain.

Miss Holmes, who assisted Miss Quirk in the millinery department of the Canyon Supply, returned from a visit with relatives in Higgins. She accompanied Miss Quirk to the St. Louis market during her vacation.

Prof. J. A. Hill and little boy of Canyon came down and went out to the ranch of Fred Swift where he spent several days with Theodore Swift. He is the head of the department of history in the Canyon Normal.—Hall Co. Herald.

COUNTY INSTITUTE SESSION THIS WEEK

TEACHERS FROM THREE COUNTIES IN ATTENDANCE.

Program has Been Very Interesting and Attendance Very Large from all Counties.

The Tri-County Teachers Institute has been in session at the Normal building this week with 90 teachers present from Farmer, Deaf Smith and Randall counties. The program has been one of the most interesting ever held in this county for a teachers institute and all of the teachers feel highly repaid for having come for the session. The institute was opened Monday morning with a program and will close Friday evening at 5 o'clock.

Tonight at 8:30 Prof. J. A. Hill will lecture on Napoleon's Career, giving a number of interesting slides. Pres. R. B. Cousins gave an educational address Tuesday night and last night was an illustrated lecture by Prof. H. W. Morelock on Hia-watha.

Friday afternoon from 3:30 to 5 o'clock Pres. Cousins will hold a round table with the general theme of rural school architecture for discussion. Mr. Cousins' talk will be illustrated with lantern slides loaned by the state university.

Ceta Items.

Mr. Duff and family, F. and Mrs. Schaffer made a business trip to Tulsa Monday.

Mr. Curry and Mr. Prewitt had a bad accident while going to the sale last week. The team ran away throwing Mr. Currie out of the buggy and bruising him up considerably.

The Fairview school will open Monday, Sept. 9, with Miss Lizzie Evans as teacher, the school house has been painted inside and new desks, ordered, which will improve the looks of it.

Some of the row crop is ready to be harvested.

Ralph News.

The ladies of this community have organized a ladies aid which is hoped to do much good.

School will begin next Monday Sept. 9.

Mrs. Bruce is visiting with relatives in Amarillo this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Murray are enjoying an outing near Holleen, N. M.

An ice cream supper was enjoyed by the people of this community at the home of Mr. Roles Friday night.

In this issue of the News will be found the sale bill of Gustav A. Johnsen. Mr. Johnsen is a prosperous young farmer east of the city, but has decided to sell out and enter some good college to study civil engineering.

Monday was Labor Day but none excepting the bankers took a holiday. The business men were hard at work with the regular first of the month collecting.

J. A. Harbison sent his moving outfit to Hereford this week to move a house from Hereford to the J. A. Moore farm east of Umbarger.

H. K. Reid, of Charolette, N. C., is visiting at the home of his son, Prof. J. W. Reid. 24tf

EXPLOSION AT HANEY PIT.

J. A. Farmer Dies in Amarillo from Results of Burns.—Former Resident of Missouri.

J. A. Farmer, an engineer in the Haney gravel pits north of the city, was badly burned last Wednesday afternoon by an explosion of powder and died from the effects of the wounds Friday afternoon in Amarillo. Mr. Farmer had been with the pit gang about three months and made Canyon his headquarters when off duty. His brother, L. R. Farmer, of Springfield, Mo., was in the city Monday to look after his brother's business and left Amarillo Tuesday morning with the body.

The fatal accident occurred while setting a charge of powder to blast in the pit. It seems that this was not Mr. Farmer's regular work but on account of the illness of the other engineer, Mr. Farmer was directing the Mexicans in blasting. The hole had been made and a small charge set to clear the hole. Mr. Farmer was in the act of pouring powder into the hole which evidently had still more fire in it, when the fatal accident occurred. Mr. Farmer and two Mexicans were badly burned and were taken to Amarillo for treatment.

The body will be taken to the old home in Missouri for interment. Mr. Farmer was 31 years of age and unmarried. While not well known here, he was a man of good character and business ability.

Pleasantview Items.

Pleasant weather but a little dry but have had good rains south and we hope we will get a good soaking rain soon.

Quite a lot of millet and sorghum have been cut the past week, some of which was very good.

Mr. Eckert's sale was very well attended. Tools sold cheap and horses high, one yearling mare colt sold for $140 and one 4 year old mare $197.50.

Mrs. Herriott of Iowa is visiting his son, Tom Herriott of this neighborhood.

Leslie Crowley and family of Happy are visiting his father this week and Leslie is attending the teachers institute in Canyon.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Ed Gibson, Aug. 29, a girl.

School will begin next Monday at Pleasantview, Sept. 9.

J. M. Arnold Married.

J. M. Arnold, the popular meat man, went to Amarillo Tuesday morning and that night at 8 o'clock was married to Miss Mamie Mahan, of Ft. Worth.

The ceremony was performed at the home of Mrs. F. H. Madison, a cousin of the bride, by Rev. R. F. Jenkins. The couple came that night to Canyon and are making their home with I. L. Van Sant until they can make arrangements to go to house keeping.

Mr. Arnold has many friends in the city who are pleased to hear of his marriage and who extend to his bride a hearty welcome to the city.

Mrs. Myrtle Hoff and daughter, Mary, left Wednesday for Jefferson, Iowa, where they will spend a few months with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Johnson left Tuesday for McKinney after visiting a week at the parental B. T. Johnson home.

BOOSTERS ARE DOING THINGS

HAVE VERY FINE SUNDAY SCHOOL ROOM.

Boys Class in Methodist Church Build Addition and Furnish Excellent Class Room.

That the Booster class in the Methodist Sunday school believe in doing things when they take a notion is evident from the results they have accomplished during the past few months. They took a notion that they needed a class room for their own use which they could fix up to suit themselves. They got together and saw how much money they could raise. They made a proposition to the official board of the church to pay $300 of the $450 necessary to build the addition. The proposition was accepted and on the first day of April the addition was built almost wholly complete in the one day.

After paying their share of the costs for the addition the class turned their attention to furnishing their room. In starting this work, the class had in mind comfort, convenience and attractiveness. The furniture and furnishings fully carry out this part of the boys' program. Good opera chairs were provided for the members of the class, with a large chair and library table for the teacher, C. N. Harrison. Attractive rugs are on the floors, lace curtains are hung to the windows and a number of beautiful pictures are on the walls. On the library table is a good collection of reference books.

The room is very fine and the Boosters can justly be proud of the undertaking which brought them this fine class room and the addition to the church. It is without doubt the best Sunday school room on the Plains.

The following are the members of the Booster class: C. N. Harrison, teacher, Alvis Stafford, Roy Shotwell, Ewing Prichard, Hudson Prichard, Robert Sanford, Wilbur Sanford, Willie Prichard, Wesley Kleinschmidt, Elmer Shotwell, Lavert Avent, Ben Weller, Lon Cowling, Jesse Pipkin, Clarence Northcut, Arnett Moreland, Roscoe Moreland, Roy Taylor, Chas. Taylor, Henry Prichard, Clare Rudolph, Oscar Gano, Jeff Wallace, Joe Steels, Lyle Holland, Wayne Cousins, R. B. Cousins Jr., Arch Bates, Chas. Harter, Ralph Harter, C. N. Harrison Jr.

The Baptist Church.

The pastor will preach next Sunday at usual hours. The series of sermons which the pastor has been preaching on the Lord's Prayer will be continued, the topics for the day being "Temptation" at the morning service and "Forgiveness" at the evening service. All are cordially invited to worship with us. Strangers welcomed. Special music. Holmes Nichols, Pastor.

Move House From Hereford.

J. A. Moore, who was here last week from Illinois making arrangements to improve his farm west of the city, bought a bungalow in Hereford and will move it to the place. Mr. Moore will have a splendid farm when his improvements are complete.

Mrs. W. B. Phillips of Pecan Gap has been visiting her son Avery Phillips for the past two weeks.

TREATMENT OF SMUT

During the past season, a great deal of smut has developed in the wheat crop, which has caused serious loss to the growers. It not only causes a loss in yield but also in the selling price. It is safe to say that the grower of smutty wheat does not receive over one half the profits from it that would come from clean wheat.

By carefully looking over the wheat field at maturing time, heads may be found which have been entirely destroyed. The wheat kernels have become nothing more than a black mass of spores. When the crops are threshed, many of these spores cling to the grain and are carried back to the wheat field at seeding time. Soon after the wheat kernels germinate, the smut spores also germinate. The germinated spore or fungus develops a thread like structure which enters the wheat plant. This does not appear to damage the wheat plant very much during its grogging period, but it is there ready for work as soon as the wheat heads appear.

There are two kinds of wheat smut, loose and stinking smut. Both can be prevented by treating the seed and rotating the crops. The spores of both kinds of smut are carried by the seed, but the spores of loose smut may also be carried in the soil from one year to another. Treating the seed prevents stinking smut, but loose smut requires that the seed be treated and the ground on which it grew be planted to another crop the following year. The stinking smut is the kind most commonly found, it destroys the kernels only, while the loose smut destroys the grain and chaff entirely and the sooty mass of spores remain. The stinking smut gives off an offensive odor when broken.

The following "Formaline Treatment" will prevent stinking smut in wheat, also the smuts which commonly affect barley and oats:

Formalin treatment—There are several methods of treatment: hot water treatment, blue stone treatment, and formalin treatment, the last of which is safest, most reliable and cheapest.

Secure a 40 per cent solution of formalin at a reliable drug store. One pound of formalin is sufficient to treat from 2000 to 2500 pounds of wheat. Before mixing the solution, get the seed wheat ready. The treating solution is made by carefully mixing a pound bottle of the formalin with 40 gallons of water.

The seed may be treated by dipping or sprinkling. To dip, the seed may be placed in a gunny sack and the solution in a barrel or tank. The wheat should be immersed in this for at least ten minutes and then taken out and allowed to drain back into the barrel for a short time. The wheat should then be emptied in to a pile in a clean place and covered with sacks or blankets for two hours, after which it should be thoroughly dried before sowing.

To sprinkle, prepare a clean place on a canvas or smooth floor. Thoroughly sprinkle the place with the solution before spreading the wheat on it. Now thoroughly sprinkle the spread out wheat and at the same time shovel it over. Continue to sprinkle and shovel over the wheat until it is thoroughly moistened.

Next, shovel the wheat into a pile and cover with sacks or blankets for two hours, after which it should be thoroughly dried before sowing. Do not allow the wheat to remain wet too long after treating as the germinating qualities may be injured.

Place the dried wheat in sacks which have been dipped in the solution. It is also advisable to sprinkle the grain drill with the solution before using it. Exercise every precaution not to bring the treated seed in contact with any that has not been treated or in bins which have contained smut wheat. The wheat should be treated but a short time before sowing it.

Preserve the Moisture Best done by killing the weeds

"Follow the binder and header with the disc harrow," says the expert agriculturists, "in order to kill the weeds and preserve all the moisture until the ground can be plowed." Many farmers are doing this, but all should be in this class, especially since good rains have fallen. Nothing can be done early that will do more to preserve the moisture than by forming a mulch with the disc harrow.

The News has had so much to say during the summer months about a clean city, and most of it has had so little effect that we hardly feel warranted to opening the subject again. There are coming to our city this week and will continue to come during the next few weeks perhaps 400 students who will make Canyon their home for the next 9 months. During that time they will form opinions of our city which will be spread to other young people and should the opinions be good it will mean more students, but should they be bad it will mean a loss to the Normal. It was said on the street the other day that no matter how careful a lady was in walking from the public square to the Normal building her skirts could not help but come in contact with weeds and be filled with grass burrs. A person cannot walk around the public square without seeing weeds waist high on at least one corner and in several places on the sides. There is hardly a street without weeds growing along the sidewalks, or places where sidewalks belong, and practically every vacant lot has gone to weeds. Does this look as if Canyon was interested in the welfare of the Normal? Does this look as if the people of Canyon were filled with civic pride? Does this look as if we were willing to welcome students to come here and make their home with us for a year? One man suggested that a collection be taken up to cut the weeds. That is very good, but the worst offenders in the weed cases are those men amply able to have the weeds cut. Another man suggested that as soon as the Normal and the high school opened that there be a contest between the Normal boys and high school boys to see who could cut the most weeds. Ye gods! Listen to such nonsense! Invite young men to come to our town to get an education and then ask them to clean up our city for the citizens who are too lazy and stingy to do for themselves! A man who will not cut his weeds ought to be compelled to do so. Right here the city council can get in some good work and they ought to do so at once. Let them pass an ordinance compelling all weeds to be cut and if the owners refuse to do so let the city go on the premises and do the work charging it up against the property. It is clearly up to somebody to act and since the property owners refuse to do so, let the city council use their authority to the benefit of the city and our Normal college.

Teddy and Taft are busy "explaining" things to the people of the United States. On the other hand, Woodrow Wilson is making a clean campaign, discussing the evils of our government in a gentlemanly way and offering sound remedies. Roosevelt and Taft have called each other names that do not look well in print. Taft is the unqualified tool of the trusts and special interests while Roosevelt's garments smell of Standard Oil and it is notable that he seems to be getting all the money he needs for his campaign without any effort. On the other hand, Wilson is the candidate of the common people. He has nothing to explain about shady political acts, for his acts have always been in the open and without the least tinge of favoritism to the trusts and interests. He is a scholar and a gentleman and no man can lay his finger on an act and say it has been for other than the good of the people at large. Who shall we elect in November? Will we elect the avowed tool of the trusts, or the man with a Standard Oil connect, or shall we place in the White House a man whose soul is as pure as the purest and whose life contains not one political blot? The people of these United States are awakening to the fact that they have long been ruled by orthodox politicians and tools of the trusts and in November will give to the real man in the race an overwhelming majority. Wilson will be the next president while Taft and Teddy will be relegated to the political bone pile.

The fact that Hon. J. C. Hunt, of this city, is a candidate for the speakership of the Texas house of representatives should be acted upon at once by Canyon citizens. If you have a friend in the house or one who was nominated in the primaries, write him a letter and ask his support for Mr. Hunt. Mr. Hunt stands well with the old members of the legislature and has been promised the support of a large number. However, a majority of the house will be elected in November and it is to these men that the combined efforts of our citizens should be directed. Mr. Hunt made friends with both the pro and the anti factions in the last legislature by refusing to support purely upon factional lines. West Texas should have a prominent place in the next legislature and placing Hunt in the speakership chair will do much to assist our section in getting her just dues. Write a letter today in the interest of Mr. Hunt as there are two other candidates in the field.

Send the "kids" to school Monday. Better still, get them ready and take them to the school building, get acquainted with the new teachers and show them that they are going to have your hearty co-operation during this year.

The mission board of the Tierra Blanca association (Baptist) has been located in Canyon with Rev. Holmes Nichols as chairman. The first meeting was held last night at the Baptist church with the following visitors from outside the city being present: Rev. W. O. Dean, Tulsa; A. V. Beck, Cress; Mr. Oliver, Bovina and Judge R. E. Cook, Hereford.

After some routine work, the board adjourned to meet on the first Tuesday night in October.

Society Notes.

"Up Maiden Fair, and bind thy hair, And rouse thee in the breezy air! Waste not these hours, so fresh, so gay Leave thy soft couch and haste away."

In response to early morning call, a merry crowd of girls wended their way to the home of Miss Helen Buie, on East Houston, who entertained with an eight o'clock breakfast on Friday in honor of her friend, Miss Beulah Johnson, of San Saba, and the girls who will leave shortly for Kidd Key college.

After arriving the guests donned quaint little breakfast caps, and were soon engaged in girlish chatter over the breakfast cups; quite a charming picture they made amidst the decorations of bright sunflowers, which peeped laughingly forth from every nook and corner of the cheerful breakfast room.

After lingering around the table in pleasant repartee the guests formed merry little groups in the reception rooms, which were made fragrant with sweet peas and roses, presented by Mr. Lusby from his noted flower garden. Needles and thimbles then reigned supreme, as the guests worked deftly embroidering each initial on the breakfast caps, which were afterwards given as souvenirs. Misses Mabel Rogers and Beulah Johnson tied for the best initial, Miss Johnson drawing the prize, dainty embroidery scissors; Misses Helen Buie and Lucy Rattikin tied for the booby prize Miss Rattikin drawing an aluminum thimble.

A merry round of games was then played, and as a fitting climax the youthful guests tripped the "Light Fantastic," and dispersed with fond good-bye. Those who accepted this early morning call were: Misses Beulah Johnson, San Saba, Gladys Rogers, Jessie Smith, Iva Buie, Ira Cochran, Neva Reynolds, Mable Rogers, Lucy Rattikin, Helen and Frances Buie.

Mrs. C. R. Burrow was hostess Saturday afternoon in her beautiful new home to a large number of friends in honor of her cousin, Mrs. Brightwell and Miss Casseday. Sunflowers were used for decorations to a very pleasing effect. After a number of pleasant games of "42" two course refreshments were served consisting of pressed chicken, sandwiches, olives, ice tea and apricot ice with cake. The following were the invited guests: Mesdames Ackley, Bennett, Brightwell, Cleveland, Coss, Doniphan, Gamble, Guenther, Hutchings, Oscar Hunt, I. L. Hunt, Hill, Harrison, Ingham, Kilbourn, Keiser, Luke, Lester, Morelock, Maloney, Oldham, Pippin, Park, J. W. Reid, Roach, Shaw, Stanford, Stafford, D. M. Stewart, Turk, Terrill, W. G. Word, Winkelman, Warwick, Yoe, Cassles, Cullum and Misses Casseday, Lester, Malone, Bryson, Stafford, Turk, McNeil and Baker.

Mrs. E. H. Ackley entertained Friday morning from 9 to 1 o'clock in honor of Miss Casseday. The house, beautifully decorated with sun flowers, made more delightful the interesting games. At the close of the games the guests were invited to the dining-room where delightful three course refreshments were served of iced watermelon, bread and butter sandwiches, olives, chicken salad, ice tea, peach cream and angel food cake. The guests present were: Mesdames Terrill, Ingham, Cleveland, Pippin, Hutchings, Warwick and Misses Lester and Casseday.

Mrs. C. R. Burrow entertained the members of her Sunday school class Monday afternoon. The little folks enjoyed a large number of interesting games after which refreshments were served consisting of sherbet and cake. The following were present: William Scott, Harold Car-

Raising Good Potatoes.

The following item in regard to raising potatoes is taken from the Plainview News:

J.C. Cummons, whose 550 acre farm is located 5 miles east of Plainview, brought some Irish potatoes to town this week just for the purpose of showing all cavilers and carpers that "Murphies" of a monster size could be produced without irrigation in Hale county's alluvial soil.

It has been said, you know, that this aqueous animal was the only species of life, subject to the temperate zone, that would not thrive in the Plainview country. The specimens of Irish potatoes that Mr. Cummons brought to town had not fully matured but even at that, were about the size of oranges, were free from protuberances, and of perfect market appearance. Mr. Cummons states that he has been here five years and has never failed to make an excellent potato crop. He thoroughly prepares his soil, and plants his potatoes usually in March. He then covers the ground with straw and never touches the plants until time to harvest the crop. If Irish potatoes can be raised in this manner without cultivation, they should appeal to people fully as much as wheat and alfalfa and other "lazy men's" crops.

By the way, Irish potatoes bring a good price.

Mr. Cummons also showed the writer a twig from an apple tree that contained 13 young apples about the size of hen's eggs. This twig was only a foot long and the baker's dozen of globules covered completely the stem. The raiser says that this is the best apple-raising portion of the United States. Apple trees are very precocious here and they bear copiously an excellent quality of fruit. Besides, all fruit trees are noted for their longevity in this country. Peach trees 25 years old are producing better peaches here today than ever before. You remember that there is no alkali in the soil.

Ever notice how a good farmer can make excellent yields of every variety of crop? Last year, Mr. Cummons made 60 bushels of oats to the acre and about an average of 25 bushels to the acre of wheat. Mr. Cummons is "cranky" about scientific farming. Mr. Bainer, agricultural demonstrator for the Santa Fe, says that no farmer in the South Plains is learning more about the proper cultural methods for this section than is this Cummons person. It would be well for many of our farmers to see Mr. Cummons' farm and converse with him.

Excuse Me! by Rupert Hughes. Novelized from the comedy of the same name. Illustrated from photographs of the play as produced by Henry W. Savage. Copyright 1911 by H. K. Fly Co.

"Well, I tell you—take this here green car to Wexford avenue—there's usually a taxicab or two standin' there."

"Thank you. Hop on, Marjorie." Marjorie hopped on, and they sat down, Mallory with eyes and thoughts on nothing but the watch he kept in his hand.

During this tense journey the girl perfected her soul with graceful martyrdom.

"I'll go to the train with you, Harry, and then you can send me home in a taxicab."

Her nether lip trembled and her eyes were filmed, but they were brave, and her voice was so tender that it wooed his mind from his watch. He gazed at her, and found her so dear, so devoted and so pitifully exquisite, that he was almost overcome by an impulse to gather her into his arms there and then, indifferent to the immediate passengers or to his far-off military superiors. An hour ago they were young lovers in all the lit and thrill of elopement. She had clung to him in the gloaming of their taxicab, as it sped like a genie at their whim to the place where the minister would unite their hands and raise his own in blessing. Thence the new husband would have carried the new wife away, his very own soul and body, duty and beauty. Then, ah, then in their minds the future was an unwaning honeymoon, the journey across the continent, a stroll along a lover's lane, the Pacific ocean a chain of fortunate isles decreed especially for their Eden. And then the taxicab encountered a lamppost. They thought they had merely wrecked a motor car—and lo, they had wrecked a Paradise.

The railroad ceased to be a lover's lane and became a lingering torment; the ocean was a weltering Sahara, and the Philippines a Dry Tortugas of exile.

Mallory realized for the first time what heavy burdens he had taken on with his shoulder straps; what a dismal life of restrictions and hardships an officer's life is bound to be. It was hard to obey the soulless machinery of discipline, to be a brass-buttoned slave. He felt all the hot, quick resentment that turns a faithful soldier into a deserter. But it takes time to evolve a deserter, and Mallory had only twenty minutes. The handcuffs and legions of discipline, hobbled him. He was only a little cog in a great clock, and the other wheels were impinging on him and revolving in spite of himself.

In the close-packed seats where they were jostled and stared at, the soldier could not even attempt to explain to his fascinated bride the war of motives in his breast. He could not voice the passionate rebellion her beauty had whipped up in his soul. Perhaps if Romeo and Juliet had been forced to say farewell on a Chicago street car instead of a Veronese balcony, their language would have lacked favor, too.

Perhaps young Mr. Montague and young Miss Capulet, instead of wailing, "No, that is not the lark whose notes do beat the vaulted heaven so high above our heads," would have done no better than Mr. Mallory and Miss Newton. In any case, the best these two could squeeze out was: "It's just too bad, honey."

"But I guess it can't be helped, dear."

"It's a mean old world, isn't it?" "Awful!"

And then they must pile out into the street again so lost in woe that they did not know how they were trampled or elbowed. Marjorie's despair was so complete that it paralyzed instinct. She forgot Snoozeums! A thoughtful passenger ran out and tossed the basket into Mallory's arms even as the car moved off.

Fortune rejented a moment and they found a taxicab waiting where they had expected to find it. Once more they were cosy in the flying twilight, but their grief was their only baggage, and the clasp of their hands talked all the talk there was.

Anxiety within anxiety tormented them and they feared another wreck. But as they swooped down upon the station, a kind-faced tower clock beamed the reassurance that they had three minutes to spare.

The taxicab drew up and halted, but they did not get out. They were kissing good-byes, fervidly and numerously, while a grinning station-porter winked at the winking chauffeur.

Marjorie simply could not have done with farewells. "I'll go to the gate with you," she said. He told the chauffeur to wait and take the young lady home. The lieutenant looked so honest and the girl so sad that the chauffeur simply touched his cap, though it was not his custom to allow strange fares to vanish into crowded stations, leaving behind nothing more negotiable than instructions to wait.

CHAPTER IV.

A Mouse and a Mountain. All the while the felled elopers were eloping, the San Francisco sleeper was filling up. It had been the receptacle of assorted lots of humanity tumbling into it from all directions, with all sorts of souls, bodies and destinations.

The porter received each with that expert eye of his. His car was his laboratory. A railroad journey is a sort of test-tube of character; strange elements meet under strange conditions and make strange combinations. The porter could never foresee the ingredients of any trip, nor their actions and reactions.

He had no sooner established Mr. Wedgewood of London and Mr. Ira Lathrop of Chicago, in comparative repose, than his car was invaded by a woman who flung herself into the first seat. She was flushed with running, and breathing hard, but she managed one gasp of relief: "Thank goodness, I made it in time."

The mere sound of a woman's voice in the seat back of him was enough to disperse Ira Lathrop. With not so much as a glance backward to see what manner of woman it might be, he jammed his contract into his pocket, seized his newspapers and retreated to the farthest end of the car, bouncing down into berth number one, like a sullen snapping turtle.

Miss Anne Gattie's modest and homely valise had been brought aboard by a leisurely station usher, who set it down and waited with a speaking palm outstretched. She had her tickets in her hand, but transferred them to her teeth while she searched for money in a handbag old-fashioned enough to be called a reticule.

The usher closed his fist on the pittance she dropped into it and departed without comment. The porter advanced on her with a demand for "Tickets, please."

She began to ransack her reticule with flurried haste, taking out of it a small purse, opening that, closing it, putting it back, taking it out, searching the reticule through, turning out a handkerchief, a few hairpins, a few trunk keys, a baggage check, a bottle of salts, a card or two and numerous other madmenly articles, restoring them to place, looking in the purse again, restoring that, closing the reticule, setting it down, shaking out a book she carried, opening her old valise, going through certain white things blushing, closing it again, shaking her skirts, and shaking her head in bewilderment.

She was about to open the reticule again, when the porter exclaimed: "I see it! Don't look no mo'. I see it!"

When she cast up her eyes in despair, her eyebrows had been elevated enough to disclose the whereabouts of the tickets. With a murmured apology, he removed them from her teeth and held them under the light. After a time he said:

"As near as I can make out from the undigested portion of this ticket, yo' numba is six."

"That's it—six!"

"That's right up this way."

"Let me sit here till I get my breath," she pleaded. "I ran so hard to catch the train."

"Well, you caught it good and strong."

"I'm so glad. How soon do we start?"

"In about half a hough."

"Really? Well, better half an hour too soon than half a minute too late." She said it with such a copy-book primness that the porter set her down as a school-teacher. It was not a bad guess. She was a missionary. With a pupil-like shyness she volunteered:

"Yo' berth is all ready whenever you wishes to go to bald." He caught her swift blush and amended it to—"to retiah."

phant with mouse-like terror, and the elephant regarded the mouse with elephantine fright, then he removed himself from her landscape as quickly as he could and lurched along the aisle, calling out merrily to the porter:

"Chaufeur! chaufeur; don't go so faast 'round these corners." He collided with a small train-boy singing his nasal lay, but it was the behemoth and not the train-boy that collapsed into a seat, sprawling as helplessly as a mammoth oyster on a table-cloth.

The porter rushed to his aid and hoisted him to his feet with an uneasy sense of impending trouble. He felt as if someone had left a monstrous baby on his doorstep, but all he said was:

"Tickets, please."

There ensued a long search, fat, flabby hands flopping and fumbling from pocket to pocket. Once more, the porter was the discoverer.

"I see it. Don't look no mo'. Here it is—up in yo' hatband." He lifted it out and chuckled. "Had it right next his brains and couldn't remember!" He took up the appropriately huge luggage of the bibulous wanderer and led him to the other end of the aisle.

"Numba two is yours, sah. Right heah—all nice and cosy, and already made-up."

The big man looked through the curtains into the cabined confinement, and groaned:

"That! Haven't you got a man's size berth?"

"Sorry, sah. That's as big a bunk as they is on the train."

"Have I got to be locked up in that pigeon-hole for—how many days is it to Reno?"

"Reno?" The porter greeted that meaningful name with a smile. "We're doo in Reno the—the maw'nin' of the fo'rd day, sah. Yassah." He put the baggage down and started away, but the fat man seized his hand, with great emotion:

"Don't leave me all alone in there, porter, for I'm a broken-hearted man."

"Is that so? Too bad, sah."

"Were you ever a broken-hearted man, porter?"

"Always, sah."

"Did you ever put your trust in a false-hearted woman?"

"Often, sah."

"Was she ever true to you, porter?"

"Never, sah."

"Porter, we are partners in mis-sis-ery."

And he wrung the rough, black hand with a solemnity that embarrassed the porter almost as much as it would have embarrassed the passenger himself if he could have understood what he was doing. The porter disengaged himself with a patient but hasty:

"I'm afraid you'll have to 'scuse me. I got to he'p the other passengers on bode."

"Don't let me keep you from your duty. Duty is the—the—" But he could not remember what duty was, and he would have dropped off to sleep, if he had not been startled by a familiar voice which the porter had luckily escaped.

"Pawtah! Pawtah! Can't you raise this light—or rather can't you lower it? Pawtah! This light is so infernally dim I can't read."

To the Englishman's intense amazement his call brought to him not the porter, but a rising moon with the profound query:

"Whass a lil' thing like dim light, when the light of your life has gone out?"

"I beg your pardon?"

Without further invitation, the mammoth descended on the Englishman's territory.

"I'm a broken-hearted man, Mr.—Mr.—I didn't get your name."

"Er—ah—I dare say."

"Thanks, I will sit down." He lifted a great carry-all and airily tossed it into the aisle, set the Gladstone on the lap of the infuriated Englishman, and squeezed into the seat opposite, making a sad mix-up of knees.

"My name's Wellington. Ever hear of it? Jimmie Wellington? That's me."

"Any relation to the Duke?"

"Nagh!"

He no longer interested Mr. Wedgewood. But Mr. Wellington was not aware that he was being snubbed. He went right on getting acquainted:

"Are you married, Mr.—Mr.—?"

"No!"

"My heartfelt congratulations. Hang on to your luck, my boy. Don't let any female take it away from you."

He slapped the Englishman on the elbow amiably, and his prisoner was too stiffed with wrath to emit more than one feeble "Pawtah!"

Mr. Wellington mused on aloud: "Oh, if I had only remained single. But she was so beautiful and she swore to love, honor and obey. Mrs. Wellington is a queen among women, mind you, and I have nothing to say against her except that she has the temper of a tarantula." He italicized the word with a light flip of his left hand along the back of the seat. He did not notice that he flipped the angry head of Mr. Ira Lathrop in the next seat. He went on with his portrait of his wife. "She has the 'stravaganza of a sultana'—another flip for Mr. Lathrop—the 'zealousness of a cobra, the flirtatiousness of a humming bird." Mr. Lathrop was glaring round like a man-eating tiger, but Wellington talked on. "She drinks, swears and smokes cigars, otherwise she's fine—a queen among women."

Neither this amazing vision of woman-kind, nor this beautiful example of longing for confession and sympathy awakened a response in the Englishman's frozen bosom. His only action was another violent effort to disengage his cramped knees from the knees of his tormentor; his only comment a vain and weakening cry for help, "Pawtah! Pawtah!"

Wellington's beary, seary eyes were lighted with triumph. "Finally I saw I couldn't stand it any longer so I bought a tie-tie to Reno. I 'stablish a residenah in six months—get a divorce—no scandah. Even m'own wife won't know anything about it."

The Englishman was almost attracted by this astounding picture of the divorce laws in America. It sounded so barbarically quaint that he leaned forward to hear more, but Mr. Wellington's hand, like a mischievous runaway, had wandered back into the shaggy locks atop of Mr. Lathrop. His right hand did not let his left know what it was doing, but proceeded quite independently to grip as much of Lathrop's hair as it would hold.

Then as Mr. Wellington shook with joy at the prospect of "Dear old Reno!" he began unconsciously to draw Ira Lathrop's head after his hair across the seat. The pain of it shot the tears into Lathrop's eyes, and as he writhed and twisted he was too full of profanity to get any one word out.

When he managed to wrench his skull free, he was ready to murder his tormentor. But as soon as he confronted the doddering and blinking toper, he was helpless. Drunken men have always been treated with great tenderness in America, and when Wellington, seeing Lathrop's white hair, exclaimed with rapture: "Why, hello, Pop! here's Pop!" the most that Lathrop could do was to tear loose those fat, groping hands, slap them like a school teacher, and push the man away.

But that one shove upset Mr. Wellington and sent him toppling down upon the pit of the Englishman's stomach.

For Wedgewood, it was suddenly as if all the air had been removed from the world. He gulped like a fish drowning for lack of water. He was a long while getting breath enough for words, but his first words were wild demands that Mr. Wellington remove himself forthwith.

Wellington accepted the banishment with the sorrowful eyes of a dying deer, and tottered away wagging his fat head and wailing:

"I'm a broken-hearted man, and nobody gives a—" at this point he came over into Ira Lathrop's berth and was welcomed with a savage roar: "What the devil's the matter with you?"

"I'm a broken-hearted man, that's all."

"Oh, is that all," Lathrop snapped, vanishing behind his newspaper. The desperately melancholy seeker for a word of human kindness beared at the blurred newspaper wall a while, then waded into a new attempt at acquaintance. Laying his hand on Lathrop's knee, he stammered: "Esc-cuse me, Mr.—Mr—"

From behind the newspaper came a stinging answer: "Lathrop's my name—if you want to know."

"Pleased to meet you, Mr. Lathrop."

"Lathrop!"

"Lathrop! My name's Wellington. Let Jimmie Wellington. Ever hear of me?"

He waited with the genial smile of a famous man; the smile froze at Lathrop's curt, "Don't think so."

He tried again: "Ever hear of well-known Chicago belle, Mrs. Jimmie Wellington?"

"Yes, I've heard of her!" There was an ominous grin in the tone.

Wellington waved his hand with modest pride. "Well, I'm Jimmie."

"Serves you right."

This jolt was so discourteous that Wellington decided to protest: "Mister Latham!"

"Lathrop!"

The name came out with a whip-snap. He tried to echo it, "La-throp!"

"I don't like that Throp. That's a kind of a seasick name, isn't it?" Finding the newspaper still intervening between him and his prey, he calmly tore it down the middle and pushed through it like a moon coming through a cloud. "But a man can't change his name by marrying, can he? That's the worst of it. A woman can. Think of a heartless cobra di capello in woman's form wearing my fair name—and wearing it out. Mr. Lathrop, did you ever put your trust in a false-hearted woman?"

"Never put my trust in anybody."

"Didn't you ever love a woman?"

I have been using your Cheatham's Chill tonic in my family for some time and can say it is a certain shot on Chills, says J. B. Blackshear, Lewisville, La. Money promptly refunded if it fails to cure. Price 50c. Sold by all dealers. An excellent tonic for invalids and feeble persons. Prepared only by A. B. Richards Medicine Co., Sherman, Texas.

Come to Canyon to LIVE.

MAN has acquired a hunger for land which he can call his own. The supply is limited---the demand unlimited! Land values have risen to prohibitive prices in older settled states!

The Panhandle Is Ready For The Farmer

Here is a deep, rich soil, ready for the plow. An ample rainfall and a most healthful and splendid climate. Adequate railroad facilities by which to reach the markets of the world.

A return to normal climatic conditions, a greatly increased acreage of winter wheat, spring wheat, oats and barley, an unqualifiedly successful demonstration that Kaffir corn and Milo maize cannot be excelled as material for ensilage, the "better farming" spirit and the results of studying and developing this land assures a prosperous year.

The successful outcome of flax culture, demonstrated last year under conditions much less favorable than can confidently be reckoned on in the future has added another to the list of our resources.

Farms can be bought here now cheaper than they can later on, at prices which are certain of a steady advance as the summer and fall emigration stimulates the demand.

My farms are all favorably located, as regards towns and railroads and give the buyer a wide range in selection. All the improved farms are rented to good farmers and will produce a substantial revenue this year.

I am in position to give terms to suit the purchaser.
