

FARMERS ELIGIBLE FOR SPECIAL PRIZES

Amarillo Offers $217.50 in Prizes for Farm Products—Will Show in Amarillo, Denver and Dallas.

Randall county farmers are eligible to the $217.50 being offered by the Amarillo Board of City Development for farm products to be shown at the International Dry-Farming Congress and International Soil-Products Exposition in Denver, Colorado, September 27th to October 10th.

These prizes have been so divided as to cover a wide range of products. Just as an example, the following shows the classifications and proportion of prizes:

- First bushel of wheat—$8.00
- Second bushel of wheat—5.00
- Third bushel of wheat—2.50
- First sheaf of wheat—8.00
- Second sheaf of wheat—5.00
- Third sheaf of wheat—2.50

What is true of wheat, obtains also with oats, rye, speltz, kafir, milo maize, feterita and other crops common to this section of the state. These awards are offered to inspire people throughout this section to save and present of their best, so that the world on the outside may know what is possible in the Panhandle and Plains Country of Texas.

In this connection, it is well to remind the growers of wheat and oats especially that this being the harvest time, is the season when the grain in both threshed and bundle form should be preserved. If the grain is allowed to pass from the binder into the shock to weather in the sun and rain, it will not likely be prize-taking stuff when brought to an exhibit hall. The grain in the sheaf should be taken from the field and hung head downward in the shade where it may cure to the proper color and shape. The threshed grain should be cleaned through a fanning mill if necessary to remove all faulty grains and chaff, as the tests will be crucial and the grades of the winners high.

Full details relative to awards and classifications may be secured by addressing the Amarillo Board of City Development, or the Panhandle State Fair Association. The products offered for these special prizes, will also be eligible for competition at the Panhandle State Fair, the exhibit at Denver, and likewise at the Dallas fair.

Improve Power Plant.

Manager Arnold of the Canyon Power Co. reports that he is getting the improvement work at the plant nearly completed. There is being installed a new engine and the entire arrangement of the plant is being improved. The work was started last year but was discontinued during the winter months. Mr. Arnold begun to make the improvements upon his arrival here two months ago.

The new engine will cut down the operating expense considerably. Mr. Arnold announces that an ironing day will be inaugurated within a short time. He is trying to get the city and Santa Fe pumping business and if he succeeds the plant will be run more hours daily than it is at present.

NEW ELEVATOR PROSPECTS GOOD

Representative of the Wichita Mill and Elevator Co. Visits Canyon and Likes Conditions.

J. H. Hatcher of Shamrock was in the city yesterday as a representative of the Wichita Mill & Elevator Co. He was looking over local conditions with a view of establishing a new elevator in Canyon.

Mr. Hatcher was well pleased with conditions he found. While not able to speak for the company, he stated that everything looked favorable for the establishment for the company here. The Wichita people have large interests over the country and are always able to handle grain at the very highest prices.

If his report is accepted favorably by the company, it is planned to lease the Eagle Mill during the coming year and the company will then put up buildings of their own.

Run Over with Binder.

While J. L. Hinson was hitching a team of mules to a binder on the J. O. Turner ranch Monday morning, the animals became frightened and knocking him down, pulled the machine over his body, the bull wheel striking him near the stomach. He was badly bruised and internal complications are feared. He was brought to the city yesterday and while in very bad condition it is believed he will fully recover.

CELEBRATION OF JULY FOURTH ON MONDAY WITH BIG PICNIC

Annual Fourth of July Picnic by the faculty of the West Texas State Normal College and the citizens of Canyon to the students of the Normal.

On Monday, July 5, 1915, the faculty and the citizens of Canyon will give to the students of the West Texas State Normal College an "All-day Picnic, Dinner on the Grounds," at Myers' Grove, just below the Canyon City Club grounds.

Two committees have been appointed to arrange the details of the day's pleasures: one from the faculty, selected from its own members; the other, appointed by Mayor Wilson from the citizens of Canyon. After a joint meeting on Wednesday, June 30th, the committees beg leave to submit the following report:

First, That the faculty of the Normal and the business men of Canyon provide for this occasion: barbecued meats, bread, pickles, lemonade, and coffee;

Secondly, That the boarding houses and private families of Canyon be requested to supplement the above eatables with whatever lunch they may desire to take.

Transportation.

The Transportation Committee, J. D. Gamble and Bob Foster, have agreed to make the round-trip to the gate of the Canyon City Club Grounds for 25 cents from each individual. Conveyances will leave the Court House Square at the hours of 8 o'clock and 9 o'clock in the morning. It will facilitate matters to have the 25 cents in change ready when you take passage. The return trips from

Our Independence Day.

Jake H. Harrison.

Our Independence Day is here again, When shot and shout are wont to rend the air, But let us hope it may not end in pain And bring to human hearts a black despair. The wings of joy should ever waft to men A lasting good, and not a griping woe, And it is strange beyond all human ken That we do not combine to have it so.

The blare of trumpets and the loud report Of bursting bombs, and other heathen noise, Should find no place in Christian Nations' sport, No voice in the expression of their joys;

But patriotic songs should ride the breeze Attuned to childish zest and youthful pride, The starry ensign float above the trees, Where we should fling its colors far and wide.

Adown the corridor of time our eyes Should peek the glowing records of the past, And read the future with the glad surprise

"That comes to those who wish an empire vast; When they have found it spread before their view Awaiting their possession and command, With corn and wine their vigor to renew, A peaceful home, a fruitful happy land.

We are a Nation now in all it means To be a Nation in these latter days; Then why should we enact disgraceful scenes, And poison joy in rash, ungodly ways? Let sane enjoyment be our only thought Aside from patriotic pride and loyalty, Let us remember how the boon was bought, And sober Christian sons of Freedom's throne.

the gate of the Club Grounds will be made at the hours of 6 o'clock and 7 o'clock in the afternoon. All people should return in the same vehicle that took them out. This will avoid confusion and delay.

A matter of general interest.

Whatever promotes the welfare of the Normal directly concerns, not only every member of the Canyon City Club, but also every citizen of Canyon and Randall county. In the belief that every member of the Canyon City Club will approve of any step looking to the common interest of all, the Directors of the Canyon City Club have agreed to suspend for the above occasion "Section 1 under Privileges of the By-Laws" and to invite all who attend the picnic to enjoy for the day the privileges allowed regular members of the Club. Canyon City has no Public Park, open to the citizens of Canyon and to the students of the Normal. For this reason, also as a matter of courtesy and common interest, the Directors of the Club feel that every member of the club will not only approve of what they have done, but that they will be present at the picnic to show the visitors a good time.

It is hoped that the business men Canyon will close their shops for the day; that all the people of Canyon, all the faculty and students of the Normal will be at the picnic, with a hearty handshake and a happy smile. It is good occasionally to cheat life of some of its carking cares, to forget that there is such a thing as "worry". The best way to do this is to run away from your business, your books, your dish-washing, your gardening, and look Nature squarely in the face with a broad smile.

Committee from the Citizens: S. L. Ingham, D. A. Park, S. R. Griffin. Committee from the Faculty: Horace W. Morelock, D. A. Shirley, Miss Lamb.

Painting Court House Cupola.

Judge Coss has made arrangements for the painting of the court house cupola, together with the faces of the town clock during the next few days. The painters are just completing the work on the outside woodwork of the court house.

Friday afternoon quite a sensation was caused by one of the painters falling from the third story while painting the top of a window. He was standing on a step ladder which rested on a 4x4 extending from the inside of the building, the support giving way and causing him to fall. He missed the sidewalk only by two inches. However, he escaped with only an injured arm.

Baptist Church Services.

The following are the subjects of Rev. Fronabarger's sermons for next Sunday:

Morning—"A look of wonder and worship into the home of God before the world was." Evening—"A message from God to man and a message from man to God."

Pay School Interest.

To the Editor:

Permit me, through your columns, to advise those of your readers who have not paid their last year's interest due on their school land that it will be necessary for them to pay by about the middle of August if they desire to prevent a forfeiture of their land. This is necessary on account of the importance of getting the money into the State's Treasury before the close of the present school year on August 31st in order to help prevent a deficit in the school fund apportionment. No one should wait for a personal notice before sending in his payment.

Yours truly,

J. T. Robinson, Commissioner.

Soldiers to Camp.

The Canyon boys who are members of the Amarillo troop of the Texas National Guard left Wednesday for Amarillo where they join their troop which leaves today for the yearly camp near San Antonio. The following are the members of the Guard from Canyon: A. T. Moreland, R. R. Moreland, Al Cavet, Herb Miller, Thad Lair, Louis Lair, Joe Rice, Roy Thomas, Joe Self, L. C. Boyd, Vernon Shelnett, Cecil McCann, Earl McCann, Raymond Armstrong, Dewitt Leverton, J. D. Owens.

COOPERATION BY BUSINESS MEN

Discussions Before the Meeting of the Farmers Institute in Canyon Saturday Afternoon.

The following is the program for the Farmers Institute to be held at the court house Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock, as announced by Welton Winn:

1st What the banks are willing to do to secure good prices for the present grain crop. 10 minute talks by L. T. Lester and W. D. Morrel.

2nd What assistance can the merchants render in price making. T. C. Thompson, Jim Redfern, Oscar Gamble and J. C. Pipkin.

3rd What is possible to accomplish by cooperation of the business forces of this town in securing better prices by securing a good market for all grain. R. A. Campbell and H. C. Roffey.

As the time is short we have made out this list without the knowledge or consent of the speakers named, but believing all are interested in building up our town, we are asking all to take time and attend this meeting at three o'clock next Saturday afternoon, July 3. Everyone attending will be at liberty to express his views and make suggestions.

Last but not least, C. W. Warwick will be asked to give his views on the topics at issue and tell what newspapers can do to help along all cooperative movements for the upbuilding of Canyon and Randall county. Whosoever let him come to this meeting and assist in this important work. Welton Winn, Pres.

The meeting last Saturday was not largely attended but excellent work was started toward cooperative marketing of the grain crop. J. L. Pope, assistant agricultural demonstrator for the Santa Fe, was present and made an excellent talk upon the subject.

POPE REPORTS BIG GENERAL WHEAT CROP

Agricultural Demonstrator Strong for Greater Diversification of crops in Panhandle.

"Even the most expectant and optimistic are not prepared for the enormous wheat yields that will be shown in the Panhandle and Plains Country of Texas, this season," declared J. L. Pope, assistant agricultural demonstrator of the Santa Fe Railway, who was in Canyon Saturday to attend a meeting of the Farmers' Institute. Continuing, Mr. Pope said: "Accompanying H. M. Bainer, agricultural demonstrator for the Santa Fe, I have just returned from a trip through the Panhandle district, where the wheat harvest has just cleverly begun. We found the crop not only increased with reference to area, over that of 1914, but also that the yield will be somewhat heavier than last year.

"As never before perhaps, has the summer tillage method proven its worth in connection with wheat production. There are crops in the sections visited this week, grown under summer tillage conditions, from which the yield will approximate from forty to forty-five bushels per acre. The wheat grown as indicated is shoulder high to the average man, the heads are long and well filled.

"Not only the summer tilled wheat, but that handled in the usual way, shows an excellent condition, and it is the judgment of those who are accustomed to handling the crop, that some of this latter, will make more than thirty-five bushels per acre. Just what the average yield per acre will be, remains in doubt, but some are placing it at twenty bushels.

"While the wheat crop is an item of great importance, it is the hope of the Agricultural Department of the Santa Fe, that the people of the Panhandle may not overlook the fact that diversification on the farm is the one thing that is destined to give real and permanent success: Cattle, hogs and poultry must have a place in the general farm scheme, and through these the feed crops must be transformed into more concentrated and highly priced products. Wheat, like cotton, where the latter is grown, is all right as a "cash crop", but it should not made a sole crop, if disastrous results would be avoided.

"We believe that the people of this county are becoming more fully aware of the truth and worth of the foregoing facts. As this doctrine spreads and takes hold upon the people, their bank accounts will grow space, and prosperity will become more general."

The MAID of the FOREST

A Romance of St. Clair's Defeat

By RANDALL PARRISH

ILLUSTRATED by D. J. LAVIN

COPYRIGHT A. C. MCCLURG & CO., 1915

"He was murdered all right, lad," he commented slowly, "and by a white man. This was not in your work. Here is the imprint of a boot heel; you can even see the nails. That's odd; I didn't suppose there was a boot worn in this country except by British officers. What is that red garment lying on the bench? I thought so; an English infantry jacket, made in London, and it never belonged to D'Auvray." He held it up. "It was a big fellow who wore this coat, about your size."

I drew up the bench, and sat down. "There is more to this than you have discovered, Brady," I said, determined to explain. "Did you chance to see a French girl back at Fort Harmar?"

He shook his head. "Not as I remember; who was she?"

"That is what I would like to know. I hoped you might have picked up some information. She was at General Harmar's office—a young girl, not much over twenty, I should judge, with dark eyes and hair, speaking broken English, her dress half Indian and half French. She was one in a thousand, to my thought. What name do you suppose she gave me?"

His eyes, interested, questioned me, but he sat silent.

"Rene D'Auvray; and she explained her father was a French officer, killed in battle."

"And her mother?"

"A woman of the Wyandots, but a half-breed."

"D'Auvray! The same as the dead man yonder! And he was a soldier. It is an odd case. What else do you know about her?"

"Precious little, indeed, for she seemed an adept in deceit. She even pretended to know me, and actually spoke my name before it had been told her. How she ever learned it is more than I can guess. The little mix is full of tricks, but plays them so saucily it was not in my heart to become angry. By heavens! one glance in her eyes would disarm any man."

"Yes," he interrupted, "but whence came she there, and for what purpose?"

I told him all I knew, and he listened eagerly, his eyes on Schultz putting about the fire.

"She must have jested in her throat to travel hither with the renegade."

"I fear it was not jest," I said soberly. "She was in a mood to do even that, and I do not think she feared the man. They may be on our trail now; ay! close at hand, Brady, for they both know these woods better than either of us. It is my thought, now, the dead man yonder was the lass' father, and she would know his cabin."

His eyes turned to the door, and then to the food Schultz was placing on the table before us, but whatever I thought it remained unuttered. As we sat there eating, he was apparently turning it all over in his mind, trying to draw the tangled ends of the skein together. As we finished the meal, some newly awakened curiosity caused me to glance out again into the rear room. It was gloomy with shadows, the bodies of man and dog beyond view; yet what I perceived brought from my lips a sudden exclamation.

"Grady, some one has been in here! The outer door is unlatched—yes—and the soldier's coat is gone!"

We searched the room carefully, but discovered no sign of its having been entered, except for the door standing slightly ajar, and the disappearance of the red coat. We dare not carry a torch into the open, and the night was too dark for us to trace marks on the ground. Brady stood in the glow of firelight, looking to the priming of his rifle, his face shadowed.

"I am going out awhile, Hayward," he said finally. "Yes, I am all right now. I meant to take you along, but I reckon it will be safer not to leave the Dutchman here alone. However, I don't think there will be any more visitors tonight."

He slipped out the back way, disappearing instantly, and I picked up my own rifle, bade Schultz remain where he was, and followed, with the purpose of scouting about the island. I could perceive the new danger we were in. I suppose the assassin, eager to save himself from suspicion, should be attracted to that camp of raiders, and, relying on their friendship for protection, charge us with the murder of D'Auvray. What mercy could we hope for at their hands? Beyond doubt the band was composed of ambitious young warriors, who had already tasted blood, and under control of no chief able to restrain them. If their wild passions should be appealed to.

But I emerged into darkness and silence. Quickly as I had made this decision I was too late. The scout had already disappeared across the narrow open space, and vanished into the fringe of trees. There was nothing to guide me, except a vague sense of direction, yet I felt my way forward through the dense tree growth, hearing no sound of movement, and compelled to move slowly until I emerged the shore, and could perceive the stars reflected on the surface of still water. As I lingered there clear of the woods' shadow, my courage gradually returned, and one situation appeared less desperate. Whoever the fellow was who had killed D'Auvray he might have as much cause to fear the Indian raiders as we did. The mere fact that he wore a red coat was no direct proof he was a British soldier; doubtless many a forest renegade had picked up bits of discarded uniform. Besides, why should any soldier desire to kill D'Auvray? He had led his Indians to action under Hamilton. More likely the fellow was French, and the murder the end of some private feud. His only desire then would be to get away safely, to escape unseen. Brady would learn all this, and he would be back presently.

I do not know how long a time passed, only I had circled the house twice, skirting the edge of the woods in my rounds, keeping well in the blacker shadows, and moving noiselessly, every nerve alert. Back of the house I discovered a mound of earth, heaped as a roof, over an opening in the ground, evidently a cellar of some kind. So far as I could discover, by groping in the darkness, there was nothing concealed within, but the entrance offered a good hiding place, and I sat down there where I could see in every direction, with my rifle across my knees. The stars yielded a spectral light, and no one could move across the clearing unobserved. I sat there for ten minutes, seeing and hearing nothing, gradually growing drowsy in the silence, my head sinking back against the earth mound. Yet I remained awake and watchful, although when I first perceived a figure slipping out of the black-fringe of woods, I half believed it a dream. But it was no dream, and I sat up suddenly, my heart beating like a triphammer, and stared. I could see little, not enough to determine whether the intruder was savage or white, merely perceiving an indistinct form, crouching low, yet advancing directly toward me. There was no hesitancy, no evidence of fear, but merely the natural caution of one traveling alone in the wilderness. At first I believed it to be Brady returning, yet hesitated to step boldly forth, for the figure appeared small and unnatural, barely perceptible against the darker background of earth.

To render myself more secure I drew cautiously back a step within the cellar entrance, and waited breathlessly, bracing myself to meet either friend or foe. I could no longer see the intruder, and the caution of his approach made me certain the man must be an enemy. Surely Brady, even while exercising every precaution, would never hesitate like this, and grope his way forward inch by inch. I felt the hot blood leap in my veins; then the fellow, still crouching low, but with rifle barrel advanced, appeared around the edge of the pile of earth, scarcely two yards distant. All I saw clearly was a hat with a feather in it, an indistinct outline of form, and the black rifle barrel. My rifle came up to the shoulder, and I slipped into the open.

"Stop where you are!" I ordered sharply. "Drop your gun, and stand up!"

I heard a quick breath of surprise, almost an exclamation; the stock of the rifle sank to the ground, but the hands still clung to the barrel, as the startled figure straightened up. I could not distinguish the face, only the white outline shadowed by the hat, yet the short, slender form was that of a boy. The relief at this discovery brought a laugh to my lips.

"What does this mean, lad?" I asked. "Have children gone to war?"

Come, answer me; you are no savage.

"It is not a lad with whom you deal, Monsieur Hayward," replied a soft voice, trembling a bit nevertheless, though attempting boldness. "You know me now?"

She flung the concealing hat into the grass, the silvery light of the stars on her face.

"You here! you!" I exclaimed in swift surprise at this unexpected announcement, and feeling the hot blood flush my face. "You came with Grady?"

She ventured to laugh lightly at my tone and manner.

"We traveled together—yes. What of that, monsieur? The wilderness is not a parlor where we can choose associates. Did I not warn you I would come with him when you refused me? An' you think I did what was wrong?"

"It puzzled by her direct question. 'What is it to me, mademoiselle? You would not care what I think. Yet were you sister of mine I would speak plainly enough; we all know what Simon Grady is.'"

"Oh, no, monsieur, the Americans do not," and her voice rang with emphasis. "He is to them an enemy, a fiend. He wars on the other

STOMACH TROUBLES

Mr. Ragland Writes Interesting Letter on This Subject.

Madison Heights, Va.—Mr. Chas. A. Ragland, of this place, writes: "I have been taking Theford's Black-Draught for indigestion, and other stomach troubles, also colds, and find it to be the very best medicine I have ever used."

After taking Black-Draught for a few days, I always feel like a new man." Nervousness, nausea, heartburn, pain in pit of stomach, and a feeling of fullness after eating, are sure symptoms of stomach trouble, and should be given the proper treatment, as your strength and health depend very largely upon your food and its digestion.

To get quick and permanent relief from these ailments, you should take a medicine of known curative merit.

Its 75 years of splendid success, in the treatment of just such troubles, proves the real merit of Theford's Black-Draught. Safe, pleasant, gentle in action, and without bad after-effects, it is sure to benefit both young and old. For sale everywhere. Price 25c. N. C. 111.

side, and as the Indians make war. Why not? He has lived in our wigwams, and sat at our council fires. He belongs with us, save for the birthmark of a white skin. To me he is not enemy, but friend. I have known him always, from childhood; there is no fear in my heart; did he desire, he would not dare harm me—I am a Wyandot."

The swift words were a defiance, a challenge.

"Have it as you will," I said coldly. "But nothing you may say will ever make me think well of that renegade."

"You!" she exclaimed passionately. "Why do you say that, Joseph Hayward? Why do you keep up this masquerade with me? We are no longer at Fort Harmar where it was safer for you to guard your speech. I knew you would be here; that was why I came alone—that we might talk to each other, and no longer lie."

I stared at her face in the starlight, my memory suddenly reverting to the dead man within.

"You knew I would be here?"

"I guessed it, and my instinct was true. Why not, monsieur? You alone knew the house was here, and who lived in it."

CHAPTER VII.

Mademoiselle Meets Her Father.

There was evidently no use of my groping longer in the dark. The girl was in earnest; she firmly believed me to be another. There could be no understanding between us until this mystery of identity was cleared away. Her discovery of me here had only served to increase her hallucination.

"Mademoiselle D'Auvray," I said earnestly, and I stood bare-headed before her, "there is a serious mistake being made. I am not willing you should deceive yourself any longer."

D. 1915, the same being the 30th day of August A. D. 1915, then and there to answer a petition filed in said court on the 30th day of March A. THE VERY BEST TIME to take Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is now, if you feel that your blood is out of order. Don't wait until you have to cure disease; it's easier and better to prevent it. With the first blotches or eruptions, or the dullness, weariness, and depression that are some of the symptoms, you need this medicine. It will rouse every organ into healthy action, thoroughly cleanse and repair your system, and build up needed flesh, health, and strength. It's the only reliable blood remedy. In the most stubborn Skin or Scalp affections; in the worst forms of Scrofula; in every disease caused by a torpid liver or impure blood—it never fails to benefit or cure. Mrs. JENNIS WALLS, 610 North Broughton St., Sherman, Texas, writes:

"I have used Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and found it to be the best. I found it all right, and can recommend it highly. Constipation causes many serious diseases. It is thoroughly cured by Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets for Liver Ills."

most receive the proper balance of food to sufficiently nourish both body and brain during the growing period when nature's demands are greater than in mature life. This is shown in so many pale faces, lean bodies, frequent colds, and lack of ambition.

For all such children we say with unmistakable earnestness: They need Scott's Emulsion, and need it now. It possesses in concentrated form the very food elements to enrich their blood. It changes weakness to strength; it makes them sturdy and strong. No alcohol.

Thomas A. Edison says that U. S. could get ready for war within a very short time. He advocates the immediate manufacture and storage of two million rifles, the building of several small ammunition and supply factories and trenching machines. He favors a larger navy and better coast protection. Edison says he doesn't look for war anytime soon, and does not believe in compulsory military study and drill but believes in being prepared with plenty of supplies. In other words, he is an advocate of peace if you have to fight for it.

The churches of Dallas are preparing to go into competition with the picture shows. Why not? Why shouldn't the churches of Dallas or any other place provide the right kind of entertainment for the young people if the public places fail to do so. Young people must be entertained. The sooner the churches realize the social instinct of man the sooner will world wide evangelization be reached.

Glazier Review—Canyon is to have a city park. The City Federation of women have taken steps to establish it and from the personnel of the executive committee, there is no doubt but what when the members of the Panhandle Press Association make the run from Amarillo to Canyon next spring to view the Normal building (and wings) that the gold fish in the fountain at the new park will be ready to nibble the crumbs which accrue from the chuck wagon dinner the Normal city has promised. Every town should have a park.

Ben Smith of Lockney is the only Panhandle newspaper man who reached the state press association last week. The others were stopped by the floods. Ben is a state official and ordered the floods to get out of his way.

Randall county cattle have again broken all Texas records on the Kansas City Market. Rich kafir, maize, and sorghum, mixed with intelligent breeding and feeding made this possible. The Panhandle has put Texas cattle business on the map.

Harvest hands are in demand many places over the country at $3 per day. What excuse can loafers give?

Prof. J. A. Hill will give two lectures in the Normal chapel on July 20 and 21 relative to international law and relations. These lectures are given under the auspices of the Carnegie Peace Foundation, Mr. Hill being selected to promote the interests of this association in this section of the state. Mr. Hill is also giving a course in the Normal which makes a study of international relations, which takes up the following subjects:

I. International Law. The Origin and development of international law, Sovereign States, De Facto Governments, Belligerency, Fundamental Rights and duties of States, Jurisdiction upon the high seas, Piracy Protection of citizens in foreign States, Treaties, Relations between belligerents, Neutral states, Neutralized states, Laws of war, etc. These are some of the questions studied for one month.

Text: Stockton, Manual of International Law.

II. World Politics. Nationalism, Colonization, the great powers as colonizers. Dangers arising from imperialistic policies, the various fields of national colonial conflict, world politics, as influenced by China, the meeting of the East and West, German Imperial Politics, the Position of the U. S. in World Politics, and its possible efforts upon domestic interests and national political policies and parties, etc. These are among the problems attacked during the second month.

Text: Reinsch, World Politics.

III. Latin America. This part of the course will deal with the natural resources of South and Central America, their civilization, their attitude toward the U. S., difficulties in the way of the development of friendly Pan-American Relations, and how these may be overcome, the opportunities and responsibilities of the U. S. in her relation to Latin America.

Two PURE Cinnamons— One strong, the other weak— Why?

Cinnamon is the bark of a tree. It gets its flavor from a volatile oil in the bark—the more of this oil the better and stronger the flavor.

The amount of oil varies according to the age of the tree, the soil, climate and the cultivation of the tree itself. Later, the handling of the bark must be such as to preserve the oil from evaporation, and finally the grinding must be so done that loss of oil will not occur during that process.

Thus you see that from the very start it is much more than purity that must be preserved for you—it is flavor and strength which can be lacking even in perfectly pure Cinnamon.

White Swan Cinnamon is made of high-grade, relatively high-priced and most carefully selected bark from young trees. In every step of handling and manufacture the greatest care is devoted to keeping the strength and flavor (the oil) intact. It is packed with the same care. We recommend it and guarantee its flavoring strength to be at least four times that of ordinary "pure cinnamon."

Ask your grocer—he can tell you what White Swan means to quality.

Six Months for Joy Riding.

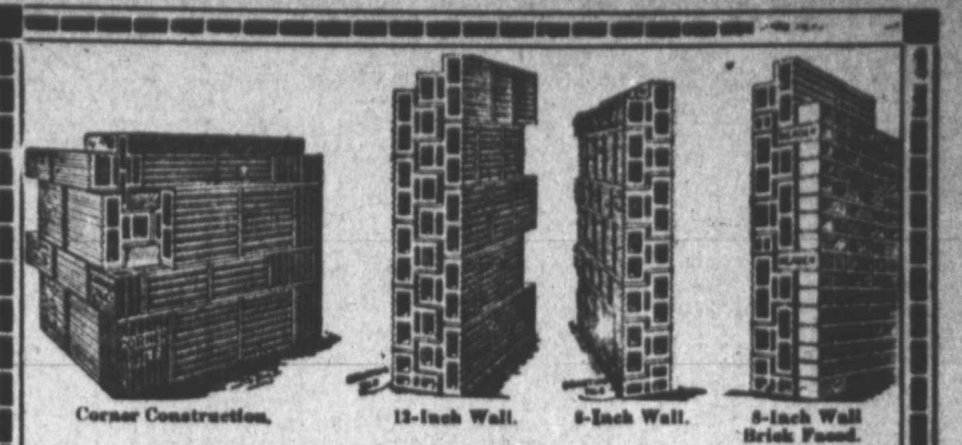

Earl (Curley) Wamock of Amarillo, a workman on the Normal, was sentenced Monday by Judge C. E. Coss to six months in jail and $1.00 fine for joy riding in R. L. Marquis' car week ago Saturday night. The Marquis family returned from the Normal reception at midnight and put the car in the garage. At seven o'clock Sunday morning Mr. Marquis found the car missing. Sheriff Jennings was notified and within a short time discovered the car near the George Jones home. There was considerable damage done to the car. A sack bearing the name of an Amarillo eating house found in the car brought out the facts that Curley had bought eight hamburgers at that place between 2 and 8 o'clock that morning. He was accompanied by other men and two women. Sheriff Jennings had him in jail by noon, but he would not confess until Monday morning of this week.

The law under which he was sent to jail went into effect at midnight, Saturday. The car was taken out a very few minutes later and Curley was in jail within 12 hours. This is the first known case in the state under which the law was applied.

Hubbard's Recipe.

Elbert Hubbard said at 58 he had never consulted a physician and never was sick an hour in his life. He thought a man ought to live five times the length of time he spends reaching maturity, which is 20 years. That would make us all 100 years old at death. His recipe for living a hundred years is this:
First—Deep breathing in the open air with your mouth closed.
Second—Moderation in eating; simple dishes; Fletcherize; eat fruit every day, especially bananas.
Third—Exercise at least two hours in the open each day, walking, working in the garden, playing with children.
Fourth—Sleep eight hours in a thoroughly ventilated room.
Fifth—Drink all the water you care to between meals.
Sixth—Don't bother to forgive your friends: just forget them.
Seventh—Keep busy. It is a beautiful world and we must and will and can leave it more beautiful than we found it.

I am going to be perfectly frank with you, and in return I ask you to be equally frank with me. Who do you believe me to be?"

She gazed straight into my face, answering:

"Monsieur Joseph Hayward."

"Of course," smiling, "you heard the name at Fort Harmar."

"But I did not; it was never mentioned in my presence. I recognized you."

"Which would imply that we had met before, yet I have no recollection, not the faintest, of such a meeting. You are not one it would be easy to forget."

"Unless one particularly desired to do so," she replied swiftly, "and that

"You Call Me a Spy, but I Am Not."

I am beginning to suspect is the case." She straightened her slender figure, throwing back her shoulders and using a clearer English than before, as if throwing off disguise. "You ask me to deal with you frankly, monsieur; very well, I will. Down in my heart I have never trusted you—never! My father did, and I made pretense to please him. But from our first meeting my womanly instincts told me you were false. Now I know it! You are not with us, but with our enemies; you are a traitor! a spy!"

The words stung; they were like the thrusts of a knife. Was the girl insane—mad?

"You call me a spy," I said soberly, as her breath failed, "but I am not.

To me this is all mystery. But what about yourself, mademoiselle? Why were you at Fort Harmar? What purpose brought you there?"

"I went there openly, and in no disguise," she replied, restraining herself with an effort. "I was not a spy, nor a victim of curiosity. I told the truth when I said I was seeking my father."

"Yet you left at once to return north without finding him?"

"Because I had learned he was not there, not in the American forts. I heard the general tell it to you."

"To me! the name was not mentioned. We spoke only of a medicine man—Wa-pa-tee-tah."

"Yes, the White Chief. He came to the Wyandots with the Christ message. He was there before the priests, and it is through his efforts there has been peace. Yet why should I tell you all this? You have met him in council, have eaten at his table, and shared his bed. He alone has stood, and blocked your plans of war."

"Mademoiselle," I said, "let us forget this controversy, this misunderstanding, for it is that, and be friends for this night at least. I wish to help you, and not be held as an enemy. You have been in my mind ever since we first met; I have not been able to drive you from memory. I must bring you evil news, but my heart is full of kindness and sympathy. You will believe this?"

How white her face was in the starlight, uplifted to mine. One hand grasped my sleeve.

"News! evil news! of my father?"

"Of Rael D'Auray; he was your father?"

"Yes! you say 'was' he is dead?"

I caught the groping hand in mine, and held it tightly in the grasp of my fingers. She made no movement, but I could distinguish her quick breathing, see her dark eyes.

"Yes; you must listen quietly while I tell you all I know. We reached here at dusk. There was a band of Indian raiders camped under near the foot of the lake, and so we crossed over to this island to avoid them. We stumbled upon this hut while seeking a camping spot. It was dark, and apparently deserted. The front door was latched, but unlocked, and we ventured inside, feeling our way through the gloom, until we came to a door leading into the rear room. You know the arrangement?"

She did not respond, or remove her eyes from my face.

"When we opened this a huge mastiff leaped savagely at us. In the darkness he fastened his jaws on Brady's arm—the scout with me—and had to be killed by a knife thrust. Then we procured a light with which to search, and found the body of a man lying on the floor."

"Dead?"

"Murdered; his head crushed in from behind with an ax. He was an old man, with snow-white beard."

"How did you know he was Rael D'Auray?"

VOTE FOR THE AMENDMENT.

Ferment in Texas is fast crystallizing in favor of the adoption of Resolution 34, which proposes the complete separation of the A. & M. College and the State University. The country press is almost a unit in favor of the resolution and a number of the leading dailies have championed its passage. The Houston Post has taken the field favoring the adoption of the resolution and states its position in the following forceful and clear cut editorial:

"There are people who believe that one board for the management and control of the University and the Agricultural and Mechanical College would remove such friction as has existed for years between the two institutions. There are others who believe that the college should be thoroughly co-ordinated with the university and become an integral part of it in every respect. Both of these elements have made strong arguments to fortify their opinions.

But the friends of the college—those who are more directly concerned in its welfare—desire absolute separation, and there is no reason to doubt that the great majority of the people of the State desire such separation. Whether they do or not may be easily determined by the vote on the pending separation amendment soon to be voted on by the people.

The Post believes that those who urge complete separation have the best of the argument and that a favorable decision on the amendment has merely served to retard the development of both institutions. It is a matter of supreme importance to these institutions that these old points of controversy be effectually disposed of, so that each may concentrate its efforts within its own peculiar sphere to discharge its great functions in the education and training of Texas youth.

We must recognize that neither the University nor the College has made much more than a beginning. It is evident to those who take a deep interest in higher education that we must soon take up the question of greatly extending such facilities as the University and College now have. In the matter of physical equipment we scarcely have any University at all. There is immediate need of $2,000,000 worth of buildings and equipment, and the time is at hand when we shall have to consider the ways and means of supplying the physical needs of the University. We are pledged to make if a University of the first-class and this cannot be done if we neglect the physical needs of the institution.

While the college is in somewhat better condition in a physical sense, it lacks much of meeting present demands. If former legislatures had been as diligent as the present in making provision for our institutions of higher learning, both the College and University might at this time be capable of accommodating 5,000 students each, which would not have been a remarkable number, considering the population of the State. And our policy for the future should be to increase the capacity of both institutions, so as to enable them to meet not only present demands, but to accommodate the oncoming hosts of youth that knock at the doors of these institutions year by year.

We must ultimately abandon the present plan of providing for these institutions. Their requirements should not be subject to the whims of a legislature or to the conflicting theories of various legislatures. A specific tax to provide for current expenses, for development and expansion and for enlargement of their institutional functions is the businesslike way to maintain our public institutions.

This would emancipate our great schools from the embarrassments they suffer at times by reason of the State's financial difficulties, take them out of politics, place their control and destiny altogether in the hands of able, unselfish men and afford an assurance that there would be at all times an abundance of money to enable them to expand with the growth of the State's population.

If the people will now take interest enough in the matter to adopt the amendment completely separating the University and College and later make provision for their support through the instrumentality of specific tax, we think that within a few years our educational problems will be well on the way to permanent solution.—Houston Post.

Who Am I?

I am more powerful than the combined armies of the world.

I have destroyed more men than all the wars of the world.

I am more deadly than bullets, and I have wrecked more homes than the mightiest of siege guns.

I steal in the United States alone, over $300,000,000.00 each year.

I spare no one and I find my victims among the rich and poor alike; the young and old; the strong and weak; widows and orphans know me.

I loom up to such proportions that I cast my shadow over every field of labor from the turning of the grindstone to the moving of every railroad train.

I massacre thousands of wage-earners in a year.

I lurk in unseen places, and do most of my work silently. You are warned against me, but you heed not.

I am relentless. I am everywhere; in the home, on the streets, in the factory, at railroad crossings, and on the sea.

I bring sickness, degradation and death, and yet few seek to avoid me.

I destroy, crush or maim; I give nothing, but take all.

I am your worst enemy.

I am carelessness.

Get 'Em on the Run.

The feeders of the middle west are scared. They are on the run. The splendid record made by the Keiser cattle on the Kansas City market last week has caused "some remarks" which shows dissatisfaction among the cattle feeders. They realize that they cannot feed 75 cent Indian corn raised on $150 and $200 land and make any money on the deal when they have to compete with the native feeds of the Panhandle which is just as nutritive and which is produced on cheap land—in as large a volume as is the Indian corn of the Mississippi valley.

Here are some interviews on the question published in the Kansas City Drovers Telegram:

"Cattle from the range territory topping the fed steer market simply shows that cattle feeding is no longer confined to the corn belt as we supposed it would always be," B. F. Taylor of Lafayette county, Mo., said. "Steers from Texas which never had any corn, good enough to top the fat cattle market, shows that this feeding industry is slipping away from us and breaking over into new territory."

J. F. Logan of Dekalb county, Mo., is convinced that if corn belt farmers expect to keep on feeding cattle they must raise a greater variety of feed crops, and not depend on corn exclusively, as some have been doing. Mr. Logan observes that many cattle of the well finished class which have not had any corn at all are now being marketed at top prices.

"The average Missouri farmer can raise kafir corn, cane and mixed forage feeds, just as successfully as they can be raised in Texas, or any place else," he said. "And we must get busy and raise them."

Our Space Worth While!

By MOSS.

Newspaper advertising is a tangible commodity.

Take this paper, for instance. We sell our space to the merchants. They use it to attract the attention of our readers in order to induce them to buy. The readers in turn compare the ads. and go where they can get the best for the lowest price.

If this valuable commodity were done away with the merchant and the reader would have a hard time getting together. We'd be way back in the days of stage-coaches and muzzie loading guns.

You May Talk to One Man

But an advertisement in this paper talks to the whole community. Catch the Idea!

Visitors to the great world's exposition at St. Louis in 1904 will remember the huge Inside Inn at that exposition. The location of the building is within the exposition grounds, near the great Palace of Fine Arts. The Inside Inn is a city in itself.

Your Home Paper Your Reciprocation

The local paper is always hustling for you and yours.

But what are you doing for it? The paper is always scheming, and planning and laboring for a better community, for a more prosperous community.

Do you ever exert yourself to give the paper a boost?

The paper is always pushing you and your people to the front, giving you a good word before your neighbors and the public, assisting you to build up a reputation which will be of inestimable value to you throughout the years of your life.

But what are you doing? Are you reciprocating in any way? Do you ever suggest to your neighbors or your friends, that it is a good paper a loyal paper, and that it should receive their support?

The paper devotes many hours and many pages in advertising the natural advantages of the community—of your community—and in seeking to enhance the welfare of your community and of yourself.

But what of you? Do you ever seek to advertise the paper, or to swell its subscription list, or to increase its general usefulness to the community.

The paper is working six days of the week for the community, and for you, and for yours.

But do you ever devote a minute of your time to its material welfare? Have you ever done so?

The duty of the paper is to supply you with the legitimate news of the town and community. But the paper goes much farther. Its labors in behalf of the community are endless and without end, and it will continue to advocate the cause of community, therefore its labors are in your behalf.

But are you doing one single thing to requite the paper for all of its toil and expense in your behalf?

You take the paper, you say. True, and you get more than value received each issue in the news alone. The fund of information which the paper hands you each publication day for a cent or two would cost you many dollars if you went out to gather it up yourself.

But this is not a kick, nor is it a roast. It is just a little food for thought in a few of your idle moments.—Ex
