Why Not Smile?

Are you angry? Is your lip cracked? Are you afraid of wrinkles? Are you suffering from an ingrowing grouch? None of them? Then why don't you smile? History tells us of men who trained themselves not to smile, because they wanted a stern ex pression of contenance. The savages also prided themselves on not showing any sort of emotion. Have you noticed in the photographs, that the mother of the war heroes of Europe are not smiling? Neither are the generals who are doing the killing. Only the heroes themselves are smiling. A hard and stern expression does not indicate a good heart nor a clear conscience. A thief seldom smiles. The woman of the streets smiles with her lips, but her eyes are hard and cold. The poverty stricken man on the street who begs for a dime sends his plea direct to your heart if his appeal is accompanied by a smile. Only the failures of life never smile. A smile is the cry of the sentry of the soul-"All's well!"

WRECKING CREW WOULD OR-GANIZE FOR BASKET BALL?

The "wrecking crew" has been solicited by many of the Canyon baketball fans to organize for the coming winter season. They are hesitating. For four seasons they played and won practically every game. They met some of the biggest teams of the state and proved to be on an equal with any of them. They have not decided what to do for the coming season.

Asked concerning the probability of organizing, Chas. F. Hunt, who has been the coach and chief promoter of the team since its organization stated yesterday morning that all of the team was ready to pray, but they felt, as if they should receive a little financial aid from the city. He stated that during the four seasons the team was organized they had played pen ple to the splendid clean condition of nant winning ball, and had never asked for cent outside of the team, in man homes and recommends that all spite of the fact that they had lost between $300 and $400.

If it is decided to organize the team this year they would like to have the city furnish at least $100. They would have to buy new suits. They would bring the best teams in the state to Canyon. Stamford, Simmons, Decatur and Clarendon would be scheduled at once.

It would be wise for some of the fans to get together at once and see how much money could be raised for the team in order that they might get their suits and schedule.

The Live Stock Show.

(A. M. Hove)

The Panhandle State Fair at Amarillo brought together a very remarkable lot of cattle, hogs, horses, and other live stock. The class of stock shown at this fair was surprising to most people who but a few years back knew only the longlegged native steer. It disapproved the impression that this country can not grow heavy cattle. The fact is that this climate is superior for growing live stock of every kind and class. Stock matures more rapidly here with proper care than in colder regions.

Another surprising thing was the great turn out of stockmen to the Panhandle fair. It indicates the general interest now prevailing in growing better live stock. They came to see and learn. The sales is proof that they apprecite the best bred ani-

Over in New Mexico the stockmen are also sitting up and taking notice occurred to the committee whether of better stock. The State Live Stock and Products Exposition which is held in Roswell Oct. 4 to 9th will be attended by New Mexico cattlemen, the sheep growers and the hog men. All three will hold meetings during the fair week; the cattlemen on the 6th, the flockmen on the 7th and the hogmen on the 8th.

May be Made State Meeting Place.

For a number of years there has been agitated in the Panhandle the proposition of having established on the Palo Duro canyons the annuai meeting place of the State Epworth League's and other young people's organizations. The plan received great encouragement owing to the fact that the state meeting place at Corpus Christi was sold this summer. The Chamber of Commerce of Amarillo is at work to procure the encampment and have received considerable encouragement from the state officials of the organization. The encamp- all day. The senator has been anxious to get some first hand information on the canyon, and while in Amarillo to speak at the Fair Thursday took the opportunity of spending a day along this great nwork of nature.

HOW DAUBIT ROSE TO FAME

Painter May Have Had Successful Qualities All the Time, and

"Realism may not always prove up as,'an artistic quality," explained the old critic, "but it sometimes hits the spot as a business proposition.

"I'm thinking of Daubit. Daubit was a middle-aged painter with a future behind him in the little town he hailed from. He stuck to idealism until he saw that it was no use, then he turned realist and took the step that made him.

"About this time he met a spinster in ill health, fifty years old, and rich as Croesus. The spinster was passionately fond of cats, and of one big old tabby in particular.

"Daubit saw his chance. He pulled the strings and arranged for a business interview with her. He talked glibly and persuaded her to sit for her portrait. She agreed to let him paint her as she liked best to sit at home, with the stipulation that if the picture did not suit she need not pay one cent.

"But our painter wasn't to be balked or daunted. He borrowed money on his dress suit and fixed his studio up and had her asy chair and other things hauled down and back every sitting. He posed her in the chair, and he put beside it the basket in which her favorite tabby always took her ease. He painted this basket

When the picture was done he let her wait for a day or two before he invited her and her friends to come and see it. He sent a special invitation to the big old tabby, too. That pleased her, but she kept her critical air and made ready to declare that she did not want the picture enough to pay real money for it. Just when she was ready to speak the tabby approached the picture, seemed to notice it for the first time-it was on the floor-and then, smelling, mewing, and evidently delighted, did her best to get at the basket.

"The spinster changed her mind instantly. She took the cat's word for its excellence and bought the picture at a good round price.

"She hung the picture in her home, and in six months Daubit was there with her to help her enjoy it. His marriage to her made him a celebrity among all the rich people, and now he sells more than he can paint."

"How do you account for his sudden success?" asked the inquiring friend. "Had it in him all the time, I suppose, and just needed an oppor-

Bankers And Farmers.

Bankers are trying to get in closer touch with the farmer, and their efforts are bound to produce results tardy, the careless and the indifferent profitable to both. This paper, a- will fall by the wayside. gain and again, has urged a closer cooperation between banker and farmer, and the cry has been echoed all over the country. The Missouri Bankers' Association is making a first definite step in cooperating with the state board of agriculture and other organizations to organize rural associations in every county in the state for the purpose of working up sentiment for good roads, farm scientific methods of agriculture. Men will represent the bankers' association in each county, and will be charged with the duty of organizing the county associations. The state board of agriculture then steps in, and will send speakers and workers to aid. The railroads will also lend assistance. The Minute-Men.

The minute-men of 1776 were the men who were ready at a minute's notice to leave the plough, the workshop or the store and fight for freedom. These men beat back the oppressor and won the independence of our country. Today their names are recorded on the pages of history in letters that will never fade.

The minute-men of today are the men who are ready for work when the gong sounds, not the men who are habitually late.

The minute-men of today are the men who keep themselves in condition to perform their allotted tasks not the men, who, by keeping late hours and indulging in bad habits Gasoline exploded in Ardmore, Okla rendered themselves unfit to do an honest day's work.

The minute-men of today are the men who are attentive to their duties and mindful of their employer's interests, not the men who conduct their own private affairs and gossip with friends during business hours.

The minute-men of today will suc ceed in the struggle of life while the Blue Law Survivals.

Before making new laws for a community, legislators should first re peal a few of the old laws still standenlightened cities and towns. In Cincinnati, for instance, a policeman or magistrate could make excellent records, either in arrests or convictions, merely by enforcing local laws that still exist. Under the law a policeman can arrest "every juggler who juggles on Sunday, every blackface minstrel who minstrels, and every girl who poses for living pictures on the Sabbath day." He can also summon the patrol wagon for the man who engages in a balloon assension, or plays ball on Sunday. The penaly for any of he above offenses, committed after due warning, is a fine of not more than $100 or a jail sentence of not more than six months

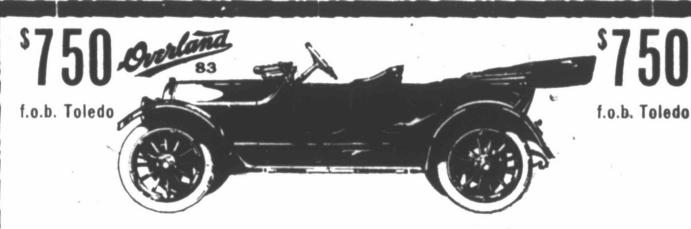

It is unlawful, moreover, to do any kind of work on Sunday, to hunt, fish, or shoot firearms. Another law imposes a fine of $1 for indulging in profane language on he Lord's day. It is illegal, also to "drive a horse. mule, filly, mare, colt, jackass, jennet, or any other animal, faster than six miles an hour within certain limits. Under a statute never repealed, it is unlawful to "exhibit any puppet show, wire-dancing, or tumbling, juggling or slight-of-hand" for mon-

Is it any wonder that Americans are sometimes accused of having little respect for law? Such statuses almost tempt a person suffering from excess of animal spirits to take them out and smash them individually, just to see what happens.

Asking Favors.

Friendship always wavers, ceases to be sweet, if you're asking favors every time we meet. When I sit abasking by cottage door, neighbors come up asking favors till I'm sore. "I would like to borrow your alfalfa stack; early on the morrow I will send it back." "Over at my shanty there is much to do; will you lend your auntie for a week or two?" "Hard times make me holler, I am short of tin; can you spare me a dollar till my ship comes in?" "May the gods defend me, for I'm stricken hard, and I wish you'd lend me seven pounds of lard." I have supped with sorrow more than other men, and I'd like to borrow your old setting hen." "Will you kindly loan me sundry hoes and rakes?" So they come and bone me, M my bosom aches. Borrowers are onic when they once begin, and I I a tonic for my cheer-up grin. wing's a habit that will make ur friend scamper like a rabbit will his way you wend. Borrowing will make you lonesome all your days for our friends will shake you and denounce your ways.
