

JULIA HEINRICH COMES IN RECITAL FRIDAY NIGHT, APR. 21

Julia Culp in Hospital and Date Cancelled Thursday Night—Heinrich Metropolitan Artist.

A message Thursday night cancelled the engagement of Julia Culp in the city for Friday night, but the committee was very fortunate in procuring the services of Julia Heinrich for the recital. While some people will be disappointed in not getting to hear the great contralto, yet a soprano voice is more pleasing to a greater number of people, and the committee feels that the people are fortunate in getting to hear Julia Heinrich and that she will please as highly as Madam Culp.

It needs no detailed survey of her career to prove how thoroughly the success of Julia Heinrich is the consequence of splendid natural endowments joined to lofty ideals, indomitable resolution and sincerity of purpose and untiring labor. Her American triumphs during the past season—comparatively limited as her activities have been—would in themselves have been ample to demonstrate her right to a place among the elect had she never before done anything to justify her claims to artistic eminence. In a flash the young singer has revealed herself the possessor of all those qualities which, combined in the one individual, constitute greatness. Yet as the spectacle of the unfolding of such talent is always stimulating, a bird's-eye view of the young woman's rise to her present enviable position is desirable enough.

Miss Heinrich was born in Philadelphia. She inherits her gifts from her parents. Her father, Max Heinrich, has long been a figure of national-wide fame as singer, teacher and composer. From her mother she obtained her first instruction, passing eventually into her father's hands. At no time since has she had any other teacher. Max Heinrich, a musician of broad tastes and abilities of extensive scope, furnished his daughter with a thorough grounding in the requirements of lieder singing, by far the most exacting branch of vocal art. Under his careful guidance her gifts were quick to unfold themselves. Nevertheless her training was of exemplary thoroughness. Her voice in those days was a contralto of luscious quality, which combined with her highly polished interpretative art won universal admiration when she appeared in his first American recitals.

About six years ago in order to gain operatic experience Miss Heinrich went to Germany where she soon obtained an engagement at the Stadt Theatre in Elberfeld. She required but a short time to reveal how admirably suited were her talents to meet the demand of the operatic stage, a condition exceptional in the case of a lieder singer. In Rotterdam where she visited as a member of the Elberfeld company she won immediate approval. Presently the Stadt Theatre in Hamburg secured her services and at this establishment her most notable triumphs were won.

Shortly after reaching Germany Miss Heinrich transformed herself to the status of a mezzo-soprano. It was an entirely legitimate move, fully conforming to the potentialities of her voice and attended by none of those unfortunate results that usually attend changes of this kind. Indeed it increased in strength and beauty. She sang with consummate success such roles as Fidelio, Elsa, Elizabeth, Senta, Elvira, Leonora, Sieglinda, Mimi, Santuzza and Pamina and had just been engaged for three years by the Hamburg Opera when the outbreak of the war changed her plans, and made it impossible for her to remain in Germany. Though she reached this country late in the season she made several appearances, two of them in New York recitals. The manner in which her art had ripened in six years, the increased loveliness of her voice, the charm of her phrasing and the general developing of her interpretative powers moved her critics to unanimous expression of praise. Miss Heinrich was heard in Boston and Philadelphia and in concert with John McCormack and Pasquale Amato, appearing also as Marguerite in "The Damnation of Faust," at the Bridgeport Festival and Lydia in "Quo Vadis" at the Springfield Festival. She quickly attracted the attention of Manager Gatti-Casazza of the Metropolitan Opera House who promptly engaged her for the entire season 1915-1916 during which time she will be heard in many of the roles in which she won fame in Germany.

The New York Tribune of April 6th, 1916, says the following:

Like an oasis in a desert was the song recital of Miss Julia Heinrich in Aeolian Hall yesterday afternoon—a refreshment for the weary listener to music, a relief from the tiresome monotony of things, an uplift for the mind, a gratification of the ear tired of the strident and strident strivings of incapables.

Admirable is the intelligence of this young artist which is proclaimed in her diction and vocalization, more especially in the former. She is an artist and one high up in the scale.

Max Heinrich will accompany his daughter in the recital at the Normal auditorium Friday night.

PANHANDLE TEACHERS COMING FRIDAY IN LARGE NUMBERS

The indications are that the attendance at the Panhandle Teachers Association to be held in the city Friday and Saturday will be very large. There are two hundred members of the association, and at least one hundred and fifty are expected to be in attendance.

The program begins Friday morning and concludes Saturday night with the reception and "The Loreley."

COME TO CANYON TO LIVE.

REUBEN M. ELLERD.

FOR CONGRESS THIRTEENTH DISTRICT

WHAT HIS HOME PEOPLE SAY.

We, the undersigned citizens of his home town and county most heartily commend the Hon. Reuben M. Ellerd, candidate for Congress from this District, as one of our most capable, safe and trustworthy citizens.

He has lived amongst us for more than ten years, during which time his life has been as an open book. His ability all recognize; his honor no one questions; and his private and official life has at all times been above just criticism.

Like all men who achieve success, he began at the bottom and struggled against poverty and manifold difficulties while living in Cook, Archer and Knox Counties; but by clean living, correct habits, undaunted courage, good judgment and ceaseless effort, he has at last conquered and climbed over these difficulties to success, both in the law and in business.

He is yet a young man and just now coming into the period of his greatest efficiency and power. He has a broad vision, deep nature, clear mind and strong body—in fact every equipment and qualification necessary to fill with credit and honor the position to which he aspires.

He has our confidence and unqualified endorsement for the place and is entitled to yours.

[This document signed by almost the entire citizenship of Plainview and Hale County, is now on file at the Ellerd Headquarters.]

NORMAL DEDICATION FRIDAY

All is in readiness for the dedication of the new building of the West Texas State Normal College Friday afternoon at three o'clock.

The auditorium seats have been practically completed and will be ready by that time. Only little odds and ends in various places around the building remain to be completed after the inspection of the building by the Board of Regents.

The rubbish which accumulated during the period of removing the ruins of the old building and the construction of the new building have been removed with great rapidity and now the campus hardly looks as if so much work had been going on there during the past sixteen months.

The program, as it is printed on page four of this edition will be carried out Friday afternoon at three o'clock.

There will be a special train from Amarillo, arriving in the city at two thirty o'clock, and returning after the Heinrich recital at night.

SCHOOL CHILDREN INCREASE IN NUMBER OVER LAST YEAR

The scholastic census of Randall county has been completed and the reports filed with Judge C. E. Coss. Judge Coss reports that in Canyon there are 418 children of scholastic age. In the county outside of Canyon there are 350. The total number, thus for the year is 768.

The total number in the county last year was 617, or a gain of 151 during the past year.

This shows a very good gain for the year and represents a good gain in population in the county.

In Amarillo for Heinrich Recital

F. P. Guenther was in Amarillo on Monday selling tickets for the Heinrich recital, which will be held at the Normal auditorium tomorrow night. He reports that while there is disappointment over the fact that Julia Culp cannot come, yet the people are highly interested in the musical event and that there will be a large crowd from Amarillo present.

NORMAL AND WAYLAND EACH TAKE A GAME

The Normal baseball team played in Plainview Monday with Wayland college, Wayland taking the big end of the 6 to 3 score.

In Tuesday's game the Normal beat the Plainview bunch by a score of 7 to 3.

Miss Brown in Tulia.

Miss Brown and Ted Reid were in Tulia Monday regarding the Heinrich recital. They report that there is much interest in the recital and that with fair weather there will be a large crowd present at the recital.

Hereford Coming Strong.

D. A. Shirley was in Hereford on Tuesday regarding the seat sale for the Heinrich recital. He reports that Hereford will send a large delegation. Hereford is a very musical town and have always sent large delegations to recital in Canyon.

BUSINESS MEN COMMEND THE WORK INSPECTION COMMITTEE

At a meeting of the Canyon Business Men's Association last Thursday night at the News office, a resolution was presented highly commending the work of the inspection committee from the Woman's Federation and offering the unqualified support of the business men of the town. The ladies are urged to continue with the inspection and all of the business houses of the city are requested by the Association to open their doors for inspection.

Without doubt the work of the inspection committee has done more to give Canyon its high standing as a clean town than any other agency. Furthermore, the inspection committee is the direct representative of practically all of the ladies of Canyon, who have a right to know how their foods are handled before coming to their home and which their family will eat. Not many women have the time to make a personal inspection of all of the stores every week, and it is nothing more than right that committees be sent around to see how foods are handled.

COMMISSION FORM OF CITY GOVERNMENT DISCUSSED

At the meeting of the Canyon Business Men's Association Thursday night at the News office the question of the commission form of government for Canyon was discussed briefly. It was decided by the business men that if this form of government had all of the good qualities that are usually ascribed to it, a movement should be started in Canyon at once to procure this form. It was pointed out that Hereford was under this form of government and that the people were highly pleased with the form.

Committees will be appointed by President D. A. Park to get into communication with the various towns which have this form of government and get all of the information possible regarding the good or bad features of the government before any steps are taken to put Canyon into this class.

RAIN OF INCH AND HALF IN RANDALL COUNTY FRIDAY

Puts Ground in Excellent Condition—Wheat Shows Up Well—Good Crops Assured for Year.

Rain started to fall in the Panhandle Friday morning and continued all day, an inch and one half being the total moisture. Coming as it did after the good snow and other rains, this rain put all kinds of ground in excellent condition. The plowed ground was put in first class condition by the former rains, but this latter will make sod plowing easy, a large amount of which will be put under cultivation during the year.

Men who have lived in Randall county for a number of years state that with the ground in the condition it has been put by the fine rains of last fall and during the past week, there is assured a fine crop for the year.

The wheat that was planted early last fall is in fine condition. Possibly it is not so far advanced as at this time last year, but whereas the ground was hard from beating rains last it, it is loose and in much better condition this year.

The late wheat has not done much good and is not expected to make much of a crop this year.

Come to Randall county this year.

STORES CLOSE FOR CLEAN UP TUESDAY AFTERNOON

Tuesday afternoon was clean up day in Canyon. All of the houses of business closed from twelve until four o'clock and there was a lively clean in the business section.

The principle need of a clean up day was to dispose of the tin cans and burn the paper that was laying around. The business men worked steadily during those four hours and the result was very pleasing.

The PATHEPHONE has all the good features of all other phonographs and talking machines, and in addition has the following exclusive Pathe Advantages, which make it unquestionably superior:

- Its perfect playing of all disc records.
- Its absolutely natural reproduction of voice or instrument.
- Its faithful duplication of every detail of technique and composition.
- Its rich, full, glorious volume of tone.
- Its easily operated tone-control, suiting every owner's desire.
- The largest record repertory, recorded in every musical center in the world.

THE PATHEPHONE USES A ROUND, SMOOTH, GENUINE, SAPPHIRE BALL in lead of the customary point or needle. This Pathe Sapphire glides over the record-grooves in an up-and-down motion, catching all the delicate overtones and tone-colors ordinarily lost in mechanical sound-reproduction.

THE PATHEPHONE HAS AN ALL-WOOD SOUND-CHAMBER

—no metal part-metal horns

—and this Pathe Feature coop rates in eliminating all metallic sounds and harshness. It amplifies the sounds in the truest, most natural manner, and combined with the Pathe Sapphire Ball results in producing a full, rich, glorious volume of tone, exactly duplicating the original rendition by the artists themselves. The Pathe Sapphire Ball never wears out itself, and does not wear out the Pathe Discs!

FLIES LAY EGGS IN MANURE

Stable Dung Should Be Sprayed and Removed Often, Says Sanitary Specialist.

"The most effective method of controlling flies is by preventing fly breeding," says Dr. W. A. Evans, an eminent health authority and publicist. "As a rule this means that no collection of moist manure is to be left accessible to flies for as long as a week during hot weather.

"Fly eggs and larvae live for a week in hot weather in moist manure. Therefore, if manure is hauled away and spread oftener than once a week it will not breed flies. The advantage of a daily removal is that it means no manure boxes, manure pits or manure piles, and practical experience proves that give a stable an inch and it takes an ell.

"The only places that have entirely conquered the fly nuisance remove manure daily. The only manure receptacles are small and portable. If prompt removal is not possible the next most effective procedure is treatment with chemicals.

"The methods of treatment advised by authorities are with borax, or colmanite, or sulphate of iron. If the amount of manure is small and a good deal of ground is available, spreading in thin layers on the ground at intervals of three days or less is feasible and efficient."

Consumption Germs Spread by Flies

The great white plague—tuberculosis—plain, deadly consumption of the lungs, causes more deaths than any other disease in the United States. Flies are a big factor in the spread of this frightful ailment. To go into details of the subject is very disgusting, but disgust will not kill anyone. Consumption will, and flies help.

Assuming that bedridden consumptives deposit their sputum only in closed vessels, which flies cannot enter, consider the careless consumptive on the street. He has a coughing spell, raises germ-laden pus from his infected lungs and spits into the highway. Flies immediately swarm on this sputum, feed, cover their padded, hairy feet with the stuff and buzz into the nearest open window or door.

They alight on food spread on the dinner table—perhaps on the butter or in the milk. The germs deposited may not affect a vigorous person, but a member of the family a little under the weather, a little low in vitality, may become infected.

Will you help fight the flies?

How to Make Fly Paper

The use of sticky fly paper is better than the use of poison to trap flies. Once a fly alights on sticky paper he is pretty certain to stay there until he dies. If you place a saucer containing poison fly paper and water in the dining-room window, the flies drink the deadly stuff but they do not die immediately. They may not die until they reach the cream pitcher. If you want to make your own sticky fly paper, boil together equal parts of castor oil and resin and spread the substance on tough paper before it cools.

Dr. Charles Hillman Brough, who was nominated in the Arkansas democratic primary recently for governor, was for many years professor of economics and sociology in the University of Arkansas. He was a student at John Hopkins, where President Woodrow Wilson was a student, and he is said to be the youngest student of that institution to receive a doctor degree. Dr. Brough was nominated upon a platform advocating education, good roads, economy of state government, special tax for the support of educational institutions, etc. The fact that the people of a state like Arkansas, whose population is rural and where farming is the predominating occupation, selected a university man, trained in economics and government, for governor, shows progress in rural citizenship.

His lordship's plan likewise entails the construction of 1,300 miles of fences and the breaking and cultivating of at least 50,000 acres of land. The cost of the project, it is believed, will exceed $3,500,000. The memorial colony will be only for returned soldiers. The latter will receive the houses and equipment free of charge. They will pay the exact cost of the land and no more. And they will be given years to pay for it. In addition trained agriculturists will be employed by Lord Shaughnessy to initiate veterans of the war in the science of soil cultivation.

Daddy's Bedtime

Story— How a Tinder Box Made Money For a Soldier.

Told the King and Queen of Her Dream.

WHEN a soldier had spent all the money an old witch gave him for finding her lost tinder box," daddy told the bedtime story, "and when he kept her box till he had spent the money and needed more he struck fire, and in popped a dog with eyes as big as saucers. 'Get me some money!' the soldier shouted to the dog. 'Really, this is a nice tinder box if I can get what I want so easily! Get me some money!' And off the dog trotted. In the twinkling of an eye he was back with a big bag full of pennies in his mouth.

"The soldier knew, now, that the tinder box was a treasure. If he struck fire once a dog which sat on a box of copper came. If he struck twice a dog came from a silver box, and, if he struck three times, from a box of gold.

"So he was no longer afraid of being poor. He moved back into the grandest rooms in the hotel, got out his fine clothes and found all his friends who had liked him so much when he was rich. But he still remembered about the king's daughter, who lived in a great copper castle. 'It's strange no man can get a glimpse of her,' thought the soldier. 'Everybody says she's so beautiful. But what good does beauty do her, shut up in a great copper tower?'

"Then he struck fire, and whisk! came the dog with eyes as big as saucers. 'I am sorry it is the middle of night,' the soldier told the dog. 'But I am very eager to see the princess, if only for a second.'

"The dog trotted out of the door, and in an instant, before the soldier even had time to think about it, he was back again with the princess. There she was, fast asleep on the dog's back, so lovely that any one could see that she was a real princess. The soldier could not help it—he kissed her, for he was a real soldier. Then the dog ran back to the castle with the princess, and the next morning, when she was having breakfast with the king and the queen, she said that she had had such a wonderful dream about a big dog and a soldier. She said she had ridden on the dog's back and the soldier had kissed her.

"This made the king very cross, and the next night a lady in waiting had to sit by the princess' bedside all night to see if it was really a dream. That night the soldier wanted to see the princess so much that the dog went to fetch her. He took her on his back and ran off as fast as he could, but the old lady in waiting put on her rubbers and ran after them. When she saw them disappear in a large house she made a chalk mark on the gate. Then she went back to the castle, and soon the dog came in with the princess on his back," daddy ended the story.

My Trip to Roosevelt Dam.

On the morning of March 31, at 8 o'clock, five of us started from Phoenix in one of those big easy riding Cadillacs for our 80 mile ride. Going east through Tempe and Mesa, we struck the desert proper three miles farther on. For fourteen miles we drove through a very level country, then came to the foot of Superstition Mt. At the summit of this mountain are pinnacle-like rocks looking very much like a hundred or more people. In an early day the Indians (very numerous) shunned this place, believing it was the home of the Evil Spirits. Hence the name. Near the foot of this mountain are several gold mines. From this point on, we drove over a rough mountainous country.

Fifteen miles farther on we came to "Fortilla Camp" (cattle camp). There we stretched our legs and got a drink of fine spring water. On we went over the mountains and such grand scenery I never saw before. Covering these mountains are myriads of flowers of colors of every variety of cactus.

I saw hundreds of Century plants that had bloomed last year, and as many more sending up their shoots to bloom this year. (I don't believe the hundred years' theory.) We finally reached the Top of Fish Creek hill. Here came the most thrilling part of our ride. Had we not been in such a reliable car and with as careful a driver as John Guthrie I would have preferred walking. This hill is two and one-half miles and the most of it is as heavy a grade as a car can make. Just to the right we could look up a wall from 400 to 500 feet high almost perpendicular. Then turning to the left we could look straight down almost the same distance. At last we reached the foot of this mountain and took dinner at the Fish Creek Hotel. This hotel is the only sign of habitation for many miles in any direction. They feed about 50 people a day at 75 cents per meal. Then for the last 36 miles we drove without seeing a house. Six miles of the distance was right at the river's edge, since it has no valley till within 25 miles of Phoenix. We reached the Dam at 3:00 p. m., and when we rounded a sharp curve and came in plain view of the Dam the sight was grand. The two spillways are 200 feet wide with water running over them 3 feet deep and falling 220 feet on the rocks below. During the flood this spring, the water ran 10 feet high over the spillways.

The wall of the Dam is 160 feet thick at the bottom and 20 feet thick at the top. The lake covers an area of 20,000 acres.

After going to the hotel and securing our rooms we recrossed the dam and drove about 5 miles toward Globe then turned a mile up the side of a mountain as far as the car could go, then started our climb for one of the homes of the ancient Cliff Dwellers. It was such a steep climb that some of our party had to give up. To me this climb and cave home was one of the most interesting features of the trip. The building was three stories high. As a relic, I brought home a piece of a joist.

The side of the mountain above the dam is covered with the wigwams of the Apache Indians. These wigwams are the same as they were hundreds of years ago, only they are covered with canvas instead of hides.

This highway from Phoenix to the dam was built by the government for hauling materials and supplies over to build the dam. Sixty miles of the road is just as crooked as a line could be drawn. Not a place along this distance is straight for as much as 200 feet. It would remind you of riding the Scenic Railroad or the figure eight. This road is kept hot with tourists and sight seers. We are as proud of the Dam as you are of the Normal.

Your friend,

Caler Expects Good Things.

Amarillo News—R. H. Caler, stockman and farmer living seven miles northeast of Happy, was in Amarillo visiting with Agricultural Agent Benton. When asked by a representative of the News about conditions prevailing in the Happy community, said: "We are receiving generous rains and these in addition to what we have already had, put the ground in excellent shape for spring plowing.

"Wheat sown early and coming up promptly last fall is showing a fine growth. There is a limited area of spring wheat that is looking good, and the same might be said about the oats, but generally speaking, the spring crops of small grain do not amount to much.

"Cattle are in splendid condition, and this fact coupled with the present forward development of grass, assures us that the animals will put on a profitable growth during the next few months."

(By George Ingham.)

One Monday morn when the washing was done
My mother said: Come here my son!
She called me to her side and in my hand she put a spade
And pointed over there to where the flowers should be laid.
I planted all the flowers and then thought I was through,
But presently heard my mother shout:
"Shoo Hen! Shoo! Shoo! Shoo!"

Early in the morning out the window went my head
To find a neighbor's chicken scratching up my flower bed
My toil, my work was now a spoiled patch
So then that hen I decided to catch.

On Saturday eve at half past four,
With a 22 caliber, I opened the door
With gun to shoulder—a sudden crack
The old hen flopped from her feet to her back.

On Saturday night I hit the pike,
For my neighbor's temper was out of sight.
But on Sunday morn at half past ten
I started cooking my neighbor's hen.

My dear, good neighbor, a little advice,
A little pepper, not too much spice,
But for your good hen's health, and yours too
Don't let your neighbor's cuss and shoot!

And if you do he will blow you high
And your chicken on Sunday will be a pot pie!

—Comment—

It is a sin to swear, and, if keeping up the chickens, will keep a man from swearing, everybody should do a kind act for his neighbor and keep up his chickens. The purpose of the author in this poem is to teach this moral truth. Get wise, and keep up your chickens.

The Yellow Leaf.

My step is feeble now and slow, that once so bold; my hair, once dark, is like the snow, and my feet are cold; my legs are thin, my waist is fat, I have an ache in every srat, I cannot run or skin the cat, I am waxing old. I look around with gloomy eyes, at the growing lads; I like to sit and moralize, with the ancient dads, and tell how boys of other days were better than the modern jays, of higher aims and nobler ways, shunning foolish fads. "With such a bunch of skates on deck," sadly I lament, "this poor old world go to wreck, I will stake a cent"; the graybeards all agree I'm right, and say the country's in a plight, with all these giddy youths in sight, on amusements bent. There is, alas, no surer sign that I'm out of date, than are these mournful words of mine, which I here relate; for when a man talks bunk at last, compares the present with the past, and finds degeneration vast, he should pull his freight."

—WALT MASON

For slow mail delivery in United States territory it would seem that the mail service for Central Alaska sets the record. It often happens that matter started in October on its way to these ice-bound regions of the North does not reach its destination until the following June. Settlers assert that similarly isolated regions in Northern Canada are better served by the Dominion's postal authorities. One Alaskan settler located at Tofty, which is about half-way between Nome and Dawson as the crow flies, near the junction of the Tanana and the Yukon rivers, on going to the postoffice after the long-delayed mail arrived, found an accumulation of letters, magazines and packages for him weighing more than 100 pounds. Filling a mail bag with a load of 92 pounds, he delivered that to his home and returned for the remainder.

SUBSCRIPTION, $1.50 PER YEAR

Canyon is the recognized educational center of northwest Texas. With education goes a love for good music. A great artist will visit Canyon tomorrow night. She is brought here at a great expense. Last year a great artist was here and the people came out to hear her. In order to make this an annual event, the people of Canyon MUST attend the recital tomorrow night. From every point of view, educational or financial, the establishment of an annual musical treat in Canyon means more in the way of advertising out town favorably than any other thing. Let Canyon people as a whole attend the recital tomorrow night.

Five hundred Americans, prominent in various walks of life have issued an "Address to the People of the Allied Nations," in which they declare for the allies in the great European struggle. They state that it is now time for frankness, rather than neutrality. It looks like the United States was going to be forced to take a definite stand in this great war.

Local fruit growers say there will be a great grow of cherries and plums this year. The late frost killed all of the peaches.

Tomorrow promises to be a great day in Canyon. The people are preparing to take care of the visitors.

GREAT FESTIVAL STARS TO APPEAR IN PROGRAM

The tenor soloist for the Amarillo Musical Festival will be a greater artist than the one advertised. Grant Kimbell is unable to participate on account of a change in train schedules in the East. As his substitute a superior man, Warren Proctor of the Chicago Opera Company has been secured. Mr. Proctor is the highest salaried church soloist in Chicago, without exception. He has for two years been a popular member of the Chicago Opera Company. His work with that company has been the subject of highly favored press comment. Mr. Proctor costs the Amarillo management more than Mr. Kimbell was to have cost, and after a thorough consideration the management is highly satisfied. People who fail to hear Mr. Proctor will miss a great opportunity. With Mr. Proctor on the list, soloists from two of the great opera companies of this country will take part in the festival. The soprano is Vera Curtis of the Metropolitan Opera Company of New York City.

Mr. Lutton the bass-baritone is gifted with a splendid natural voice which teachers for the past ten years. He is a adept in comic and Irish-folk song, a class of singing which always makes a decided hit with the general public. Each of these three artists have sung the "Creation" many times. The festival begins next Wednesday afternoon with the rendition of "Penelope" Wednesday night and "Creation" Thursday night. The artists give recitals in the afternoon, making four programs in all.

PHOTO PLAYS

True friendship and real western chivalry were the chief components in the character of Cheyenne Harry, one of the champion ropers and rough riders of the region around the Continental Divide. Harry is in love with Bess Dawson, the postmistress of Lariat, and so is Bob Graham, his chum and bosom companion, but Harry conceals his affection—that his friend may have a clear road in his courtship. A notorious gambler, Gentleman Dick, also has his eyes upon Bess, but is afraid to openly declare his attentions because of his sweetheart, Dolores. Bob gives Bess a ring of unique design which falls into the hands of Dick. Upon his return to town following a round-up Bob sees the gambler wearing the ring and immediately believes Bess untrue.

Disconsolate, he tries to drown his sorrow in dissipation, cutting himself adrift from his former friends. He enters into a plan to rob the stage coach and sets out with his gang. Harry, who tries to save Bob from himself learns of the impending robbery and follows after the gang. Harry arrives too late to prevent the hold-up. During the fight the messenger of the stage is killed.

Harry follows the robbers and comes upon Bob, whose horse has gone lame. Harry exchanges horses with Bob, who escapes the sheriff's posse. Harry returns to tell Bess what has happened and is followed by Bob, who accuses Harry of trying to double-cross him. A fight is averted and Harry goes to Dick's gambling joint, where he opens fire upon the gambler, wounding him. Believing he has killed Dick, Bob attempts to escape, but is overtaken by the posse and is killed in the ensuing battle. Harry settles with Gentleman Dick and Bess at last recognizes Harry for his real worth.

Howren Back from War Seat.

Capt. A. S. Howren returned Tuesday from El Paso where he has been visiting for some time. He reports that the people of El Paso are highly wrought up over the Mexican situation. He says there are 5000 U. S. soldiers stationed in El Paso. The people of the city are not afraid of the Mexicans on the other side, but there are 35,000 Mexicans in El Paso and if these should start a riot and set the town on fire, it would be exceedingly dangerous. This is the only fear of the people. He stated that when the news of Villa's death arrived there Sunday, no one believed it. But should he be dead the people feel that it would only be a short time until another bandit was found to take his place and Mexican trouble would continue as it has during the past few years.

Capt. Howren states that the President would not receive a hundred votes in El Paso in an election, so greatly is his "watchful waiting" policy condemned. The El Paso people want Wilson to go into Mexico and clean up the whole outfit. Carranza, they believe, is no better than Villa.

Lennord Bell Loses Fingers.

As Lennord Bell and two playmates were coming from school Saturday afternoon, they found a dynamite cap from the refuse of the Normal building. Boy like Lennord set fire to the dynamite while holding it in his left hand. The explosion that followed tore away nearly half of each finger on the left hand, throwing blood all over the boy, and badly burning his face. It was necessary to amputate the fingers near the middle joints.

Lennord is only nine years of age, but stood the frightful pain without the sign of distress, and thought only of father and mother and what a shock it would be to them. He is getting along as well as could be expected under the circumstances.

The THOUGHT STARTER

By ALBERT LEE

THIS might have been a dissertation on the psychology of clothes, but it isn't. It is a short talk on the efficiency of clothes. A new suit of clothes acts as a tonic, a bracer; adds self respect and makes others respect you. Why? Frankly, we don't know. It is one of those subtle yet direct "via the brain" affairs that work a change in and on marvelously impressionable man, as light envelopes and dispels the gloom from a fair land on a foggy morning. We know a new outfit makes us feel fit and ready to meet our fellows, and we should accept the fact, even if we cannot tell why. We should also keep in mind the more important fact that "extra" clothes make for efficiency. A man can do better work in almost any line if well dressed. His earning capacity is increased, and a stock of clothing that will enable one to dress appropriately and seasonably, with frequent changes, will be a good investment for any man or any woman, especially those in active business life. So trade up. If a thousand persons who need them buy a thousand extra suits of clothes 10,000 persons will be benefited—the weavers, the tailors, the merchants and the families of all. Nothing is so strangely indicative of character as clothes, and neat, well made, substantial clothing of modest cut and material will prove a valuable ally to the man or woman fighting uphill in the battle of life.

All meetings will be held in the new college building. Mr. Cousins has made arrangements for the High School to have a room to display exhibits of domestic science and other school work. Mr. Taylor accompanied the Junior and Senior declamation boys to Amarillo Friday night. The interscholastic declamation contest was held there and four of our boys entered the contest. The boys did fine work but Gray Dean Foster and Claude King were ruled out on account of their pieces not being on the subject of peace enough.

Dallas News — Governor Ferguson has waited till rather a late day to take note of the invidious comparison made by Governor Campbell some months ago between the expenditures for the last two years of his own Administration and those for the first two years of the Ferguson administration. Speaking at Carrizo Springs the other day, he referred to those who have been charging his administration with extravagance as "muck-rakers," and recited some figures intended to show that in reality his administration has been more economical than Governor Campbell's. An analysis of expenses shows, he is reported to have said, that Campbell spent $4,600,000 per year "for administrative expenses to a total expense of six and a quarter millions for Ferguson." But, it is further explained, in the Ferguson expense bill are included $1,000,000 for deficiencies inherited from the preceding administration, $1,000,000 additional for rural schools and $2,250,000 for building and repairing public institutions allowed to go to ruin previously, leaving only $2,000,000 for his administration as against over $4,000,000 for Campbell. The fault of this calculation is, we should say, that it proves too much. However, it is as good a comparison as one of tax rates, and having instituted a comparison of tax rates to show that he administered the affairs much more economically than Governor Ferguson, Governor Campbell can not cry out very loudly if he is made the victim of his own methods.

As the men of the fire department of Limbach, Germany, are all at the front the Burgomaster has replaced them with boys, who are drilled daily to make them as efficient as possible.

A New Remedy for Kidney, Bladder and all Uric Acid Troubles.

Successfully Used by Many Physicians and Surgeons in Their Hospital Practice.

At Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., there has been tested for the past few years a new remedy for kidney, bladder, uric acid troubles, rheumatism, lumbago, and such ailments as follow, and so many cases both acute and stubborn have yielded to this wonderful remedy that Doctor Pierce decided to name it "Anurie," and arrange for its distribution to the public through medicine dealers everywhere.

These "Anurie" Tablets cannot fail to help you, because their action flushes the kidneys of impurities and puts strength into them. It being 37 times more active than lithia, it dissolves uric acid as water does sugar.

Obtain a fifty-cent box of these tablets today from your druggist herein. Lower or send 10 cents to Dr. Pierce for large trial package.

An exceedingly well-arranged and well-printed bulletin, "How to Grow the Peanut, and 105 Ways of Preparing it for Human Consumption," comes from the experiment station of that very progressive institution, Tuskegee Institute, Alabama. The bulletin is printed by the students and does them credit as well as the director, G. W. Carver. When the housewife realizes that the peanut is higher in food value than the Boston bean and is an expensive food as well, she will appreciate the value of this bulletin, which gives so many ways of preparing this wholesome food. This bulletin can be had free on application to G. W. Carver, Experiment Station, Tuskegee Institute, Alabama.

COME TO CANYON TO LIVE.

THY NEIGHBOR

By IZOLA FORRESTER.

Perhaps the fault which led Elizabeth into the most perplexing situations was her habit of jumping at conclusions.

So now, as she was mounting the stairs to her studio suite and heard a decided moaning behind the doors of No. 9, she went straight up the hallway and tapped on the door.

"Please, please go away," came a smothered, tearful sort of voice from within. Whereupon Elizabeth felt capable and protecting, and she spread her wings at once in brooding fashion over the unknown neighbor in evident distress.

But Elizabeth was gently, firmly insistent, and finally the door opened. On the couch, face down in its pillows, was her girl neighbor. Beside her on the table lay many parcels, and standing by the door which he had just opened was a young man, gloomy and thoroughly resentful of the intrusion.

"Why, I'm sorry—I thought you were alone," faltered Elizabeth.

"No, I'm with her," returned the young man grimly. "But she does not approve of men. She has lived out in this infernal little dumping ground of art—and starved."

Elizabeth looked at him fixedly, as she would have at any strange new specimen. The young man went on to Elizabeth:

"I knew there was something wrong, and I came up to see how she was getting along. I found out she hadn't eaten in two days. And she refused to let me take her out and feed her up or lend her any money. So I went out and bought up things and brought them back, and now she's insulted."

"It was brutal of you." The girl sat up, and pushed back her hair. Really, she was awfully pretty at short range. She fairly glared at the young man. "Did I ever give you the least reason even to imagine you could buy me groceries?"

"Well, that's all right, too," returned the young man. "But what I want to know is this—where do I stand?"

"On your own feet, just I intend to stand on mine," came back his answer swiftly. "You told me you would never allow a wife of yours to peddle pictures around magazine offices—"

"Neither would I," came back the decided answer. "Why should you? I have plenty for us both, more than plenty. You may paint and exhibit if you like. You don't have to peddle."

"I prefer independence in matrimony. So long as I have a special gift—"

"But you haven't. I appeal to this lady, your neighbor. Look at her pictures!" he pointed around the studio. "Look at them. Seventeen thousand other girls all over the civilized world could paint just as well as she can. That may be exaggerated—slightly—but it is partly true. She is not a genius. Is she?"

Elizabeth felt delightedly inclined to laugh and agree with him. The paintings and sketches around the studio were lacking in everything that went for success. And the girl was so pretty and so fearfully sure of herself.

"Can't you compromise?" she asked eagerly. "That is, if you care for him at all."

"Oh, I care for him," retorted the girl scornfully. "That is why he knows he can come here and worry me. I'm engaged to be married to him. I can't escape him."

"Why not break the engagement?" She looked at the young man thoughtfully. He stood with both hands in his pockets, hopeful, but aggressive.

"She's tried that," he answered briefly. "I won't let her. I am absolutely certain that she loves me and will be happy with me ultimately. But, meantime, I refuse to let her starve."

"Then I'll tell you a way out. Marry her. Let her keep up her work here. Don't interfere with her. Fix up some attractive home elsewhere if you like, or take a hotel suite. And gradually win her."

Elizabeth paused, fairly glowing over her plan. Romance had not come to her. She was rather plain and too clever, but it was delightful to help others. "I'll go upstairs and start making tea, and I want you both to come up in fifteen minutes. Then you can let me know. But don't haggle and worry each other. Either settle it one way or the other. Compromise if you can."

She went out softly, ran upstairs and started making tea. And in just fifteen minutes they came up, her neighbor and the masterful young man, and both looked oddly contented.

"We're going to try it," he said. "I'm going to let her paint pictures of me. In fact, I've promised to live down here for a while, not here exactly, but in this quarter, you know. She likes to call it the quarter. We've both given up points."

"I shall still peddle a little," said the girl. She bent over the tea table and helped arrange the cups and saucers. "You've been so sweet and neighborly, Miss Dunbar."

NAPOLEON AND LETTER "M"

Great Man Had Good Reason to Believe It Played an Important Part in His Life.

All human nature holds within itself superstition in some greater or less degree. Perhaps no two persons have ever held the exact same fatalistic thought. With Napoleon there was a dread of the poor, harmless letter "M." He imagined all persons, places, events that came within the scope of his life beginning with this letter had a wonderful effect in shaping his career.

Looking this up, we cannot fail to see that this otherwise harmless letter followed him always, playing the game of life with him. It was Marboeuf who was the first man to suspect his genius and to shove him ahead; it was Moreau who betrayed him; Marseilles was the place where he encountered the greatest difficulties at the beginning of his wonderful career.

Among his marshals he had six whose names began with "M." They were Mortier, Monecy, Marmont, Murat, Massena, Macdonald.

At the siege of Toulon his first attack was Fort Malbousquet, and there he fought Muiron; Milan was the capital of his new kingdom; Moscow was the last capital that he took; it was Menon that made him lose Egypt; Malet conspired against him; Metternich beat him in diplomacy; Maret was his secretary; Montalivet was his minister; Montesquin was first chamberlain; in March, 1796, he married Josephine; in March, 1810, he married Marie Louise; in March, 1811, the king of Rome was born; Malmison was the unlucky house that was his last residence in France; he surrendered to Captain Maitland; Montholon was his companion and Marchaud acted as his valet. And he died in May, 1821.

DREW LESSONS FROM NATURE

Originality of College Professor's Lectures Caused Them to Be Appreciated by Class.

There was a certain college professor of machine design who was as original in his views as he was in his subject. One of his pet theories was the interrelation between nature and correct design. "Boys," he would say, "there has been only one designer who never made a mistake, and the more we study his work, the better machine we will build. When you put your legs under a machine, think of a horse or a cow, and get them as far apart as you can—don't get too much overhang at either end. And, speaking of a counterbalance, study the kangaroo; there is no prettier example of equilibrium in all positions. The further over he leans the more his tail comes into action off the ground. And again, in speaking of general design, wherever possible, try to work for elasticity as against rigidity. You find very little of the rigid in nature, and little trees often survive a gale by bending, where big ones are blown down." All of which was undoubtedly very true, and made more of an impression on his hearers than some of the more complicated mathematical demonstrations that followed. —Engineering Magazine.

The Venerable Microbe.

Just to think the microbe has been in this terrestrial sphere twenty millions of years! Disease germs that now afflict humanity have been discovered in the fossils of the earliest life on earth. There was a belief that bacteria were a modern pest, and they came just in time to plague mankind. But why should they exist before? What was the object of their insignificant lives? This question science answers by saying that they first came to assist in the decomposition of the calcareous rocks. This certainly was a more honorable mission than to scare people in later days into the use of special drinking cups and to set up great government bulwarks to resist their imaginary fury. The microbe was formerly an honorable and useful citizen, but now he has fallen from his high estate.

Great Men Born in War Time.

It is pointed out that during the first years of the last century, from 1800 or 1810 to 1815, when all Europe was suffering from the Napoleonic wars, she gave birth to almost every great man who was to guide her better destinies for 100 years to come. In that terrible period of travail Britain gave birth to Disraeli, Gladstone, Cobden, Bright, Browning, Tennyson, Shaftesbury and many others. Italy had Cavour, Mazzini, Garibaldi and Victor Emmanuel, the four men who secured the liberty and unity of the Italian kingdom. America gave the world Wendell Phillips, William Lloyd Garrison, Harriet Beecher Stowe, Henry Ward Beecher and Abraham Lincoln.

Try This on Your Cook.

A friend of mine who is a culinary expert gave me the following recipe for cup custards: One quart of milk, seven duck eggs, five hens' eggs, sweeten to the taste and cook in good-sized bowls. He said he ate two of them for his dessert for a Sunday dinner and was taken sick that evening. I should have thought that he would have been.

One such cup custard was big enough for any ordinary man, but to crowd two such ones into the stomach was bound to wreck the best constitution. And he wanted me to see how it would affect me. I rather guess not.—Gloucester Times.

"The Proof of the Pudding"

After all is said and done, sales are "the Proof of the Pudding"—so far as automobiles or any other manufactured products are concerned.

Therefore, please consider the significance of these figures—

During the month of March, the American people bought 1200 Paige "Fairfields" and paid for them one million, five hundred and fifty four thousand dollars.

When you remember that March was distinctly a winter month in most sections of the country, these figures are truly remarkable.

Could there be any stronger argument for the actual net worth of the Paige Fairfield "Six-46"?

Could there be any stronger proof that this model has taken the nation by storm and won for itself a place of undisputed leadership?

At Worthington, Indiana, there is a sycamore that is 44 feet 6 inches in circumference near the ground and 150 feet tall. It is the largest shade tree in the United States.

Two strange birds were discovered in a crate of chickens shipped to a commission company in St. Louis recently. They do not seem to be un-eating birds, so no claim is made that they are of the quacharo species claimed to have been discovered by Col. Theodore Roosevelt in Trinidad. A. S. Matter, for 33 years manager of the poultry department of the company, has never seen any bird resembling the two strangers. They are 24 inches high, 30 inches from wing tips, about the size and build of a hen turkey; minus a comb, have a curved eagle bill and feet like a guinea. The feathers are white, a few brown and a few speckled. The cry of the birds is that of a guinea. They are very belligerent, and their fighting tactics first called attention to them. If they are proved to be genuine strangers, they will be given the bird cage at Forst Park zoo.

THE WORLD'S TWO BEST TWO-ROW CULTIVATORS

The P-O Two-Row Cultivator

Covers every essential feature for perfect work, ease of adjustment and adaptability of all conditions of soils. The simplest and strongest Two-Row Cultivator made. "It's the way we build them". Frame as strong as a bridge. Axles of improved construction prevents wheel widening in front; make light draft. Flare depth adjustment; each gang controlled independently. Four levers do the work of six on other styles, and the inside levers control the inside gangs independently, and also raise or lower the gangs in pairs. Easy working adjustable foot levers. The wheels can be pivoted alone or in connection with the lateral gang movement. The pressure springs are center hung, insuring proper tension in all conditions of the ground and in any position of gangs. The parallel movement of gangs insures each shovel cutting the proper width and depth. Furnished with any style gang.

No. 27 2-Row Lister Cultivator

We make a complete line of DRY-FARMING tools, prominent among which is the No. 27 Lister Cultivator, which has many superior features, consisting of two sets of gangs mounted slidingly on a trussed spreader pipe. Turn table construction evenly distributes weight on the gangs, holding them level and preventing one side from going in deeper. Each gang follows its own row. Roller connection between the gangs and spreader pipe. Gangs can be raised as a unit, or shovels can be raised separately. Frame balances with tongue when raising gangs. Easy change from first to second cultivation. Extra high clearance for large corn, with long shield for small corn. Eight shovel attachments can be furnished when ordered.

A FEW LITTLE SMILES

Stopping Him.
"I shall never ask you to promise to come home early again," she said sorrowfully, when he let himself in at 2 a. m.
"Why not, my dear?" he inquired quietly.
"It's bad enough to be married to a night hawk and a loafer without making a liar of you, too," she replied, and he had no comeback.

Her Little Slam.
"I see that a statistician estimates there are 150,000 idiots in the United States."
"Well?"
"I was just wondering who the women are who married the other 149,999."

Tricks in Politics.
"I wanted to be a candidate," declared Mrs. Wombat.
"Then why didn't you toss your hat into the ring?" inquired Mrs. Wallaby.
"My milliner, it seems, was on the other side. She wouldn't get my hat ready in time."

Expensive Feathering.
"Why do you keep such a heavy guard around your ostrich farm? No body would try to steal an ostrich."
"No; but the boys around here are fond of tar and feather parties. They wouldn't hesitate to use ostrich plumes when the excitement was on."

Art Comparisons.
"Moses was shocked to find the golden calf creating so much enthusiasm."
"Yes. With all its faults the golden calf must have been a better piece of art than the buffalo on our nickels."

TOO LONG A CHANCE.

Della—Did you ask papa for my hand last night?
Dick—I didn't get a chance to ask him.
Della—You didn't?
Dick—No; he was sitting between me and the hallway.

Not a Car.
"I've bought a lovely aquarelle," said Mrs. Jasper Chew.
"Oh, joy!" cried Mrs. Dobson Pell. "I will go to ride with you!"

True.
"A noted stage beauty who has tried it says there is nothing to being an old man's darling."
"Ah! But she overlooks the advertising."

A Radical Position.
"Of course, you are in favor of peace."
"So much so that I don't even want to get into an argument about the best way to secure it."

Queer Resemblance.
"A philosopher and a sneak thief are alike in one respect."
"What might that be?"
"They both take an abstract view of things."

Poor Painter.
Marcella—Isn't it awful the way that Indian paints his face?
Waverly—I should say so. He should visit some of our society ladies and take lessons in real art.

In Old Mexico.
"She is the daughter of the revolution," they explained.
"Rather of a breach of the peace," retorted the man who had been in Europe and had seen real disturbances.

Little Faith.
Mr. Botta—I think, my dear, I have at last found the key to success.
Mrs. Botta—Well, just as like as not you'll not be able to find the keyhole.

Here is the chance the ladies have long waited for

Where is the woman who hasn't daily wished for the hundred and one conveniences of the Kitchen Cabinet? Of course YOU have. Its many features of kitchen conveniences, comfort and sanitation have appealed to you and for months you've devoutly wanted one to replace your antiquated, rat ridden shelves and cupboards which though they hold everything, never hold anything in its place. Only a Kitchen Cabinet will suffice in the modernized kitchen. And only will the BORDER QUEEN ENTIRELY SATISFY WHEN ONCE YOU SEE IT. Owner

Raising Belgian Hares for the Home Table.

(J. M. MARRIS.)

The old recipe said: "First, secure the hare." Perhaps it would be better to say, in this instance, first prepare the cage. Here is a very good plan for housing hares: Put up four posts five feet above the ground at the corners of a rectangle 4x12 feet, running the long way north and south. One foot from the ground put down the first floor, two feet higher up put in the second floor, and on top of the posts set the roof. Box up the north end and two feet adjoining the north end on each side. Enclose the remainder of each side and the south end with one-inch mesh wire, and run a center of the same wire through the entire 12 feet. Close up open side of the box with the wire, leaving an opening for the hares to go in and out the run. This makes four hutches 2x2 feet and four runs 2x10 feet. A door should be made in each run at the south end and in the north wall of each hutch.

This will arrange a hutch two feet square in each of the four runs, where the hares will be protected from the weather and where the nest boxes should be kept. Get a cracker box for each run and place in one corner of the enclosed space, first cutting a hole one and one-half inches from the floor and 4x6, to admit the mother. Exactly 30 days from the breeding you may expect the young. A week before this time put in a liberal amount of hay for bedding, placed in the run. The mother will attend to its arrangement. She will provide a warm blanket from her own hair, in which she will wrap the little ones. Do not disturb these further than to feel in and find out if there are any dead, being sure to remove these. Otherwise let absolutely alone. Seventeen or 18 days later the little ones will come out hunting for food and there should be a flat dish of bran for them to feed on. When they are four or five weeks old breed the mother again and begin to wean them one at a time, placing them in a run to themselves and providing bran, water and a little milk if convenient.

Feed the old ones on alfalfa hay, green alfalfa, oats, bran, and occasionally the peeling of an apple. Give very little green food, no cabbage, Irish potatoe peelings or potatoes, turnips or greens. Be very careful in this respect. Water twice a day and empty vessels after they drink. They will eat almost anything, but what I have mentioned above is all they need, except that carrots are fine for them, also lettuce leaves.

I have had as many as 50 at a time and found them excellent for the table at almost any age. Though I prefer them four to six months of age.

Until they are four months old, there is no necessity for separating males and females. The males will fight each other savagely if kept together after they are grown. Never allow the male with the very small ones.

Of course for a greater number the quarters must be larger, but the description given above will do to go by. Two females and one male are enough for the average breeder to start with and he will soon have a good start. Do not try to breed until the hares are six months old.

The litters vary. One time there will be 12, another four or five, then maybe eight, etc. Try breeding each day until the female begins to moan and cry, then let alone. By following the above rules carefully anyone can make a success of the business.

Amarillo, Texas, April 10, 1916.

"The increase in cost of operation of the Santa Fe System would be $2,752,388.00 a year, should the pending demand for an eight hour day at present ten hour pay with time and one-half for over time, be granted the engineers and the trammens," says F. C. Fox, General Manager of Western Lines of the system.

"The increase on Western Lines alone would total the neat sum of $646,632.00.

"Such an increase would cut deep into the net earnings of each year. This may interest the public as the Santa Fe follows a policy of putting back the net earnings into the business largely in the way of additions and betterments. Additions does not mean new mileage. During the fiscal year ending June 30, 1915, the Santa Fe expended $7,601,348.81 for additions and betterments of its 11,136 miles of railway.

"The sum of $132,101.41 was expended on the 665 miles of the Panhandle and Santa Fe Railway in northwest Texas. A large sum is being expended for betterments this year in this same territory in laying heavy and on other improvements for the purpose of giving the public better service and promote the upholding of this splendid section.

The item of maintenance of way, structures, and equipment is also important. The five year average cost of upkeep of track, roadbed, bridges, buildings, etc., is about $158,500 of equipment about $1660.00 per mile per year.

"Wipe out the net earnings through increase in cost of operation without a raise in freight rates at the same time, and betterments must cease for lack of funds. Maintenance must be reduced to the most necessary. The coat must be cut according to the cloth even in the maintenance of way, structures, and equipment of rail

A Citizen's Duty.

A. M. HOVE.

Citizenship as it ought to be is taught in the Colorado Agricultural college. One of the students, 17 years old, wired in this reply when asked for his ideas about citizenship. "To keep the standard of our nation high in the eyes of the world.

Helping to make law and order in the way most beneficial to everybody. Always ready to help our country in time of need and stand firm when everything looks bad.

Always supporting the President. To vote for the best men in spite of party feeling."

So long as your young people have such a clear consciousness of their duties to the community and to the nation, we may look to the future with firm faith in the predominance of good.

The theatrical boycott of the opera in Vienna by the public, as recently told in news dispatches, because Signora Cecilia Cerri of the ballet is an Italian, has been avoided by Signora Cerri becoming a subject of Emperor Francis Joseph. Though born in Turin, Signora Cerri has lived in Vienna since she was a child, and expresses herself as being at heart more of an Austrian than an Italian.

Compulsory School Attendance Law.

The compulsory school attendance law goes into effect September 1, 1916, and its provisions will apply to the next school term. As this law is not well in the minds of the people we print below several of the important sections:

Attendance, Requirements and Provisions—Every child in this state who is 8 years and not more than 14 years old shall be required to attend the public schools in the district of his residence, or in some other district to which it may be transferred, as provided by law, for a period of not less than sixty days for the scholastic year, beginning September 1, 1916, and for a period of not less than eighty days for the scholastic year beginning September 1, 1918, and for the scholastic year 1918-19 and each scholastic year thereafter a minimum attendance of 100 days shall be required. The period of compulsory attendance at each shall begin at the opening of the school term unless otherwise authorized by the district school trustees.

Who are Exempt.

The following classes of children are exempt from this act:

(a) Any child in attendance upon a private or parochial school or who is being properly instructed by a private tutor.

(b) Any child whose bodily or mental condition is such as to render attendance inadvisable, and who holds a definite certificate of a reputable physician specifying this condition and covering the period of absence.

(c) Any child who is blind, deaf, dumb or feeble-minded, for the instruction of whom adequate provision has not been made by the school district.

(d) Any child living more than two and a half miles by direct and traveled road from the nearest public school supported for children of the same race and color of such child, and with no free transportation provided.

(e) Any child more than 12 years of age who has satisfactorily completed the work of the fourth grade of standard elementary school of seven grades and whose services are needed in support of a parent or other person standing in parental relation to the child, may, on presentation of proper evidence to the county superintendent of public instruction, be exempt from further attendance at school.

When Books May be Furnished.

If any parent, guardian or custodian of any child or children who are exempt from attendance by some of the foregoing provisions of this bill shall make satisfactory proof to the board of trustees that they are financially unable to furnish such child or children with the necessary books with which to attend school, the county superintendent of public instruction of the county where such parent, guardian or custodian resides shall furnish, upon the recommendation of the district trustees, textbooks for such purposes to such child or children, which books shall be furnished and paid for upon the certificate of such officers by the Board of County Commissioners of the county in which such child or children reside, and which said payment for books shall be made out of the general fund of the county.

When Employment Prohibited.

No child under 14 years of age not lawfully excused from attendance upon school shall be employed by anyone during the school hours in any occupation during the period which the said child is required to be in school, as provided by this act. Any person, firm or corporation found guilty of employing any child or any person inducing any child to remain out of school who is subject to the provisions of this act shall be fined not to exceed $10 for each offense, and each day said child is employed after due notice given by any school official that said child cannot be legally employed shall constitute a separate offense.

Duties of Parents.

Any parent or other person standing in parental relation upon conviction for failure to comply with the provisions of this act shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined second offense $10 and for each subsequent offense $25. Each day said warning has been given or after said child has been ordered in school by the Juvenile Court constitute a separate offense; provided, however that if any parent or person standing in parental relation to any child within the compulsory school attendance ages shall present proofs that he or she is unable to compel such child to attend school in parental relation shall be exempt from the above penalties as regards the non-attendance of such child, and such child may be proceeded against as an habitual truant and be subject to commitment to the State Juvenile Training School or any other suitable school agreed upon between the parent or the guardian of said child and the judge of the Juvenile Court.

Tilson coming to Dedication.

A few weeks ago the News stated that Capt. T. J. Tilson of Plainview would be in Canyon on April 21st to open his campaign for re-election to the house of representatives from this the 123rd district. Capt. Tilson notifies us that he will be in the city on that date but will not open his campaign by a speech. He will attend the dedication exercises.

COME TO CANYON TO LIVE.

The Farm Seed Question of the Southwest.

GOOD SEED—Good seed insures from 10 to 25 per cent better crops than the common seed now being planted over the Southwest. Good seed has as much to do towards the production of maximum crops as the right kind of cultural methods. The increase in yield coming from the use of the right kind of seed on one acre alone of the adapted row crops of the Southwest will pay for all of the good seed required to plant the entire acreage of this crop on the average farm. The fanning mill or grain grader will do much towards improving the quality of field seeds. The growing of seed in a special seed patch, as well as field selection, is to be strongly recommended, also acclimated seeds are usually better than those brought in from a distance.

AMOUNT OF SEED TO PLANT—In sections of limited rainfall, crops should be planted for dry years, every year, and not for the wet or good years. Those crops that have been planted thin enough to meet the requirements of dry years will always thicken up to an excellent stand if a good year comes instead. More "stooling" or "suckering" comes during good years than dry years. Crops planted thick for good years require more moisture than is available during dry years and therefore do not make any seed.

One pound of good kafir, milo or feterita seed is sufficient to plant an acre. Single plants of these crops that are from twenty to thirty inches apart in the rows are close enough. Five bushels of cotton seed is enough to plant twelve acres. Cotton stalks are close enough when they are from ten to fourteen inches apart in the row. One bushel of good oats and thirty pounds of good winter wheat is sufficient for an acre, on well prepared land. Two pounds of sudan grass seed planted in rows, thirty-six inches apart for cultivation, or twelve to fifteen pounds sown broadcast with grain drill is the amount required for an acre.

rainfall conditions, it is not advisable to plant all of any one crop at one time. Part of each crop should be planted early, part late and part in between. It does not pay, however, to plant any spring row crop until the ground is warm enough. It is better to spend a little extra time getting the ground in good condition rather than plant too early and get a stunted growth. Many successful farmers of the Southwest plan on killing one weed crop before planting time in the spring.

It is usually best to plant corn first, kafir second, milo third and feterita fourth. Cotton, milo and sudan grass all require planting about the same time.
