

SAM REYNOLDS IS KILLED TUESDAY P. M.

Hunting Rabbits With Wife—Testimony Given by Her Regarding His Death.

Sam Reynolds was killed Tuesday afternoon by a shot gun wound in the back on the Evans place one and one-half miles east of the city. He and Mrs. Reynolds were out hunting rabbits. Mrs. Reynolds was the only witness to his death.

Mr. Reynolds came to Canyon during the rebuilding of the Normal. He and Mrs. Florence Taylor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jasper N. Haney, were married May 1, 1915. The funeral services were held yesterday afternoon at the cemetery.

The following testimony of Mrs. Reynolds in the court of Judge Shelnutt is given in full over her signature:

Mrs. Florence Reynolds being sworn testified as follows to-wit:

My name is Mrs. Florence Reynolds, and I live in Canyon, Texas. I was with Mr. Samuel Reynolds yesterday when he died. I am his wife. He died about a quarter of a mile south-west of the big tank on the Evans place. I don't know just what time it was when he died. I was with him when he died. No one else was with him when he died. We live on the Evans place. Where he died was in the Evans pasture that he had control of. We had dinner yesterday together about twelve o'clock, and no one else was present. After dinner he said: "Honey, don't wash the dinner; let us go; I am going to use up every shell on the place to get the rabbits for the turkeys." I had been to town for Mr. Reynolds that morning, and the mule was already hitched to the little buggy and was hitched to the back lot. We both then got in the buggy and left the house about right early after dinner, but I didn't notice the time. We went out the gate into the pasture, and rode all over the pasture, even into the big field on the south side of the creek. We rode slowly through the pasture. We didn't kill anything in the pasture at all. We drove back to the gate, and he opened the gate and I drove out of the gate from the pasture into the field. When we get into the field we turned to the north-west through the pasture and I said: "Let's hurry home." It looked like it was going to rain. We had killed a lot of rabbits then. Mr. Reynolds had killed the rabbits with a little target. He always hung the rabbits on the side of the buggy. He had killed the rabbits most of them standing. As we started toward home on account of the rain that looked like it was coming up he suggested for us to go through the center of the pasture around the creek through some weeds there. We got to the weeds. I was driving the mule and sat on the right hand side of the buggy. He sat on the left hand side of the seat. He shot some of the rabbits from the buggy and some from the ground. When we got to the weeds he hallooed "Whoa, whoa, whoa," three times. He was so impatient. He said there was three rabbits in a bunch. When he hallooed whoa three times the mule stopped. When the mule stopped Mr. Reynolds jumped from the buggy quickly. Then I turned to the east and put my hands over my ears and then the explosion and I turned around then and I saw him turn around to the east facing me and then he fell. I got out of the buggy on the east side of the buggy and went to him and called him and called him. I didn't know he was hurt. He did not speak to me. I never noticed anything I could not see anything wrong with him. We had a shot gun and a rifle there. When he jumped out I do not know and do not remember whether he took either the rifle or the shot gun out of the buggy. He always had the little rifle in his hand. He never took it out of his hand. He always kept the shot gun by his side—by his left hand side—sometimes propped up when the top was back, and always with the muzzle up. I don't remember where the gun, the shot gun, was when he jumped out that time yesterday. I don't remember whether the top of the buggy was up or laid back yesterday. I didn't see the shot gun as he got out nor after he got out of the buggy. I didn't touch the shot gun, I didn't see him reach for the shot gun or pull it out or take it out. I didn't see any of the rabbits that he said were there. The rifle is a single shot rifle that has to be loaded by a cartridge out of the box every time it is shot. Whenever Mr. Reynolds would shoot the rifle at a rabbit he would sometimes go and get the rabbit and then re-

MRS. S. W. LEE DIED ON WEDNESDAY MORNING

Has Been Ill Sometime and Was Recently Operated Upon—Funeral This Morning.

Mrs. S. W. Lee died yesterday morning at the family home north of the city after a long illness. The funeral services were held this morning at eight o'clock, conducted at the Dreamland Cemetery.

Mrs. Lee has been ill for a long while and recently was forced to submit to an operation in Amarillo. Before she was recovered, a son was born. The baby is doing nicely, but the mother could not regain her strength. She gradually grew weaker and yesterday morning death relieved her pain.

Mrs. Lee came to Randall county five years ago with her husband and children. The family is well known here and have many friends. Mrs. Lee was a devout Christian and a good mother. She leaves to mourn for her death her husband and four children.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. J. W. Mayne. A large number of friends and neighbors accompanied the body to the grave where the services were held.

REVIVAL MEETING AT THE METHODIST CHURCH

Rev. J. W. Fort is Strong Speaker—Rain Interfers With Meeting So Far This Week.

The attendance at the Methodist church was light Monday and Tuesday nights owing to the rains, but from now on there promises to be fair weather for the meeting. Rev. J. W. Fort arrived Monday from Corsicana and took charge of the meeting. He is a powerful speaker and one of the greatest evangelistic pastors in the state. He has worked wonders in some of the big churches of the state during his pastorate.

Dr. E. E. Robinson opened the meetings Sunday, preaching morning and evening.

Randall County at Fair.

Friday was Randall county day at the Panhandle State Fair. The schools of Canon and the Normal were dismissed and a special train went to Amarillo at ten o'clock in the morning, returning at seven o'clock in the evening. A large number went up on this train, while scores of automobiles were in use carrying the Canyon and Randall county people up to the fair. All were pleased with the great fair and believe that within a few years it will be the greatest in the state of Texas.

Prudia Prichard Wins Auto.

Miss Prudia Prichard won the auto contest at the Holland Drug Co. which closed Friday night, leading by 100 votes. Miss Geneva Redburn was the only contestant that stayed in the race with her. There was a very heavy vote cast the last day and neither side knew just where they stood until the votes were all counted. The following was the vote of the two leading contestants:

Miss Prichard ..... 2,501,680
Miss Redburn ..... 2,484,495

SMITH NOT GUILTY IS JURY'S VERDICT

Reported on Case Early Friday Morning—Decided the Case About Midnight Thursday Night.

The jury in the case of Oscar Smith charged with murder in the killing of Claude Powell was "not guilty." The final evidence in the case was taken Thursday, the case being closed at three o'clock Thursday afternoon.

Friday was devoted to the arguments of the attorneys. All day was given over to this feature of the case, and shortly before six o'clock the case was given into the hands of the jury. The first vote stood eight for acquittal and four for conviction. About midnight all had agreed to the verdict of not guilty.

Thursday's Evidence. Sheriff Jennings was again put on the stand Thursday morning and testified as to the possible effects of a blow on the human body of a pair of pliers such as found on the body of the deceased and those carried by Crutcher.

Dr. Black was recalled and his testimony of the day previous, as given in last week's issue gone over again. Myrtle Benton of Amarillo was put on the stand by the state and testified that Oscar Smith had made threats against Payne and Powell to her.

Geo. Reynolds testified as to what he has seen of the killing.

John C. Wyan, proprietor of the Royal Cafe, testified that he did not hear any threats made by the young men as they left his place and started north. Crutcher was eating breakfast there when Powell came after him to go to the postoffice.

J. E. Winkelman was recalled and his testimony of the previous day gone into further.

Cyrus Eakman testified as to what he had seen of the killing.

Miss McNeill had seen the fight between Payne and Smith that morning and testified as to that. She heard no threats made against Smith.

L. B. Payne was put on the stand. He testified as to Powell's character and that he was peaceful. That Powell had fought here, he did not deny, but that he never knew him to be in trouble before. He and Crutcher were not his "fighting men." He stated his willingness to drop the trouble here and Smith had had. He stated he had made no threats against Smith. He said he did not know that Powell and Crutcher had started north to the postoffice until he saw them half way to the corner.

Mayor Alexander of Garland testified that he had known Powell for several months and that he was always peaceable.

Mrs. L. B. Payne testified as to his character.

Lewis Upfold, Carl Coffee J. L. Gilstrap, J. B. Jordan, Mrs. Hawthorne were on the stand as character witnesses.

Mrs. C. M. Thomas testified as the wounds on the body.

C. F. Hunt testified to meeting Powell and that they did not seem agitated.

RANDALL COUNTY EXHIBIT WILL GO TO THE DALLAS FAIR

Plans Being Made for Excellent Exhibit from the County and from the Normal College.

Capturing the grand prize at the Panhandle State Fair, Randall county will send an exhibit to the Dallas State Fair next month. Those who have watched the trend of affairs say the Randall county will make a great showing at the state fair.

During the Panhandle State Fair representatives of ten of the leading Panhandle counties got together and formed an organization for the purpose of sending a big exhibit to the state fair. C. R. McAfee represented Randall county and has the details of the arrangements well in hand. The state fair officials will give the Panhandle counties a building for the display. All ten counties will send exhibits. Randall county will have the center of the building.

While plans are yet in the rough, Mr. McAfee has a plan that ought to be accepted and worked out concerning the general arrangements of the Randall county exhibit.

The Normal will be prominent in the Dallas exhibit and plans to this effect are now under way.

She is my wife, and all the livelong day
I think of her,
And in the deep oblivion of the night
I dream of her.
When she is near a sweet and tender calm
Falls softly on my heart with soothing balm.
Like the murmured sound of an angel's psalm
Pleading for man.

She is my life, if love is life's author,
Guardian and friend,
Guiding my feet from the pitfalls of woe
Even to the end.

When she is at my heart is sore oppressed,
And sadly beats against my weary breast,
Like prisoned bird that seeks its distant nest
With restless wing.

She is my soul, if from the soul there leaps
That holy fire
That scorches at its birth the poisoned glance
Of base desire.

She lights me, as of old, o'er desert sand
And tiring valets of sense was lit that band
That followed Moses to the promised land
Of rest and peace.

Ah, wife of mine, my life, my soul, my all,
Be ever near,
May chilling shadow aisles of future years
Be by my side to quell the rising tears
That flow from hidden springs of doubt and fears
Within my breast.

Keeping Boys on the Farm

We often wonder why boys and girls do not take more interest in country life. The attitude of the parents toward the farm and farm work has much to do with shaping the ideas of the young people.

A Colorado farm boy has offered these suggestions to parents who want to keep their boys and girls on the farm:

"Get good books, magazines and farm papers for the young people to read.

"Have some kind of a club for them to attend.

"Arrange matters so that they can have a party or entertainment once in a while.

"Go with them to church every Sunday.

"Arrange it so they can have one or more picnics every year.

"Teach them to do all kinds of farm work by giving them a small tract of land for themselves and showing them how to raise their crops, and have them help you with your work.

"Give them a horse which they can ride or drive when they haven't anything to do or when they want to go anywhere.

"Teach them to love and be kind to animals.

"After they finish their school, send them to the state agricultural schools.

"Take time to teach them the 'how's' and 'whys' of farm work."

Presumptuous as it may seem for a lad to advise his elders as to the best ways of solving one of the hardest problems, there is no small amount of helpful common sense in the ideas of this boy who at home and in school has had a chance to see whys of bettering country living.

Truth

When we are as yet small children there comes up to us a youthful angel, holding in his right hand cubes like dice and in his left spheres like marbles. The cubes are of stainless ivory, and on each is written in letters of gold—Truth. The spheres are veined and streaked and spotted beneath, with a dark crimson flush above, where the light falls on them, and in a certain aspect you can make out upon every one of them the three letters—L. I. E. The child to whom they are offered very probably clutches at both. The spheres are the most convenient things in the world; they roll with the least possible impulse just where the child would have them. The cubes will not roll at all; they have a great talent for standing still and always keep right side up. But very soon the young philosopher finds that things which roll so easily are very apt to roll into the wrong corner and get out of his way when he most wants them, while he always knows where to find the others, which stay where they are left. Thus he learns—thus we learn—to drop the streaked and speckled globes of falsehood and to hold fast the white angular blocks of truth.—Holmes.

Nth Degree

"Talk about torture."
"Yes."
"Nothing is worse than sitting in a barber's chair with your mouth full of lather watching the boy trying to give another customer your Panama hat."

As To Exercise.

Some one has truly said that if the American people could once become convinced that longevity and good health could be obtained at the cost of a little time spent in proper exercise, there would be a noticeable decrease in the mad effort to gain wealth or the intensity of the struggle for existence. It is because wealth has been held up as the proper goal toward which effort should be directed that it occupies so large a place in the eyes of the people, and those who are not pressing forward in the direction of a greater fortune are struggling to maintain an existence to the exclusion of all things other than the one matter in view.

No less authority than Prof. James Mr. Anders of the Medico-Cirurgical college, Philadelphia, is back of the statement that our national physique is and has been slowly deteriorating. He gives the low grade of immigrants, who are coming to this county, as one factor, and the other and more important is our too strenuous American life which does not allow time for recreation and systematic out-of-door exercise.

While it is true, says Prof. Anders that, whereas, prior to more than one decade ago but ten per cent of our colleges and schools were giving any attention to physical culture, today not less than ninety per cent are looking after this matter, this does not begin to meet the requirements looking to a better national physique, and where physical education is receiving attention, the tendency is to manifest in particular lines, and the consequent over-development of certain parts of the body resulting in harm, rather than the good sought.

No doubt the professor had in view the average city dweller when he pointed out that it is the congested sections where opportunity is lacking for giving the body the work nature requires it should have to keep in proper health. It has more than once been pointed out that we are gradually forgetting the art of walking, and that in the course of time nature is going to demand the price of this neglect by taking from the human race those functions which we refuse to use. It is insisted that it would be a blessing did the urban dweller have to rise from his bed an hour earlier and be compelled to walk to his work; it would add years to his life and strength to his body and quite often cheat the doctor of a fee, but street cars, automobiles and other conveyances are too convenient and year after year there comes less need for the putting forth of exertion in order to move from place to place.

Walking is one exercise that affects every muscle in the body, and nature intended that man should walk to keep his muscular system alive. Physicians, educators, hygienists and physiologists agree that through want of muscular activity the food ingested is imperfectly digested and insufficiently oxidized, and as a result, poisonous wastes accumulate. More than that, the muscular system becomes soft, fat and flabby, the nervous system enfeebled and unstable. Many of the ailments that now beset the American people would never be known were proper attention given to the matter of exercise. It must not be forgotten that muscular action brings into active play the lungs, heart, skin and other organs of the body while the brain and nervous systems are also invigorated.

It is pointed out that men who have done the big things in the world have usually been of unusually great muscular power. The nearest approach to the perfect man is one in whom the mind, the body, and the soul are in perfect accord, but so much pertaining to the mind depends upon the condition of the body that neglect of the physical being is a crime against both the mind and the spirit. A long walk in the early morning may not harmonize with one's inclinations, but it persisted in will led one to banish the thousands of ills that attack the human frame under the name of indigestion, nervous debility and kindred evils.

Kitchener Was Amused at Thumb Tradition

From the thumb a man's character can be fairly conjectured. The size of the thumb, its shape and the way it is carried, its setting high or low in the hand, its suppleness of joint and the comparative length of its two phalanges—all these details reveal the inner nature.

The thumb in the hand-clasp is a first step in judging character from the digit. The late Earl Kitchener once confessed that his first impression of a man always came from the "thumb pressure" of the introductory handshake. "When I feel a man's thumb in my flesh," said he, "I know whether I can trust him or not." He admitted his ignorance of chiromny and was thus guided by instinct. "I like to feel a man's thumb more than his fingers when he clasps my hand. If he has no thumb pressure I mistrust his motives."

Beware of Feeble Thumbs.

It much amused Kitchener to learn that for centuries there had been in the Orient this tradition: "Beware the man whose thumb is feeble when he grasps your hand in his! He is an enemy, a liar, a weak-will."

The size of the thumb can best be determined by examining a number of hands, which, by their differences, will give a general idea of what is a large thumb in proportion to the entire hand—and what is a small thumb. Large thumbs denote force of character and belong to persons who are "ruled by the head," as the palm-readers say.

Small thumbs are guided by the heart. It follows, therefore, that large-thumbed persons usually have the power to rule, while small-thumbed people are willing to be led.

The large thumb glories in history and seeks the useful, necessary, practical things of life, while the small thumb favors romance and appreciates the beautiful, the poetic and the sentimental. As the chiromnists detail the qualifications, the small thumb does not suffer in comparison, for if the large thumb rules by force, the small thumb combats with charm and has tolerance and artistic ability.

Symmetry in the thumb is a key to ancestry. An ugly, ill-shaped digit betrays a nature not yet risen from brutality in will, in logic or in love. Beauty in the thumb is manifested in several shapes—in the flat or nervous thumb, which shows a high type of mentality; in the broad thumb, which denotes a strong determination and great physical strength; and, most of all, in the thumb of one thickness, which gives to owner refinement, taste and success.

Caution is denoted by a thumb which is carried close to the hand. This evidences a secretive nature, which gives few confidences and invites few—a nature hard to approach and often lacking in sympathy.

The setting of the thumb on the hand has to do with one's grade of intellect. The low-set thumb is in favor especially if it opens wide, leaving a large space between it and the index finger. Such a thumb belongs to a person of high human qualities and intelligence, with a love of liberty and a sympathy for distress. If, in addition to being low and wide-set, the thumb is also flexible, the human qualities are intensified, for a thumb which is supple at the first joint personifies a sentimental, emotional nature, versatile, adaptable to changing circumstances and generous to a fault. Still thumbs belong to natures more steady, self-controlled and analytical.

The first phalanx of the thumb, which lies above the joint, indicates a man's force of will; the second or inner phalanx his logic. On the perfect thumb the second phalanx is slightly longer than the first. Should the region of the will be longer than that of logic, the individual will act first and think afterward. He will be stubborn in his ways and will not acknowledge error—almost as handicapped by nature as the man whose logic is greatly in excess of his will, which give reason, but no executive ability.

Spatulate, square or conic tips either intensify or counteract the characteristics bestowed by the size, shape, setting and divisions of the thumb. For instance, the conic-tipped thumb makes a nature impressionable and takes away from the force of will, no matter what may be the length and substance of the first phalanx. It gives, however, artistic gifts. A square-tipped thumb gives common sense and a practical will, even though the phalanx be deficient. A square-tipped thumb is very desirable.

A spatulate tip adds the spatulate qualities of action and originality, and gives a commanding turn to the will. A peculiarly brutal type of thumb has the tip thick and rounded, with a short, coarse nail. This is called the "clubbed" or "murderer's" thumb, and is often hereditary.

Flour That Is Sure to Suit

There are so many kinds of flour and so many good claims made for each that it's hard for housewives to decide which to buy.

We can supply almost any brand of flour you want, but will be glad to tell you which one we believe you will like the best.

Poor flour is expensive at any price. The best is cheapest at the price we offer.

NOT ENOUGH CHILDREN

ever receive the proper balance of food to sufficiently nourish both body and brain during the growing period when nature's demands are greater than in mature life. This is shown in so many pale faces, lean bodies, frequent colds, and lack of ambition.

For all such children we say with unmistakable earnestness: They need Scott's Emulsion, and need it now. It possesses in concentrated form the very food elements to enrich their blood. It changes weakness to strength; it makes them sturdy and strong. No alcohol.

Riley's First Poem Appeared in 1870
James Whitcomb Riley's first printed poem appeared September 7, 1870, the year he was 17, in the Poet's Corner of the Greenfield (Ind.) Commercial. It was entitled: "The Same Old Story".

The same old story told again—
The maiden drops her head,
The ripening glow of her crimson cheek
Is answering in her stead.
The pleading tone of a trembling voice
Is telling her the way
He loved her when his heart was young
In Youth's sunny day;
The trembling tongue, the longing tone,
Implores why
They can not be as happy now
As in the days gone by.

Cigarette Law
From the revised statutes of Texas, page 281, Article 1049, we quote the following:
"Any person who shall sell, give, or barter, or cause to be sold given or bartered, to any person under the age of sixteen years, or knowingly sell to any other person for delivery to such minor, without the written consent of the parent or guardian of such minor, any cigarette or tobacco in any of its forms, shall be fined not less than five nor more than one hundred dollars."

The boys of Hereford have a right to the protection which this law means to give. That this right is denied them, is known to every one who is sufficiently interested to investigate conditions.
That the cigarette habit is the open door to vice and criminality to say nothing of its fiendish power to dwarf and warp the mental and moral nature, is admitted by all. The legislators of Texas are interested in our boys. Are we? Hereford Brand.

Work develops all the good there is in a man; idleness all the evil. Work sharpens all his faculties and makes him thrifty; idleness makes him lazy and a spendthrift. Work surrounds a man with those whose habits are industrious and honest; in such society a strong man is made stronger. Idleness, on the other hand, is apt to throw a man into the company of men whose object in life is usually the pursuit of unwholesome and demoralizing diversions.
—Darius Ogden Mills.

COMFORTING WORDS

Many a Canyon Household Will Find Them So.
To have the pains and aches of a bad back removed—to be entirely free from annoying, dangerous urinary disorders, is enough to make any kidney sufferer grateful. The following advice of one who has suffered will prove comforting words to hundreds of Canyon readers.
Mrs. M. E. Rowan, W. Houston St., Canyon, says: "I used Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at the Holland Drug Co., and two boxes cured me. I gladly advise their use to anyone troubled by weak kidneys."
Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that cured Mrs. Rowan. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

Resolution.
Whereas: This institute is indebted to the School Board of Canyon for the use of this building, therefore, be it

Resolved: That we express our appreciation to these gentlemen, and, be it further

Resolved: That we thank the Program Committee, Messrs. King and Henson for the excellent program arranged, and,

Whereas the success of any public meeting depends largely upon its leader, or leaders and,

Whereas Miss Millicent Griffith has so ably, tactfully and efficiently conducted this institute to the mutual benefit of all, therefore, be it

Resolved: That we extend to Miss Griffith our sincere appreciation for her untiring effort to make this institute a success, and,

Whereas: We owe much of the incentive and encouragement to higher and nobler effort in our work to the inspiring message brought to us from the State University, A. and M. College, State Department of Education, W. T. S. N. C., and the U. S. Department of Agriculture, therefore, be it

Resolved: That we tender our thank to Messrs. Hopingartner, Stengle, Stockard, the Normal Faculty, and Mr. Welton Winn who respectively represented these institutions, and, be it further

Resolved: That we thank Rev's Templeton and Fronabarger for their ennobling messages, and Mr. Mallard and Misses Fronabarger and Leake for music rendered, and,

Whereas, The numerous bouquets of flowers with which we have been favored have played a part in their silent ministry of purity and beauty during our presence here, therefore be it

Resolved: That we express our thanks to those to whose thoughtfulness we are indebted, and, be it further

Resolved: That we thank the teachers who live in Canyon for the luncheon served on Thursday and Mrs. Harrison for the china display. The Newspaper for kindly mention and the Normal school faculty for their Friday morning feast.

Whereas: The presence of Superintendent Coss in our institute during the past four years has been a constant help and inspiration to us, and,

Whereas: Superintendent Coss shall soon retire from his official work, therefore be it

Resolved: That we extend to him our sincere appreciation for his sympathetic interest and kindly help.

Whereas: The inability of the weaker school districts to raise sufficient funds under the present five mill tax, has led to the passing of House Joint Resolution Number Thirty, and

Whereas: It is the purpose of this resolution to provide an amendment to the state constitution which will raise the maximum rate of taxation for independent districts and will also provide for taxation by counties therefor, be it
Resolved: That it is the sense of this institute that said amendment should be adapted at the polls and that we pledge ourselves as teachers to use our influence to that end, and, be it further
Resolved: That the secretary be instructed to deliver a copy of these resolutions, as adopted, to the Randall County News, The Vega a Sentinel, The Hereford Brand, and The Star Line Tribune.

Whenever You Need a General Tonic
The Old Standard Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic is equally valuable as a General Tonic because it contains the well known tonic properties of QUININE and IRON. It acts on the Liver, Drives out Malaria, Enriches the Blood and Builds up the Whole System. 50 cents.

Cash can buy, but it takes enthusiasm to sell.....Enthusiasm is the witchery of really wanting to do. Enthusiasm is earnestness of purpose, eagerness to be up front. The despondent, hopeless, forlorn fellow is sometimes tolerated on the pay roll out of deference to those who are dependent on him, but it would be cheaper to pension this pessimist. Self-reliance, self-confidence, hope, expectations, are some of the pillars of man's prosperity.—Quoted in Miller's Auto Topics.

Some men are so lucky! One just fell out of an aeroplane, struck on the skylight of a hospital, and eventually landed flat on the operating table. Others are born rich.

DRESS WELL

EVERY WOMAN now recognizes the importance of "dressing her best" at all times. She needs only to be told WHERE to find the things to make a good appearance. We can promise all women that at our store they will find just the correct styles, the good quality and the reasonable prices that will make it easy for them to make their selections. Test our words by visiting our store.

EVERY MAN will find OUR store to be HIS store for buying clothes every good dresser is well aware of the fact that in buying, a nice dress or coat suit that she has to pay more or less for the style, for this reason any merchant that has on hand a garment that is just a little out of style has reduce the price often times to less than actual cost to move the garment from his stock, so dont be deceived at this of the year, in setting the correct style, by the price; it has often been said "There is a reason" it would be only to well for each and every lady to remember this little saying whe she is buying that COAT SUIT or DRESS, we all know that merchandise is higher than at any time since the civil war.

We are at this time arranging our building so as to have an exclusive Ladies Ready To Wear Departmenta, and is going to be the aim of this house to handle the best and the very latest in styles, and we feel that in buying your clothes from us that you are going to be reassured of the very newest things out. We cordially invite you to come in and inspect our lines, the prices are within reach of all. Yours to please.

Lack of Ambition

There's many a man who works with wrench,
If he had but a spark of ambition,
Would pass beyond his tools and the bench
And raise to a better position.

And many there are engaged night and day
With little to get for their labor,
Whose talents, if used in a different way,
Would make them the peer of their neighbor.

It's lack of ambition that keeps a man down,
And makes him a servant forever;
While others will smile he only can frown
That some of his fellows are clever.

While seldom success will come to the man
Whose is lacking in honest ambition,
He who for his life has a definite plan
Is bound to improve his condition.

For plenty of push, with good common sense,

Will crown with success an endeavor;
But lack of ambition brings only expense
To its victims, who suffer forever.

Love Will Find a Way.

Hoary age triumphed over young love in a pitched battle in the city clerk's office at Beaver Falls, Pa., the other day when Caleb Smith, 96, civil war veteran under Grant, appeared with a shotgun and halted the elopement of his daughter, Miss Cynthia, 78, and Roman Williams, 92. Old Caleb took his blushing and weeping daughter back home, but the lovers say they will win out yet.

According to the dispatches the elopement was appropriately romantic, Cynthia climbing out of a window into Roman's arms.

All of which reminds us that romance is not dead, in spite of all the cynics may say to the contrary. See what a situation has been precipitated by the interference of this cruel parent. Now poor Cynthia will pine in loneliness awaiting the time when her fond lover can find a way to outwit her father and spirit her away from the paternal roof. What measures the father will take to prevent such a thing happening furnishes further food for speculation. Indeed, here is material for a romance that would rival the masterpieces of Laura Jean Libbey and Bertha M. Clay.

Romance dead? No, romance is not dead! When the sun grows cold and the stars are old and the leaves of the judgment book unfold, even then romance will live on. Let Cynthia have an abiding faith in the poetic justice which always rules in such tender affairs. A kindly fate will find a way, assisted by her brave Roman, and even though years may pass they will have their dream at last.

However, it must be admitted that the dispatch did say that the cruel father keeps the shotgun always handy—and loaded with salt.

PRESIDENTIAL POINTERS

The presidential election of 1916 will take place on Tuesday, November 7, when the qualified voters of each state will cast their ballots for electors equal to the number of senators and representatives in congress.

But no senator nor representative, nor person holding an office of profit or trust under the United States, can be an elector.

The whole number of electors is 531.

At the beginning of our government most of the electors were chosen by the legislatures of their respective states, the people having no direct participation in their choice; and one state, South Carolina, continued that method till the outbreak of the Civil war.

The man who is most to be wanted for positions of trust is the one who does not work for mere selfish gain, but for the love of the task.

Harmony Shampoo
A highly concentrated, cleansing shampoo. A few drops make a delightfully thick foam which cleans the hair and scalp thoroughly. Leaves the hair soft and glossy and free from stickiness. Daintily perfumed. Standard Price One Bottle 50c. This Sale Two Bottles 51c.

Three Days Only—Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Sept. 25, 26, 27

"What is a One-Cent Sale?"

It is a sale where you buy an item at the regular price—then another item of the same kind for 1c. As an illustration: The standard price of Rexall Tooth Paste is 25c. You buy a tube at this price, and by paying 1c more, or 26c, you get two tubes. Every article in this sale is a high-class standard piece of merchandise, just the same as we sell you every day at regular prices, and have sold you for years.

A NEW WAY OF ADVERTISING

This sale was developed by the United Drug Co. as an advertising plan. Rather than spend large sums of money in other ways to convince you of the merit of these goods, they are spending it on this sale in permitting us to sell you a full-size package of high standard merchandise for 1c. It costs money to get new customers, and the loss taken on this sale will be well spent if the goods please you.

Ft. Worth will vote on prohibition Sept. 25. Both of the daily papers are fighting it, as could be expected. Most antis are against national prohibition as a principal, and against state-wide prohibition as a principle, and are for local option. In local option they are against prohibition because it isn't a good thing for their town—but deep down in their hearts they are antis because they want booze. Texas dry in 1917.

We Sell Chandler Coal from the Chandler Mine

Chandler is Mined in the Canon City District of Fremont County, Colorado

NOTE THE DIFFERENCE:

Canon Coal is not Chandler. There is only ONE Chandler, but a dozen kinds of so called Canon. The coal companies say to us their Canon Coal is as good as Chandler. Never has one claimed to us yet their's is better. Now, if Chandler is so good [which it is] that competing companies acknowledge its merit, why take any risk? Buy the GENUINE Chandler, which is the best—and you can't better the best.

By-Products on the Farm.

By Paul E. Steel Post City.

While visiting large manufacturing establishments over the United States, both in the East and in the West, it is indeed gratifying to notice the very small amount of raw material that is allowed to waste, and yield no profit.

There is not a more interesting subject to study, from an economical standpoint, than that of by-products. It means adopted to create them and the profits accruing from them. It is the odds and ends converted into valuable by-products that make the annual dividend for some of our largest corporations today. When we consider the enormous waste in our land, caused by allowing the adds, ends and left-overs to go to ruin, we are then able to appreciate the importance of the subject. It is even argued that waste will be America's ruin if a halt is not called.

Knowing as we do, how much importance is placed upon the matter of by-products by concerns whose commercial ratings are the highest, and whose profits are usually the largest, can we not safely reason that by-products should have as much attention on the farm as in the mills? Common sense answers the question in the affirmative. Sound business principles ring true in every line of business and lead to profit in one line of business will have the corresponding effect in every other line of business. This is exceptionally true with reference to by-products. The principle of wasting nothing, and creating every scrap of raw material into something valuable and salable, holds true in the mill, on the farm, and everywhere else.

Realizing the vast importance of the subject, and with an earnest desire to better our own conditions and materially increase our annual earnings, those of us who till the soil should turn our attention seriously to the question of finding what by-products we can produce. If properly considered, the investigation is sure to lead to profits in the future.

Practical, conservative men of our country today are beginning to notice our loose methods of farming. The utter lack of by-products on the farm is in part the reason why H. M. Bainter, Agricultural Demonstrator for the Santa Fe Railway system, uttered the following criticism of our cropping system in the western portions of the state before the Dry Farming Con.

"Our farming operations are not broad enough. Too many farmers are producing just wheat and oats, or perhaps wheat and corn, depending upon location. There is usually an utter lack of crop rotation, and very little effort is put forth to keep up the soil fertility. Too few live stock is handled in connection with the cropping system. Much humus is destroyed through the burning of straw stacks and stubblefields. Barnyard manure is not handled as it should be, by many farmers. Too much three inch plowing is taking the place of six and seven inch plowing. The farm implements may not be adapted to the conditions, or something else may be wrong.

In our eastern states the by-products often make up the entire profits of the year. Wear it not for the countless profits realized from butter, eggs, poultry, etc., etc., many eastern farmers would lose money each year. It is said that the hen has lifted more mortgages than any other one source of profit. On well regulated and properly conducted farms nothing, however worthless it may appear, should be allowed to waste and ruin. Nothing should be sold in an unfinished condition where it is possible for the farmer to convert it into something more valuable. The farmer should plan to pocket the middleman's profit in as many places as possible. If this could be accomplished fully, one of our most serious economical problems would be solved.

The farmers, especially of Western Texas, should make a serious and systematic study of their losses and expenses, covering a period, if need be, of several years. And all along the way their experience would begin yielding dividends beyond their wildest expectations. Farmers should strive to find what their by-products are.

By-products on the farm are those things, other than the principal money crop raised on the particular farm, which will yield a profit to the farmer. They are, therefore, different on different farms, located in different countries, and under far different conditions. The farmer must simply exercise his sound judgment in determining just what his own by-products are. He can soon learn which will yield the larger profits. One may find profitable things that another would not. One may find poultry a good investment, while another may find dairy products more profitable. Thus we see that conditions must govern. Let us now notice a few of the by-products of the farm.

Poultry, being easily managed in connection with the farm, is a very profitable by-product for the farmer. It is one that is being hopelessly neglected in the western portion of the state, and in many places in the eastern portion of the same. How often east of the Mississippi have we noticed these poultry cars on every railway siding and at every little station. They are so scarce in some parts of the west as to actually excite curiosity. The farmers should seriously consider broadening this line of industry to an extent that would yield a nice profit yearly. It will annually yield a few hundred dollars if properly handled.

Produce is a source of income to many progressive farmers. The same may be said of fruits, berries, and crops of the garden generally. How few of our farmers are silling a single dollar's worth of such things during the entire year. Indeed we often see the farmers buying the very things that they ought to be selling. We do not wonder that such farmers are riding in old buggies instead of automobiles. There is a reason for it. Dairy products offer just as large profits to the person who is willing to spend a little time with it. Many farmers in the country are depositing a nice sum weekly from this source alone.

Then there are dozens of other things which we might mention but space forbids. The farmer knows what they are. Everyone of the few that I have mentioned are essential to the well regulated farm. Every farmer must have a milk cow, a garden and a few fowls. An extension of each of these department of the farm would incur very little extra work and trouble, yet would yield a large profit annually, and during dry years and good ears alike.

There are men in this state today who claim to be farmers who buy almost everything they eat, wear and work with. When their one money crop is sold, it is by no means a wonder that their debts consume the last penny of their year's earnings.

In the East where the farms are small and where failures are almost unknown, and where most farmers living in splendid homes, have money in the bank and are generally prosperous, an investigation will show a reason for it. They are deriving a profit from nearly every by-product in the catalog. They are paying expenses and making a living from these things we term by-products, and when their money-crop is harvested it does not have to be turned over to debtors for the settlement of mortgages, etc. In the west, however, many farmers owe every cent of the money, or at least a large per cent of it, before the crop is harvested. They have been living off of it during the period of time in which they made it.

There is very little virtue in the argument that Eastern states are more productive than this state. We usually make more cotton, as much corn, wheat, etc. per acre as the average Eastern State, and in many instances more. The secret is that we do not save what we make, and do not make all we can, but that is, do not call in those things to help all along the way before harvest.

We have farmers in this state that have been borrowing money with which to make a crop for the past ten years, I dare say. Of course many are getting ahead, but some are continuing to borrow the money to make a crop on. If they would but seriously consider the subject of by-products, they would soon find that they could make up that "lost year" they have labored against for so long.

They should figure to make the products pay the grocery bill, which should be small where a garden is raised, and gardens can be raised the State over. Anyone can arrange to irrigate an acre or two at a very small cost. Then, when harvest time comes, they will have money enough to place a little in the bank, which is their own. Farming now-a-days is being done with brains as well as with brawn, and the most successful farmer is finding that it pays better of-times to work the head instead of the body. At any rate, it will yield a large dividend. And now is the time to consider the matter.—Southwest Plainsman.

Price Scott and Miss Fannie Miller Married Sunday.

Samuel Priege Scott and Miss Fannie Miller, both residents of this county for many years and members of prominent families, were united in marriage Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Miller. Rev. W. M. Lane, pastor of the Methodist Church, officiated at the nuptial ceremony which was witnessed a large number of relatives and intimate friends of the families.

Following their wedding Sunday the young couple are this week furnishing a home in the Sunset neighborhood, where Mr. Scott will be principal of the school. Mr. Scott is a graduate of West Texas State Normal and has for the past five years taken a prominent part in educational work in this county. He is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. D. T. Scott, of the Carr's Chapel neighborhood, and was for some years a resident of Floydada.

Mrs. Scott has been practically raised in Floydada. Much of her time the past five years, however, has been spent at other places in the studies and teaching of art. She is a woman of most gracious demeanor and has endeared herself to a wide circle of friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott will move to Sunset community this week and Mr. Scott will take up his duties in the school room there Monday.

Educational Buncombe.

It is true this country spends five hundred million dollars a year on the public schools, which is much more than any other country spends; but there is nothing to brag about in that. Congress hands out seven hundred millions for army and navy in a year, and the general verdict is that the country can afford it; but over great areas of the national domain every additional thousand dollars for public education comes with groans.

We should be ashamed of our support of public schools instead of congratulating ourselves about it. There are over two hundred thousand one-room one-teacher rural district school where on the whole, we are working a great confidence game on some millions of helpless minors by taking their time and giving them a bogus article of education.

These one-room unguarded country schools belong to the pioneer era when farmers reaped with a scythe, threshed it with a flail, and hauled it twenty miles to market through mud halfway to the wagon hubs; when building a barn involved getting half the male inhabitants of the township together to raise the frame.

Grown-up people plow and reap with tractors, thresh with steam, go to town in fifteen minutes in an automobile, talk over the telephone; but the youngsters are still back in the thirties of the last century—Saturday Evening Post.

Bean milk will be manufactured in a factory recently erected at Chang-sha, China, by a Chinese firm. The milk is expressed from small, yellow beans and is said to look exactly like unskimmed cows' milk. It has an odor of raw beans, and is said to be not unpleasant to the taste. The product is very cheap compared with cows' milk. The factory undertakes to supply one pint each morning for approximately 50 cents gold a month.

CALLS ON DEMOCRATS FOR CAMPAIGN FUNDS

Urges Every Loyal and True Member of Party to Aid in President's Re-election.

Austin, Texas, Sept. 13.—Governor Ferguson today issued the following appeal to the Democrats of Texas for contributions to the fund being raised for the National Democratic Committee to be expended in the campaign for the re-election of President Wilson:

The most important contest in the history of the Democratic party will take place in the coming November election for President of the Union. If the Democratic party is successful in this election it means the perpetuation of Democratic rule for years to come. In fact, it means that we of this generation will hand down Democratic power to our children. On the other hand, if we lose in this contest it may mean that Democratic rule will be likewise excluded from control of the Nation for years to come.

This election is to be a contest of the masses against the classes; of big business against little business; of plutocracy against democracy of the weak against the strong; of the few against the many. Our only hope lies in a unity of purpose, a concentration of forces and a united loyalty to Democratic principles.

Appeal to Patriotic Citizens.

The malodorous, standpat Republicans can appeal to the trust-protected corporations of the Nation for funds. The Democratic party can only appeal to the patriotic citizens for assistance. Therefore, as a Democratic Governor of the greatest Democratic State in the Union, I am taking the liberty to make this earnest appeal to the Democrats of Texas for funds to be forwarded to the Democratic National Committee, to be used in this great contest. I quite readily understand, in view of the fact that we have no rich men in Texas, compared to the tariff barons and the Wall street plutocrats, we need not be disappointed if we receive no large personal contribution from Texas. After all, it is not so much a question of how much we give as it is a question of how much we give in proportion to what we are able to give. The small business man, the small farmer, or the doctor or lawyer with a small practice who gives $1 to the Democratic campaign fund is, in my opinion, a more loyal Democrat than the Cabinet officer or other high public official who gives $100. Therefore, if you can give only $1 to the Democratic campaign fund, your act will be as much appreciated as if you gave a much larger sum. In fact, I would rather see 100,000 Democrats in this campaign give $1 apiece. It would be a greater evidence of the patriotism of our people and a greater loyalty to our party.

How to Remit.

I trust that our Democratic committee in Texas, having this matter in charge, will receive a generous response to its appeal for funds to be spent by the Democratic National Committee in the doubtful States. Remittances can be made by check or post-office money order direct to the Hon. William Poindexter, the National Democratic Committeeman of Texas, at Cleburne, or to any district chairman. Or, if any one should deem it preferable, to remit direct to me, I shall undertake to forward the money directly to the National Democratic Committee. I would recommend, however, that remittances be made to Judge Poindexter or to your district chairman.

Freight Car Shortage Expected to Be Very Serious

The railroad traffic men are becoming alarmed at the unprecedented manner in which the surplus railway freight cars has been reduced, and are issuing warnings to receive this shortage and prevent a greater shortage within the next sixty days.

At the present time the shortage is not marked, though all freight cars are said to be in use. "The most effective way for the public to aid in relieving the impending situation," said one railway manager, "is to unload and load cars as rapidly as possible." This man says that north of the Texas line his road is able to move cars at the rate of thirty miles a day, while going south from the line they are able to move their cars on an average of only seventeen miles per day.

One reason given for the shortage is the prosperity of nearly all parts of the southwest as well as the eastern part of the United States. Shippers of all farm products are expected to be affected by the shortage.

What The War Is Doing For The Farmer

The European war is not an unmixed evil; nor yet is it a unimixed blessing for this country. We shall not attempt to go into the ethical side of the question at all, nor shall we discuss "war brides," munition plants or other similar phases of the situation. We shall look at the war purely from the standpoint of prices for raw products, either produced here in this country or imported from foreign countries. And amongst them those that have not gone up in price is aptly of the war. For example, here is a peculiar situation in regard to a beverage which is so universally liked that it has become almost a staple. The name of that beverage is Coca-Cola.

Now Coca-Cola, as you know, is really an agricultural product—a product of the soil. Cane sugar—the very purest and finest—constitutes a large part of Coca-Cola syrup. As you know, sugar has gone way up—so every glass of Coca-Cola you drink makes some farmer's heart gladder.

So it is with the pure fruit slices that, combined, produce the inimitable flavor of Coca-Cola. Not so much in quantity seemingly when you consider—a single glass of this delicious beverage, but enormous when the entire Coca-Cola output is considered.

Yet this product of nature—of the farm—increased in cost, though it has been to the makers, has not been raised one penny in price to dealer—or to you. The price at the soda fountain and in the bottle has not risen one iota.

Now inasmuch as the rural population alone of America consumes millions of bottles and glasses of Coca-Cola every year, you and the other agriculturists of this country will not only be able to continue to please your palates and get delicious refreshment with this beverage at an increased cost, but you will be sending back to the farm, bigger profits and more money at no greater expense to yourself.

Let us take wheat, for example. We all know that the war has put the price of wheat way up. Very well—this means that the whole country, city, town and rural population, as well as being paying more for their flour—therefore the wheat raiser should theoretically be getting rich on a product which it costs him no more to raise than formerly and for which he gets more money.

But wait a minute—there are other things to consider in this matter of growing rich off of the war. Cotton and wool and meats and farm machinery and sugar have gone up too. This means that while the wheat raiser is getting more for his product, he is also paying some other agriculturist more for his product. This cuts down somewhat on the profits the war is bringing to the farmer. Then it would seem that the best way to keep ahead of the game is for the farmer to pay the farmer who raises his necessities the increased prices that the war has brought about and when buying his luxuries or those things that are not bare necessities of life to pick and choose from

Champ Pig-Raiser Of Canyon Ships Often

Sketch from life by "Hep" Blackman

Every two or three weeks the Panhandle country is represented on the Fort Worth market by the shipments of Scott M. Downing of Canyon. This has been a bi-monthly happening for the last seven or eight years, or in fact, every since Scott moved the scene of his operations from the Territory to the Panhandle section of Texas.

The other day Scott showed up on a dull pig market with three loads of pork, some of which he raised and some of which he bought, and when we stole the above cartoon and the within interview his face carried a smile a mile long.

Pressed for the reason for this extraordinary geniality Scott said: "I have just come back from a 3-weeks' trip through Oklahoma, and I never struck any green grass until I got within 10 miles of Amarillo, and I've never in my life seen the Panhandle country look any prettier than it does now."

"Our grain crop this year wasn't as good as it ought to have been, and if we'd garnered a big grain crop we'd have had more pigs than we'd have known what to do with. Last night, on the Denver train I came down on, there were 17 loads of porcines out of Amarillo, and that shows what the Northwest section of our State can do when it comes to raising the 'live-stock staff of life."

"Our crops are looking fine now, but up until about 20 days ago we suffered a regular drought, which has since been broken."

"Livestock planters from my section of the State come here more often than to any other market, and that proves that the Fort Worth market is the REAL THING when it comes to giving the shipper value received."—Fort Worth Daily Live Stock Reporter.

SAM REYNOLDS KILLED

get out of humor about it. I never loaded the gun or rifle for him. I didn't know that there was a pistol in the buggy. There was a pistol on the place that belonged to Mr. Evans. We were married the first of May, 1915, and have been living on that place practically ever since we were married.

I have not said that when the gun went off that Mr. Reynolds had the rifle under one arm and was pulling the gun the shot gun out by the muzzle when it went off. I have not said that and it is not a fact that I saw that. I have heard, Papa told me, that Mr. Reynolds was shot in the middle of the back and I cannot see how it was done unless by the gun jarring as it fell toward him as he fell out—I have no idea how it was done. We have been so happy and there has been no trouble between us at all. Mr. Reynolds would have been 32 the eighth of next November. He had little property. His life was insured recently, some time last month, for $5,000.00, and the policy is payable to me.

When I went around and saw Mr. Reynolds lying on the ground I realized he was hurt, but didn't know how, but I didn't turn him over to try to do anything for him. I didn't see that he was shot nor where. I didn't realize what part of the body at all he was shot in. I believed him to be dead when I left him. I called him and then ran toward where I thought I saw a wagon coming down the big road toward Dr. Ingham's place. I thought I saw help and called to them but could not make them hear and ran toward them, crossing the creek west of the dam and went straight to them as I could go and found it to be Mr. Foster, one of the young men who were baling hay over north of there, and they came to me as soon as they heard me. I told them what the matter was and they asked me to go to the house and I did so. I didn't then go to where the buggy was, but went later with Dr. Griffin. I didn't call Dr. Griffin. Mr. Reynolds, was going to shoot just little rabbits yesterday, to take some of them to a friend in town. Mrs. Batenfield, and wanted to be careful to shoot them carefully, through the head. I have seen Mr. Reynolds break and load the gun lots of times but don't know how it was done.

The ship's officer was talking to the inquisitive old lady who was making her first sea trip.

"There goes eight bells," he said.

"Excuse me, it is my watch below."

"Mercy on us!" exclaimed the lady.

"Does your watch strike as loud as all that?"

NORMAL NOTES

On Last Monday Evening, the Faculty entertained the Student body at the College. The pleasures of the evening began with an attraction arranged by the Faculty Committee. A large white curtain stretched across the stage, with an intermittent light twinkling through it, raised our curiosity to the nth power.

At last, Miss Brown appeared, and explained that we were to see a great silhouette production, presented by artists who were traveling across the continent in a special train. The enterprise of the entertainment committee had resulted in the "side-tracking" of this train at Canyon, and the securing of the artists for the only performance they would give in the state of Texas, or in the South.

The production was "Lachinvar," and the cast of characters as follows: Lachinvar—William Henry Blaine Ellen—Winnie Davis Lowrance The Father—Ferdinand Paul Guenther The Mother—Mary Elizabeth Hudspeth Bridegroom—Joseph Abner Hill Best Man—Benjamin Alois Stafford Bridesmaids—Margaret Ruth Cooper—Georgia Prothro—Emma Jean McCluskey

We next had the pleasure of seeing Joe Jefferson in Rip Van Winkle.

At the close of this performance we were invited to the spacious dining room of the Domestic Science Department where refreshments were served.

A Manual Training Association was organized last Saturday by the pupils, who take Manual Training—The following are the temporary officers: R. A. Terrill—Pres. Raymond Glass—Sec'y.

The Ellen H. Richards Club was organized last week and the following Officers were elected: Miss Mary Dorcus Cullum—Pres. Miss Millie Branson—Sec'y.

A number of new students have enrolled this week. Our present enrollment is four hundred and sixty five.

Yellow Pine
THE WOOD OF SERVICE

America has the greatest forests of Southern Yellow Pine.

Europe was one of the largest users of Southern Yellow Pine before the war interfered with its shipping.

In France, England, Germany, Italy and Switzerland millions of feet of Southern Yellow Pine were used in heavy construction, where strength is a first requisite, and in interior finish as well.

In our yards you will find the very finest grades of Southern Yellow Pine—selected stock, strong, durable, and at moderate prices.

If you have any building or repairing in prospect, come and ask us about it now. It will pay you to get our prices and estimates.

"The Best in Lumber" is our business motto.
