CYCLONE EAST OF TOWN HITS FRED SCHUTTE'S PLACE

FEARFUL DESTRUCTION OF LIVE STOCK AND PROPERTY

Storm Hit About 4:30 Sunday Afternoon, Covering Territory About Two Miles Long.

The house belonging to Fred Schutte living five miles east of town, was torn into splinters, all sheds, and fences demolished and nearly sixty head of stock killed as the result of a cyclone which dipped down a mile south of his farm home Sunday afternoon, and finally lifted a mile to the north.

The storm was seen to gather about four miles west of Canyon and rapidly travel to the east. The cyclone did not let down to the earth until reaching the G. B. Bourland farm east of town. A heavy hail accompanied the storm and beat out several wheat fields in the vicinity.

The strength of the storm swung to the W. S. Hastings place, killing one cow, one horse and crippling another cow. It missed the Hastings home, turning north, passing the Bourland home about two hundred yards to the east of the house and seemed to hit dead center into the Schutte place. Not a single board of the house was left standing on the foundation. The windmill was picked out of the ground, anchor posts and all. A small pile of grain remained where the grainary had stood. Sheds, barns and fences were smashed and completely demolished.

The only stock Mr. Schutte has remaining are a few hogs and chickens. One old sow with her pigs escaped uninjured. Another big fine sow with a good litter had her back broken and had to be killed. Several chickens were completely picked of all feathers.

A plunger wheel had been wrenched from a machine and crushed over the nose of a horse. Into another horse a piece of board three feet long had been driven. Calves and cows had been picked up from the ground and hurled down with sufficient force to break their legs and mangle their bodies. Horses, cattle and calves were found mangled in every conceivable shape, some living but so badly crippled that mercy lead the neighbors to end their misery.

When neighbors and friends gathered Monday to assist in straightening out the wreck, they found the bodies of about sixty animals to have been killed outright, and sufficiently crippled to justify killing to end their misery. Of this number Mr. Schutte lost 9 horses and thirty cows and hogs; Mr. Hastings two; Herman Kuhlman 6 cows and Henry Meyers 5 cows and three calves. The wind carried the Hastings cow almost to the Schutte home, and mixed the Schutte, Kuehlman and Meyer cattle up so that it was only yesterday that they were able to ascertain somewhat accurately the loss of each. Several of the Meyer cows which were not killed were badly bruised.

Mr. Schutte lost all of his farm implements which were in the path of the storm. It picked up his big header as though it were a toy, tearing off the bull wheel and carrying it a great distance from the wrecked home.

The havoc wrought on the farm was indeed complete, and the sayings of several years' hard work was almost entirely wiped out during those few minutes as the wind whipped and pulled, breaking or bending everything within its grasp.

Fortunately Mr. Schutte was not at home at the time of the storm. It is doubtful whether any human could have endured the furore of the winds. Passing on to the north the storm struck into Henry Meyers' fine herd of milk cows, killing or crippling all that was in its path.

The storm headed toward the Gus Leseberg home, but fortunately had spent itself before great damage was done. Mr. Leseberg lost his windmill, and his header was carried up against the side of the house, but no further damage resulted.

Randall county has boasted that no cyclone has ever touched this section. In fact, there have possibly been no more than half a dozen cyclones in the entire Panhandle country within the past ten or fifteen years. Hundreds of people in Canyon saw the storm as it gathered in the west; watched it pass over the city and dip down to the ground east of town. It was a new experience for the old time residents of Canyon, but those who have lived in cyclone districts were given a thorough scare.

A second cyclone cloud formed shortly after this storm had passed, working on to the east of the first one. Those living in the vicinity believe that the second cyclone would have been more destructive than the first had it stayed on the ground. Fortunately it did not touch the ground except in spots. A lake two miles east of the Schutte place was emptied of water when the tail of the cloud dipped to the earth. J. C. Barnett lost two cows in this storm. It passed on into the canyons to the east, missing all houses.

A subscription list was started Monday for the benefit of those suffering from the storm, and more than a thousand dollars had been raised up to yesterday.

STATEMENT ISSUED BY THE HEALTH OFFICERS

We, the undersigned health officers of Canyon and Randall county, respectively desire to make this statement concerning contagious diseases that have prevailed for the past few months and in limited degree still exist.

Owing to the mildness of the contagion, many cases have not been reported, but in all cases reported, we have instituted a modified quarantine, which is effective and safe when carried out according to the physician's instructions, and from such cases so quarantined in which instructions have been strictly followed, not a single case of contagion has resulted.

Unfortunately there seems to be some people in our community who violate instructions and betray confidence; to such individuals we want to say with all the emphasis that we can command, that we purpose to put on an absolute quarantine, which means that there shall be no ingress or egress from the house infected. In this matter we humbly crave the confidence of the people. Give us this and we will take care of all contagion of whatever form, efficiently and effectively.

Respectfully,

F. M. WILSON,

City Health Officer.

D. M. STEWART,

County Health Officer.

County Woman's Club

The County Woman's Club of the Campbell district was organized recently at the home of Mrs. G. R. Stratton for the accomplishment of tedious tasks in our homes and for the promotion of neighborly good feeling. Mrs. R. O. Allison served as temporary chairman and the officers elected were Mrs. R. O. Allison, president; Mrs. G. R. Stratton, vice president; Mrs. C. L. Gordon-Cummings, recording secretary; and Mrs. R. D. Moore, press reporter. The club met Thursday, June 16th, Mrs. H. J. Kraemer being hostess and Mesdames R. O. Allison and O. C. Tarpenning assistant hostesses. All the usual pleasant, informal features were carried out. A delicious dinner was served at noon and before the guests departed an ice course was served. The club members are: Mesdames R. O. Allison, O. S. Brown, J. W. Hancock, G. R. Stratton, E. E. Whitley, A. E. Bergan, T. A. Dowlen, M. A. Bingaman, H. J. Kraemer, A. G. Thomas, C. L. Gordon-Cummings, R. D. Moore, I. C. Tarpenning, and Joseph Tuck.

Mrs. T. A. Dowlen and Mrs. R. G. Stratton were absent. Misses Madie and Lois Whitley were guests of the club.

Cancelled Marriage License

County Clerk O. W. Gano was confronted by two young men of Amarillo Saturday, demanding license to marry. Youthfulness on the part of the prospective groom lead the clerk to start a close examination. The other young man swore that the boy was 21 and the girl 18, but finally admitted he did not know the age of either. Being thoroughly convinced that both were under the legal age, Mr. Gano cancelled the licenses after the same had been filled out.

Buyers Registered Cattle

Courts Cleveland of Grandbury shipped out twenty-three head of fine registered heifers yesterday which he had bought from T. A. Dowlen. Mr. Dowlen has one of the best herds of registered Herefords in the Southwest and has done much to put Randall county on the map as a stock raising section.

Rev. and Mrs. Groves Married Fifty Years

Rev. and Mrs. J. S. Groves, former residents of this city, observed their fiftieth wedding anniversary last Wednesday at their home in Waxahachie, where they are now living.

Rev. Groves was the greatly beloved pastor of the Presbyterian church in Canyon for a number of years, only giving up his work when his health failed.

The following was printed in the Sunday edition of the Dallas News regarding Rev. and Mrs. Groves:

Rev. and Mrs. J. S. Groves of Waxahachie celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on June 15 at their home on Sycamore street. Mr. Groves is 83 years old and his wife 72. In honor of their wedding anniversary they kept open house from 5:30 to 7:30 on the evening of the 15th. Dr. S. L. Hornbeak formerly president of Trinity University, was master of ceremonies. An appropriate program was rendered. Another interesting feature in connection with the celebration was that it was also the fiftieth anniversary of the Rev. Mr. Groves' graduation from Trinity University. He is the only surviving member of the first graduating class of that institution. Mr. Groves is one of the oldest Presbyterian ministers in Texas. He has held pastorates at Mexia, Canyon and Honey Grove. During the last few years he and his wife have made their home in Waxahachie.

701 Credit Students Attending Normal

There are 701 credit students attending the summer quarter of the Normal. This number is almost equal to the total number of students in the school last summer.

Several students arrived during the past week, the enrollment now being about 1250. It is likely that several will arrive each week in time to take review work for the state examinations.

President Hill stated yesterday there were about 8,000 students attending the Normal Colleges in Texas this summer.

WALKER ARRANGING CATALOG FOR THE COUNTY FAIR

C. F. Walker is making a canvass of the business houses and stock breeders of Randall county preparatory to publishing a good catalogue for the Randall County Fair. The catalogue will be issued the first part of August, giving plenty of time to thoroughly circulate the same and advertise the Randall County Fair.

Mr. Walker wants to make the catalogue a directory and information medium for Randall county as well as a boost for the Fair. Information regarding the county will be published in a prominent place in the book.

Sentenced for Auto Theft

Harry McIvers was given a four months jail sentence in the federal court in Amarillo Friday for the theft of J. E. Rogers' car in Amarillo last summer. McIvers is only 21 years of age and this was his first offense. His partner in the theft, "Six Ace Blackie" was given five years last fall.

Wheat Harvest Has Started in County

Wheat harvest has started in Randall county, and if the weather remains fair will be in full blast by the end of the week.

The wheat is ripening rapidly and needs good weather the very worst way. It has been impossible to get in wheat fields in many parts of the county during the past few days.

Several farmers started their binders last Thursday and Friday but could not get far with the cutting owing to the continuous rains all week.

There is a great demand for harvest hands all over the Panhandle-Plains country.

Hail Has Hit the Wheat Crop Hard

Hail has been very destructive during the past week, entailing a great amount of damage in almost every section of the county.

J. A. Wilson, George Frank, Jim and J. A. Wilson, George Frank, Jim Hood and J. W. Hancock were hit in the hail of Sunday afternoon. All of these gentlemen except Mr. Frank were hit in the hail two weeks ago and suffered considerable loss at that time. Mr. Frank states his loss will be about 1 1/2 bushel per acre.

Sunday afternoon a very destructive hail hit southeast of town, damaging the M. O. Slack and Carter wheat crop about one-half and almost totally whipping out the following crops: Lester Smith 200 acres, D. E. Covington 400 acres, D. S. Hill 300 acres, Dave Forsythe 200 acres.

Perhaps the heaviest hail of the year fell at the Geo. Walker place just northwest of Happy on Monday afternoon, when hail stones nearly as large as hen eggs were reported by several people. Mr. Walker's 800 acre wheat crop is almost a total loss. J. B. Fox was in town yesterday and states he lost 100 acres in this same hail. On 50 acres his loss will be about 75 per cent. Ward Strong and Mr. Cox lost their wheat crop in this hail. Mr. Fox states this is the first time he ever saw grown jackrabbits killed by hail stones, but found many of them in his fields after the Monday's storm.

Hail has been exceptionally destructive in all sections of the county this year.

COLLUM IS CAUGHT IN ARIZONA, RETURN ON RAISING CHECK

H. J. Collum was arrested in Prescott, Arizona, last Thursday and will be returned to this county to answer the charge of raising a check given him by Paul Artho for labor during last harvest.

Collum was in the Amarillo jail last fall on the charge of breaking into a box car. He was released and got away before Sheriff Black discovered he was the man wanted on the Artho charge.

Collum refused to leave Arizona without extradition papers. Sheriff W. C. Black immediately applied for these, and received a wire Monday from Gov. Neff stating the necessary papers had been forwarded to Arizona. The Sheriff will go after the man as soon as notified he may be procured.

TEXAS ARTIST, ORIGINATOR OF INTERNATIONAL FLOWER DAY

By Mae Biddison Benson in Star-Telegram.

Mrs. Simeon Shaw of Canyon, Texas, chalk artist, wife of a Methodist minister, mother of nine children and earnestly hopeful that the world will not forget the soldier boys—she had three who were in the great conflict—spent Saturday in Fort Worth.

She is the originator of the International flower day idea. It has not gone over big yet, because people haven't thought about it. Mrs. Shaw believes. She talks of Flower Day as she talks of her children, in an attitude of love. That Mrs. Warren G. Harding and Mr. and Mrs. Josephus Daniels have discussed the idea personally with her and have approved it, are only small considerations in the mind of the mother who wants the soldier boys and their sacrifice commemorated. She has communications from Secretary Hughes, Senator Shepard and other notables in Washington commending her plan.

"It all began when I was drawing pictures for the boys in Camp Logan during the war," she said. "One night I was the last speaker on the program for a bunch of boys who were going overseas. They didn't know me and I knew they liked young girls best. To put it plainly, I was a woman in a pinch. That night I wore a bouquet of roses. When on the platform, I threw those roses to the boys, just tossed them out and shouted that whoever caught them first would be the first one to get married. The way those lads scrambled for the flowers, the way they held them when they did get them, made an impression upon me. My part of the program went over and they liked it." Mrs. Shaw is modest. She is shrewd and the possessor of a most notable ability to grasp a situation.

"That's my business," she explained. "Since I draw situations, you see I must grasp them first."

Later Mrs. Shaw collected "all the flowers in Houston" to take to boys at Camp Logan. Her idea was to give each boy one flower, any kind from a sunflower to a cultured hot house flower. She suggested that he press this flower in the next letter home with the message that the Christian folk where he was had given it to him.

"You would be surprised at the number of boys who did that little thing. It means so very much to them," she said. "Why, a flower has a wonderful influence. That's what gave me the idea. I wouldn't say send the soldier boys flowers. I know boys too well for that. They'd say, 'Gosh, aint this sissy?' I wouldn't say wear a flower only for the dead heroes of only the living. Just wear a flower, any flower, that you can get, garden flowers, wild flowers, any lovely growing flower in loving tribute to the sacrifice the boys made—all the boys, for they each one made a tremendous sacrifice."

Mrs. Shaw is on her way to North Carolina where she will make some chalk talks. She makes all her expenses in this way for the trips in the interest of Flower Day. She isn't a fanatic. She isn't even like most originators of things. She doesn't care whether she gets credit for the idea or not.

"I could forget I even thought of it first if on Nov. 11 every man, woman and child would wear a flower. The soldier boys would feel deep down in their hearts an appreciation, a love of those who stayed at home if this custom were in vogue. I know it. I know the boys. I have four," she asserted.

The American Legion of Texas sent Mrs. Shaw a handsome gift of flowers in appreciation of her thought of the soldier sons.

GREAT PROGRAM AT THE BAPTIST ANNUAL MEETING

BUT RAIN NEARLY EVERY DAY HOLDS DOWN ATTENDANCE

Executive Committee Will Study Alternative Next Year—Closing Program Yesterday.

A great feast was prepared for the members of the Baptist church who were brave enough to face the elements and wade through mud and rain to get to the Canyon Club grounds during the past seven days. Unfortunately not over five or six hundred were able to get to any one meeting, while the attendance of the campers was much smaller than anticipated, but really much larger than expected in view of the behavior of the weatherman for the past two weeks.

Tuesday morning the weather cleared up, and everything was favorable for a pleasant and successful ending of the week's work. About noon there came a warning from the west that a head of water was coming down the Palo Duro, entirely covering the lowlands. Rev. B. F. Fronnabarger took in the situation and after going up the creek to view the approaching water, decided that most of the tents would have to be moved. Nearly all of the thirty tents for the campers were out of the way before the water reached the Club grounds. The warning had come in time to save all those camping near the creek from getting a good soaking, and probably losing all in their tents.

The time of meeting for next year was left to the executive committee, and great responsibility was loaded upon their shoulders with instructions to choose a time when it would not rain every day.

The meeting definitely decided that a permanent location must be selected and permanent buildings started before the next year's meeting. It looks to be impossible to procure a desirable location near the city, and a committee yesterday went out to the Coole Draw with a view of buying this for a permanent camping ground. Rev. Fronnabarger has a proposition from C. O. Keiser to buy a section of land at this point.

The Tuesday night meeting was moved to town and held in the Baptist church, and all meetings yesterday were held in this building. Only about thirty campers braved the weather and remained until yesterday, most of these getting away in their cars before noon.

Rev. Fronnabarger pronounced the meeting a great success in spite of the great handicap of the weather, and believes that the program of next year will be very largely attended.

Clovis Post to Celebrate

The biggest celebration ever staged on the plains is the aim of the American Legion Post at Clovis in their Independence Day program. The celebration, which will be held on July 4th and 5th, will have as special features a big rodeo, auto races, "callithumpian" parade, band concerts, baseball game, free barbecue, fire works and dance.

The Clovis Chamber of Commerce and Kiwanis Club are co-operating with the boys, and there will be something doing every minute during the two days.

Comic stunts will be sandwiched in between the big acts, and the "Callithumpian" parade promises to be a scream.

Clovis has already begun preparations for taking care of the big crowds.

We have heard that some voters in Canyon have conceived the idea that a vote against the bond issue on July 9th will be a vote against paying. This is not the case. The people of Canyon voted last fall by a majority of 109 to 2 favoring paying bonds. These bonds were to run for 40 years with an option of paying them in 20 years if the city council so elected. This class of bonds will bring about 75 cents on the market today. The council finds that by issuing a bond for 20 years with a 10 year option, they may be sold at par. Should the voters fail to give a majority vote on July 9 for the 20 year bonds, the city council still has the authority to issue and sell the 40 year bonds which were authorized last fall. A vote against the 20 year bonds on July 9 is simply a vote against immediate paying. A vote against the 20 year bonds means that the voter is well content with the mud hole around the public square. A vote against the 20 year bonds is a vote against progress in Canyon.

The local officers can hardly be expected to go out of their way to capture boot-leggers when the laws of Texas are so absurd that these boot-leggers cannot be convicted even when all of the necessary evidence is right at hand. The sheriff of Deaf Smith county caught a party of four men and two women with 59 cases of Scotch whiskey. The sheriff exposed himself to personal injury and possible death in landing the party. Yet every one of the gang was freed in the district court, and only one member of the party has been transferred to the federal court, where a mere fine is possible under the law. Will the sheriff of Deaf Smith county be expected to run the risk of getting his hide filled with shot from the bootlegger's gun to make another arrest under similar circumstances? The coming special session of the legislature should amend the law and make it effective, or repeal laws relating to bootlegging and give this gang a free unhampered hand.

During the presidential campaign, Mr. Harding occupied neutral ground so successfully that both pro and anti League of Nation advocates claimed him for their own. By successfully straddling the question he won the election by a tremendous majority. His first utterances after election showed clearly that so far as he was concerned the League of Nations was junked, and he proposed an association of the leading nations of the world, this in spite of the fact that America was the only first rate power in the world not a member of the existing League. Since March 4th, President Harding has not sprung his proposed association. Has he seen the folly of his scheme? His followers are becoming restless. They are wondering. Some are scheming to control the congressional elections next year. Certainly the President is getting himself in the middle of a bad fix.

Associated Charity workers in large cities have found upon actual investigation that 90 percent of the solicitors for funds are fakes. Many people refuse to give a cent to any kind of solicitors on the streets. Were all of us to adopt this rule, the world would be greatly improved and society benefited.

The American Federation of Labor assumes the attitude of thanking God they are not asking for the six hour rule to be evoked this year. Gompers rather apologizes to the members of his organization that this is not to be done this year, with a strong hint that it will come next year. The answer is thundered back to Gompers in the wide spread of the open shop. The union idea is admirable and one that every employer would sanction were it not for the fool ideas some of the leaders try to pull with the members of the organizations who have no other ideas or thoughts than those promulgated from the big chiefs. The open shop is thriving and rapidly increasing by the ignorance displayed among the labor leaders.

Most of us really thought Kaiser Bill had something to do with the late war. Sam Gompers has discovered that organized labor in Germany is responsible for the war. Sam is getting altogether too truthful, and may perhaps some day admit that organized labor has started lots of hell in this old world.

Wheat, and the World's Needs
Favorable crop reports for most of the world, published by the International Institute of Agriculture, are being interpreted as pointing of an easy situation in the international bread supply. Nothing is farther from the fact. The usual amount of wheat is not standing in the fields, and even the most favorable weather conditions cannot assure a full supply of bread. On the other hand, unfavorable weather in North America before harvest or drought in the southern continent any time before December would seriously reduce the world's loaf, which, at the best, will not be of normal size. An increased acreage in Europe has been referred to as an important factor in the wheat situation. Every such increase, as that of Italy, for instance, is an encouraging indication of a country's economic progress toward recovery. But the sum total is a bagatelle when weighed in the international balance.

It is good to think that France has 12,000,000 acres of wheat, and that "the crop situation is excellent." This is an acreage that is less than three per cent above 1920. Compared with 1914 the acreage is reduced 35 percent. This same authority has counted the world supply, and calculates that by July 31 the world stock of old wheat will be 52,000,000 bushels, which is one-third what the United States alone held last year. What does that figure show? It proves that the accumulations since the armistice have been consumed, and last year the world ate more wheat than it produced.

Rumania, which now includes Bessarabia and Transylvania, was a large exporter of wheat. The acreage this year is cut one-half, and there will be no wheat for export. Germany must make a poor showing when compared with 1914, and so must all eastern Europe. In fact, the countries of Europe and North Africa, included in the report of the International Institute of Agriculture which has been received with so much optimism, have a total acreage that is less than three per cent above 1920. Compared with 1914 the acreage is reduced 35 percent.

The southern continent's harvest is still on its knees to the gods, and will be until January. Crop reports must be read with the fact in mind that this hemisphere and Australia are the world's dependence now, and an easy world situation cannot be expected. —Wall Street Journal.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Mr. Edsel B. Ford, President of the Ford Motor Company, gives out the following statement:

"Another reduction has been made in the list price of all types of Ford cars and the Ford truck to take effect immediately. The list prices, f. o. b. Detroit, are now as follows

Touring	$415.00
Runabout	$370.00
Coupe	$695.00
Sedan	$760.00
Chassis	$345.00
Truck-Chassis	$495.00
Tractor	$625.00

"The big reductions last fall were made in anticipation of low material costs which we are now getting the benefit of, and this fact together with increased manufacturing efficiency and the unprecedented demand for Ford cars, particularly during the past three months permitting maximum production, have made another price reduction possible immediately.

"Ford business for April and May 1921 was greater by 56,633 cars and trucks than for the same two months in 1920; in fact the demand has been even greater than the supply, so that our output has been limited, not by unfilled orders but by manufacturing facilities.

"During May we produced 101,424 Ford cars and trucks for sale in the United States alone—the biggest month in the history of our company—and our factories and assembly plants are now working on a 4000 car daily schedule for June.

"The Fordson tractor is still being sold at less than hie cost to produce on account of the recent big price reductions, and it is impossible, therefore, to make any further cut in the price of the tractor."

Can you afford to go without a car any longer when Fords are selling at these new low prices? There is no reason now why you should delay purchasing a Ford car, Ford truck, or Fordson tractor.

We will gladly advise you concerning the delivery of a Fordson tractor or the particular type of car in which you are interested. Just phone us or drop us a card.

Hard Times

A portrait painter sat in a French cafe sipping his wine. His small bottle was finished and he was about to order more when his eyes rested on a newspaper lying near. He read the headline "Hard Times are Coming." "Hard times," he said, "we must economize" so instead of calling for a fresh bottle he called for his bill.

The landlord, knowing the artist's habits, surprised that the order for the second gottle was not given him, approached his customer and said, "Not going so soon? Is my wine not good?"

"Excellent," said the artist, "but hard times are coming and I must economize."

"Hard times," said the landlord, and he scratched his head, then he called his wife. "That new silk dress you ordered," he said, "you must make cotton do. The artist tells me hard times are coming. We must economize. Cancel your order and buy something cheaper."

When the landlord's wife canceled her order she told the dressmaker what her husband had said. "We must prepare for hard times," she said. "Hard times are coming, my husband and the artist said so."

"Hard times," said the dressmaker, "hard times are coming. This is no time to expand. Those improvements I had intended to make must wait."

He put on his hat and went across the street to the builder with whom he had planned additions to the show room.

"The changes I had planned must wait," he said. "Do not proceed with the work. Hard times are coming. We must economize. When conditions improve I will call you in, but I cannot invest money in the face of hard times."

When the dressmaker left, the builder sat down and wrote a letter. "My dear artist friend, I must postpone sitting for my picture. We are going to have hard times and I think it best to wait until things are settled before indulging in this expense. Hard times, you know, must be regarded."

When the artist received this letter he went to the cafe. He ordered a small bottle—just enough to sooth him. Staring at him from a nearby chair was the newspaper he had seen two days before. He picked it up, scanned it more closely and found that it was two years old.

Troup Banner: You do not think of cutting down your supply of gasoline when you come to a hill. On the contrary, you give your carburetor more gas and get over the top with ease. The fellow who does not do this is stalled on the road side, while you are over the top and have forgotten the ones passed far behind. The same condition confronts business—you speed your engine to increase power—advertising accelerates business. The business that neglects advertising now is the same position as the motorist who fails to give his car more gas on the hill.

An apt illustration. And but for his objection to the use of slang State Press would add that no man in business in times like these can expect to make the grade unless he puts steam behind his driving gear. Advertising is the fuel that makes the mare go uphill. A mare can go downhill without much fuel, or she can run away and burst up the buggy without even feeling an oat. When everybody has money nobody is very particular about little economies. When money is scarce and every dollar needs to be made to fructify to its utmost the advertisement which offers opportunities for conservative buying attracts those who find themselves in need of the merchandise mentioned. Also the advertisement reminds those in need of their needs. Those who dwell in advertisingless countries do not need much, therefore do not buy much or have much. You can find them in Yucatan, Tabasco and Irkutsk. At least, you can find them if you want to go there. But who does? Bad as our civilization may be in comparison with the heaven-born ideals of the visionaries, it is an unmentionable lot better than that of the countries where there are no advertisements and no stores, no luxuries, and few necessities.—State Press in Dallas News.

Do You Know?

"Living on tick" dates back to the Seventeenth century, when a tradesman's bill was known as "a ticket."
 "Welcher" owes its origin to an English individual of the name of Welch, notorious for failure to meet his obligations.
 "A cock and bull story" is a corruption of the phrase "a concocted and bull story."
 "Jitney" seems to be a corruption of Mexican slang meaning "next to nothing" or "of practically no value."
 "Hustler," in the United States describes one who is diligent and makes the most of his opportunities. In England "a hustler" is a pickpocket.
 "Salt River" in its common usage, refers to an imaginary river up which defeated politicians are supposed to be sent to the port of oblivion.
 "Seventh Heaven" generally used as expressing perfect bliss or delight, comes from the Mohammedan religion which provides seven heavens in paradise, each rising above the other in the scale of happiness.
 "Grass widow" is a corruption thru the French of an old Latin phrase "vidua de gratia," literally, a "widow by grace." In its ancient usage it referred to a woman who had been divorced or permitted to live apart from her husband, and, therefore, a grace widow, or widow by grace.
 The word handkerchief is perhaps the oldest in English.—Originally it was kerchief, meaning a covering for the head; carried in the hand later, it signified, still, a covering for the head, but to be carried in the pocket.
 There is no mention of the tiger in the Bible.
 There are 500 references to sheep in the Scriptures.
 There are 696 distinct references to women in the Bible.
 The wearing of earrings is referred to in the Book of Genesis.
 The flea is mentioned only twice in the Scriptures, in I Samuel 24-14 and 26-40.
 The word father is found 1,650 times and the word mother 311 times in the books of the Bible.
 Bible students are agreed that the hippopotamus is the behemoth mentioned in the Book of Job.

Foodless Meals

Science, which does so much for our comfort and well-being, delights now and then, by way of compensation, to play a joke on us. Hardly had we heard the premonitory horn of Mr. Ford's mechanical cow, announcing the coming of synthetic milk, when Prof. Richard L. Garner, in the Forum, invited us to a futurist meal. In the aesthetic sense it is, indeed more than a meal, for it is served in surroundings that would justify any reporter in describing it as a "collation," and it appeals to so many of the senses that it might even be called a "banquet." In fact the sense of taste is almost the only one that it does not satisfy.

The dinner of the future, as Professor Garner pictures it, is both compact and ethereal. He shows how much man has reduced the bulk of his food in proportion to the amount of nutrient in it. The science that has given us soup tablets and disiccated vegetables and "iron rations," and that is all the time finding new ways to pack nourishment into smaller compass, will, he thinks, do far more for us in the future. Not only will it rob our dinner table of the grossness of meat served in such wise as to indicate the animal from which it was taken: it will put the chemist in the place of the farmer, and the florist in the place of the cook. "The host of that day will assemble his guests about a table adorned with exotic flowers from which will be exhaled invisible fumes of ambrosial proteins, with exquisite odors that will fill the air with vital essence and stimulate the olfactory and palatal nerves to the verge of intoxication, and by some yet-to-be-discovered means absorb the necessary food."

In spite of its refinement the picture leaves us cold. The mind recurs to homelier but more substantial food—to Sam Weller's "very good weak pie" and Bob Cratchit's Christmas goose and Dr. Johnson's Gargantuan dinners. It goes back to Thackeray's "bouillabaisse," and the old memories that hang around it. We are still so gross that we prefer marrowfats to sweet peas, and kidney beans to scarlet runners.

The "automats" and the "cafeterias" have already changed eating from an agreeable art to a dismal science. They have robbed it of its shining linen and its delicate china and replaced them with the marble slabs of the food morgue. They have squeezed it dry of laughter and entertaining conversation and all those attractive necessities that separated it from mere feeding. Nothing remains but the food. If, now, the men of science are to compel us eventually to give up that too and content ourselves at dinner time with a couple of whiffs of a tuberoses and a little sniff of heliotrope to top off with, we shall rebel. Let us be gathered to our fathers while yet the earth is green with growing corn and the morning is resonant with the cackle of the laying hen. So long as the golden disk of the full moon returns to the heavens we shall think of pumpkin pie, and so long as the setting sun tints the snow-capped mountain peaks with rosy light we shall order pink ice cream.

Besides, how could you give a dinner or make a restaurant pay if everyone could get a square meal by sniffing at the crack of the door?

REDUCED RAIL ROAD RATES GIVEN TO TEACHERS' CONSOLIDATED INSTITUTE

H. W. Morelock has just been notified that the railroads have granted reduced rates to teachers who may attend the Teachers' Consolidated Institute which convenes in Canyon from September 5 to 9, 1921. These rates will be on the certificate plan, and will be one and one-half fare. Travis Shaw, Secretary of the West Texas State Normal College, has been selected as the representative of the railroads to sign all certificates of attendance. Teachers who are to attend this institute will pay full fare to Canyon, getting from the Agent where they buy this ticket a receipt (a regular certificate plan form), showing the purchase price of the ticket and the place for which bought. This receipt they should present to Mr. Shaw near the close of the Institute, and have him certify as to the attendance of the holder upon the sessions of the Institute. By presenting this signed certificate to the Agent at Canyon, teachers will be given a ticket home for only one-half of the regular fare.

Already 23 counties of the Panhandle and Plains country have joined for this institute, and some of the leading educators of the country have been engaged as instructors. Superintendent P. W. Horn of Houston will have charge of the Intermediate Grade Work, Dr. Shelton Phelps of Peabody Normal College will conduct the High School Section, Miss Mabel Carney of Columbia University will direct the work of the Rural School Section, and Mrs. Otho Hanscom of the West Texas State Normal College will have charge of the Primary Section. Some very able lecturers have also been engaged for special work.

WHAT MY ALMA MATER HAS DONE FOR ME

"During Commencement week our thoughts naturally turn to our Alma Mater and we begin to enumerate the things that she has done for us. On every hand we hear expressions like this, 'The Normal has done so much for me!' But suppose we enumerate a few of the good things that the West Texas State Normal College has really done for each and every one of us.

1. It has given us a broader and a higher view.
 2. It has made us happier and more optimistic.
 3. It has helped us to begin building a sound philosophy of life.
 4. It has given us golden hours to while away with congenial friends.
 5. It has made us kinder, more sympathetic, and more broad-minded.
 6. It has given us kindly and precious counsel in our darkest hours.
 7. It has enriched our lives by the new acquaintances it has made for us.
 8. It has raised our standards and our hopes.
 9. It has taught us that each one of us is a man with a special place to fill.
 10. It has filled our hearts with love for our fellowmen, and has trained us in such a way that we are eager to serve humanity with all our hearts, our energies, our brains, and our souls.

ASSUMES HEAVY RESPONSIBILITY—COMMANDEERS "SCOTCH"

They have drawn a red line under the Old Scotch account, the local books are closed, Uncle Sam has confiscated the booze, and the scene of trouble now shifts to Amarillo.

Early Friday morning United States Deputy Marshall Doc Bolton, accompanied by several assistants, arrived here in a truck from Amarillo and served upon Sheriff C. S. Purcell a formal demand, signed by United States District Judge James C. Wilson, for the complete fifty-nine cases of Old Scotch. The Sheriff, breathing a sigh of relief, lent every possible aid in getting that concentrated trouble transferred into the official truck, and soon all evidence of the famous case, except the fast disappearing worry wrinkles in the sheriff's face, had departed.

Sheriff Purcell stated most emphatically that it was a tremendous relief to get rid of the stuff. It is well known that there are men who would knock an officer in the head for that booze who would not steal even a postage stamp under ordinary conditions. The responsibility on the sheriff was heavy as he had no deputy jailer.

When the first count of the cases was made the night the stuff was captured The Brand got it at sixty instead to fifty-nine. The latter figure is correct, and one case was never stolen or lost, as has been reported. But gee, whiz!—fifty-nine cases of that boiled down cussedness would make all the jack rabbits in the Southwest spit in the face of all the bull dogs in the United States, so why worry about a mistake of one case?—Hereford Brand.

HONOR MEMORY OF TEXAN WHO WON CROIX DE GUERRE

McLean, Texas, May 31.—In memory of Andrew H. Floyd, Company G, 142d Infantry, who was killed in action in the world war, a number of the friends of young Floyd spent the day with the deceased soldier's parents. The event was also in honor of the mother's birthday.

Floyd was killed at St. Etienne, Oct. 2, 1918. He was awarded a croix de guerre for bravery in crossing a terrain swept by violent fire of machine gun and guns of heavier caliber. He was the only soldier of McLean who was called upon to make the supreme sacrifice.—Dallas News.

One of Our Boys

Andrew Floyd was one of "our boys," and his name adorns the memorial tablet on the walls of our chapel. The faculty and many students who may read this issue of "The Prairie" will remember Andrew as a quiet, unassuming young man of high ideals and great integrity. He was one of the first to leave us and offer his life for his country. He paid the supreme sacrifice, but his life will live on in the hearts and memory of those who knew him best.

ESTES-ROCKY MOUNTAIN NATIONAL PARK.

MANY years ago three Englishmen hunted big game in the Rocky mountains. They had hunted in Asia, Africa and South America, but as they stood on the continental divide in north-central Colorado and looked down into Estes park it seemed to them a very paradise on earth. One of Colorado's most satisfying outing places ever since that time Uncle Sam, in 1915, proclaimed part of Estes and the territory immediately to the west a national park.

Only 70 miles from Denver, it is the most accessible to the largest number of people of any of our great national playspots. Here, at an average elevation of 7,500 feet above sea level, is a pine-scented, snow-capped pleasureland—a perfectly delightful refuge of peaceful grandeur, where one may be out every day from May to October in clear, bracing air, beneath a bright but scorchless sun and enjoy every night the cool, refreshing sleep that only the mountains can induce.

Long's Peak stands sentinel over the park, in which are lakes on which float ice cakes in August; masses of snow (glaciers) a mile long and hundreds of feet thick, supposed to be older than the pyramids of Egypt, always exposed to the sun, far away from their starting point, yet slower than a snail; moraines—great ridges formed by glaciers which moved through the park centuries ago; rock-walled canyons; magnificent forests of pine and aspen; numerous mountain-trout streams; broad valleys, carpeted with luxuriant wild flowers of many varieties, including the delicate columbine—the state flower of Colorado.

Vaccination is without doubt one of the greatest blessings which ever came to the human race. For the sake of humanity do not oppose vaccination to prevent smallpox, but endeavor to make it compulsory.

Faulty cooking is one of the greatest evils under which our race lives. Flies are not only a nuisance but are one of the means of disseminating typhoid fever, cholera, and diarrhoea among human beings, and surra and anthrax among horses and cattle.

The perfumes of Araby and the laces of Spain cannot give to a baby the charm to be found in a tub of soft water and a cake of liquid soap.

The food we eat, the liquid we drink, the air we breathe, and always will be fundamental factors in the maintenance of health.

Anyone having venereal disease, knowing that he has it, and communicating that disease to another is a potential destroyer of life and therefore, in fact, a murderer.

The functions of the health officer are not only to look after sanitation of the water, milk, food, and air, but should also include an interest in reducing the mortality by cooperating with the medical profession in securing proper and home facilities for the care of the sick.

The nurse at the bedside has become a necessity in present day civilization. There was a time not so long ago when practically every woman was not only a housekeeper for the well but a housekeeper for the sick.

It is my prediction that the future statesmen will be that group of men whose thoughts are given to measures for the attainment of healthy citizens. They will regard the child, even before it is born, as worthy of their best thought and constructive legislation and will attempt to make true in fact that oft-used statement that all men are born equal, at least insofar as this can be done by making it possible for all citizens to have proper food, clothing, housing an other environmental conditions.

Facts and Comments

You can tell more about a man's intelligence from his questions than you can from his answers.

A young man should not grieve that he has attained neither wisdom nor riches: he has opportunity, which is equal to both.

By offering prizes for blueberries too large to go through holes of a certain size an agricultural worker succeeded in collecting blueberry bushes that under cultivation produce berries almost as large as grapes. Experiment has shown that blueberries differ from most other plants in the kind of soil that they require, and that many growers have failed to raise them because they did not give the bushes an acid soil.

To show mothers how to dress their children sensibly Cleveland schools are using dolls that are dressed in clothes made of good materials, simply cut and trimmed. Any child may play with the dolls and take them home over night or for a week-end. The school will furnish patterns of any of the garments in children's sizes, and the older girls are encouraged to make clothes for their younger sisters. Where the plan has been carried out the improvement in the pupil's dress is very noticeable.

Every mile of unimproved highway is an opportunity to increase community wealth which in the aggregate means national wealth. In the automobile and the motor truck we have the vehicle; the output of factory and farm gives us the load; now all we need is the roads. But a road built solely upon the principle of getting as much mileage as possible for the money does not suit the spirit of national growth. We do not want poorly built roads that will have to be torn up and rebuilt again in a few years. We need highways that will take care of the ever-increasing load that they must bear. We must build for permanence.

Few persons realize how much shadows help us to judge the form of solid objects and how much we depend upon them. In looking at photographs of the moon, for example, it is only the shadows that tell us whether what we see is a hill or a hole. If the shadow falls away from the light, the eye sees a hole; if it falls toward the light, a projection. But the eye is easily fooled. Showing a picture of the moon in which the light comes from the left immediately after showing a number of pictures in which it comes from the right will change a crater into a mountain peak even to the experienced eye: a new example, perhaps, of that famous woodchuck hole that stuck out eighteen inches when the frost went into the ground.

THE ISHMAELITE

A Tribute to The Friendship of Men Who Have Taken us to Their Hearts.

(By L. P. Loomis, before the 1921 session of the Panhandle Press Association.)

Out on the rim of the world, high above the stagnant lowlands, reposing on a tableland, whose length and breadth is that of a matchless empire; Out in the full light and glory of Heaven's wondrous sunshine;

Out where the golden sunset seems to fondly linger and caress with loving finger tips a million trysting places ere it courtresses a fond good night;

Where rest rugged stately canyons with verdure covered valleys and brooklets of sparkling waters cold and clear—like a string of priceless pearls adorning milady's breast—

Lies a landscape which seems to have been specially moulded by the Master Mason of the universe and laid as a footstool of the Rocky Mountains.

This landscape we lovingly call the Panhandle, a land of alluvial soil now being carpeted o'er with Nature's verdant offering to the God of Spring.

The Panhandle is a land of promise, a land of hope, a land of opportunity, a land of realization. It has been said that the panhandle has dispelled more fond illusions and has given incentive to a greater number of hopes, and has rewarded more bountifully when the future looked dark than has any other section of the universe.

'Tis the skyline of promise, the rainbow of hope to the homeseeker looking toward the setting sun for a treasure land of health and a plant soil and season inoculated with productiveness.

The Panhandle is truly an irresistible magnet to virile and adventurous folk who love stalwart manhood.

Three score years ago or more, an Ishmaelite heard the "Call of the West," and turned his talents to that skyline to seek out "The land that I will show thee." He had heard in the streets of Askalon; it had been repeated in Gath and affirmed in Galilee that out in the Panhandle was "Where the West Really Begins."

He found Ponce de Leon's dream land blackened with buffalo on a thousand hills and oftentimes a thousand buffaloes on one hill. He found the graceful deer, the timid antelope, the wild turkey, the Bob White and the prairie chicken.

He elbowed out the Red Man and fed herds on the succulent herbage. His saddle was his limousine and where night overtook him he pitched a tarpaulin for his mansion. He was lord of all he surveyed, undisputed in his sovereignty and mightier in his sphere than regal king or potentate.

The stars of heaven lighted his sleeping hours like altar lights from Heaven's sanctuary and wireless to him the message that the God of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob still rules and all is well.

The moonbeams chased the threatening shadows of night and hissing breezes swayed the nodding wild flowers that fringed his royal couch. As he watched from his couch superlative the astral procession move along the shimmering highway of the sky, he bowed his head in acknowledgement to the Great Ruler of the universe as the supreme architect who controlled the destinies of the universes.

It was a happy life—those pioneer days out in the open—and the Ishmaelite made it a part of his character. The grazing herds, the branding pens, the horse wrangling, the stampede—hitting the long trail to the stockyards—all held charms and made memories that only a free range rider knew, a rider whose domain knew no boundaries.

His campfire was a true symbol of brotherhood. He oggose the big ideas and pushed aside the little annoyances as unworthy a man. He despised the narrowness that characterizes the East.

He was generous to a fault, paid his tribute to honor's code and brooked no lesser consideration.

He knew no leniency in dealing out the cards of justice in the game of life where decency and clean companionship called for summary action.

Our Ishmaelite was the vanguard of civilization. He rode the hills alone. He improvised music to the murmuring winds and seconded with his whirling lasso. He respected the sacred silences of the shady solitudes where reigns the tree monarchs of the ravine and the valley.

He loved the fastness of the canyons where gurgling streams dodged along to hunt the open places among the rocks; he knew the trysting places of nature where only the meridian shafts of light to mark their recesses.

He roamed the pathless prairies. He saw the soaring eagle, and heard its screaming cry. He heard the call of the lone coyote trying to out-tenor Caruso and learned to love its lonesome wail.

He hunted wild turkey and watched the graceful stride of the timid antelope as it skirted the ground in racing away. The fragrance of the purple cactus blossoms supplanted the American Beauty Rose. He sensed a prayer of thankfulness for his herds when the heavy clouds curtailed the firmament, when the lightning sent livid rapier thrusts of messengers of a king for the disturbing thunders to growl and angrily shake the cooling rain upon a thirsty land.

Though often non-plussed and tired in heart and lured on to losses by the vapory tricks of a mirage season, he came true and played the game fair and square. And often as he hovered 'round the old chuck wagon fire to gossip o'er the day's pleasures, ere time to retire, the silvery moon crept up behind and its mellow rays in benediction spread o'er the stout tarpaulin that made up the cowman's bed.

These plains were monotonous in their solitudes. Yet they were the homes of dormant wealth that would in time deck the purple of an Oriental empire.

The physical features of the land are the type and symbol of the humanity that dwells thereon.

We may wish for Bokhara where red lilies blow;

We may trace the silken sands of Samarcand's alluring shore.

We may long for the land where the eypress and myrtle are emblems of deeds that are done in their clime—

But our Ishmaelite found his Valley of the Moon on the broad table land of the Panhandle, and he is today that type of manhood who built his character in the great open places of Nature's Out of Doors where men had room to grow and invigorating air to breathe.

And to this type of Plainsman, the pioneer cowman, the scout who led the caravan of homeseekers to the Panhandle, we dedicate this little tribute. Honest, clean, rugged, big-hearted, big-brained, charitable, neighborly—what splendid attributes of character. And they have come down to us as great men. They may have a rough, unseemingly exterior, but their ideals are as true as the clime in which they are developed. Acts of brotherhood are the outward and visible signs of the jewels of clean living, of hearts of refined gold.

"Out Where the West Begins," a pair of unionalis may be the uniform of a cattle king, a bank president or a railroad director.

No lily of the fields graced the meadows of Palestine with greater fragrance; no pool of Siloam mirrored heaven clearer than the Panhandle today reflects the virtues of advanced civilization, culture and morality built from the foundation laid by our Ishmaelite, the pioneer cowman.

We bow in humbleness of spirit and mete tribute to these Ishmaelites of the Panhandle. They have successfully filled every avenue of the business world. The lure of the city has called many of them. We find them now under the glare of the electric lights. The spell of the motley pushing throng calling them, the survival of the fittest arousing their true sporting spirit for a clean shuffle, and the game of chance challenging them to deal a hand.

As they were the factors in the pioneer days in moulding and shaping the destiny of the Plains, so are they today—two score years or more later—the factors of the city, holding seats in exchanges, directors in banks and guiding corporations.

And ever and anon to these big-hearted cowmen the mirage of life calls their minds galloping back to the old days and they would fain cast aside their circumscribed web of embersome conduct and limited pastures, and revert back to their old koran which has been expressed in these words by another author:

"I believe in the strength of the hills, in the silence of the night and the music of the birds and bee;

"I believe in the wonders of the outdoors, in the inspiration of the stars, in the allurements of life in the open, where we can confide to the flowers and birds and confess our faults and mistakes under the silent stars and hear the winds murmuring absolution. We shall live long even though we die young, and we shall carry with us to the unseen world something which will make it worth while to be immortal."

Yet a little while and this type of Westerners, the Ishmaelite, the Panhandle Plainsman, shall walk with us no more, and we shall miss their Western handshake.

They paved the way for a great empire. They built humanity on new ideals and lived their lives as sponsors for an empire.

The long day of life passeth the sun has saluted the horizon and is nearing its downward course; yet a little while and the all beholding sun we shall see no more in all its majesty.

The setting of the sun of life is taking a frightful toll in the ranks of our pioneer cowmen. The enlistment in that regiment which rides out West, through the unfurling curtains of time which silently part and relentlessly close as the troubadour enters into the murky twilight of that journey imperious to the living, is daily listing our grey haired veterans of pioneer civilization.

But that entry into the portals that open on the mysteries of life into that sacred free range of human souls, where the brand of clean living is checked into the pens by Saint Peter is to the pure-hearted as one who wraps the drapery of his couch about him and lies down to pleasant dreams.

Then let us live our lives so that when our time shall come to meet these loved friends in the Roundup above we can go not like the quarry slave scourged to his dungeon, but like one guided by the Range Boss of the constellation of worlds.

If a list of profiteers were published it would look like a directory.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Y. W. C. A. in Normal

If you will come with me out on the plains of West Texas to the Normal that bears this name I shall take you to a small two-story building just to the northwest of the College and show you "Cozy Cottage."

In the fall of 1920 when the boys who help with the college farm moved into the up-stairs of this building they wanted to give the house a name so they wrote on a big plank these two words, "Cozy Cottage," and put the plank above the door.

Suppose we take a peep into the big room on the first floor. If you had come in the fall I fear you would have been justified in concluding that you had seen a real junk-room. Now, the gray-blue walls, orderly tables and chairs present a more pleasing picture. I am sure you like the "tied and dried" window drapes. Have you guessed the use of the room? Of course you have if you looked in one corner and have seen the cupboard and blue flame stove. Yes, it is the Y. W. C. A. lunch room, where one can bring one's lunch, and if desired obtain soup or cocoa, milk and sandwiches.

Besides meeting this need the room is often the scene of candy-making, or perhaps a birthday cake is baked for a friend. Here during the Interscholastic Meet 45 plate lunches were served each day.

While the lunch room is a new undertaking we feel that it has met a very real need and the prospects for its usefulness are ever increasing.—Southwestern Field News of Y. W. C. A.
