

DIPLOMAS GIVEN EIGHTEEN GRADUATES ON FRIDAY

THREE OF CLASS STARTED IN THE CANYON SCHOOL.

Impressive Ceremony Marks Closing Exercises of School With Address by Rev. M. M. Beavers

The commencement program of the Canyon public schools came to a fitting close Friday evening by the award of diplomas to a class of eighteen splendid young men and women who have completed their work in the Canyon high school.

The exercises were held in the College Auditorium and was largely attended by friends of the school and of the graduating class who gathered to express their best wishes to those who were completing their high school course.

The graduating class entered the auditorium to the music of the professional, played by Miss Dessie Mae Steele, each graduate being accompanied by a pretty little flower girl, who proudly carried a beautiful bouquet of flowers which she presented to the one she accompanied after the procession reached the stage and invocation had been pronounced.

After the high school orchestra had played a highly appreciated number, Rev. M. M. Beavers delivered the commencement address, which was highly appreciated by members of the class and their friends.

A piano solo by Miss Hilda Biggers followed. Miss Alice Smith gave the valedictory address. Miss Smith received from Supt. Payne a number of college scholarships on account of having the highest grades in the class.

The diplomas were given by Supt. A. D. Payne, who expressed appreciation of the work done by this class and of the school during the past year.

It is of interest to know that three members of the class started in the first grade in the Canyon schools, and have made a grade each year, graduating together. These are Frank Harrison, Francis Hicks and Rena Belle Smith. There were thirty pupils in their grade when they started to school. Each of these three graduated with more than the necessary 16 units required.

The class as a whole had done excellent work. It will be long remembered as the class to first issue an annual, which publication has evoked much favorable praise from the citizens of the town. Edward Gerald was business manager of this first annual, and its success is largely due to his untiring labors in collecting the material, and finally in financing the book so as to have a neat surplus.

"BOX OF TOYS" PLEASES.

The marionette show, "The Box of Toys," given by the Music Department of the College Tuesday night at the auditorium Tuesday night under the direction of Miss Pauline Brigham, was one of the most pleasing entertainments of the year. Ten dolls were shown coming to life, and living as persons, and doing the every day kind of things folks are doing. The operation of the dolls is a feat requiring considerable skill, and the large audience shows its appreciation of this fact.

LITTLE SHOWER THURSDAY.

A shower of 10 of an inch fell in Canyon Thursday evening. A go 1 rain fell south and east of the city Friday, and again Sunday, with considerable hail Sunday evening.

WANTS HOMES FOR GIRLS

B. F. Fronbarger Jr. is in charge of the work of finding employment for young people who must work their way thru the College. Mr. Fronbarger now has thirteen deserving young women who are seeking places to work for their room and board during the summer. Any who can take one or more of these young women are asked to phone Mr. Fronbarger.

Buffaloes Closed Season by Loss of Simmons Game Thursday

The Buffaloes ended the baseball season Thursday afternoon at Simmons, losing the game 17 to 5. Errors are largely responsible for the loss of this game. The Buffaloes had taken the first game 3 to 1.

The team won one game less than half on the road trip, and won half of the games at home this season. It was a good record considering the very cold weather of the spring which prohibited very much practice in the early season.

Graves proved to be the star mound artist for the Buffaloes this season. On the road trip he pitched three games, winning two. Eight hits were made against him in the three games, and resulted in four scores.

Conch Burton does not know about baseball for the summer session. It will depend upon the material that shows up at the College.

Truck Line for School Transportation Now Under Consideration

At the meeting of the trustees of the independent school district Monday night in regard to transportation, no decision was reached, except that it seemed to be the desire of the patrons to have truck transportation to school rather than for the individual families to furnish its own transportation and received pay per capita for this transportation.

Considerable information is being received from districts which now have transportation with a view of getting the very best service for the district. Some districts favor the district owning the trucks and hiring the drivers, while others favor individuals taking a contract to haul the children and owning the transportation facilities.

Legislature Fails to Pass Additional Revenue Measure So Far

President J. A. Hill returned Tuesday from Austin where he was in conference with the educational leaders of the state regarding the resubmission of the appropriations bill.

The legislature has accomplished nothing this week in providing additional revenue measures, and on the other hand has killed several revenue measures.

EXES CONDUCT CHAPEL.

Yesterday morning the chapel period of the college was given over to the Ex-Students Association, and a report made from each class since the school opened in 1910.

Some of the class representatives made two minute talks, upon the work of their class, while a number put on stunts which had to do with the life of the school during their last year.

ORCHESTRA VISITS HEREFORD

The orchestra of the Methodist Church went to Hereford Sunday to play on the program of the Epworth League meeting in the afternoon, and also for the regular Sunday morning service.

Fourteen members of the orchestra made the trip and were entertained with a noon luncheon in the basement of the church.

Indications for Very Large Summer Attendance at the College

Miss Margaret Boulware, Secretary to President Hill states that the attendance for the summer session of the College is expected to be the largest in the history of the school. Miss Boulware bases her opinion upon the correspondence of those seeking rooms for the summer session. Cousins Hall Dormitory has been filled for the past three months. Huntleigh Hall has been full for weeks, and there is a long waiting list at each place. All the boarding houses close to the school have been filled and rooms east of the square are getting scarce. There are no available light house keeping rooms this side of the square.

The summer session will begin on June 6th.

Freshies and Sophs Have Class Battle at College Thursday

A great deal of class spirit was manifested among the Freshman and Sophomore Classes in the West Texas State Teachers College, Thursday, May 17. It was Sophomore day and that class had arranged an elaborate program for the chapel exercises with Everett Haley, their class president, easily the star. About six o'clock a. m. a number of Freshies called at Haley's home and took him on a joy ride to Happy, returning him after the program. George Terry ably took the place of Haley and a very interesting program was given.

At 11 o'clock the Sophs made a rush to the flag pole in an effort to displace the Freshman flag which was waving in the breeze at the top of the pole, and a friendly combat took place. The result was that the flag waved until six o'clock in the afternoon at which time the Freshman took it down.

ALL EX-SERVICE MEN AND SOLDIERS OF OTHER WARS WANTED TO PARTICIPATE IN MEMORIAL DAY ON WEDNESDAY, MAY 30th.

All veterans of the Civil War, of the Spanish War and of the World War are urged to participate in the Memorial Day program at the American Legion Hall next Wednesday, May 30, and honor their comrades who have passed into the great beyond.

The first Memorial Day under the auspices of the American Legion will be held next Wednesday in honor of the soldiers of Randall county who have passed to their reward. In this observation, a fitting place will be given the veterans of the Civil War and of the Spanish-American War. The American Legion is especially anxious that these old veterans take a part in the Memorial Day program.

The program will be held in front of the American Legion Hall, since the auditorium of the building is not sufficiently large to hold the crowd.

Those who wish to hear the program will please gather at the Hall before ten o'clock. The space immediately in front of the building will be reserved for the women of the Auxiliary and for the ex-soldiers.

All ex-soldiers, and veterans of the Civil and Spanish wars will meet at the Methodist church, and will march to the Legion Hall promptly at 10:00 o'clock. The line of march will be as follows: The Colors, the College Band, Firing Squad, Civil War veterans, Spanish War veterans, American Legion and others.

The Legion has appointed C. W. Warwick to handle the crowd at the Hall while the veterans are moving from the church to the Hall. The street in front of the Hall will be roped off in order to give plenty of room for all, and not be disturbed by automobiles.

At the Hall the following will be the program: Master of Ceremonies—Dr. H. A. Brown.

Prayer—Chaplain.

"America"—College Band.

Salute to the Flag—Woman's Auxiliary.

Invocation—Rev. M. M. Beavers.

Farlow and Chase Condrey are to look after the cars to take all veterans to the cemetery. Mr. Farlow requests that cars start to line up in front of the Canyon Cafe, headed east, and cars form in line immediately behind, making the line run across the north side of the square. When the service ends at the Hall, it is desired that cars owners be ready to take a load and joint the procession to the cemetery.

At the cemetery the following will be the program: Band selections.

Prayer—Rev. A. B. Haynes. Decoration of graves by American Legion and Auxiliary.

Salute—Firing Squad. Taps.

The following veterans of the Civil War are buried in Dreamland cemetery—O. P. Slack, Tom Foster, F. M. Lester, W. J. Redfearn, J. W. Cowart, T. V. Reeves, J. M. Vansant, J. W. Leonard, W. D. Patton, Mark Foster, R. M. Key, John Rusk, Mr. Farr, Mr. Cox.

It is requested that relatives who wish to decorate graves of their loved ones will please do it before or after the regular ceremony of the Legion and the Auxiliary.

Those who have flowers which they will donate to the Auxiliary will please phone Mrs. H. A. Brown.

It is urged that so far as possible all veterans of the Civil War, of the Spanish War, and of the World War appear in uniform for the Memorial services. Those who can appear in uniform are requested to phone the News office before Tuesday noon. If it is impossible to appear in uniform, the veterans are urged to come in civilian dress.

Those who will have their cars ready to haul veterans and members of their families to the Cemetery are urged to notify either Mr. Farlow or Mr. Condrey.

Mayor C. N. Harrison has issued a proclamation asking all-business in the city to suspend from ten to one o'clock.

The legislature has before it the proposition of raising about eight million more dollars to cover the appropriations just passed in excess of the visible revenues, or of recalling the appropriation bills and reducing them to this amount. There seems to be a strong disposition on the part of the leaders, or a portion of them at least, to do the latter. Every influence will be brought to bear by the special interests that the latter method be accepted. It is a queer way the legislature has of acting. The state has established a large number of institutions and if they are worthy of existence, they should be abolished. But the legislature leaves the support of these institutions until the very last item of appropriation, and if anything is to suffer, the existing institutions are to the ones cut short of appropriations. The educational bill is the last to be acted upon by the legislature. It should be the first, as there is nothing more important in Texas than education. The West Texas Tech, was created by the regular session, and with one of the largest, if not the largest appropriations ever given a college in Texas. The Tech was fortunate enough to be a new school. If it had been one of the old schools, it would have to get out and fight for its very existence. Its head will have to go to Austin two years hence and fight for enough money to pay his teachers, while at the same time the legislature will be called upon and will establish additional schools. The whole system is wrong and has been wrong for years. The existing institutions have a right for legitimate provision and if there is anything left in the treasury, then additional needs may be looked after.

There seems to be a disposition on the part of a few tax payers to doubt the necessity of a tax increase to meet the demands of the local schools. If these tax payers will stop for one moment and reflect, they shall be able to see for themselves that a tax increase is absolutely necessary and unavoidable in order to run the schools. The district assumed a new debt of $100,000 when the new high school building bonds were voted. There certainly were none of our voters who for one moment thought that any one was going to give the district $100,000. The bond issue meant simply that the district was borrowing the money, and would have to pay the interest every year, and repay a certain amount every year. Every voter knew that the district had no funds available to meet the increased expense of repaying this debt, as the schools have taken all of the available revenues year after year. The only logical and equitable way to meet the bond issue payment is to vote an increase of tax, and save the vast amount of trouble that would accompany the complete revision of our tax renditions if made necessary by a general increasing of valuations of all property valuations in order to meet this increased expense. Vote for the tax increase June 2nd.

Henry Ford is talking about starting a string of banks. He has only about two hundred million dollars in cash, and with such a small sum should be able to run a few banks for a little while. But the fact that Henry Ford is to become a banker, as well as many other things he is now engaged in, does not mean that the money sharks will all have to take to the tall uncut, or that money is going to grow on the lilac bushes. H. Ford has the habit of wanting to make money from his investments, just the same as any ordinary human, and his banks will probably loan money at no less interest or no easier terms than any of the present existing banks. Don't get over enthusiastic over Ford's banking expedition. Remember that he did not get the boys out of the trenches by Christmas, and that his railroad has not made money since the first six months.

Jesse Jones is an honored citizen of Houston, largely from the fact that he has had great faith in Houston, and has not been afraid to invest his time and money in Houston. He was given a banquet at Houston last week as an acknowledgment of the great work he had done for his home town. He made this statement: "You can't build a city without spending money." Some Canyon folks should take this advice to heart. There are some of our citizens who are afraid that the city is doing too much improving; that it is spending too much money to make this a better place in which to live. You never saw a live town that had a low tax rate; you never saw an up-to-date town without public improvements; and public improvements take money—the taxpayer's money. A town can, of course, spend a lot of money foolishly and extravagantly and wastefully, but real investments in the way of public improvements have in the long run have never cost cities one penny. They always more than pay for themselves.

The News regrets very much that it has become necessary to abandon the semi-monthly luncheons on account of the lack of attendance. No body of business men would long continue a losing game, and no body of business men can expect a hotel man to continue to prepare luncheons for those who will not come. The luncheon has been the place of starting many of the important accomplishments of Canyon during the past two years. Very little can be accomplished unless men are willing to come together and talk plans over. The luncheon was the best place for this planning. We trust that a sufficient number will soon pledge their regular support to the luncheon that it may be again resumed.

The city of Canyon is to be congratulated upon the work that is being done by its new city commission. The work of improvement is carrying out the program and policies of the past two years, when greater things have been accomplished in city building than any similar time in the past. More lights for our streets were needed, and are now to be installed by the Commission. With the white way started on the square, the city will demand one along the new paved streets within a short while.

At last the financiers of the east have come to the realization that the farm products must be profitable to the producer, or the country is doomed to a dire situation. The farmer has lost money on every crop during the past four years. With this realization of the big bankers, better times are certain for the producers. With better farm prices, the Southwest, especially the Panhandle-Plains, will be one of the first countries to make a rapid revival from the prevailing conditions of the past four years.

In passing the educational appropriation bill last week the legislature eliminated the very foolish provision of requiring every dollar to be spent for a specific purpose, or be returned to the state treasury. The law makers are to be congratulated upon the sanity shown in the provision of allowing a lump sum under four heads.

Those people living on the Denver railroad who are fighting the Santa Fe taking over the Denver know not where they speak or what they are doing. The Santa Fe is the greatest system on earth, and will give service to the people along the Denver far greater than the service they are now getting.

Fifty Iowa cities and towns, which formerly had municipal electric lighting plants, have abandoned them and are receiving current from privately owned companies, according to records compiled by the Iowa Committee on Public Utility Information.

There are 58 cities and towns which have municipally owned distributing systems, but which buy their current wholesale from the lines of privately owned companies, or from other towns which have municipal lighting plants. The number of towns abandoning unprofitable municipal ownership is steadily increasing, according to the statement of the committee.

TIDINESS

Some are born tidy, some acquire the habit of tidiness, and some are never tidy at all.

There is no doubt about the comfort of tidiness, in yourself and in others. It is pleasant to have your clothes neatly brushed, your shoes neatly blacked, your garments neatly hung, the contents of your bureau drawers neatly arranged in piles properly assorted, your letters and receipts neatly docketed and filed where you can lay your hands on them at a moment's notice.

There is also no doubt about the comfort of untidiness: to take the thing that comes nearest and wear it and use it and enjoy it, without worrying about where it comes from or where it goes to. Tidy people appear to the untidy—to live in a perpetual fret, to be always distressed because something is out of place. Now, if there is no place where a thing ought to be, evidently it cannot be out of its place, and there is no need for worry.

One of the tragedies of life is the conflict of the tidy and the untidy temperament. Two excellent persons marry, two delightful persons, two persons with many elements of sympathy, capable of augmenting each other's pleasure in life in many ways. But one has always been accustomed to neatness, to tidiness, to having a place for everything and keeping it there, and the other has not; hence arise irritating divergence and unnecessary wear and tear, and what might be a charming home is too often rendered miserable.

So far we have been speaking of external tidiness. There is a tidiness of the spirit also. Some souls live in a mist; grope, stumble, shiver and shudder in a haze of incompleteness and uncertainty. Others by instinct cultivate exactitude, definiteness, clarity; in other words, tidiness. The tidiness of the body is excellent. But the tidiness of the spirit is one of the largest and sweetest of virtues and tends to tranquillity and length of days.

PICNIC AND BARBECUE AT ADOBE WALLS ON JUNE 14 AND 15

Miami Chief: Plans have been perfected for the big picnic and barbecue which will be held on the battle grounds at Adobe Walls, June 14th and 15th.

Organizations of the Adobe Walls Highway No. 33-B and plans of procedure for the building of a bridge across the Canadian river at this point, are important subjects to be discussed at this time.

A fund to erect a monument to the memory of the twenty-eight men who successfully defeated one thousand Comanche Indians at this place on June 27, 1874, will be started.

Plans will be made also for holding of a big celebration next year on the fiftieth anniversary of this historic battle.

This celebration will be under the direct supervision of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society and will be state wide in interest.

A special effort will be made at the time to have present, Andrew Johnson of Dodge City, Kansas, and James Langton of Salt Lake City, Utah, the only survivors of the Adobe Walls battle.

In a recent speech made by the Governor of Texas at Austin, he expressed himself as being greatly interested in seeing all the battle grounds of the state properly marked. It is thought by some that the Governor will attend this meeting. Other state officials will be there.

The Santa Fe and the Car Supply for 1923

Everyone in Santa Fe territory is asking if we are going to have cars enough when the usual heavy business comes this year.

We hope to have them, but—

Our ability to furnish cars depends not only on our own efforts, but on the ability of all the roads in the United States to function properly. For three years the railroads have been struggling slowly forward. They are beginning to see daylight. Since January 1st, nearly 10% more cars of commercial freight have been handled than in the corresponding months of 1920, the record year. In the same months the car shortage has been reduced by one-half. These figures mean constructive effort by both shippers and carriers.

In this program the Santa Fe is—

Providing new engines and cars; enlarging its shops; building second track wherever congestion is liable; and enlarging its yards and other facilities. In addition it is making every effort to reduce its "bad order" cars and locomotives to less than the normal number, to get the greatest number of miles per day out of its cars, and to get as heavy loading per car as possible. If what we have set out to do can be accomplished all over the country, the question of the car supply is solved, but to reach that goal the shippers must help.

We therefore ask all Shippers to—

Load promptly and to capacity of the car whenever practicable;
Unload without delay;
Ship early in the season for road and building construction and for coal storage and like purposes;
Increase storage facilities;
Order only the number of cars that can be loaded daily; and Avoid shipping under "to order bills of lading" and reconsignments as far as possible.

President Hill Returns to Austin to Meet Educators

Before leaving for Austin Friday afternoon where he will be in conference concerning the budgets for the educational institutions of the state, President J. A. Hill had this to say with reference to the work that has been done at Austin:

"There are many encouraging and discouraging features to the present situation. The departure from the practice of itemizing the budget will give school administrators some latitude in the administration of the school affairs. It is impossible for school heads themselves, much less the legislature, to forecast the expense in each and every item of school expenditures for two years ahead. The lump-sum appropriation will relieve us of this handicap.

"It is to be regretted that the legislature found it impossible to allow any increase expenditures for the next biennium. For example the salary scale allowed the West Texas State Teachers College is no larger than the sum expended for the same purpose the current year. Yet we have an increase of 30 per cent in attendance this year over that of last year. Should the school continue to grow at its present rate, it will be impossible to take care of an adequate instruction staff for the next two years.

"It is also regretted that there will be no building during this period. Class rooms, offices, laboratories and the library are now carrying their maximum load. With a normal increase in attendance for the next biennium we should be compelled to provide temporary quarters for the overflow or restrict the number in attendance.

"It is to be hoped however, that there will be such readjustment of our tax system as will bring in adequate revenues without increasing the tax load on those who are now paying their just share."

Former "Y" Secretary an Author

Ceremonials of Common Days
By Abbie Graham

Miss Abbie Graham, formerly Y. W. C. A. Secretary at the West Texas State Normal College, is the author of a recent book entitled "Ceremonials of Common Days." This little book is published by the Woman's Press of New York City, and it sells for $1.00 a copy. It is a small book, but it contains a wise philosophy of life. In a number of beautiful passages she sheds the glory of the spiritual about the walks of everyday life.

Since leaving the West Texas State Normal College Miss Graham has been at Alice, Texas, where she has done much work in connection with various newspapers. She has also done some graduate work at Columbia University, and she expects to return to this institution in the fall to pursue further her work in journalism.

CEREMONIALS OF COMMON DAYS
By Abbie Graham

Recently there came to my desk a little book whose author I happened to know personally. This book bore the unassuming title of "Ceremonials of Common Days." At first I wondered what it could all be about,—we are so prone to overlook the value of seemingly common things! But as I glanced over its pages, I came upon many pregnant sentences like the following:

"Another in this same category I recommend, highly. 'When in small towns to use my mouth for purposes of food and ventilation only.' " "To be bored is a mark of intellectual laziness, a lack of spiritual comprehension."

"The Easter season is pre-eminently the season of faith in the eternal." "I may find it necessary to ascend to the upper strata of theatres in order to witness certain dramatic presentations; but wherever life is, I purpose obtaining a box seat."

"Solitude is the divine right of every traveler." Then I came to that beautiful "Prayer on a Night Train," and I said to myself: "Miss Graham has invested the commonplace with a beautiful, ethereal spirit."

What could be more eloquent of a heart in love with life's spiritual values than: "In the silences of this journey may the unworded cries of human need be heard and answered?"

Next, I sat with the author around the autumn fireside, radiant with all the treasures which her heart had gathered from spring, summer, and autumn for its winter feast: "In flaming magic the histories of forgotten hours are reproduced. As the fire burns, the illuminated pageant sweeps on. My newly-acquired possessions must pass in spiritual review; the worthiness of investment must be tested."

And, lastly, I came to the heart of this little book, that short chapter revealing in poetic prose the spiritual values of the Ceremonials of Common Days: "When the kingdoms of the world have passed before me, I close my eyes that I may perceive that mightier kingdom, the kingdom of the spirit. I re-see people in terms of spiritual values."

"I see human forms and all of the material creation as scaffolding for the spirit. When the human spirit is ready to be launched on the infinite seas, the scaffolding will be thrown aside and the spirit will slip out to sea, unencumbered, yet grateful it will be for the things of the earth that prepared it for its long voyage. All things will be hallowed that helped to shape it for the eternal launching."

And I closed the little book with the wish that every boy and every girl might read it again and again until its spiritual message had taken deep root in their hearts and life.

FACT AND COMMENT

A crossing flagman in Ohio has quit his job because it was too much for his nerves. "Wild automobile drivers smash through gates as if they were meant to be broken down," he complains, "and the flagman himself has to be spry to avoid being hit."

The French aviator who in January remained aloft more than eight hours and a half in an aeroplane with the motor stopped recently took the air in a glider propelled by a seven-horse-power motor and flew and landed without the aid of a wind. The motorized glider that he used can make more than a hundred miles on a gallon of gasoline.

German housemaids continue to flock to any country where there is a chance for them to make a living. Holland is said to be overrun with them. A German steamer recently docked at New York with one hundred and thirty-five aboard. The girls, most of whom say they are good cooks, were willing to work for wages below the ordinary rate.

Many deaf persons seem to be able more or less distinctly to hear sounds that reach them by wireless, so that some who have always been deaf now enjoy music for the first time. Specialists are puzzled to explain why some deaf people are receptive to radio waves and others are not, but it is said that about eighty per cent of the deaf can hear radio-borne sounds to some extent.

Some day the cactus may prove to be one of our most useful plants. Its value as a water reservoir has long been appreciated; lately it was found suitable for ensilage. Now come two other uses. In South Africa a man has found a way of converting the prickly pear into industrial alcohol, and an experimenter in Cuba asserts that he can make a superior quality of rubber from the juice of a certain kind of cactus.

The Swedish city of Gothenburg, which is to have a tercentennial exhibition this summer, plans to use the old ocean liner La Touraine as a floating hotel to accommodate its visitors. The vessel will be anchored close to the shore and connected with it by a pontoon bridge. The hotel facilities aboard such a ship compare favorably with any to be obtained on land. Some enterprising hotel manager in America should make a similar experiment while ships can be had almost for the asking.

The success of Cullion, the leper island of the Philippines, is cited as an example of what effective organization and the remedial use of chaulmoogra oil can accomplish in bettering the condition of lepers. At Cullion the lepers carry on most of the activities of modern city life and run their own electric light plant, refrigerating plant and sawmill. Artisans work at their trades, storekeepers have their shops, and there are governmental organization and a police system similar to those of an American town.

A few of the more important advantages that advocates claim for motor busses over trolley cars are: Passengers when boarding or leaving the busses are less liable to be run down by the regular street traffic because the busses stop at the curb; other street traffic is not held up while passengers are getting on or off; the noise of flat wheels is eliminated; the network of wires and the costly extensions of trackage are unnecessary; busses can give short-cut service between factory and residential districts for workmen at rush hours and so avoid transferring large masses of rush hour riders at down town points; they can give immediate service on new lines when there is a demand for it and thus show quickly whether a new line is necessary.

The things that people intend to do when they get the time never help them up the ladder of success.—The Houstonian.

The farm of Ellisland near Dumfries, where Burns wrote "Scots Wha Hae" and "Tam o' Shanter," and many other poems, has been given to the Scottish nation by the terms of the will of the recent owner, a gentleman of Edinburgh. It is now possible to ship milk several hundred miles without having it spoil. The old-fashioned milk can has given way to huge glass-lined tanks similar to the familiar vacuum bottle. These tanks are mounted on trucks and are insulated from the heat by the use of cork packing. Less than two gallons of milk stick to the sides of these 5,000-gallon tanks. Milk has been handled in these tanks over distances of more than 100 miles with a rise of less than two degrees in temperature on hot summer nights when the outside atmospheric temperature stood at 88 degrees.

HOME

(A Short Story by John Randolph)
Trudging off over the pasture, always keeping the barn between himself and the house, was the khaki clad figure of a boy. He walked with a quick determined step. He glanced back over his shoulder at frequent intervals. His right coat pocket was bulging with two hastily made sandwiches. His purpose was evident.

Yes, home was no place for a boy of eleven, especially when his mother wouldn't let him go to see that little blue-eyed Downs girl that lived just one mile down the road. Then his mother insisted on washing his ears every morning—and how she could hurt,—made him wear shoes in the summer time, and put a tall stiff collar on him on Sundays.

With such grievances going through his head, the boy reached the crest of a small hill. He had been walking fast, so paused and leaned against a tree to rest and gain his breath. He would then go over the hill, across the fields, and out into the world where he would seek his fortune, be free to do as he wished, wear the clothes that suited him best, and go to see the girl he loved. They would miss him from that home he had just left, resolving never to look upon it again.

As he still leaned against the tree, a bright orange colored automobile caught his eye. His gaze instinctively followed it as it glided down the road, stirring up a great cloud of dust, that led past his home. His eyes still followed it till he had to turn to keep it in view. But, there. He had caught a glimpse of that house he had so solemnly resolved to keep from his view forever.

But now that he had seen it, why not take just one more good look and leave it? The car was now forgotten. Yes, that would be the logical thing to do, so he looked.

My! He never knew it was such a pretty place before. There was the red roof reflecting the sun—for the sun was still high in the heavens. The white walls were also carrying a reflection of the sun. The house was only one story high. He could remember when his father and mother had planned it.

That window on the east side was the window of his room, as they had planned it to be. The sash was up, and the immaculately white curtains were flying out in the wind, as he had left it. He had climbed out there many times clandestinely to join the boy gang.

The porch on the north was shaded with vines. Through these vines he could see the porch swing gently swaying back and forth in the breeze as if it were enjoying its solitude, though he was not.

The windmill turned lazily, pumping a clear stream of water, though he could not see it he knew it was there, into the old rotting barrel. From this barrel he had carried many buckets of water so his mother could start a meal.

This reminded him it was getting late. Yes, there was a thin blue column of smoke rising from the chimney. His mother was starting supper; but he would not be there to eat any of it. He would not be at the family table. He had no home. There was a sinking feeling in his stomach as if a malignant cancer were eating it away.

His thoughts were carried to the evening chores. It would soon be time to go for the milk cows, if he had not left home.

His eyes strayed to the little unpainted shed at the rear of the house that served as a barn. It had an old rail fence, or corral, surrounding it. In this corral, standing in the shade of the barn, head down, was an old white horse.

Poor old White-Man. He had been a good horse; but was now old and stiff. He was even older than the boy that was now watching him with moistened eyes. White-Man had also been a gentle horse, and it was upon him that the boy had learned to ride. They had been constant companions; but now they were to part forever.

A big round drop found its way from under a quivering eye lid. There was a stiffening of the jaw muscles as the stern resolution was made, "I will not leave White-Man behind." With this thought in mind the boy retraced his steps, being careful to keep out of sight of the house.

When he reached the barn he came to the awful realization that White-Man's bridle was at the house. He soliloquized for a moment and decided to let nothing rebuke his plans. Therefore he went to the house, ostensibly to see if his mother wanted some water; but in reality to get the desired bridle. He reached the kitchen door safely; but was suddenly startled by his mother bursting from it, water bucket in hand. She grabbed him and kissed him.

"Gee, I wonder if she knew I was gone already?" he thought.

"Run get me a bucket of water, quick son. Daddy has bought us that big orange Buick we've been casing him for for so long. As soon as we get supper over we'll drive over to Downs' place and show off."

He needed no second invitation to hurry, but ran to the well, bucket in hand, and as he sank it into the clear sparkling water he thought, "Mom, ain't such a bad scout after all." He carried the water to the house, grabbed the bridle, and ran to the barn. He caught old White-Man, saddled him, mounted and rode off. He did not ride in the direction of the hill, where he had just been leaning against the tree; but off in another direction where the milk cows always grazed. As he settled into the rhythmic motion of White-Man's lope he sang, "Gee! Ain't it grand to be home again?"

The onrush of water from a torrential downpour awakened a Negro farm hand near Durant, Mississippi. Leaping from his bed he found a section of the Illinois Central track washed out. He procured a lantern and speeding down the track he flagged the New Orleans-Memphis-Chicago fast passenger train, probably saving the lives of many passengers, as the train was rushing through the night at the rate of 50 miles an hour. Efforts are being made to obtain a Carnegie hero medal for the Negro.

One of the strangest considerations ever written in a deed is contained in a document recently recorded in LaPorte, Indiana, by Stella Ciszewski and Adam Janowski. For a consideration of $1 and "a promise of marriage" Mrs. Ciszewski has transferred a town lot to her fiancé.

A 15-year-old boy of London, England, went into a cage of lions to earn money to pay for an operation on his younger sister. He won the prize of $250 but the surgeon would not take it so the boy turned the cash over to his little sister.

Said Clerk shall append to the said copy of this resolution his signature and certificate that the same is a true copy, and the publication of such copy shall be sufficient notice to said owners, or other interested persons, to appear and be heard at the time and place herein mentioned.

That the City Clerk shall mail to each of the said owners of abutting property, at their Postoffice address, if known, or, if unknown, to their agents or attorneys, a copy of this resolution by registered mail deposited in the Postoffice at Canyon, Texas, not less than ten days before the date set for said hearing, but such notice shall be cumulative of the notice above required by publication, and the failure to mail said letters, or any of them, or the failure of the person to whom addressed to receive the same, shall in no wise affect the validity of said notice.

THANKS WHERE THANKS ARE DUE

Last Friday morning THE SILHOUETTE was submitted to our subscribers for your consideration. We do not know how you have accepted it and we fear to learn—dread lest your verdict be one of disapproval.

Whether the book is a failure or not we are greatly indebted to the people of Canyon for your kindly consideration, co-operation and aid. Experience has shown that no matter how efficient the people in charge of an annual may be, they are powerless unless they have the support of the real producers of annuals—the public. We have enjoyed this support to the fullest and our gratitude is boundless. We are sorry that the money was not ours which would have enabled us to have produced a year-book that would have met your fullest approval. Our sole consolation is the hope that we have started a worthy project which shall live and develop as wonderfully as our school and country.

To the advertisers we are indebted for the financial success of the book in a large measure. We have tried, in turn, to give you as attractive and as good advertising as was in our power as an annual staff. We implore our friends to remember these advertisers with a greater volume of your business—they are the real builders of Canyon and they deserve it.

To the Parent-Teacher Association we repeat our thanks. If it had not been for your kind encouragement and financial aid, it is very likely that THE SILHOUETTE'S financial statement would show a considerable debt instead of the surplus it does show. We thank you most sincerely as your sons and daughters and as students of Canyon's High School and implore you to continue your beneficial influence.

And to every one else—and that includes every one else—we extend our gratitude for your help—gratitude that is deeper than you know. So you see, dear friends, it is not the annual staff that puts out an annual. They may do their best and plan and work, but all their plans are spoiled and all their energy is wasted unless the Staff assistants include every person who is in any way concerned with Canyon High School and her students.

Whether good or bad, THE SILHOUETTE has a start. Improve it! Make it beautiful, imaginative, artistic, colorful—something you can truly treasure; and let us who have been exposed to annual building leave this last admonition—the ideal of the good year-book is the same everywhere, in all lands and in all ages—to preserve for the future things of the past that were joyous and things that were beautiful and ideals that came into the lives of the students and shaped them for the big game that is the future—and, through the imaginative screen of your colorful plans don't lose sight of the fact that a n annual staff is a group functioning merely for your student body—to assimilate and edit the annual they prepare.

Most sincerely,
THE SILHOUETTE STAFF, 1933.

Carrying Level

BY B. F. ERONABARGER

When a mere youth, unsettled, and far from strong, I was sent to help a neighbor roll logs. As I was leaving the room where my father lay stricken with lumbago, he said, "Do your part, son, I want Mr. Rush to know that, though I had to send just a boy, I sent one that would not shirk." I went away with a springing step and joyous heart. I would not fail my old dad.

In the gathering shadows of that eventful day, I came in home with dragging steps but joyous heart still. I was conscious of having done my part.

I had learned some lessons of great value on that day—lessons I have ever carried in my heart in my dealings with my fellows.

We had taken our places on either side of a great log. Our hand-sticks had been worked under and there, four on the side, we stood stooped and ready to lift. The foreman spoke, "Boys, we have about all we can carry this time. When I give the word, all lift together, and when we are straight, move off together and carry level." It was my first great team lifting and carrying. I shall never forget that experience. I had all I could carry. I could hardly get my feet off the ground. I had to slide them along. All at once I felt the stick jerk. My fingers slipped. I threw my knee under and caught a new grip. I saw that every man had felt the jar, but most, doubtless thought someone had made a mistake, but I knew that the man at the other end of my stick had purposely jerked the stick—I looked imploringly at him. He only grinned. We were now almost at the log-heap. Could I ever make it? Again my stick jerked. My poor grip was almost gone anyway. Again my knee enabled me to get a new hold. One of the men who had seen the young fellow do the jerking said, "Do that again and I'll lick you when we lay this log down."

When we had put the log in place, the foreman turned to us and said, "Men, we are here to roll logs. My instructions were to lift and carry level. We are not here to pull each other down, but to work together in such a way that the best work may be done. Working to each other's advantage we can do much more work and with much greater ease than we could otherwise."

It was a great lesson to me. I delight in team work which has a worthy task, and where all of the team lift together and each man carries level. It is a mean spirit that makes a man jerk the hand-stick.—Baptist Standard.
