HICO, TEXAS, FRIDAY, MAY 30, 1930

NUMBER 52

Here In HICO

Very few people, we venture to say, ever notice the volume and issue number carried on the front page of the News Review each week. Nevertheless it is a very important feature of the paper, and those who are interested in such things may notice that this week's paper is Number 52 of Volume 45. In plain language this means that the forty-fifth year of this institution's history is being rounded out this week. We do not have the exact figures at hand, but if the records are correct, Hico's home paper started just forty-five years ago this week, which is a long time ago.

During these forty-five years, there have been many changes in the geography of the town and section—many improvements, several near-calamities and some few periods of excitement. It would be indeed interesting, were it possible, to follow the town's history through the pages of a consecutive file of weekly editions. There are those now living and taking the paper who read the first copy of the News Review. Several of our subscribers have told us that they have never missed an issue of their home paper. During the time of their life they have seen the chronicles of many things that now would be better reading than fiction, carrying the added attraction of being the truth as nearly as it could be obtained.

Others now living here would find the announcement of their birth, accounts of parties they attended as kids, news of their doings while at school and the highlights of their social career. Time lends enchantment to such reading as this, and while some of the articles would be amusing, others would be sad indeed, bringing back memories of deaths in the family, catastrophes and accidents with which they were concerned and countless things relating to both the sad and the bright side of life and concerning which time has dulled their memory to some extent but which would become more vivid through reading again the original account as it appeared in these columns.

There have been many editors in Hico during this period of nearly half a century. Many printers have toiled through the day and on in the night in many instances in order that they might keep the home paper up in a class with the best. Some ownerships we are sure were unpopular, and political differences have probably been aired through the columns of Hico's newspaper, as well as countless personal affairs and propaganda of a sort that sometimes is considered worthy of a place in their publications by some newspaper folks. On the other hand, there have doubtless been men connected with the paper who are far more capable than the average, some of whom have stepped to other fields, and others whom we say that these conditions have existed without having checked up on the history of the management, but we would be willing to bet our last dollar on the correctness of our surmises.

Whatever has gone before, we are also willing to risk our reputation for veracity and accuracy in the statement that the home newspaper has always stood up for Hico to the last ditch and then jumped that ditch and continued to stand for the principles that the management considered right. We know that this has been the case, for the respect in which the paper is held today indicates that this has been its course. No business or institution could have weathered the storms encountered in that period and come out whole unless the intentions and practice of the men at the helm were worthy.

Subscribers and advertisers have been indeed loyal in the past. We know they have, for had they not they would not have a newspaper today. There may have been times when some of them have thought they were just "donating" to help a good cause along, sometimes they may have felt as though they had been "gypped" out of some good hard cash. We hope these instances have been few, and suppose they have, for we have heard no echoes from same. But we have heard some mighty pleasing compliments on the News Review, and know that the management in the past must have been just about as honest and honorable at least as an average, indications being that Hico has up to this year been favored with a good share of journalistic and business aptness in her editors. Since that time, when the present writer took charge, we are making no comments and issuing no charges against same.

We do want to say, however, that we realize the responsibility

Duffau Feeds Her Visitors On Hand For Close of School

We have always heard that the closing of schools around in this part of the country should not be overlooked by those liking to mix with good people and partake of their hospitality. The truth of this statement came to light on Wednesday of this week when the News Review editor, wife and baby daughter accepted an invitation to be on hand at the closing of school at Duffau.

Almost every one from this section of the country must have been on hand, judging from the crowd. But the Duffau folks were equal to the occasion, and had more than enough to feed all who came. The quality was superb, and speaks well for the cooks of the Duffau community who had prepared the feast.

The Hico Band was present for the occasion, and before lunch rendered several musical numbers. Immediately afterward the dinner call was heard, and needless to say heeded by all present. Bro. Barnett of Stephenville returned thanks for the bounteous feast, after which all began to help themselves.

This year's graduating class at Duffau High School consisted of five members: Marie Ann Golligherty, Emmett Smart, Nancy Mae Campbell, Jessie Robertson and Bessie Bowie.

The baccalaureate sermon for this class was preached at 3 p. m. last Sunday afternoon by Rev. Andrews, pastor of the First Baptist Church at Stephenville.

Commencement exercises were held Wednesday night. Mr. Neal Gerald, head of the department of agriculture at John Tarleton College delivered a very able address, and diplomas were presented to the class.

A very successful school year was reported, under the leadership of Mr. E. S. Tunnell, the superintendent. His daughter, Miss Amoret Tunnell, is principal, and these are assisted by the following teachers: Mrs. Jessie Russell Stewart, Miss Syble Trimble and Miss Gladys Latham. All of the above have been reelected to serve next year except Miss Trimble, who has accepted a position as teacher at Leon Valley.

Plans for the summer are complete, all the teachers having announced their intention of attending school. Miss Tunnell will go to Texas Tech, Miss Trimble to State Teachers College at Denton, and Misses Latham and Stewart to John Tarleton at Stephenville.

Thanks were expressed to members of Hico Band for their music, and Director Knott replied by stating that he felt more than paid for their time. All were invited back again next year, and we have not heard one who was present say anything but that he or she would certainly be there.

Attendance Light At Last Meeting of Hico Lions Club

Due to school closing exercises at Fairy and accompanying guests, several members of the Hico Lions Club were absent from the last regular meeting of the club in order to be on hand at Fairy. A representative number was present, however, and a good program was enjoyed.

Winding up of matters pertaining to the census took most of the time, and it was voted by the club to accept the figures as they now stand, a considerable increase over the preliminary figures having been received. It was moved and seconded and the motion passed that the census committee confer with Mr. Burdette, check the figures for the last time, and then be automatically discharged.

The meeting this week being the time for election of officers for the coming year, a nominating committee was appointed by the President, H. E. Sellers, to select a list of candidates to be voted on for the various officers. H. C. Sadler, J. W. Richbourg and Jack Leeth compose this committee, and they are to report at today's meeting, at which time officers will be elected or rejected as the case may be.

It is hoped to have every member present at the Midland Hotel today (Friday) for there is much important business to come before the club.

vested in us as publishers of the local paper. We can have no better paper than the people want us to have. We can run a paper that does not appeal to the common interests for a time, but if we hope to preserve the good reputation of our brain-child, we will have to at least measure up to the reputation established in the past. We have no pattern by which to work except the ideals and conclusions that have come through considerable experience in the game. We do have a desire to have just as good a paper in every way as it is possible to publish in a town of this size. And to that end we solicit a continuance of that cooperation and faith that has been so evident in the past.

Cow Day Brings Good Crowds to Hico Wednesday

Farmers have been busy for the past few days, and a large number of them were unable to attend the regular monthly Cow Day celebration in Hico Wednesday of this week, but a good crowd was on hand regardless. Many of those who were unable to attend sent their wives and children, and others managed to slip off for a little while in the afternoon.

Jeff D. Patterson bought the fine bull from the Hico Lions Club as the special figure which they are offering these animals for sale and got a fine buy.

Special attractions featured this month's celebration, which will be continued in the future, according to announcements by the merchants participating. Many visitors were made happy through the generosity of Hico merchants, and all announced their intention to remember Hico when making their purchases, believing that they would find it to their advantage.

Hico Band And Citizens Attend Fairy School Closing

The Hico Band and quite a number of citizens were present at the school closing exercises at Fairy on Friday of last week. This is an annual affair at that place, and Hico folks are reported as having a standing invitation to be on hand.

Visitors were present from all over the county, and several of the candidates were there to mix with the people, some of them presenting their candidacy through speeches.

Fairy has had a very successful school year, and all commencement exercises were over with after last Friday night, at which time the diplomas were delivered to the class and the usual exercises attended.

At the noon-day luncheon, many of the Hico folks have reported that there was enough food on hand to take care of a crowd at least twice as large—and there were plenty of people on hand, too. The visitors and hand members ate to their fill, and express their appreciation for the opportunity of being present for the occasion. A most pleasant day was enjoyed by all, associating with each other and the dinner was especially enjoyable. Mayor J. C. Barrow of Hico made a short talk, along with other speeches by others present.

Bridge Tournament Last Saturday Was An Immense Success

The annual bridge tournament, sponsored by the Hico Review Club, was held last Saturday afternoon at the Bluebonnet Country Club house when Mrs. Lusk Rands, Mrs. Earl Lynch, Mrs. Frank Mingus, Mrs. C. L. Woodward, Mrs. Edgar Persons, Mrs. H. E. McCullough and Mrs. E. S. Jackson were hostesses.

The spacious living room was invitingly decorated with a theme of pink and white, summer blossoms of these and other hues lending their charm for all details.

Seventeen tables were arranged for bridge and two tables for forty-two.

Following bridge, high score favor, an ice tub with tongs was awarded Miss Margaret Bass of Walnut Springs. Low in bridge went to Mrs. Stella Livingston of Hamilton, who was presented with a waste paper basket. Mrs. Avery Petty of Abilene, won the cut favor, a mayonnaise dish. Mrs. Crow of Meridian was fortunate in winning high score in forty-two, and also received an ice tub with tongs and a waste paper basket went to Mrs. Lusk Rands or low in forty-two.

Out of town guests were present from Meridian, Hamilton, Walnut Springs and Dublin.

Pink brick ice cream with cake were served.

Funeral services were held Monday in San Antonio for Jimmy Lawrence, 34, automobile racing driver, who was killed Sunday when his machine plunged through the inside rail at the San Saba race track and his body was thrown into a tree.

Hico High School Graduating Class Receives Diplomas

Final exercises for the graduating class of 1930 were held at Hico High School Friday night, May 23, at 8 o'clock in the auditorium.

The class consisted of nineteen members, fifteen girls and four boys: Hester Jordan, Mildred Persons, Madge Connally, Gertrude Connally, Lillie Mae Adkison, Mabel Nix, Marguerite McMillan, Opal Hunter, Mary Evans, Lois Morgan, Grace Owen, Christine Petty, Janice Homer, Jonnie Copeland, Corinne Christopher, S. J. Cheek, Leon Rainwater, Wauwic Ogle and Harold Boone.

The class motto was "Tonight we launch, where shall we land?" Class flower was the sweet pea; colors were rose and silver.

A large and interested crowd of people were on hand to witness the program for the occasion. The exercises started with the processsional by the Senior Class, after which the invocation was heard from Rev. A. C. Haynes. Miss Mildred Persons delivered the Salutatory Address, followed by music, "Voice in the Woods," by the Senior Class.

Miss Hester Jordan, valedictorian of the class, then gave the Valedictory Address. Leon Rainwater and the Class introduced the recently adopted state song, "Texas, Our Texas" by Wright and Marsh.

Mr. Masterson, Superintendent of Hico Public Schools, presented the seventh grade diplomas, and introduced Hon. Tom L. Robinson of Gatesville, who delivered the address to the graduates. His talk was timely and was enjoyed by the audience as well as the graduates.

After presentation of scholarships and diplomas by Mr. Masterson, the benediction was said by Rev. Clarence Allen Morton. Music was furnished by Miss Ardis Cole.

Good Progress In Drilling Is Reported At Martin Well

The oil well being drilled on the Martin farm by R. C. Payne of Breckenridge is reported progressing nicely this week, a depth of between 450 and 500 feet having been reached. Drilling was resumed Wednesday after a temporary shutdown since Sunday due to the breaking of a belt.

Mr. Payne is an experienced oil well driller, and has a good reputation among those with whom he has had dealings. He stated that he was going down with the present location to a depth of 3,000 feet, unless oil or gas in paying quantities should be encountered before that depth was reached. This is the twentieth well he has put down, having completed all of the previous nineteen to the contracted depth, and he is very optimistic over the outlook at the Martin well. Every precaution is being taken to safeguard against losing tools in the well, which has caused trouble in previous tests, and Mr. Payne said he was playing safe all the way through.

Small Egg Brings Visitors To Office To Show Sample

The White Leghorns are getting jealous of their reputation, it seems, since we have been having so much to say about eggs received at the News Review office that were laid by Rhode Island Reds. Monday M. Hunter and son, Melven brought us an egg laid by a member of the White forces, and asked us to pass judgment on it. This sample was perfectly white, beautifully shaped, and about the size of an oblong pecan. It was not quite as small as the one brought in last week by Mr. Ross, but was enough of an oddity to qualify as a curiosity.

We enjoyed the visit of Mr. Hunter and his son, the boy taking a liking to the machinery he found in the office and spending a little time looking around. His dad is used to machinery, having worked at the Fewell Repair Shop until a few weeks ago, since which time he has been ill. However he admitted that there were lots of strange looking devices in a newspaper office.

Returns From Short Trip Satisfied Hico Is An Ideal Town

J. T. Collier returned Tuesday night from Stephenville, where he had been for a few days closing up some business. He dropped by the News Review office to tell us he was back in town, and we had quite a nice visit from him before he left.

Mr. Collier is convinced that Hico is the best town in Texas to live in. He has been at various times located at other places, but says he has yet to see a place as good to do business in and make a home. His associations have covered a large part of the state, and Mr. Collier says that at the present time business is better in Hico than in other sections. People are better able to take care of their obligations, and farmers are in better financial shape than the average, according to him.

Mr. Collier started in business at Itasca about two-score years ago, putting in the first stock of goods in that town. He called many names that were familiar to the writer, we having lived there for a period of years, and told us much about Itasca's history.

Aside from a trip to Glen Rose which he has planned for this summer, and perhaps some short business trips, Mr. Collier says he expects to spend the rest of his life in the town he thinks so highly of.

Small Goldfish Brought to Office Now On Display

This week we have gold fish in our office. Joe and Carl Moss, sons of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Moss, brought us two midget fish Wednesday afternoon for a sample of what they are raising at the fish hatchery at their home, 6 miles out on the Carlton road.

These boys got the first of their fish at the Comanche hatchery, and get lots of amusement out of working at their own little hatchery.

The specimens they brought us were about the size of a grain of wheat, and it seems impossible to think that they are really fish. But upon watching them for awhile one sees that they are very active, and swim around quite lively. One of them seems a little lazy or tired or backward or something else like that, and doesn't take much interest in what is going on around him, but we still have hopes for him.

THIS IS A FISH STORY, BUT IT IS A TRUE ONE

Mr. and Mrs. Will Hardy and Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Johnson went fishing the first of the week on the Bosque River, at the farm of Dr. V. Hawes, about 3 miles east of Hico, and were lucky in catching about 25 pounds of fish, the largest of which weighed fourteen and a half pounds, with others ranging from that size downward. The largest one was landed with a hook by Mr. Hardy while he was fishing in a boat.

Esteemed Hico Lady Passes Away Early Wednesday Morn

Succumbing to the effects of a troublesome malady, which seemed for a time to have been relieved by a recent operation, Mrs. D. L. Cox died Wednesday morning at the Stephenville Hospital, having reached the hospital only a short time prior to her death.

Several weeks ago she had undergone a major operation at a hospital in Abilene, and after being able to leave there she went to the home of her daughter in Abilene where she recuperated and rested up sufficiently to return home again. She had been feeling fine and was in town Monday afternoon mingling with friends who were delighted to see her apparently doing so well.

Tuesday morning she was not feeling well and her condition grew serious that night. Besides local physicians, Dr. Terrell of Stephenville was called and immediately upon his arrival urged them to rush her to a hospital as quickly as possible. She lived only thirty minutes after reaching the hospital.

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at the Fairy Baptist Church at Fairy by the Rev. A. C. Haynes, pastor of the Hico Methodist Church, assisted by the Order of Eastern Star. Interment was made in the Fairy cemetery. A host of sorrowing relatives and friends were present to pay their last respects to the memory of this good woman.

Mrs. Cox was born July 27, 1862 in Tennessee. She was Miss Laura A. Quinn until her marriage to D. L. Cox July 15, 1876, at Benton, Tennessee. To this union six children were born, but only two survive, namely: Price Cox of Hico and Mrs. L. D. Sitton of Abilene. Those preceding her in death were Arthur and Fred Cox, Fannie (Cox) Greer and Laura Cox.

Besides the husband, the two children named above, three sisters and two brothers survive: Mrs. Ida Mitchell of Iredell; Helen Quinn of Hico; Mrs. C. C. Cox of Almodora, N. M.; Mark Quinn of Haskell and H. P. Quinn of Blue Ridge.

Mrs. Cox has been a member of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church for many years and a very faithful member of the Order of the Eastern Star. Having lived at Hico for a number of years, she was well known and loved by all who knew her. Her life was forever cherished and the influence of the true Christian life she lived will be an inspiration to all.

P-T Association Shows Good Report For the Past Term

The Hico Parent-Teachers Association met on its regular meeting day last Tuesday, May 20th. This being the last meeting of this term new officers were elected as follows:

President, Mrs. P. G. Hayes. First Vice-President, Mrs. S. E. Blair. Second Vice-President, Mrs. C. G. Masterson. Third Vice-President, Mrs. E. S. Jackson. Secretary, Miss Alline Ellis. Treasurer, Mrs. Will Petty. Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. F. S. Latham.

The corresponding secretary had the following to say about the work:

"The reports of the past term show a very successful year. There has been quite a bit of work done by this organization this past year and we have a neat balance to start on another year. There will have to be a lot accomplished next year to beat the past year for we only had good will to start on and not a good balance.

"We feel sure that there will be more interest shown another year by the parents. We know each and every parent intends to send their dues in next September and help that much. But listen: Your presence at these meetings is earnestly desired for we need you to help plan and carry out the little things that make and keep our school good.

There isn't a parent in Texas that would sit idly by and see the schools their beloved children attend be surpassed by other schools. We want our children to have every advantage possible. And the Parent-Teachers Association is just for that cause or purpose. It isn't just to make a pretty school room to attract the children. It is to promote and provide the new things that we don't have in our school. It is to build our town, in other words, for what kind of a town would you have if you didn't have a good school? You wouldn't have much of a town for everybody wants their children to spend their school days in good schools, and for that reason leave your town and go where there are good schools.

"So folks, we have a good school and a good town. Let's all cooperate with the P-T. A. and make them both better. The P-T. A. has outlined wonderful plans for another year. Let's all help carry out these plans."

Keeping Up With TEXAS

Dr. Clarence Moore, 60, practicing physician at St. Jo, twenty miles west of Gainsville, was found in a pasture five miles north of that town Sunday afternoon by a searching party of fifty citizens after an all-day hunt. He was in a nearly exhausted condition and complained of an injury to his right hand which he said was caused by a snake bite. His right arm was partially paralyzed and his face was swollen.

Enroute to Waco to attend the funeral of her father, J. T. Tyler, Mrs. John W. Milton of Bastrop, was killed Sunday morning when the car in which she was riding turned over on the highway below Austin. Her husband, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Bastrop, and their nine-year-old son, Joseph, were both injured.

The San Angelo De Molay Band and Drum and Bugle Corps will lead a parade of the San Angelo delegation through the streets of Abilene today, May 30, during the second day of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention, according to plans announced by Pat Jarrett, chairman of the parade committee. The band and bugle corps will be under the direction of Harold Broome.

Luther Baker of San Antonio, who has been visiting his father, Newton Baker, west of Burnett, while out in the pasture viewing the scenes of his boyhood, discovered a cave which proved to be almost a menagerie. Dwelling peacefully therein he found two king snakes, two bull snakes, a green snake, a bullfrog and a house cat mothering the kittens of a wildcat. Evidently they had resorted to the cave for protection from the severest winter probably ever known in this county.

Eagle Pass garagemen are hoping the rattlesnake family does not follow the lead of one of its members in the matter of automobile riding. A tourist drove into a garage at Eagle Pass and wanted his car greased. A worker crawled underneath and started shooting the grease. He was routed by the protestation of a huge rattler, coiled around an axle, which evidently was having a good time until it got mixed up with grease. Work was halted until the snake was killed.

Twelve young ladies and thirteen young men were graduated from the Masonic Home and School of Texas last Monday. It was the largest class of graduates ever leaving the institution in any one year since it was established by the Masons of Texas. The Masonic Home Band and Orchestra rendered a number of selections and the honors seemed to go to the girls' orchestra.

Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde delivered the dedicatory address at the presentation ceremonies of Waco Hall to Baylor University at Waco Tuesday afternoon. The new structure, a gift to the university from the city of Waco, was constructed at a cost of $400,000 and represents the initial installment of Waco's pledge to give Baylor $1,000,000 within a period of 7 years.

Celebrating another tangible achievement in the campaign for crop diversification and a break of cotton domination some 3,000 Williamson County folks from Taylor and surrounding towns as well as the folks of the creeks Wednesday took part in the official opening of the Swift & Co. $159,000 poultry egg and butter plant in Taylor.

The West Texas Chamber of Commerce began its annual convention Thursday morning at Abilene in the Paramount Theater, newly built and commodious enough for the largest regional community in the world. Fort Worth sent a special train Thursday morning and a special train of Dallas folk are expected today (Friday) for the last two days of the convention.

Flood relief work Tuesday assumed larger proportions than was at first anticipated as receding waters of the Big and Black Cypress rivers disclosed increasingly extensive damage. Danger from the flood which inundated a third of Marion county and threatened the business district of Jefferson was definitely past.

With Jamaica ginger definitely on the tabooed list of beverages of most citizens, a new drinking malady has appeared to make home-brew drinkers leary of their beverages. According to Waco doctors it is called "swell-head" or "limber-neck." The ailment has appeared in Oklahoma cities, and in some forms among patients at Marlin. The city health department of Waco has not encountered any of the cases yet, however, nor have any Waco hospitals treated victims.

SERVICE

Can't Be Shipped

What buyer can place a value on SERVICE he receives. Consider a few examples taken for granted every day. How much are these services worth to you?

When the teakettle leaks, you know who'll fix it. When you drop your watch the repair man is handy. Every tire, wherever bought, will welcome "free air." A suit isn't easily pressed or repaired by mail.

If the battery goes dead, the oil needs changing, or the radiator cleaning, there's service at hand.

When needing a hat, suit, dress, coat or shoes — it's the trying-on and careful fitting that gives you the assurance of comfort and becoming style.

Food ordered by phone and delivered; the radio fixed promptly when it balks; sickness checked by a prescription quickly filled at your druggist's. You CAN'T buy these services over "long distance."

You really need your stores. They will continue to serve cheerfully and willingly, for that is one way of MERITING your trade. In fairness, use their goods as well as their services.

CONTRAST BETWEEN FAITHFULNESS AND SLOTHFULNESS.

Matthew 25:14-30
Rev. Samuel D. Price, D. D.
If any of those in and about Jerusalem put off hearing Jesus that Tuesday afternoon when He addressed a group on the Mount of Olives they forfeited their last chance of being in His audience. During the morning many listened while Herodians, Pharisees and Sadducees tried to get the best of Him in argument when in the vicinity of the Temple. Then the meeting place was changed to the slope on the other side of the Kedron valley that overlooked Jerusalem. Though arrest was only a few days off Jesus tried to include friend and foe alike in His messages that all possible good might come to them, both in the immediate present and likewise in the future that could not be avoided.

One of the clear teachings of the Bible had special emphasis in the subject matter that was presented in the form of a parable, only one is no reason for not using it to the utmost. The brightest saying found in the preparation for this lesson study is that an engine of one cat power used continuously is far better than one of forty horse power standing idle all the time. Excuses will never help any when the time comes to stand and deliver. As humans equipped with material and spiritual things we must be ready for the Judgment which is ahead of every one. If we do our bit and our best there will be glorious joy when, in the final accounting, the Golden Text for today is pronounced upon us: "Well done, good and faithful servant: thou hast been faithful over a few things; I will set thee over many things; enter thou into the joy of thy Lord." Matthew 25:21.

Really great values were entrusted to servants and slaves in the Orient. An incident in fiction is the responsibility of Simonides to "Ben Hur," and he so traded as to make the son of Hur the richest man in the world. From one to five talents were entrusted, in the man who received one talent parable, to three servants. Even had a considerable responsibility for the value was approximately $2,000, which would represent about $20,000 today. In time the Lord returned and demanded an accounting. Through shrewdness and industry the five and two talents had been doubled and due commendation was accorded. The man who had only talent dwelt on the idea of "only" rather than on the value that was in hand. He did not even begin to make good but hid the amount in the earth. The excuse he presents when called to the audit is far from a reason. He had a fine opportunity and failed completely.

Every one has at least one talent and most of us have more than the one, if we will be honest in evaluating what powers and opportunities have been given us by our Lord. Because we may have only one is no reason for not using it to the utmost. The brightest saying found in the preparation for this lesson study is that an engine of one cat power used continuously is far better than one of forty horse power standing idle all the time. Excuses will never help any when the time comes to stand and deliver. As humans equipped with material and spiritual things we must be ready for the Judgment which is ahead of every one. If we do our bit and our best there will be glorious joy when, in the final accounting, the Golden Text for today is pronounced upon us: "Well done, good and faithful servant: thou hast been faithful over a few things; I will set thee over many things; enter thou into the joy of thy Lord." Matthew 25:21.

Many a Cook's Renown Rests Upon Her Sauces

By JOSEPHINE B. GIBSON
Director, Home Economics Dept.,
H. J. Heinz Company.

MUCH of the French cook's reputation for excellent food has been gained through the use of skillfully blended sauces. And American women are coming to learn that the success of almost any dish—whether it be meat, fish, entree or dessert—depends greatly upon its accompanying condiment.

Sauces which lend this delightful piquancy to food may be divided, roughly, into two general groups. Those which we serve with meat, fish, vegetable and egg dishes; and those specially suited for puddings and desserts.

In baking meats, many women use the famous Barbecue Sauce to lend a delightful flavor. The recipe given for this below is for a quantity sufficient to prepare a large roast for picnic or church supper use. The sauce, however, may be safely kept in the family ice-box for several weeks if care is taken to keep the container closely covered.

Hollandaise Sauce is another great favorite for cauliflower, asparagus, fish and other dishes. Since many women find this sauce extremely difficult to make, however, the recipe for Mock Hollandaise—which scarcely can be distinguished from the regular sauce—should be welcomed.

If you will clip out the following recipes for sauces and put them in your scrapbook, I am sure you will find many occasions to use them:

Barbecue Sauce:—Chop 1 onion and a clove of garlic. Add ½ cup Tomato Ketchup, ¼ cup Pure Vinegar, ¼ cup Worcestershire Sauce, 1 medium can of Cream of Tomato Soup, 1 table-spoon butter and 1 table-spoon sugar. Add pepper and salt to taste. Cook to the boiling point and use to baste a ham, a roast of lamb or beef, or any meat you wish to barbecue.

Mock Hollandaise Sauce:—Melt ¼ cup butter and blend thoroughly with 2 table-spoons flour. Add 1 egg yolk well beaten, ½ teaspoon salt and ½ cup hot water. Cook over hot water, stirring constantly until thick. Remove from fire and add 5 table-spoons Mayonnaise Salad Dressing, and 1½ table-spoons Pure Cider Vinegar. Serve at once with baked or fried fish, or with asparagus, cauliflower, or Brussels Sprouts.

Tomato Sauce is always a favorite to serve with omelets, cheese dishes, meats or baked bean dishes, and the following recipe for making a quick one is well worth remembering:

Quick Tomato Sauce:—Heat a small can of Cream of Tomato Soup and when it reaches the boiling point, slightly thicken with a small amount of flour blended with butter. A few drops of onion juice may be added if desired.

An easily prepared Tartar Sauce to accompany fish is made by combining ¼ cup of Sandwich Relish and 1/3 cup Mayonnaise Salad Dressing.

Butterscotch Sauce:—Cook together 1 cup brown sugar, ¼ cup butter and ½ teaspoon of Pure Vinegar until thick and bubbly. Then add 1/3 cup cream and allow to cook until boiling again, stirring constantly. This will take only a minute or so. Take from the fire, cool and flavor with 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Chocolate Sauce:—¼ cup cocoa, ½ cup cold water, 1 cup sugar, few grains salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 table-spoon butter, 1 teaspoon Pure Vinegar. Mix cocoa, sugar, salt, vinegar and cold water. Stir over direct heat and boil 3 minutes (220 F.). Remove from fire and add vanilla and butter.

FAIRY ITEMS

The good weather continues. Some grain is being cut, principally barley.

Mr. and Mrs. Mont Young took Miss Lucille Crow to the Baptist Sanitarium at Waco Sunday afternoon where she underwent an operation for appendicitis. She stood the operation fine and is doing nicely.

Aubert Griffiths, son of Mr. and Mrs. Riley Griffiths, was hurt last Friday by a horse falling on him, but not seriously injured.

Mr. Rainey, who has been ill for sometime, is reported better. Clara Brunson and son went to Waco Saturday where the boy is receiving treatment for his eyes.

The school closed here Friday with fourteen graduating from the tenth grade and thirteen from the seventh grade.

Prof. Hedgspeth and sister, Miss Gladys, Misses Lena and Rilla Loden have been the teachers of the Fairy school for three years and have made a big of friends who regret their leaving as they were untiring in their efforts for the advancing of the school interest, also their christian influence in the various church activities.

Jim Barrow of Hico delivered an interesting address Thursday night on "Right Thinking" which was enjoyed by a large audience.

Friday was celebrated with a picnic and an old fashioned barbecue dinner. The Hico band rendered some excellent music.

Several speeches were made by visiting candidates and Mr. Barrow. These were spiced with wit and humor and fun provoking, enhancing an appetite for dinner.

Fairy's guests for the day were: Mrs. Judge Rice and Mrs. John King of Hamilton, Mrs. Wright and son of Pottsville. The former is running for County Treasurer against Mrs. King.

Other guests were: Prof. Knott, wife and children, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Brown and family, Mr. and Mrs. Kal Segrist, Mrs. Olin Segrist and grandson, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Leach, Mr. and Mrs. Johnson Vickrey and son, Mrs. Doty, Mrs. lexander and Mrs. Jim Barrow of Hico; Rev. Whittenberg of Duffau; and Mrs. Jordan of Cleburne. In the afternoon a ball game was the center of attraction between the Lon Valley team and Fairy. The home team won the game. Prof. Gerald of John Tarleton College, made the address to the graduating class Friday night. A large crowd was present. Altogether the day was an enjoyable one and we hope those visiting may see fit to make us another visit.

Prof. Hedgspeth moved to Hamilton Monday.

Will Jones has purchased Mrs. Henry Burden's thresher.

Miss Pauline Jones visited homefolks Sunday afternoon.

THE SUPREME COURT

There are two equally honest points of view held by men of differing convictions in the matter of the qualifications of a Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States. One view is that no man should be appointed to the Supreme Bench whose views on social and economic questions do not conform to those currently held by the group which happens to be in control of the United States Senate at the time. The answer to this, the opposing view, is that men of character and integrity do not permit their personal opinions to deter them from interpreting the Constitution and the laws passed thereunder in the light of the best traditions of the Law and the Bench.

Men have been nominated for the Supreme Court in our time, and confirmed by the Senate, whose known social and economic views were totally at variance with those held by the majority of the Senate at that time. The case of Justice Brandeis is in point. But there was more to the rejection of Judge John J. Parker by the Senate than that he does not see some things eye to eye with the majority of the Senators. The impression was created by Judge Parker's opponents that he was too eager for the office, that too many purely partisan considerations entered into his nomination by the President. Those considerations alone might not have prevented his nomination, however. Beyond them was the desire of the insurgent group in the Senate to give President Hoover a slap in the face. That is part of another chapter in the political history of the United States, which, when written, will deal with the effort of the Senate to control the entire Government.

POETRY AND LIFE

The announcement that John Masefield has been appointed Poet Laureate of England, succeeding the late Robert Bridges, revives interest in poetry as a means of expression, as well as in the ancient office of Poet Laureate to the King of England.

The earlier Poets Laureate were a kind of glorified royal minstrels who were supposed to stand in the praises of the King on every possible occasion. Naturally, the necessity for being a sort of lyrical "yes-man" did not attract the poet's highest genius, and there have been few holders of that title whose names are now remembered. But when Queen Victoria appointed Alfred Tennyson as Laureate a new style was set. Tennyson refused to write poetry to order. He did compose some verses in commemoration of events in the life of royalty, but that rank among his poorest work. But Tennyson was the greatest poet of his day, one of the greatest who ever wrote in the English language, and he gave to the title of Poet Laureate a new dignity.

Tennyson's successor, Robert Bridges, was regarded in literary circles as a first-rate poet, but his work has never had the popular appeal that Tennyson's had. Few of his poems are known at all in America. For that matter, few of John Masefield's poems are known on this side of the water.

The only living English poet whose work has had American popularity comparable with Tennyson's is Rudyard Kipling, and Kipling is now an old man and probably would not have accepted the post of Laureate even if it had been offered to him. And that was out of the question, since the King's appointment was made on the recommendation of the Prime Minister, and the present Prime Minister, Ramsay MacDonald, is at odds with his predecessor, Stanley Baldwin, who happens to be Kipling's brother-in-law.

John Masefield is a different sort of poet. English to the core, he has expressed in his poems a deep sympathy with and understanding of the working classes and the "under dogs" generally. His youth was spent in poverty, one almost says as a tramp. He served before the mast as a sailor, found himself stranded in New York and earned his bed and board by acting as a porter for a friendly saloon-keeper. Yet his poem, "Reynard the Fox," brought him the instant approval of the English aristocracy. He now lives at Oxford, in the shadow of the historic university, and runs a little theatre where he produces original plays.

In another respect John Masefield differs from the traditional poet; he is a teetotaler. "Inspiration must come from a man's own soul and not from alcohol," he says. He is now 55 years old, with every expectation of twenty years more of productive life, during which everything he writes will be eagerly read all over the world.

SMALL TOWN NOT DOOMED

If the small town really were doomed it would be a most deplorable fact.

Despite some talk to that effect, the small town is not doomed. Possibilities may have been inferred as much from early census reports, but Texas editors see quite a different picture in the figures. Some Texas towns have shown a slight decrease in population, but others have shown an increase which vary from slight to surprising percentages. The decreases reflected in census reports, in most cases, were the result of a process of adjustment between the industrial and agricultural fields. The encouraging aspect of the picture on the other hand is that the same economic adjustments which subtracted a little from small town population in the past ten years, in the next will reverse the process.

In other words, the industrial trend is to smaller communities. High tension transmission lines have brought to the small towns the same cheap electrical power which formerly constituted a decisive factor in favor of big-city industrial locations. Proximity to raw material sources, again, is an advantage particular to the small town which the great city can never possess. Cheaper industrial cities and better living conditions for employees, constitute a final, and often determining factor in favor of the small town factory.

Texas produces such an enormous quantity of agricultural raw materials, that industries depending upon them, in these days of strenuous competition, can no longer evade placing factories within the state. When this movement, which has already begun, attains its full momentum, the small towns of Texas will register gains in population most surprising to those who have not read the handwriting on the wall.

Only one unfavorable factor, in the opinion of many editors, clouds the skies, and that is a threatened disposition to levy discriminatory taxes against prosperous industries. With that one problem yet to be solved, the outlook in Texas is most favorable. The day of the small town has dawned, and the next census will reveal a much diversified situation with respect to small town population.—From Editorial Digest.

Subscribers Find Time to Renew for Their Home Paper

Our good farmer friends are letting their reputation suffer at this time, on account of being so busy with farm work. Usually they keep us busy Saturdays and Cow Days taking their subscriptions, but business in this line has been pretty dull for the past few days. That is all right, though. It is a good thing that the weather has permitted their working, and we still believe they like us and will come in to see us the first opportunity.

S. M. Henderson writes from Arvin, California: "I am mailing you a money order to the amount of $1.50 for my renewal to the Hico News Review. I have been a subscriber for the past 15 years. Send the paper on." Thank you, Mr. Henderson. You are unusually prompt in sending in your money, for your subscription is paid up until August. However we are marking your time up to August, 1931, and now you have the matter off your mind for a long time. We hope you read the paper for the next 115 years.

Mrs. James Simpson, who lives at 1517 Windsor, Waco, who has been here a few days visiting her mother, Mrs. V. N. Meador, enjoys reading the News Review, she says and wants to keep on getting her home paper. She came in last week end and renewed for another year, paying for it herself. She got the paper last year as a birthday present. Mrs. Meador returned to her home in Waco Saturday.

Wm. R. Fox, Walnut Springs, came in the office early Thursday morning and subscribed for the paper, saying that his wife enjoyed reading it very much. He and Mrs. Fox have been here for a few days visiting her grandmother, Mrs. J. C. White.

Miss Essie Thorp, 1704 Grand Avenue, Fort Worth, Texas, will receive the News Review through the summer months, while she is away from Hico. She intends to return for the next school term here, having been re-elected as a teacher in Hico Public Schools.

Clair Brunson, Hico, Route 3, renewed for the News Review on Thursday morning, while in town to get poison for grasshoppers which he said were getting bad on his place. Mr. Brunson claims to be president of the "Liar's Branch" Club. He described the location of Liar's Branch as being 125 miles north of Austin and 90 miles south of Fort Worth. We do not know whether he can qualify for the office he says he holds or not, but we do know that he was very truthful in one particular — that was when he promised to renew his subscription — and he did.

OLD REMEDIES—AND NEW was done, but—the fluid is returning slowly! A happy thought—the old "compound jaip powder." She had never heard of it. One dose daily removing the stuff at the rate of a quart every 24 hours—while I am attending to the underlying cause of it. What a grand old remedy that just won't fit into the discard! Let's honor the old remedies for awhile yet, before throwing them all overboard.

Landlord-Tenant Livestock Lease. Groesbeck.—Two thirds feed, one third cotton, and livestock on a 50-50 basis are the high points in a lease system as worked out by Dan Parker of Limestone county and now in operation with his renters. They jointly own 20 hens, 575 baby chicks, and three milk cows, but will increase the cows after the feed is grown. All feed produced will be fed on the place, and two sets of books kept on each field and class of livestock to furnish a guide for future operations. Three other local landlords have agreed to conduct similar demonstrations with their renters. The movement was inaugurated by bankers and is in cooperation with the county agent.

Coyotes Poisoned in Hemphill County. Canadian.—A coyote poisoning campaign started by 17 Hemphill county ranchers with the aid of the county agent and the United States Biological Survey in April is reported to have been very effective, a preliminary check-up showing as many as 22 dead coyotes on some ranches. Some 5000 poison baits were prepared each of four evenings, iced, and distributed early the next day. The total area covered was about 130,000 acres. Ranchers plan to secure a man from the Biological Survey early next winter to poison and trap coyotes for several months to afford protection to the 1931 calf crop.

THE BLUE AND THE GRAY

By Francis Miles Finch

By the flow of the inland river, Where the fleets of iron have fled, Where the blades of the grave-grass quiver Asleep are the ranks of the dead Under the sod and the dew, Waiting the Judgment Day, Under the one, the Blue; Under the other, the Gray. From the silence of sorrowful hours The desolate mourners go, Lovingly laden with flowers, Alike for the friend and the foe Under the sod and the dew, Waiting the Judgment Day, Under the roses, the Blue; Under the lilies, the Gray. So, with an equal splendor The morning sun-rays fall, With a touch impartially tender, On the blossoms blooming for all: Under the sod and the dew, Waiting the Judgment Day, Broided with gold, the Blue, Mellowed with gold, the Gray. So, when the summer calleth On forest and field of grain, With an equal murmur falleth The cooling drip of the rain— Under the sod and the dew, Waiting the Judgment Day; Wet with rain, the Blue; Wet with the rain, the Gray. No more shall the war-cry sever, Or the wailing rivers be red; They banish our anger forever When they laurel the graves of our dead:— Under the sod and the dew, Waiting the Judgment Day; Love and tears for the Blue; Tears and love for the Gray.

MURDER

One person out of every ten thousand is murdered every year in the United States. That does not mean that your chance of not being murdered is only ten thousand to one. For the ordinary peaceable citizen the chance is nearer a million to one that he will die at the hands of a murderer. Most of the murderers' victims are themselves potential murderers. In probably half of the killings it is a question of which criminal got the drop on the other.

I lived several years in Chicago, many years in New York. My work as a newspaper man took me into the most dangerous parts of both cities at all hours of the night. I never felt the need of carrying a weapon and I never knew of anybody not a crook, who was sober, unarmed, and not displaying signs of wealth to tempt a footpad or a burglar, being murdered except by some crazy man, which might have happened anywhere.

PROPHETS

The voice of the prophet is still heard in the land, but it is the voice of the scientific research worker discovering new processes which will revolutionize some industry, and of the trade commissioner reporting these new developments to manufacturers.

A short time ago one of the Government's trade commissioners reported from Berlin that German chemists had found a new and cheap way to make methanol, usually called "wood alcohol." The Department of Commerce broadcast that news to every producer of methanol in America. Only one paid any attention; he sent a man to Germany to find out more about it. The others sat tight until, a few months later a shipload of the new German methanol arrived in New York, to be sold at less than the American cost of production. Then the manufacturers demanded to know why they had not been told. They simply had not listened.

All of the old plants for making methanol had to be scrapped and new ones constructed to make it by the new process, and the man who had listened to the prophets was the first American in the field with cheap methanol.

MOON

The hottest object anywhere near the Earth is the Moon. Also it is the coldest. Observers using the 100-inch telescope on Mount Wilson have been measuring the moon's temperature for a year. They report that the parts of the moon on which the sun shines are hotter than boiling water, and the side away from the sun is at least 254 degrees below zero. The reason for this is that moon is a dry, dead mass of cooled-off lava, or melted rock. It has no water, no vegetation, no life, nothing to make clouds to temper the rays of the sun. If it were not for water vapor in the earth's atmosphere we could not live on it. The blanket of vapor keeps the heat from the sun from burning us up in the daytime, prevents that heat from escaping at night.

One way astronomers can tell whether other planets than ours are probably inhabited or not is by studying their atmosphere through their great telescopes. The only one on which it seems possible for life as we know it to exist is Mars. When the new 200-inch telescope is finished we shall probably get some evidence as to the population of Mars.

SPERRY

Elmer Sperry, inventor, has just retired from business at 72. He probably will keep on inventing. He built the first electric lighting station in the world, using arc lights, before Edison invented the incandescent bulb. He invented the modern electric coal-mining machinery. He made the first electric automobile. He invented a process for extracting chlorine and alkali from common salt which forms the basis of one of the great electric power industries at Niagara Falls. He discovered a way of reclaiming tin from old tin cans, founding a business which buys tin scraps from the can factories, removes the tin and sells it to silk manufacturers to weight their goods and melts up the iron plates into window-sash weights. He invented and built the most powerful searchlights in the world, giving off more candlepower per square inch of surface than the sun itself, and now used by every Army and Navy in the world.

Sperry is best known as the inventor of "Metal Mike," the automatic steersman for ships, utilizing the mysterious principle of the gyroscope. He invented the gyroscopic stabilizer for ships and for airplanes. One of his recent inventions tells railroad men whether there are any hidden flaws in their rails. His latest is a light weight Diesel type engine for airplanes. Only Edison has produced more useful inventions than Elmer Sperry.

Rice Flake "Goodies" Are Good for the Children

By JOSEPHINE B. GIBSON Director, Home Economics Dept., H. J. Heinz Company.

HAVE you ever tried to coax a child to eat vegetables? Just why young appetites should refuse this necessary part of the diet no one knows. But thousands of mothers do know that they have overcome one of their greatest meal-time problems by serving delicious rice flakes in various forms.

Besides being a nourishing energy food, rice flakes are peculiarly valuable in the diet of children, because they furnish the effect of vegetables in promoting regular health habits. Their gentle roughage is just what Nature intended for the growing child. And their crisp, crunchy goodness needs no urging to be eaten.

Following are a number of novel ways in which these healthful rice flakes may be served to round out the diet of spinachish youngsters:

Rice Flake Waffles:—1 1/2 cups flour, 2/3 cup rice flakes, 1 1/2 cups milk, 2 tablespoons sugar, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon melted butter, 1 egg. Mix and sift flour, sugar, baking powder and salt. Beat egg yolk thoroughly, add milk and then add dry ingredients, beating thoroughly. Add melted butter, and fold in stiffly beaten egg white. Add Rice Flakes, and bake in a hot waffle iron.

Rice Flake Muffins:—1 cup rice flakes, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 egg, 1 cup flour, 1/4 cup sugar, 1/2 cup milk, 1 tablespoon melted butter. Sift flour, salt and baking powder, sugar. Add Rice Flakes, which have been crushed with rolling pin. Add milk to beaten egg, and mix with fork into dry ingredients. Add melted butter and bake for fifteen minutes in a moderate oven in well-buttered muffin tins. This recipe makes 8 large muffins.

Rice Flake Omelet with Rice Flakes:—5 eggs, 5 tablespoons hot water, 2 cups rice flakes, 1 teaspoon salt. Add hot water to beaten egg yolks, then salt. Fold in stiffly beaten whites, and then Rice Flakes. Turn into pan and cook over slow fire until light brown underneath. Place in oven until top is dry. Fold in half, and serve at once.

Rice Flake Brittle:—2 cups granulated sugar, 1/2 cup white corn syrup, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1 cup water, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 package Rice Flakes, 1/2 cup peanuts. Cook sugar, syrup and water to 200 degrees, or until small amount dropped in cold water is very brittle. Do not stir after the sugar is dissolved. Remove from fire, add butter, stirring only enough to mix well. Add Rice Flakes and peanuts, and turn onto greased marble top or slab. Smooth out with spatula. Take hold of edges, and pull as thin as possible. Break in irregular pieces.

This season, these tunes have quickly become favorites with local orchestras.

John Harron, Jack Oakie, Ned Sparks, Joseph Cawthorne, Ivan Lebedeff and Eddie Kane heard the supporting cast which Wesley Ruggles directed. The story tells of the adventures of a little of New York's "Little Hungary."

H. E. Sellers has returned home after spending a few days in Brownwood attending the West Texas Golf Tournament held in that city the first of this week.

A LETTER TO A YOUNG MAN The only letter that I read with interest is the letter of the young man who has studied my business and who points out to me how I can make more money for my employer by employing him. Ideas are the keys that unlock big men's doors. When you have fitted yourself for the better job, let your letter of application contain an idea.

SALEM NEWS

We are having some pretty weather now and in a few days more every one will be up with their cotton planting.

Mrs. C. D. Cunningham and children of Duffau, Mrs. W. E. Lambert and daughter and Maud Lambert spent Sunday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Laney.

Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Padgett of West Texas were visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Ward a few days last week.

Misses Delma Littleton of Clair-ette was visiting Miss Lillie Gay Davies Sunday afternoon.

Tom Vincent of California is spending a few days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Vincent.

Mrs. W. D. Nelms and daughter tomorrow morning and have a hundred bright young men here at eight o'clock. Each one will have just as much to offer me as you have; the same two years of high school, the same experience in keeping books, the same good record. Every one of them will be willing to work for $25, and some of them for $18.

The only way you can lift yourself out of that $25 class is by giving yourself an equipment that the rest of the fellows in that class do not have. In other words, by study—by education—by specialized training.

Third: When you have picked out the one particular better job that you want, when you have fitted yourself for it then be careful of your letter of application.

Your letter is your representative. For heaven's sake, if you have in you any spark of originality that other men have not, make your letter a tiny bit different from the other letters that the other men will write.

Fourth: I receive many letters of application. In one form or another, they usually say something like this: "I want a better job; I am thinking of getting married"; or, "I have a mother to support"; or, "I have been three years in this place without a raise and see no future."

All of which interests me not at all.

Miss Nobody from Nowhere

BY ELIZABETH JORDAN

FIFTH INSTALLMENT

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

A beautiful young woman finds herself on the sidewalk in a strange city. She cannot remember her name or where she came from. She has nothing in her purse to tell herself who she is. A young man who has seen her in the hotel where she is stopping notices her and takes her to the hotel in a cab. There they find that she registered, in French, as "Miss Eve Nobody of Nowhere." The clerk has been calling her "Miss Parsons." The young man tells her she is in New York. His name is Eric Hamilton, of Chicago. She is terrified at her loss of memory. He asks his friend, Dr. Carrick, a nerve specialist, to call at the hotel. Dr. Carrick talks encouragingly, but says he will send a nurse to stay with the mysterious "Miss Parsons" that night.

"Miss Nobody" listens while Hamilton tells her what the doctor has said, then steps into another room. When the nurse arrives, the girl has vanished from the hotel! Eve's departure was simple. She went out of a back door into the servants hall of the hotel, where she encountered a young French porter, who claimed to recognize her. He had seen her in Paris. "Then you know my name?" she demanded eagerly. But the porter had forgotten that. He would write at once to a friend in Paris and find the name of the American young lady they had both admired. He tells her of an apartment house where the janitor, he thinks, would take her in. Meanwhile, while Hamilton is anxiously hunting up the nerve specialist for advice, Eve gets into a taxicab and drives away.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

When she reached the building that was her objective she was not at first favorably impressed by it. It was an old structure and a time battered one, but it faced an open East Side square and its windows looked out on the green trees and shrubs of this square. The appearance of the entrance hall was better than the buildings' outward aspect. It was clean and cheerful, though the janitor, Marcel's friend, was somewhat deliberately responded to the bell, had the gray look of one who dwelt among ashes.

There were only two vacant apartments in the place, he assured the lady, while his eyes rested somewhat critically on the small satchel and the big newspaper bundle she carried. One apartment was on the ground floor and the other on the top—the latter three flights up and no elevator. The sitting-room of this one looked out over the park, though, and there was a kitchenette not much larger than a closet, with a gas stove in it, where the young lady could make her coffee in the morning if she liked.

The young lady accompanied him up three flights of carpeted stairs and approved the apartment at the top. The price asked for the rooms was reasonable.

"I'll take it," Eve decided, "if I can move in now."

"To-night?" The janitor revealed a natural surprise at this expedition.

"Right now," the new-comer repeated.

"How about your references?"

"My references will be the month's rent in advance, and I'll pay it this minute." Eve took out her purse, holding the name of Marcel in reserve. If she could for the present avoid mentioning that, she preferred to do so. The fewer who knew of her Garland connection the better.

The janitor hesitated, looking her over again. Then with a shrug of his thin shoulders he took the offer and the cash.

The casualness of the transaction made Eve rather thoughtful. Still, Marcel had testified that the place was respectable.

She went to the door with the janitor, to get his final message about the delivery of milk and rolls in the morning.

"I can let you have a little coffee, too," he graciously decided.

There were two apartments on the floor, and as the man talked the door of the opposite one opened and a girl came out. She was a blond girl, young and rather pretty, with very round china-blue eyes. She wore evening dress, far too elaborate for her environment, but it was her color and expression that caught and held Eve's attention. The color was a blue-white, and the look she cast at the two standing there was almost desperate—not at all the glance of a curious stranger, but the unconscious appeal of one who was suffering physical pain. She moved slowly, holding to the side rail as she descended the stairs, and responded to the janitor's offhand greeting with an inarticulate murmur.

"Who is that?" Eve asked when she had disappeared.

"Miss Ivy Davenport. She has that flat. She dances in a cabaret, but she's a nice girl, just the same. She ain't well, though. She's been sick a lot lately, and it looks to me like she's sick again to-night." Evidently the janitor liked Miss Davenport. He was still looking after her with sympathy, blackness lifted from her spirit. She slept.

The sun was shining when she awoke, and a lively tattoo on the panel of her outer door had brought escape from an especially unpleasant nightmare. She slipped into a wrapper, unlocked her door, and confronted the janitor. He carried a tray which held a teacupful of ground coffee in a cup, a dab of butter, and a glass of milk, with an egg as an added attraction.

Eve gave him a dollar. He delivered it for his leniency in that little matter of the references, but something deep with her sent up a warning signal as she handed over. A young person in her situation and with less than three hundred dollars in the world must learn not to part with any of those dollars too lightly. This one proved a good investment.

"My name's Smith," the janitor volunteered. "Guess you won't have no trouble rememberin' it."

When Smith had reluctantly departed—it had also become clear that his was a companionable soul—she prepared breakfast and, to her own great surprise, ate it. She had cooked it under a joggling sense of duty; she must "keep up her strength." But the coffee was good, the roll was crisp, the egg was fresh. The efficiency with which she performed the simple task proved that it was a familiar one to her. She must have prepared many such breakfasts in the past, some of them, no doubt, in Paris. Deep in her subconscious mind, just out of her mental reach, lay the memory of those meals, of those days. She saw—or did she see?—a studio with a sloping roof . . . a wide skylight with a glimpse of sky-line and twin towers etched against it. . . . Her absent hand reached at times toward a shelf that was not there, for utensils that were missing. . . . Surely, surely Memory was stealing toward her, out of the black . . . As soon as she had washed the dishes, made the bed, and dusted the rooms (this last with one of the few towels!) she wrote to her Good Samaritan. She owed him that much. She had brought with her a pencil and a few sheets of the hotel's notepaper, from which she painstakingly tore off the printed headings. Then she penciled these lines:

My dear Mr. Hamilton:

Forgive me for seeming ungrateful; I am not that. But I must not be a burden to strangers, however kind and friendly they are; and I know it is best for me to be alone.

I have found a safe, quiet, respectable place, where I can wait. They say that those who recover from a lapse like mine do not remember what happened in the interval. So I shall write out the account of my meeting and put it away with your card. And when I am myself again I will write you and tell you so, and try to thank you properly.

In the meantime don't worry about me. And please don't try to find me.

Most gratefully yours,

Eve Personne.

She made a long journey uptown. She must mail that letter in a part of the city remote from where she lived, for of course Hamilton would regard the postmarks as clues. After that she took a long walk in Central Park and bought her necessary household supplies and a few magazines.

After all this it was only eleven o'clock, and the long day stretched before her as an appalling blank to be filled. However, there was Marcel's visit in the evening to look forward to, and she killed the seemingly endless interval by a visit to the public library, to write at a table there the account of her meeting with Hamilton. She wrote the bald facts from the time of the memory lapse, putting down the episodes without comment, save in the matter of Hamilton's kindness. On an impulse she included his Chicago address.

The writing kept her occupied for more than an hour. Then she read for two hours. She entered a drug store and had a glass of milk as a late luncheon. Then she went back to Central Park and killed an additional two hours watching children at play.

Marcel arrived at eight that evening, wearing his best garments and a highly expectant expression. She had decided to tell him the truth. It was a risk, but he was already partly in her confidence, and it was probable that he had been questioned about her. Better let him have the facts than to give his Gallic imagination too much rein.

He listened with interest, but wholly without understanding, and obviously with relief. This little matter explained very well the oddness of Mademoiselle's suggestion. His optimism cheered Eve, while she realized its source as ignorance. Marcel admitted that he had not as yet found her name, but his mind was busy on it. Nor could he remember the name of any of Mademoiselle's friends in Paris. But he was thinking of these things constantly, and very soon . . . In the meantime, if Mademoiselle so wished, he would write to Leon, who had been Mademoiselle's real waiter and who was now working in a big hotel on the Rue de la Paix. He would beg Leon to tell him all he remembered about the young lady of four years ago. . . .

"But that will take two weeks," Eve cried, "to write and get a reply, even if he answers at once. Two weeks more of this!"

Marcel was overwhelmed. He had forgotten that detail.

"However, please do it," Eve sighed. "Though I hope to God I shan't need it when it comes!"

Something about that exclamation made Marcel take a less cheery view of her situation as he left her.

Continued Next Week.

"Don't be scared if you hear her comin' home at four in the mornin' the janitor remembered to add."

ie eyes. "But I reckon she's got to go 'n' dance jest the same," he added philosophically.

"Poor girl! How can she dance?" The young person who had passed them was not Eve's sort, but she had a pang of fellow-feeling that surprised her. Here was another who was in trouble.

"Don't be scared if you hear her comin' home at four in the mornin'," the janitor remembered to add. "She won't bother you none daytimes. She sleeps till five or six o'night."

Eve nodded and watched him with unhappy eyes as he drifted in Miss Davenport's wake like a bit of gray fog. Looked at in retrospect the Garland seemed the vision of a wanderer's home, and the memory of Hamilton's boyish smile and dependable face brought an almost intolerable sense of nostalgia. But when she had turned back to her apartment and was moving about her bedroom, preparing for the night—the janitor had thoughtfully turned on the electric lights in both rooms—she reminded herself that she was safer alone. Whatever the dangers of her present course, she could not, would not, have remained among those to whom she was "a case." And there was Marcel, who had once known her and who at any moment might appear with a shining face to tell her who she was.

"I must be an amazing optimist when I'm myself," she reflected with a deep sigh.

It was an unkind trick she had played her Good Samaritan, but she had been driven to it and she did not regret it. At the thought of the Garland her panic returned. Doctors, nurses, consultations, sanatoriums—there was no end to the possibilities Hamilton had set in motion when he called in that psychiatrist.

Better be anywhere and free than in the power of even the best-intentioned strangers.

The night was a bad one. For hours she lay staring out into the blackness of the narrow court while panic enveloped her like an icy fog. It took all the courage she had, all the strength of her soul, to hold on to herself. At intervals she switched on the light and looked at her watch. Some might have passed since she looked last, but they hadn't. Sometimes it was only a hour, or even half an hour.

When the black court was growing gray she heard Miss Davenport's return; at least she assumed that the steps were her neighbor's, and that it was Miss Davenport's door that was yielding to the urge of a nervous key. Eve's watch bore out the theory; quarter past four. She drew a deep sigh, turned again, and hoped that the girl felt better. With the approach of dawn some of the

PIES

The tenderness or shortness of pastry depends to a great extent upon the amount of flour in proportion to the shortening, as a general rule, use one-fourth to one-third as much shortening as flour. Just enough water should be used to cause the paste to stick together, for the less amount of water, the more brittle the crust will be. The paste should be put together quickly and handled as little as possible for a great deal of handling results in a tough crust.

All ingredients should be as cold as possible for if the shortening is warm and soft it will stick to the board.

A thin fruit juice has a tendency to soak into the crust. Rubbing the crust with the white of egg helps to prevent this.

If an upper crust is used, it must be split in several places to allow the steam to escape.

Good Pie Crust.

To make crust try this recipe: One and one-half cups flour, one-third to one-half cup shortening, one-half teaspoon salt, cold water. Sift flour and salt together, cut in the fat by means of two knives until all is reduced to a powder. Add the cold water slowly and just enough to make the dough stick together. Put out on a floured board and roll thinly into circular shape to fit the plate. Fit it loosely into the plate, allowing it to come a little over the edge, as it shrinks when baked. Trim edges.

If two crusts are used, moisten the edges of lower crust before placing upper crust and then press edges together to prevent juice from escaping.

Having mastered the pastry part of the pie, the next thing is to make the pie itself. Here are some suggestions for it:

Butterscotch Pie.

Have ready one crust and make the filling as follows:

Two cups milk, two eggs, three tablespoons butter two tablespoons cornstarch, one cup brown sugar, one-quarter teaspoon salt, one-quarter teaspoon vanilla.

Scald the milk in a double boiler. Mix the cornstarch and sugar; add to the milk. Stir until thick and cook for fifteen minutes. Add the butter and salt, then the lightly beaten egg yolks. Return to the double boiler and cook for one minute. Cool, add vanilla to flavor and fill the crust with the mixture. Have ready the beaten egg whites combined with a tablespoon of sugar and make a meringue for the top of the pie. Return to the oven and bake until the meringue is brown.

Remember that one-crust pies are delicious in summer, when the filling may consist of fruit. Berries of all sorts, with whipped cream, make a delicious filling. And so do raw cherries, slightly sweetened after being pitted, with a soft custard poured over them in a pastry shell. Peaches are as good as berries with whipped cream in a one-crust pie.

Terraces "High, Wide-Handsome"

Aspermont.—The value of high and well-built terraces was demonstrated on the farm of Wade Davis, Stonewall county, during a recent rain in which 7.82 inches of water fell during 30 hours. Investigation revealed that water had spilled out at the ends of the terraces but at no place did it break over the tops. The terraces were built high and wide in 1926 as a demonstration of level terracing, and Mr. Davis has improved them a little each year since. The ends were partially closed last season to permit more of the rainfall to be absorbed.

65 Teams and Chorus of 200 Will Help Dedicate Home

Left, Mrs. Dora Alexander Talley, Omaha, Neb., national secretary of the Woodmen Circle. Center, Mrs. Mary E. LaRocca, Omaha, national president. Right, Mrs. Etta Davidson, Houston, national director and state supervisor of Texas. "All roads will lead to Sherman" for the dedication of the society's new Home for Aged Members and Orphan Children, June 25, 26 and 27.

A chorus of 200 will sing at the sunrise ceremony to be held in Sherman at 6 a. m. Wednesday, June 25, when the American Legion of that city presents a flagpole and flag to the Woodmen Circle's recently-opened Home for Aged Members and Orphan Children.

The chorus will be gleaned from among the best singers among the several thousand people from all parts of the country coming to Sherman to take part in the Homecoming Dedication June 25, 26 and 27. Mrs. Margaret G. Meadows of Fort Worth, national chaplain, will be in charge of the sunrise service. Her son, Cecil Meadows, director of the Shrine camp of Fort Worth, will direct the chorus.

At 9 a. m. on June 25 the cornerstone laying will be held and at 10 o'clock in the morning the formal dedication will take place. It will be an impressive moment when Mrs. Mary E. LaRocca, national president, dedicates the first building of the Home to the protection of the weak.

Mrs. Dora Alexander Talley of Omaha, Neb., formerly of Garland, Tex., national secretary, will take an official part in the ceremonies together with all the national officers of the society.

With the precision of a soldier and the grace of a dancer at least 65 drill teams, coming from Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Louisiana, Indiana, Idaho, Ohio, Alabama, New Mexico and Nebraska, will present a colorful team frolic

Thursday evening, June 26, in the stadium of the Red River Valley fair. Included among them will be a Mississippi team consisting entirely of children.

There'll be a "click click", many capes flying, and varied colored uniforms in smart array, for more than 1000 persons will take actual part in the team frolic. Mrs. Jeanie Willard of Denison, national drill instructor, will be in charge.

Six of the society's national officers are from Texas. They are Mrs. Henrietta A. Thomas, national junior past president, Fort Worth, Mrs. Maggie Hyde, national treasurer, Dallas, Mrs. Etta Davidson, national auditor and state supervisor, Houston, Mrs. Laura Krebs, member of the national legislative committee, Austin, and Mrs. Willard and Mrs. Meadows.

The Home will be open to visitors during the afternoon and a public reception will be held in the evening of June 25.

Sherman will give a barbecue for all who come on the first day of the celebration.

It is fitting that the Texas "Trail Blazer" who knocked at many doors more than a quarter of a century ago has contributed the stately doorway of the Home. She is Mrs. Henrietta A. Thomas, who before the turn of the century was pioneering in the work of the society in the Blue Bonnet state.

Texas field workers, numbering thirty-six, have won trips to the dedication in recognition of their field work records.

Grasshoppers Menace The State.

There is some indication that grasshoppers may become a serious pest in 1930, according to R. R. Reppert, Entomologist of the Extension Service of A. and M. College. Reports have been received that they are present in alarming numbers in the counties of Bexar, Kendall, Fayette, Navarro, and McCullough. Following the recent rains over the state, it is possible that heavy damage to cultivated crops may develop, especially in the north, central and west parts of the state.

It is not known how extensively eggs were disposed last fall, Mr. Reppert says. Conditions in the parts of the state mentioned, however, have been very favorable for the successful over-wintering of such eggs as were laid, and for the hatching of the young during the present month. Should a season of dry weather be experienced from now on through June, the insects may be forced to leave the pastures and fence rows to attack cotton and corn. The situation is one that should be carefully watched.

Poison bran mash is thoroughly effective in the control of grasshoppers, and is made according to the following formula: coarse wheat bran, 25 lbs; Paris green or white arsenic, 1 lb; high grade amyl acetate (avoid cheap grades of banana oil or bronzing liquids), 1 oz; cane or sorghum molasses (avoid corn syrup) 2 qts.; and water sufficient to make thoroughly moist but not sloppy. This quantity should be broadcast and will cover five acres.

Where the insects are migrating from pastures or fence rows to attack cultivated crops, broadcast over the margin of the field being infested, and also back a considerable distance into the pasture.

Green Soiling Demonstration Success.

Sherman.—Austrian field peas and hairy vetch, sowed down the first of last October with oats and barley, not only furnished six weeks of rich late fall pasture for G. O. Peterson of Grayson county, but the peas and vetch lived through the winter and have made a remarkable spring growth. They will soon be turned under as a green soiling crop to enrich the land, this being the object of the demonstration carried on in cooperation with the county agent. The mixture sowed broadcast on the six-acre plot fall consisted of

Meatless "Oven Dishes" For These Spring Days

By JOSEPHINE B. GIBSON
Director, Home Economics Dept.,
H. J. Heinz Company.

A GOOD cook never likes to heat up a large oven and then bake only one thing, so today I have carefully planned a complete "oven dinner" that will make full use of every bit of the fuel. While the potatoes and the mince-meat up-side-down cake are baking, you can mix the biscuits, and get them ready with the shrimp piquante for their turn in the hot oven. Then you make the sweet mustard pickles and percolate the coffee—and there is your dinner!

The menu given below has several other advantages, too! It is made up of inexpensive, but nourishing foods; and while out-of-the-ordinary, it is not too difficult for even an inexperienced cook to prepare. The whole family also will consider it unusually delicious, without realizing the menu is meatless:

- Menu
- Shrimp Piquante
 - Baked Potatoes
 - Sweet Mustard Pickle
 - Fresh Vegetable Salad
 - Tomato French Dressing
 - Hot Biscuits
 - Butter Mince-meat Up-side-Down Cake
 - Coffee

Shrimp Piquante:—Melt 2 tablespoons butter, add 2 tablespoons flour, and stir until well blended. Add 2 cups milk and cook until thick. Add 2 small cans shrimp and 2 pintenoes, cut fine. Then add 1/2 teaspoon salt and a sprinkling of nutmeg. (This may be omitted). Measure 2 cups of Rice Flakes and place a layer of the flakes in a buttered baking dish, add a layer of the shrimp mixture, and keep adding alternate-layers of the fish and Rice Flakes until all are used. Sprinkle Rice Flakes on top, and dot over with butter. Brown in a hot oven.

Fresh Vegetable Salad:—A large plate or bowl of salad, with chilled vegetables arranged in mounds on crisp lettuce may be arranged in the same way. A pleasing combination of fresh vegetables for such a salad as this, is—a mound of freshly cooked cauliflower, a mound of cooked green peas, one of carrots, and a mound of Fresh Cucumber Relish. All of these should be thoroughly chilled, of course. As a dressing for this salad use:

Tomato French Dressing:—Mix 1 teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons sugar, 1 teaspoon paprika, 1 teaspoon Prepared Mustard, a few drops of onion juice and 2 tablespoons Tomato Ketchup. Add 2 tablespoons Pure Vinegar, and 6 tablespoons Pure Olive Oil. Last add 2 tablespoons Mayonnaise Salad Dressing. Shake very thoroughly in a tightly covered bottle, chill and serve. This dressing has a rich tomato color and is excellent with vegetable salad.

Mince Meat Up-side-Down Cake:—Cream 2/3 cup butter and 1/4 cups sugar. Next add 4 well beaten eggs. Add 1 cup milk alternately with 3/2 cups flour sifted with 5 teaspoons baking powder and 1/2 teaspoon salt. Stir until a smooth batter is formed. Next, butter a shallow, oblong cake pan, sprinkle it with 1/4 cup sugar and line with 1 cup Pure Mince-meat. Turn the cake batter into the pan, and bake in a moderately hot oven for 45 to 50 minutes. Serve hot with whipped cream, or vanilla or lemon sauce.

Goes to Town Alone First Time in Months

MRS. ALICE BRADLEY

"I don't know what there is in Sargon, but it's the most wonderful medicine I ever took in my life! Today is the first time I've been able to come down town alone in six months and it is due to the wonderful strengthening effects of this remarkable medicine!"

"For months my nerves were upset and I was so rundown that I was unable to do any housework, and hardly able to get out of the house. I was so weak I spent most of my time in bed. My appetite was poor, the lightest foods disagreed with me and I suffered continually with chronic constipation. I am on my fourth bottle of Sargon, my appetite is splendid, my digestion is perfect, I'm strong and energetic, my nerves are strengthened and my housework is really a pleasure. Sargon Pills have rid me of constipation for the first time in years."—Mrs. Alice Bradley, 855 Capp St., San Francisco.

After A Long, Strenuous Day Try An "Emergency" Cleansing

APPLY make-up only to a scrupulously clean skin. This will prevent your pores becoming clogged, and will help you to keep your skin fine-textured. But if you are in town all day shopping or working, and then have an engagement for dinner, you probably will say to yourself, "That cleansing rule is all very well sometimes. Yet what can I do when I haven't the time or opportunity to give my skin a thorough cleansing?"

Occasionally it is impossible to cleanse your face thoroughly, and you must be content with the next best thing—an "emergency cleansing." In the morning carry with you a small bottle of skin freshener, and a few pads of cotton. Carefully wrap cleansing tissues around the bottle to keep it from breaking.

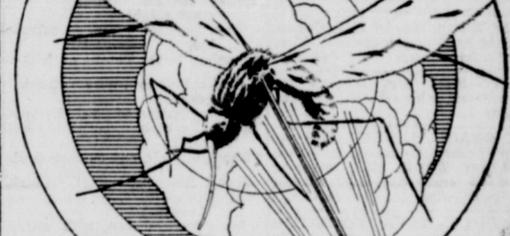

For your emergency cleansing, saturate a small piece of cotton with skin freshener and whisk it up over your neck and face. This will remove the dust and excess oil that have collected during the day, and will leave your face feeling cool and refreshed. Then smooth a little dry or cream rouge on your cheeks, and apply a bit of lipstick to your lips. And last, lightly dust your neck and face with powder, but do not rub it in. Rubbing only makes face powder cake, and gives your skin that not-quite-clean appearance we all want to avoid. Too much trouble? Of course not, for I believe even a plain woman who always looks immaculate makes a better impression than one who is beautiful, but untidy. There is a pleasant element of surprise about someone who preserves an air of freshness and perfection after a long, tiring day that would leave most women wilted-looking.

Of course this emergency cleansing never should take the place of your daily basic cleansing. Your face and neck should be thoroughly cleansed at least once daily in this way: Beginning at the base of your neck, spread a generous coating of cleansing cream up over every portion of your neck and face with your cushioned finger tips. Let the cream remain on your skin for a minute or two, and then again working up from the base of your neck, wipe away the cream with soft, absorbent cleansing tissues. Never use towels to remove cream, for even the finest towel is not as soft as cleansing tissues, and the week's laundry problem certainly is no small item if towels are used in place of cleansing tissues.

After wiping away the cleansing cream, saturate pads of cotton with skin freshener, and wipe those damp pads up over your face and neck to remove every remaining trace of cream. This will leave your skin really clean.

Clarence Allen Morton Pastor

Missouri Lady, Formerly of Hico, Has Poem Printed

We are in receipt of a clipping from the Springfield Press, published at Springfield, Mo., in which favorable comment is made on the poetical efforts of Mrs. J. R. Clay. It will be remembered that Mrs. Clay sent us some of her work a short time ago, which was published in the News Review. She seems to be making good and receiving recognition in her adopted homeland.

This is what the Missouri paper had to say about her: Mrs. J. R. Clay, 811 North Main avenue, was so impressed with the "Wonderland" festival at Springfield Teachers college that she wrote a poem about it. The verses follow:

May Festival of S. T. C. In setting gay, 'mid deepest green; Ideal weather as could be, With anxious crowd, awaiting scene.

The students dressed in varied hue, 'Round campus marched, with steps aright;

Then came the Queen, attendants too, According to the Throne of White.

Health buttons were awarded grades, For being judged of good physique The class contained, both boys and maids,

Of sprightly air, and manner meek Sweet Kindergarten tots in pink Paid homage first, to Queen on Throne;

Six countries then, with merry wink, Each danced to represent his own.

The jolly girls of Junior High, A clown dance gave, with clever wit;

The Sunbeam dance, like gleaming sky, By Senior High, made quite a hit.

Miss Woodruff gave a solo dance Artistic to a high degree;

The Garland dance of elegance, The College girls did perfectly.

The Wand drill, by the Greenwood boys, Was faultless as to time and skill;

Their training showed athletic poise, Combined with shrewd, determined will.

The May pole dance was climax grand,

With streamers plaited to and fro; Old English tunes played by the band,

Were tripped by light fantastic toe.

Trip to Meridian Enjoyed by Hico People Last Sunday

A. A. Fewell and wife and J. C. Rodgers and wife were in Meridian last Sunday, where they heard Dr. C. B. Stanton, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Valley Mills preach the baccalaureate sermon for the Meridian High School.

Then at the evening services at the First Baptist Church of Meridian, Dr. W. R. White of Dallas, State Superintendent of Missions, preached the dedication sermon, several rooms having been added to the church and all paid for.

The church, to show their appreciation of Brother and Sister F. E. Kirchner's good work there, presented him with a fine gold Elgin watch. Sunday marked the completion of their third year's work in Meridian, they having gone to that place from Hico where they have many friends.

Hamilton Club to Have Invitation Golf Tournament

The editor of the News Review is in receipt of an invitation from Geo. B. Golightly of Hamilton, a member of the Perry Country Club at Hamilton, inviting him to be on hand at the First Annual Invitation Tournament to be held June 9, 10, 11 and 12.

The program of events mentions some of the features of the occasion, which include golfing, dancing and other forms of entertainment.

This tournament is being held to mark the completion of Hamilton's new club house, and as several Hico citizens have received invitations, it is expected that quite a few from here will be on hand.

Robinson Quits Gubernatorial Race, Makes Statement

WACO — Fred B. Robinson, veteran Waco newspaper publisher and good roads-lower taxes advocate, has withdrawn from the race for governor on the Democratic ticket. He made the following statement Sunday:

To my friends and the voters of Texas: When my name was brought forward by my friends, without solicitation on my part, as a suitable candidate for the high office of Governor, I thought there would be the chance to make a campaign on issues calculated to prove of benefit to the people, and so decided to enter the contest.

Since then, however, other issues have developed. These are the issues of Fergusonism and anti-Fergusonism, Smith and Hoover, typified in Tom Love's candidacy, and the "anti-third term," brought on by the probable entry of Governor Moody.

All these issues will take the minds of the voters off the major question of better roads and lower taxes, and unless a candidate was financially able to take the message direct to all the people which I am not, there would be small chance to win. Hence I have decided to withdraw from the contest, with thanks to the many friends who proffered their support.

The proposed bond issue is virtually settled, and three of the main issues I have contended for have practically come about already.

1. Governor Moody has come out squarely against killing off the little towns by taking the highway away from them, which means a "backing up" of present highway policy, or early passage of a law by the next Legislature stopping same.

2. Closing of short gaps with present funds in hand, in one year, without increase of taxes.

3. Finishing some present highways, especially the 38 original ones, before taking up so many new ones.

If my short candidacy has aided in any way toward the above, I feel I have done some good, and shall continue to do everything in my power "for better roads and lower taxes."

I still think the auto license tax should be reduced to not exceeding $5 for the finest cars, and the gas tax from 4 to 2 cents, as same would afford some tax relief for the people, and leave as much money as can be indelicately expended.

The loss to the school fund could be made up by taxing other natural resources in larger and fairer measure, yet that is a matter up to the next Legislature, along with a bill to prevent the killing of little towns by taking the highway from them.

I believe also in an elective highway commission, to give full time work at adequate salary.

To sum up, I say we are now paying highway taxes by the millions instead of thousands of dollars, which is bound to produce waste, yet I acknowledge inability to stop same to any appreciable extent, for reasons outlined above. Hence will take my place in line and promise to be a good little boy in the future.

Lynch Davidson to Be Candidate For Governor of Texas

Lynch Davidson of Houston Wednesday was named in the running as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor when his name was filed with the State executive committee by petition of thirty-five Hunt County citizens.

The petition was received by Albert Sidney Johnson, committee secretary, with a certified check of $100 to cover filing fees, from L. J. Taggart of Hunt County.

Mr. Davidson, in Houston, would make no comment on the move to draft him.

The name of State Senator Clint C. Small of Wellington was also filed Wednesday as a candidate for Governor. Other names filed Wednesday were those of W. H. Bledsoe of Lubbock, former State Senator, for Lieutenant Governor, and H. L. Maddox of Alto for Commissioner of Agriculture.

Mr. Davidson's name is ninth filed for Governor. Others are Lieut. Gov. Barry Miller of Dallas, former United States Senator Earle B. Mayfield of Austin, Dr. C. E. Walker of Grapevine, former Representative James Young of Kaufman, State Senator Thomas B. Love of Dallas, State Treasurer W. Gregory Hatcher of Dallas and Frank Putnam of Houston.

Candidates have until midnight Monday to file. The list already filed is half of those who have announced that they are candidates. Mr. Senter has not yet filed, nor has former Governor Miriam A. Ferguson, Governor Dan Moody may yet file, or R. S. Sterling of Houston, chairman of the State Highway Commission.

Boy Good Timber Merchant, Jasper.—A carload of fence posts from his two-acre 4-H forestry club demonstration has been marketed this season by Milton Davenport of Dryburg community in Jasper county for the sum of $302. The posts were obtained from cull timber cut out of the boy's woodlot to thin the growth out so the remaining trees may have a chance to grow properly. He plans another small timber harvest in one or more years, depending on the growth of the trees.

Cookies Have A Place Even in Modern Menus

By JOSEPHINE R. GIBSON, Director, Home Economics Dept., H. J. Heinz Company.

COOKIES fit admirably into all most any menu—and they are specially welcome when served for afternoon tea; as dessert; or along with fruit salads, custards, puddings, or ice cream. Also, since cookies are not overly rich, mothers safely can include them in the school lunch box, or give them to the children when they come home hungry from classes several hours before dinner time.

In addition to their advantage of requiring no frosting, cookies are much easier to mix and bake than even the plainest cake. And this ease of preparation is a very important consideration for busy women.

Following are several excellent recipes for cookies that will prove very helpful in keeping your jar of "goodies" filled this summer, when you naturally will want to spend as little time as possible in a hot kitchen:

Cocoanut Jelly Jumbles:—½ cup butter, ½ cup sugar, 2 beaten egg yolks, few grains salt, ½ teaspoon almond, ½ cup more spoon baking powder, Currant Jelly, 2 beaten egg whites. Mix ingredients together smoothly in order listed. Make into balls with hands. With thumb, make depression in each ball and fill with jelly. Sprinkle with cocoanut and bake 10 minutes.

Peanut Butter Cookies:—¼ cup butter, ½ cup sugar, ½ cup Peanut Butter, 1 cup flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 2 eggs, 1/3 cup milk. Cream butter and peanut butter, add sugar and egg yolks. Sift flour and baking powder, and add alternately with milk. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites.

Apple Butter Drop Cookies:—½ cup butter, 1 cup sugar, 1 well beaten egg, 1 cup Apple Butter, 1 teaspoon soda, 1¼ cups flour, 1 teaspoon salt, ½ cup nut meats, ½ cup raisins. Cream butter and sugar together, and well beaten egg, and continue creaming. Then add Apple Butter mixed with soda. Gradually add the flour which has been sifted with the salt, and mixed with nut meats and raisins. Drop by teaspoons on a buttered baking sheet, and bake in a moderate oven for about 10 minutes. This recipe makes 3 dozen spicy, delicious cookies.

Margarines:—Beat 2 eggs well. Gradually add 1 cup of brown sugar, and continue beating. Add ¼ cup flour sifted with 1/3 teaspoon salt and ¼ teaspoon baking powder. Add ½ cup nut meats and ¼ cup Rice Flakes. Fill buttered muffin tins half full of the mixture, and bake in a moderate oven for 15 minutes. Serve sprinkled with powdered sugar.

Drop on greased baking sheet, and bake at 350 degrees for 10 minutes. Makes 3 dozen cookies.

Rice Flake Cookies:—¼ cup butter, 1 cup sugar, 2 eggs, 4 tablespoons milk, 1½ cups Rice Flakes, 1 cup raisins, 1 cup walnut meats, 2 cups flour, 1 teaspoon soda, small amount salt, vanilla or nutmeg for flavor. Cream together butter, and sugar, and add eggs well beaten. Then add milk, Rice Flakes and raisins. Sift soda with flour and mix with walnuts. Put all together and drop by teaspoons on well-buttered baking sheet. Bake about 10 minutes in moderate oven. These cookies are delicious with fruit salads or desserts. This recipe makes 4 dozen small cookies.

Apple Butter Drop Cookies:—½ cup butter, 1 cup sugar, 1 well beaten egg, 1 cup Apple Butter, 1 teaspoon soda, 1¼ cups flour, 1 teaspoon salt, ½ cup nut meats, ½ cup raisins. Cream butter and sugar together, and well beaten egg, and continue creaming. Then add Apple Butter mixed with soda. Gradually add the flour which has been sifted with the salt, and mixed with nut meats and raisins. Drop by teaspoons on a buttered baking sheet, and bake in a moderate oven for about 10 minutes. This recipe makes 3 dozen spicy, delicious cookies.

Add ½ cup nut meats and ¼ cup Rice Flakes. Fill buttered muffin tins half full of the mixture, and bake in a moderate oven for 15 minutes. Serve sprinkled with powdered sugar.

English Channel between France and England. They are the smallest in size of any of the popular dairy breeds, and are noted for their beauty and the richness of their milk. The color of the Jerseys varies greatly. The most common color is fawn with black shadings below and on the head, the bulls being darker than the cows. The Jerseys, although small, are wonderful producers of rich milk. A few of them under official test have given upwards of 10 tons (20,000 pounds) of milk in 365 days, that tested over 1,400 pounds of butter.

The Holstein-Friesians:—This breed originated in Holland. The compound name Holstein-Friesian is the official name of the breed in America, but in common usage now in America the breed is called Holstein. They are the largest of the dairy breeds, and are black and white in color. They are noted for the quantity of milk they give. More than 100 of these cows have given under official test over 15 tons of milk each in 365 days. This is an average of over 10 gallons of milk each day for 365 days, yielding more than 1,500 pounds of butter. This is more than 8 or 10 of the average dairy cows on many of our farms will produce.

The Guernseys:—The Guernsey breed originated on the Island of Guernsey, which is one of the Channel Islands not far from Jersey Island. The Guernseys are a little larger than the Jerseys and are a coarser boned and more irregular in conformation. The color resembles the Jersey in general, but includes some colors not found in that breed. In the yield of milk and fat the Jersey and Guernseys are not far apart, the Jerseys leading slightly in richness of milk, and the Guernseys in total milk production.

The Ayrshires:—The native home of this breed is the Shire of Ayr in southwest Scotland, hence the name. It is comparatively a new breed, but has made wonderful advancement in a short time. In size the Ayrshire ranks between the Jersey and Holstein breeds, being very much the same as the Guernseys. The common color is spotted red or brown and white in varying proportions. As a breed the Ayrshires are noted for a good, uniform production of milk.

The Brown Swiss:—This breed had its origin in Switzerland. Large numbers of these cattle are kept there for cheese and butter making, which forms one of the largest industries in that country. In milk and butterfat production, this breed shows a very satisfactory yield. The color varies considerably in shade. It is called brown, but more of a mouse color is prevalent.

There is not a great deal of difference in the dairy breeds so far as production is concerned. It is more a matter of choice. For instance, there is no best breed. It is the breeding up of a family or strain to high milk and butterfat production that really counts. It is the blood lines or breeding that makes some cows more valuable than others.

Other conditions which may influence your selection are the breeds most common in your neighborhood, the cost of pure bred foundation stock, and your judgment of the demand for surplus animals from your herd.

It is estimated that only 3 per cent of the dairy cattle in the United States are pure-bred, which means that the major production of milk comes from grade herds.

Miss Marye Abbye Grubbs was elected by a large majority of Toby's student for their secretary of the summer term. She has been a night student, but has begun a summer term to complete a thorough business course, going to the day school. She also rendered a vocal solo at their last meeting being accompanied by Miss Traves Bertelson at the piano, which was enjoyed by all.

Selecting the Breed For Your Dairy Herd

Any One of Five Well Known Breeds Will Be Satisfactory, But Certain Conditions May Influence Your Choice.

Editor's Note—This is another story in a series of articles on dairying written by the well-known national dairy and poultry authority, Dr. L. D. LeGear, V. S., of St. Louis, Mo. Our readers are urged to read them carefully and clip them out for future reference.

The cow is not a native American animal. Before the white man came to this continent cattle were unknown here.

Europe is the home of the dairy cow. Several thousand years ago, so it is supposed, the process of taming the wild cattle of Asia began. It is an interesting commentary on the important place the cow holds in modern civilization that scientists have devoted years to a study of historical records in order to be better acquainted with cattle. Some of the oldest ruins, which have been excavated, reveal the skulls of the ancestors of the modern herd.

The selection of a breed, either by the farmer who is just entering the dairy business, or the farmer who desires to improve his herd by introducing a breed, is one that deserves careful consideration. I believe a brief historical background of the five popular breeds in America will be of interest. Importation of these breeds from Europe have been very large, especially in the last fifty years. So let us examine the biographies and pick our favorites.
