it's a "dry" ETHYL GASOLINE

We say it's a better premium because Texaco-Ethyl is a "dry" Ethyl gasoline. And this is the reason... In any premium or Ethyl gasoline the most important thing is the gasoline itself. That's the foundation. Upon the quality of that gasoline depends the efficiency of the premium fuel.

The foundation of Texaco-Ethyl is the new and better Texaco, the original "dry" gas. That's where the difference begins! Because Texaco is dry it vaporizes readily and completely. That means quick-starting that is quick starting. That means pick-up, power and speed that only Texaco dry gas can give you.

With Ethyl added to this fine gasoline you've got a premium gas that means smooth "knock-less" driving plus everything a gasoline should give you. Drive up today to the Texaco-Ethyl pump. Enjoy the difference now.

JUSTICE TO THE INDIAN

The situation of the Indians in the United States has long been one of the curiosities of our system, in the eyes of foreigners. They cannot understand, in the first place, how we ever took this vast continent away from its original inhabitants; least of all can they understand how, having once conquered the Indians, we have kept them as wards of the Nation instead of compelling them to take their chances with white folks.

The answer, of course, as every American knows, is that the Indians were never fit to control or develop the resources of the country, and the natural law of the survival of the fittest operated to give the white man control. From the beginning, American settlers tried to befriend the Indians, and in the main our relations with them have been peaceable. We have felt rather sorry for them, in these recent years, and few have begrudged the comparatively small cost of maintaining them on reservations and giving them as much education as they were willing or able to assimilate.

POPULATION

The total number of inhabitants of the United States is 122,728,873 according to the Census final figures that was the count on April 1, 1930, and covers on Continental United States, Alaska, the Philippines, Porto Rico, Hawaii and the Virgin Islands, the total number of persons under the United States flag is 137,561,561.

ALICE

My guess is that the winner in a national referendum on the most popular woman in America would be Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, wife of the Speaker of the House and daughter of Theodore Roosevelt.

THE TEN MONTH YEAR

The latest development of the new economics is the proposal by Henry Ford to make the working year only ten months long, giving everybody in industry a two-months vacation in Summer.

with the constant risk of being laid off on any pay day. With ten months' work at good wages assured, he would welcome the two months' Summer layoff, as a schoolteacher does, he would not be afraid to make commitments based upon future earnings, for he would know that as long as he did his job could count on getting his pay for forty-three or forty-four weeks.

From the point of view of democracy, Mr. Ford's project looks like a long step towards giving the wage-earner the same security that the farmer or the salaried office worker has.

PANSY

To thousands of middle-aged and elderly Americans the news of the death of Mrs. Isabella M. Alden will come as a surprise that she should have lived so long, and will cause many a sigh of regret at the snapping of another link with the irrefragable past.

LETTER CARRIES NEWS OF HICO MAN'S TRANSFER TO OKLAHOMA WORK

Adair, Okla. Aug. 26, 1930. Mr. Holford, News Review, Hico, Texas. Dear Sir and Friend: A week ago today, I received a message from our Chief Dispatch, giving me a chance to work as Agent-Telegrapher at Adair, Oklahoma, a place at that time unknown to me, the agent at Adair being sick, I had to accept or reject at once. So I agreed to go.

BIRTHS

Twenty-four hundred and eighty babies were born in New York City in the last week of July. In the same week only 1,205 persons died in the city. If the same ratio of births to deaths continue through the year and prevailed all over the country, our population would soon grow so large that we could not support it.

DROUGHT

If mankind ever learns how to forecast the weather for even a few weeks ahead, it will mark the beginning of our final victory over Nature. But so long as we are at the mercy of the weather we can hardly say that we have conquered our environment.

Hail! the U. S. Farmer! By Albert T. Reid economic consequences. This year the wheat and corn belts are the victims, with greatly reduced crops as a result.

The compensation lies in the larger market for wheat, as a substitute for corn for cattle feeding, and higher prices for both grains because of the short supply.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

International Sunday School Lesson for August 31. AMOS, A HERDSMAN CALLED OF GOD TO BE A PROPHET.

Amos 1:1; 7:10-15; 2:11, 12; 3:7, 8. Rev. Samuel D. Price, D. D.

This study in biography presents the progress in history. The Jewish nation had three kings in the united national life. Then came the split, following the death of Solomon and ten tribes formed the Kingdom of Israel while the other portion was known as the Kingdom of Judah.

It will be remembered that when there was apostasy after Palestine had been entered that God raised up a series of judges who helped the people out of each emergency.

At first the messages had been directed against the surrounding nations for they were grossly wicked. To such deliverances the Israelites listened with some patience, for it is always interesting to hear another criticized. Then Amos went about 22 miles northward to Bethel that he might see some wood in that city.

It was but natural that he should look about to see how Israel was progressing at this center of calf worship. What he noted was shocking in the extreme. God seemed to have forgotten in the present program of living. Self-will was the standard and the righteousness of Jehovah was not even contemplated.

It was expected that the people would take exception but Amos was the more amazed when Amaziah the priest sought to silence him, though he declared that he was God's messenger in righteousness.

The application is far more than admiring the heroic attitude of Amos. We are to study local conditions and determine how we can best represent God in trying to make this old world more like the Kingdom of God, which is always in process of development. God will commission everyone who is willing to help in the work of world betterment.

72-Year Old Lady Votes For First Time In Saturday's Election

For the first time since the enfranchisement of women voters some twelve years ago, Mrs. J. H. Hancock went to the polls Saturday, August 23rd, and registered her choice for State and county officials.

THANKS, GOOD PEOPLE Having been elected as next Tax Assessor of Hamilton County, I wish to assure the tax payers and public in general that every effort will be put forth by me to discharge the duties of the office in an efficient and business-like way. I have made the race with the idea in mind that if I were elected I would make a good officer, and your confidence in me, as disclosed by the polls, strengthens my desire to make good. Call on me when I may be of service. W. B. HURLEY.

THANKS TO VOTERS The splendid vote given me in my race for Sheriff causes me to want to thank my friends and supporters over the county. The fact that I have been elected to serve again assures me that my work has been satisfactory, and inspires me to greater efforts to enforce the law in the future. I hope that nothing will ever arise to cause the voters to regret their choice. Sincerely, MACK MORGAN.

Evening services at 8 o'clock. Everybody invited, we would love to have your cooperation. Mrs. Dolly Linch will preach Sunday evening. —REPORTER.

THANKS FOR SUPPORT

Although not elected to the office which I sought, still I have no regrets in having made the race, as the associations formed and new acquaintances made more than repays me for my efforts. I want to especially thank the people of Hico for their consideration of my candidacy, and assure them that their friendship will be treasured in my memory always. BEN L. WALKER.

KLEBERG COUNTY REPAIRS DAMAGE TO CITRUS FRUITS

Kingsville.—Budding work with citrus fruits extra heavy this summer because many of the young trees were frozen back to the sour root stock last winter. In one month the county agent, W. L. Wilkinson budded about 230 trees, at the same time teaching interested farmers how to make budding tape, select budwood and do the budding.

FAIRY ITEMS

At last we have been blessed with a good rain which appears to be a general rain. It has cooled the atmosphere which is quite refreshing after the oppressive heat wave we have had. Cotton is opening fast, and is being damaged in places by the worms.

There has been twelve bales of cotton ginned here so far this season.

Several of our folks are on the sick list: Mrs. Robert Parks, and Mrs. Will McEllothian. The little girl of Mr. and Mrs. Tee Parks is able to be up again.

C. C. Parks took a load of cattle to Fort Worth last Tuesday. Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Parks have purchased a farm near town from Mont Young. They expect to move in a few months. We hate to give up these good people as our village can ill afford to lose any of her citizens.

The Church of Christ is planning to move their church house to a new site near the Methodist Church. The Lone Star Gas Co. is putting in the school building and churches, also a few dwellings on the north side of town, which haven't as yet obtained gas.

The grader was in our midst again last week improving our roads. H. R. Brummett and family, Mr. and Mrs. Stark and children, Henry Grimes, Ora Mae Parks, Ruby Joe and Cleoyne Parks, B. T. Trantham and family, D. E. Adams and family also Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Allison all of this place, attended the revival meeting at Morgan Thursday night. All reported a fine sermon delivered by Bro. Ernest Witt of the Church of Christ.

Those attending the ex-students reunion at Sharp Springs Christian College Sunday were: Oeve Garfield and Maggie Brummett, Owen and Ailus Graves, Ruby Lee Anderson and Lincoln Brummett. M. E. Parks and family visited his sister, Mrs. McAdams of Cranfills Gap Sunday afternoon.

A band of B. Y. P. U. members of Carlton entertained us Sunday week with an interesting program which was greatly enjoyed. The B. Y. P. U. Federation met here Sunday. A program was rendered by the members of Olin B. Y. P. U. after which a singing class organized here met in a song service.

The Baptist Revival closed Sunday night. The baptismal service closing the meeting was set for Monday morning, but on account of the rain was postponed until Friday. Bro. Allison preached some real old fashioned gospel sermons to large audiences as most every service was well attended. The attendance during the week days ranged from about sixty to a hundred present, while the attendance at night and on the two Sunday services quite filled the tabernacle.

The prayer meetings were well attended usually having an enrollment of ninety-six. The Booster Band, presided over by Bro. Hornberg, consisted of about fifty members, did some excellent singing under the training of Bro. Hornberg, and their contest in singing and Bible reading the boys against the girls was very enthusiastic. The daily Bible readings of these youngsters were from four to five hundred chapters. Prof. Hornberg endeared himself to the people of our community not only for his excellent leadership in song service, but also for his genial Christian spirit. The special songs rendered by him were very inspiring. He seems to have a special tact in encouraging others to sing. There were sixteen additions to the church, eleven by baptism. The church unanimously recalled Bro. Allison for their pastor. Mr. Henry Davis was re-elected Sunday School Superintendent. Arthur Burden was elected treasurer and Miss Ina Pitts was elected clerk of the church.

Prof. Hornberg's parents, Rev. Hornberg and wife, also his sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Howard of Proctor, attended the services here Tuesday night. Several members of the Clair-ette Baptist Church, Mr. and Mrs. Clark, Mrs. Dennis Lane and several other whose names we did not learn, attended the revival meeting here Thursday night.

Mrs. Grimes, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Richardson and Duard Allison went to Hamilton Friday to visit Mrs. Geo. Holliday who is in the sanitarium there. Mrs. Holliday has been sick quite a while. She spent several weeks in the sanitarium at Stephenville.

Several of our school girls have returned home: Misses Evelyn Burden, and Misses Cox. Miss Pauline Jones is at Belton for the winter term of school. Merriman Jones of Jonesboro did some carpenter work for Will Jones last week building his feed mill.

Miss Arie Lackey is visiting relatives and friends in Fort Worth and Dallas. Finis Hutton, better known as Doby, left for Wyoming a few days ago to join the army.

Mrs. Robert Hutton returned to her home at Tampa Friday, after a few day's visit with relatives here. Miss Nell Hutton accompanied her home.

W. H. SMITH MARRIES MINERAL WELLS LADY AT BAPTIST PARSONAGE

W. H. Smith and Mrs. Chestina Jones of Mineral Wells were married last Friday, August 2, at 3 p. m. at the home of Rev. C. A. Morton, pastor of the First Baptist Church.

Mr. Smith is a brother of M. A. Smith and is well known in and around Hico. He lives three miles west of Fairy in the Long Point School District No. 50, where he is engaged in farming and ranching. They will make their home there.

Not long ago the News Review carried an article about Mr. Smith in which some of the facts of his life were told. He is a sturdy citizen of his community and is well liked by everyone. His wife was reared in this community and we welcome her back to this section. The News Review joins a host of friends in wishing for him success and happiness in their married life.

HEDRICK SCHOLARSHIP AWARDED SECOND TIME TO FORT WORTH GIRL

Fort Worth.—The Wyatt C. Hedrick scholarship of Texas Christian University has been awarded to Miss Bita May Hall of Fort Worth by the administration committee of the university, according to President E. M. Waits.

The scholarship, which has a value of $250, is provided by W. C. Hedrick, a Fort Worth architect, and is given each year to the student completing the junior year, who has made the highest grades during the three years at T. C. U. and gives promise of a useful career.

Miss Hall has made a perfect grade of "A" in all subjects during her three years in college. She is majoring in both French and education and at present is acting secretary of the T. C. U. Alumni and Ex-Students' Association.

Miss Nobody from Nowhere

BY ELIZABETH JORDAN

Final Installment.

All the faces seemed oddly familiar at moments and then seemed strange again. . . . So did things the men said. . . . At times she was like one slowly coming out of ether, recalling first the happenings that had occurred before she went under; doctors. . . . a nurse. . . . packing. . . . flight. . . . some terrible situation. . . . children. . . . those children. She had a panic over that and cried out, and the man who said he was a doctor gave her another dose. There was more that was horrible. . . . some nightmare. At last she slept.

When she awoke things were a little better. The familiar face of her nurse was near her—the nurse who had attended her in Chicago—and she was in a quiet room bright with sunshine. She had liked that nurse, but she could not remember having brought her to New York; she was still in Chicago?

"Oh, Miss Driscoll," she said, brokenly, "is it really you?"

"It really is," Miss Driscoll buoyantly confirmed. "But please don't talk, Miss Carrington. Go right to sleep again."

The doctor who had brought her home came to the bedside at this, and his expression was so radiant that Eve was impressed by it. Miss Driscoll was radiant also, and the two appeared to have some radiant understanding. Eve carried into unconsciousness the memory of this radiance and its contrast with the tragic face of the young man who had been in the group and the eyes of those children and the even more recent nightmare, a black wall.

"But, my God, Doctor!" Hamilton exploded, late the next night, "make allowance for me. Of course I'm happy over her recovery. Isn't it what I've been working for all along? But can't you see my position? She doesn't know me from Adam. I've got to win her all over again."

"You hadn't won her very much, so far," Carrick frankly said. "You can see her for a few minutes tomorrow afternoon," he promised. "In the meantime I'll pave the way for you by telling her tomorrow noon as much as she's able to hear, about her case and her Good Samaritan. That ought to start you off with a bang, and I'll keep her convalescing here another week or two, so you can finish up the job. She's got to be mighty quiet for a while."

"Just now the girl is having some black hours—still thinking of those drowning boys and afraid of another lapse. But the tragedy is a month behind her, and a month does a lot for patients of her age. It's up to me to keep her mind at ease on the other points, and you can help when the time comes."

"How?"

"By furnishing cheerful companionship," Carrick grinned.

Hamilton presented himself at the door of Eve's sitting-room at five the next afternoon, temporarily obscured by a great armful of chrysanthemums. Miss Driscoll admitted him, with an eloquent smile.

"She's all ready for you," she said. She, too, had listened to the account of the Samaritan's good deeds.

He found Eve lying on a divan which had been sent to the sitting room for use during her convalescence. She gave him both hands, but for a moment did not speak.

To be talking to her from that distance, as a man she was meeting for the first time, was the most racking experience he had ever endured. His lips stiffened as he tried to smile, and the desperate depression he had felt since the experiment strengthened with every moment. She was looking at him, she was interested, but it was clear that her interest was based on gratitude. Nevertheless, here he was, starting out with a fair field and some favor.

"There's only one thing I ask," Eric told Eve at this point in his reflections. "I want to be allowed to read to you and talk to you and otherwise help to amuse you during your convalescence."

"I'm really beginning to feel like myself," Eve was telling him when Henderson's call was announced. "I think Doctor Carrick is entirely too cautious. I'll be able to go home in a few days more and do my resting there."

Hamilton shook his head and bromidically pointed out that they must make haste slowly.

Her meeting with Henderson, he now observed, was not without sentiment.

"You understand, don't you?" was her opening question; and Henderson, in a voice roughened by emotion, assured her that he did. Moreover, he held Eve's hand longer than even such a reunion justified, and he continued to hold it, drawing his chair close to her couch and patting her hand at intervals with his disengaged one.

His manner was sympathetic and paternal, and hers held no trace of fear of him. Very reluctantly Eric left them together; and Henderson who had been carefully coached for the interview by Carrick, made a few brief comments on the meeting and went straight to the point of his visit.

"It may relieve your mind, my dear, to know that I have jilted you," he comfortably mentioned, blinking at her with his near-sighted eyes. "When a girl runs away to get out of marrying me, she doesn't have to add any explanations afterward. I've grasped the idea that she doesn't want me. Bloch says I'm not subtle, and perhaps I'm not. But I can get that much."

"There's no one in the world I'd rather have as a friend," Eve said. "And as a manager," she added more self-consciously. "But perhaps you are through with me."

"I'll never be through with you. But you are free to marry any one you like."

"I don't want to marry any one," Eve murmured.

"Not today, perhaps, or tomorrow, but—"

Henderson now knew all about the formal marriage, and also something about the whirlwind courtship.

"I'm horribly sorry for the way I've treated you," Eve unsteadily confessed. "I can't believe I did such things. But of course you realize that I didn't know. I wasn't responsible and I was terribly afraid of you when I ran away. That sounds idiotic now, but it's the way I felt."

"I understand everything," Henderson again patted her hand, and Eve, thus reminded that he still held it, gently took it from him. Henderson sighed.

"Well, that's settled," he said philosophically.

At the end of a week Eve was permitted to have her dinner in the hotel dining-room with Hamilton.

"Nothing there exciting enough to hurt her," Carrick decided, "and it will be a little change."

But it was rather exciting after all. It was quite unusually exciting to meet Hamilton's eyes and to follow the intonations of his voice when he spoke to her. The things he said were so casual and his voice and expression were so eloquent. Over the desert his guard dropped for a moment.

"Of course you know I'm mad about you," he mentioned. "Carrick and your journal may have can't believe it. What are you talking about?"

"You needn't believe it if you don't want to," he said comfortably. "It's of no importance whatever. It was simply a precaution we had to take to protect you when you were so afraid of Henderson. It didn't mean anything but that, and it can be annulled certificate somewhere around—in your hand-bag, I think."

He told the story simply and with sudden seriousness.

"You were in a state of shivering terror of Henderson," he ended "though you didn't know why, and Carrick and I, who didn't know anything about him, of course, were afraid he had some hold over you. We know now that it was your abysmal dread of the marriage."

She nodded.

"It's like hearing about some one else."

He decided that they had been serious long enough.

"Keep on thinking how wonderful I am," he invited. "And some day soon I'll tell you how wonderful you are. There never was a girl like you since the world began, and there'll never be another.

"Well, any other man as much in love with you as I am would be spending the night on it. But I'm not. I'm going sensibly to bed."

He went away exultant over her little laugh as she closed the door.

"I said I wouldn't make love to you till you were well," he remarked the next afternoon, "so of course I won't. But you're almost well, so I want to call your attention to the fact that you have the most adorable mouth in the world. There's something about it—"

"If you joke like that you'll spoil everything."

"Joke! Great Scott! Is that your idea of joking? It isn't mine, you see," he explained, "you don't understand me yet, but you're going to. My point—the point I'll make when I really start to talk to you—is that I simply can't wait for you much longer. I can't live without you. I can't really breathe any more when I'm not with you."

"Even at that you have about twelve hours a day for breathing," she pointed out, and softened the words with the smile he loved.

"What of it? What about the twelve when I can't breathe? Do you like to feel that I'm struggling for breath when I'm away from you?"

"You're impossible," she said, still with the adorable smile.

"Only when I'm not with you, darling. When I'm with you, as I shall point out to you sometime, I'm a superman, ready to play golf with the planets. There's nothing I can't do—"

"Except to stop talking like that."

"I'm not talking like that. I'm just telling you how I'm going to talk some day, when I really begin."

"I think," he casually remarked the next evening, "Wednesday might be a good day for us to be married all over again."

Her eyebrows rose.

"How utterly absurd you can be when you give your mind to it."

"We might even go to the same minister. They won't very attractive, but there's a certain sentiment in choosing the same setting—"

"I wish you wouldn't say such foolish things!"

"Surely you're not going to deny our expediency marriage," he sighed. "Of course it was only a bluff, but it's a beautiful memory and it was fine practice for the next time we do it. By the way, what have you done with the wedding ring I gave you?"

"Is that a new joke?"

"Under her tone he sobered.

"No, dear. We really did go through a marriage ceremony, with the understanding that it was purely a matter of form—"

"A marriage ceremony. . . . a matter of form," she gasped. "I

It isn't my love for you that makes that point clear when I start. It's you, I'm going to tell you all about the heart of you, and the courage of you, and the dignity of you, and the mind of you, and the magnetism of you—"

"Don't!" she begged, laughing, yet confused.

"I will," he promised. "But not yet, of course."

After all this restraint it was disconcerting to have her make the remark she made during their honeymoon a fortnight later.

"I'll forgive you for rushing the wedding this week," she said dreamily. "What I can't forgive is that you didn't rush it last week. The first day I was really myself again I felt that I had loved you a thousand years. I didn't know you, but I loved you. I was head over heels in love with you at the end of a week, and by that time I knew you, too. If you had tried to leave me I'd have pursued you with shrieks."

Her arm was around his neck now and she gently pinched his ear.

"Yet think of the time we've wasted since then!" she sighed.

The End.

Corpus Christi Lady Glad to Praise Konjola

Old Resident Eager To Tell What New Medicine Did For Her After Others Failed.

MRS. H. L. DRYER

"I was badly run down and even the simplest foods brought on attacks of indigestion," said Mrs. H. L. Dryer, for more than fifty years a resident of Corpus Christi, Texas, residing at 1337 Ocean Drive in that city. I bloated terribly after meals and suffered severe belching spells. Constipation was a source of constant worry and I had severe pains in my abdomen after meals. I was unable to sleep at night.

"I have taken Konjola but a week and I can say that every ache and pain in my stomach is gone. I can now rest well at night and eat what I wish without any of my former miseries. Have never used a medicine like Konjola and although I am 68 years of age I can do plenty of work. I am more than glad to pass my praise for this medicine on to others."

This is not an exceptional case. Konjola does work quickly and more the less thoroughly. It is best in most cases to continue the treatment over a period of from six to eight weeks.

Konjola is sold in Hico, Texas, at Porter's Drug Store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

"THERE IS NO SUBSTITUTE FOR SAFETY"

Refining A Super Service Institution or What Constitutes A Good Railroad

STANDING STILL now-a-days is equivalent to going backward for almost everything is moving forward more and more rapidly and the person or the institution that stands still soon is left far in the rear of the procession. It is fortunate for America that great changes have occurred, especially in transportation and communication and particularly in railroading.

These changes involve not only the courageous work of railroad managements in developing the railroad transportation plant and the marked increased efficiency with which our railroads are operated but also are noteworthy insofar as is concerned the attitude of the public toward the railroads and the attitude of the railroads and railroad employes toward the public.

It is only a few years since the railroads announced a policy of unusual service. Their sincerity soon was demonstrated and quickly was accepted as a matter of course. That era was quickly followed by the present one. Efforts of railroad men now are directed toward further refinement of super-service institutions.

"What constitutes a GOOD railroad?" is a question easily answered now. A GOOD railroad of course is one that has built up and is maintaining a splendid physical condition. But a GOOD railroad is much more than

A Service Institution

When Is the Sale COMPLETED

A lady went to a store in Hico and paid the nationally advertised price of $8.00 for a certain electric waffle iron.

When trouble developed and she returned it for repairs, no time was lost. The dealer replaced the defective element with one he borrowed from a similar iron in his stock.

Next morning the lady had waffles for breakfast as usual.

Another lady also bought a waffle iron. She paid $6.98 for it at a bargain store in the city where "A Sale is Made When the Money is Paid."

She had trouble, too Not wishing the bother of writing a letter, boxing and shipping, she laid it aside to await her next trip to the city.

After forgetting it once or twice it was finally carried back. To this lady's dismay the old clerks had departed and there was a new manager. Worst of all, she had forgotten to save the purchase ticket, and without that nothing could be done.

Attempts at repairing were unsuccessful. The good waffle breakfasts were no more.

FIRST COW AWARD, GIVEN LAST AUGUST, MAKES GOOD RECORD

Dr. J. D. Currie this week received a report of the record made by his fine Jersey cow, which he has had for about a year. This animal was the first of those given away at the Cow Day celebrations sponsored by the Hico Lions Club, and is kept by H. L. Roddy, who has taken excellent care of the animal.

The report was made from official records and tests by the American Jersey Cattle Club of New York, and covers a period of 193 days the cow produced 5173 lbs. of milk which tested out to contain 295.09 lbs. of butter fat. The average test for the three months was producing at the rate of 558 lbs. of butter fat per year, which is a good record, 500 lbs., being considered a good average.

TRANSFER PAPERS ON McMILLAN'S JERSEY COW RECEIVED THIS WEEK

J. R. McMillan this week received transfer papers on his registered cow, Foxhall's Miss Leigh 2nd, and had same filled out for filing with the American Jersey Cattle Club of New York. The animal was procured from Emil Stegemoller of Cranfills Gap, a few months ago by the cow committee of the Hico Lions Club, and was awarded to Mr. McMillan through the Cow Day offering. She has one calf, which was purchased by Randal Bros., transfer papers on which were filled out by Mr. McMillan.

The cow owned by Mr. McMillan is from the herd of J. W. Price of Waco, and is of excellent stock as are all animals purchased by the Lions Club for the Cow Day affairs. Mr. McMillan is proud to be owner of such a fine specimen, and his interest in keeping her in the country is to be commended. This was the primary object of the awarding of the cows, to build up the herds in and around Hico, and the ones receiving the animals are taking much interest in their community when they keep the animals instead of putting them out of this territory.

Airport Opening

a large six-place Curtiss Thrush. This was the first time a plane this large had landed near Hico, and the ship itself was a marvel and was inspected with interest by all the crowd. Passengers were taken up at intervals by this large ship, as well as the smaller ones, and it was estimated that two or three hundred people enjoyed rides throughout the day.

In the afternoon other ships landed at the field, the names of the pilots not being learned. In the late afternoon Pilot Don Deagle who had so excellently handled the large cabin plane in its numerous flights, took the controls of one of the smaller planes, and thrilled the crowds on the field, as well as the people of the entire countryside who were watching, with several stunts, staying in the air thirty or forty minutes, each minute of which time he was doing something different for the entertainment of the onlookers. He proved himself a master of his ship, and a genius at his calling.

The sponsor of this magnitude with the degree of success attained in the opening Wednesday, and to have the affair go off with so little uncalculated-for commotion and no accidents at all is considered a compliment both to the officials and the citizenship in general. Strict order was maintained at all times, cooperation was the keynote of the occasion, and entertainment galore was provided.

Cow Day Crowds Pleased By Program Of Entertainment

One of the largest crowds ever to have been in attendance at a Cow Day program was on hand Wednesday, August 27th. The airport opening was an additional inducement to visitors, and many were present for the first time. They however found plenty of amusement and profit in the Cow Day offerings, and expressions were heard from many that they would be on hand at each succeeding Cow Day.

The prize Jersey heifer went to C. O. Hill, who resides between Fairy and Cranfills Gap. The animal was indeed a fine one, out of the McKenzie herd at Carlton, the same stock from which the cow awarded to Dr. Currie last fall came, and which has made a good record.

The next Cow Day will be held the last Wednesday in September, and due to the additional impetus of fall business, it is expected that a crowd equally as large will be here on that date.

TEST SHOWS HICO WATER FREE OF TYPHOID GERMS

City Health Officer Dr. C. M. Hall advises the News Review that the city water is free from typhoid germs, as evidenced by a report from the State Board of Health. A sample of the Hico water was sent in for test, although there was thought to be no danger from this source, and the result showed that fears along that line were unfounded.

The city water supply is obtained from deep wells, and the system is kept in good shape at all times, thus avoiding pollution, either in the wells, at the plant or in the mains. The supply is plentiful, which is also a source of pride to the citizens, in view of the fact that other towns have been experiencing some trouble with their water supplies.

CHEVROLET MOTOR CO. INTRODUCES NEW TRUCK TON AND HALF CAPACITY

Introduction of a new one and one-half ton truck by the Chevrolet Motor Company is announced by H. J. Klingler, Vice-President and General Sales Manager.

Highlights of the new type include dual-wheels as optional equipment; heavier rear axle; new pressed steel wheels interchangeable front and rear; new one piece steel channel frame, an internal expanding brakes on all four wheels. The new truck lists at $520 f. o. b. Flint, Mich., while dual wheels including six truck-type cord tires are $25 extra.

Coming directly after the announcement by Chevrolet that production of light delivery trucks for the first six months of last year exceeded the same period last year by twenty per cent, the introduction of this improved larger truck seem destined to add to the importance of Chevrolet in the low priced commercial car field. More than 1,160,000 trucks have been built by Chevrolet since the company began to turn out this type, Mr. Klingler stated.

The new chassis is built complete with cab, and affiliations with body manufacturers enable the purchasers to choose the exact type of body for the work to be done from thirty six different types. Chevrolet dealers are supplied with complete details on the various bodies available.

Reminiscences of Hico Residence by Luncheon Visitor

A luncheon was held at the Midland Hotel dining room Wednesday, August 27th, in honor of the visiting flyers for the opening of Blair Field. The officers and directors of the Hico Lions Club were hosts to the aviators and air officials, as well as other Hico visitors on hand for the occasion.

Mayor J. C. Barrow, President of the Hico Lions Club, acted as chairman or toastmaster, and after the excellent feast, a short time was devoted to talks along various lines by those present. Of course the subject of aviation in general and Blair field in particular predominated, but other things were brought up which were very interesting.

One of the most complimentary and interesting speeches ever heard in Hico was heard from John Tabor, who was a guest of E. R. Lynch and who was introduced by Mr. Lynch as "Mr. John Tabor of Hico—thirty-four years ago." Mr. Tabor, who is now a resident of Waco where he is connected with the McLendon Hardware Company, although his talk was impromptu and delivered without preparation, interested his listeners for several minutes, and brought food for thought to everyone present.

It was in a log cabin with a dirt floor, eight miles from the spot where he was then standing that Mr. Tabor first saw the light of day, according to his statement. He had a keen memory, and some of the things he told contained many items of historical interest. He stated before starting on his talk that he agreed with the saying that reminiscences were the glory of old men, and further stated that if this were true, he must be approaching old age, for every time he thought of Hico he recalled incidents and personalities of his early days. The first of the 1890's was told of, with a few sidelights that are not common knowledge, as well as other things concerning Hico's early history. His memory was keen, his delivery perfect, and the things he said were very appropriate.

The keynote of Mr. Tabor's speech was progress, which he said was very noticeable in the town he found here now. The very fact that Hico boasts of a citizenship that is desirous of having the best of everything, even to air transportation, was praised by him. He stated that undoubtedly the pioneers of Hico had conducted themselves in such a manner as to command the respect of all future generations, and had left a heritage of which we should today be proud and which should inspire us to greater things. All through his speech was a note of praise for these old timers, some of whom have passed on, and it was his belief that they would not be disappointed in the city as it is today.

A fact that has been forgotten by all save a few, probably, was disclosed in this speech. This was that Hico at one time was judged in a contest as the cleanest city in the State of Texas. The shipments of cotton from this point, and the business done in the old days before there were many towns in this section were recalled and brought further praise and a source of pride to hearers.

After Mr. Tabor's talk, expressions were asked from other visitors, and these were short but numerous. Homefolks joined with the visitors in enthusiasm in a general way, and the meeting moved along without a hint of dragging from start to finish.
