Here In HICO

"Flowers for the living" is usually used in another sense from what we have reference to in this column today. For we indeed have been the recipient of real, live, beautiful flowers lately, and are basking in the aroma they have thrown over the office, gazing upon their beauty with a deeper appreciation of nature and the instincts of flower lovers, which cause them to want to share their blessings with others. Very often some good friend brings a bouquet by this office and leaves it for the enjoyment of the force, and the decoration of our front counter. Sometimes we mention these gifts in the columns of the paper—sometimes we do not, and we could give no good reason for either doing this or refraining from doing so. However, the fact that the gifts are not shared with newspaper folks alone is proof that there is no selfish thought in the acts, and perhaps it would appear (to them) out of place to make mention of the fact that they had brought us flowers.

However one gift aroused our gratitude that we will hope the donor pardons our enthusiasm in talking about same. The spirit in which the gift was made was appreciated, and at the same time we believe the specimens of roses we received were such that they ought to bring some applause. Joe Newsum was the donor, and the bouquet he presented us with included some of the finest roses we have ever looked upon. And this in spite of the fact that the recent rains have been damaging to flowers, and the season is a little late for perfect specimens. People passing the Newsum home at the edge of town on the Stephenville highway have no doubt noticed that the yard is a veritable flower garden, and presents an appearance of beauty that is hard to match. This is no new thing at that home, we are told, for every season the same thing occurs, and each year shows an improvement. The rains to which they have gone and the labor necessary to such a front yard is beyond estimation, but for people who love flowers as do Mr. and Mrs. Newsum the work is a pleasure and they are repaid many times for their labors through the effects of same.

There is nothing haphazard about the arrangement of the flowers in the yard either. The whole space is laid off and the most detailed plans are made for the different plants and flowers, and the result is a uniform appearance that is pleasing to the eye. In addition to being a pleasure to Mr. and Mrs. Newsum and their immediate family, their neighbors and the whole town come in for a share of the rewards, for many are the bouquets that have been passed out by these good people, some for weddings, some for funerals, some for entertainments of various kinds, and some just because of the joy they get in sharing their flowers with others.

The roses brought to the News Review office went further than Mr. Newsum might think. We split the lot up, and some of them went home with the wife of the editor, who could not resist their beauty and considered our home a more appropriate place to put them. Then she gave a part of them to a neighbor in turn carried them to a sick person to help cheer that person up. So you never can tell where these good deeds will stop—when they will cease to give joy and pleasure and appreciation.

Last winter Mrs. Rucker Wright put some of her flowers in our front office to keep them from freezing, and there was never a day that passed but what they brought some flattering remark from office visitors. This year Mrs. Wright does not have as many flowers as she did last year, and a part of the space will be given to some plants of Mrs. E. F. Porter's. We are telling this so that those who see the appearance of the window space at the front of the office may not give undue credit to us, and may know whose flowers they are. We are glad to have them, and indeed would be glad to claim them, but these good ladies might catch up with us if we did this prominently, so we are taking this method of giving credit where credit is due.

Talking about flowers—that would be an endless story in Hico, where so many citizens take an interest in growing things and keep their premises in such neat appearance. While there are an endless number of other people that deserve mention for their efforts and the results of these efforts, it will be impossible to tell about all of them. Everybody does notice the beautiful yards and flowers, though, and those who are responsible for this condition do not need any commendation or praise further than that given by the appearance of the flowers themselves.

Hico Motor Co. New Owners of Ford Station Here

Through a deal completed Thursday of last week, when the interested parties went to Dallas to close up final details with the Ford Motor Company branch, Penn Blair and Marvin Bell are now authorized Ford sales and service dealers for Hico territory. They will operate under the firm name of Hico Motor Company, taking over the business formerly owned by H. C. Sadler as the Sadler Motor Company. Mr. Sadler sold his entire residence here they have formed many ties in business and social circles, and have made a host of friends who will regret to see them leave Hico. Mr. Sadler states that they will be here for some time yet, finishing up his business and making arrangements preparatory to their move.

It has not been learned what Mr. Sadler intends to do, but he states that his plans will probably take him and his wife away from Hico, where he has been a resident for about a year, and his wife for about six months, they having married this past spring. During their residence here they have formed many ties in business and social circles, and have made a host of friends who will regret to see them leave Hico. Mr. Sadler states that they will be here for some time yet, finishing up his business and making arrangements preparatory to their move.

The members of the new firm are well known in Hico and over this whole territory. Mr. Blair has been connected with the automobile business for a great while, and it is generally known that his knowledge of the game is thorough. Mr. Bell has been an employe of the Barnes & McCullough Lumber Company for several years, and made connections with the public there that will be valuable to him in his new venture. Both are products of this section, and have made an enviable record both for their ability along their chosen lines and for their citizenship.

It is stated that Roy French will be employed in the capacity of chief mechanic, and the new owners consider that they were fortunate in being able to secure his services. His experience in the automotive service and repair line will stand him in good stead in his new duties. The new owners of the Ford business will be welcomed into a business circle of Hico, and every good wish goes out to them for success in their undertaking. They have an announcement in this week's News Review regarding their business and outlining their plans for the future, in addition to telling about their service at present.

Methodist Revival Announced to Start Sunday Morning

As previously announced, the Revival at the Methodist Church will begin next Sunday, October 26, according to the pastor, Rev. A. C. Haynes, who will do the preaching. Services will be held in the mornings at 10 o'clock, and in the evenings at 7. All members of the church are urged to take an active part in the revival, and members of other congregations and the public in general are invited to attend as often as possible. The first service of the revival will be at the regular morning hour Sunday, 11 o'clock, at which time the pastor is anxious to have as large a congregation on hand as the building will accommodate. Members of the church are working with him toward the end that much good may be accomplished.

RUFUS HAIL, FORMER HICO BOY, DIED IN CRANE, BURIED HERE

Rufus Hail, son of Mrs. G. W. Hail, who was injured in an automobile accident at Crane, Texas, last Sunday, died in the hospital at that place Wednesday morning at 5:15 a. m. He will be remembered by all old residents here, having been born in this section and lived here during the early part of his life, being a member of a prominent family. He had resided at Crane for the past several months, where he was employed with the Gulf Oil Company in a responsible position. During the past few years he had made an enviable record as a baseball player, and last year was connected with the San Angelo ball club. He was a nephew of W. R. Hail, well known farmer of Hico community.

The body was brought to De Leon Wednesday by the Barrow Undertaking company ambulance from Odessa, and Thursday was brought on to Hico for burial.

Funeral services were announced for Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Hico cemetery, conducted by Rev. A. C. Haynes and interment was to be made there in the family burial lot.

The News Review joins with a host of sorrowing friends in sympathy with the bereaved family and relatives.

That is reward enough for them, and all they ask is the pleasure to themselves. That is one of the most beautiful things about the business of raising flowers—it is its own reward.

Iredell Farmer Brings In Sample New Variety Wheat

Wm. D. Schenck, prominent farmer and botanist of the Iredell community, was in Hico Wednesday morning with a sample of a new variety of wheat which he has been perfecting at his place. He left the sample for display purposes, having a load of the wheat en route to Hamilton where he was to have it milled and made into flour. He was in a hurry when interviewed by the News Review man, but took time to tell us something about the history of his new variety of wheat.

In 1883 Mr. Schenck's father and several other farmers of that section sent to Kansas for some of the Mediterranean wheat which was causing so much interest at that time, and that original stock furnished that basis for the sample he displayed this week, 43 years later. Nothing new developed for a number of years, according to Mr. Schenck, but about 1925 cross-pollination started and having observed same he set about developing the wheat on his own land. Now he has perfected it, enlarging the growth each year, until this year he has 225 bushels of the new variety, which he says weighs out 62 1-2 pounds to the bushel.

Mr. Schenck believes this section of the country, Bosque and Hamilton Counties in particular, to be especially suited to the cultivation of wheat, and advises that more farmers put their efforts into this line. He has many different branches to his farming operations, and has come to be looked upon as an authority on subjects of this nature.

ACCOMPANIES MOTHER PART OF THE WAY ON TRIP

Guy C. Ellis, who makes his home at his place 6 miles below Iredell, but who is well known in Hico, was in this city Tuesday afternoon, and dropped in the News Review office to see about his subscription.

Mr. Ellis was waiting for the night train, which he and his mother, Mrs. M. C. Ellis, boarded to go to Stamford, from which place she was to continue her trip to Spur to visit with a daughter, Mrs. Alenzo Lollar. Mr. Ellis went as far as Stamford in order to make the trip as easy as possible on her.

Mrs. Ellis has been visiting in her son's home near Iredell all summer, and Mr. Ellis stated that they would be lonesome without her as they had grown accustomed to her presence and her leaving would leave a vacant place that it would take time for them to grow accustomed to.

Back In Hico.

Dr. H. H. Cox, chiropractor, returned to Hico several days ago and states that he will be located here from now on. He has been away for several weeks, and in this time has visited Dallas, Fort Worth, Waco and the Rio Grande Valley. He said that although he was not particularly looking for a better place than Hico in which to live, nevertheless he has seen a lot of towns and cities in different sections of the state in his travels, and still places this town and section at the top of the list.

THE SQUIRREL

Published by the Honey Grove School

J. W. JORDAN, Editor

The Honey Grove school opened the 13th of October with a nice crowd for a rainy day.

Everyone seemed to be very willing and anxious to help make this the best school year at Honey Grove.

The pupils were very glad to get back to work again, and showed their willingness by coming through the rain to be on time the very first day.

The teachers showed their interest by having the first week's work planned in details, by their happy smiles; and beneficial suggestions.

The Squirrel.

The pupils and teachers met in chapel last Friday morning and decided to publish a weekly paper. We thought it would help us, and we hope it will be of much interest to you.

"The Squirrel" was suggested and adopted as a name. We wanted to name our paper after some animal and we could not name it after the larger animals because our school is too small. We thought of the Lion, but he is king; the Bear, but he is slow and sluggish; the Wolf, but he is a thief; the Rabbit, but he is timid; so we chose the Squirrel. We hope to try to make our paper signify the characteristics of the Squirrel. He is a small animal, but pretty and clever. He makes no boisterous noise, but has an attractive chatter, and causes little disturbance. He is brave, active, a hard worker, and tends to his own business. Above all, he is a climber. It is our aim that not only our paper and school, but also our mental, physical, spiritual, social, moral, and civic activities, climb higher, higher and higher.

The Teachers.

Mr. Herbert Cooke, of Goldthwaite, Texas, is principal of our school. This is his third school. It is expected of him that he give us a smooth, active school term.

Miss Mabel Polnack of Hico, is the primary teacher. This is her first school, but we do not mind that. She was hired because she was an attractive wide-awake, and active young woman, and has proven her skill as a teacher, by her neatness, discipline, orderly arrangement, class room activity, and cooperation.

Weekly Honor Roll.

There will be a weekly and monthly honor roll published in this paper. It is our aim that this will increase interest in class preparation and class room recitation. Will your name appear next week?

Parent T. A.

The parents and friends of the school are invited to meet at the school house Friday, Oct. 24th, at 4:00 o'clock to organize a P. T. A. Much interest has been shown in the movement, and every one seems to be anxious to start to work.

This organization has a broad field to work, and will be of much help to the school. The teachers give you a cordial invitation to come early and visit class recitations.

A Little Fun.

Joe was in the cow-pen milking when an old cow stepped on his toe. As it angered him very much, he said, "Well, I wish that old cow would go dry so she wouldn't be so heavy."

Vestal wanted a job; so he inquired of W. H. whether he had any work for him to do. W. H. said, "Hm, so you want a job, eh? Do you ever tell lies?" Vestal replied, "No, but I can learn."

Former Hico Lady Kidnaping Victim At Cleveland, Ohio

Following is an article clipped from a Cleveland, Ohio, newspaper concerning Mrs. W. Pitt Barnes, who was formerly Mrs. Mable Carroll, a resident of Hico for a number of years. The robbery occurred October 9th, details of which follow:

Mrs. W. Pitt Barnes, wife of the Dodge auto distributor, was in serious condition at her home here Monday after she had been robbed, beaten, and "kidnaped" in her own car.

One of the two men who assaulted her last night at dusk is under arrest at Cleveland Heights Police Station, while police hunt for his companion. The man held is an ex-convict, and will admit no connection with the crime, according to Chief W. G. Barrows of Cleveland Heights.

At 6:10 o'clock last night Mrs. Barnes, alone, was backing her car out of the driveway of her home at 2715 Fairmont boulevard. Two men jumped on the running-board and one thrust a gun at her.

Mrs. Barnes slipped a ring valued at $2000 off her finger, and dropped it to the floor of the car. Chief Barrows was told. One of the robbers saw the movement, snarled, and slugged her on the head with a blackjack.

Throwing her in a back seat, they sped with her to Cedar road and Demington drive. They collided at the intersection with a car carrying Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Brown, 1932 E. 97th street.

The Browns were forced to leave their car at the point of a gun. The robbers abandoned the Barnes car, the it was seriously damaged, and fled to Surrey and Derbyshire roads, where they abandoned the Browns' auto in favor of a parked car, property of John Moody, 1362 Elwood road.

Moody's car was abandoned at Chaffield drive and Fairmont boulevard. The Browns called police, and radio cruisers started in pursuit. They found one man, bare-headed, walking opposite 2500 Euclid Heights boulevard.

A cap found in Mrs. Barnes' car is believed to have belonged to the man held. He told police he had been released from a penitentiary recently after serving time for robbery, but would give no details.

Mrs. Barnes, under a doctor's care, is suffering from scalp abrasions and shock, and is in a semi-hysterical condition, it was said. When she recovers, she will be asked to attempt identification of the man held. Police have only a meager description of the other robber.

Chief Barrows believes the men may be the same pair who on Sept. 18, robbed Windsor French, son-in-law of Joseph Eaton, partner in Otis & Co. French, who lives at 2207 Devonshire drive, was forced to drive thru Amber Park by two men who jumped on the running board of his car at East boulevard and Cedar road. They slapped him in the face, took $20 and two coats, stripped his car of wheels and tires and abandoned it.

The report of the robbery was not made public until today, French also will be asked to identify the captured suspect.

Compliments Hico. Douglas Jarrell, district agent for the Southland Life Insurance Company, whose home is in Brownwood, was in Hico Wednesday on business with W. M. Cheney, S. J. Cheek and others.

Mr. Jarrell complimented Hico highly, and stated that he always liked to visit here. He said that his travels took him to many towns this size, and that he had noticed that business seemed better here than the average, and the people well contented. He especially complimented the appearance of the cemetery, the country club and other local property.

Injured in Car Accident. Mack Phillips was bruised and skinned up considerably Wednesday morning when he was in an accident on the Carlton highway. Details of the accident were not learned, but it is thought that he was under a truck stopped in the road, which was hit by another vehicle that came along with another.

His injuries were not serious, and he was able to come to town immediately afterward.

DUFFAU NEWS

The young people of the community enjoyed a party in the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Lackey Sr. last Saturday night.

Miss Vieta McAnally, who is teacher in the Hico school, visited homefolks here last week end.

Mrs. S. V. Alexander spent a while Wednesday afternoon of last week with Mrs. Harlow.

Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Trimble spent a while Thursday night in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Scales.

Naomi Jones of Hico visited friends at Duffau Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ferrel McAnally and Misses Vieta McAnally, Gladys Latham and Dixie Forester visited in the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. McAnally a while Friday night.

To Preach Here Sunday. Rev. F. N. Allen of Desdemonia, Texas, will preach at the Baptist Church here Sunday at 11 o'clock and at night.

Everybody invited to come out and hear him.

Keeping Up With TEXAS

May 14, 15 and 16 have been tentatively set as the dates for the convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce in Lubbock next year, it was said Monday by Miss Sadie Moore, at the Fort Worth offices of the W. T. C. C.

A mysterious explosion injured five persons, one probably fatally, and wrecking two business houses on the main street at Palestine Monday, Miss Marie Moser, 19, working in the insurance office of her father, M. E. Moser, was in a critical condition. Her father extricated from the wreckage with serious burns and internal injuries. Three other persons were injured.

Investigators said the force of explosion was in the rear of the Moser office, but they could not account for its source. There was a divergence of opinion whether an electrolysis caused it or a gas pocket formed in pipes beneath the floor.

Texas has 496,907 farms (U. S. 1930 census), increase of 59,974 since 1920.

Working with clock-like precision, four men robbed B. W. Moore, 62, veteran cashier of the Union Terminal Company, Dallas, of between $10,000 and $17,000 Monday while he was enroute to a bank to deposit the money. Moore and a policeman, who was accompanying him as a guard, were knocked to the sidewalk with improvised blackjacks wielded by two of the men.

Smith County with 6,907 has more individual farms than any other county in Texas. Eight other counties have more than 6,000 farms.

Mrs. Clara Uhr, Lexie Jones and Donald D. Walker, charged jointly with the murder of Daniel H. Uhr, paralytic, who was killed with an ax while he slept at his home on East Josephine St. Saturday in San Antonio, Jones claimed that Walker had introduced him to Mrs. Uhr and that Mrs. Uhr had promised to pay him $500 out of her husband's $2500 insurance money to kill her husband.

With advice received from Washington that Congress will be requested to double the amount of federal road aid, which meets with the approval of President Hoover, W. R. Ely of Abilene, chairman of the Highway Commission, announced Monday that the commission would and could use in 1931 all the Government offers.

A 25-year-old woman walked into the Union Bank and Trust Co. at Fort Worth at 9:30 a. m. Monday, asked Cashier C. M. Pearce for $1000 and threatened to "blow up the place" if he refused. In her hand was a small bottle containing a coffee-colored liquid. Policeman Dollar, who was off-duty, and dressed in civilian clothes, entered the bank, Dan Lydyck, bank president, motioned to the officer and explained the situation. The policeman grabbed the bottle from the woman's hand. At the police station she said the bottle contained milk and coppers, a solution used in treating chickens. She said she is a trained nurse but that she had been out of work for five months.

Texas is expected to produce 4,275,000 bales of cotton this season, almost one-third of the American total.

Granville Dennis, 19, was found dead on the Kaufman Road near Riley with a gunshot wound in his side Wednesday. A shotgun and a bird lay near him. A carpenter working near by heard a shot and a scream, and an investigation revealed the body. It was believed he accidentally shot himself while climbing an embankment.

Under direct orders of Police Commissioner W. C. Graves that no uniformed policemen will be allowed to escort cashiers and messengers to banks, Captain Jesse Bonner of the plain clothes squad of Dallas prepared Wednesday to order plain-clothes men on such errands.

Two five-year sentences for robberies in which the loot was $1.53 in one case and a pocket-knife in the other were given D. C. Pogue, farmer, in Austin in the Fifty-Third District Court the first of the week.

More than 400 Methodists of the Southern church had registered at Greenville Wednesday morning when the sixty-fourth annual session of the North Texas Conference got under way.

W. R. HUDSON, SON-IN-LAW OF J. C. LANEY, DIED AT AUSTIN HOME LAST WEEK

Friends of J. C. Laney will regret to learn of the death of his son-in-law, W. R. Hudson, who died at Austin Thursday, Oct. 9.

The following from the Stephenville Empire-Tribune of last week's issue, will be interesting to the many friends of the family here.

Mrs. G. O. Ferguson of this city and her father, Cal Laney of Duffau, left for Paris, Texas, on Friday morning after having been notified of the death of Mr. Laney's son-in-law, Welborn R. Hudson, aged 38, who died suddenly in that city Thursday afternoon following a heart attack.

Mr. Hudson was a native of Austin, but had made his home for the past several years at Dallas, he and his family having only recently moved to Paris, where he was employed as manager of the local branch of the Texas Power and Light Company.

He was a son of Dr. and Mrs. S. E. Hudson of Austin, his father, Dr. Hudson, having been prominent as an Austin physician for many years. His mother is also prominent socially, having been active in American Legion work and local club organizations. At the time of her son's death, Mrs. Hudson, past state president of the American Legion Woman's Auxiliary, was attending the National convention of that organization which was in session in Boston. She returned to Texas immediately after being notified of her son's death, reaching Austin Sunday afternoon.

Funeral services for Capt. Hudson were held Monday at 10 a. m. from All Saints Chapel in Austin with Rev. B. M. Boyd officiating.

Capt. Hudson was a Mason, member of Hill City lodge, Scottish Rites bodies and Ben Hur temple.

The Austin Statesman had the following to say concerning the life of Mr. Hudson:

"Mr. Hudson, who entered the World War as a first lieutenant and later was promoted to a captaincy, was a member of the famous Rainbow division and was a leader in organizing a special motor transport to which many Austin men belonged. He was commissioned in the National Guard as a first lieutenant in 1917 and was introduced into federal service August 5 of the same year. He was promoted to the rank of captain in May, 1918.

He served with distinction in several major engagements, notably in the battle of the Argonne and the drive of St. Mihiel, and battle on the Marne. He served with the army of occupation in the Sedan sector and later was a member of the army of occupation serving from December 1, 1918, to April 11, 1919. He landed in the United States in 1919, and was discharged the following June.

"Capt. Hudson is survived by his parents; his wife; a son by his first marriage, Welborn Hudson Jr., now a student at Texas Tech at Lubbock; an infant son, and two brothers, Edward Hudson and Bennett Hudson, both of Houston. He was the eldest of Dr. and Mrs. Hudson's three children."

Mrs. Hudson, who was formerly Miss Ludie Laney of Duffau, is well known in Stephenville, having attended school at John Tarleton for two years, later going to Dallas where she was employed as an assistant in a business office. She was afterwards married there.

Her father and sister, Mrs. H. H. Ramage of Duffau, attended the funeral services held for her husband in Austin Monday.

MOTHER LEAVES CHILDREN AND FACES DEATH

Says Farewell Hard, But Recovery Easy Due to Crazy Water.

In May, 1929, I was critically ill with Rheumatism; in fact, I was an invalid and had to be helped around. My husband decided to bring me to Mineral Wells, as it looked as if there was no hope for me if I remained at home. But I had no confidence in Mineral Wells; in fact, I did not believe that anything or any place would relieve my suffering. You can imagine how I felt when I told my children "Good-Bye," when I did not expect to see them again.

I arrived in Mineral Wells on May 10th, last year, and in one week of the Crazy Water Treatment, I was able to walk and thirty days from the time I arrived I was well again, only a little weak.

I heartily recommend to everyone suffering from diseases caused by faulty elimination that they spend a few days rest at the Crazy Water Hot in Mineral Wells, Texas, the home of Crazy water.

Mrs. F. M. Hilliard, Tulia, Texas.

son were held Monday at 10 a. m. from All Saints Chapel in Austin with Rev. B. M. Boyd officiating.

Capt. Hudson was a Mason, member of Hill City lodge, Scottish Rites bodies and Ben Hur temple.

The Austin Statesman had the following to say concerning the life of Mr. Hudson:

"Mr. Hudson, who entered the World War as a first lieutenant and later was promoted to a captaincy, was a member of the famous Rainbow division and was a leader in organizing a special motor transport to which many Austin men belonged. He was commissioned in the National Guard as a first lieutenant in 1917 and was introduced into federal service August 5 of the same year. He was promoted to the rank of captain in May, 1918.

He served with distinction in several major engagements, notably in the battle of the Argonne and the drive of St. Mihiel, and battle on the Marne. He served with the army of occupation in the Sedan sector and later was a member of the army of occupation serving from December 1, 1918, to April 11, 1919. He landed in the United States in 1919, and was discharged the following June.

"Capt. Hudson is survived by his parents; his wife; a son by his first marriage, Welborn Hudson Jr., now a student at Texas Tech at Lubbock; an infant son, and two brothers, Edward Hudson and Bennett Hudson, both of Houston. He was the eldest of Dr. and Mrs. Hudson's three children."

Mrs. Hudson, who was formerly Miss Ludie Laney of Duffau, is well known in Stephenville, having attended school at John Tarleton for two years, later going to Dallas where she was employed as an assistant in a business office. She was afterwards married there.

BROKEN

by RUBY M. AYRES

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE
Giles Chittenham swears to avenge the death of his young half-brother Rodney, driven to suicide by the notorious Julie Farrow who had spurned his love. He will make Julie love him, then throw her aside as she threw Rodney. He meets her in Switzerland, goes with her to the hotel on the St. Bernard Pass, and succeeds in winning her love. To his amazement, he discovers that he has fallen overwhelmingly in love with to an American girl with whom he has nothing in common.

Then he discovers that this girl is not the same Julie Farrow who ruined Rodney, but her cousin of the same name. She scorns him when he confesses his love and his inability to marry her. They meet later in London, where she is going the pace that kills. Another man, Lawrence Schofield wants to marry her, in spite of her wild life.

Through his friend Lombard, Giles Chittenham meets the "other Julie," the notorious woman who had ruined Rodney's life. She tells him that she is going to die; doctors have given her up as incurable, and she is leaving England. She is worried about her cousin, the girl Chittenham loves. That Julie—his Julie—is going in fast company, among them a common little American girl named Sadie Barrow.

And Sadie Barrow is Giles Chittenham's wife. He did not know that she was in England. That night he meets her at a party at his mother's house. They pretend to be strangers.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
"Oh, an old friend by now," Julie declared. "We've known one another quite a week, and love each other dearly. Bim doesn't approve. She says that Sadie is common and had form, and a wrong influence for me! Did you ever hear such rubbish?"

"I should think Miss Lennox is right," Giles answered, then stopped aghast at the admission. His own wife! "And does Miss Barrow share your views in life that you and she are such great friends?"

"As a matter of fact, she doesn't," Julie answered. "She's inclined to be morbid, and nobody can accuse me of that."

"Morbid!"
"Yes. She's got weird ideas on some subjects. For one thing, she's mad on this latest spiritualistic craze."

"Nonsense!"
"You're not very polite. Ask her yourself if you don't believe me. That's why she's in London now—to see Chrysler, the new medium."

"You're not serious?"
"Of course I am! There's a seance tomorrow, and we're all going. You'd better come along too."

Her eyes challenged him. "Or are you afraid that they may read the secrets of your inmost soul?"
"There is only one secret in my soul for any one to read," Chittenham said.

She laughed.
"How touching! The tragedy of your marriage, I suppose."
"No," said Chittenham. "The tragedy of my love for you." For a moment Julie seemed taken aback. Her lips quivered, and she bit them sharply, then she turned and called to Schofield:

"Lawrence, come here! Mr. Chittenham is talking to me about his soul, and I'm almost reduced to tears."

Giles had forgotten Doris until suddenly she spoke.
"I saw you talking with Julie. What is she who made you angry?"
"Good heavens, no," Giles answered, too eagerly for absolute conviction. "She was talking about spiritualism."
"About Chrysler, the new medium? That little American, Sadie Barrow, is most enthusiastic. She says that she wants to know the future, and that Chrysler can tell her."

"Sadie is a little fool," Chittenham said unthinkingly. Then he flushed dully, and hastily apologized.
"I should not have said that, I beg your pardon, and hers. Let us talk about something else."

"Very well. Say—have you met the other Julie yet?"
"Yes. A night or two ago. I was agreeably surprised," he said at last.
"You know she has gone abroad?"
"I saw something about it in the paper."

"Of course every one is saying that she has gone with some man." Chittenham made a swift gesture of anger, but he instantly controlled himself.
"I know that is absolutely untrue," he said.
Doris flushed.

"I am only telling you what people are saying."

"People are too charitable!" Giles said with a sneer, and he thought of the woman whom he had left crouching by the fire in that lonely room. "I suppose if I allow myself to be identified with this menagerie much longer, they will credit me with a scandal of my own."

"I think they have done that already," Doris said lightly.
He turned and looked at her. "Really! May I ask what it is?"
"I hardly know the facts myself, but I know it was something to do with Julie Farrow—this Julie Farrow—she watched him closely as she spoke."

Miles managed to laugh.
"How futile! I never met her in my life till that night at the Faun where I met you."
She looked at him steadily.
"That is not what Mr. Lombard insinuates."

In spite of himself Chittenham changed colour.
"So Lombard is the liar," Mrs. Ardron floated into the doorway, Giles rose, glad of the interruption.
He wandered through the crowded rooms until he came across Lombard.

"I want to speak to you."

Lombard looked up.
"Well—what is it?"
"Come outside—"
The two men went into the hall. "What on earth . . . ?" Lombard asked again apprehensively. Chittenham told him.
"I understand that you've been talking about things that don't concern you."
"My dear old chap—"
"You know what I mean—Switzerland—"
"I assure you, Chittenham—"
Giles cut in ruthlessly.
"Don't let me hear any more about it, that's all, or I shall have something to say to you that won't be pleasant hearing."

Chittenham turned on his heel and walked away.
"A new sensation," said Julie. She sat up in bed, letting the letter she had been reading slip down to the floor.
"It was a lovely morning when I came home," she said flippantly. "The first time I've seen the sun rise, by the way . . . no, not quite the first time—"
There was a little silence. "The first time was in Switzerland," she added defiantly. "On top of an exceedingly high mountain, and the devil said unto me . . ."

Bim turned sharply.
"Julie, for Heaven's sake shut up."
"Oh, all right," Julie giggled.

"Bim!" she went out of the room and to Bim's door. Julie flung it open. She entered with a little rush, and, running across to her friend, dropped down on her knees beside her.
"I didn't mean it. I'm sorry. Forget I said it . . . I'm a beast—a mean beast, but you made me angry."

"Give it up, Julie," Bim urged gently. "Come away with me. We've had good times together before, and the country is Heaven now—"
She turned round, her arms hanging limply at her sides, her hair ruffled. "I can't!" she said. "I've got to stay and face it out. He'll think I'm afraid—that I'm running away."

She spoke quickly and incoherently, almost as if some power outside herself was forcing the words from her.
"I'd rather die than that he should think that. I'd rather marry Lawrence Schofield."

"My dear, I don't understand in the least what happened between you," Bim said in her cool, smooth voice. "You would never tell me when I asked you. If I only knew perhaps I could help you better—"
Julie flung up her head with a violent jerk.
"He's married," she said defiantly.

Her head went down again on her outflung arms and she began to sob.
Bim sat quiet still, her hand on the girl's hair till Julie was quieter, then she tried again.
"Don't be a coward, Julie. Cut it all out and come away with me."

"I should be more of a coward if I did that. He'd know I was afraid."
There was a little silence, then Bim asked:
"Julie, have you seen his wife?"
"Whose wife?"
"Mr. Chittenham's?"

"I wish Giles Chittenham could hear you."
Julie flushed.
"Are you in love with him?" she twitted Bim sharply.
Bim flushed to the roots of her closely-cropped hair.
"No," she said. "But you are."
There was a little silence, then Julie started up, her eyes blazing, her lips quivering with rage.
"Go out of my rooms," she commanded. "How dare you say such a thing! I've had enough of you and your saintly ways. The sooner you go the better. I'm sick of being dictated to, and preached at. I—"
But Bim had gone, closing the door softly behind her.

Julie lay back on the pillows. She was trembling in every limb. "How dared she say such a thing! How dared she?" she asked herself passionately. "In love with that man! I hate him—How dare she . . . how dare she!"
She shut her eyes tightly, afraid of the searing tears that suddenly seemed to rise from her heart.

Hate him! The man in whose arms she had found the meaning of love; the man whose tragic mistake had broken her, body and soul. Until now she had hardly realized how much she had suffered since that evening in Switzerland when Chittenham had told her the truth.

She was morbidly afraid lest Giles should guess how he had hurt her, and to counteract that fear she sometimes deliberately sought his society, crucifying herself in order to deceive him. And it had been all in vain, for Bim knew!

With a swift little movement Julie threw aside the bedclothes and caught up a wrap.
"Bim!" she went out of the room and to Bim's door. Julie flung it open. She entered with a little rush, and, running across to her friend, dropped down on her knees beside her.

"I didn't mean it. I'm sorry. Forget I said it . . . I'm a beast—a mean beast, but you made me angry."
"Give it up, Julie," Bim urged gently. "Come away with me. We've had good times together before, and the country is Heaven now—"
She turned round, her arms hanging limply at her sides, her hair ruffled. "I can't!" she said. "I've got to stay and face it out. He'll think I'm afraid—that I'm running away."

She spoke quickly and incoherently, almost as if some power outside herself was forcing the words from her.
"I'd rather die than that he should think that. I'd rather marry Lawrence Schofield."

"My dear, I don't understand in the least what happened between you," Bim said in her cool, smooth voice. "You would never tell me when I asked you. If I only knew perhaps I could help you better—"
Julie flung up her head with a violent jerk.
"He's married," she said defiantly.

Her head went down again on her outflung arms and she began to sob.
Bim sat quiet still, her hand on the girl's hair till Julie was quieter, then she tried again.
"Don't be a coward, Julie. Cut it all out and come away with me."

"I should be more of a coward if I did that. He'd know I was afraid."
There was a little silence, then Bim asked:
"Julie, have you seen his wife?"
"Whose wife?"
"Mr. Chittenham's?"

"Good Lord, no. He told me they were separated, or something but if they are, I daresay it's his fault. He must be a brute to live with."
Bim got up slowly and walked in to Julie's room.
"I suppose it's true?" she submitted hesitatingly.
"What is true?"
"That he is married?"
Julie turned round, her eyes wide, her lips parted.
"I—suppose so," she said slowly, then the colour blazed suddenly in her cheeks. "Do you mean that . . . you think he just said it—as an excuse . . . to get rid of me?"
"Well . . ."

Julie went on with her dressing, but her hands shook badly.
"If I really thought that—" she said.
"Perhaps I ought not to have suggested it," Bim said hurriedly. "But he makes love to you—asks you to marry him—"
"No, he never asked me to marry him," Julie interrupted ruthlessly. "He just said . . . oh, why need we go all over it again?" she asked passionately.

"I'm only trying to help you, Julie. If it is true that he is married, why did he make love to you?"
Julie laughed.
"Don't all married men make love to other women?" she asked cynically.

"I shouldn't have thought a man like Mr. Chittenham would," Bim said.
Julie made a little sound of anger.
"I suppose I shall have to tell you all the truth," she said. "It all sounds so silly—like a cheap drama. He thought I was Jewel—I never told you that, did I? He had some quixotic idea of paying me out for what he thought I had done to Rodney—they all blamed Jewel because he killed himself, you know. Well, Giles thought it would be a good idea to make me fall in love with him and then laugh at me for punishment. Funny, isn't it?" she submitted quivering.

"Well, I fell in love with him all right and then after he'd found out his mistake, and that I wasn't Jewel after all, he told me the truth. But first he said that he really loved me—he said that part of it wasn't pretence at all but the real thing . . . I remember I was fool enough to think it must be all right then. I was quite ready to fall into his arms again and forgive him—"
Her voice was hoarse with dreary self-scorn. "And then he had to tell me the rest—that he was married!"

A maid tapped at the door and entered.
"Please, Miss Farrow, will you see Mr. Chittenham?"

Who Has EAGLE EYES?

"LINDY" DESCRIBES in his book "We" the difficulty which a new flyer encounters in selecting a smooth safe landing field.

From a distance all the bumps and obstructions are so completely smoothed out that they are visible to any except a trained pilot's eye.

In commerce as in aviation there are but few trained distant observers. Too often the smooth well painted picture of distant "bargains" proves but an illusion which fades out when the goods arrive. Sometimes unsuspected irregularities then become visible.

Unless one has the trained eye of an eagle for keen distant observation the safe and sensible plan is to examine all purchases at close range where the "bumps or stumps" will be in plain sight.

Miss Irene Franks returned home Tuesday night from Dallas where she spent a few days, guest of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Weaver, and attended the State Fair, which is being held there at this time.

Entertained At Bridge Honoring Chicago Guest.

Baskets of cut flowers decorated the living room of the H. E. McCullough home last Friday when Mrs. McCullough entertained with a bridge luncheon in honor of her guest, Mrs. Arnold Kipp, of Chicago, Ill. Two tables were arranged for the occasion.

A three-course luncheon was served.

At the close of the bridge games, prizes were given Mrs. Herbert Wolfe, who won high score, Mrs. H. C. Sadler for consolation, and to the honoree, Mrs. Kipp.

The personnel included Mesdames H. N. Wolfe, C. L. Woodward, Earl R. Lynch, H. C. Sadler, Roland L. Holford, and Mrs. Berry Wynn of Waco.

Mrs. H. C. Sadler Entertains At Bridge Tuesday.

Baskets of yellow daisies, this-tles and various wild flowers placed about the rooms of the F. M. Mingus home made a charming background for the Thursday Bridge Club when Mrs. H. C. Sadler was hostess to its members and a few additional guests on Tuesday afternoon of this week. Three tables were arranged for bridge games. The Hallowe'en suggestions were carried out in every detail.

High score was won by Mrs. C. G. Masterson, who was presented with salt shakers. Cut prize, a bridge cover, went to Mrs. Earl R. Lynch, and Mrs. H. N. Holfe received little tie backs as consolation prize.

At the close of the games, the hostess served a menu consisting of salad, toasted marshmallow crackers, sandwiches forming a Hallowe'en face, puffles, cake, peach cream, ice tea and salted nuts.

The guest list included Mesdames C. G. Masterson, F. M. Mingus, Earl R. Lynch, C. L. Woodward, Hugh E. McCullough, Roland L. Holford, T. A. Duncan, H. N. Wolfe, Miss Zella Mirn Duncan, Mrs. A. C. Petty of Abilene, and Mrs. G. L. Powledge of Dallas.

Found At 71 Very Medicine He Required

Venerable Citizen of San Antonio Tells What Konjola Did In His Stubborn Case.

MR. WILLIAM DAVIS

"It was nine years ago that I began having trouble with constipation, indigestion, bloating and poor appetite," said Mr. William Davis, 71, of 732 Kayton avenue, Dallas. "I took several kinds of medicine but nothing did me the good that Konjola did. I had to take laxatives daily and gas and indigestion followed practically every meal. At times the pain was so severe that I could scarcely bear it. My entire system was run down."

"I read so much about Konjola that I decided to give it a trial. I noticed an improvement within three days and in three weeks I felt better than I had in years. I am telling all my friends about Konjola and expect to take it until I am free of all ailments."

Konjola has done as much for thousands when taken regularly over a six to eight week period. It is truly a master medicine for ailments of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and rheumatism, neuritis, and nervousness.

Konjola is sold in Hico, Texas, at Porter's Drug Store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

NEWS FROM IREDELL COMMUNITY

By MISS STELLA JONES

Mrs. Berta Smith of Waco is visiting her niece, Mrs. Pike. Dr. and Mrs. Terrell, Mrs. Ruby Phillips and Miss Eugenia Pike were here Wednesday evening from Stephenville.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Myers and children and Mrs. Angus French were business visitors in De Leon Tuesday.

Misses Inez Newsom, Ina McElroy and Mona Newman visited in Dallas this week and took in the fair.

Mr. and Mrs. Kraemer were called to Dublin on account of the illness of the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilkerson this last week. The baby was better when they returned home.

Mrs. Rogers of Henrietta is visiting her daughter, Mrs. W. J. Evans.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Stevens of Gorman spent the week end here. Miss Eugenia Pike spent the week end here.

Mr. and Mrs. Holloway and family of Merkel visited Mr. and Mrs. Tom Fuller and Mr. and Mrs. Cheving this last week. Some more news.

Miss Oma Newton of near Glen Rose is visiting here.

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Evans drank some kerosene oil Sunday and has been very ill from it but is doing nicely now. Mr. Evans had half a teacup full of oil setting by his bed to put on a cut finger and she thought it was water and drank half of it.

Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Fuller of Hico, Louisiana, visited Mr. and Mrs. Tom Simpson here this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Tidwell have moved to the Mrs. Mun Tidwell house that was vacated by Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Souder, who moved to the Ogle house on North side.

Oscar Thompson, who lives in Kopperl and who is well known here, is very ill from an operation for appendicitis. He is at Temple. Mr. and Mrs. Hanshaw and Ewell Thompson are with him. His many friends hope he will soon recover.

Mrs. G. C. Rhodes was in Dallas the first of the week. Mrs. Seals, her aunt, came home with her and Mr. Hudson took her back Saturday. Her home is in Fort Worth.

Mr. and Mrs. B. N. Strong and son and Mr. and Mrs. Will Clanton were in Waco Friday evening to see a game of football.

Mrs. Lee Holt of Fort Worth is visiting here.

Mino Laughlin, Otis Blue, W. F. Turner, Jr., Ralph Tidwell, A. C. McAdams, Howell McAdams, Albert Pike and Cecil Patterson took in the Cotton Palace at Waco Sunday.

Word was received here by relatives of the death of Mrs. Vernon Jones of Fort Worth who died Friday evening and was buried the following day.

Randolph Scales of Austin is here making some improvements on the telephone office. The house is the property of his and his sister.

Rev. Nance left Monday afternoon for Temple to be with Mrs. Nance who will undergo an operation Tuesday morning. Her friends hope for her a speedy recovery and soon be home.

Bill Doyal of Long Beach, Cal., and his sister, Mrs. Maroney, are visiting their sister, Mrs. A. N. Parks.

Mr. and Mrs. Laughlin spent the week end in Brown County with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Tidwell and son spent Sunday with her father, Mr. Ragsdale, at Clifton.

Mrs. Horace Floyd accompanied her sister, Mrs. Eva Gregory home from the funeral Tuesday evening. Mrs. Head and Mrs. Rymer of Walnut came after her Wednesday and she visited them before she went to her home in Chickasha.

Mrs. Hugh Harris honored her husband with a surprise birthday dinner at their home on Sunday. Those present were, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Harris ad daughter, Miss Maggie, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Conley and children, Mr. and Mrs. Quince Fouts and children, and Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Tidwell and children. All had a fine time and the dinner was enjoyed by all.

Mr. and Mrs. Echols and son, Billy, Miss Dorothy Gregory, Paul Patterson and Fred McIlheney were in Waco Sunday to attend the Cotton Palace.

Mr. and Mrs. John Williamson of Dallas attended the funeral of her aunt, Mrs. Sallie Clemons of Carlton, who was brought here for burial on Monday.

Mrs. Alice French was very much surprised on Sunday when relatives brought a fine prepared dinner to her residence. A fine time was enjoyed by all. Mrs. French received several nice presents. Those present were, Mrs. Wortman and Mrs. Witt of Fort Worth, Mrs. Clara Richard of Denton, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Blue of the Spring Creek community, Mrs. Lula Ray and daughter, Miss Mae French and Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Myers and sons.

Captain Nustbaum of El Paso gave a series of lectures here this week at the school auditorium. The lectures were fine and very instructive. He was to have preached here Sunday morning but on account of the bad road he never came in till Sunday evening. The sermon he delivered was fine. The crowd was small on account of the weather. We hope he will come back again to our city.

Mrs. Sallie Clemons, who once was a resident here, and was well known here, died at her home in Carlton October 19, 1930 and was brought here for burial the following day. Rev. Nance a former pastor conducted the funeral. The relatives have the sympathy of their friends in the loss of their loved one.

There will be a play at the school auditorium Saturday evening. A certain young man wants to marry and will select his bride from a bunch of pretty girls. All come and see who the bride will be. 10c and 15c admission Oct. 25.

The girls will run new on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Hanshaw and Mr. Ewell Thompson returned Monday from Temple where they have been with Oscar Thompson. They report him to be very ill.

Died In Oklahoma.

Mrs. Martha Ella Baggett Cole was born in Robertson County, Tennessee, July 13th, 1858 and died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Horace Floyd at Chickasha, Okla., Monday, Oct. 13 at 6:30 A. M. She was married to J. T. Cole in the year 1872. To this union 5 children were born, two boys and three girls, but one boy, Chester, died at the age of five years.

She was converted and joined the Baptist Church at the age of 13 and lived a christian life till the end. Eighteen years ago she went to the Pentecostal Church and lived there until the end of her earthly life, doing all the good she could, long as she could. She was a pure, sweet character and every one loved her. She shed out a sweet influence from her devoted life, like the sweet odor from a beautiful flower.

She was ill for several months and bore her afflictions with patience for she knew she would go to a home where suffering and sorrow would never come. It was my privilege to know her as she came here to see her daughter, Mrs. Gregory, every year and she made friends here, for to know her was to love her. She was not for the ways of the world. She was a great reader of the Bible and other religious books. It can truly be said of her, "She hath done what she could." All the children were at her bedside when she breathed her last like a child going to sleep in its Mother's arms. Her body was brought to Walnut Tuesday morning, accompanied by all the children. The funeral of this dear, good mother in Israel was held in the Pentecostal Church at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon in the presence of a large crowd of relatives and friends. Her pastor, Rev. Cappeland, had charge of the funeral. At the close of the services all were permitted to take the last sad look for she certainly looked very sweet and natural. No doubt if she could speak she would say, "Don't weep for me, loved ones and friends, for I am waiting in heaven for thee." The floral offerings were very large and beautiful which told of the high esteem in which she was held by her friends for she was so good and deserved all the beautiful flowers. She never spoke a harm word of any one nor had a harm word spoken of her as she was an every day Christian. The large crowd followed the remains to the Silent City of the dead out a short distance from Walnut where she was laid to rest by the side of her husband who preceded her several years ago. She leaves four children: Cecil Cole of Beaumont; Mrs. Lillian Tarver of Wortham, Mrs. Horace Floyd of Chickasha, and Mrs. Eva Gregory of Ireddell. She leaves a brother, Mr. Baggett and a host of other relatives to mourn her loss. The out of town relatives and friends who attended the funeral were: Mrs. Pearl Floyd of Chickasha, Mr. and Mrs. Tarver of Wortham, Cecil Cole of Beaumont, Mrs. Eva Gregory and children of Ireddell, Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Baggett and daughter of Cleburne, Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Hyde and son, Joe and family of Meridian, Mrs. Gun and daughter, Effie, of Weatherford, Mrs. Fouts, Mrs. R. S. Echols, Mrs. C. R. Conley, Mrs. R. L. Harris and Miss Maggie Harris, rs. Albert Hensley, Mrs. Jim Hensley, Mrs. Willard Hudson, Mr. and Mrs. T. O. Gregory, Mrs. Seales, Mrs. McAdams, Mrs. Laughlin and Miss Stella Jones all of Ireddell. Everything was done for this dear good woman to save her life but God saw best to take her, but she is gone but not forgotten. The relatives have the sympathy of their friends here in the loss of their loved one.
