SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

International Sunday School Lesson for May 17
CHRIST ENTERS JERUSALEM AS KING

Luke 19:29-42, 45, 48
Rev. Samuel D. Price, D. D.
This lesson tells the story of Palm Sunday, which was observed on March 29. Then it was April 2, A. D. 30. Jesus had been advancing toward Jerusalem for the past three months. He reached Bethany from Jericho on the eve of the Jewish Sabbath which He observed as was His custom. Crowds were present from all parts of Jewry, for the annual Passover season was at hand. On the first day of the week, our Sunday, Jesus went to Jerusalem, and the greatest earthly honor in His life was accorded Him. When the people discerned His purpose a triumphal procession was spontaneously arranged. As by common consent they thronged about Him and advanced as He did. Meanwhile Jesus assumed the position of royal ty that He had declared in the previous years. Disciples sent on the errand returned with a colt of an ass and the Teacher was placed thereon. Here was a declaration of the Prince of Peace, quite in contrast with the desire of the people that He become their king in opposing the Roman authority. Garments caparisoned the ass. Other clothing was laid as a carpet for the beast to walk on. Branches of the palm trees were waved in tribute of praise as the people sang from Old Testament themes. They shouted "Hosanna" and chanted from the Hebrew Hallel, which was used always as they advanced to Jerusalem for the Passover season. There was a minor phrase to the song when Jesus wept as He suddenly beheld the Holy City at a turn in the road. He had in mind the awful destruction of the city 37 years later. The Golden Text declares "He is Lord of Lords and King of Kings," Revelation 17:14.

THE WAY OF LIFE BY BRUCE BARTON

WHETHER WE FEEL THAT WAY OR NOT
A friend of mine tells me that he has recently added to his income by working in the evenings as a press agent for an amusement park. It was his first contact with that great industry which has grown up out of the rather pathetic eagerness of folks to be happy—to have their minds diverted from their work and worries. He said: "My job has been hard work, but it taught me one thing that is priceless—how to look pleasant whether I feel that way or not." It reminded me of a conversation I once had with the press agent of a circus. In describing the freaks in the side-show, he remarked: "Every so often we have to send them away. They get sucker sore. 'Sucker sore!' I exclaimed. 'That's a new one on me. What's the meaning of sucker sore?' He explained that, in the parlance of the circus, a customer is a sucker. It is not a derogatory term, merely the conventional phrase. 'The freaks sit there on their raised platforms, listening to the comments of the suckers who press around them all day long,' he said. 'The living skeleton hears the same rude jokes a hundred thousand times. The fat lady is poked at with umbrellas, and kidded by smart young fellows who imagine that their wise cracks are something absolutely fresh and new. 'Day after day, the freaks put up with it, smiling patiently. But every day the strain of their suppressed emotions grows greater, until finally they want to jump down off their platforms and bite the customers. Then we have to send them away for a rest. They are 'sucker sore.' Most of us can sympathize with the freaks; we, too, have been sucker sore. There have come days when our tired nerves rebelled against the demands of the customers who give us a living; when we grumbled at the job for which we should have been grateful; when it seemed that all interest had gone from our work, leaving only dull routine. It is wise on such days to pull down the desk and walk out of the office, and say: 'I will not be back until tomorrow.' But even this cure does not always work, or can not always be applied. Soon or late we have to face the fact that life is a fight, not a picnic. And one of the elements of victory, in the words of my friend, is the capacity to 'look pleasant, whether we feel that way or not.'

Interest in crochet lace has been revived by French dressmakers as a dress trimming. It is even used to trim some of the new linen hats for resort wear. The sketch shows how a simple sort of crocheted lace may be used to trim a tunic for spring or summer. You begin with a chain of eight. Then taking a stitch back in the fifth stitch in the chain, then take three more chain stitches, turn and put the thread over the needle twice, then take a stitch through the loop made in the initial chain, pull the thread through, take a stitch through that loop and one thread on the needle, put the thread over the needle and through the second loop on the needle and then put the thread over the needle and pull through the last loop on the needle. This is the regular double crochet stitch. This makes the first of the five spokes that go down to the loop on the original chain. Now take two plain chain stitches, make a second spoke into the loop, take two chain stitches, etc., until you have the five spokes as shown in the sketch. Take one chain stitch and a second through the third stitch on your original chain to close your semi-circle. Turn, and crochet around the semicircle, taking picot stitches between each two spokes. Take three chain stitches and begin again on your second scallop or semicircle, attaching the first picot of each scallop to the last picot of the preceding scallop. When you have made as much lace as you wish in one piece, go along the base of the entire length of lace with a series of single stitches.

MORE ABOUT "COLDS"
"Colds" and "heart disease" seem to be in the vast majority of American ailments, if one keeps his eyes open to complaints at home and watches reports of sudden deaths out-state. And colds are considered not at all serious, though extremely inconvenient to have on hand. Let me again hammer this truth home: The proper time to "break up a cold," is at its very beginning. When you begin to feel a little "shivery," and begin to sneeze frequently, with vague and shifting little pains about the different muscles, with a general indolent and incapable feeling, lack of appetite—maybe feverish and apathetic, you are taking a cold; and the time to begin treatment is right then and there. Bear in mind that, there is no demand for a purgative unless the bowels are positively not functioning; and even then, a non-irritant like cascara or compound licorice powder is best. I am advising those, of course, who have not a physician within easy reach. I am aware that the patient resents this admonition, but, the thing to do, if you would be cor-

le and pull through the last loop on the needle. This is the regular double crochet stitch. This makes the first of the five spokes that go down to the loop on the original chain. Now take two plain chain stitches, make a second spoke into the loop, take two chain stitches, etc., until you have the five spokes as shown in the sketch. Take one chain stitch and a second through the third stitch on your original chain to close your semi-circle. Turn, and crochet around the semicircle, taking picot stitches between each two spokes. WHAT NEXT?
You will soon leave high school
What is going to be your aim in life? What will help you accomplish that aim? Let us offer you a suggestion that has helped many—attend a Byrne College. They specialize in secretarial and accounting courses. If you have had bookkeeping or shorthand in high school you have laid a good foundation for these courses. If you haven't had commercial work in high school, our preparatory work will in a few weeks qualify you to take up the accounting and secretarial courses. These higher courses mean better salaries, better positions, better surroundings and a better future. The demand for our graduates of these courses is always greater than the supply even in times like this. Right now we do not have on our active employment files a graduate of one of our complete courses. Don't compare a Byrne College with other schools—Byrne schools are different. They are more like large business offices; they teach you by the apprenticeship method which means the most thorough and practical training possible in far less time than could be obtained with old orthodox class methods. Byrne schools have made good their slogan: "In half the time at half the cost of others." A beautifully illustrated catalogue of the five Byrne Colleges may be had for the asking. This catalogue describes the advantages of our methods, the advantages of the employment service of Byrne Colleges and the saving of time and cost. Address the Byrne College nearest you.
