SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

International Sunday School Lesson for August 9
SAUL CONVERTED
Acts 9:1-9; 17-19; 1 Timothy 1:12-14

Rev. Samuel D. Price, D. D.
The greatest man in all human history is presented in this and subsequent lessons during the remainder of the year. We met him first when he voted for the stoning of Stephen and then was caretaker of the garments of those who had part in the killing. Many others in Jerusalem and vicinity were persecuted because they asserted belief in Jesus Christ as the Messiah. Saul was a leader in this cruelty. Learning that there was a growing colony of Christians in Damascus, letters were obtained from the Sannedrin to the leaders in the Damascus synagogue giving authority to search out both men and women in that city who were open in their acknowledgment of the new Way of Faith and Practice. There is plenty of time to think when making a journey of 140 miles in the manner of travel of the first century. Meditations en route prepared the mind for the wonderful revelation that came from the Throne of God to Saul as he approached the city of his destination. Though it was high noon the glory of God outshone the sun and Saul fell prostrate to the earth. Jesus Christ spoke directly to this persecutor and forthwith the man who had been a terror to so many is quiet as a little child and asks for instruction in the greatest subject of life. This director of men finds himself helpless, for he has been blinded and must trust to a friendly hand for guidance into the city. Three days are given to look at the light of life while the eyes are useless. Then Ananias comes as a messenger of hope and prophecy. Sight is restored by another miracle and a commission is given which makes this Saul the apostle to the Gentiles. It was all new and strange but this converted servant of the Lord says in the Golden Text, "I was not disobedient unto the heavenly vision." Acts 26:19.

MAIN STREET LOOKS AT BROADWAY L. ERNEST CAMP JR. BY OBSERVER

Long Taxi Ride
A Nyack woman—Nyack is just outside of the city—hired a taxi to take her to her mail order suit-or, who lived in Walkerton, Ind., the other day. When she got to Indiana she changed her mind and drove back in the same cab.
Mrs. Ida Wheaton, who is 55, had corresponded with the man in the case for years. She finally decided to go to him and shipped her furniture. Then she loaded the cat and canary in Frank Partow's cab and traveled 889 miles in thirty hours.
She called it off when she found her intended husband was only 36 years old and sickly. It cost her exactly $400 for taxi fare, both ways.
The incident shows how used to taxicabs New Yorkers have become.

Courtesy Cops

New York has had so many compliments paid it on her fine policemen that Commissioner Mulrooney decided the other day to go a step farther.

He selected eighty-four of the handsomest and best appearing policemen on the force and detailed them to Times Square and other busy corners where visitors are thickest, with instructions to consider themselves as a welcoming committee.

Mulrooney claims they form a finer body of men than the famous Coldstream Guards or Royal Horse Troop are to London. The shortest man on the new detail is only one inch short of six feet.

H. R. H. Al Smith

The King of Siam was taken to the top of the Empire State building the other day by Al Smith, and shown what New York looks like to a bird. The two had an enjoyable visit and the King's eyes did not bother him in the least, scoring one more bull's-eye for American surgery.

A funny thing about the visit is that it has hung a new title on the man who came close to the Presidency. His intimates now refer to him as "His Royal Highness" the title used by royal heirs. That's what he gets for being boss of the world's tallest building!

Flyers Got Works

Wiley Post and Harold Gatty got a full jolt of New York's welcome the other day when they ended their globe-circling trip. It was so strenuous that they insisted it was the most trying part of their whole trip. But they enjoyed every minute of it, particularly the noise, Post helping out in the din by hanging onto the whistle cord of the "Macom," the city's official boat, as it steamed down to the battery.

He gave up in disgust when the "Macom" passed the "Aquitania." The big liner let go with its own big whistle and it drowned out all other sounds for a minute. The two flyers made a big hit with every body, except when it came to speeches. Neither one of them is an orator.

Few Fireworks

New York is not a noisy city on the Fourth of July any more. Time used to be when the papers always carried a long list of dead and injured the day after the celebration but those times have passed. Now the youngsters have to get outside of the city limits to buy Chinese firecrackers and other noise-makers, and then take a chance some cop isn't around when he sets them off.

It certainly is an improvement over the old days—except that we feel sorry for the kids who are stopped from celebrating. Every body agrees, however, that a good rule passed when the sale of fireworks was stopped. It cost too much suffering for the small amount of pleasure gained.

HARDLY a person who isn't familiar with that little jar of petroleum jelly in the family medicine cabinet. But how many know that this is the same, salve-like substance which makes ordinary motor oil thick and sluggish when cold, and water-thin when hot?

Petroleum jelly has virtually been stripped from Sinclair Opaline Motor Oil. Sinclair refineries have modern refrigerating and separating equipment which takes petroleum jelly out of Opaline at as low as 60° F. below zero—a point much lower than is required for just removing wax.

All grades of Opaline are refined for year-around use. (See Sinclair Law of Lubrication booklet which we will gladly give you.)

We apply Opaline to your car according to the Sinclair Law of Lubrication. This law is based on the fact that the space between piston and cylinder wall is widened by wear. The grade of oil which filled this space at 5,000 miles cannot safely bridge the gap and prevent blow-by at 15,000 miles.

Opaline is refined from selected paraffin base crudes in several grades—one of them will exactly fit your engine according to its present state of wear. Tell us your mileage—we have an index which specifies the correct grade of Opaline for your car.

A SERIOUS INDICTMENT

Perhaps the most shocking revelation that has been made public for many years is the report by the Wickersham Commission on Crime and Punishment of the way in which child offenders under Federal laws are misused, neglected, even tortured in various state penal institutions to which they have been sent by the Federal courts.

The Federal government maintains prisons for adult offenders, but has to turn children who are convicted of violating Uncle Sam's laws over to state and county institutions. Investigators report that in some of these prisons they are placed in damp, unsanitary, dark cells, in others mixed with hardened adult criminals, in others practically starved, and in others beaten and otherwise mistreated for the slightest infraction of discipline.

If anything can turn a boy or girl of 15 or so into an habitual criminal, it is prison treatment such as that.

These children have done nothing to merit any such treatment. It is only occasionally, to be sure, that a minor comes under the ban of the Federal laws. These young prisoners have been found guilty of running a stolen automobile across a state line, which is one of the most recent crimes under Federal laws, or of acting as messenger for drug-peddlers, again crossing a state line, or of other inter-state acts which, while serious enough, do not call for such brutal and heartless treatment as these youngsters get.

If the United States Government must send children to jail, then let the Federal authorities establish their own prison for minors and see that they are humanely treated.

TOO MANY GOVERNMENTS One reason for the rapid increase of taxes is in the increasing number of governments and government officials which the taxpayers are called upon to support. Governor Roosevelt of New York recently pointed out that no citizen of that state can live under fewer than four governments, and many of them live under no less than ten different sets of public officials.

There are the Federal, State, county and city governments, as a minimum. If one lives in a town outside of a village he is under five layers of government: Federal, State, county, town and school. If he lives in an incorporated village another layer is added. If he lives in a town outside of the village he may be in a fire, water, lighting, sewer and sidewalk district, in which case there are ten layers of government," said Governor Roosevelt.

Similar conditions exist in every state. Most of the work of administration could be done by half as many people as are employed at the public expense, merely by merging the different governmental units. Dr. J. C. Galpin, sociologist of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, suggests the consolidation of small townships, villages and even counties. This is necessary in many rural districts, he says, if adequate modern facilities for education and other community enterprises like hospitals, libraries, parks, playgrounds, churches, fire companies and the like are to be available. He estimates that it takes a community of at least a thousand families to support up-to-date facilities of such kinds. If he is right, then there is no way out for the small communities except such a merger of interests as Dr. Galpin and Governor Roosevelt propose.

COURAGE Some surprise has been expressed that young men wealthy enough to own seagoing yachts should have the courage to sail their own craft in the ocean race from Newport, R. I., to Plymouth, England, especially over the dangerous northern route. This surprise is voiced by newspapers and individuals who regard courage as an attribute solely of the so-called "working class."

GOLD The great gold reef in South Africa, known as The Rand, is still producing as prolifically as ever, according to a recent report of the company which operates this, the world's largest gold mine. Since gold was discovered in the valley which the Boers called "Witwatersrand," in 1886, more than five billion dollars of the precious metal has been taken out of this one group of mines. Two hundred thousand native workers and 22,000 whites are employed in the mines, which are now down 7,000 feet below the surface and show no sign of petering out.

So long as the world's trade is carried on with money which represents gold—and no other kind of money is of value in international commerce—there is need for a constant fresh supply of the metal.

SERVICE The suggestion that Atlee Pomerene, former United States Senator from Ohio, shall run for Congress in the Cleveland district where he lives, where there is a vacancy to be filled, brings up one difference between public life in this country and Europe. On the other side, when a man embarks on a career of public service he usually remains in it, regardless of whether he keeps on climbing the ladder from one office to a higher one. If he loses his seat in the British Cabinet he is content to continue as an ordinary Member of Parliament. Thus at the present time there are two former Prime Ministers in the House of Commons, Lloyd-George and Stanley Baldwin.

HAPPINESS Dr. C. E. K. Mees, research director of the Eastman Kodak Company, thinks people were happier as a rule when they had fewer modern improvements. Of course, Dr. Mees is right. Happiness has nothing to do with money, possessions or comfort. Nobody can confer happiness; it must come from within one's self. These things which we lump under the general term of "improvements" merely give the individual more time in which to pursue happiness.

JEFFERSON Thomas Jefferson's home, Monticello, at Charlottesville, Va., has been bought by the Thomas Jefferson Memorial Foundation and restored to its original condition. It is one of the most beautiful buildings surviving from our nation's early days, and gains additional interest because Jefferson himself was its architect and it was built of brick made on his own estate.

Few people today realize what a many-sided man Thomas Jefferson was. He was a successful farmer, a leader in scientific research, an accomplished musician and linguist, and the inventor of the first scientifically-designed plowshare, of the swivel chair and the folding buggy-top, among other things. His greatest achievement, however, was the drafting of the Declaration of Independence and his devotion of the remaining fifty years of his life to the effort to establish the principles of individual liberty which that great document promulgated.

If Each Could Choose a Craft

—By Albert T. Reid

Potato Souffle 2 cups of potatoes, mashed. 2 tablespoons of melted butter. 6 tablespoons of cream, 2 eggs, salt and pepper. Beat the potatoes and butter until smooth and light; add the cream, yolks of eggs and salt. Beat the whites to a stiff froth and stir them in. Heap upon a tin in a rough uneven mound (neat, but jagged, so that the tips and edges, when browned, will look nicely), and set in the oven until well browned.

Frozen Coffee Custard This recipe for coffee ice cream calls for less cream. The richness is provided by the eggs. Four eggs, half-pint of cream, half pound of sugar, one pint of milk, half pint of strong coffee. Put the milk in a double boiler to scald. Beat the eggs and sugar together until very light add them to the hot milk, cook an instant take from the fire, add the cream and coffee. When cold, freeze.

Fruit Sherbet Here is a delicious fruit sherbet that is a welcome change from the usual creams: Boil together for five minutes one pound of sugar and one quart of water. Beat the yolks of six eggs and add to the boiling syrup. Stir just a moment, then take from the fire and beat until cold. Have in readiness one cup mixed fruit which has been soaked in a half cup of grape juice. When the mixture is cold turn into the freezer and freeze. Remove the beater, stir in the fruit with a wooden spoon and serve in punch glasses.

Potato Croquettes Mix together 1 pint hot mashed potatoes, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-2 teaspoon pepper, 1 teaspoon onion juice, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley, yolks 2 beaten eggs. Stir over fire till mixture leaves sides of sauce pan. When cool, shape into croquettes, dip in beaten egg, roll in crumbs, and fry brown in deep kettle and smoking-hot fat.

DAISIES By Bliss Carman Over the shoulders and slopes of the dune I saw the white daisies go down to the sea, A host in the sunshine, an army in June, The people God sends us to set our heart free. The bobolinks rallied them up from the dell, The orioles whistled them out of the wood; And all of their saying was, "Earth, it is well!" And all of their dancing was, "Earth, it is well!" And all of their dancing was, "Life, thou art good!"

"IT WON'T BE LONG NOW" Just two more weeks until the Baptist meeting begins. Hope that everyone of you are making your plans to give yourself unreservedly to the interest of that meeting. If you are planning a summer visit, could you not make it now, or put it off until after the meeting shall have closed? Maybe you have a friend coming to visit you, write them to make their plans to be here for the meeting. Hope you'll have your cotton all laid by, and your hay put up, and then you can take two weeks rest from your labor, and work for Him who has done so much for you.

of mucous, favored by the sugar. He saw improvement in the habitual constipation in such cases, with notable gain weight. Too, remarkable increase in nerve forces, less melancholia, and more happy disposition in the gloomy victims. The relief was not immediate, but gradual and lasting. He says, "sugar is the most important nutritional element of the heart, in that it lowers blood-pressure and stimulates the liver and kidneys." Dr. Donald A. Laird, of Colgate University, contributes to a scientific symposium on sugar; he states that sugar contributes to restful sleep. This argues, almost for a chocolate at bedtime, doesn't it? Dr. Laird also declares it to be valuable in curing "vague feelings of fatigue, so common among physicians' patients." A remedy for "that tired feeling," as so commonly met. In short, if sugar helps relieve mental and physical tired, and favors restful sleep, then it certainly is among our most valued foods.

The Way of Life by BRUCE BARTON

TOO FAST When I was a student in Amherst College, and my father was preaching in Chicago, I used to go home for Christmas on the Erie Railroad. The trip consumed two nights and a day; but this was the golden age when some kind hearted railroads were allowed to present free passes to clergymen and their families.

Now the Erie makes fast time, and there are no passes; but the memory of those old slow trips is pleasant. My mother would pack a shoebox full of sandwiches and hard boiled eggs and bananas, and I had a glorious time; never thinking that it was any hardship to travel slowly, but thinking my lucky stars that I was able to get home at all.

On one of the days preceding last Christmas, so I am told, eight sections of America's swiftest trains were required to leave New York to hurry the youngsters home from school. It hurried them home for what? So that they could bestow a running kiss on their parents, shed their day clothes and change into evening clothes, and be off on a series of parties. This is the tempo of modern life. Any of us old folks who decry it are merely dating ourselves as belonging to a passing generation. Yet, I personally feel a little sorry for these headlong youngsters. Somehow it seems to me that in travelling so fast they miss an awful lot.

ROWENA RIDES THE RUMBLE

BY ETHEL HUESTON

Fourth Installment.

Rackruff Motors hire Rowena to accompany Peter on a nationwide tour in their roadster as an advertising stunt. At the last minute Little Bobby is engaged to act as chaperon.

A few miles out Bobby becomes tearful at being parted from her sweetheart and Rowena insists on taking her place in the rumble so that she can ride with Peter and have him to talk to about Carter. Rowena gets Peter to consent to divide the expense money each week as soon as it arrives, and astonishes Peter by eating too economically.

The three tourists reach Denver, after passing through Buffalo, Chicago and St. Louis. Peter and Rowena have many tiffs on the way while Carter keeps wiring Bobby to return to New York. The morning after they reach Denver, Peter and Rowena discover Bobby has deserted them and returned to New York by train. They are faced with the impossible condition of continuing their trip without a chaperon.

Rowena suggests to Peter that they make a "companionate" marriage. They are married and go to Cheyenne, where their actions, when they ask for rooms on separate floors, arouses the suspicions of the hotel clerk. They finally succeed in getting rooms, but not without exciting the laughter of the hotel loungers.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

Although Peter was furiously angry, highly humiliated, and blaming Rowena for everything, he was kind at heart and could not resist the plaintive pathos in her voice, usually so crisp and cool.

"Good night, Rowena," he said more pleasantly than she had any right to expect. "Don't worry. Everything'll be all right."

After a sleepless night Peter was down in the lobby at an unbelievably early hour. But early as it was, he did not precede the interested smiles and stares of the day staff which had replaced the night workers—clerks, telephone operators and elevator boys.

Even at that unreasonable hour there were loungers in the lobby. And each and every one of them, and even the head waitress smiling in the door of the dining-room knew all about the young New Yorker who demanded rooms on separate floors. Confusion stung his face with burning red.

He went up-stairs, walked up to Rowena's room and knocked sharply.

"Yes—who?" called Rowena in a bright voice that had obviously been schooled to register good nature in the face of adversity.

"Me," he answered sulkily. "Chuck your things into your bag and let's get out of here."

"How about breakfast?" "The hell with breakfast!" "O. K. by me," called Rowena in the maddening voice of one who has stoutly enjoined one's inner soul to smiles and sweetness. And indeed even in her sleep Rowena had been reminding herself that she must be very patient with Peter for a few days, as he was apt to be just the least bit in the world cross about the state of affairs.

Within an hour they were hurrying the dust of Cheyenne from the wheels of the roadster and as soon as the last outpost of the city lay buried in the past Peter pulled off to the side of the road and drew up to a grinding stop. Then he turned to Rowena and his was not the look of a newly married man.

"Well, you see what fools we made of ourselves," he began. "I hope you're satisfied."

"I'm terribly sorry," said Rowena humbly. "I feel just wretchedly about everything. But I couldn't possibly foresee such awful complications, now could I, Peter? What experience have I had with husbands and hotel registers and such monstrosities?"

"We'll just have to make the best of a suite or adjoining rooms hereafter," said Peter more kindly. "It's this demanding separate floors that makes them give us the razzberry."

"But we can't have connecting rooms, Peter," protested Rowena unhappily. "We just can't. We have to be terribly careful about things like that or we can't get it annulled. Don't you see, Peter, if we stay in adjoining rooms clear across the country nobody in the world is going to believe we—really did—stay in adjoining rooms."

"Then we'll have to get a divorce instead of an annulment. I am not going to make a fool of myself like that again."

"But we can't get a divorce in New York," protested Rowena. "I wrote a story about that once—I knew how the laws are. One of us would have to go to Reno or Paris to get it and it would take every cent of money we can save on the whole trip to pay for the divorce. And what good would that be to anybody?"

"I'll give you grounds to get it right in New York," said Peter grimly. "I'm desperate."

"That's like you, Peter," said Rowena impatiently. "Thinking only of yourself as usual—Well, don't you think for a minute that I'm going to get a divorce in New York. I'm not going to be made a fool of there before all my friends."

"What do you mean—made a fool of?" Peter demanded.

"Why, having everybody think I'm so no-good I can't hang on to a husband for two months!—No, if it comes to that, I'll give you grounds."

"You'll what?" "Give you grounds for a divorce."

"What grounds?" "The same grounds you so magnanimously offered me."

"Rowena, are you crazy? A woman can't do a thing like that. Why, it—it would ruin you. You're crazy!"

"Oh, am I? Well, let me tell you one thing, Mr Peter Bland! I'd rather have my friends think I stepped out on you two months after our marriage than that I couldn't keep you from stepping out on me. It's more flattering, I assure you!"

"You would, Rowena, I honestly believe you would. You're just that dumb," said Peter. "However, let's not fight over getting the divorce today. The thing to agree on now is that we've got to put up with rooms adjoining or separate floors."

"If you're too proud to ask for separate floors, I'll do it," said Rowena. "I'd rather be embarrassed before a strange hotel clerk than be the laughing stock of my own friends."

"Yes that would do me a lot of good, wouldn't it?" demanded Peter. "That would certainly save my face! To have my wife sail up to the desk and register for me and ask for rooms on separate floors. Oh, yes, that would make everything fine and dandy."

Rowena opened the door of the car and sprang out!

"I'm not your wife," stormed Rowena.

"No, thank God." "I'm—I just happen to be married to you—by accident. A—sort of detour."

"Worse luck," growled Peter. Rowena opened the door and sprang out.

"What are you going to do? Walk to Yellowstone?"

"I am going," said Rowena coldly, "to retire in peace to my rumble seat."

"Rowena, I ask you, don't be any more ridiculous than usual," he pleaded. "How's it going to look—only two of us in a roadster and you riding in the rumble seat in this boiling hot sun?"

"I'm above worrying about hot things look," said Rowena. "I'd rather be bounced and bruised and blistered in the rumble seat than insulted in—in the lap of luxury!"

She raised the umbrella with a vicious little click of the snap, adjusted the cushions about her slender body, and rode the rumble seat in solemn grandeur, leaving Peter to fume furtively alone in front.

It was about the hour of sunset when a sudden shadow blackened the west, a sudden cool breeze touched their faces.

"They must be having showers in the mountains," said Peter.

But Rowena, deep in a painful sleep of complete exhaustion, did not answer.

It was more than showers they were having in the mountains—it was cloudbursts, one after the other in torrential downpour, and in less time than it took for the cooling breeze to sweep down the plain with refreshment for their tired faces, every dry creek bed and parched arroyo that led from the hot mountains to the burning plains was flooded with rushing water from the heights.

He guided the little roadster along the yellow mesa road toward another of the narrow rocky gorges through which they had been passing at intervals all day long. The roar in his ears grew louder, closer. Suddenly it sounded ominous and threatening. Peter looked to the west and was amazed to see a solid wall of water nearly as high as the car sweeping down the little canyon.

Instinctly his foot pressed the accelerator. The roaring wall of water was close but the arroyo itself was closer—a scant few feet away—and in a few minutes the onrushing river would render it impassable for cars. The car leaped forward down the steep slope into the arroyo. But the hungry water, as if jealous of this boldness, roared down upon them. The car swung powerless beneath his hand, slid away from the road and the river tossed it lightly down-stream and drove it securely into a crevice among the rocks.

Rowena, suddenly aroused from her exhausted sleep, had started up in terror at sight and sound of the torrential river bearing down upon them. Prompted by an innate impulse she struggled quickly up to the seat of the rumble, intending to jump, but the car was flung violently from beneath her and she fell headlong, face downward, in the icy water.

Peter, stunned by the unexpected onslaught of water, was startled to action at sight of Rowena whipped helpless against the rocks by the irresistible flood.

"You little fool—what did you jump for?" he shouted, but even as he spoke he was out of the car and in less than a moment had her firmly in his arm. Slowly he drew her back until they had the support of the car behind them against the cold pressure of the water.

"I didn't!" she shouted as soon as she recovered her breath. "Fell! Sorry!" roared Peter regretfully. "My fault! Shouldn't have tried it!—No good racing a river."

"Cheerio!" comforted Rowena loudly. "You nearly made it!"

Other cars pulled up beside the new-born river, and the occupants lent their willingness to assist in getting Peter and Rowena safely up on shore. And Peter, against the advice of the tourists and the frightened orders of Rowena, went immediately back to the car for their bags.

"All the clothes we've got," he explained cheerfully. "They're important."

Fortunately the bags were not yet soaked through and except for a few articles on top the contents were dry. Rowena and Peter, soaking wet, hurriedly got out dry clothes and then paused abruptly.

regarding both the crowd and each other with timorous hesitancy.

"I'll have my tent up in a jiffy," said a big red-faced Kansas farmer with low kindness. "River'll be down by morning, but we'll all have to pitch camp here tonight. Give a hand there, youngster."

And before he had finished announcing his kind intentions he had raised a diminutive tent and extended its hospitality to the dripping pair.

"Key to the city, lady and gent," he said with a great laugh.

Peter made a hasty motion to Rowena who slipped quickly inside and dropped the flap.

"Your wife, I take it," said the red-faced Kansan with a puzzled air.

"Yes," said Peter. "But—the tent isn't so very big—and we're both so terribly wet—and besides—I want to have another look at the car. I don't want it carried off down the canyon."

"Don't you worry about that car, brother. That there car is put for keeps. At least till the river goes down."

Other cars pulled up and their occupants joined the enforced camp on the river bank. They put up tents and staked out claims here and there. Children were set to gathering stones and sticks for a fireplace.

All together they ate impromptu supper on the plains, sitting in a cluster of friendly groups about the fire, and afterward as the darkness fell and the stars lit the black sky over the black prairie, they gathered closer and talked. Some sang, and the men smoked. And presently by twos or by families they crept away to their separate camps for the night.

"Here's an old mattress you can use," said the Kansas farmer, tossing it across to Peter. "We've got another one. It's not very big but you're not a very big family."

FAIRY ITEMS

There will be community singing at the school auditorium in Fairy Sunday afternoon at 2:30. All are invited to attend.

Another shower of rain would be appreciated now. Breaking stubble land has been the employment of the farmer of our community the past few weeks. Some have their land all broken.

Mr. and Mrs. Olga Duncan and children visited her parents of Ship Springs last Tuesday and Wednesday.

Wedding bells jingled again in our community last week when Miss Marcelle Cox was married to Mr. Athley of Olney. The popular young couple were married at Hamilton Wednesday morning and left soon after for their home at Olney.

Miss Cox is the charming and accomplished daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Price. Cox also only child, therefore her going away leaves them stricken with grief. The groom is not known here but we are informed he is a splendid young man and is of a fine family. The young people formed their acquaintance and friendship while attending school at John Tarleton College the past winter, which quickly developed into the arms of cupid.

The Methodist Revival closed Sunday after the morning service. Large crowds attended the last two services. Bro. Boulware preached fine sermons throughout the series of meetings, but it seems as if the evil one had the ground floor and was hard to rout. His discourse in the closing service was very inspirational.

Those out of Fairy attending services Thursday night were: Mr. and Mrs. Holder and daughter of Clifton, Rev. Haynes, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Barrow, Mrs. Jake Blair and daughter, Miss Florence

Chenault, and Mr. and Mrs. Dellis Seago of Hico, Mr. and Mrs. Holder were in the services again Friday also Mr. Jones of Stephenville who has been employed as one of the school faculty, his wife and mother being here Friday also.

Those visiting and attending the revival here Sunday were: Mr. and Mrs. Jake Ogle and family of Hico, Ike Malone of Old Hico, Miss Gladys Hedgspeth of near Hamilton, Mrs. Higginbotham and daughter of Fort Worth, Miss Loden of Millerville being in our midst Friday night.

The Baptist Revival began Sunday night and was attended by a large crowd. Everyone has a cordial invitation to attend these services.

The Revival of the Church of Christ will begin at the close of the Baptist revival. Jim Crow has been ill for sev-

WHEN BABIES FRET

THERE are times when a baby is too fretful or feverish to be sung to sleep. There are some pains a mother cannot pat away. But there's quick comfort in Castoria!

For diarrhea, and other infantile ills, give this pure vegetable preparation. Whenever coated tongues tell of constipation; whenever there's any sign of sluggishness. Castoria has a good taste; children love to take it. Buy the genuine—with Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on wrapper.

REUNION TIME

The time for the annual Hico Reunion is at hand again — a time for renewing association with old friends, and the formation of new ones. Congratulations are in order for an affair that has come to be looked upon with so much interest during the near half century of its existence.

May this year's Reunion be treasured in the memories of all people attending as a time of fellowship and joy. May its sponsors realize their fullest hopes for its success. And may it grow from year to year, and continue to be the one outstanding event of the year for Hico and this section of the country.

Charles Curtis, Vice President of the United States, on March 22, 1930, said: "I doubt if anyone can tell the great good the Sunday Schools do in our national life. Every young man and woman and every boy and girl should be encouraged to attend Sunday School and to help build up the Sunday Schools in their neighborhood because there is no other field in which so much good can be accomplished."

BY RADFORD MOBLEY
AUTOCASTER WASHINGTON BUREAU
WASHINGTON, D. C.—President Hoover's statesmanlike handling of the debt holiday, which was entirely his own brain-child, has had the unexpected effect of starting up the anti-Hoover campaign which had not been expected before the coming winter. Instead, when his opponents found he had reestablished himself in the favor of a majority of the voters by his position on reparations, they decided to open the attack immediately.

As a consequence the country is being treated to virulent attacks on the President. Most of them date back to happenings several years ago. One of them which was featured in one of the most powerful Democratic papers in the country, harks back to the story that Mr. Hoover had practically decided to run for President on the Democratic ticket when Henry Cabot Lodge got to him and turned him into a Republican.

The story does not lack for convincing details, which tells of the intimacy that existed between him and Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, then Assistant Secretary of the Navy, and Franklin D. Lane. It adds a deft touch by telling how Mrs. Hoover and Mrs. Roosevelt used to prepare their modest Sunday suppers with their own hands while their husbands chatted. It then tells how Lodge converted him and Mr. Hoover "became a Republican, at least in name."

Another paper, also unfriendly to the Hoover policies, goes on to relate that President Coolidge practically paved the way for his successor by his famous hesitation, when asked to run again, and allowed it to be inferred that he might stand for being drafted. Meanwhile, the gossip runs, Mr. Coolidge secretly told Mr. Hoover that he would not run and the latter then laid his plans for the nomination. By this inside information, Mr. Hoover was the only candidate ready when the "I do not choose to run" statement was issued. It gave him a walkover, the article says. And it adds, not without a touch of malice, that Mr. Coolidge actually did not like Mr. Hoover, backing it up with some corroboration.

The President's advisers look on the campaign none too seriously and apparently have warned Mr. Hoover that any reply would be bad politics. The only reaction to the campaign, if it can be called such, was President Hoover's attack on short sellers of wheat, whom he characterized, by inference, as unpatriotic and unjustifiably selfish. He eliminates from his condemnation those men, like farmers and legitimate dealers, who are actually the owners of wheat and who sell short in order to hedge. The step was taken beyond question in an effort to carry favor with the farmers.

Kansas bumper crop, which is again beyond any expectations, has had an immediate effect in sending the price of wheat down still more, until the old fetish of dollar wheat has been lost sight of in the fact that almost four bushels can be bought for that figure. The Department of Agriculture, which urged lessened production at the start of this year, only to have its admonition go unheeded, now says that wheat will go still lower next year unless a thirty per cent reduction is planted.

Political observers here assert wheat has ceased to be a concern for politicians and has moved over to the field of economics. Unless farmers cut down their acreage next year they will hardly get enough out of their 1932 crop to pay for their seed. Already there are signs that Kansas will go in more heavily for cattle, pigs and poultry next year and declare a "wheat moratorium" in order to allow demand to catch up with supply.

One measure designed to afford relief to people living outside of the great cities has been adopted by the Interstate Commerce Commission, which has authorized the Post Office Department to accept parcels up to one hundred inches in height and girth. This means, roughly, that parcels three feet by three feet and more than two feet thick can be mailed in zones four to eight, or within 200 miles.

Selling by mail is steadily becoming an increasing factor in small communities and many of the big city newspapers are carrying a separate classification under "parcel post" in which farmers offer eggs and fresh poultry direct to city homes. One New Jersey woman is finding it profitable, apparently to advertise "fresh, home-cooked meals" to Detroit consumers by mail.

Among the items recently noted by Jess C. Harraman, of the Post Office Department, as being offered by mail are honey, sorghum, hams, bacon, maple syrup, preserves, jellies, broilers and squabs. Fishermen are also selling huge quantities of fish, lobsters and other ocean products by parcel post. Many farmers are becoming prosperous through this method, it is pointed out in the report.

The President's Emergency Employment Committee has released a report made to it by forty-nine of the leading soap makers in the country which shows how that industry has stabilized labor conditions. It says that only four of the reporting companies have shown a drop in the number of employees while thirteen have shown an increase. While the manufacture of soap lends itself better than most lines to stabilization, yet, the report points out, careful planning is possible in nearly every line, yielding higher returns in profits to the manufacturers and better income to the workers.

To go with any of your cotton or linen frocks as well as with the darked cloth suit you should have one or two pure white bouquets. Paris has, as you doubtless know, signifies her approval of all white flowers and the smartest if that sort are made of eyelet embroidered cotton. There are charming double poppy bouquonniers of white eyelet embroidery made with patent leather leaves. The poppies are always white but you may have the leaves white, brown, navy blue or black.

You may buy these eyelet flowers at almost any store, or you may make them yourself. Cut the petals from fine embroidered batiste or eyelet embroidered pique— which is easier to handle, perhaps. Make four or five petals like the pattern—or larger, but of that shape. Gather them slightly along the straight edges and fasten together with a center of black or yellow with a center of black beads or yellow French knots.

W. A. ATCHLEY WEDS MISS MARCEILE COX

(Hamilton Herald-Record) A marriage of affectionate interest to many friends in various parts of Texas was solemnized in Hamilton in the early hours of Wednesday morning with Rev. S. A. Rains reading the sacred service, employing the impressive ring ceremony.

In the wedding party besides the bride and groom were Mrs. P. L. Cox, mother of the bride, Mrs. J. O. Richardson and children, James W. and Charlene Richardson, and Mrs. D. E. Allison, all of Fair, and Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Fitz of Archer City, Texas. Mrs. Fitz is a sister of the groom. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Atchley and Mr. and Mrs. Fitz left Hamilton for a tour of South Texas cities and interesting places in this state and Old Mexico.

The beautiful young bride is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Price Cox of Fair. She is thus a member of one of Hamilton county's most prominent families. She received her college education in John Tarleton College at Stephenville, where she met Willis A. Atchley, of Olney, who was also a student in that institution, and who was a football star on the Tarleton team. Mr. Atchley is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Atchley of Olney, a well known and highly respected family of that city and section of the state. The groom holds a responsible position in a drug store in his home city.

Friends in this county of the popular young bride would join the Herald-Record in felicitations and good wishes for the future happiness and material success of Mr. Atchley and his fair young wife.

At the end of their honeymoon Mr. and Mrs. Atchley will be at home in Olney, Texas.

Published by FARM IMPLEMENT SUPPLY CO. HICO, TEXAS, FRIDAY, JULY 31, 1931 No. 11

W. L. McDowell and A. B. McElroy Editors
Watch for the "News" each week. Suggestions or news items invited.

Don't forget to visit our store while attending Hico's 49th Annual Reunion August 6, 7, and 8th. A cordial welcome awaits you to come in and make yourself at home.

A New Creation Too.
"What's the matter with your wife? She's all broken up lately."
"She got a terrible jar."
"What happened?"
"Why, she was assisting at a rummage sale, took off her new hat and somebody sold it for thirty-five cents."

How to do a good plowing job in hard, stubborn soil: Use a McCormick-Deering No. 34 Tractor Disk Plow. It has an overhead beam and plenty of clear spacing between the disks.

Marco: My girl is like the horizon.
Polo: Howzat?
Marco: Never comes nearer.

Next time you need a machine give us a ring and watch our Red Baby perform. Before the last echo of the telephone bell dies away we will be on the road.

An ounce of cheerfulness is worth a pound of gloom.

FARM IMPLEMENT SUPPLY COMPANY Hico, Texas

COWS PLOWS

The McCormick-Deering Harrow Plow gives your tractor a new opportunity to save time and money for you. Hook your tractor onto one of these plows and you have a fast-working outfit that cannot be beaten.

The McCormick-Deering Corn Binder comes in handy for cutting other tall forage crops. If you want to cut sunflowers, or some other tall row crop, come in and let us explain the advantages of the McCormick-Deering Corn Binder for the purpose.

"Papa, what do you call a man who drives a car?"
"It depends on how close he comes to me."

Did you know that the McCormick-Deering 10-20 and 15-30 Tractors have main frames consisting of a single casting—no rivets or bolts to work loose or break—no joints to leak? They are frames which keep oil in and dirt out, and are strong and rigid.

You never have to worry over clogging when you use a Farmall Mower. This fast-working, 7-foot mower is driven by the Farmall engine through the power take-off; when it clogs you simply throw out the clutch and let the sickle cut its way free.

Our stock is complete, our line is the best, our service is yours for the asking.

The best machine will break down occasionally, but it is our duty to put it back in shape with the least possible delay. Give us a chance to perform. So long, see you next week.
