HICO TRADES DAY ON THANKSGIVING EVE

Here In HICO

The Thanksgiving season is the time of year when we usually look back over the past year and "count our blessings." This year there is much to be thankful for, we believe, in spite of the fact that many things have not been just what we should have liked. Hico and this section have been affected less by the so-called "business depression" than many of our neighbors, and although material matters have resulted in some disappointment, there is still much to be thankful for.

Personally we feel that we have been fortunate in selecting Hico as a place in which to make our home. Friendships have been formed which mean more than anything else in the world. We did not come here with the intention of getting rich, and so are not disappointed along that line. We have managed to eat pretty regularly, and have not worked hard enough to injure our health. The spirit in evidence here makes one want to do all possible to get out a paper that will be looked upon with pride, and any dissatisfaction that might be found in our nature is caused from the thought that perhaps we are not doing as much as we might to accomplish this end.

We are thankful for our subscribers, first. They are of course the backbone of our business, and the way their numbers have increased is gratifying. There are still some families not receiving the News Review, but gradually the number of non-subscribers is decreasing, and our list of readers is increasing.

We are thankful for our loyal advertisers, who find this medium a convenient way to get their messages before the people. Never has it been our privilege before to work with a more loyal set of business men than those in Hico. The friendly spirit that is a part of the citizenship, is not lost in business matters, and cooperation is practiced to the end that everybody profits.

Last week it was announced that the Thanksgiving issue of the paper would be printed earlier in the week. Monday morning the majority of our advertisers had their copy ready, and some brought it by the office, others telephoned us to tell us they were ready, and every one approached during the day seemed to realize how much of a help it would be to give early copy and did their part.

Yes, we are thankful for every friend we have, business, social or otherwise. There have been very few occasions when we have incurred the wrath of the people, and this is a good record for there are a thousand chances each week to say the wrong thing in the paper, or overlook something that ought to be mentioned. But people seem to keep the thought in their minds that we are doing the best we can, and overlook what shortcomings they find.

There are so many things to be thankful for that we cannot undertake to mention even a fair portion of them. But let it be known here and now at this good Thanksgiving season, there is one editor at least who considers that he has been treated well, and that he would be very ungrateful if he failed to mention his feelings.

That old turkey and the dressing and other things that go with it will be consumed this year with more zest than usual. Somehow turkey tastes better than most any other kind of food, and when we sit down to the table Thursday we will be more thankful than ever.

Luncheon Club Votes to Get Behind Short Course

Plans Being Made to Secure School Some Time Early in 1932.

If plans being worked out now materialize and anticipated arrangements made, an affair of more than passing interest to the entire citizenship of this section will be held in Hico. It is possible for Hico to secure the service of nationally famous experts in their line of work, local business men will lend their aid in promoting to success a two-day short course—a community meeting for farm folks and town folks, which has proved to be "best meeting ever held" in every place where similar meetings have been held.

At its last meeting the Hico Luncheon Club voted unanimously to get behind the movement, and if it were possible to secure the services of the speakers furnished by the Agricultural Extension Department of the International Harvester Company, to lend every aid toward making the two-day school a success. W. L. McDowell, local International Harvester dealer, has explained the plan to a few business men, and met with sufficient approval to cause him to go ahead with his efforts to secure same for this community. He states that if the company can only help a limited number in these short courses and that the community that makes the strongest request and is determined to make its meeting the best, is the community they want to help.

"The International Harvester Company," stated Mr. McDowell, "has no selfish motive in offering this plan for use, and it is strictly not an advertising stunt. They have helped 1,205 communities with two-day meetings, and the total attendance was 2,472,872." As a concrete example of the value placed on the meetings in communities where they have been put on, Mr. McDowell cited the action taken following a short course at Santa Anna, Texas, where resolutions were adopted unanimously by the 1,800 people present to "extend profound thanks to the company and its representatives for the invaluable information and the inculcation of such worthy ideals" and that the "program be recommended to any and every county that is fortunate enough to secure it." Eighty-two hundred (8,200) people attended the short course there, and the citizens expressed a desire that another such course be held there when it could be secured.

Gasoline Mileage Contest Aroused Interest Last Friday

Jocularly remarking afterward that he didn't know what kind of gasoline he had been using but that if it had been Texaco he could have done twice as good, H. A. (Skippy) Tidwell last Friday won first place in a gasoline mileage contest sponsored by the Farm Implement Supply Company of Hico, local International Harvester dealers.

The contest was put on to determine the driver able to secure the most miles from a quart of gasoline in the new International truck. A new truck was fitted with a special gasoline tank holding only one quart, and under the supervision of R. E. Lewis of Cisco, special representative of the International Harvester Company, and W. L. McDowell, manager of the local agency, was driven out the Carlton road, under identical conditions, until the quart of gas ran out. Two ladies ran up mileage and made records which stood for a good length of time. Miss Annie Pierson took the lead in the morning with 4.3 miles, which stood until noon before it was broken. Then in the afternoon Miss Mamie Bakke gained the lead with a mileage of 4.45 miles, and this stood for a good while also. Mr. Tidwell made his record late in the afternoon, just before dark, driving a total of 5.0 miles on the quart of gasoline. He won a nice Thanksgiving turkey, donated by the Ross Poultry & Egg Co.

There were 37 entries in the contest, according to Mr. McDowell, but lack of time prevented all of them getting a chance to perform. Only 18 persons actually competed for the prizes.

Second prize, ten gallons of gasoline, donated by H. N. Ware, local agent of the Magnolia Petroleum Company, was won by T. G. Hendrix, with a score of 4.9 miles. Ruff Tomlinson, with a record of 4.65 miles, won third prize, five gallons of gasoline, donated by S. W. Everett, manager of the Conoco Service Station in Hico.

HICO GRIDDERS PREPARE TO FIGHT HAMILTON TO FINISH

THANKSGIVING SERVICES TO BE HELD ON WEDNESDAY EVENING

It has been decided to have the City Thanksgiving Service Wednesday night instead of Thursday night. Then everybody can have Thanksgiving as a day off.

Services will be at the Baptist Church, 7 o'clock. Rev. J. M. Perry will preach the sermon. This service is for everyone. Come and let's spend an hour in Thanksgiving. Yours, L. P. THOMAS.

"Fighting Antelopes" Take Their Spite Out On Walnut Springs

Tuned up like a string of four-year veterans the Hico Hi School Antelopes opened up a versatile attack Friday to down Walnut Springs High 34-6. The superiority of the Antelopes over Walnut was clearly shown by amassing a total of 15 first downs to Walnut's 5.

Hico's first score came early in the first period when M. Ross spun through left tackle from midfield to carry the ball to Walnut's 20-yard line. On a spin and a fake pass and delayed line buck Ross carried the ball for a first down on Walnut's 10 yard line. Russell carried the ball over for the marker on a pass.

Walnut's lone counter came a few seconds later when a Walnut Springs back passed laterally across the field to an end who ran about 50 yards for the touchdown. Not only did the local team show great improvement on both the offense and defense, but also showed improvement in their plan of attack. Heretofore, Hico has shown only a passing attack, but Friday's game showed that the Antelopes can gain consistently on line plays. Three Antelope touchdowns were made on passes: one on a double reverse around end, and another was made when a Hico back faked a pass and skirted right end for a run of 45 yards.

Split Tax Payments Must Be Made In Month of November

Those who intend to take advantage of the split tax payment plan must pay the first installment by November 30, according to Shade Register, Tax Collector, who said that if one half of the taxes is paid by that date, the other half could be paid any time before June 30 without penalty or interest. If a poll tax is assessed it must also be paid by November 30.

Those who do not pay by November 30, must follow the usual plan, paying all their taxes by January 31.

Delinquent Taxes

The law passed by the last called session of the Legislature remitting all penalties and interest already accrued are concerned according to a ruling of the courts, Mr. Register said, but in so far as remitting future penalties and interest was concerned it was held invalid.

Under this interpretation, interest on 1930 taxes which were not paid prior to February 1 was charged up to October 15 at the rate of 6 per cent per annum, but no penalty will be assessed until February 1 and no interest charged from October 15 to January 31. There is, however, a flat charge of $1.50 made by the Comptroller's office, for each delinquent tax receipt, and this will be assessed against 1930 taxes which were not paid prior to October 15, 1932, Mr. Register said.

Hico Stores Will Close As Usual On Thanksgiving Day

Most Hico stores will be closed Thursday, Thanksgiving day, according to intentions announced by most of them when interviewed this week.

Filling stations, drug stores and cafes will have their services available as usual, it is supposed, at least a sufficient number of them to take care of the needs of the public.

Work Started On New Filling Station For Gulf Company

Construction started this week on the new Gulf Filling Station, being erected by V. H. Bird on his lot north of the News Review office, and workmen have been busy about the various phases of the job. Mr. Bird states that the Gulf Refining Company has leased the station for a considerable period, and will occupy same as soon as it is completed.

C. W. Chick and R. L. McDaniel, both contractors of Carlton, have the contract for the brick and carpenter work on the job. Ollie Davis is doing the electric wiring, and J. H. Goad the plumbing work.

Barnes & McCullough are furnishing the lumber and building materials used in the construction. When completed this will be one of the most modern stations to be found anywhere, with men's and ladies' rest rooms and all conveniences expected in a modern station of this character. The type of building will conform to the Gulf company standards, all of their buildings being constructed with uniform specifications. The main waiting room and office will set at an angle across the corner, and a covered driveway will extend over the front. Face brick will be used to finish.

Limit of Deer and 4 Turkeys Bagged By Hico Hunters

Venison is plentiful in this part of the country since the return last Friday of a Hico hunting party composed of S. E. Blair, E. H., J. T. A. and Lusk Randals and Roy Taylor. These hunters, during their four-day hunt in Mason County, killed the limit of two bucks each, and together managed to bag four wild turkeys, which they reported plentiful this year, but plenty hard to hit.

Little word has come from the other Hico hunting party, still out Tuesday, composed of H. F. Sellers, Goodwyn Phillips, Dr. J. D. Currie, Cole Hooper, Grady Hooper, C. M. Tinkle, Garland Tunnell of Stephenville and W. P. McCullough of Goldthwaite. A message received a day or two ago carried the information that they had gotten two bucks, but nothing since that time had been heard. They are expected home today (Wednesday).

"Grudge Game" Gives Promise of Being Best of Season.

Pepped up by their overwhelming victory over Walnut Springs Hi last Friday, the Hico Hi Antelopes are working out "zealously" for their coming game with the Hamilton Bulldogs Thanksgiving morning at 10 o'clock at Vickrey Park. The Antelopes will seek to wipe out their defeat at Hamilton's hands early in the season, and as this is Hico's annual "grudge" game, a large attendance is assured.

Due to the fact that practically all Hico stores will be closed for the entire day Thursday, and will take the holiday, a great crowd of fans and supporters are expected to be on hand to root for their home team. Hamilton will probably bring a large delegation from the county seat, and reports from that center are to the effect that they are coming to Hico with blood in their eyes and expecting to go home with a win.

On the other hand, the improvement displayed by Hico's players within the past few weeks leads those who have followed their course this season to believe that it is within the vale of possibility that they will be able to defeat the heavier Hamilton team. The boys themselves express their determination to fight to the last ditch—and then jump that ditch if necessary—which spirit makes a team hard to overcome, even with the odds against them.

Regardless of which team runs up the larger score, it is conceded to be a fact that the Thursday game will be the best of the season, and locally at least gives promise of overshadowing any other game, either in the South-west Conference or elsewhere.

The admission for the game will be 25c and 35c, it is stated. The game is called for 10 o'clock in the morning. Officials have not been announced.

A list of the names, position and weights of the Hico players is given herewith, together with the numbers that appear on the jerseys they will wear Thursday.

Luncheon Club Calls Off Meeting Friday After Thanksgiving

Due to the fact that many members will be out of town and others will want to take part in private dinners Friday, the regular meeting of the Hico Luncheon, scheduled for Friday of this week, has been called off according to information coming from the secretary's office.

In response to an invitation issued by the Hamilton Lions Club, a number of members of the Hico club, together with their wives, went to Hamilton Tuesday night to attend the annual "Ladies' Night" meeting of the Hamilton body. While other plans prevented attendance of many who would like to have gone, the invitation was appreciated to the fullest.

NOTICE! Bro. O. O. O. Newton will preach at the Church of Christ in Hico Saturday night at 7 P. M., Sunday morning at 11 A. M., and Sunday night at 7 P. M.

Keeping Up With TEXAS

Infection of a wound received Halloween night when a torpedo cap exploded in his hand resulted Saturday in the death of Marion Nelson Youngblood, 12, in Waco. He became ill suddenly Thursday. He formerly lived at Waxahatchie.

Efforts of Fogle-West ambulance attendants, summoned to Huntsville Saturday night, to revive 18-month-old James T. Traylor, Jr., after he drowned in a fish pond in the front yard of his home were unavailing they reported upon their return to Houston early Sunday. The little boy fell into the fish pond, which was about three feet deep, while playing with a group of children. He was unconscious when taken from the water and a hurry call was phoned to the Fogle-West Company in Houston.

In order to take care of the largest business experienced in the last three years, three of Sherman's flour mills are running twenty-four hours a day and a third is running eight hours, awaiting installation of machinery to double the capacity. One mill has run twenty-four hours daily the entire season and the others have averaged over sixteen hours daily.

The eleventh annual midwinter lower Rio Grande Valley Fair opened Saturday with an attendance of approximately 12,000. Officials of the fair swung wide the gates, allowing visitors to enter the exposition without charge. Miss Sarah Haynes of Mercedes was crowned queen of prosperity. Miss Haynes' court was composed of 300 persons.

The Rev. P. E. Hill, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in San Antonio, and chaplain of the Texas rangers, headed a posse Sunday which ran a burglar suspect to earth just in time for the Rev. Mr. Hill to turn the suspect over to police and preside at the evening services of the church. The chase started when Ernest Fellbaum returned home in the afternoon and found a burglar in the house. E. S. Fellbaum chased him past the residence of Mr. Hill. Here the pastor joined the chase, commanded an automobile and caught up with the fugitive about twelve blocks from where the chase started. The minister then turned his captive over to members of the police emergency squad which had been called to the scene.

An explosion in the drug department of Leonard Brothers' Department Store, Second and Houston, at noon Monday injured five persons and caused the destruction of a building. The explosion was caused by the breaking of a bottle of carbon disulphide, which had been put up as a prescription a few minutes before the blast. Just after the bottle fell some one struck a match, which ignited the gas from the fluid.

Failure of a mother with seven children to count her flock when she got off a Katy train at Hillsboro Sunday morning resulted in one of the youngsters, 7 years of age, getting a free ride from Hillsboro to West. The mother and children were returning from New Mexico, where they had left their husband and father in a government hospital, and were met at the station by relatives. It was not until after the family had gotten into a waiting car and the train was gone that the seventh child was missed. The local agent wired the agent in West and the child was taken off the train there. The mother and family drove to West after the youngster.

The body of Miss Mary Ellis, 20, slain by a bullet through the neck, was taken to the Laredo police station Sunday by Ollie Carter. Laredo drug store clerk Carter told police he had been riding with the girl on the highway south of Laredo. He said at a point four miles from town a man dressed in blue overalls approached the car and fired two bullets through a side window. One of the bullets struck Miss Ellis in the neck, breaking her spine. The girl lived at Mila, 12 miles north of Laredo.

A Mexican who scattered glittering articles in his path as he attempted to outrun two policemen was arrested at Lubbock Sunday for robbery of a jewelry store display window. Smashing the glass with a rock, the Mexican took rings and watches valued at $800. All the loot was recovered, police said.

Big Crowd Expected For Hico's Regular Monthly Event.

Hico's regular monthly Trades Day, which was inaugurated last month to take the place of "Cow Day" so popular with people over this entire territory, will be held Wednesday, November 25, the day before Thanksgiving, at the usual time, it is announced by officials of the Hico Luncheon Club, sponsors of the affair.

The October Trades Day, held the last Wednesday of that month, proved beyond doubt that the plan is "catching on" and even greater crowds are expected as the number of merchants participating grows. "Hico Money" in the form of trade checks of one dollar denomination, have made possible many purchases during the past month and are used just like currency at the stores participating in the plan. As the distribution of this money is continued the trade checks will become more familiar, it is thought, and will be sought after with much interest.

Thrifty shoppers will be on hand early today (Wednesday) to take advantage of the special prices on needed merchandise. The fact that this Trades Day falls on the day previous to Thanksgiving is practical assurance that trading will be brisk as housewives lay in their supplies, and cold weather, so long delayed this year, is anticipated almost any day.

A lively interest is added to each of these Trades Day events by the opportunity furnished of meeting one's neighbors and friends from over a wide territory. The approach of the holiday season will probably add a good-natured humor to the attendants, and everybody within a radius of fifty miles or even more has a special invitation to come to Hico and enjoy the friendly spirit always in evidence here, especially on these occasions.

Texas Judging Team Wins First Honors In National Contest

(Dublin Progress)

There are few towns the size of Dublin which can say they have the best of any one thing in the United States. Dublin can truthfully boast of having the best High School Livestock Judging Team.

In the National Vocational Livestock Judging Contest which was held this week at the American Royal Livestock Show in Kansas City, a Dublin team representing the State of Texas defeated all other states entered and acquired the title of National High School Champions for 1931.

This team, composed of F. C. Shillingburg, Joe Liles, Henry Turney, Byron Newbury, alternate, and coached by J. M. Bird, had previously won every contest which they had entered. The first contest won by the team was at Texas Tech last spring, closely followed by similar winnings at John Tarleton College. Then in April they earned the right to represent Texas at the national contest by winning first place at the state contest at A. & M. College.

It is interesting to note that members of the team are carrying on in their livestock and agriculture work, since Shillingburg has entered A. & M. College, Liles is attending Texas Tech, and Turney is a student at John Tarleton, while Newbury is still a member of the vocational class at Dublin High School.

The thoroughness and consistency of the work being done in the agriculture department of the Dublin High School is better understood when one is reminded that there are some three hundred high schools in Texas with vocational agriculture departments; that Texas has been represented in national contests by eleven teams and that five out of the eleven have been furnished by Dublin High School.

Dublin again comes in touch with the national contest of this year through the fact that Mabry Milhollin, who taught and coached the first State Championship team from Dublin High School, is now employed at A. & M. College and coached the college team that won first place in cattle judging at the American Royal last week.

Mr. Bird and the team were accompanied to Kansas City by J. B. Rutland, State Supervisor of Agricultural Education, and R. Resse, Agricultural Representative of the M. K. & T. Railroad. The M. K. & T. furnished the team and coach with transportation to and from Kansas City.

Dallas Democrats, anxiously awaiting the outcome of Tuesday's special congressional election in San Antonio, Monday were confident that a Democrat will be returned the victor despite similar victory claims from the Republicans.

Tenth Installment
SYNOPSIS

Six people, Horace Johnson (who tells the story), his wife, old Mr. Dane, Herbert Robinson and his sister, Alice, and Dr. Sperry, friends and neighbors, are in the habit of holding weekly meetings. At one of them, Mrs. Dane, who is hostess, varies the program by unexpectedly arranging a spiritualistic seance with Miss Jeremy, a friend of Dr. Sperry and not a professional, as the medium.

At the first sitting the medium tells the details of a murder as it is occurring. Later that night Sperry learns that a neighbor, Arthur Wells, has been shot mysteriously.

At a second seance, Miss Jeremy adds details about a summer resort where Charles Ellingham was known to have been at the same time that Mrs. Wells was there. She also speaks of a pocketbook being lost which contained some important car tickets and letters. Mrs. Dane, alone of the women, seems thrilled by the investigation.

Johnson goes alone and investigates the deserted house. He is frightened by strange noises, as of an intruder in the house, but completes his investigation.

He visits Mrs. Dane and tells her how he had carried off the fire-tongs and left behind his overcoat in his excitement. She then tells him she had advertised for the finder of the pocketbook and turns over to Johnson an answer she had received from one having guilty knowledge of the crime. Dr. Sperry announces he is to be married to Miss Jeremy when the club meets again.

Hawkins, the butler, is identified as being the person who answered Mrs. Dane's advertisement. Johnson's missing overcoat is mailed to him, but the letters contained in a pocket are missing. Sperry, accompanied by Johnson, makes another search in Wells' house for the letters written by the slayer.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

Our inspection of the curtains was hurried, but finally we found what we were looking for. In the lining of one of the curtains, near the bottom, a long, ragged cut had been made.

"Cut in a hurry, with curved scissors," was Sperry's comment.

"Probably manicure scissors."

The result was a sort of pocket in the curtain, concealed on the chintz side, which was the side which would hang toward the room.

"Probably," he said, "the curtain would have been better. It would have stayed anyhow. Where as the bag—" He was flushed with triumph. "How in the world would Hawkins know that?" he demanded.

"You can talk all you like. She told us things that no one ever told her."

"We'll have to go to floors under the carpets now," he said.

The dressing-room had a large rug, like the nursery above it, turning back the carpet was a simple matter.

There had been a stain beneath where the dead man's head had been, but it had been scrubbed and wiped away. The boards were laid for an area of a square foot so.

Sperry eyed the spot with indifference. "Not essential," he said. "Shows good housekeeping. That's all. The point is, are there other spots?"

And, after a time, we found what we were after. The upper hall was carpeted, and my penknife came into requisition to lift the tacks. They came up rather easily, as if but recently put in. That indeed, proved to be the case.

Just outside the dressing-room door the boards for an area of two square feet or more beneath the carpet had been scraped and scrubbed. With the lifting of the carpet came, too, a strong odor, as of ammonia. But the stain of blood had absolutely disappeared.

Sperry, kneeling on the floor with candle held close, examined the wood. "Not really scrubbed," he said. "But scraped down, probably with a floor-scraper. It's pretty clear, Horace. The poor devil fell here. There was a struggle, and he went down. He lay there for a while, too, until some plan was thought out. A man does not usually kill himself in a hallway. It's a sort of solitary deed. He fell here, and was dragged into the room. The angle of the bullet in the ceiling would probably show it came from here, too, and went through the doorway."

It was getting on, so I suggested we give up further searching.

We reached Mrs. Dane's to find that Miss Jeremy had already arrived, looking rather pale, as I had noticed she always did before a seance. Her color had faded, and her eyes shone in her head.

"Not ill, are you?" Sperry asked her, as he took her hand.

"Not at all. But I am anxious. I always am. These things do not come to the calling."

"This is the last time. You have promised."

"Yes. The last time."

For our last seance, Herbert Robinson, who had been reading up psychic literature, said he had arranged things to convince us all of the genuineness of any phenomena that might appear.

Herbert placed Miss Jeremy in her chair, and proceeded to wrap her, chair and all, in a strong network of fine threads, drawn sufficiently taut to snap with any movement.

He finished by placing her feet on the sheet of paper, and outlining their position there with a pencil line.

The proceedings were saved from absurdity by what we all felt was the extreme gravity of the situation. There were present in the room Mrs. Dane, the Robinsons, Sperry, my wife and myself. Clara, Mrs. Dane's secretary had begged off on the plea of nervousness from the earlier and physical portion of the seance, and was to remain outside in the hall until the trance commenced.

Sperry objected to this, as "movement in the circle during the trance had, in the first seance, induced fretful uneasiness in the medium. But Clara, appealed to, begged to be allowed to remain and grudging. Foreign subjects were introduced, as now.

"Horace's wife certainly bullies him," said the voice. "He's afraid of her. And the fire-tongs—the fire-tongs—the fire-tongs!"

"Whose came is this?" Herbert repeated.

"Mr. Ellingham's."

This created a profound sensation.

"How do you know that?"

"He carried it to the seashore. He wrote in the sand with it."

"What did he write?"

"Ten o'clock."

"He wrote ten o'clock in the sand and the waves came and washed it away?"

"Yes."

"Horace," said my wife, leaning forward, "why not ask her about that stock of mine? If it is going down, I ought to sell, ought not I?"

Herbert eyed her with some ex-outside until she was required, and showed such unmistakable nervousness that we finally agreed "Would a slight noise disturb her?" Mrs. Dane asked.

Miss Jeremy thought not, if the circle remained unbroken, and Mrs. Dane considered.

"Bring me my stick from the hall, Horace," she said. "And tell Clara I'll rap on the floor with it when I want her."

I found a stick in the rack outside and brought it in. The lights were still on in the chandelier overhead, and as I gave the stick to Mrs. Dane I heard Sperry speaking sharply behind me.

"Where did you get that stick?" he demanded.

"In the hall, I."

"I never saw it before," said Mrs. Dane. "Perhaps it is Herbert's."

But I caught Sperry's eye. We had both recognized it. It was Arthur Wells's, the one which Sperry had taken from his room, and which in turn, had been taken from Sperry's library.

Sperry was watching me with a sort of cynical amusement.

"You're an absent-minded beggar, Horace," he said.

"You didn't by any chance, stop here on your way back from my place the other night, did you?"

"I did. But I didn't bring that thing."

"Look here, Horace," he said, more gently, "you come in and see me some day soon. You're not as fit as you ought to be."

I confess to a sort of helpless indignation that was far from the composure the occasion required. But I believe, were I fully aware of that no human agency could do that to bring the stick back to Mrs. Dane's house, a serious thing would occur.

A bambie's things occurred almost as soon as the lights were out.

Then, suddenly, a bell that Sperry had placed on the stand beyond the black curtain commenced to ring. Quite without warning, immediately after, my chair twisted under me.

Finally Mrs. Dane rapped on the floor and Clara came in. Mrs. Dane told her to switch on the lights. Miss Jeremy had drooped in her chair until the silk across her chest was held taut, but none of the threads were broken and her evening slippers still fitted into the outline on the paper beneath them. Without getting up, Sperry reached to the stand behind Miss Jeremy, and brought into view a piece of sculptor's clay he had placed there. The handle of the bell was now jammed into the mass.

"Now," Herbert said, addressing the medium, "we want you to go back to the house where you saw the dead man on the floor. You know his name, don't you?"

There was a pause. "Yes. Of course I do. A. L. Wells."

Arthur had been known to most of us by his Christian name, but the initials were correct.

"How do you know it is an L?"

"On letters," was the laconic answer. Then: "Letters, letters, who has the letters?"

"Do you know whose came this is?"

"Yes."

Up to that time the replies had come easily and quickly. But beginning with the cane question, the medium was in difficulties. She moved uneasily, and spoke irritably. The replies were slow aspiration.

"We are here to make a serious investigation," he said. "If the members of the club will keep their attention on what we are doing, we may get somewhere."

"Now," he continued, turning to the medium, "the man is dead, and the revolver is beside him. Did he kill himself?"

"No. He attacked her when he found the letters."

"And she shot him?"

"I can't tell you that."

"Try very hard. It is important."

"I don't know. It was the fretful reply. 'She may have. She hated him. I don't know. She says she did.'

"She says she killed him?"

But there was no reply to this, although Herbert repeated it several times.

Instead, the voice of the "control" began to recite a verse of poetry—a cheap, sentimental bit of trash. It was maddening, under the circumstances.

"Do you know where the letters are?"

"Hawkins has them."

"They were not hidden in the curtain?" This was Sperry.

"No. The police might have searched the room."

"Where were those letters?"

There was no direct reply to this, but instead:

"He found them when he was looking for his razor. They were in the top of a closet. His revolver was there, too. He went back and got it. It was terrible."

There was a profound silence, followed by a slight exclamation from Sperry as he leaped to his feet. The scream at the end of the room, which cut off the light from Clara's candle, was topping. The next instant it fell, and we saw Clara sprawled over her table, in a dead faint.

In this, the final chapter of the record of these seances, I shall give, as briefly as possible, the events of the day following the third sitting. I shall explain the mystery of Arthur Wells's death, and I shall give the solution arrived at by the Neighborhood Club as to the strange communications from the medium, Miss Jeremy, now Sperry's wife.

On Tuesday morning I wakened after an uneasy night. I knew certain things, knew them definitely in the clear light of morning. Hawkins had the letters that Arthur Wells had found; that was one thing. I had not taken Ellingham's stick to Mrs. Dane's house; that was another. I had not done it. I had placed it on the table and had not touched it again.

But those were immaterial, compared with one outstanding fact. Any supernatural solution would imply full knowledge by whatever power had controlled the medium. And there was not full knowledge.

To Be Continued.

Positive Proof of FORD ECONOMY

City of Detroit purchases 137 new Ford cars
Hundreds now in use prove low cost of operation

THESE 137 new Ford cars represent one of the largest deliveries ever made to a municipality at one time.

21 radio-equipped Ford scout cars were traded in on this purchase. They had been operated day and night for two years in heavy traffic and all kinds of weather.

Their individual records ranged from 78,434 miles to 143,723 miles with a grand total of 2,283,097 miles. The operating cost of the 21 cars was 2.284 cents a mile — less than 2 1/3 cents. This cost included all fuel, oil, tires, repairs and every other item except depreciation and insurance.

Of 577 Ford cars in Detroit City service, the 300 in the Police Department traveled a total of 6,591,937 miles during the past fiscal year, at an average cost of 2.9 cents a mile.

Many claims have been made on operating costs, but here in the carefully kept motor car records of the City of Detroit is positive proof of Ford economy.

In the paragraphs above, it is seen that 21 Ford scout cars averaged less than 2 1/3 cents a mile and 300 Ford cars in all branches of Detroit police work averaged 2.9 cents a mile!

Day and night, twenty-four hours a day, these Ford cars are in operation. Few branches of transportation demand such gruelling service. The records show that low fuel and oil consumption is but one of the Ford's many economies. Ford materials, simplicity of design and accuracy in manufacturing provide unusual strength, stamina and freedom from replacements and repairs.

The individual car buyer as well as the purchasing department of a city or a business cannot afford to ignore the proved economy of the Ford car.

ON TEXAS FARMS

By W. H. Darrow, Extension Service Editor

Sam Davis of Rule, the first man in Haskell county to terrace his farm, has averaged one-third bale of cotton per acre on his 420 acres every year since terraces were constructed in 1925.

As a result of demonstrations by the county agent in killing ants in citrus groves, 6264 acres of citrus have been signed up in demonstrations of ant control using thalium sulphate of calcium cyanide treatments.

A 500-pound bale of cotton could be bought each week with the egg money from 400 pullets laying for Charlie Morrow, Houston county poultry demonstrator.

C. C. Steadman of Cedar Hill Community, Dallas county, says that 20 pounds of butter net him as much as one bale of cotton. He delivers to Dallas customers at 40 cents per pound.

Eighty-five percent of home demonstration club members in Jefferson county report enough canned food for balanced meals all winter, and that their families have learned to like many new vegetables.

Mrs. K. M. Foster, garden demonstrator for the Marshall Home Demonstration Club in Hardeman county, has served fresh vegetables every day since May 1st and has enough canned for winter from her garden which she says netted $127.85.

A saving of two cents per tree was made by Henderson county farmers by ordering paradiorchobenzene cooperatively for the treatment of 3000 peach trees for borers, in demonstrations with the county agent.

DEPARTMENT STORE STOCKS RUGS MADE BY FARM WOMEN

College Station—An order for 100 hooked rugs made from wool and wrought into beautiful colored designs by Texas home demonstration club women has been placed by the manager of one of the largest department stores in Dallas for sale to the Christmas trade, it is announced by Miss Mamie Lee Hayden, specialist in home industries in the Extension Service of Texas A. and M. College and the United States Department of Agriculture. The showing will be representative, she says as women in 40 counties are pooling some of their home-made rugs to fill this order.

Gay colors predominate in these rugs which are made of wool, appropriately dyed and hooked into patterns which are mostly two by three feet and two by four feet in size, with a few rounds and oblongs included. The prices received will pay the makers about 30 cents per hour for the time spent in manufacture, Miss Hayden states.

This is one of many old-fashioned home industries which the Extension Service is introducing to Texas farm women as a means of supplying the need for beauty in the home, and to obtain additional revenue from sales. Carefully protected for quality by home demonstration standards, a wide variety of these products are sold privately.

IREDELL SCHOOL NEWS

The sixth and seventh grades, under the auspices of Miss Gandy, entertained us with a very interesting program Monday morning. After several songs and readings, the students dramatized the story of "William Tell." We can agree with Mr. Barsh that this series of good programs help to drive away the gloom of "Blue Monday."

Among the announcements, one met with loud applause, namely, that we are to have two days for Thanksgiving.

We hope to have a devotional service for next Monday. Our last experiment in this line proved to be very profitable.

Will they never cease to improve? And the subject is the Iredell Dragons. It seems that every game shows more material and more determination than ever before.

When the invading bevy of Eagles from Valley Mills marched on to the local gridiron, the pessimist had conceded a one-sided victory to them. But, during the course of a fast, ever-changing game, all opinions changed.

The truthful decision was hard to make until the last second had passed. Furious line plunges and accurate passing formed the attack, and both lines held their own by tackling hard and low. The final score gave the arbitration decision to the visitors by the score of 14-13.

Those who have looked forward to the Crawford-Iredell game on Thanksgiving will be disappointed to know that Crawford has conceded the game.

The next Dragon game will be Dec. 4, against Walnut Springs.

Hico, Tex., Friday, Nov. 27, 1931

THANKSGIVING

Thanksgiving Day has become such a universally observed national holiday that few people realize that its general observance on the last Thursday in November is quite a recent development. All of the states of New England and some of the other states had an annual day of thanksgiving by the proclamation of the Governor, but while this custom came from the earliest colonial times, it seldom happened that more than two or three states picked the same day.

The real "mother of Thanksgiving Day" was Mrs. Sarah Josepha Hale, who was the editor of the first magazine published especially for women, Godey's Lady's Book. Mrs. Hale, before 1850, tried to get the President of the United States to issue a proclamation for a national Thanksgiving Day. Mrs. Ruth E. Finley, in her new book, "The Lady of Godey's," tells how she bombarded President after president with her demand until, in 1863, President Lincoln issued the first national thanksgiving proclamation, naming the last Thursday in November as its date. From that time on every President has issued such a proclamation, and since the 1870's the Governor of every state has also proclaimed the last Thursday in November as Thanksgiving Day. Since there has never been an act of Congress on the subject, Thanksgiving Day is not technically a national holiday, but it would be difficult to keep the people of any state from observing it, even if the Governor forgot to issue his proclamation.

In recent years there has been a tendency to take Thanksgiving Day lightly. We are all too much inclined, in good times, to take credit to ourselves for our blessings, whatever they may be, while in times of distress it is a very human inclination to ask "what have I got to be thankful for?" We hear lots of people asking that question this year, but in our opinion one of the best cures for pessimism is to stop thinking of your hard luck and try for one day to think of all the good things that have come your way since last Thanksgiving.

There is, perhaps, small consolation in that for people who have lost their faith in spiritual things. But we believe that the great majority of Americans, by whatever name they may call their religious creeds, still believe that there is a Divine Providence which has guided and still will guide our nation, and when we consider the state of most of the people of the world, we feel that it is a simple gratitude for a National Thanksgiving Day.

WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH AMERICA?

We have not seen any more intelligent or biting explanation of the economic depression from which the country seems now to be beginning to emerge than that which was written a little while ago by Miss Emily Woodward, editor of the Vienna (Ga.) News. This is what Miss Woodward said about it:

A people, for the most part accustomed to living moderately and even frugally prior to the war, we launched into an orgy of spending such as has never been known in the history of man. Although endowed with a modicum of reasoning power, we have liberally thrown ourselves to the winds changing our standards of living from quiet simplicity to frenzied luxury. Equipped with sufficient mathematical knowledge to know that four from two leaves minus two, men and women with incomes of $200.00 a month have spent at the rate of $400.00. This has applied quite generally whether the income has been $25.00 or $2500.00.

Farming and other businesses are more or less demoralized, and it is not due altogether to 5 cent cotton and the tariff. It is due in part to our waste, abuse of credit, poor business management and laziness.

Before we see the end of this many of us who are now riding may be walking, but that probably would be as it should be. The men and women who honestly work their ways out of the present economic labyrinth will be those possessed of the proper intestinal stamina. For some time now, we have needed something to divide the sheep from the goats. Crooks and deadbeats have been sailing along in the vanguard of society and the church, enjoying all the privileges and often more than those who make up the ranks of honest citizenry. If the present crisis serves as a leveler in the business and social realms, much will be gained. The seeming success of the dishonest during the REIGN OF EXTRAVAGANCE THROUGH WHICH WE HAVE JUST PASSED, HAS HAD A BANEFUL EFFECT, SERVING TO GIVE SANCTION TO THE THEORY THAT THE WAY TO WIN IS THROUGH SHADY PATHS.

KEEPING UP WITH WEST TEXAS HAPPENINGS

A scenic drive in the Davis Mountains near Fort Davis is under construction to extend approximately seventy-five miles. Radio broadcasting station, XER in Mexico just across the river from Del Rio, the strongest in power on the North American continent, was opened recently, the Del Rio Chamber of Commerce having charge of the initial programs.

One oil refining company is spending one hundred and fifty thousand dollars in improvements at McCamey, Texas. Enrollment at Sul Ross State Teachers' College, Alpine, Texas, equals that of 1930 for the same month.

Five hundred acres of cantaloupes will be planted in the Fort Stockton area next year as an experiment.

A trainload of calves was shipped from Marfa, Texas, recently to Virginia points.

Hansford and Wheeler counties in the Texas Panhandle recently had highway contracts let aggregating over two hundred thousand dollars for new constructions.

The hide of a catalo—cross between a buffalo and cattle—is a prized possession of Panhandle Historical Society, Canyon, Texas.

West Texas counties won the first three places in county exhibits at the State Fair of Texas this year. They were Eastland, Randall, and Hartley in the order named.

Amarillo's eleven thousand families own nearly four thousand radio receiving sets.

A riding academy is being established at Sul Ross Teachers' College, Alpine.

FLEAS

Something happened to the fleas of Germany that killed them all off. German scientific laboratories are paying as high as ten marks, or $2.50 apiece for healthy fleas for experimental purposes.

Russia's infested with fleas and the Soviet government will not countenance any effort to get rid of them. They say that fleas are good for people, because they make folks turn over in their sleep, and sleeping on one side is bad for the heart!

"California is still waging war on chipmunks or ground squirrels because they harbor the fleas which carry the bubonic plague. Every port in the world takes precautions to keep rats from coming ashore from ships arriving from ports where the plague has been, because rats carry the plague—fleas, too.

A book could be written about fleas. One of the world's most famous short poems, by the great Dean Swift, was written when those who spoke good English pronounced "tea" and "flea" as if they were spelled "tay" and "flay," as Dublin University men pronounce them today. It reads:

"So, naturalists observe, the flea Has lesser fleas that on him prey, And they, in turn, have lesser fleas, And so ad infinitum."

Some years ago the New York Sun printed what it termed "the shortest poem in the English language." Its title was "Flea," and the entire poem read thus: "Adam Had 'em." * * * * *

EYES

Quite the most marvelous application of scientific research is the development of the photo-electric eye, the sensitive little tube which not only detects the slightest change in the amount of light which shines on it, but can convert these variations into electric currents.

One electric company has an electric eye mounted upon a tower which automatically switches on the street lights of a big city when the darkness reaches a certain degree, and turns them off again when morning arrives. Working on the same principle, an electric eye is used in many homes, factories and offices to turn on the lights automatically on winter afternoons when it gets too dark to work without artificial light. In another application the electric eye acts as a sentinel in the stores and warehouses. The slightest flash of extra light, such as might be made by a burglar's flashlight or a fire, is caught by the electric eye which turns on all the lights in the place and at the same time rings an alarm for the police.

In one big mail order house the electric eye is being used to sort mail sacks going to different destinations. The sacks bear labels of different sizes and colors which reflect varying means of light as they pass under the electric eye on an automatic carrier. Depending upon the exact amount of light reflected from the label, the photo-electric cell opens one or another compartment into which the mail sacks drop.

Engineers are trying to combine the electric eye with an apparatus which will convert the letters on a printed page into sound. They say it is not impossible that a machine may eventually be built which will read a book aloud. I have long gotten over being surprised at anything.

CALENDAR

The Committee on Calendar Reform of the League of Nations has postponed its effort to put the calendar on a sensible basis, partly because of hard times and partly because certain religious bodies object to any change which would make their sabbath fall on a different day. That is a foolish objection, but perhaps more powerful than any reasonable argument. Eventually it is certain that the present calendar will be changed.

TELEPHONE

German telephone exchanges have inaugurated a new system whereby, when a number called fails to answer, the person calling may be switched to an operator who will take a message for future delivery over the phone. This is an intelligent and practical thing to do, and ought to be adopted in America, as it doubtless will be.

ACCIDENTS

Recent statistics show some curious facts about railroad crossing accidents, which are difficult to explain. The number of automobiles struck by trains at grade crossings has been declining steadily since 1926, but the number of moving trains is increasing. Evidently motorists are more careful in crossing railroad tracks than they used to be, but it is hard to imagine any person sane enough to drive a car, driving that car into a railroad train. Perhaps bootleg liquor supplies the answer.

Railroads have found it so much cheaper to elevate their tracks than to pay damages for crossing accidents that the time is coming soon when no important highway in America will cross a railroad at grade.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

International Sunday School Lesson for November 29 PAUL'S LETTER TO PHILEMON

Philemon 4-20

This is the time you will surely read an entire book, and without asking "What chapter, please," as did a certain theologian when Prof. Purves indicated a verse for special mention of the pronunciation which is on the long "e." Onesimus is a slave who stole from his master Philemon, and then ran away. Finally he turned up in Rome and dropped in at one of Paul's meetings. Now Paul knew Philemon well and may even have recognized the slave. At least Onesimus was a totally different man following his conversion. Then he consulted with Paul about the right way to recompense Philemon, for he was still with reference to enslaved humanity which rest on each one of us. The Golden Text is sweeping in its scope: "There can be neither bond nor free—for all are one man in Christ Jesus." Galatians, 3:28. How do you think Philemon received Onesimus?

SPEAKING OF TEETH

I doubt if any one ever fully appreciates his or her teeth quite so much as when they have just been all extracted by the dentist. When the victim struggles through the agonizing days, trying to "break in" a new set of artificial teeth he remembers what a treasure he has lost in his natural teeth; if it were to do over again, he'd treat those native molars and incisors with a great deal more respect than he did when he had them.

The modern advice as to care of the teeth is plenty voluminous; the ether-wave sizzles with the bray of the charlatan. The hawk mercilessly besets you with his sugar-coated nostrum, and wise columnists hand you tooth-theories, sophistries and "isms."

Those and many more. Why should I add my bit? Well, common sense at this time may not be amiss.

There is no law on God's green earth that requires obedience as to

BRUCE BARTON

A QUICK MILLENIUM

When I was in London I read an interesting, and rather pathetic, newspaper article by the "baby member" of Parliament. His name is Frank Owen.

He recalled his maiden speech in which he proclaimed: "High hopes brought this Parliament to being. We will make it a Parliament of high endeavor."

He had been full of fine plans in those days. For one thing, the timber men were to have higher wages. "We got them another 1s. 6d. a week," he says, "and then the State sacked some of them."

"We looked forward to the debates on unemployment and agriculture and the mines," he adds, "and spoke from the back benches when the heavy guns were at dinner."

He was twenty-three in those days. Now he is twenty-five, and wiser. His hopes have faded.

He thought he was going to play a large part in changing England and the Empire. Instead of this he is "spending his time answering letters issued by organizations ordering us

(a) to vote for humane slaughter of beasts (b) to vote against it. (a) to open cinemas on Sunday (b) to close them. (a) to prohibit sweepstakes (b) to extend them. He has about reached the conclusion that all effort is futile, and that the world is on its way to perdition.

NEW PASTOR AND WIFE WELCOMED TO HICO

On last Monday evening at about 7:30 o'clock the Methodist Stewards and their wives and many other members of the Methodist Church of this city, came to the parsonage to extend a hearty welcome to their new pastor and his wife, and incidentally they gave us "an old fashioned Methodist ..."

Social converse was enjoyed by all for a time, after which Mr. J. C. Barrow, chairman of the Board in a few well selected words extended a most cordial greeting and hearty welcome to the new pastor and his wife, and assured the pastor that the Board of Stewards and the entire membership of the Church, would follow his leadership and back him up in every effort to carry out the whole program of the Church. The pastor and his wife made sincere response in brief statements.

A hymn of christian love was sung, and several of the ladies and brethren prayed brief prayers, after which they departed to their respective homes. The whole affair was an entire surprise to us, and we heartily appreciate it. We thank you and pray God's rich blessings upon each of you.

Sincerely Your Pastor and his wife, Rev. and Mrs. J. M. Perry.

Political Pot In Hamilton County Begins to Simmer

(Hamilton Herald-Record)

With the time for making formal political campaign announcements nearly two months distant, quite a number of local people have openly expressed their intention to become candidates for local offices when the New Year steps over the threshold.

Amongst those who have been outspoken in their declarations of an intention to run for office is Miss Doll Adams, who will be a candidate for the office of County Treasurer. She is the daughter of the late R. A. Adams, and is a descendant of two of Hamilton County's oldest and most highly respected families. She was employed for a number of years in the Keen & Foster Drug Store, and is a young business woman of unusual ability. Miss Adams is widely known and enjoys enviable popularity.

Judge Joe H. Eidson, Judge of the 52nd Judicial District, composed of Hamilton, Coryell and Comanche counties, it is understood will be a candidate for re-election in 1932. Judge Eidson says, "There is no more important office to be filled than that of District Judge, and I have a work in that field that I feel I have just begun, and I am ambitious to carry on until the day to which I aspire." Unlike most public officials who swerve not one iota from duty, and show no favor, Judge Eidson has never come in for one word of adverse criticism or acrimonious censure from any strata of society. He enjoys the confidence and friendship of everybody and has served the people faithfully and well.

Another avowed candidate for office is J. T. Dempster, who will enter the race for County Clerk. He has served in that office in the past at various times for a number of years. He is one of the best liked men in the county; a member of a pioneer family, and a man of unusual business ability. He handled the matters of the office of county clerk quite capably.

Quite a number of men are signifying their intention of making the race for the office of Tax Collector, among them being Robert Riley, J. T. Lovelace and Roy Santy. There are no better men in this entire county than this trio, and each one is universally popular. Excellent business men, highly respected and capable of filling admirably the place to which they aspire.

J. C. Barrow, a widely known business man of Hico, who has been informed, in due course, will make formal announcement of his candidacy for County Judge of Hamilton county. He is also a member of a pioneer family of Hamilton county. Mr. Barrow is a fine business man and a man of unimpeachable character. He has served his home city of Hico most efficiently as its Mayor for several years and has also served with marked success as manager of one of Hico's largest business concerns, the Higginbotham Company. He is thoroughly and practically familiar with public service affairs and judging from intimations the Herald-Record has gained Mr. Barrow will make a most popular candidate for the office of County Judge.

Will Hollaway it is also reported, will probably announce for the office of sheriff of Hamilton county when the date arrives for formal entrance into the race. He is a splendid citizen, a fine, clean, upright man, and one who enjoys the friendship of every one who knows him.

Sheriff Mack Morgan announces his intention to be a candidate for re-election. Sheriff Morgan is faithful and diligent in the discharge of his duties as an officer, and is popular throughout the county.

Another prospective candidate is Ben Walker for sheriff. It is readily remembered that Mr. Walker was in the race for sheriff in the campaign of 1930, and lost the race only by a small margin. At that time he stated that he would be in the race in 1932 for the same office, and he states that he has not changed his mind. His formal announcement will, in all probability appear in due course of time.

HINTS FOR THE HOME

by NANCY HART

Apple Pudding Slice five large apples into buttered baking dish. Cover with rich biscuit dough, rolled half an inch thick. Make some holes in it for the steam to escape through and steam for half an hour. Serve with hard sauce, made of creamed butter and sugar added to the beaten white of an egg, or with cinnamon sauce, made by sitting half a teaspoon of cinnamon, three tablespoons of sugar and a tablespoonful of a half of flour and pouring boiling water on it gradually and boiling it until it becomes smooth and thick enough.

Orange Layer Cake Cream one-half cup butter with one cup sugar until very light. Add three eggs, one at a time, beating each one in five minutes before adding another. Sift two tablespoons of baking powder with two cups sifted flour, mixing thoroughly, and add to the other materials, alternating with a half cup of milk or water (water if the cake is to be eaten while fresh). Beat batter well after all ingredients are in. Bake in two layers in a moderately hot oven for about twenty minutes.

Mixed Mustard Add a teaspoon of sugar to two heaping teaspoons of dry mustard and half a teaspoon, level of salt. Mix with hot vinegar and water to a smooth, thick paste.

Ham and Macaroni Ham adds a delicious flavor to macaroni.

One good combination is creamed macaroni and ham. Cut cold boiled or broiled ham in small pieces, preferably dice about a quarter inch thick. Make a medium cream sauce and pour it over boiled macaroni that has been broken or cut into inch lengths. Add a cup of ham to two cups of macaroni. Heat and serve very hot.

Steak and Kidney Pie Cut two pounds of round steak into thin strips, season with salt and pepper and dredge with flour. Arrange the strips in a deep dish with two lamb's kidneys parboiled and sliced, one dozen oysters, one chopped onion, one bay leaf, one tablespoon minced parsley and a sprig of thyme. Dot with butter and pour over one cup of stock or hot water. Cover with a layer of flaky pastry, gash in several places, brush with the beaten yolk of an egg and bake for two hours in a moderate oven.

Spinach Soup 3 yolks 1-2 cup soft crumbs 2 cups cooked spinach 3-4 cup liquid 3 tablespoons butter 2 tablespoons flour 2 tablespoons grated cheese Salt, pepper and grated nutmeg to taste. Drain spinach (save liquid) and chop. Melt butter, add flour and stir over fire for 2 minutes, add liquid from spinach and enough milk to give 3-4 cupful, stir this into the butter and flour until thick and smooth. Add spinach, seasonings, crumbs, cheese and unbeaten yolks, mix thoroughly and turn into buttered and crumbed mold, set this in pan of hot water, cover spinach with buttered paper and bake in moderate oven until spinach is firm. Unmold and garnish with slices of hard-boiled eggs.

Jam Omelet Make an ordinary omelet. When it is ready to send to table, spread it with jam, roll, and serve.

Bacon Omelet Chop some crisp hot bacon, and mix with an omelet mixture before cooking. Cook as usual.

White Mayonnaise Into a bowl break the whites of two eggs and the yolk of one, using a light-colored yolk if possible. Add a cup of olive oil, a pinch of white pepper, a quarter-teaspoon of salt and a tablespoon of lemon juice. Beat all with a rotary egg beater until a stiff, creamy mayonnaise results. This is fine for chicken salad. If the dressing is to be used for fruit salad a tablespoon of sugar may be added.

Regulation Mayonnaise Break the yolk of an egg in a shallow bowl, add a half teaspoon of dry mustard, the same amount of salt, a pinch of red pepper. Mix well and gradually beat in a cup of olive oil and two table-spoons of good vinegar or lemon juice. The oil must be beaten in slowly. Some cooks work it in drop by drop. The point is, it must be beaten very, very thoroughly.

Russian Dressing Russian dressing is made by adding two teaspoons of chili sauce, and a whole pimento chopped fine, to a cup of mayonnaise.

Uses for Sour Cream There are quite a number of excellent ways of utilizing sour cream. You will find it a good substitute for sweet milk in dressings for salads. It can also be used instead of sweet milk when making chocolate fudge, and scones and pancakes made with sour cream will be beautifully light.

FAIRY ITEMS

Saturday brought us another day of misty snowy weather. Velma Sill, who recently underwent an operation, was struck with a ball while at school here Tuesday and was rushed to the Hamilton sanitarium for treatment.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Hartgraves and W. L. Jones attended the funeral of Mr. Knowles at Jonesboro Tuesday afternoon, who was killed Monday afternoon when he fell from a pecan tree while threshing pecans.

The infant child of Rev. and Mrs. Edmund Early of Hamilton was buried here Saturday morning. It only budded here to bloom in Heaven. It was the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Early and our heartfelt sympathy goes out to them in this time of sorrow.

The Fairy's were beaten in both ball games here Friday night by the Cranfill Gap boys and girls. The game was attended by a large crowd. Quite a large delegation from Cranfill's Gap were in attendance. A play was also rendered at the school auditorium by a troupe from Jonesboro.

Two more Fairy's have sailed out on the sea of matrimony. Mr. Arthur Burden and Pauline Jones were married at Hamilton Tuesday afternoon. They spent a few days in Ballinger and Fort Worth before returning to their home here Saturday.

These young people were both reared in this vicinity and have a host of friends who wish them much happiness and prosperity on life's voyage together.

Mrs. Henry Burden is suffering with poison which broke out on her face.

Rev. Gardner of Hamilton, the new pastor for this circuit filled his appointment at the Methodist Church here Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Burden, Mrs. Henry Burden and Miss Evelyn Burden visited Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Early of Hamilton Sunday afternoon.

"Look Your Best if You'd Be Happy" Says This Specialist

An Interview With the Graduate Beautician Who Is at Carlton Bros. Store This Week

There was a time when women dressed and "prettied themselves" in the hope of making themselves more attractive to some man, but that is not quite so true today, according to Mrs. Lula Peek, well-known beauty specialist who is at the Hico store of G. M. Carlton Bros. & Co. this week. "Of course women still want to look their best in the eyes of the other sex," Mrs. Peek continued, "but they value more and more the compliments of their women friends, the esteem of women whom they meet, and their own self respect. "The increasing education of women, growing enrollments of women today at colleges, the ability of women to make their own way, and to meet men as equals—all these points are responsible for this changing point of view. "Scientific principles are exemplified by the Dorothy Perkins' products which are especially adapted to each woman's individual needs. These products enable every woman to obtain greater loveliness the natural scientific way." Mrs. Peek is giving private consultations, illustrated by a complete facial treatment, to all women who call at the Carlton Bros. store this week. This unusual service is given without charge as a courtesy of the store.

Mr. J. W. Richbourg, manager of the Hico store of Carlton Bros., suggests that those who wish to take advantage of this opportunity make an appointment as soon as possible, as engagements in other cities make it impossible for Mrs. Peek to remain here after Saturday.

VERY LATEST by MARY MARSHALL

Here is an idea that you can make use of in reviving old dresses or in making a new one from light weight wool or silk crepe. The dress may be of any plain tone you choose and the scarf and cuff trimmings may be of plain tone or figured material. On the original from which our sketch was made the scarf and cuffs were made from silk showing a fairly large polka dot.

It is so simple that only a few words of explanation will be necessary. The scarf and collar drapery consist of one long strip of material. The length will depend on your own height so the best way to get the measurements is to measure yourself from the point of the V-neckline in front, around one side across the back and down over the other shoulder to the hem of the skirt, allowing an inch or so for the drawing in of the scarf at the belt. It is best to make the scarf double, so that if you want it a little less than five inches wide finished you should make a strip ten inches wide. Fold over, stitch along the edge and draw inside out and finish at the ends.

The cuff decorations are made from the same sort of silk in the form of undersleeves slipped under the ends of a slightly flaring sleeve. To make these simply make a double fold of material and slant in the side seam so as to make it flare slightly. Each cuff should be four or five inches deep. Only an inch or so extends below the dress sleeve.

In applying the scarf collar sew in position along only one side—the right—of the dress at the front of the V-neckline. Leave unattached at the back so that the scarf may simply be draped across the back and allowed to hang free at the left side.

MIGHTY BEACH STORY REACHES LOCAL SCREEN

No "putting on the spot." No "alchy" running. No sawed-off shotguns. No political insinuations. A "different" gang-story is Radio Pictures' drama, "Young Donovan's Kid," opening at the Palace Theatre Thursday and running Friday night also. The picture stars Richard Dix, famous for his portrayal of Yancy Cravat in "Cimarron," with Marion Shilling, Jackie Cooper, star of "Skippy," and Frank Sheridan heading an outstanding cast of featured players.

The story has to do with the "romantic" period of gang-history. It deals with the Car Barn "mob" in the pre-war New York days. No "cannon" stuff in those days. No "taking for a ride." Just the sincere, untarnished dramatic presentation of men who lived by violence, of gangsters who listened to religion occasionally and who tried to go straight, not because of consequence, but because of love.

W. L. McDowell entertained the football team and pep squad to a theatre party last Thursday night at the palace Theatre.

CARD OF THANKS

We take this method of expressing our thanks and appreciation for the help given us since our barn and its contents were destroyed by fire. Especially do we thank the men who tried so hard to save our feed. And if such misfortune ever comes your way, may God bless you all with such friends as our prayer.—Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Warren.

POOR KINGS By William H. Davies God's pity on poor kings, They know no gentle rest; The North and South cry out, Cries come from East and West—

"Come, open this new Dock, Building, Bazaar or Fair." Lord, what wretched life Such men must bear, They're followed, watched and spied, No liberty they know; Some eye will watch them still, No matter where they go. When in green lanes I muse, Alone, and hear birds sing, God's pity then, say I, On some poor king. "You are lying so clumsily," said the judge to the defendant, "that I would advise you to get a lawyer."
