SUBSCRIBERS NEWS AND VIEWS

Several of our good friends over the country have come into the office recently to have their names placed back on the subscription list, after having done without the News Review for some time. Most of them stated that they missed the paper while their names were off the list, and decided that they could get along without something else. A good many of them admitted that they had been reading a borrowed paper during the interim, which was O. K. with us—if it is with their neighbor.

H. McElroy, who resides on route one about three miles east of town, came in Saturday two weeks ago to take the Hico paper again. Mr. McElroy said they had let their time run out, and before he left home Saturday morning the women folks reminded him to renew for they said they could not do without the Hico paper. While in the office, he also took advantage of the bargain combination rate of the Semi-Weekly Farm News.

L. J. Jordan, cotton weigher, came in recently and gave us a check for $1 to keep the paper coming. He said he had been forgetting to come in but still wanted the home news.

J. O. Bodiford, Route 3, Hico, who subscribed a few weeks back but didn't get in touch with the editor on his visit to the office, came to Hico Trades Day and dropped by to get acquainted. We enjoyed Mr. Bodiford's visit, and his remarks were an inspiration to us. He is a native of Tom Green County, where he was born 40 years ago last January, and has been a "compunder" in his day, according to his declaration. He lived at Breckenridge for some time before moving to his place 5 miles south of Hico three years ago, and managed to realize his lifetime ambition in this country—that of owning his own place.

He has 108 acres on Honey Creek, and is well satisfied with his selection of a place to make his home, although recent heavy rains have delayed his corn-planting which he always tries to get through with by the last of February. Mr. Bodiford stated that it would be a week or more before he could get into his fields, but that he would make time when the weather would permit.

C. A. Thies, manager of the Hico plant of the Bell & Ice Dairy Products Co. who has taken the News Review ever since moving to Hico, renewed his subscription two weeks ago through Miss Jonnie Huchington at the news stand.

Mrs. Joe S. Kurtz, Napoleon, Ohio, a daughter of W. R. Hampton out on Route 4, will receive the News Review again this year as a gift from Mr. Hampton. She is not acquainted around this section of the country, but her father says she states that she finds lots of interesting things to read in our paper, which we consider quite a compliment.

Mrs. F. D. New, Route 6, Hico, visited the office Saturday before last with the intention of renewing her subscription to the paper. She had two fine frying chickens with her, and it didn't take the editor's wife long to make a trade. Thanks, Mrs. New. The chickens were fine, and we hope you like your part of the trade.

L. E. Ruth, new manager of the Hico Bakery, is starting out his career right by having his name entered on our subscription list. We figured he was the kind of a fellow who did things right when we first saw him, now since he is one of our family of readers, we are more convinced than ever.

Mrs. Ruth, who assists Mr. Ruth at the Bakery, wants her daughter to receive the Hico paper also and telephoned in recently to have it sent to Mrs. W. H. Buell, 516 Calyft Street, Monroe, La.

A. C. Stanford, Route 6, Hico, was in Tuesday of last week to renew his subscription for another six months.

J. M. Word, Route 4, Hico, helps to keep our list up his way 100 per cent by promptly renewing when his time is out. Miss Jonnie Huchington at the news stand turned in this subscription.

Mrs. J. O. Cashion, city, sent in the money last week to have her time marked up another 6 months.

J. H. Goad, carpenter, plumber, and a good man at several trades, has his time marked up another H. Hooker, year.

Mrs. W. H. Hooker is indeed a friend to the paper, and uses her head about spending her money. If she had to write letters to her sons to tell them the news, she figures she would spend more than it costs to send them the paper. So she recently had us enter the names of two of her sons at Fort Worth to receive the paper each week. As a result we have added the names of B. L. Hooker, 3209 Avenue F, and C. H. Hooker in care of Washer Brothers, Fort Worth.

J. J. Leeth, major general of the J. J. Leeth & Sons Gin in Hico, who made so much money out of his gin last year, decided that on account of the high price of cotton he could renew his subscription another year. His name has been on our list so long that we couldn't mail out the papers without it, and we are glad he still wants to receive the old sheet. If next year is like this one, and ginners have as many troubles as they have had for the past several months, we are not going to accept his money again—he ought to get it for nothing.

W. M. Green, city, one of our most faithful subscribers, came in Saturday to renew their paper for another six months. His time had expired only the day before he came in but he was afraid they would miss an issue.

Mrs. I. W. Vickrey, 505 S. Walnut St., Cleburne, again sent her $1.50 through the mail for renewal of her subscription. Thanks, Mrs. Vickrey, and we are glad to note that you still like the paper and want to keep up with what Hico folks are doing.

Mrs. Guy S. Ellis, Iredell, Texas, recently ordered her time extended six months through our agent in that section, Miss Stella Jones.

Mrs. E. A. Grimes, Fair, was in the office Thursday to renew for the News Review, stating that she didn't want to miss a copy of her home paper.

Fairy

By MRS. W. L. JONES

We felt like "smiling today, Tuesday, to see the sun again—the first peep we have had of that glorious body in eight days.

Rubber boots and mud chains are very fashionable at this writing and if there isn't a change in weather conditions soon the buggy and wagon will again make their appearance. Any way we can surely reward old Kit and Daisy with a good feed of these high-priced oats for their labor.

School was dismissed here Monday for the rest of the week as several of the roads are almost impassable and a large per cent of the pupils were unable to attend.

The Fairy school bus has had a very rough time during the rainy weather. When stalled in Falls Creek last week from high water Prof. Mix, the driver, left it there. But a rise came down and washed it down stream, causing quite a bit of trouble in getting it out.

Mrs. J. O. Richardson and sister, Mrs. Price Cox, visited their mother, Mrs. A. L. Newman, and brother, Printis Newman and wife Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Willis Atchley left Saturday for Fort Worth on a business trip, also to visit Mr. Atchley's sister and family of that place.

Nathaniel Grimes and family of near Hico visited his mother, Mrs. B. A. Grimes, a while Sunday afternoon and also other relatives in the Agee community.

Mrs. Robert Parks left Saturday for Cleburne to spend several days in the home of her daughter, Mrs. O. C. Jordan and to help entertain a new baby girl in the home who made her arrival February 19th.

Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Allison visited Mr. and Mrs. Dellis Seago of Hico Sunday afternoon.

Miss Lorene Garren of Whitehall spent several days here the first of last week visiting with friends.

Rev. Edmund Early of Brownwood came down Saturday to fill an appointment at the Baptist Church, but the services were rained out.

Several of this place are suffering with severe colds something like a light epidemic of flu.

PASTORS GIVE WARNING!

We respectfully raise our voices to our people warning them against the danger and the waste of their money in buying from roving book agents, the unwelcome and dangerous literature of "The Bible Tract Society" or "The International Students Association."

If you really want something to read, and need books, get a catalogue of the Publishing House of your own Church, or any recognized Church, and make a wise selection of books that will not insult Jesus Christ, nor try to dig the foundations from under the Church of God.

Why not ask your pastor to help you select some good books? He knows as much as some of these foreigners who want to make your selection for you.

Your faithful servants,
J. M. PERRY,
Methodist Pastor.

S. A. Clark Again Asks For Re-Election As Commissioner

S. A. Clark announces this week that he will be a candidate for re-election to the office of County Commissioner, Precinct 3, Hamilton County. "Uncle Sam," as he is called by his many close friends, has held this office for some time, as is generally known, and feels that he is justified in asking for re-election through duty well performed. His wide experience in the matters concerning his office and his knowledge of road problems which confront this section at the present time make it necessary that any one elected to this important office have the interest of the people at heart, and also be well versed in road matters. His record as a road man undoubtedly recommends him as capable of the taking care of this phase of the duties of a commissioner.

Right now there is a most urgent need of economy in all county affairs. As a member of the commissioner's court, which body has authority to pass on the expenditure of the people's money, Mr. Clark has always exercised rare business judgment, and takes into consideration the fact that when receipts are diminished, expenditures must likewise be watched closely in order to keep the county finances in proper shape.

Mr. Clark feels that he could not have discharged the duties of a commissioner so successfully as he has in the past had he not had the whole-hearted cooperation of the taxpayers and citizenship of his precinct and the county as a whole. For this spirit on the part of his constituents he wishes to express his appreciation. The voters of this precinct have his thanks for their support in the past, and his promise of a continuance of his efforts to faithfully perform his duties should they see fit to re-elect him.

The Northwest Texas Highway Association was organized at Stamford Saturday by representatives from the towns and territory along and north of Highway No. 1-A and Highway No. 83. The purpose of the organization is "the logical development and completion of the highway system of Northwest Texas." Officers elected were Clifford B. Jones, Spurr, president; Harris Winston, Snyder, first vice president; Walter Duckworth, Post, second vice president, and Curtis Hancock, Breckenridge, secretary-treasurer.

A net profit of $35.20 per acre was made last year by 6 Bastrop county farmers conducting alfalfa demonstrations on 79 1-2 acres in cooperation with the county agent who reports yields averaging near 3 tons to the acre.

F. O. Jaye Asks Voters' Support For District Attorney

F. O. Jaye of Comanche, who visited Hico last week and again this week in the interest of his candidacy for the office of District Attorney, has authorized the News Review to place his name in its official announcement column. Mr. Jaye's statement follows:

To the People of the 52nd Judicial District:—

In this issue of the paper, I herewith submit my announcement as candidate for the office of District Attorney for the 52nd Judicial District of Texas. In doing so I desire to make a few statements in regard to the duties of the office and what my endeavors will be should I be favored with an election to that office.

In 1930 I was elected to the position of County Attorney of Comanche County, Texas, in which position I am at the present time serving the people of that county. Since assuming office I have endeavored in every way possible to fulfill the many duties of that office and to discharge those duties in a way consistent with my oath as an official and the constitution and laws of this state. I will let my record in this county bear me out in my statement that I think I have faithfully discharged those duties. If I have made mistakes I did so in an honest endeavor to fairly and impartially discharge all of the duties incumbent upon me as a public official.

For the benefit of those persons in Hamilton and Coryell Counties who do not know me personally, I will state that I came to Comanche County in December, 1928, but prior to that time I was in the practice of law at San Antonio. I think my experience in the practice of the criminal law, both as a prosecutor and as a defense attorney prior to my becoming County Attorney, qualifies me for the high office of District Attorney of this District. Since I have been engaged in some of the most important criminal cases in this section of the state, and I think my friends will verify that they have been successfully disposed of under the facts in each case.

The District Attorney's duties are largely taken up by an enforcement of the felony statutes of this state. If I am elected District Attorney I propose to give my attention to an enforcement of all the laws without special emphasis on any one of them. I further propose to divide my time equally between the three counties composing this District, and work with the law enforcement officers of each county in the preparation of cases for trial.

If the District Attorney will work diligently to prepare all the facts in each case before the same is submitted to the Grand Jury, they can and will thereby do the county a great deal of money by permitting and enabling the grand jurors to rapidly dispose of each case as it is brought to them. This is accomplished by having the witnesses ready and the facts summarized prior to an investigation by the grand jury. This not only saves the people of each county considerable money, but it saves them time that would otherwise have to be taken up by the grand jury away from their homes and their other duties, while at the same time they would be enabled to discharge those duties in much less time.

The District Attorney's duty is to assist the Sheriff or any other law enforcement officers in investigating cases that may arise and get all the facts in each case, possible to obtain at the earliest date. To do this will save many cases that would otherwise be impossible to find an indictment.

I propose to investigate certain violations of our anti-trust laws which I know to exist in this District, and to use the power of this office to stamp out this evil, that is existing and operating today unhampered and un hindered by any effort on the part of the law enforcement officers to prevent it. These laws were enacted to protect the most sacred rights of our people, but they have been the most sadly neglected of all. I pledge myself to their enforcement.

I especially invite those persons in Hamilton and Coryell counties who do not know me to inquire of my friends in Comanche County to determine my standing as a citizen and my qualifications as an attorney at law. On this statement I submit my candidacy to the people of the 52nd Judicial District, and pledge to you that if I am elected to that office that I will endeavor in every way possible to discharge the duties thereof, sincerely, and impartially.

F. O. JAYE.

Hico Review Club's "Clean-Up Week" March 10, 11 & 12

Thursday, Friday and Saturday, March 10, 11 and 12, has been officially designated as Clean-Up Week in Hico, according to information received from officers of the Hico Review Club who are sponsoring the event, in conjunction with the city authorities who will furnish wagons and attend to other details of the job.

This is an annual affair, and in the past has enjoyed the cooperation of the citizenship to the fullest extent. This year a special effort will be made to have the affair more successful even than in the past, and it is hoped that the entire town will be cleaned up and put in neat shape.

Trash should be collected and sacked, placed on the street in front of the house, and on one of the above named days wagons will call and collect same. In order that none be missed the ladies of the club urge that the work be started now, so that the trash will be ready by the first day of the campaign, as it will be impossible to call at each place more than once, and the route has not been worked out yet.

It is also urged that in case extra labor is needed in the work of cleaning up local property, the owners of same use whatever laborers they feel they can afford to pay for their services, thus contributing toward the relief of unemployment, and getting a worthwhile job done when it is most needed and most effective.

Stewart Carmichael, 19, was shot and fatally wounded Tuesday afternoon at the Dallas home of J. C. Fortune, 19, a sophomore student at the Southern Methodist University. He died without revealing who shot him. Fortune when questioned by officers said he and Carmichael had been practicing "quick draws" with pistols and that he accidentally shot his friend. "We spent some time looking at the guns and then we started to practice our draws," Fortune said. "I had no idea the revolver was loaded. I wouldn't have shot Stewart for anything in the world. He was my chum. Officers learned that young Fortune attended his classes until noon and then he went over to Carmichael's. Later they went to the Fortune home. The boys had been friends for years.

Keeping Up With TEXAS

Hundreds of small fish, mostly perch and bass from three to four inches in length, were marooned in pools of overflow water from the Brazos near Waco and left to die as the water receded or seeped through the sand back to the river. The fish are believed to have swept over the dam at Lake Waco when the gates were opened last week to relieve the flood waters.

A San Antonio man has gone to court to get his salary reduced. He is Theodore M. Plummer, receiver for the San Antonio Building Materials Company. Declaring that the receivership has reached the stage where its duties are more of a routine nature, he petitioned Federal District Judge Duval West to cut his remuneration from $10,000 to $7500 a year. The court granted his request.

Texas offered John N. Garner, speaker of the national house of representatives, Monday as a democratic tonic for the ills of the country. In a vast mass meeting of citizens from all corners of Texas the little Texan from Uvalde was put forward as the hope of the party. His nomination for president at the Chicago national convention was asked as that of a "leader who knows the road to prosperity."

Approximately $130,000,000 has been brought into Texas by the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank at Houston since it was organized and this money has been used for loans to farmers' co-operative on warehoused commodities and in discounting ranch and farm notes. During 1930 over $30,000,000 was brought into the State from outside sources by the sale of debentures.

The ice age American, or science's "missing persons" list for 20,000 years may be corrected at last in the caves of West Texas. The clue with which scientists hope to "get their man" after 200 centuries, is a stone spear point found in one of the caves. Ice age man, they think, used it to hunt Arctic musk oxen in Texas as when much of the United States was covered with glaciers. Where ice age man left his weapons he also should have left his bones, and the Smithsonian Institution announced that Frank M. Setzler, archaeologist, is on his way to look for them.

John Henry Kirby, Houston capitalist, lost $1,100 in San Antonio Monday while attending the statewide Garner-for-President rally. He did not discover his loss until arrival at the railroad station on his way home. Almost at the same time he was called by telephone by a man who said he had found his pocketbook. A nephew, Tom Kirby, went to the address given, and got the purse. All its papers were intact, but 11 $100 bills were missing. Police are investigating.

O. W. Sherrill, Georgetown, president of the Federal Reserve Bank for that district, was in Washington Tuesday to receive definite instructions as to how Texas' share of the $200,000,000 in Government funds allotted to agricultural loans shall be distributed, according to Dan E. Lydick, chairman of the Tarrant County committee named recently to pass on applications for loans.

Trustees of Baylor University Tuesday elected former Governor Pat M. Neff as president of the school, the oldest institution of higher learning in Texas. Neff, now a member of the Texas Railroad Commission, took the matter under advisement. His acceptance would make him the successor of Dr. W. F. Allen, who has served as acting president since the death last year of Dr. Samuel Palmer Brooks, veteran Baylor president.

"July cloth" suits, made of two Texas products, cotton and mohair, will be among the five kinds of suits featured by the Pool Manufacturing Company this spring and summer, all of which use Texas cotton. Seersuckers, imitation linens, poplins and cotton worsted suits will be produced at the rate of about 150 suits weekly in the plant at Sherman and will retail at $6 to $12. A number of suits, ties, socks and other products of the company were placed on the Santa Fe train displaying Texas products, now on a State tour.

Included in the January total of 2,654 animals trapped by nine trappers in Texas predatory animal control work were 2,336 coyotes, 256 bobcats, 60 red wolves and two ocelots, C. E. Landon, leader reports. Nonpredatory animals trapped during the month included 20 badgers, 16 foxes, 11 raccoons and two opossums. Largest catch was in Webb County, where 804 coyotes, 96 bobcats and 5 fuv animals were caught by thirteen trappers.

The boys and some of the men certainly are putting in their time playing marbles. Some don't as much as take time to go home for their meals. They would play after dark if they could see.

This last week on Tuesday the Duffau and Bosque rivers were nearly bank full on account of so much rain. The Bosque was out of banks in some places. Large crowds of the Ireddell people went up to see the Duffau. Some of the ladies spent the afternoon as the rain had ceased and the sun came out. As I had never seen anyone pull cars across the dip, I went up there with a jolly bunch of girls. There certainly was a crowd of people there waiting to be pulled across. Ed Laurence with his faithful span of mules was there ready to land them safely over. Some were drummers. Edd took a wagon load of girls over and each one got a big thrill out of going over for the water there was deep, came up to the running boards of the cars. After a while we all wended our way back home. The evening shades had begun to gather when we arrived home. All enjoyed our trips in cars while others walked the railroad.

Misses Ruth Miller and Jewell McDonel spent two days with Dorothy Sommeral, who lives west of town, as the Duffau was so high the children didn't get back to school the next day but came in the next day and the girls report a fine visit at her home.

Mrs. Mangold, the county demonstrator was here Saturday and supervised the canning of several beets at the home of Mrs. Cavness. Several of the ladies were there with their canners and all enjoyed seeing the work done.

Ernest Ingram

Ernest Ingram was born in June 1913 in Ireddell. He was 19 years old at the time of his death Feb. 17, which occurred at their home at 3 a. m. He had been an invalid all his life. He was a great care to his parents, but they worshipped him and didn't mind the care.

His mother died several years ago leaving him to the care of his broken hearted father and his brothers, who are also broken hearted because he was taken away from them.

Ernest went to the home of the soul as peacefully as he would always go to sleep in his father's arms. No doubt his mother, sisters and brothers welcomed him in at the beautiful city.

The funeral was held Wednesday afternoon at the cemetery by Rev. Lester. A very good crowd of friends were there on account of the rain the crowd was smaller than would have been. He is certainly missed by his loved one for he was loved by all who knew him as he was an invalid he never went in company much, but all who knew him loved him for he was like an innocent baby. The father and children have the sympathy of their friends in the loss of their loved one.

"The Dragon's Den"

Boy's Primary Debate Elimination In order to have more time to train each individual debator, the coach, Mr. Barsh, held a primary elimination in which the judges were to leave the four best debators out of six.

After a siege of 'to the point' debates and hot arguments, in debate form, the subject was so near proved on both negative and affirmative sides, that the decision had to be a very strict one. At length two very good, but not best, debators were cast out for this year.

There were innumerable good points brought up and discussed, both for and against the subject, that I am sure every one present enjoyed.

We can always say for the Ireddell losers, "They go down fighting." This phrase was very suitable this morning when the debate winners were chosen.

The debators this year came from material we have had all the time, but this year, this material was encouraged by an enthused coach, and the results are wonderful.

Girls' Debate Practice There are only two girl debators this year, and due to the fact that there was a team lacking in boy's debates, the girls debated them for practice.

Ireddell did not know that she had so much good debating material in just two girls as we have this year.

Junior Girl's Primary Declamation Elimination. Due to the fact that we had a considerably large number of Junior girl declamers, Miss Josephine Griffin, the coach, thought it necessary to hold an elimination.

The four best were chosen, who will participate in the final "try out."

Forty-Two Party February 26 A forty-two party, sponsored by the P. T. A. will be held here Friday night. The proceeds of which will go to the P. T. A. funds.

The admission will be 25c each. Two sets of tables will be prepared, one for the young people, and one for the married people.

No one will faint losing a game as refreshments will be served. Every one is invited, and I especially urge the young people to be present as entertainment will not be lacking.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

International Sunday School Lesson for February 28 JESUS RAISES LAZARUS FROM THE DEAD John 11:32-44

Rev. Samuel-D. Price, D. D. Human interest stories attract unusual attention and here is one that is rich in thrills. The scene is laid in the region beyond Jordan amidst of an intensive ministry in the work with His disciples, and also in Bethany just a few miles from Jerusalem, where still exists the traditional site of the home of Lazarus. Added interest arises with the introduction of the sisters, so familiar in other scenes, Mary and Martha.

Announcement of the death of Lazarus is brought by messenger to Him while in Perea, possibly twenty miles distant. Apparently little attention is paid at first. Later Jesus suggests that the entire company of disciples go with Him to Bethany. This would be a dangerous trip owing to the announced opposition of the Pharisees and it is interesting to note how Thomas is eager to go along, though it may mean his own death.

Martha, the resourceful, meets Jesus outside the town and is comforted in just telling Him all about it. Thankful should we be when we can unburden our heart in time of distress. Mary, who has tarried with the hired mourners in the home, is sent for, and together the friends seek the place of sepulchre. It is right there that the Man of Nazareth reveals His perfect humanity, in that we have the record "Jesus wept." No difficulty is any problem to our Lord. Regardless of all circumstances when He demanded "Lazarus, come forth," the spirit came again to the body and the brother was returned to his sisters.

MAKE MONEY OUT OF YOUR SPARE TIME

Young men or young women not employed should begin at once to qualify for a good secretarial or accounting position. There has been less than twenty-five per cent of the usual number of students getting training in the business schools of the country the past year. This means as business picks up there is going to be a shortage of well-trained office help.

Many of those let out during the past twelve months will have to take minor positions for lack of proper training. Many of them did not have a high school education and but little, if any, specialized business training. Competition is going to be close, margins of profit small, therefore the successful business man will have to employ those who equipped themselves with the most modern and up-to-the-minute business training. The time has passed when a smattering of bookkeeping, shorthand and typewriting will enable you to secure and hold the better positions. Write for our catalogue and consider our Complete Secretarial or Complete Business Administration.

RAPTURE BEYOND

by KATHARINE NEWLIN BURT

Tenth installment
Fresh from a French convent, Jocelyn Harlowe returns to New York to her socially-elegant mother, a religious, ambitious woman. The girl is hurried into an engagement with the wealthy Felix Kent. Her father, Nick Sandal, surreptitiously enters the girl's home one night. He tells her he used to call her Lynda Sandal. The girl is torn by her desire to see life in the raw and to become part of mother's society. Her father studies her surroundings.

Lynda visits her father in his dingy quarters. She finds four men playing cards when she arrives. One of them, Jock Ayleward, her father tells her, is like a son to him, but warns the girl he is a trifter.

Lynda pays a second visit to her father and Jock takes her home, on the way stopping with her at an underworld cabaret.

Jock tells Lynda that Felix has caused him to be sent to jail unjustly by fixing up his report on a mine.

Felix tells Jocelyn that Jock is a worthless scamp. Later Lynda tells Jock she does not believe in his innocence but will try and find through Felix some letters Jock claims will clear his name.

Marcella finds her jewels stolen and hires a private detective who uncovers the mysterious prowling of Lynda without knowing who she is. Lynda suspects her father.

Jocelyn decides to marry Felix quickly and preparations are made for the wedding. She asks him to tell her the combination of his safe, as a mark of his confidence in her.

Armed with the combination, and accompanied by Jock, Lynda enters Felix's office at night, abstracts the wanted papers from the safe and throws them down to Jock, who is waiting below. She then is captured by the janitor, turned over to the police.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

He laughed grimly to cover his furious astonishment, his growing fright. She seemed to him a changeling.

"Do you know what you have done? Do you even begin to know what you are up against? You, Jocelyn Harlowe, have been caught in the act of house-breaking and theft. You are in the hands of the law. Do you know anything about its power?"

"More than I did," quoth Lynda with Nick's cool irony.

Her master's spirit winced and hardened.

"You know very little as yet. Listen to me, Jocelyn, and don't dare defy me. It is my generosity alone that can get you out of this ugly, this horrible fix. Do you want to go to prison? State's prison? There are still prisons, believe me, where insolent women prisoners are flogged. Bound up and flogged."

"You've sent other people to prison," cried Lynda, "people very much less guilty than I am."

His narrowed eyes probed her wide ones. Her face was like a pale lamp; his, like a blue sliver of steel. They glowed and glittered at each other for an instant silently.

"Whom have you in mind? And what secret influence has been at work in your life? What has led you to deceive me, Jocelyn? To deceive your mother? Do you remember that we are to be married tomorrow at noon?"

She shook her head and moistened her lips, trying to say "No."

"Yes. Nothing you can possibly do or say can prevent you now from becoming my wife tomorrow. I'll take you out of this and carry you home and when you've told me the truth of your ugly and wicked escapade, you can wash yourself and burn these horrible clothes. Where in heaven's name did you get them? And get some sleep and then you will put on your wedding dress and come to St. Peter's and . . . after you are Mrs. Felix Kent . . ."

He paused. Her brave wide eyes had filled.

"After you are my wife," he said and then with a cry he gathered her up into his arms and carried her about the room, kissing her wildly, ruthlessly, at his will, until she went limp and her head dropped back.

Then Felix laid her down on the floor and as soon as her eyelids fluttered he went out, locking the door.

He came, mopping his bitten lip and laughing, to the desk.

"Look here, Cracken," he said. "This isn't at all the sort of case it looks like. The girl is one of the silly debutantes. She's been put up to a wild sort of prank by some of her friends and she's had her lesson. What name did she give you?"

"First, Jimmie Grant and then Lynda May."

"Well, of course neither is her real name. I want to hush this thing up and withdraw the charges and take her home with me now. The poor kid's all in. She's fainted."

"About them papers, Mr. Kent. Kent's laughter was difficult but it still came, a short, hard laughter. "That's all right. I'll get them back. The little devil wanted to give me a scare. When I lay hands on that boy that assisted her—"

His fist on the desk top whitened. The police officer who looked down at it whistled.

"Well, what do I have to do to get this child out of the jug and to keep the whole silly business quiet?"

Cracken, with some unwillingness, explained what might be done. There was of course no accuser but Mr. Kent, the robbed man, himself. If he withdrew the charge the young lady might walk out, provided . . .

The proviso being cared for, Felix returned to the locked room and found Jocelyn sitting dazedly against the wall, her head dropped forward on her knees. She seemed a mere bundle of clothes. He pulled her up and, getting her hat, pulled it down over her eyes and so, shielding her from amused and pitying observation, he half carried and half dragged her out to his waiting limousine.

As they moved silently up the city's crowded avenues Felix presently remembered the conversation that took place as they drove fast seaward with the wind in their eyes. At the end of a careful reconstruction of this conversation he spoke and looked down at her white, crumpled face.

"Who are you pretending to be now," Felix asked.

"U-hum . . . the Rappel parson's son . . . Jock Ayleward."

Felix leaned back. "Where and how did you meet him?" he asked quietly.

She said, "I met him in my father's rooms."

"Your—father's?"

"Nick Sandal. He is in this city. He came one night to see me in the apartment." But if Felix—or her mother—must know that Nick had visited her—what about the jewels?"

"How long ago was that?"

Her eyes, deeply remorseful, deeply miserable, sought his.

"Just after our engagement was announced. He saw it in the papers."

Her eyes filled and overflowed silently, "I love Nick, Felix."

"You've been seeing your father often?"

"I've been to see him at night. I would climb down the fire escape from my bedroom window."

Felix stopped her with a despairing gesture and, bending forward, put his hands over his eyes. From this position he demanded in a smothered voice, "You met Jock Ayleward in your father's room?"

"Yes, I did not like him. I did not believe in him. I believed in you."

"Now," he said, breathing hard and speaking through his teeth, "you will give me the whereabouts of this gentleman whom you did not believe nor like nor trust but for whose sake you made a spectacle of yourself in the New York streets at night, and lied and dressed like a man and stole and would ruin me." He shook her fiercely as though he would have shaken her to death. "Give me his address. I'll get him."

But that she steadfastly refused to do.

At last they reached her mother's home.

Quickly and as noiselessly as possible Felix took Jocelyn thru the outer room and down the passage and thrust her in at her own bedroom door. "Get into your own clothes; be quick," he commanded and managed to close her in and to be back in the front room by the time Marcella, with Mary at her heels, came into it herself.

Marcella was lined, livid, sick. He told where he had found Jocelyn.

"Felix, tell me—do you think that she knows anything about—"

" . . . Marcella's voice had an almost sinuous furtiveness as she looked about and behind her, then at him, "about my—jewels?"

Felix was startled for an instant away from his own biting preoccupation. He looked at the silver cross on Marcella's flat breast. She placed her thin hands on it. "No. No my jewels."

"I didn't know—"

"Of course, I forgot you were not to be told. I have had some jewels . . . here, hidden. They are not mine. They are a trust. They've been stolen. I have a detective tracing them. You mustn't say a word," she excitedly told him.

"DIRIGIBLE" DEMONSTRATES PRACTICABILITY OF RIGID SHIP AS CARRIER

A proposed plan to scatter airdromes across the Atlantic, to be used as floating "service stations" for the contemplated all-year dirigible service between Cardington, in Great Britain, Montreal and New York was recently announced as contemplated by the British Air Ministry, which has centered an interest in dirigibles as modes of swift, economical transportation.

The practicability of the dirigible as a peace time carrier of passengers and freight is said to be demonstrated in the Columbia Picture, "Dirigible," which is coming to the Palace Theater for three days, beginning next Monday night. The picture shows the giant Navy dirigible, the Los Angeles, primarily an instrument of war, in the peaceful capacity of exploration.

A cooperative creamery organized last year in Cooke county is said to have handled 55,132 pounds of butterfat last year and paid members bonuses totaling $2365.
