A Tribute to Texas

Bruce Barton, author of "The Man Nobody Knows," has written this fribule to Texas for the "Parade of the States" Monday night programs of the Gen-eral Motors Corporation, part of an educational plan to make the country as a whole better acquainted with the individual states—their history, scenic beauty, industries and people.

REMEMBER the Alamo! For twelve days, twelve nights, Travis. Bonham, Bowie, Davy Crockett, and their little group of loya' soldiers held Santa Anna's forces at bay. They went down fighting. me by one, but their valor roused a people to action, won for Texas her ndependence.

Texas, free Texas, the only state that was once a nation! Kings sent heir courtiers to knock at her gates. And well may all the states be proud hat she chose to cast her lot with the Union.

For Texas is the giant of America's children. She could tuck New England away in a corner, enguif all the land between New York and hicago. Her busy, rich, and vast domain measures a quarter million square miles.

How can words paint its picture? Here cotton blankets more acres than many snother state holds. Here turkeys march to market in droves ten thousand strong. Here a single pecan orchard yields a half million dollar crop, a single cattle ranch boasts a million acres, a single farmer plants onlons by the billion. And even the State University strikes oil. "I am listening to the footsteps of the coming millions," said Robert E. Lee, on the Texas prairies eighty years ago. Today the millions have arrived. The plains are fenced and the trails are fading, and peacefu dairy cattle faiten where the restless Longhorn roared. Texas is our tichest farm, our biggest oil well. Her helium gas keeps our dirigibles afloat. Her petroleum and sulphur and lignite, her potash and silver and carbon-black enrich the markets of the world.

Past Texas rolls the Rio Grande, dividing the Americas. Where or the Indian pliched his tepee, Dallas and Fort Worth, El Paso and San Antonio. Amarillo and Waco, and other cities rear their skyscrapers Austin boasts America's most impressive capitol, that building for which the Texans paid a casual three million acres. Houston dug a canal for fifty miles to bring sea-going vessels to her inland port. Galveston and Port Arthur and other cities on the Gulf attract the commerce of the world

And the rich state of Texas is doubly rich in sons and daughters. From the days of Sam Houston, with his vision of freedom, of Mirabeau Lamar. with his vision of education, the men of Texas have been quick to make today's dream tomorrow's truth.

O. Henry turned his days in Texas into colorful short stories. Dorothy Scarborough and Chester Crowell give us fiction of the Southwest today. Texas was one of the two first states to name a woman governor.

You will never completely know America until you taste the wonders of the Lone Star State. See the cowboys ride in Fort Worth's rodeo. Visit Fort Sam Houston, our largest military encampment; Fort Bliss, our biggest cavalry post; Brooks and Kelly Fields, where American aces won their wings. Travel by air, as the Texan does, to sense the breadth and the might of his state. Linger by sunny fields of Texas bluebonnets, hear he mocking birds whistle in the pecan groves, enjoy the color and charm of gay southern playgrounds. The state's very name implies hospitality and a warm-hearted welcome awaits you.

Six flags has Texas known and served. To these emblems of her past, to Texas today, to the vigorous promise of her future, the flag of General Motors dips in salute. Hail, Texas!

OIL Jone...

He Drove from Banner to Sheridan on the GERM PROCESSED"Hidden Quart"

The driver for the Sheridan Motor Bus Company was ready to leave Banner, Wyoming, for Sheridan with his big Reo bus loaded with passengers.

Then he made a discovery. The oil line had been accidentally broken, allowing the Conoco Germ Processed Oil to drain out; and the crankcase was empty. With all Banner closed for Thanksgiving, he could not get oil and had to drive the 16 miles to Sheridan without oil. At Sheridan, inspection showed that the "Hidden Quart" of Conoco Germ Processed Oil had saved the motor from damage!

THE HIDDEN QUAR

If Conoco Germ Processed Oil can protect a heavy bus with the crankcase empty, it will certainly give you sure, safe lubrication in everyday driving. It is the only oil that actually penetrates and combines with metal surfaces. That's why a "Hidden Quart" stays up in your motor and never drains away. It cuts down wear in the starting period, when other oils drain away and leave parts unprotected. It gives your motor longer life, with fewer repair bills.

Have this extra protection. Change to Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil at the sign of the Conoco Red Triangle.

BITTEN BY DOG.

John Laney, who resides in the Salem community, was bitten by a dog last week-end, and went to Austin Saturday for the services of the Pasteur Institute in determining the seriousness of the bite was thought possible that dog might have been inflicted with the rabies.

Upon examination of the dog's head upon their arrival there, it was found that the dog was not mad, and that there was no danger to Mr. Laney from the bite. Mr. Laney was accompanied to Austin by Guy Eakins. They left Saturday afternoon just before the sand storm-hit this section. and made the trip to Austin and return in most disagreeable wea-
