

Here In HICO

Several female followers of our flippant philosophy have complimented the conductor of this column since the last spasm was off the press, mainly on our salute to the ladies as set forth in this column. We appreciate compliments, especially when they come from such flattering sources, but we have been associated with the feminine sex long enough to realize that we have gotten ourself into a dangerous position. It's all right to avoid serious arguments with women, but when they go to agreeing with you too unanimously there's something wrong. Therefore, without retracting any of the statements made heretofore, and without any effort to back up on our estimate of the abilities of woman, we are reprinting here with a piece of nondescript verse found in some current literature lately:

"Man works from sun to sun,
Woman's work is never done.
But it would be every bit,
If a man were doing it!"

Before the deluge of criticism and benedictions is upon us, we hasten to explain that this verse was not original with this writer, but is reproduced just to show what depths of absurdity the minds of some literary males can descend. To carry the subject further, and in order to prove that we are not trying to be an old meanie, we will print another verse that we found under the first, from the pen of the same writer:

"Women jump to a conclusion,
Reasoning causes them confusion.
They, disdain slow transition,
Leap, and call it intuition."

On the other hand, the men
Leap to a conclusion. Then
Seek out reasons pedagogic
For their jump, and call it logic."

This must be a sure sign that spring is here, when another wise hard-working newspaperman attempts to become interested in poetry, or is even slightly influenced by mere words in rhyme. But one of our main regrets is that, in going through this life, we haven't time to read more of the excellent works of famous authors. There is plenty of time, too, should we be able to separate the wheat from the chaff, as it were, but there is so much written in magazines and in book form that we find the job of deciding on what to read difficult. The result is that as a rule we turn on the radio and listen to a lot of ham actors and would-be actresses stumble through a short play or dialogue, or crack some old jokes that have been heard in cheap vaudeville for years and years.

Now that we are unresponsive to the charms of music, or to the wit of real humorists, but it does look like some of the sponsors of radio programs can select the bummiest lot of performers that are to be found. Some of the programs, like some literature, are most worthy, and every once in a great while a listener will hear something that is interesting and instructive. Then about the time one gets interested in the topic under discussion, one of those darned "crooners" will break in with his warped warblings and spoil the whole performance.

There is one thing left for a listener to do, though; he can turn the darned thing off and go to sleep, just as he can turn a page or throw the paper away if this line of chatter gets on his nerves. Someone asked us if we wrote this column or whether it came through the mail. Thanks, dear inquirer—we appreciate the compliment but surely there is not existent a person in this day and time who would waste a stamp sending such stuff as this through the mails.

Farmers Can Apply For U. S. Financing April 30 Last Day

While railroads, banks, and big business institutions of the nation are borrowing from the $2,000,000,000 Reconstruction Finance Corporation in lump sums of as much as $10,000,000 or more, thousands of Texas farmers are as shy of Government loans as horses were of automobiles in the late '90s.

Texas business leaders agree that the placing in circulation of $10,000,000 for farm supplies would be a genuine stimulant to business, but records of the regional agricultural loan office in Dallas of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation indicate that less than $5,000,000 of the $10,000,000 available for Texas farmers will be used.

As April 30 is the "dead-line" for farmers filing applications for Uncle Sam's Reconstruction Finance Corporation money, it is expected there will be a last minute rush in filing applications with County Loan Committees. While many farmers who have adopted balanced farming methods do not require credit, there are thousands of other farmers who do need credit but because of misinformation or lack of information have not applied for loans, field representatives of the Dallas Office report.

"These loans are in no sense charity," said Fred Florence, President of the Republic National Bank, Dallas, "because this money has to be repaid." "Just because a farmer has a little collateral is no reason he can obtain needed credit from ordinary sources this year. Any deserving farmer who really needs money and is morally entitled to it should take advantage of this opportunity of obtaining a government loan because of the scarcity of commercial credit for financing the recent crop."

As to the importance of business men giving their support to government crop-production loans, John W. Carpenter, President of the Texas Power and Light Company and Chairman of the advisory committee appointed by Governor Sterling to arrange for Texas getting its share of Reconstruction Finance Corporation money says:

"Texas is essentially an agricultural state, and in order for bankers, merchants and public utilities to make money, the farmers' business must be healthy. Anything that is done to help the farmer make money will help the banker, business man, railroad, and everybody else."

Only ten days remain for farmers to get their applications into the hands of County Committees, after April 30th, it will be too late.

Two New Hydrants Installed By Water Department Lately

Roy Massingill, superintendent of the City Water and Sewer Department, announces that his department has just finished up installation of two new steamer type fire hydrants, one at the corner of Hickory and Avenue B, and the other at the corner of North and Mesquite Streets. These new hydrants will be a great safeguard to property owners in those locations, and will furnish plenty of water to fight fires should they be needed.

The construction and extension work of the sewer department has been completed, according to Mr. Massingill, and that department is in position to better serve a large number of users. During the past few weeks the lines have been extended about 2000 feet. The work has been completed and the ditches covered.

John P. Rodgers Is Candidate For Office Of Justice Of Peace

J. P. Rodgers, Sr., announced several days ago that he would be a candidate for the office of Justice of the Peace of Precinct 3, subject to the action of the Democratic Primaries in July, and this week authorizes the News Review to make formal announcement of his intentions.

Mr. Rodgers is too well known to the people of this section to need any introduction, having resided here for half a century during which time he was on the city council for about 15 years, mayor 10 years and postmaster 9 years. He has also been Precinct Chairman of the Democratic Executive Committee, and states that he has always voted the Democratic ticket, having held the position of postmaster under a Democratic administration.

In speaking of his intentions in conducting his campaign for the office he seeks, Mr. Rodgers said: "I will conduct a clean campaign, and I will try to keep my actions above reproach. I am running on my own merits, and not on the possible merits of any person or persons. If the voters choose to elect me, I will appreciate their action and promise to serve to the best of my ability, with fairness to all and special privileges to none. If it transpires that I am not the man for the office by popular choice, I will abide by the decision of the voters without malice, and with nothing but the greatest of gratitude for those who see fit to support me."

"It will be impossible for me to see each and every voter of the precinct, as much as I would like to, so I ask that those who read this consider it as a personal invitation for their consideration, and vote for me if they think I am the man for the office."

Unique Insurance Is First Of Kind In Entire World

Dallas, Texas, April 20.—An entirely new and unheard of kind of insurance has just been announced by the American Hospital Assurance Company with general offices in the Tower Petroleum Building in Dallas. The new "Timely Policy" issued by this company insures patients about to undergo surgical operations and is written at the time the patient enters the hospital. Agents have been appointed in Dallas hospitals and the surrounding territory and the policy will not be offered for sale at any place except the hospital.

The new insurance covers the period of time between the patient's admission to the hospital and his departure with an additional daily indemnity to be paid the policy holder if his stay in the hospital for more than the usual time is made necessary by complications arising after the operation. Premium rates on the new policies are based on the nature of the operation together with the condition and age of the patient. The tables of rates, for the more than one hundred different types of operations which are listed, were compiled after a tabulation and study of something like eight million surgical cases in large hospitals over the United States. Thousands of cases under each type of operation was tabulated and the rate of mortality for each type definitely and accurately ascertained. Two years work was necessary in compiling these experience tables and in perfecting the plan, before the new insurance could be offered to the public.

Policies will also be written on maternity cases to insure the expectant mother and are of two kinds. One type is designated as "pre-natal," is written at any time during pregnancy and covers from the time the policy is written through the period of delivery to the departure of the patient from the hospital. The other type will be developed first, but eventually agents will be appointed in the better hospitals over the entire United States.

State Fire Dept. Commends Sponsor Of Clean-Up Drive

The citizens of Hico, especially the members of the Hico Review Club, which organization sponsored the recent Clean-Up drive in this city, will be interested to know that J. R. McMillan, City Fire Marshal, is in receipt of a letter from Raymond S. Mauk, Fire Insurance Commissioner, commending the work and complimenting the effectiveness of same.

Among other things, Mr. Mauk said: "We congratulate you upon the fine condition of your town regarding fire hazards, and also appreciate the clipping from the Hico News Review which indicates a great deal of interest has been put into this work."

J. T. (Jake) Lovelace Withdraws From Tax Assessors Race

While in Hico Wednesday, J. T. Lovelace, who had previously announced himself as a candidate for the office of Tax Assessor of Hamilton County, informed his friends that he had withdrawn from the race. This action was taken, Mr. Lovelace stated, after thorough consideration, through the fact that he had been offered employment in the government service in a position that was too attractive to refuse. He will go immediately to Paris, Texas, to take up his duties in his new position, and asked the News Review to give notice of his intention to withdraw from the Assessor's race.

"Words cannot express my gratitude to my friends," Mr. Lovelace said, "and my appreciation of all the nice things that have been said about me and done in my behalf. I could not have hoped to succeed without their support, and I want them all to know that their thoughtfulness and consideration is appreciated. I will always remember this section as my home, and while my duties will take me away from Hamilton County for the time being, I hope to hold the friendship of it people forever."

School News Gives Promise of Important Events at Hico High

The following news letter submitted by C. G. Masterson, Superintendent of Hico High School, gives in brief a few details relative to the close of school:

Dr. A. E. Price, First Baptist Church, Brownwood, speaks May 20.
Rev. J. M. Perry, Hico, Texas, preaches May 15th.
Senior Play April 28.

First Honor Students

Girls, Jennie Mae McDowell 1st, 93.625; Flossie Randsall 2nd, 93.312.

Boys, D. F. McCarty 1st, 90.955; Morse Ross 2nd, 89.915.

May Fete May 6

Much interest is in evidence between High School and Grammar School over the selection of the May Queen. The High School presents Miss Jennie Mae McDowell as their nominee, while Grammar School selected Miss Mary Helen Hall. Incidentally, Miss Hall is leading by a vast majority. Looks like the Grammar School's going to take all the honor!

The annual May Fete of the school will be held the first Friday evening in May, at the City Park. This is to help the P-T. A. make money for the upkeep of the school grounds during the summer months.

If you haven't helped, then get in line, spend a little on one of the candidates and come out to see a real May Fete.

Senior Play

The Seniors have been practicing for about two weeks. They have gotten into the parts so well that when Shirley Rusk and W. L. McDowell meet on the street they begin to fight and Mildred Ross automatically says William. The presidential election probably won't arouse so much interest as D. F. McCarty's campaign for Mayorship of Habberton, nor in all probability will there be managership so active as Mary Smith and Oleta Fewell display.

Even those not interested in politics will find pleasure in Jennie Mae McDowell's reducing antics, the frequent clashes between Flossie Randsall and J. J. Jones, the vain attempts of S. E. Blair to impede the course of true love, the fashion parade of that vamp from Boston, Marie Pirtle; and for the mystery lovers there's the Gentleman from Georgia, heavily bearded and concealing his eyes behind a pair of blue glasses.

In addition, the Tarleton Quartet will sing.

If you wish to be entertained between the hours of eight and ten on Thursday, April 28, come to the Hico High School Auditorium.

FREE ADMISSION AND ALL INVITED TO PRESENTATION OF GUM BRANCH PLAYERS

"Finger Prints," a comedy-drama in three acts, will be presented by Gum Branch Players Wednesday Night, April 27, at the Gum Branch School, according to announcement from that place this week. There will be no admission charge and Hico people have a special invitation to be present and enjoy this presentation. There will be lots of fun for everyone, it is said.

This play will be presented at Cranfill's Gap Auditorium Saturday night, April 23rd.

Keeping Up With TEXAS

Motor vehicles registered in Texas in 1933 will carry colors of the University of Texas and Texas Agricultural and Mechanical College. Passengers automobile license plates will be gold and white and plates on trucks will be red and white. Color selections were announced by the Texas Highway Commission.

Counsel for Mrs. Virginia Sturm McElvain, 25, filed the praecipe of a suit for $100,000 last Friday against her father-in-law, James McElvain, wealthy Texas coal and oil operator, charging alienation of her husband's affections. Mrs. McElvain married the son, James Jr., in August 1928. She was a Chicago girl. According to her attorney's bill, McElvain joined his father in Texas in July, 1930, and both "ordered" her to stay in Chicago because their "marriage had been a failure." Young McElvain is in Longview, Texas. His father is visiting friends in Niles Center, a suburb of Chicago.

Butter is being used by some Midland County farmers for making soap. W. H. Abbott makes butter soap which does the same thing another brand does—floats. Abbott says butter prices are so low that it is more economical to use the butter in soap making than to offer it on the market. He calls his soap "Cream of Jersey."

Max Leon, 16, of Beaumont, is the youngest licensed airplane pilot in Texas, according to information received by Mrs. Madeline Green, his aunt, who resides in Dallas. Max is a graduate of the Beaumont High School. His instructors and E. E. Hughes, Department of Commerce inspector, are quoted. He has had fifteen solo hours in the air, flying four different planes. The young flyer was graduated in 1931 from the high school and since has been an assistant mechanic at Beaumont airport. He is son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Leon of Beaumont.

Guests from every state in the union have signed the "kitchen register" of the Multi hotel in Cuero, which has become known as a haven for hoboes. While enjoying a good pay patronage, "Uncle Pete" and "Aunt Julia" Zingleman, proprietors, have fed as many as 200 unemployed in a single month free of charge. The simple thanks of a ragged tramp is sufficient pay, according to the owners.

Waggoner hall, new class room building on the University of Texas campus, was dedicated last Friday as the main feature of the university's annual Texas Round-Up. Ex-students and parents of students went to Austin from all parts of the state to participate in a program of home-coming planned to continue over Sunday. The building was named for the late Dr. Leslie Waggoner, a member of the university's first faculty and faculty chairman for a decade.

S. M. N. Marrs, 70, veteran State Superintendent of Public Instruction, died in College Station, Texas, at 9:30 p. m. Monday of heart trouble. He had been stricken seven hours earlier. Mr. Marrs was there attending the annual Smith-Hughes judging contests. He suffered the attack in the afternoon on the steps of the A. & M. College administration building while on his way to an appointment. He was given first aid and taken to the college hospital. Mrs. Marrs reached College Station before her husband's death.

Miss Lucy Renard, 24, prominent Dallas musician, was killed instantly in a 16-story plunge from the north side of the Petroleum building at Elm and St. Paul in Dallas late Saturday. Her body struck the pavement in a narrow courtyard first. The young woman was identified by a note found in her purse. The note asked that R. H. Renard, a brother, be notified. Miss Renard spent an hour and a half in the sixteenth floor hall before her fatal plunge, elevator girls of the building said. She was a daughter of Frank Renard of Dallas, noted Texas musician and piano instructor.

Ernest G. LeMay, State Food and Drug Commissioner, Wednesday ordered the seizure of prize candy at several points in Texas as being in violation of the pure food laws. The candy has metal figures of animals, harps, watches and jewelry designs imbedded in it. Mr. LeMay said this creates a poison. He said the State has no objection to giving prizes with candy if the metal is not attached to the sweets.

MAN MADE THE TOWN

by RUBY M. AYRES

Sixth Installment

At twenty-two the only thing Diana really desired was another woman's husband. A nervous wreck from the excitement and strain of London's gay life, she is taken by her aunt, Mrs. Gladwyn, to a famous specialist's office. The physician orders her to the country for a long rest. She rebels, but the doctor is handsome and sympathetic. She learns that he is not the great man himself but an assistant, Dr. Rathbone. "God made the country and man made the town," he tells her, and she agrees to go to a rural retreat.

Before she leaves she goes to Dennis Waterman's flat, where they are surprised by Linda, Dennis's wife, who takes the situation quite calmly. "I suppose she wants you to marry her!" she asks Dennis.

At the night club where she goes with Dennis, Diana collapses. She regains consciousness in a little country cottage, with a nurse, Miss Starling, bending over her. Dr. Rathbone's home was close by, Miss Starling told her.

After three weeks Dennis Waterman calls. He tells her he will have to go away, and his manner, as he weaves her, suggests that he is warning her. But Dennis has not been gone many days before Diana finds herself asking Miss Starling all sorts of questions about Dr. Rathbone.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
"That depends what you mean by foolishly. His wife won't divorce him. He only wishes she would, but she won't, and so—" She stopped suddenly, feeling rather foolish.

"And so—what?" Rathbone asked.
"And so," Diana rushed on recklessly, "as soon as he comes home and I'm well enough, I'm going away with him."

"I see. Well, if he's a decent fellow—"
She gave a little strangled cry.

"I thought you would lecture me. I thought you would try to prevent me from going."
The ghost of a smile lit his eyes.

"I prevent you? Why should I? Do you think I flatter myself that I could prevent you from doing anything you wish—once you are well?"

She looked a little sullen.
"No, but I thought you might try," she said indignantly.

He went back to his old position of leaning on the bed rail, his hands loosely clasped together before him.

"No lecturing in the world has ever yet stopped a woman who is in love from doing what may seem foolish to other people," he said quietly.

"You think it would be foolish?" she insisted.
"To go away and live with a man who is already married and who cannot get his freedom?" he queried. "Well, it all depends. In your place I should be afraid that if he had already wedded one woman it would not be difficult for him to wed another."

"He never loved his wife."
"That is what he tells you. That is what all men tell all women in the circumstances you describe."

"You seem to know a great deal about it."
Rathbone stood up. He looked infinitely weary all at once.

"Then you must be prepared for him to grow tired of what, after all, can never be anything more than an ordinary liaison. I've seen so many of them, and they all end badly. It seems a pity—you are too good to be wasted on 'that sort of thing,' as you call it. I wonder you don't think so too."

She said sullenly, but with flushing cheeks, "Only the other day you told me you doubted if I was worth trying to keep alive."
"Did I? Perhaps I've changed my mind. Is there anything else you want to say to me before I go?"

"You're not going already?"
"I think I'd better—before I make you too angry."
"I'm not angry," she said. "I like you, though nobody has ever been so—so brutal to me as you have."
"Isn't Frank a truer word?"
"Perhaps—but sometimes Frankness can be brutal."

She was sitting up in bed, her chin resting on her hunched-up knees, her big eyes fixed on his face. "But I like you," she said again seriously. "Whenever you come into the room it's like a breath of country air."
He laughed, though he looked a little embarrassed, and took his leave.

CHAPTER IX

Diana grew well with much greater rapidity than either Rathbone or the Creature had expected.

In a week's time she was getting up after her breakfast, dressing herself, and spending long hours in the tiny garden of the little house.

Mrs. Gladwyn sent some stocks of books and enough illustrated papers to keep the entire village amused a month.

chocolates and expensive fruit which Diana gave to the village children who came to stare at her slyly through the gate. There was no back garden to the cottage, only the long straight plot in front, with a high clipped hedge that shut it out from the narrow lane.

One day Miss Starling said, "I don't think it is altogether nice of you to encourage that boy so much. He already has ideas far above his station."
"What boy?" Diana asked, though she knew perfectly well to whom the Creature referred.

"The boy from the Meadow Farm," Miss Starling explained. "Jonas, don't they call him? He is only a pupil to Mr. Sherry, learning farming like any labourer."

Diana laughed in frank amusement.
"But he's only seventeen, at the most," she objected. "Just a lad—and he amuses me—goodness knows there are not many amusing people in the village, as far as I can see."

"He is a very grown-up seventeen," the creature asserted firmly. "And your aunt—"

Jonathan was in the least concerned about my health or my morals she would not have gone off to Aix, as she has done, without even bidding me a fond farewell," Diana interrupted flippantly. She yawned and got up from the deck chair, where she had been lying, and walked down to the gate.

It would be fun to go down to the village and see what sort of a place it really was. She opened the gate, hatless as she was, and went out into the lane.

Diana reached the end of the lane and stood looking to right and left, uncertain which way to go, and it was at that moment that a light farm trap driven by a lad in breeches and a loose shirt open at the neck turned out of a gate close by.

He saw Diana and pulled the horse to a standstill, and Diana asked eagerly:
"Where are you going? and would you like to take me with you?"

She had made friends with Jonas when he called daily at the cottage with eggs and cream, and she knew without any warning from Miss Starling that, lad

"I know... but won't they miss you?"
"I dare say, but that doesn't matter." She laid her hand on his arm. "Do let's go there," she urged softly. "It's such a lovely afternoon, and it's weeks since I was out by myself like this."

He would have gone to the ends of the earth for her, and Diana knew it well enough.

She felt quite happy and a little excited. The seat was rather hard, it is true, and made her body ache a little, and the sun was getting hot on her bare head, but those were trifles.

At last he pointed across the road. "Dr. Rathbone's house is just there," he said. "You'll see the chimneys in a minute through the trees."

Diana was a little disappointed to find that Rathbone's house stood so far back from the road that even when they had driven round to the front of it she could only catch glimpses between the trees of painted red gables and queer Jacobean chimney pots.

She stood up in the little trap, her hand resting on Jonas's shoulder, but even then, beyond splashes of vivid colouring here and there in the garden, most of it was effectively shut out by a high brick wall which had many trees and shrubs planted on its near side.

She sat down again with a little disappointed sigh.
Jonas was pulling the trap to the side of the road to avoid a big car that had just at that moment rounded the bend. The road was not very wide at that point, and there was hardly room for the two to pass in safety.

"How dangerous to drive at that speed," Diana said, and at the same time recognized Rathbone's car. She turned eagerly to look after it as with a wide sweep it pulled up to the closed gate.

The back hood of the landaulette was down, and sitting there alone was a woman. Apparently a very young woman with Titian red hair; Diana had only time to notice those two facts before the trap was round the bend and the car hidden from view.

"That was Dr. Rathbone's car," she said in a small voice.
"Was it?" Jonas was not interested.
"There was a woman in it," Diana said.

"Was there? It's the one who lives at the house, I expect."
She looked up at him.
"I thought Dr. Rathbone was a bachelor."

"No he is."
She frowned impatiently.
"Then who is the woman?" she asked.

Jonas shook his head.
"I don't know, but I know she lives there."
"What's her name?" she said.
"Miss Rosalie."
"Rosalie what?"
"I've forgotten," he said almost sullenly.

"Only Rosalie?" Diana persisted. "Not Rosalie anything else? She must have another name."
"If she has, I've never heard it."

Neither of them spoke again till they were back in the village street once more. It was half-past five by the church clock; the big bell chimed as they passed.

There was nobody in the little garden when Jonas jumped down and gave his hand to Diana.
"You'll have to lift me down," she said. "I'm tired."

He took her in his arms very carefully, as if fearing to injure her, and set her down gently on the path beside him.

Diana said, "Thank you," and gave him a little smile that quickened his heartbeats.

Miss Starling told her Dr. Rathbone had called to bid her goodbye.

Diana was startled and insisted on sending Jenny over with a note asking him to call, marking her note "very urgent."

She waited in her room, feeling sure he would come.

Presently she drifted off into a vague sleep of sheer exhaustion from which she was aroused by Miss Starling's hand on her shoulder.

The room was nearly dark, lit only by the pearly grey twilight.
"Dr. Rathbone is downstairs," the Creature said.

When PAIN Comes

WHAT many people call indigestion very often means excess acid in the stomach. The stomach nerves have been over-stimulated, and food sours. The corrective is an alkali, which neutralizes the acids instantly. And the best alkali known to medical science is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

More Honors For Iredell

Is there no end to advancement? For Iredell High School, there is not. We are being reorganized more every year throughout the public school system. To prove their ability, to the pessimist, those eligible for the District meet represented Iredell High School in a glorious manner at Hillsboro Friday. Time and again we were complimented for our orderly and polite conduct and ability.

Charles Davis and Albert Pike won first place in debate and will represent this district at the State meet, May 5th, 6th, and 7th.

We are proud of this victory, but the entire school wants the world to know it was made possible by the citizens of our town.

They were willing to finance the trip and to encourage the participants. Surrounded by such a spirit, who could not fight?

THE REVOLT OF THE TAX-PAYERS

From all over the country we read and hear reports of a rising tide of protest against the high cost of government.

National, State, County, School and Local taxes have grown in the past dozen years until the combined burden is more than most taxpayers can bear even in normal times.

Congress is trying to "balance the budget" by imposing more and higher taxes. Doubtless there will be some show of reducing government expenditures but so far we have heard very little about those. It seems to us that should be the first point of attack, not the last.

The same is true of State government and, to perhaps even a greater degree, of most county governments. It is characteristically American, and something in which we take pride, that as a people we all want the best of everything. We want the best possible roads, the best possible schools, the most magnificent public buildings, the finest parks, and all that.

The inevitable result of this orgy of public spending is to stir up widespread discontent, which may easily result in an actual revolt on the part of the taxpayers. Too much of the tax burden is laid upon land and its improvements, not enough upon the individuals, groups and enterprises directly benefited by specific expenditures of public funds.

What this country needs right now is to cut all governmental expenses squarely in half—Federal, State, County and Local. That might cause some temporary embarrassment, but it would be only temporary.

We would like to see some real leaders arise who would adopt for his political slogan: "Cut taxes in half!" He could be elected to any office to which he might aspire, in the present temper of the American people.

THE RAMIFICATIONS OF CRIME

It was an amazing story of crime and its political ramifications which Frank J. Loesch, president of the Chicago Crime Commission, told a committee of the United States Senate in a letter the other day.

According to Mr. Loesch organized gangs of criminals absolutely control Chicago politics and draw tribute from Chicago business. He charged that two of Al Capone's henchmen are in the Illinois State Senate and another in Congress, and that many of the labor unions in Chicago are under control of racketeers.

In New York the disclosures by the Seabury investigating committee have shocked all decent people, with their revelations of graft and corruption by public officials of all grades and degrees.

There is no doubt that in many other cities, and even in some small communities, there is a partnership between politics and crime, of a nature which threatens the foundations of our governmental and social system.

What is needed more than anything else at this time is honest, courageous men who can so stir up public opinion that the people of these afflicted communities will rise in indignation and throw out the crooks and gangsters.

LEARNING TO COOPERATE

In speaking editorially of the depressed condition of dairy farming in New England, the Boston News Bureau recently said: "He" (the farmer) "must do something for a permanent solution. He must relinquish his old insular individualism and learn to cooperate within his own ranks. That gospel has already had a scattered presentation. Now the pressure of adversity is forcing realization home..."

That is good advice for farmers everywhere. Dairy farmers, wheat farmers, cotton farmers—all have felt the bite of profitless prices and a poor market. By now they should have learned that that is largely their own fault. They have attempted to do business as it was done 50 years ago—each farmer selling to the distributor on his own hook, and they have failed. The way out is the cooperative way. Nothing else can give the farmer, as a group, control over the market and the price structure.

Hundreds of thousands of farmers are already organized. But a great many are unorganized and they are the ones to which such messages as these are addressed. They are holding back themselves and their organized neighbors—the best managed cooperative in the world is doomed to defeat if the farmers refuse to give it adequate support. It is high time the farmer stopped complaining about his lot and acted.

Mother Knows Best

By Albert T. Reid

"I'D LIKE TO KNOW WHAT'S HAPPENED TO MY BASE BALL SUIT? DO YOU KNOW WHERE IT'S AT?"

"SAY, LIL!—WHERE THE HECK ARE MY GARDEN TOOLS AND THAT OLD PAIR OF PANTS?"

"HELLO,—MISS PERKINS, I'VE BEEN VERY STRONG THIS MORNIN', AND I DOESN'T FEEL LIKE WORKIN'."

"OH, MUMSIE,—DID YOU SEE THIS ADORABLE PICTURE OF CLARK GABLE? COULDN'T YOU JUST LOVE HIM?"

THE PURSUIT OF HAPPINESS

We don't know who the happiest man on earth is, but we know who the unhappiest people are. They are the people who think they could buy happiness with money and who, now that their sources of money have dried up, find themselves thrown upon their own resources, and have discovered that those resources are not sufficient to bring them happiness.

We confess to a considerable degree of indignation when we hear people advising young folks to buy this, that or the other thing because it will make them happy. We think there are very few commodities, and those very inexpensive ones, that can make any material contribution to individual happiness.

We think one of the real benefits of these hard times to many people has been that it has forced them to develop their inward resources and depend upon their own efforts for happiness. We have certainly heard much more complaining from people who still have a good deal of money left than we have heard from people who didn't have much of anything to lose. The man or woman who has learned in childhood to get along with little is far better adapted to face the realities of life than the one who has always been able to buy whatever pleased his or her fancy.

FRIENDS OF DEPRESSION

Idle dollars are the best friends of depression. They do no one good. Stuck away in strong boxes—or socks—they are entirely worthless. They are unable to do their bit in carrying on the financial work of the world. They are a sign of fear, of a hysterical kind of conservatism that mistakes hoarding for thrift.

True thrift is a fine thing. It is the source of the money that builds plants, buys and operates machinery, employs men, keeps the wheels of industry going. As an advertisement of the Northern States Power Company recently said: "The opportunity to earn a return on investment is better today than for years."

Intelligence, fairness and our own selfish interests demand the formulation of a regulatory policy that will apply equitably to all forms of transportation.

DISASTER FOR RAILROADS

Nineteen-thirty-one, according to a railroad spokesman, was the most disastrous year in the rails' history. In the face of that, their taxes aggregated about four times the sum available for dividends, and amounted to $2.65 for every man, woman and child in the entire country. Federal taxes, which are based on net income, were higher. The tax collector absorbed $7.30 out of every hundred dollars of gross revenue—the largest proportion on record.

We have paralleled the railroad tracks with fine highways, partly built at railroad expense, and along these highways roll the trucks and buses over which the Interstate Commerce Commission has no authority. The inland waterways float boats which furnish government subsidized transport. Unless immediate steps are taken to correct this condition, the railroads are doomed to failure. There is no other way out. The rail industry is the greatest single employer and purchaser of supplies in the country—and if it goes into bankruptcy, the public will be the principal sufferer.

THE PASSING OF MARCH

By Robert Burns Wilson

The braggart March stood in the season's door With his broad shoulders blocking off the way, Shaking the snow-flakes from the cloak he wore, And from the fringes of his kirtle gray. Near by him April stood with a tearful face, With violets in her hands, and in her hair Pale, wild anemones; the fragrant lace Half-parted from her breast, which seemed like fair Dawn-tinted mountain snow, smooth-drifted there.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

International Sunday School Lesson for April 24 ABRAM'S GENEROSITY TO LOT Genesis 13:5-15

Rev. Samuel D. Price, D. D. In ordinary times the old saying is true: "Money makes money." Certainly at all times it is a fact that sheep make sheep. It was so in the case of Abram and Lot his nephew. They had goodly herds when they lived in Mesopotamia and the animals kept on multiplying until both men were cattle owners of real consequence. The ever increasing animals brought the problem of sufficient water and grazing places. The herdsmen of each owner became jealous for the charges under their respective care and began to contend over the open pasturing.

Uncle Abram, like many uncles we know, was a truly big man. He loved his nephew and felt a keen responsibility for his care, and Lot often needed just that help. It was noble of the older man to say "Let there be no strife." Harsh words must be years are often required to overcome the scar that is made in a moment of lack of self control. Mindful of the great open country Abram proposed that there be a separation of flocks. A good bit of fresh air will stop many from quarreling and even a brisk walk around the block is a sedative. Opportunity for first choice is graciously given by Uncle Abram to nephew Lot and the selfish younger man chooses the better portion. As they looked toward the Jordan valley the fields seemed greener there. Yes, and so was Sodom, with all of its profligacy which evidently had become a place of recreation for Lot. Certainly they were not Jehovah-men there and Lot endangered his moral and spiritual life by heading in that direction.

It may have been because Abram was disheartened at this evident selfishness on the part of Lot. Right then Jehovah gave a wonderful compensation in a renewal of the vision and promise which pledged a transcendent future.

On a gloomy day I met a New York man who seemed almost happy. A friend asked him: "How's the market?" "Haven't the slightest idea." The questioner was astonished. "Don't you own stocks and bonds?" "Sure I do," my man replied. "But I know the things I own can't disappear. I know, also, that I have no chance of selling them at a decent price in this market. Therefore, why should I torture myself by watching them every day and figuring out how much they have depreciated?" The other looked at him as if he were a traitor to the serious ideals of American finance. Whereupon my friend uttered an important truth. "The trouble with these fellows in Wall Street is that they have taken their losses fifteen times a day for two years," he said. "Think of it, fifteen times seven hundred. What a loss that makes. Nobody can stand a loss like that. If they'd put away their lead pencils; if they'd quit figuring on the back of envelopes and the margins of newspapers, and forget the whole thing, they would be much better off. Taking your loss fifteen times a day doesn't get you anywhere. It uses up brain cells and nervous energy that might be used for progress." Every one of us who has his heart at all has had his heart wrung in the past few months. We help as far as we can, but there are so many we can not help. So many men who want to work for whom there is no work! To these victims of the depression, and especially to the old who have been wiped out and lack the strength or the time to make a fresh start, our deepest sympathy goes out. But there has been a lot of whining on the part of men who have no excuse to whine. I have been reading Emerson's diaries. His railroad bonds went sour in the panic of 1857. He refers to his losses just once. His house burned down, and his diary records: "House burned," and goes on to more important things. Such men give us renewed respect for the human race, and America has her full share of them. But I am weary of the boys who tell me how much they would have had if they had sold everything in the summer of 1929—the back-of-the-envelope lads who take their losses fifteen times a day.

A WORD OF CAUTION How often a neighbor discovers something that "broke up" his cold in record time. He at once becomes a walking apostle of that remedy. Within a week, perhaps, a half-dozen of his acquaintances are taking the same thing. It matters not whether it is a nostrum or a regular prescription—it gets into promiscuous use very quickly. Once I prescribed for an old man who had ulcer of the stomach; he told me two weeks later that he had furnished at least four of his neighbors with that same prescription! It is a very pernicious, not to say dangerous thing, to recommend medicines for people who have not been duly examined by a competent physician, although the motives are of a kind, helpful spirit. You see, no two people are alike, even with the same disease. Two cases of influenza may demand entirely different remedies. What would be indicated for one, might be dangerous for another. No two hearts are exactly alike. The same medicine, if it's medicine at all, acts differently with different individuals; these are truths. The custom of buying stock remedies for "colds" is one of the most reckless—especially those advertised to "cure a cold in one day." Anything that works that fast is most surely dangerous. Just imagine a factory turning out suits of clothes—all the same size and length and color—and urging our people to buy them,—but it would not be dangerous like medicine.

Nothing could be simpler than the construction of a coolie coat. It can be made entirely in one piece or sleeves may be pieced to the one piece that comprises front and back, or if you like you may make the back in one piece with two front pieces attached.

The diagram shows how to cut the material for a coat coming to the finger tips. The dimensions are as follows: AB and CD equal 24 inches, AC and BD equal 1 1/2 yards, AE, BG, FC and HD equal 18 inches, EF and GH equal 18 inches, IE, JF, GK and HL equal 10 inches, MN equals 6 inches. Amarillo Newspaper Man Gives Humorous Side of Depression

Henry Anley, staff member of the Amarillo Globe-News, has gained much fame during the past several years as a speaker and writer.

Recently that fame has been increased by an article in West Texas Today, official West Texas Chamber of Commerce publication in which he gives reasons for liking the depression. The article follows:

I like the depression. No more prosperity for me. I have had more fun since the depression started than I ever had in my life. I had forgotten how to live, what it meant to have real friends, what it was like to eat common every-day food. Fact is, I was getting just a little high-hat.

Then—And Now. Three years ago, only one man of the News-Globe organization could be out of town at a time and he had to leave at the last minute and get back as soon as possible. Many times I have driven 100 miles to a banquet, sat right through three hours of bunk in order to make a 5-minute speech, then drive the 100 miles back so as to be ready for work the next morning.

Nowadays, as many News-Globe employees as are invited make those trips and we stay as long as we want to. The whole outfit could leave the office now and it would not make any difference. I like the depression. I have time to visit my friends, to make new ones. Two years ago when I went to a neighboring town, I stayed at the hotel. Now I go home with my friends, stay all night and enjoy home cooking. I have even spent the week-end with some of the boys who have been kind enough to invite me.

Time, Neighbors, Clothes. It's great to drop into a store and feel that you can spend an hour or two or three or a half day just visiting and not feel that you are wasting valuable time. I like the depression. I am getting acquainted with my neighbors. In the last six months I have become acquainted with folks who have been living next door to me for three years. I am following the Biblical admonition, "Love your neighbors." One of my neighbors has one of the best looking wives I have ever seen. She is a dandy. I am getting acquainted with my neighbors and learning to love them.

Three years ago, I ordered my clothes from a merchant tailor—two and three suits at a time, and my clothes were good ones. I was always dressed up. But now, I have not bought a suit in two years. I am mighty proud of my Sunday-go-to-meeting clothes. When I dress up, I am dressed up and I don't mean maybe. I like the depression.

The Wife. Three years ago I was so busy and my wife was so busy we didn't see much of each other, consequently we sort of lost interest in each other. I never went home to lunch. About twice a week I went home for dinner—at 6:30 o'clock, I never had time to go anywhere with her. If I did go on a party, I could never locate her, since there was always a "blonde" or a "red-head" available. I didn't much worry about it.

My wife belonged to all the clubs in town. She even joined the young mothers club. We don't have any children, but she was studying—between playing bridge and going to clubs, she was never at home. We got stuck up and hifalutin. We even took down the old family bed and bought a set of twin beds—on the installment plan. When my wife was at home, she would already be in her bed, and I would crawl in mine. If she came in first, it was vice versa.

Beds and Clubs. We like the depression. We have come down off our pedestal and are really living at my house now. The twin beds are stored in the garage and the old family affair is being used. We are enjoying life. Instead of taking a hotwater bottle to bed those cold nights, she sticks her heels in my back, just like she did before Hoover was elected.

I haven't been out on a party in 18 months. I have lost my book of telephone numbers. My wife has dropped all the clubs. I believe we are falling in love all over again. I am pretty well satisfied with my wife. Think I will keep her, at least until she is forty and then if I feel like I do now, I may trade her for two twenties.

I am feeling better since the depression. I take more exercise. I walk to town and a lot of folks who used to drive Cadillacs are walking with me. I like the depression. My digestion is better. I haven't been to see a doctor in a year, I can eat anything I want to.

Food—and Food. I am getting real, honest-to-goodness food. Three years ago, we had filet mignon once a week, now we have round steak with flour gravy. Then, we had roast breast of guinea hen, now we are glad to get sowbosome with the button on it.

I like the depression. My salary has been cut to where I can't afford to buy lettuce and spinach and parsley and we can't afford to have sandwiches and frozen desserts and all that damfoolishness which has killed more good men than the World War.

I like the depression. Three years ago, I never had time to go to church. I played golf all day

Sunday and besides I was so darned smart that there wasn't a preacher in West Texas who could tell me anything. Now, I am going to church regularly, never miss a Sunday. And if this depression keeps on, I will be going to prayer meeting before long. I like the depression.

A World's Record

MORE than three thousand births without a single loss of either mother or child! That is the official Platt County record of Dr. W. B. Caldwell, in fifty years' family practise in Illinois.

No wonder mothers have such entire confidence in giving little ones Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin! If you have a baby, you have constant need of this wonderful preparation of pure pepsin, active senna, and fresh herbs. A child who gets this gentle stimulant for the stomach, liver and bowels is always healthier. It keeps children's delicate systems from clogging. It will overcome the most stubborn condition of constipation. It builds them up, and is nothing like the strong cathartics that sap their strength and energy.

A coated tongue or bad breath is the signal for a spoonful of Syrup Pepsin. Children take it readily, for it is really delicious in flavor. Taste it! Take Syrup Pepsin yourself, when sluggish or bilious, or you are troubled with sick headaches and no appetite. Take some several days when run-down, and see how it picks you up. It is a prescription preparation which every drug store has ready in big bottles, just ask anywhere for Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

$80,227 Appropriated For Work On State Highway 66 to Hico

Encouraging news to citizens of this section was contained in the announcement last Friday that the sum appropriated for work on State Highway 66 from Hico to Hamilton was $80,227, and that it was expected work would start within a short time. An article was carried in this paper last week stating that the appropriation had been made, but at that time the exact amount had not been made public.

The exact wording of the official announcement for this project which was included in a number of other similar ones, was as follows: "For grading and drainage structures for 22.47 miles of Highway 66 from Hico to Hamilton County, $80,227 was appropriated."

Many other projects have been announced recently, and the following clipping from a recent news dispatch will be interesting to our readers:

AUSTIN, Texas, April 18.—Texas highway funds hereafter will be spent with Texas road contractors, the Highway Commission ordered Monday by providing that contracts for the construction or improvements will be let only to Texas contractors and defined them as "any person, firm, association or corporation engaged in road contracting in the State of Texas and which has done work of construction or improvement of the Texas highways at least six months prior to April 12." It does not apply to construction or improvement where Federal funds or aid are involved.

There will be $2,252,000 in contracts let by the commission in a special session Saturday, when the new rule will apply for the first time.

No county delegations will be heard at the April 23 meeting.

IN LITTLE OLD NEW YORK
 BY CARL H. GETZ

New York worships in twenty of the thirty-five tongues spoken on her streets. More than 200 of her churches belong to those who still cherish the ties of the land from which they sprang.

New York eats more pork than beef, more beef than poultry, more poultry than fish, more fish than veal, mutton and lamb.

The banana is the city's most popular fruit, with oranges second, and apples third.

Did you ever hear of dinner shopping? Every evening between 6 and 8 o'clock hundreds go shopping in the West Forties, between Fifth and Sixth avenues and Broadway for dinner. Along this series of streets are a flock of restaurants which paste menus on their windows and hundreds night after night go from one restaurant to another to see which offers the most for the least money.

There is a tobacco prescription shop in the city. A man goes into this shop, tells what brand he likes and is given a mixture in a tin box with his name typewritten on the label, together with a number. If he returns with the report that the tobacco is too strong, he is given another mixture and a new number. After he has found what he likes he orders by number. The dealer knows that some men like to be able to say that they smoke a tobacco especially mixed for them.

Without shame New York may accept the title of the foremost nickel-grabbing city in the world, since nickel-grabbing is done under pressure of necessity. Much time in the city is spent going after nickels where nothing but nickels will do. Nickels are needed for the telephone. The New Yorker does not like to part with his nickel. With a single one in his pocket he will pay for his paper with a dime so that he may have an extra one on hand. Getting a reserve fund of nickels is a never ending game in New York.

The great heart of the police force was again demonstrated recently. A policeman rounding the corner at Fifth Avenue and East 50th Street early one morning, surprised a woman digging with a child's sand shovel in St. Patrick's Cathedral lawn. About to reprimand her, he discovered she was in the act of burying her pet canary, which lay dead in a cardboard box at her side.

"Go ahead," he said. "But hurry; we don't want to be caught."

Wall Street received its name from the stockade or wall erected in 1653 by the last of the Dutch governors. At first this was merely a cattle guard, formed of felled trees with their roots all lying in one direction, to prevent cattle straying. Because of Indian troubles, disputes with the English and forages of wild animals, it was decided to make this barrier of considerable strength. So a stockade of stout timbers was erected with a gate at Broadway, another at the East River. This barrier which stood for about half a century, was finally removed. Frequent reference by the people to the "wall" resulted in that permanent name for the street.

J. J. HUTCHISON, FORMER EDITOR OF NEWS REVIEW, HAS STROKE OF PARALYSIS

J. J. Hutchison, who will be remembered by most local people as the editor of the News Review when the paper was under the management of Clements & Higgs in 1929, and a prominent newspaper man of Texas, suffered a stroke or paralysis at Waco last week, and was taken to his present home in Port Arthur last Saturday night.

Current news dispatches at the time gave his condition as "not critical, but regarded as serious." No further information had been received at the News Review office as to his condition, but it is hoped by his many friends here that he will soon recover from the stroke, and will be able to resume his customary active life.

Mr. Hutchison, although not engaged in active newspaper work since his departure from Hico, was formerly prominent in newspaper circles, job office matters and in Young Business League work at Waco. He has made his home at Port Arthur recently, where his son holds a responsible position with a newspaper.

GLUE AND RICE MAKE WHITENESS STICK, SAYS COUNTY AGENT NELSON

If you are going to do any whitewashing this spring, the use of a formula worked out and tested by the U. S. Department of Agriculture is about the best available. In brief it is as follows, and if applied hot will last longer than when applied cold:

One half bushel of good, unslaked lime; slack with boiling water, cover during the process to keep the steam in; strain the liquid through a sieve fine enough to retain all unslaked lumps. Dissolve a peck of clean salt in a little water and add to the solution; boil to a thin paste 3 pounds of rice and put into the mixture while hot, and 1 pound of glue, previously melted over a fire, and one half pound whitening. Mix well, and then add 5 gallons of hot water, stirring well; cover closely and let stand several days.

C. E. NELSON.

Hico's Baseball Club Wins Fourth Game In A Row

The local baseball club won its fourth straight victory Sunday afternoon by defeating Carlton 15-13 in a 11-inning go at Clark Field.

The game was a thriller from the beginning to the end. Hits were in abundance but the game was exciting because the teams were evenly matched. Carlton led the scoring in the first inning by marking up three tallies but the Hico boys soon opened their power-house and the slugging began. They obtained a good lead and held it until the ninth. At that time Carlton couldn't be stopped and they soon evened the score and added three runs to it, making the score 13-10 in favor of the visitors.

In the last of the ninth inning Herricks led off with a single. Ross followed with another single and Pingleton knocked a home run to make the score 13-13. Rierson singled, Patterson went out, Duncan doubled, C. Proffitt fanned and D. Proffitt went to bat out of time, making three outs.

For Carlton, in the tenth inning, Cosby flied out to D. Proffitt, Chambers fanned and Clark fanned.

For Hico, McDaniel fanned, Herricks, Ross and Pingleton in a row.

Eleventh inning, Carlton at bat: Birdsong singled, Roach went out, Anderson fanned and McDaniel flied out to left field.

Last half of eleventh, Hico at bat, McDaniel singled and Patterson knocked a home run over the right field fence, winning his own game, 15-13.

The box score follows:

Methods of manufacturing starch from sweet potatoes, equal for textile and perhaps other purposes in value to imported high-quality white potato starch, have been developed by the Federal Bureau of Chemistry and Soils. Ninety per cent of the sweet potato crop of the United States is produced in the South and Texas is the largest contributor to the total. From 10 to 30 per cent of the crop is graded as culls and unfit for market, and profitable utilization of this tremendous waste is made possible by the methods discovered.

While the cost is prohibitive, it is of future interest to the cotton-producing State that high grade gasoline can be manufactured from cottonseed. Subjecting the seed to a temperature of 900 degrees and to a pressure of 150 pounds per square inch produces a variety of products—gasoline, fuel oil, coke and thirteen different gases, some of them commercially valuable. Gasoline represents about 50 per cent of the recovery and alcohol is obtained from certain of the gaseous results.

Abilene manufacturers are planning a Texas products week some time this spring and will invite manufacturers from other Texas towns and cities to join the display booths. About thirty Abilene manufacturers have agreed to participate and Bart D. Beck of Universal Manufacturing Co., chairman, is hopeful of a representative showing from other Texas manufacturers.

S. E. Knowlton Creamery is starting construction on a $40,000 creamery at San Antonio. The industrial department of the San Antonio Chamber of Commerce is developing an interest in furniture manufacturing in Southwest Texas.

Additional machinery is being installed in the plant of the Denton Dairy Products Co. which will equip it for turning out from 2,000 to 3,000 pounds of cheese daily and provide a market for much additional milk, from 20,000 to 30,000 pounds a day. The output has been contracted for in advance.

A Chicago house telegraphed its El Paso representative to go to Texarkana on a business deal. "Send somebody from Chicago, it's nearer," was the salesman's reply. It is just 79 1-2 miles further by rail from El Paso to Texarkana than from Chicago.

Pecan School At Tarleton College To Be Most Constructive

Stephenville, Texas, April 20.—Conservation of one of the greatest natural resources of this section of Texas—native pecans—will be stressed at the John Tarleton College pecan school to be held here Monday to Thursday, April 25 to 28.

The objective of the school, as announced from the department of agriculture, is "to give thorough, practical instruction in the propagation of pecans and development of native groves by methods found to be most successful, that will help the beginner to avoid costly mistakes.

Individual instruction, supervision, and criticism will be the basic method of the school. The several methods of propagating pecans found to be most successful will be demonstrated, after which each student will be required to gain proficiency in each method. Some phases of the work will be tree deadening, spacing, topping, budding, and grafting. The college will furnish a budding kit to every student who completes the work and receives a certificate of proficiency. Enrollment is limited to fifty.

Monday's program will be under the direction of the Brazos Valley Pecan Association, which convenes here for that one day. It will include budding demonstration, observation of a finished tree, and addresses on pecan marketing, certified trees, pecan seed stock, and the use of machines for sawing, cracking, and picking pecans. U. B. Cartwright, president, will be in charge.

J. F. Rosborough, pecan expert and extension horticulturist of A. and M. College, will direct the school. He will be assisted by Professor O. S. Gray of North Texas Agricultural College, Professors H. M. Brunnett and A. J. Spangler of Tarleton, and others.

Of interest to the many friends of Charles Colvin, who formerly resided in Hico, will be the news of his recent marriage to Miss Gwendolyn Clark of Blum. The wedding occurred Easter morning in Blum, performed by the pastor of the First Baptist Church of that city. Only close relatives and friends were present.

Charles moved with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Colvin, to Blum only about three years ago from Hico. Since that time he has been connected with his father in the feed mill and gin business in that city. Charles is a graduate of the Hico High School and attended Texas Tech for three years.

The bride is a daughter of a pioneer family of Blum and also has college training. She is not known in Hico, but according to reports from residents of that city, she is very popular and has a pleasing personality.

The newly weds were complimented with a miscellaneous shower prior to their marriage, which was given by the W. M. U. of the Baptist Church.

Immediately following the ceremony the bride and groom left for points in the northern part of the state for a brief honeymoon trip, after which they will be at home to their many friends in Blum, where Mr. Colvin will remain as a partner to his father in business.

Construction under way or scheduled soon to begin in Texas totals $180,000,000, according to a survey by Stuart McGregor of the Dallas News staff. Commercial projects total $27,042,000, port ship channel and waterways construction $11,662,000, irrigation, reservoir and reclamation projects $52,966,000, college and school buildings $7,598,000 and miscellaneous projects $11,600,000. Highway construction scheduled for 1932 is estimated at $30,000,000 and one assured railroad construction job totals $4,000,000 more.
