Here In HICO

HOORAY! This column has a follower—or at least a regular reader. We have just been informed by one of our good friends that he considers the Here In Hico department one of the main parts of the paper.

He's only been here a little while, and perhaps he will tire of our line when he has been a citizen of Hico long enough. But his remarks were none the less appreciated, and we hereby acknowledge our debt of gratitude for his compliments.

At the same time this friend complimented other parts of the paper, and intimated that he thought the News Review was a creditable publication for a town of this size. The reason this makes us feel good is that he knows what he is talking about, having lived in other towns as large as Hico or larger, and being familiar with the usual standard of weekly newspapers.

PHOOEY! is the first word that comes to our mind when we hear a merchant make a statement, the utter stupidity of which would be evident to a child in the first grade of school.

We refer to remarks—not common, we are proud to say—directed toward us when we approach people in business (we won't even call them merchants again) about advertising.

One fellow said that he didn't want to sell anything just now, for the market was rising, and he could make more on the stock by leaving it in his shelves than he could by retailing it. That makes a good story, doesn't it?

Again we heard that there wasn't any use in trying to sell anything, that people would go to other towns to buy anyhow. Why in the name of the holy jumping Jupiter doesn't that fellow move to some of those other towns and make room for a good merchant in his place?

REALLY, we know the patience of a merchant is sorely tried when he notes this seemingly irresistible urge on the part of local people to buy their needs outside of this trade territory.

There's nothing fair about the procedure. If we make our living here, expect to live here, and look on the town as our home, we should give every consideration to the merchants who help support our schools, our churches, our city government, and in fact our very town itself.

This goes also for those living around in the country who look to Hico to school their children, to provide them with amusement, and to supply their needs through prosperity and depressions. Many good farmers are obligated to local merchants for past purchases, and at the same time spend their cash with Monkey Ward, Sears and Hareback or in some other town nearby.

DON'T get the impression that we are disgusted on account of these utterances. We have seen several towns of this size where the same conditions existed, and know that Hico is not unusual in this respect.

In fact, there is less of this kind of business here than in the average town. But even at that there is more than there should be. Every dollar that leaves this trade territory goes away to stay. And every dollar spent with our neighbors remains here to work for us, and we have a chance to get it back again in the course of time.

If a merchant is really trying to do business, if his stock is complete, priced fairly and his service is what it should be, we believe he is entitled to the trade of the community at large.

Of course he is expected to keep his prospective customers informed as to what he is offering, and furnish them with news of his wares through advertising. If he depends upon others to do this for him, he is not entitled to any business, and probably won't get it.

We will have to admit that one of the reasons the larger stores and establishments in neighboring towns are getting a lot of our business is that these stores advertise their goods to our people with systematic regularity.

WHOOPING it up for the old town of Hico is a grand thing. We take that as a part of our lot in the newspaper game. We believe we do our share of it, and are only glad to be able to serve to whatever extent we can. But frankly we expect a square deal from others who are in business here also.

We get that square deal from the majority of our institutions. We don't expect any one firm or individual to do more than his share, but we do believe we're entitled to the cooperation of every business and professional man in town when we are all working in a mutual cause.

Our faith in this community is unshaken, and we still believe it

W. P. Cunningham Returned to Hico Methodist Charge

Rev. Walter P. Cunningham and Mrs. Cunningham returned to Hico Tuesday night from Corsicana, where they had been in attendance upon Central Texas Conference of the Methodist Church. News of Rev. Cunningham's re-appointment as pastor of the Hico Methodist Church had been received preceding his return, and he was welcomed back by members of his congregation and citizens in general who speak highly of his work with the church here during the past year of his pastorate.

Rev. Roy A. Langston, who has served the Gatesville District as presiding elder for the past four years, was given a charge in Fort Worth, being named as pastor of the Arlington Heights church in that city. Rev. J. H. Baldrige comes to this district as the new presiding elder for the past four years, and he and his wife, who are well acquainted here already.

The following report of the Conference, together with pastors and their charges in the Gatesville District, appeared in Monday's Dallas News:

CORSICANA, Texas, Nov. 12.—Memorial services for thirteen ministers and one layman were held by the Central Texas Methodist Conference Sunday afternoon. The final business session and the reading of the appointments completed the conference session at night.

The annual love feast was held Sunday morning, conducted by the Rev. M. K. Little of Fort Worth, in his 82 year and the oldest minister in point of service in the conference.

Bishop Sam R. Hay preached at the host church Sunday morning, telling a capacity crowd that the church was the organized, advancing Kingdom of God. He told the members of the conference to stop preaching legal sermons and preach the doctrine of love and personality of God. Other members of the conference filled the pulpits of other denominations Sunday morning. Several hundred additional visitors attended the final session of the conference, over and above the 1,000 who have been in attendance on the regular conference meetings, taxing the seating capacity of almost every church in the city.

Bishop Hay ordained a class of elders at the close of the memorial services.

The list of pastoral appointments announced by Bishop Hay was as follows:

Gatesville District—J. H. Baldrige, presiding elder; Carlton W. A. Flynn; Clifton, E. N. Scarlett; Cranfills Gap, J. D. Farmer; Crawford, W. C. Craig; Duffau, L. E. Douglas, supply; Gatesville, P. T. Stanford; Gatesville circuit, R. F. Stone, supply; Hamilton, J. L. Evans; Hamilton circuit, M. Pheasant; Hico, W. P. Cunningham; Ireland-Jonesboro, C. F. Bell; Ireddell-Walnut Springs, D. R. McCauley; Ireddell circuit, H. E. Jackson, supply; McGregor, T. G. Story; Meridian, David Irwin; Moody, C. E. Wilkins; Moody circuit, W. C. Ferguson; Moshelm, Ora Minor; Oglesby, J. W. Whitefield; Pearl, George Siler, supply; Turnersville, Van P. Morrison; Valley Mills, J. W. Shuler.

has a great future in store if we will all "stay in there and pitch." The hardest knocks we have heard against the town was from business men and citizens who should be the first to defend it.

President's Advisers on Managed Currency

Herewith are pictures of the men who are generally credited with occupying important positions in the direction of President Roosevelt's monetary policy as regard a managed currency and the purchase of gold to establish the commodity dollar. Deer Hunters Off For South Texas Early This Week

Three parties of hunters left Hico this week for South Texas, having made their arrangements for hunting privileges the first day of the season in their familiar haunts.

The season opened Thursday morning, and all the Hico parties planned to be on hand the first day and preserve their reputation for bringing home plenty of deer and turkeys.

S. E. Blair, T. A. Randals, Lusk Randals, Buddy Randals and J. E. Burselson shoved off some time during the day Tuesday, in order to pitch their camp and get things in order for the opening of the season. They went to the place they hunt every year, Loyal Valley in Mason County.

Early Wednesday another detachment of local hunters left for Mason County. In this party were H. F. Sellers, Cole Hooper, Goodwyn Phillips and G. A. Tunnell. They were unable to secure their regular hunting place this year, but are pioneering a place that was highly recommended to them, 18 miles below Mason. Grady Hooper, Roy French and C. M. Tinkle were making plans to leave Friday morning to join the party at the camp.

G. M. Barrow, H. N. Wolfe and R. A. French, the latter being an automotive magnate at Ireddell, left Wednesday for Mason County with the avowed intention of killing every deer and turkey they saw until they should have reached their limit. Herbert and Grady had been undergoing daily range practice at the golf grounds, and if they didn't shoot up all their shells before arriving at their destination, they may be successful in bagging some of the much-prized animals.

Box Supper Feature Of November 24th Club Entertainment

Pending suitable weather conditions, plans have been announced for a box supper as a feature of the regular monthly entertainment at the Bluebonnet Country Club, with other forms of entertainment planned to fill out the evening.

It has been customary in the past to arrange for entertainment of the children, along with the older folks, but at this month's affair, weather conditions will probably be such that it will be inadvisable to try to take care of them. Everyone who enjoys playing the good old game of "Forty-two" will find plenty of competition among the players who are expected to be in attendance. The invitation is again made general, and all local citizens are urged to attend, whether they are members of the club or not.

Each lady is expected to bring a well-filled box, enough for her and her partner. The boxes will be spread after drawing for partners, with a suitable prize for the prettiest box.

Mrs. Roland L. Holford, in charge of the November entertainment, announces that the party will start at 7:00 o'clock on the evening of November 24th, next Friday, unless weather conditions prohibit. Further announcement will be made in next week's paper.

Turkey Marketing Peps Things Up In Spite of Low Prices

Despite the low opening prices announced for turkeys, movement of the birds here this week has been brisk, and the feathers have been literally flying, day and night, around the three dressing plants in Hico.

According to information received by the News Review, the market opened this week at 9 cents a pound, much lower than anticipated by buyers and raisers, and the next day dropped to 8 cents. Since then prices have remained practically the same, with no appreciable increase reported at this office. Conditions over the country are about the same, according to news reports, and Hico markets are as good as elsewhere, with many considerations being unusual here as compared with elsewhere.

Many turkey raisers report that their birds are light this year anyhow, and that they would be unable to move them on the Thanksgiving market without a sacrifice in grades. Most farmers had hoped for a better price, but in view of the prices for other products are not greatly surprised at the comparatively low price for No. 1 turkeys. Buyers give as some of the reasons for the low price the fact that buying power has been reduced, and fewer Thanksgiving tables in the North are expected to be graced by the usual turkey and trimmings.

On the other hand, figures show that turkeys in storage are less than the last year, and the demand should be greater for this reason. Which leads many to believe that the price will show some improvement within the remaining few days of the Thanksgiving market.

One car of dressed birds left Hico Thursday morning for Massachusetts, and several others are being loaded on the M-K-T tracks, according to H. Smith, local agent of the road. The Bell Ice & Dairy Products Co. has been a busy place for the entire week, many workers being employed in grading, loading and storing the turkeys, and icing the cars in which they are shipped.

Turkeys are coming to Hico from distant points, and indications are that the usual proportion of the crop will be handled through here.

Miss Zora McAnelly of Austin spent the week end here with her mother, Mrs. W. E. McAnelly. Mrs. McAnelly accompanied her to Austin Sunday afternoon to spend several days as her guest.

Local Relief Work Greatly Increased Under New Set-Up

Plans were announced this week for a new method of handling relief funds in this locality, which will allow a great deal of improvement in the relief program if those in need of work and those in charge of the program will work together to secure for Hico all that is coming to her.

The new arrangement is handled through the Civil Works Administration, which supplants the old RFC plan, and those who qualify on the relief rolls will each receive 130 hours of work per month at 30 cents per hour, making a total of $39.00 per month, it is said.

Wednesday night all work under the old arrangement was stopped, and on Thursday morning the men were paid off at the office of E. H. Persons. At the same time plans were announced of working every available man in this territory, should sufficient projects be approved to allow this action.

One project that has been approved is a drainage and improvement project on the Bosque River, including clearing the banks of the river near the city park of underbrush and cleaning up the premises generally. This work started Monday morning, was continued Thursday after announcement of the new plan of working. It is estimated that the project will provide 640 men hours of work. A total of around $1500 is allowed for this project.

Other projects now being worked on include some beautification and levelling work at the school grounds. Mayor Lane was in Hamilton Wednesday afternoon with two additional projects which he hoped to have approved within the near future.

R. F. Moore of Hamilton was in Hico Wednesday afternoon assisting the local committee in working out details of the new plan, and stated that Hamilton was working on a plan to put down cement sidewalks around property where owners would pay for the materials.

Mr. Lane stated that the sidewalk proposition would be taken up here, provided there was sufficient interest shown. It is estimated that the labor is the greatest item of expense in sidewalk construction, and that with the Government furnishing this labor through the CWA, an opportunity would be afforded local citizens to get concrete sidewalks at a minimum of expense, and at the same time local people would be put on the payroll.

It has been pointed out that whether we believe in this plan of relief work or not, the money is going to be spent somewhere, and Hico might as well get her share of the money, since we are evidently going to have to do our share toward the repayment of same when the time comes.

Those who are entitled to this relief work, and whose names are not now on the rolls, should report to E. H. Persons at once and make arrangements to have their names included. They will receive the necessary information at Mr. Persons' office, and should attend to this matter at once.

REGULAR THIRD SUNDAY FOR HICO SINGING CLASS

The Hico Singing Class and its sponsors extend a hearty invitation to all the surrounding classes and each person who is interested in good singing, to be with us Nov. 19th at the Pentecostal Church.

We appreciate the whole-hearted support you have given us in the past, and we hope you will not be disappointed with our efforts in the future.

Don't fail to come next Sunday at 2 o'clock sharp if you want to hear some good singing.
MISS OPAL HUNTER, Sec.

Barmads and Cocktails After Repeal

Gone, seemingly forever, are the oldtime bartenders with oiled hair and waxed mustache. Instead, when repeal becomes effective, will be American barmads, a la' British system. Above is shown a class of girls being taught the art of bartending and cocktail mixing at the Bartender's Institute in New York.

Keeping Up With TEXAS

Injuries received four miles from Valley Mills, when an auto in which she was riding turned over, resulted in the death in a Waco hospital Saturday afternoon of Mrs. C. P. Downey, 45, living near Valley Mills. The accident occurred Saturday morning. The body was taken to Valley Mills for burial.

A 6-months-old baby boy was found in the lobby of an office building in Wichita Falls by a watchman. Attached to the baby's clothing was a note dated Dallas and addressed to Mrs. Haley Snyder of the Texas Children's Aid. The note said the baby's name was Tommy and that he was born May 10, 1933. The note bore no signature. It asked that a good home be found. The baby will be turned over to Mrs. Snyder.

Leon Robinson, 55, night watchman of Gorman, was killed instantly and Mrs. Mae King, about 35, of Desdemona, was critically wounded in a shooting affray on the main street at Gorman Monday night. Robinson was shot once through the forehead and died instantly. Mrs. King was shot twice through the lungs. She was taken to the Gorman Sanitarium where physicians said she had no chance to live. Particulars were not learned.

Dr. A. M. Clifford, missing Temple veterinarian, was found beaten to death late Monday on a farm 2 1/2 miles east of Temple. His body had been thrown in a patch of weeds. The doctor disappeared last Wednesday night and officers have been hunting for him since then, believing he had been murdered. He was last seen alive Wednesday night as he left his boarding house to answer a call. A person whose identity was not known telephoned the doctor and said he would pick him up in front of the boarding house. As the doctor left out the door he told friends: "I'm gone"—his usual parting comment. Authorities believe the doctor was slain by a personal enemy, but no motive was known.

The Texas Federation of Women's Clubs Monday night formally dedicated its new state headquarters building, the ceremony culminating a dream of the organization that has been years in materializing, in Austin. The dedication was the chief pre-convention activity of the federation which this week opened its thirty-sixth annual session. Forty new clubs have been admitted to membership in the federation.

The echo of Aubrey Stringer's almost impossible place kick which less than half of a minute to play, which came up from the depths of Texas Memorial stadium Saturday, Friday night will resound throughout the nation. The greatest moment in the lives of the Baylor Bruins will be dramatized over Columbia network at 8:30 p. m. Friday. Morley Jennings of Waco received a telegram Wednesday night asking details of the Baylor plays leading up to the 29-yard place kick from near the sidelines which gave Baylor a 3-to-0 victory over Texas University, and also the lyrics and score of the Baylor football song.

Pay day for a hundred thousand jobless Texans who have almost forgotten what the words mean will be next Saturday, November 25, state relief headquarters in Austin announced Tuesday. On that day first checks under the federal government's new civil works administration, which is being handled by the relief administration, will be issued, just ten days after the inception of the program.

Veterinarians and farmers are still mystified at the so far unknown disease that has, in the past two months, swept the south plains of Texas, attacked thousands of horses and resulted in the death of 750 to 1000 in the Lubbock area. State and federal veterinarians are seeking a serum to combat the disease, but so far nothing definite has been discovered.

Federal Relief Administrator Hopkins Tuesday approved plans for the purpose of between 29,000 and 30,000 low grade beef cattle and establishment of canning plants in 16 Texas cities for processing the meat before distributing it to needy families. Canning plants will be located at Dallas, San Antonio, Waco, Austin, Beaumont, Tyler, El Paso, Wichita Falls, Brownsville, Lubbock, Paris and Abilene.

An indoor laboratory or garden, invented by C. V. Head of Stephenville, will be on display at the National Inventors Congress, Nov. 21-25 in Dallas. It is a patented arrangement of windows to be built along an outside wall of a room.

THANKSGIVING DAY

We think it appropriate at this time to print the first account of the origin of Thanksgiving Day. It was set down in 1823 by William Bradford, Governor of Plymouth Plantation. The spelling and punctuation are just as Governor Bradford wrote it in his Journal.

"Notwithstanding all their great pains & industrie, and ye great hops of large cropp, the Lord seemed to blast, & take away the same, and to threaten further & more sore famine unto them, by a great drought which continued from ye 3. weeks in May, till about ye middle of July, without any rain, and with great heat (for ye most parte), insomuch as ye corne began to wither away, though it was set with fish, the moisture whereof helped it much. Yet at length it began to languish sore, and some of ye drier grounds were parched like withered hay, part whereof was never recovered. Upon which they set a solemne day of humiliation, to seek ye Lord by humble & fervente prayer, in this great distress, and he was pleased to give them a gracious & speedy answer, both to their own & the Indians admiration, that lived amongst them. For all ye morning, and greatest part of the day, it was clear weather & very hotte, and not a cloud or any signe of raine to be seen, yet toward evening it began to overcast, and shortly after to raine, with such sweete and gentle showers, as gave them cause of rejoicing. A blessing God, it came without either wind, or thunder, or any violence, and by degrees in ye abundance, as that ye earth was thorowly wet, and soaked therewith, which did so apparently revive and quicken ye decayed corn & other fruits, as was wonderful to see, and it made ye Indians astonished to behold; and afterwards the Lord sent them such reasonable showers, with change of faire warme weather, as, through his blessing, caused a fruitful & liberal harvest, to their no small comfort and rejoicing. For which merite (in time convenient) they also sett a parte a day of thanksgiving."

We have kept the form of Thanksgiving Day, but ought we not also to keep it in the spirit of those Pilgrim Fathers?

INDIAN SUMMER

Every year, or almost every one, there comes a long spell of mild weather, after the first sharp drop in temperature, which covers most of America is known as "Indian Summer." An old saying used to be that Indian Summer never came until after there had been a fall of snow "deep enough to show rabbit tracks." That early snowfall was known to our pioneer ancestors as "Squaw Winter."

This was the hunting season of the Indians, as it is the hunting season for the white folks today. It is a hazy, pleasant interlude between the end of Summer and the onset of real Winter. It is the time of year to take one's gun and one's dog and go out into the woods, after anything or nothing. It is the last, or almost the last chance to be outdoors in comfort until another Springtide comes.

In spite of the haze and the smoke from brush fires, the eye seems to penetrate farther in Indian Summer than in real Summer. The trees are nearly leafless now, and through their bare branches the stroller in the woods sees farther and clearer. Things that were hidden are now disclosed. The entire landscape takes on a new and somewhat sad aspect.

That is Indian Summer as it is known in the North and East. In the milder South, however, it is not unknown. There is that period nearly every year, between the hurricane season and Christmas, when it seems the perfection of happiness just to be out of doors. Farm work is over for the year. The mosquitoes have gone into winter quarters. The slanting sun peering over the bulge of the earth's girdle cheers without burning. Under the liveoaks, among the sumac, wherever one chooses to wander there comes the feeling that it is good to be alive.

There is nothing like the American Indian Summer anywhere in the world. European Summers leap right into cold, rainy weather. American Springs are brief: our Summers come early. But our lovely Autumns make up for the short Spring.

RAILROADS ON THE UP-GRADE

The news that the Class I railroads of the country had better financial experience during the first three quarters of 1933 than in the same period last year will be received with pleasure by an interested public. As a matter of fact, their earnings were close to being 100 per cent improved. However, there's nothing to wave flags about as yet—this year the income was 1.72 per cent on their investment, as compared with .92 last year.

Small as their profits have been, the 1933 experience produces one very important fact: The railroads are still our basic transportation medium, and they will remain so for a long time to come. They are still carrying the great bulk of heavy and long-haul freight. They are the only common carrier which completely covers the country with its facilities, and the only one which really pays its own way, without benefits from the taxpayers.

It is apparent that the railroads can't keep on forever without making a reasonable return on their investment. That return was specified at 5 per cent in the Transportation Act—and, in spite of unremitting efforts to achieve further efficiency and advance economy of operation, they have not been able to earn it in a single year since the war. It's good to know that their position has improved—but the statistics speak for themselves as to how much more must be done before they share in the prosperity they do so much to create.

GOVERNMENT SPEEDS HOME-BUILDING

A recent announcement from Washington is that Presidential pressure has been applied to expedite plans for reopening banks, liberalizing credit and to make possible the building of low-cost homes.

Here is the prelude to a revival of major dimensions in the construction industry. For three or four years there has been a virtual lack of residential building. Accompanying it has been an abnormally high rate of depreciation on existing homes, due to poor maintenance. And the result is that the nation is short many thousands of homes.

The person who waits a few months or a year before building anything, is going to be confronted by a tremendous advance in costs. He's going to pay many dollars for what a few dollars will buy now. That is true of every phase of building—from the purchase of the land the house is to stand on to the finishing of its walls. It is true of even minor repairs and additions—new roofs and steps, repainting, modernizing and repairing heating plants, removing electric wiring, and everything else.

The "buy now" movement that is underway at present is very different from sporadic movements of the past which adopted the same slogan. This one is based on fact, not fancy—on the knowledge that recovery is actually underway, that residential construction is a tremendous influence in speeding it up, and that the era of bankrupt prices is definitely waning. Every citizen who can should "get in at the bottom"—and the opportunity won't be present much longer.

YES—BUILD NOW!

How would this proposition appeal to you?

You are given a chance to purchase something you need—something that will be of permanent and increasing value to you and your family—for a fraction of what it will cost within a year or so. And, at the same time, by buying it now will be expediting recovery, putting men to work at good wages in a hundred industries, and stimulating business of all kinds in your town.

That's certainly an attractive proposition—and it's not fictional. The investment is construction. Individual home building and repairing is one of the most important factors in the recovery program. And, so far, the construction industry has shown less pickup than any business of comparable size.

During the present winter it will be possible to build well and build cheaply. You can obtain a house for a few thousand dollars that would have cost twice that price four years ago—and probably will again four years hence. The same thing is true of repairs of all kinds—from those rickety steps you've been vaguely meaning to have fixed for months, to that roof which has suddenly developed a leak. And here is something to think about—one-third of the people on the relief rolls are normally engaged or supported by the construction industry. Starting home building on a national scale is all that will bring back their jobs.

Yes—build now! You'll never regret it. Get that bargain in homes that is being offered you—and have the satisfaction of knowing that you're doing your part to prevent privation and want during the coming winter.

It is good practice to worm the pullets before placing them in the winter laying quarters as well as treat them for lice. It is also becoming a universal safe precaution to vaccinate the birds with fowl pox vaccine to immunize them against a possible outbreak of chicken pox.

Be sure your houses are adequately ventilated so that the birds will receive a continuous supply of fresh air. Take care that damp heavy air does not settle in parts of the houses. Drafts should be avoided.

STATE HEALTH OFFICER WARNS THE PUBLIC TO BE CAREFUL ABOUT OYSTERS

Austin, Texas.—"Beware of uncertified oysters," warns Dr. John W. Brown, State Health Officer. In Texas each grower of oysters is furnished a certificate from the State Department of Health covering the oyster beds that he uses, provided surveys of such areas have shown these to be free from pollution and that the shucking houses are sanitary. With such certificates is granted a shipping number which must accompany each shipment to show the source of the shellfish.

Each operator of a shucking house where oysters are opened must have a certificate testifying that his shop has been found sanitary and his employees have been examined and found negative for communicable diseases, especially typhoid fever. These certificates are issued annually. The Federal Government cooperates with the states by exercising supervision over methods used and issues lists of certified shippers in all parts of the country.

The safest oysters in Texas are the ones accompanied by a certificate. The oyster has much to commend it as a food—protein of good quality, a rich source of iron and copper (important as a protective against anemia), a liberal source of iodine essential to the proper functioning of the thyroid gland and a fair amount of vitamins.

Last year 32 oyster shippers were certified. The safest method at present in selecting oysters is to look for the certificate number.

McCulloch County turkey growers are planning to sell turkey eggs for hatching purposes to Northern growers through the county cooperative association next spring. This is a new industry now in its third year. Last year 120 members received $5500 for 60,000 turkey eggs, the county agent says.

4-H CLUB NEWS

Makes Good Cattlemen

Ray Bailey, Lake County, Indiana, farmer and cattle feeder, is having a lot of satisfaction watching his three sons develop into "chips off the old block." And the boys are having a lot of fun, too, along with their learning. Many folks are surprised when they hear what these young lads do. John, the youngest, is 11 and then comes Francis, then Forest who is nearly 15. But Mr. Bailey is one of those wise fathers who believes in giving his boys plenty of chance to stake their judgment against dollars. He believes it is better for them to take whatever risk there is now on small investments like one or two steers than to wait until they are in business for themselves and have to stake it on the large investment represented by a carload or two of cattle or hogs.

Every year the father ships in a considerable number of range feeders to steer and before he starts them on feed he gives the boys a chance to pick out the calves they will need for their 4-H feeding projects. This gets the lads interested in the cattle right away, and also tests their skill at picking out good steers. If they pick his best steers it only pleases him, for he knows that a good feeder first has to be a good judge of cattle. The boys then give their calves separate care and do all the feeding and keep a record of costs. They have won some of the best premiums at the county fair.

Two of the lads accompanied their father to market this fall with a shipment of steers, including their club calves which were sold in the club auction. They said their gains cost less than five cents a pound, which were confirmed by Mr. Bailey by actual check of their figures. At this cost the boys figured a fair enough profit for the times. The boys do not try to secure phenomenal gains or make a fancy showing with their calves, but seek practical results. They use home grown feeds and standard supplements to supply what their own feeds lack, but figure costs of what they buy closely.

The lads are accumulating their profits, and have been for several years, so that each year they can buy an extra calf or so, hoping eventually to be able to operate on a carload basis.

Sunday School Lesson

Paul In Athens.
Lesson for November 19th
Acts 17: 16-34.
Golden Text: Acts 17:28.

Athens, at the time of Paul's visit, was not an important political center, for the capital of the district was Corinth. But Athens was still queen of the intellectual world. Her many schools of philosophy were famous, and she had impressive temples adorned by precious treasures of art. But the city was so full of idols that it seemed as if gods were more numerous than men. This idolatry was natural to the people, but Paul's modernistic faith...

The lesson contains the sermon Paul preached as he stood on the Areopagus, the splendor of the city in full view, with an audience before him of Epicureans, Stoics, and idlers. Note the tact with which he begins. Instead of denouncing them for their idolatry, he says they are unusually religious. Thus he conciliates them and secures a courteous hearing. The art of appreciation here exemplified ought to be practiced far more zealously. We usually accomplish more by praise than by rebuke. William Lyon Phelps tells of how he criticized severely a short story submitted by a student to a college magazine. Later the young man, who was subject to low spells, committed suicide. It is not a source of satisfaction to him, says Prof. Phelps, that he contributed to the poor fellow's suffering.

Paul then goes on to define that unknown God whom the Athenians worshipped in ignorance. An unseen Spirit, He is the Lord of Heaven and Earth, who created all men. His children, to love and serve Him as one united family. The apostle then stresses repentance, and concludes with a brief reference to Jesus and the resurrection. The response to this carefully prepared, polite homily was not flattering. The Athenians were too frivolous and conceited to embrace the gospel with genuine sincerity. Some jeered, some desired further light, and a few became negligible. No church was founded in Athens, and no letter was written to the Athenians. So far as we know, Paul never went there again. Discouraged, he proceeded to Corinth, where his reception was much more favorable.

BRUCE BARTON

...writes of "THE MASTER EXECUTIVE"

Supplying a week-to-week inspiration for the heavy-burdened who will find every human trial paralleled in the experiences of "The Man Nobody Knows."

THE GREATEST TRIBUTE

A few minutes later Jesus returned to the garden to find his disciples sleeping. Even so short a vigil had proved too heavy for their feebleness. In the hour of his greatest need there was no help from them. Again he went away, his spirit torn with agony.

He was young, thirty three; he did not want to die. He cried out to God that the cup might pass from his lips; that he might have time to sweep away the charges of blasphemy and evil which his enemies had heaped upon him. So he prayed, and coming back, found them again asleep.

This time he did not disturb them. The high tide of his revolt had subsided; the courage which had never deserted him throughout the three years cleared his soul, steadied his muscles. "If it be not thy will that this cup pass from me," he prayed again, "then, Father, thy will be done."

It was the victory chant after the battle. With the calm peace of the conqueror he could make ready for the end. He had not long to wait. The soldiers were already at the entrance of the garden. He waited until the armed men stumbled into his presence and then, rising, stood before them.

"Whom seek ye?" he demanded. Startled, awed, they could only mumble his name. "Jesus of Nazareth."

"I am he," he answered proudly. They had expected angry denunciation. But such calm, such dignity were beyond the boundaries of their experience. Involuntarily as they gave way and, rough veterans as they were, some of them "fell to the ground." It was a supreme tribute.

Then, Jesus, thought rebounding to those who had shared his triumphs and his sacrifices through the years, "If therefore ye seek me let these others go their way."

But he had no need to think of the disciples' safety. Already they had made their swift escape—the last of the deserters—First his home town, then his best friend, then his relatives, then the crowd, finally the eleven.

He was left to face his fate alone. On a barren hill beyond the city walls they nailed his perfect body to the cross. Two robbers were crucified with him.

It was over. And yet—"Jesus." It was the voice of one of the robbers, "Jesus," he says painfully, "remember me, when thou comest into thy kingdom!"

Read that, oh men, and bow your heads. There have been leaders who could call forth enthusiasm when their fortunes ran high. But Jesus, when his enemies had done their worst, so bore himself that a crucified felon looked into his dying eyes and saluted him as king.

The FAMILY DOCTOR
JOHN JOSEPH GAINES, M.D.

EAR TROUBLES
Being deaf, or even partially so, is nothing less than a real misfortune. To not be able to hear perfectly is a real deprivation. To miss those soft, sweet chords in the music—to be shut out from that wood-bird song—the whippoorwill, the Bob-White! I recall when squirrel-hunting—I could plainly hear my gamey tid-bit, gnawing into the hickory-nuts, as I moved slyly about in the forest, rifle at a "ready."

A first symptom of impaired hearing is—ringing noises in the ears. It may occur so gradually that the victim does not notice the slightest buzz that is aggravated by "taking cold." It may then be described as a "roaring!" Granted that one has not a cold, or any other recognizable infection, and yet his ears ring—few adults or those past middle-age are totally free from it.

This symptom may persist for years, and not cause the patient to seek relief. It is a little affair, but one that may repay a little intelligent investigation.

Remember, ringing in the ears usually has its origin in the eardrum—the part you can reach with the awful "ear-spoon," or head of a pin, or match—or any other unwise thing! The eardrum, bear in mind. It is being interfered with, and sounds its warning. What to do? Well—see that there is no undue accumulation of material in the ear. Wash out gently with syringe and comfortably warm water—do it very gently and yet thoroughly—once a day. Keep the external canal clean—free from wax.

This done—and the noises keep right on! Most cases are from hardening of the eardrum. My practice is to get Oil of Mullein, and put a few drops in the ear once or twice a day. This is a vegetable oil, that seems to work well. See your doctor.

Mrs. M. L. Tittle and daughter have moved here from Walnut Springs and have rooms with her aunt, Mrs. Mollie Tidwell.

Saturday evening, Nov. 11, the turkey picking season opened up. A very good crowd of men and boys and a few ladies and girls went there and some good work was done. More of the ladies would have helped, but did not know about it in time. This is a good thing for Iredell.

A picture show comes here every Thursday evening, which is fine, and is a talkie, too. Large crowds attend every week.

Rev. D. R. McCauley, who was the Methodist pastor here last year, is our pastor again which all the members appreciate. The good Baptist people are also glad, for they are glad to come and hear him preach. The town and community give Rev. McCauley a hearty welcome back among us. Let us all do better by him this year than we did last. Next Sunday is his day here, so everyone come.

Rev. Lester delivered two fine sermons here Sunday morning and evening.

The singing here Sunday afternoon was fine. There wasn't as large a crowd as was looked for. Some came from Meridian and also from Hico. Remember, the second Sunday in each month is singing day at Iredell.

Mr. William Wheatley Newton was born May 9, 1856. He died Thursday, November 9, 1933, at his place east of town, surrounded by his wife and children. He was married to Mrs. Ella Shannon, Oct. 11, 1899. To this union five children were born, two boys and three girls, all being here for the funeral. He professed religion at the age of 28 and lived a consistent Christian life for 50 years. As long as he was able to come, he was always in his place at the Baptist church. He enjoyed hearing the blessed word of God as it was preached by all preachers. He was certainly a good man and will be missed very much by his family and a large host of friends.

His physical vision was dimmed, in fact he had been totally blind for several years, but he was of a jovial nature, loved company, and his home was the preacher's home. He had a happy home which has been made sad now by his going, but God in His wisdom saw best to take him home. It was my privilege to know Mr. Newton for several years and regarded him as a fine man. He was a kind husband and a good father to his children.

By the Christ-like life he has lived his loved ones and friends know he is at rest. Friday afternoon, Nov. 10, the funeral of Mr. Newton was held in the Baptist church by Rev. Lester in the presence of a large host of relatives and friends. Floral offerings were beautiful. Rev. Lester gave a glowing tribute to his memory. The casket was opened and all took the last sad look. He looked very natural. No doubt if he could speak from his heavenly home he would say, "Dear loved ones, I am happy here; no more blindness; everything is happiness." The remains were laid to rest in the Riverside Cemetery. Out-of-town relatives who attended the funeral were Mr. Bing Newton of Glen Rose, Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Buckingham and children of Smithfield, Miss Nina Newton of Dallas. A few more relatives were here, but we failed to get their names. His wife and children and other relatives have the sympathy of their many friends, for he is gone but not forgotten.

Misses Nina and Beatrice Loader and Vada Hudson were in Hico Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Evans have moved to the residence they have bought. Rev. and Mrs. Jackson moved to the residence vacated by Mr. and Mrs. Evans, and Mr. and Mrs. Pate Bowman moved where Rev. and Mrs. Jackson formerly lived.

Real Fall weather is here, some frost a few days ago.

Clarence Gibson, wife and little niece Bobby of Dallas visited his mother and other relatives here last week end.

Gid Chambers and family were visitors in Hamilton last Monday. Sunday morning, Nov. 5th, the shocking news flashed over the wires to G. L. Woolley and wife that their son, Toy Woolley, had accidentally shot and killed his wife at their home in Dallas. On his return from hunting in some manner the gun was discharged, striking his wife through the heart and causing instant death. They had only been married two months. Toy is grief-stricken and is under the care of a physician at Dallas. His mother is at his bedside.

M. B. Stuckey received a telegram the first of last week stating that his nephew, Sam Brown, 36, died at Long Beach, California. The cause of his death has not been learned. Mr. Brown was well known to the Carlton people who regret to learn of his death.

Mt. Zion

By MRS. ALLIE ADKISON

We had a large crowd out Sunday at church, both morning and evening.

Our Sunday school is still progressing fine. We invite everybody to come and join us.

There have been several persons on our sick list, among them Mr. and Mrs. Muri Bales, Mrs. Eula Newton and A. F. Polnack.

This community was made sad Thursday when the news came of the death of Mr. W. W. Newton. He was the father of Mr. Weston Newton of this community.

A. J. Adkison and family of near Walnut Springs visited his son and family Saturday night.

Master W. J. Newton spent Thursday night with his aunt, Mrs. G. D. Adkison.

Several from around here went to the singing at Mr. Luther Cool's Sunday night. All reported a nice time and good singing.

Grady Adkison and mother visited Mrs. C. L. Adkison Saturday night.

Next Sunday, Nov. 19th, Rev. M. Shannon will preach at Mt. Zion. Everybody is invited to come out and hear him.

Travis Adkison, wife and baby of near Walnut visited in the Clint Adkison home Saturday night.

Why Uncle George needs MORE LIGHT than Billy . . .

• Notice how much smaller the pupil of Uncle George's eye is than Billy's. But then, Uncle is sixty-two years old, while Billy just turned twelve.

It only goes to prove that as people get older the pupils of their eyes shrink in size . . . and so they need better light than they did before. But Billy's eyes should not be neglected either, because he's in the growing stage and studying and playing in poor light now may mean poor sight later.

Why not give the whole family the kind of light that's good for them? We will be glad to consult with you on this all-important problem.

The Fairys

PUBLISHED WEEKLY BY STUDENTS OF THE FAIRY HIGH SCHOOL

Editor-In-Chief Harold Jones, Assistant Editor Cleoyne Parks

On account of the report cards being late arriving, they have not been made out.

The honor student's names will be published next week in the news column called "The Fairys."

An Armistice program was given at the Fairy school Friday night, Nov. 12th. Hot chocolate and cake were served to all the people.

The Senior class rings were ordered last Tuesday. All the classmen say they are the most beautiful rings ever made.

The eighth grade class has divided into two groups. Each side is fighting against the other to make the best grade; and at the end of each month, the side that loses takes the winning side to town and buys refreshments for them.

Miss Caraway shall present a prize to the fifth grade students as a reward for their decorous conduct. This class should be commended by teachers and patrons for their quiet and studious behavior. This class is challenging any other class in school on excellent conduct.

The Duffau-Fairy Basket Ball Game.

The Fairy Tigers traveled to Duffau November 10, and added another exciting game to their string of losses by losing the game 25 to 20. The Tigers put up a battle which caused the Duffau boys to work hard to make five points in the last half of the last quarter.

Who's Who

Pee Wee Allison (the smallest player on the team) made several goals at the basket ball game Friday.

CARD OF THANKS.

We wish to thank our many friends who so kindly and lovingly stood by us during the illness and death of our loving husband and father, W. W. Newton.

MRS. W. W. NEWTON AND FAMILY

gebra, he's right there.

Ada Mae Blakley is our beloved brunette girl of the Senior class. She is very intelligent, and loved by all her acquaintances.

The only objection the Senior boys have is that she prefers Cranfills Gap boy friends rather than Fairy boy friends.

Wonder Why
Pee Wee Allison had to buy a cap about two sizes larger after the ball game Friday?

Miss Talley didn't grade all of the Freshmen's papers?

Mr. Nix came to the back of his room Friday night?

Miss Caraway wants us to play Clairrette in basket ball?

Dalton Akin keeps late hours?

Miss Talley wanted Ray Miller to come to see her?

Eursie Hackett did not go to the ball game last Friday until after school?

The faculty members are getting so sympathetic with the Freshmen since the red marks have been mentioned?

Mr. Smith didn't have time to grade the Bookkeeping test papers this last week end?

Jokes
Mr. Smith: "Junior, why are you late for school?"

Junior Allison: "I would have made it here on time, but as I was running I came to a sign saying, 'Slow, School Ahead.'"

Mr. Smith: "Curtis, why are you late?"

Curtis Wright: "Well, you see, my socks are guaranteed against running."

Ima Dee Trimmer: "The weather is awfully warm. Truman, will you buy me some ice cream?"

Truman Akin: "No, but I'll tell you some ghost stories to make your blood run cold."

He says they are rolling around too fast.

1934-1935 COTTON ACREAGE PROGRAM TO OPEN SOON
The Cotton Acreage Reduction plan for 1934 is the reduction of planted acreage to approximately 25 million acres, which is a 40 percent reduction from the five year average of 1928-32. States and counties will in turn be allotted acreages, which in the case of Hamilton County will be about 22,000 acres reduction from the 55,000 acres normal acreage. The five year average lint production will be the basis on which payment of 3c per pound will be made. Thus, land which has an average production of 100 pounds lint per acre will pay $3.00 cash rental, 125 pounds lint—$3.75, 150 pounds lint—$4.50, etc.

In addition to cash rental payments by the government, the growers will receive $5.00 per bale for that portion of next year's crop which is used for domestic consumption. This payment will be made on 6 million bales, which is estimated by Mr. C. A. Cobb, Chief of the cotton office, to be from 60 to 65 percent of the total crop to be produced next year.

Contracts for cotton growers to sign have not yet arrived, but should be in the County Agent's hands sometime during the next two weeks.

Our community was saddened when news was spread that Uncle Wheat Newton had passed away. William Whatley Newton was born in Grayson County, Texas, May 9, 1856. At the age of 77 years he passed away at his home near Iredell, Nov. 9, 1933. He was married to Ella Shannon October 11, 1896. To this union five children were born: Mrs. Vera Buckingham of Smithfield, Texas; Miss Nina Newton of Dallas; Weston Newton of near Iredell; Gillet Newton and Mrs. Ina Smith at home. There are nine grandchildren. Mr. Newton was converted at the age of 28 years, and has lived a consistent Christian life. "Uncle Wheat" as he was affectionately called, was of a jovial disposition, meeting his friends with a smile. They were always welcome in his home. He will be greatly missed in his home, and by all the community. We extend our sympathy to Mrs. Newton and the children.

Mr. Jady Flegay and family, his brother and family of near Chalk Mountain, and Mr. and Mrs. Hatley and Mrs. Newton of Glen Rose were here at Mrs. Newton's home this week end after Mr. Newton's funeral.

Church of Christ Young People's Meeting
The young people of the Church of Christ met Sunday night, Nov. 12, for their weekly meeting. The subject for discussion was "How to Study the Bible." Different methods of study were given by which a better understanding of the Bible might be had.

In order to create interest and encourage more study the young people decided to choose sides.

Miss Mary Alton and Miss Martha Alton were selected as Group Captains. The groups will alternate the Sunday nights giving the lessons, keeping count of good points made. The losing side will then entertain the winners.

Everyone who is interested in Bible study is urged to be present each Sunday evening at 6:30.

Thousands have Ended their Bowel Worries by taking this advice!

Can constipation actually be overcome? "Yes!" say medical men. "Yes!" say the many thousands who have followed their advice and know.

You are not likely to cure your constipation with salts, pills, tablets, or any of the habit-forming cathartics. But you can correct this condition by gentle regulation with a suitable liquid laxative.

THE LIQUID TEST:
This is the way many men and women have made their bowels as regular as clockwork in a very short time.

First: select a properly prepared liquid laxative. Second: take the dose you find suited to your system. Third: gradually reduce the dose until bowels are moving of their own accord.

Simple, isn't it? And it works! The right liquid laxative brings thorough bowel action without using force. An approved liquid laxative (one which is most widely used for both adults and children) is syrup pepsin. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a prescription, and is perfectly safe. Its laxative action is based on senna—a natural laxative. The bowels will not become dependent on this form of help, as in the case of mineral drugs.

Hospitals and doctors have always used liquid laxatives. The dose can be measured, and the action controlled. Pills and tablets containing drugs of violent action are hard on the bowels.

If there are children in your household, don't give them any form of laxative, but use a healthful, helpful preparation like syrup pepsin. Its very taste will tell you it is wholesome, and agreeable to the stomach. Delightful taste, and delightful action: there is no discomfort at the time, or after. Ask your druggist for Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, all ready to take.

WHISPERING ROCK

by JOHN LEBAR

Seventeenth Installment

SYNOPSIS: Ruth Warrea, who lived in the East, is willed three-fourth interest in the "Dead Lantern" ranch in Arizona by her only brother who is reported to have met his death while on business in Mexico. Arriving in Arizona with her husband who has ailing lungs and their small child, they learn that the ranch is located 85 miles from the nearest railroad. Old Charley Thane, rancher and rural mail carrier agrees to take them to the "Dead Lantern" gate, 5 miles from the ranch house. As they trudge wearily through a gulch approaching the ranch house a voice whispers "Go back! Go back!" At the ranch house they are greeted suspiciously by the gaunt ranch partner, Snaveley, and Indian Ann, a herculean woman of mixed negro and Indian blood. Snaveley is difficult to understand but regardless, Ruth takes up the task of trying to adjust their three lives to the ranch and its development. Kenneth, Ruth's husband, caught in chilling rain contracts pneumonia and passes away before a doctor arrives. Ruth tries to carry on. She is not encouraged by Snaveley in plans to try and stock the ranch or improve it. She writes to her father in the East asking a loan with which to buy cattle. She receives no reply. Will Thane comes home to visit his father, and Ruth meets him. A rancher nearby decides to retire and offers to sell Ruth and Snaveley his livestock on credit. Snaveley tries to balk the deal but Ruth buys to the limit of her three-quarter interest in Dead Lantern ranch.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

The old man frowned. "My name's Thane—I own the ranch here, and I thought I'd like to see who's living in this shack!"

"Like hell you own this land! I'm ownin' it myself, come another five months! I done paid my visit to the land office, Mister, and I don't feel like openin' no door. Don't like to talk no ways—fat people don't agree with me."

"What! Why you low—"

"Yeah," interrupted the voice, "and, besides, I'm gettin' my supper so why don't you be a nice little fat man an' get th' hell off my property—hub?"

Old Charley's face was the color

She waited two hours on that hill top before she saw the first cattle coming.

of a well-done ham. He hit the door with a tremendous blow of his fist. "Open this!"

"Oh, I'm so sorry," whined the voice, "but I just can't open it."

"Well, why can't you open it—yer arm broke?"

"I'm taking a bath," said the voice sweetly.

This was too much. Old Charley planted the sole of his boot against the door with all the force in his body. The door flew inward and Will Thane stepped to the threshold. "Come right in, Lad—I knew you'd call some day."

Old Charley sat down slowly on the box, utterly heedless of the wash-basin. After a time he murmured mournfully, "If you was only ten years old again for about half an hour!"

Later, after he had eaten Will's supper, the old man was somewhat mollified. "Will, you ornery pup, danged if this ain't the happiest day I've seen! And you've already been here a month. You son-of-a-gun—provin' up your homestead. And you're all through with real estate? Plumb through?"

"Plumb through, Dad. Turned everything I had into cash a month ago. Cash'll come in handy when we buy that section south of us here and pick up some more stock."

Old Charley nodded happily. "I always knew you'd be comin' back some of these days. But what have you been doing here the last month? Sleeping most of the day. I reckon. I never saw you so fat an' glossy."

Ruth slowly awoke and saw that it was still dark. She wondered why Ann was moving about in the kitchen so late, and was luxuriously slipping back to sleep when she heard the thump of boots as Snaveley came from his room and walked across the house to the kitchen. Suddenly Ruth knew that it was morning—the long-awaited morning when the round-up was to begin. As she rose and struggled into her riding clothes, the great weight of anxiety which had lifted during her sleep settled back upon her. The round-up—would there be enough cattle?

In the two months since she had accidentally placed poison in the spring troughs no new harm had come to the cattle—but, were they enough to meet her note? Her desire to find the answer to this question increased with each day, but she could not estimate the number of salable animals scattered over the ranch; she could not give an intelligent guess about weights and quality and price. She only knew that she had lost more than a tenth of the value of her note.

Then, too, if her deal with Parker was to do the ranch any good, only the poorest of the cattle could be sold—only the steers and the old cows. The rest of the stock and the fine bulls must remain for the improvement of the ranch. Ruth could not see much advantage in selling all the cattle to keep the man Witherspoon from foreclosing on the note—what good was there in three-quarters' interest in a cattle ranch with no cattle—or, in a ranch which only brought in fifteen hundred dollars a year?

She left David sleeping and went into the dining room. She and Snaveley breakfasted silently by lamplight, then went to the corral.

It was just light enough at the corral to distinguish one horse from another. The six Mexican cowboys were waiting by the gate, each with a cigarette in his mouth and a rope or bridle over his arm. Snaveley indicated to each of the men the horse he was to ride for the day. The Mexican entered the corral, caught his mount, and led it to the saddle shed.

Ruth, Snaveley and the Mexicans rode into the north pasture. About three miles from the ranch house Snaveley gave each man his orders, then rode away to the west. To Ruth he had said nothing, nor could she understand much of what Snaveley had told the Mexicans. She stayed where she was, on a hilltop. The men, she supposed, would ride west and distribute themselves along the line fence as it wound through the mountains. They would then all start eastward driving the cattle before them.

She waited two hours on that hilltop before she saw the first cattle coming. Two miles to the north an antlike string moved over a ridge and disappeared into a ravine. A moment later, and much nearer, she saw a small bunch of animals emerge from the underbrush followed by a man on horse back—Snaveley, she thought. By the time the first two bunches were opposite her, three more were in sight and she turned her own horse eastward. She soon came upon three cows, each with a calf, and drove them before her. Just where she was driving them she had no very clear idea, but she could see that the other riders were converging toward a common point and governed herself accordingly. This point proved to be a level piece of ground about half a mile from the eastern end of the pasture.

The nine small streams of cattle merged, flowed on, and were thrown into an eddy pool by the circling riders. Two of the men left at once, loping to a ravine where mesquite was plentiful. When they returned dragging firewood at the end of their riata, the cattle were in a close-packed bunch, and the remaining riders sat their horses at intervals around the circle. Snaveley, Alfredo, Don Francisco and one of the extra Mexicans dismounted, kicked off their chaps, and building a fire, laid on the branding irons; Ruth and three Mexicans keeping the herd together, meanwhile.

When the irons were hot Snaveley motioned to the grizzled old Juan, who left Ruth's side of the herd and advanced into the center of the milling cattle, swinging his riata.

Ruth had her hands full. With only three riders to keep the herd in place many of the cattle decided to break away. Every ten seconds, it seemed to Ruth, some animal on her side of the herd would bolt. She had abandoned old Brisket for such active riding in favor of Boots, a springy young horse with an alert mind and a thorough knowledge of the cow business. He enjoyed running after the animals that broke from the herd—Ruth rather suspected him of egging them on.

Such riding is exhilarating sport for half an hour—rather like the fastest moments of a fast polo game, but in three hours it can be wearing.

When all the calves had been branded the herd was driven to the holding pasture, a small enclosure of one thousand acres. As the cattle passed through the gate the counting began; one man counted calves; another, yearlings; another, grown steers, and a fourth, cows.

The count was over and the riders were returning to the home ranch when Ruth rode up beside Snaveley. "Well, how does it look?"

"How does what look?" replied Snaveley.

"I mean—do you think we're going to have enough? Weren't there a good many calves and young steers in that bunch?"

"Can't tell nothin' yet," said Snaveley gruffly. "I don't know if you're goin' to have enough or not. As a guess I'd say you ain't."

"I have it all figured out. Just how many we?"

"You figured, I reckon, that a quarter of the sale don't apply on that fool note, didn't you?"

Ruth drew herself straight in the saddle. "Certainly, Mr. Snaveley!"

She reined in her horse and dropped back between Alfredo and old Don Francisco. The Mexicans pulled their horses aside to make room and with many smiles and chuckles began talking to her. They loved to hear the broken Spanish. By the time the company reached the saddle shed, Ruth had learned that Don Francisco considered the cattle large and fat and the calves plentiful. He also succeeded in conveying to her the results of the count.

That evening Ruth studied these figures in connection with others she had gathered in her conversations with Old Charley and her studies of the cattle raisers magazine. But she went to sleep as undecided as ever. The round-up would take four days and if on one of these days the count ran as high as on the first, and if on one of those days about one hundred extra animals should appear, Ruth knew that she could meet her note. Provided, of course, that Old Charley had guessed shrewdly about the prices the cattle buyers would be paying.

Ruth never knew how she got through the fourth and last day of the round-up. Twice after the cattle had been gathered and the branding begun, she left the herd and rode into the foothills. But neither time did she see a single overlooked cow or calf.

She stood biting her lower lip and pulling at her saddle strings as the counting began. There simply must be more than one hundred and twenty head, she kept telling herself—there just had to be!

As the last of her cattle passed through the gate, the counters drew together and Ruth rode up. She listened as each man gave his count to Snaveley and wrote the figures in her notebook with trembling fingers: 60, 32, 15, 44! Twice she added the column before she was sure that the total was 151. Then with a slap she whirled her horse and galloped toward the ranch house. Her cheeks were wet and she sang a throaty chant to Twice she added the column before she was sure that the total was 151. Then with a slap she whirled her horse and galloped toward the ranch house. Her cheeks were wet and she sang a throaty chant to the pounding hoofs: "I've won! I've won! I've won!"

That evening after supper while David and Ann were making the chickens secure against skunks and coyotes, Ruth put on a gown she had not worn for more than a year, and did her hair three times.

When David came in he asked, "Why are you dressed up so beautiful, Mama?"

"Oh, just because," Ruth did not quite know, herself; but she was convinced it was the thing to do. "I think we ought to celebrate once in awhile, don't you, David?"

"Like a party?"

"Rather, yes."

"Mama! Let's go down to the barn—they've got a nice fire there and Alfredo's playing music. Shall we? Come on!"

Ruth grasped the boy's arm and led him guiltily out of the house by way of the back porch. Snaveley was in the sitting room.

The Mexicans sat around their fire, talking, laughing and singing, as the mood and the ever-active strings of Alfredo's guitar persuaded them. When they saw Ruth wonder shone from their faces, their admiration and pleasure. They all sprang to their feet, but Don Francisco was first.

Ruth smiled, went to the fire and spread her hands. "It is cold," she said in matter-of-fact Spanish. Immediately Francisco bowed her welcome and hurried to the barn for one of his rawhide chairs. But when he returned Ruth had seated herself on the ground next to Magda. She was not going to be the only one of the group who sat on a chair, gown or no gown.

Gradually, it became apparent to the Mexicans that the Senora Ruth and her son had merely come to the fire for warmth and company. Delightfully, they assured each other of this by smiles and nods. Little Magda sat closer to Ruth, and made her own importance felt among her companions by speaking exclusively in English, thereafter.

Suddenly Ruth had an inspiration, and with many pauses and appeals to Magda for the right word she made a speech: "My friends, we have worked and gathered many cattle. The roundup has been good. I think we will have a celebration—a fiesta grande. Some of you have friends in Palo Verde—bring them and the mothers and children. On Saturday we will cook a cow."

Must Move Fast If Sold On the THANKSGIVING MARKET

Only a few days remain in which to sell your Turkeys on the Thanksgiving market. We are anxious that you may get every cent possible for your birds this year, and want you to use your own good judgment when you offer them for sale.

HOWEVER . . .

Please allow us to remind you again that the time is short, and that if you want to sell now, you will have to hurry. Naturally we are not satisfied with the price so far, any more than you are. But we want to impress upon our friends over this section that we pay every cent the market will allow, and give you a square deal every time.

Year after year, and EVERY DAY IN THE YEAR, we offer you a DEPENDABLE MARKET FOR YOUR POULTRY AND EGGS. When we quote a price, we are actually buying at that price all that is offered for sale, whether it is one bird or a carload. That is why the Hico Poultry & Egg Co. makes Hico not only a dependable market, but the LEADING PRODUCE MARKET IN THIS SECTION.

Benefit Show By Review Club Gives Rich Entertainment

A large audience gathered in the school auditorium to greet the performers in the benefit play put on by the Review Club of Hico.

This entertainment consisted of two well defined sections. The first was a series of numbers rendered by Mrs. Woodward and the Girl Scouts. This part of the program was well presented in every respect.

Following the concert came the rich comedy, "A Howling Success," played by 20 of our local business men. The stage was set for a clinic and in the background was displayed an array of fearful looking instruments, used in various operations.

Mr. Pool, master of ceremonies, introduced the great specialists from abroad, together with their nurses. The doctors appeared very grave and dignified, but the nurses in their crisp, white uniforms gave plenty of spice and variety from the minute they made their bows.

First came Mrs. Doodad, bringing her twins for treatment. Their mother was hard to identify as Mr. Marvin Marshall.

The costume of poor Giggle Jennie was beyond description, but not so his mother. No more lovely lady walks the streets of Hico.

Then the audience saw in that striking brunette, C. D. Richbourg, Mr. Peck and his son were well represented. Then came a concrete example of the way of the play's name, "A Howling Success." Great gusts of laughter greeted Aunt Easter's bringing her one year old twins down the aisle in a huge wheelbarrow. Poor old knock-kneed Sally brought waves of merriment all through her severe operation, and her mother, Barto Gamble, another Hico lady we did not know we had, acted truly feminine and fainted away very gracefully when she learned Sally was ruined for life. Mickey, the little orphan boy, had a most pathetic role.

The conversation, the jokes and the clever acting all brought a scream until the final ringing down of the curtain.

CONTRIBUTED. MISS ANNETTE CULBREATH WON SILVER TROPHY CUP IN BEAUTY REVUE

A Beauty Revue was staged in Hico last Thursday evening at the Palace Theatre when Mr. Elkins, manager, and Mr. Moore of Stephenville, were sponsors, co-operated in by the various business concerns of the town, each of which was represented by a beautiful young girl.

The judges, strangers in Hico, found their task a very difficult one, as they tried to choose the most beautiful from a group of thirty entrants.

The honor of the beauty prize, a silver trophy cup and the honor of reigning as "Miss Hico," went to Miss Annette Culbreath, who after being presented with the cup, received a beautiful bouquet of cut flowers from Hico's own florist, Mrs. L. N. Lane. The maids of honor were Miss Mayo Hollis and Miss Elizabeth Boustead, who were also presented with flowers from Mrs. Lane.

Those who enjoyed the picture at the theatre and the beauty revue expressed themselves as being highly entertained and stated that Hico had more pretty girls than any town of like size in this section.

COTTON OPTION WILL CARRY 4 CENTS LOAN

According to reports from Washington, farmers who are holding cotton options in connection with the recent plow-up campaign will be advanced Twenty Dollars per bale by the Commodity Credit Corporation at 4 percent interest, and checks will in all probability accompany the option sheets when they are sent to the County Agent's office for distribution.

This will bring additional $59,280 as pay to farmers who participated in the plow-up campaign. C. E. Nelson, Hamilton County Farm Agent is hopeful of receiving these checks and option sheets during the next two weeks, based on statements made by Mr. C. O. Moser, President of the American Cotton Cooperative, at the recent agent's meeting at College Station.

NOTICE OF STOCKHOLDERS MEETING

A called meeting of stockholders of the Hico National Bank, Hico, Texas, will be held at the office of the bank on December 1st, 1933, at 10:00 A. M., for the purpose of voting on voluntary liquidation of the affairs of said bank, and for the consideration of such other business as may properly come before said meeting.

If You Get Up Nights

Lax the Bladder With Juniper Oil, Buchu, Etc.

Drive out the impurities and excess acids that cause irritation, burning and frequent desire. Juniper oil is pleasant to take in the form of BUKETS, the bladder laxative, also containing Buchu leaves etc. Works on the bladder similar to castor oil on the bowels. Get a 25c box from any drug store. After four days if not relieved of "getting up nights" go back and get your money. If you are bothered with backache or leg pains caused from bladder disorders you are bound to feel better after this cleansing and you get your regular sleep. PORTER'S DRUG STORE says BUKETS is a best seller.

New Connection At Junction of Carlton and Hamilton Roads

Those who travel the new route of Highway 66 between Hico and Hamilton have noticed a great improvement at the point where the Carlton road intersects the highway. The road has been changed so that coming from Carlton one now drops off the hill and comes straight onto the new highway.

Travelers between Carlton and Hamilton and intermediate points no longer find it necessary to come several hundred yards east before turning back on the new highway.

S. A. Clark, commissioner for this precinct has had the plans under advisement for some time, but as he never goes off half-cocked on these matters, he waited until everything was just right to finish the project.

Several teams and wagons were at work on the new connection Thursday morning, graveling the road with caliche.
