VOLUME I

HICO, TEXAS, FRIDAY, AUGUST 17, 1934.

NUMBER 12

Here In HICO

SOME will accuse us, when they see a reprint in this column from some other newspaper, of being too lazy to write our own stuff.

However, such is not the case. We merely realize that there are others more capable than we of putting down their thoughts in print, and perhaps more accustomed to thinking better in the first place.

For that reason we are reproducing below a clipping from the Wellsville (Kansas) Globe, entitled "The Editor's Beatitudes". "Blessed are the merchants who advertise because they believe in it and in their business; for their prosperity shall increase many fold."

"Blessed are the country correspondents who send in their well written items every week; for fame of their friendly neighbors shall go abroad in the land."

"Blessed is the woman who sends in a written account of a party or wedding, for she shall see the details of the function and the names of her guests correctly reported."

"Blessed are all those who do not expect the editor to know everything, but who call up and tell him whenever an interesting event occurs to them for they shall have a newsy paper in their town."

"Blessed are they who get their copy in early; for they shall occupy a warm place in the editor's heart."

"Blessed are all those who cooperate with the editor in his efforts in behalf of the community, for their town shall be known far and wide as a good place in which to live."

BLESSED is he or she, we might add, who keeps his or her subscription paid up and appreciates the home paper enough to put out good money for it.

We don't see how, in as complete a list of beatitudes as the above, the originator could have overlooked mention of those very important individuals referred to as subscribers.

Which reminds us that from the way people have been renewing their subscriptions, and entering their names on our list as new readers for the past few weeks, citizens of the Hico country do really want to keep up with things in and around their home town.

By the way, what has become of our column, once so popular, in which we dispensed news of our new and old subscribers? We stopped it some months back, through no good reason at all, and have failed to take it up again. Perhaps it is just as well though, for frankness compels us to admit that there have been few remarks about missing it.

FROM the Olney Enterprise we clip the following story which has a timely application in a problem that has ever confronted the small town. It is entitled, "A Story With a Moral."

"The story is told that in a certain village it was proposed that the inhabitants each contribute a bottle of wine for a big merry making event that was to be held when some notable of the empire visited the village. A huge cask was built into which each one was asked to dump a bottle of white wine. One man when it came his turn to empty his wine in the cask brought a bottle of water, thinking no one would notice it in the wine brought by all the others. When the day for the big event came and the cask was opened nothing but water gushed out. It so happened that each man in the village had thought the same thing that if all the others brought wine he could bring a bottle of water and it would not be noticed."

"This is what happens when one trades away from home. He thinks that the little money he spends with the mail order house will not be noticed. If the trading out of town would be confined to one alone it would not be noticed, but when many are guilty of it, it robs the community of its life, and business dwindles away and is starved out."

SUNDAY SINGING.

Don't forget to come out for the regular third Sunday afternoon singing beginning at 2:30 o'clock.

Singing will be in the Baptist Church.

We wish to invite all singers to meet with us and help us with our new songs. Several singers from surrounding churches have promised to be present if possible. OPAL HUNTER, Sec.

Romantic Century To Be Marked by Texas Centennial

Corsicana, Texas, August 15.—Although he had a vision of an empire in Texas, Stephen F. Austin, the great colonizer, could not mirror the Texas that is today.

Although his compatriots of the same era of the beginning of the early 1830's, Green DeWitt, Edwards, and others predicted great things for the undeveloped empire they were founding, they could not foresee the mighty commonwealth of a century later.

With dogged perseverance Stephen F. Austin, "Father of Texas," stood by his purpose, including time in prisons, long sojourns among a strange people in a strange country, distinguished service in civil life, finally to fall a victim of pneumonia just a short time after he had been made Secretary of State in the Texas Republic by Sam Houston.

For three days he had labored in the quaint capitol building at Columbia on the Brazos River. The weather was cold, there was no heat and the fatal disease took hold. His last act was for Texas. His last hours were spent in framing documents for presentation to the United States government which eventually was to result in the annexation of the Republic of Texas.

He lay in State at the capitol for two days and was buried on the estate of a sister near Velasco.

It is a far cry from the Texas of the days of Stephen F. Austin and the Texas of today.

It is this century of progress that the State will celebrate with its great Centennial exposition in 1936.

That century of advancement is one of the outstanding events of all history.

Then schools were few, the buildings were of log. The children tracked an unmarked wilderness in some cases for miles to reach the little building where one teacher for a period of three and four months taught the rudiments of an education to a mixed assembly of children and of grades.

Then most of the settlers were along the rivers because there was no method of transportation, save by water, ox wagon or on foot.

Then no oil fields, no gas fields, no coal mines, no mighty manufacturing plants dotted the landscape over the broad expanse of the State.

One of Austin's colonists, in a letter which has been preserved, even writes that a Bible could not be found in the settlement.

From the oppression of a despotic government the colonists rebelled.

They were commanded by the former Governor of Tennessee, the bosom friend of Andrew Jackson, General Sam Houston. On the field of San Jacinto the few hundreds of men under General Houston won the sixteenth decisive battle of world history, this on April 21, of 1836.

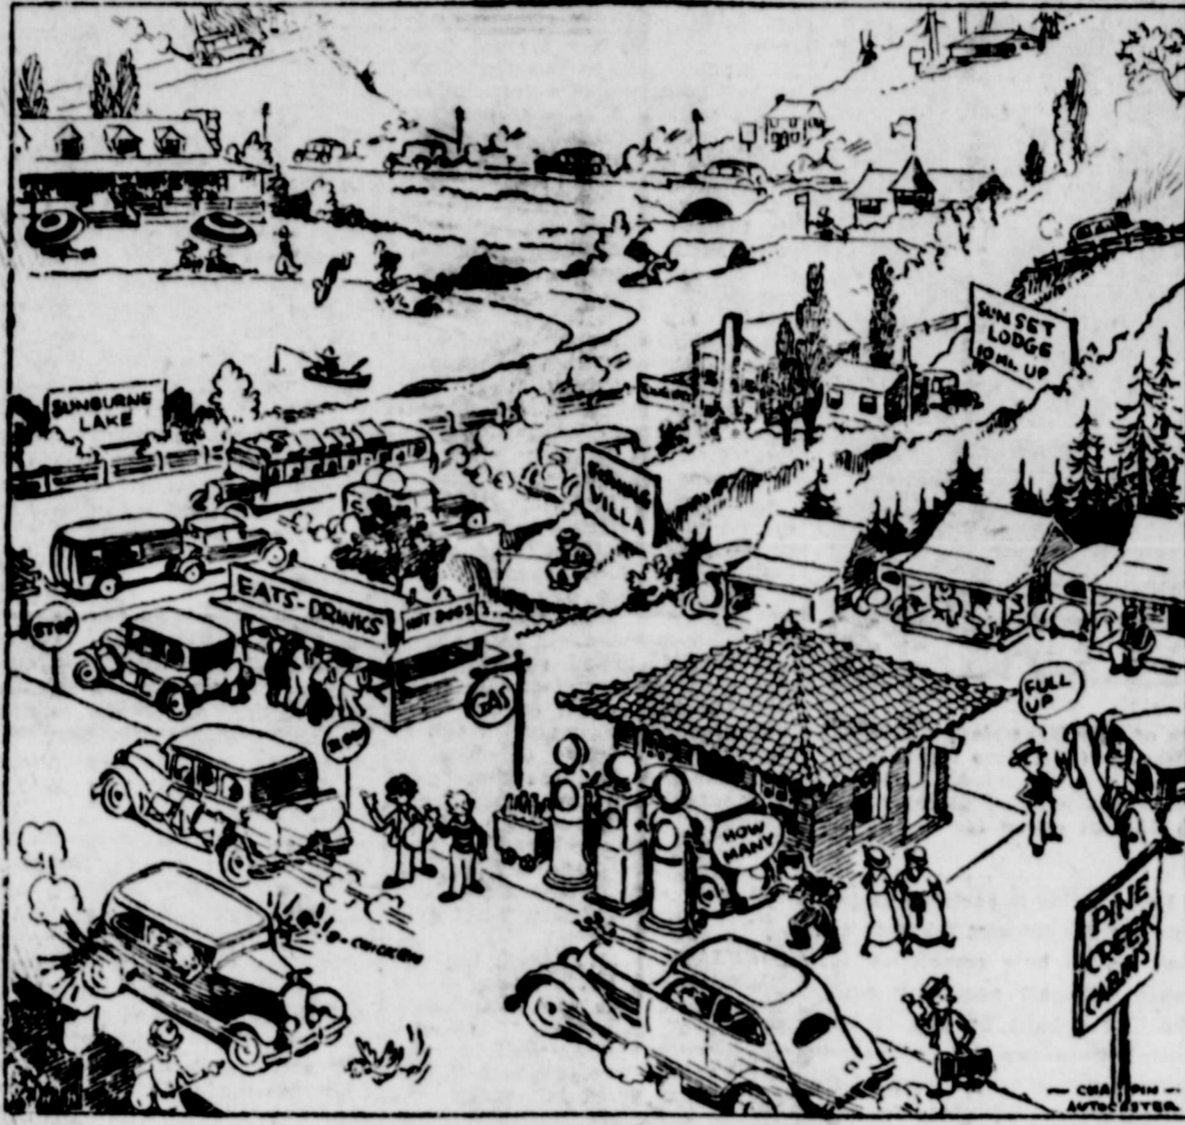

But prior to that on March 2 at old Washington on the Brazos a band of Texans had solemnly declared that State to be a free and independent Republic. They realized in the making of that Declaration they were inviting and most certainly would endure a sanguinary conflict with the enemy.

In the conflict intervening bloody battles were fought. As a result Texas has its sacred shrine of the Alamo. It has its Lexington-Gonzales. It has its Goliad. It has its ancient mission and fortress of Refugio. It has its free acts.

Speaking, mostly of a political nature, took up a great deal of the time of those interested in messages of the speakers, and the pavilion provided an ideal place for the people to gather and listen to the programs.

All in all, the consensus of opinion seems to be that the 1934 Reunion was a success in every way, and well worth the effort expended toward making it go over. The crowds in attendance were orderly and praised Hico highly for putting on a celebration of this type.

52nd Annual Hico Reunion Declared A Decided Success

Coming up to and even exceeding expectations for its success, Hico's 52nd Annual Reunion came to a close Saturday night of last week in a veritable blaze of glory and entertainment.

Throughout the three days, large crowds filled the City Park to capacity and the overflow of automobiles covered adjacent roads and parking lots. All concessions and shows, reported a good business, and those in attendance seemed to be well satisfied with their visit and went back to their homes with a determination to come again next year.

Manager S. J. Cheek in his report to the committee showed a small profit on this year's affair, which was added to the Reunion's permanent fund. The affair is unique in being self-supporting, and it is not necessary each year to go around to the merchants and get them to underwrite the expenses. The fund had been accumulated over a period of years, and at each annual affair sufficient free amusement is offered to take care of whatever profit is anticipated.

One of the main items of expense this year was the payment of $65.00 to the Hico band, a local organization which serves Hico upon various occasions, but without charge in a majority of instances. It has recently been reorganized, and one of the main attractions at the Reunion was the music provided by this aggregation of local musicians.

The crowds at the reunion grounds this year seemed to be in better spirits than for the past three or four years, and although no one spent any great amount of money, all found cheap entertainment and amusements, as well as free acts.

Speaking, mostly of a political nature, took up a great deal of the time of those interested in messages of the speakers, and the pavilion provided an ideal place for the people to gather and listen to the programs.

All in all, the consensus of opinion seems to be that the 1934 Reunion was a success in every way, and well worth the effort expended toward making it go over. The crowds in attendance were orderly and praised Hico highly for putting on a celebration of this type.

Hico Golfers Get Back Some Points In Recent Tourney

After allowing Stephenville to get away with the big end of the points in the two previous contests, Hico golfers recouped their losses at the Bluebonnet course last Sunday afternoon, annexing 24 2-3 points to their collection, while the Erathians got only 16 1-6 and the boys from the Hamilton county seat dropped below their customary quota with only 4 1-6.

The next play will be at Hamilton, when golfers from that fair city will be given an opportunity to pull something out of their bag of tricks and get up into the running. Rumors are to the effect that they may import some ringers from Pottsville to help them out on the score board.

Cards turned in last Sunday at Hico showed the following results:

Cookery Expert to Conduct School At Hico Next Week

New angles on the age-old problem of preparing the family meals will be presented Tuesday, August 21, when Mrs. H. E. Loder conducts a free cooking school at Hico under the auspices of Texas-Louisiana Power Company. The class will get under way at 2:30 P. M.

Mrs. Loder will discuss modern cookery and demonstrate the latest scientific methods in kitchen management. She will introduce a number of new recipes and show homemakers of Hico how to prepare every day foods in appetizing ways. Other features of her demonstration will include economy in meal planning, waterless cookery, grilled breakfasts and luncheons, full-oven meal cookery and child feeding.

The school is free to Texas-Louisiana customers and local residents. All are cordially invited to be present.

NEW SELLING PLANS FOR CHEVROLET ARE ANNOUNCED

At a recent Chevrolet Dealer and Salesman Meeting held in Dallas, by Mr. H. C. Howard, Zone Manager, Chevrolet Motor Company, new selling plans for the balance of this year were announced.

In expressing his appreciation for the July Chevrolet Passenger Car and Truck Sales record, made by the Salesmen in the Dallas territory, Mr. Howard said, "Proof that Chevrolet is assured of a good Fall business is the way the car buying public has accepted the new 1934 Chevrolet Passenger Car and Truck. Production figures from January 1st through July 31st, this year, nearly exceeded the production figures for the entire year of 1933."

The dealers and salesmen attending this meeting expressed confidence and optimism in their local community market and are anticipating an increase in Chevrolet Car and Truck sales during the Fall months.

An easy way to polish windows is to rub them with a chamolix dipped in a full strength or strong solution of rubbing alcohol.

Add a little vinegar to the water in cleaning linoleum and it will dry unusually bright and shiny.

Stephenville District Division. Stephenville Future Farmers District was divided into two districts. One is the Comanche County district Chapter, composed of all Vocational Agriculture schools in Comanche County, with headquarters at Comanche, Texas; and the other is the Brazos Valley district chapter, composed of all local chapters located in Bosque, Erath, Hood, Somerville, and Parker Counties, with headquarters at John Tarleton College.

The purpose of such a division is to promote more leadership, to give more boys chance to hold district offices, to encourage further interest, and to furnish more competition among the schools.

Attend Camp at Lake Cisco.

More than 400 Future Farmers of America attended the three-day encampment last week at Lake Cisco. The organization is made up of boys from Vocational Agriculture classes of twenty-five or more high schools.

Athletic events were on the afternoon's programs, playground ball, swimming, water polo, and boxing occupying the future farmers' musical entertainment at night was furnished by the Ranger pick string band.

Dean J. Thomas, avist of John Tarleton College and P. G. Haines, director of Vocational Agriculture, Austin, were the principal speakers at night.

Richard Springs was announced winner of all contests, for having the largest number of points. Brownwood was second. Camp broke at 2:30 Wednesday afternoon.

Jim Bird of Cisco was director of the encampment.

Heart of Texas Club Organized.

Twenty Jersey Breeders from seven counties in the Heart of Texas held a meeting in Dublin Friday night, August 10th, and organized the Heart of Texas Jersey Cattle Club.

Officers and directors of the club elected were: H. N. Smith, Stephenville, President; Grady Laws, Carlton, Vice-President; J. H. Taylor, Dublin, Sec.-Treasurer; and directors, Tom Hughes, Erath County; J. C. McGinnis, Comanche County; Joe Shelton, Brown County; and Paul Schrank, Hamilton County. Directors from Hood, Somerville and Bosque Counties will be elected at the next regular meeting.

D. T. Simmons, Secretary of the Texas Jersey Cattle Club, and Prof. H. N. Smith of Tarleton College, discussed the value of the organization to the Jersey Breeders of this section in regard to the Cattle Reduction Program, the Government's plan of assisting in cleaning herds from abortion, and the possibilities Jersey Breeders would have in the future in placing good foundation stock in the severe drought stricken sections of the State.

Jersey Breeders in these Counties for many years have followed a constructive program of breeding and improvement, and have some of the outstanding herds in the State in both production and type. This has demonstrated the ability of the breeders to produce both type and production and exhibit them in the Heart of Texas Jersey Shows as well as State Fairs and shows.

Breeders present at the meeting were Mark Buckingham, J. C. McGinnis, Walter Hamilton, D. T. Simmons, J. E. Grider, E. W. Bradley, Joe Shelton, J. A. Barton, Ernest Durham, Dr. Verne Scott, Joe Liles, W. M. Wright, Grady Laws, J. N. Howell, J. K. Grisom, H. N. Smith, J. H. Taylor and C. E. Nelson.

C. I. A. BOARD RATIFIES SECOND LOAN AGREEMENT

DENTON, August 8.—Ratification of the loan agreements on the new science and fine arts buildings and approval of the issuance of $363,000 in bonds for the erection of four buildings at Texas State College for Women (CIA) under PWA grants of more than half million dollars was voted by the Board of Regents at a recent meeting. Loan agreements as previously ratified were for the erection of a hospital and dormitory.

Shirley Simons of Tyler, architect on the dormitory and hospital, was also selected as architect on the new science building, and Thompson and Lemmon of Dallas will be architects on the fine arts building.

Keeping Up With TEXAS

Frances Mignon Briggs, 2, died Monday at Fort Arthur from the effects of poison she ate on a piece of bread she found at the home of a neighbor. Apparently the child thought the substance spread on the bread was syrup.

Here is some sort of record for regularity in the art of extracting fish from their habitat. E. O. White of 15th and B. T. Beam of 398 North 12th in Waco caught one fish every Sunday night for the last four weeks at D. H. Harrell's place near the Bosqueville bridge. Weights of the fish were 25, 26, 19 and 29 pounds respectively. Beam won the prize offered by W. A. Holt Co. for catching the largest catfish during the month of July.

Only three states have received less per capita than Texas in distribution of federal employment relief funds, and Texas is several dollars below the average. Relief Commissioner Houston Harte told the state relief commission in Austin Monday. He protested against reiteration of statements that Texas had been "niggardly" in aiding relief. Instead, he said, the state has been treated "disgracefully" by FERA. The average per capita has been $7. Texas has received $4.30.

James A. (Boss) Patterson, 43, Texas prison guard, was sentenced to 15 years imprisonment at Huntsville Monday after he pleaded guilty to providing pistols used in the daring break of three desperadoes from the penitentiary death house July 22. Two of the trio, Raymond Hamilton, the southwest's number one bad man; and Irvin (Blackie) Thompson, still are at large. The third, Joe Palmer, was recaptured Saturday at Paducah, Ky. Justice moved swiftly in the case against Patterson. A special grand jury to consider the complaints did not meet until 1 p. m. but in little more than two hours after that time Patterson was indicted on three counts, tried and assessed the maximum penalty by District Judge S. W. Dean.

State Treasurer Charley Lockhart issued a call Wednesday for a payment of general revenue war rants up to and including No. 131488. The call embraces warrants issued to April 24, 1934. The deficit in the general revenue fund was reported to be $5,718,136.

President Pat M. Neff of Baylor University has accepted an invitation to be the principal speaker at a patriotic program to be held at Crockett Sept. 21, when granite markers will be placed at sites chosen by Dr. Alastair Wolcott of Tyler as the exact locations of the first two Spanish missions established in Texas. The markers are being furnished by the Texas Historical and Landmarks Association. Miss Adina De Zavala of San Antonio and Dr. Wolcott will participate in the formal dedication service.

Texas has an estimated population of 6,073,000 as of July 1, according to the Bureau of Census. The total is a gain of 248,285 over the official enumeration in 1930. The estimated population of continental United States is given as 126,425,000, a gain of 3,649,954 since 1930. The Texas increase, compared with 1930, is about half of that of the State of New York. Texas has been above the 6,000,000 mark beginning with the estimate for 1933, and compared with that year the estimated figure for 1934 show the state gained 50,000 in that period.

Spill-gates of the Cisco lake dam were opened Tuesday to permit water to flow down the Big Sandy creek bed to provide water for 20,000 thirsty cattle on ranches along the stream. The gates of the dam will be left open 10 days, city officials decided after a committee of 30 cattlemen called on them to request opening of the gates.

An estimated half million dollars worth of Harris county land in the Tom Hall oil field was held to be still the property of the state Tuesday by District Judge J. D. Moore. The decision holds that 41 acres of the land, which is situated about 25 miles northwest of Houston, is subject to sale under preference right to occupants in possession. The other 62 acres is subject to mineral lease at a price to be fixed by state land commissioner J. H. Walker.

Duffau

By ELMER GIESECKE

Our community was well represented at the Hico Reunion last week. Everyone reported a nice time.

In and around the school house seems to be the busiest place in Duffau, where farmers are gathering and meeting the local committee to receive their Bankhead allotments.

The body of Cecil Williams who was killed in an automobile accident at Graham was laid to rest in the Duffau Cemetery beside his mother who preceded him in death about a year ago.

The Baptist meeting is in progress at this time with good crowds. Babel Mosher and wife of the Pigeon community have moved in the teacherage. Mr. Mosher will teach here the coming year.

Cecil Brown and Vernon Yoakum of the CCC Camp near Stephenville spent the week end with friends and relatives here.

Mrs. W. C. Burnett who resided with her daughter near Selden, was buried in Duffau Cemetery Tuesday afternoon.

Funeral services were held at the tabernacle conducted by Elder Waldon of Dublin, minister of Primitive Baptist Church of which Mrs. Burnett was a member.

C. B. Burgan, our village black smith, was conducting business affairs in the County Capitol Monday.

W. T. McKeehan of Jayton visited his mother, Mrs. C. H. McKeehan last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Adams and Miss Mary Ellen Adams of Hico visited Mr. and Mrs. Paul Gibson Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Salmon and children of Avoca, and Fay Young of Stamford and other relatives here from Wednesday until Monday.

Mrs. Jesse Owens of Pilot Point and Mrs. J. E. Pierce of Carlton were visiting in this community Wednesday evening.

Lucille Duzan of Carlton visited Elmer Wilhite Friday night.

Mr. and Mrs. John Moore were Alexander visitors Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Stringer had as their guests over the week end, Mrs. Homer Davis and little daughter, Christine, of Tolar, and Mrs. Stringer's sister, Mrs. Cora La Grove, of Brown County.

Harrell Drake and son, Ismael, of Dallas, visited Mr. and Mrs. Ed Smith Friday night.

One-third more yield per acre is the reward of W. D. Bicknell of Fannin county for terracing and using what he calls a "proper cropping system." "Proper" to Mr. Bicknell means 15 acres at a time for three year periods in clover or alfalfa then other crops planted on that land.

Daughters of Neptune

DENTON, August 7.—Hoist the mainsail! All heads duck, starboard your helm, and stand by to shift jib sheets! These sharp commands of the skipper ring out over the water, and young lady sailors at Texas State College for Women (CIA) make an attempt to master the art of the salty seaman.

Lake Dallas, artificial body of water located six miles from the college campus, serves as a training ground for these "sailors," and with four international racing boats of the Snipe class available the girls are afforded excellent opportunities to answer the call of Father Neptune.

Although a crew for racing this type of boat is generally made up of two girls in the instrumental period for this class four students and an instructor comprise the crew. During the early stages of training these would-be sailors learn to rig the ship, to handle the boat under all weather conditions and understand the technical terms of the sea.

After the early instrumental period has been completed each student prepares for her "solo flight" in an 18-foot canoe equipped with a single sail. A successful passing of this test makes her eligible as a skipper of one of the racing boats.

Every precaution for safety is observed in all sailing on the lake. Only students who are expert swimmers are allowed to enroll in the class and at no time is the boat allowed to leave dock without life belts and other safety devices. Motor boats, maintained at convenient distances for use in case of mishaps are also used by the instructor to follow class boats.

A college campsite consisting of twenty acres of land on the banks of Lake Dallas is partially responsible for the interest taken in this sport. Camp huts completely furnished with all necessary equipment were built by the college several years ago and are now in continuous use by students of the college. Groups of girls ranging from 30 to 50 in number spend week-ends on the lake throughout the school term.

House, to these daughters of the sea, means to lower the sails, shrouds and wires supporting the mast and leg-o'-mutton is not the latest fashion for the sleeve of a dress, but a type of sail.

MILLIONS OF DOLLARS

are held in old gold, platinum, silver and diamonds, that could be turned into cash today. The U. S. Government is paying $35 per ounce—a price no one ever dared to dream of a few years ago. Everywhere, all over the U. S., in every home, there is some old piece of gold, platinum, silver or diamond that could be turned into cash—irrespective of the shape or form these valuables may be.

It is of general knowledge, that the government will buy gold to a certain quantity—and thereafter, all buying will be done at the old prices only. If you have anything of value, old jewelry, broken bits of gold, silver, platinum or diamonds; old dental work containing gold—in fact anything, send it today without fail to the GOLD SMELTING & REFINERY CO., 253 South Broadway, Suite 221, Los Angeles, Calif. (If not satisfied with check sent for shipment, return it and you can have your shipment returned at once.)

TODAY and TOMORROW

PIONEER ... and a few acres. My friend and neighbor, Louis Raspuzzi, died the other day at 48. He had been in America only 19 years. When he arrived from his native Italy, at the age of 29, he had nothing but a few dollars in his pocket, a strong pair of hands, a cheerful willingness to work and a powerful strain of rugged honesty. When he died almost a whole town turned out for his funeral. In those nineteen years in America Louis had carved out an independence for himself from a few mountain acres of land, reared a family of two sons and two daughters and sent them all through high school and won himself a reputation that was countywide, for independence, integrity, straightforwardness, cheerfulness and helpfulness to his neighbors.

Louis Raspuzzi, by his life gave the lie to the false and wicked doctrine of defeatism, the doctrine that tells us that America is no longer the land of opportunity and that Americans cannot make their way in the world unless they are subsidized and supported by the State. It was not circumstance but character that enabled the pioneers of three centuries ago to succeed in the face of obstacles far greater than those that confront any American today. Louis Raspuzzi brought to his new world the same character that those earlier pioneers brought. And that sort of character can still succeed as greatly as it ever did.

LOCKJAW ... from the soil. What killed Louis Raspuzzi in the prime of life was that deadly, soil-borne infection, tetanus, which we commonly call lockjaw. There is no place in which human beings have lived in which the tetanus germ may not be found. All that protects the barefoot boy from its deadly infection is the sole of the foot with such a tough, thick, almost horny skin that few things can penetrate it. But any break in the skin that comes in contact with the soil is a possible source of danger.

Summer is lockjaw time. Not so many die of it as formerly, since so many have been taught the danger of a soil-infected injury. In Cuba and other densely populated tropical regions, the native fear to walk on the ground without sandals of some sort to protect them from lockjaw.

CHARACTER ... and education. I have been reading the addresses to their graduating classes of a dozen or so university presidents.

Without exception, as I recall it, those teachers put the main emphasis on character. Brains are less important than honesty, integrity, charity and unselfishness. President Conant of Harvard told his graduates, and that was about the way the rest of them spoke.

Intellect has been overplayed in the public mind, Dr. Conant said. It is important but not all-important. Too much emphasis on intellect leads too many young men to try to shine in professions for which they are not fitted.

The purpose of college education, as I have always understood it, is not to train men to make more money than the other fellow but to live a better and happier life, in whatever line of work he follows.

UNDERSTANDING ... masses. Most of the outcry against the President's "Brain Trust" is not against intelligence, but against the belief that many of the bright young men with whom Mr. Roosevelt has surrounded himself are not yet sufficiently experienced in the ways of the world to be safe guides for the nation in a time of trouble like this. In the homely country phrase, they are not yet "dry behind the ears."

Understanding is more important than knowledge, especially in politics. The man who does not understand the vagaries and limitations of human nature may be as brilliant as Einstein, but people never have confidence in him as a leader of men.

PRESIDENTS ... and college. To offset the attacks upon the "brain trust" the Federal Office of Education has compiled a list to show that nineteen Presidents have been college graduates, six college presidents and four college professors. I don't know what that is supposed to prove, unless that on the whole the Presidents of the United States have been pretty smart men.

What these facts do not make clear is that all of these men became President, not because they were educated in the formal sense but because they had proved, by years of practical politics, that they understood the popular mind and were men to be trusted. Out of all the Presidents, not a one, so far as I can recall, had held public office before going to the White House, most of them having climbed up from the lower rungs of the political ladder. Only Taft and Hoover had never been elected to office before they were elected to the Presidency, but each had a record of many years of public administrative service in appointive office.

About the only thing the careers of the 27 Presidents proves seems to be that if a man has a superior mind well educated it is no particular handicap to him on the road to the White House if he understands the game of politics and plays according to the rules.

STATE ALLOTMENT BOARD RUSHING WORK ON COTTON FOR EXEMPTION APPLICATION

COLLEGE STATION, Aug. 15.—Applications for tax exemption under the provisions of the Bankhead Act are rolling rapidly into the offices of the State Allotment Board now that all counties are finally supplied with all necessary printed forms from Washington. The Board has set up three shifts of workers and will run a 24-hour day until all the allotments are made, according to the chairman, E. R. Eudaly.

First counties to come in with their applications complete were DeWitt, Jim Wells, Lavaca, San Patricio, Fort Bend, and Refugio. The Board detained the messengers who brought the applications, met at once to act upon them, and sent the allotments of tax exemption certificates back into the counties by these same messengers.

Every possible effort will be made to hasten the work, Eudaly says, and in this connection he emphasizes the fact that the great speed of all can be made in the counties by assuring accuracy in the applications before they are sent to the Board.

"If the batch of applications hurried to the county to the Board turns out to be in such shape that it has to be returned to the county for correction much time is lost, and the county finds itself further down the waiting list than it would have been if a little more time had been spent on checking for mistakes in the first place," Eudaly said.

"County committees or adjustment assistants asking the Board to set a 'deadline' date after which no application may be taken within the county must be careful to ask for a date sufficiently far ahead to allow its being published in the local paper. And farmers must remember when that date is set that it is like a train passing. If they do not go aboard before the train pulls out they are left behind and no one can make the train return to take them on," Eudaly stated.

RECIPES AND MENUS. By Department of Home Economics, Texas State College for Women (CIA)

DENTON, August 8.—In planning meals for summer try to save time and energy by making the best possible use of your oven when it is to be used. One can always find room for potatoes for a meal or a pan of apples which are good for supper or for breakfast. Also plan some suppers which can be prepared while you are getting ready for dinner.

BREAKFAST: Poached eggs on toast, milk for children, coffee for adults.

DINNER: Rice scalloped with cheese, liver and bacon, bread, cucumber salad, ice tea.

SUPPER: Baked potatoes, prune soufflé, hot tea, milk.

BREAKFAST: Bananas with cream, bran muffins, jelly, coffee for adults, milk for children.

DINNER: Baked sweet potatoes, green beans, buttered beets, shrimp salad, jello with custard sauce.

SUPPER: Spoon cornbread, baked apples, ice tea, milk.

SHRIMP SALAD: Fresh or canned shrimps may be used, and for family use may be cut up rather fine and placed on shredded lettuce. Cooked dressing is preferable when eggs are cheap. Four eggs or the yolks of eight, 1 T vinegar or lemon juice to each egg, 2 T butter or olive oil if desired (can use as much as one-third cup.) 1 t salt, 1-2 t paprika, 1 t dry mustard, 1 c cream whipped. Beat eggs without separating yolks and whites. Place in top of double boiler. Scald vinegar; pour slowly over eggs and cook until the mixture thickens, stirring constantly to insure smoothness, while not add butter or olive oil and seasonings. Cool and add whipped cream. This dressing will keep two weeks if placed in glass jar, covered and kept in cool place, but the cream is added just before using.

PRUNE WHIP: 1-4 lb. dried prunes, 1-2 c sugar, whites of 4 eggs, 1-2 T lemon juice. Wash prunes and soak in cold water several hours. Cook in same water until soft. Remove stones and rub prunes through a strainer; add sugar and cook 5 minutes. The mixture should be of consistency of marmalade. Beat egg whites until stiff; add prunes and cook in moderate oven until the egg is set—about 10 minutes.

This dessert may be placed in baking dish or in individual custard cups, but should be placed in pan of water in oven to prevent over heating.

SPOON CORNBREAD: Scald 2 cups of milk, stir in 1-2 cup corn meal; add 1 tsp. salt and cook in double boiler until of the consistency of mush (10 min.). Cook slightly, add 3 egg yolks well beaten; add 1-2 t baking powder and 1 T butter, melted. Fold in the stiffly beaten whites of three eggs. Pour into greased casserole and bake in a moderate oven about 45 minutes. Individual pyrex custard cups may be used. If so, place them in a pan of water to prevent overcooking.

Elighth installment. SYNOPSIS—Three weeks after a cream colored roadster had been found wrecked in the sea at the foot of a cliff, a girl calling herself Anne Cushing appears at the desert town Marston. She has bought, sight unseen, a ranch located thirty miles away. Barry Duane, her nearest neighbor and his man, Boone Petry procure a reliable woman for her and in Barry's car, loaded down with supplies, they start across the desert. In Marston her reticence has aroused suspicion. Barry and Anne become more than neighbors and when Anne is lost in the hills and rescued by Barry, each realizes that something more than friendship exists between them.

especially when other women were involved. She switched the lights off and parted the curtains at the nearest window. Darkness was falling. Beyond the hedge a man walked slowly, turning his head at each passing car. She watched him, idly wondering why he was loitering along like that. He stopped to light a cigarette. A match sputtered into flame, and the flare lit his face. Anne shrank hurriedly back into the room, dragging the heavy curtains together. This was ghastly. What could possibly bring him to this part of the country again, straight to Granleigh?

stop for you some morning, and we'll dash around and do things." Cleo whisked out with a careless wave. Barry chuckled silently. "She's an irresponsible imp." He called after Matthews, just returning down the hall. "Who was that, Matthews?" "A man looking for a job, sir. A chauffeur. He was quite insistent about seeing you."

"My son's wife of course is welcome. Barry, my dear, how brown you are." Anne held the beautiful old hand a moment longer. "I hope we shall be friends," she said impulsively. I do want Barry's mother to like me."

"I mustn't let it get me! It won't do. I've got to see him, somehow." There was a tap on the door. It was Matthews. "Mr. Barry wishes me to tell you that Miss Pendleton is here."

"I told him," Matthews continued, "you were entirely satisfied with the present man." "Quite right." He suddenly remembered something. "Oh, Matthews, is my mother out? I knocked at her door, but there was no answer."

"Who could help liking it? It's a beautiful old house." "My great-great-grandfather built it, and Duanes have lived in it ever since. I suppose it will have to go out of the family some day, unless I make my million."

"I lived in the East for a while. But I've never been here before." "O'oh," said Cleo softly. "But I hope you're going to stay this time. We've all been arguing for years to make Barry stay home, but he won't listen to us."

"I picked up a point or two anyway. She'd rather be called Anne, and she hadn't told Barry that she'd lived East. Caught that one from him! And something bothered her about the windows, but that sounds crazy. The funniest thing is that she looks familiar to me. Just a little familiar."

"You darling." He tossed her hat on the bed and pulled her toward him. "Nancy, I'm getting madder about you every day of my life."

"I always listen," Barry grinned at her. "And then do as you please." Cleo shrugged a petulant shoulder, and then laughed. "All right, if you won't tell me. But I like Nancy better than I do you. You'll let me call you Nancy, won't you?"

"I have never been interested in the place. I hope, now that my son is married, he will definitely give up that kind of life." "Oh, but his heart is in it! I'd be willing to see him sell everything else that he owned, and live in a hut with him, if he could raise the money for the dam that way."

"She isn't just reserved! She's cold and selfish and ambitious and she hates me!" But she nodded wisely instead.

"I have never been in the place. I hope, now that my son is married, he will definitely give up that kind of life." "Oh, but his heart is in it! I'd be willing to see him sell everything else that he owned, and live in a hut with him, if he could raise the money for the dam that way."

seemed to have so little time for each other here. Not once in those flying days had Anne caught a glimpse of the man who had loitered in front of the house that night. She watched for him, but he seemed to have disappeared. It could, she decided, have been pure coincidence. Jim had probably gone on before this to the gayer haunts where he was more at home.

Cleo Pendleton was in and out constantly and at all hours. She amused Barry, and in her kittenish way managed to monopolize him a great deal. "Baby vamp!" Anne thought scornfully. The more she saw of Cleo the less she cared for her, but intimacy seemed to be thrust upon her.

"What she needed to do first, she told herself, was not to make trouble but to coax Barry's mother to like her. What Anne could not know was how ruinously the secret hope of years had crashed when Barry had sent that sudden word of his marriage. Mrs. Duane was a proud and strong-willed woman, hating poverty and all that it meant. Barry could have married Cleo Pendleton, and Cleo would have brought him wealth and leisure. Mrs. Duane hated the very name of Eagle Lake.

"I have never been to the Perch, have you? It is like a beautiful mountain camp. You must visit us there next summer." "I have never been interested in the place. I hope, now that my son is married, he will definitely give up that kind of life."

"I have never been interested in the place. I hope, now that my son is married, he will definitely give up that kind of life." "Oh, but his heart is in it! I'd be willing to see him sell everything else that he owned, and live in a hut with him, if he could raise the money for the dam that way."

as long as she lived. Sorry you married me, Nancy?" "Never!" She hugged him impulsively. "Don't you dare give it up. It's coming all right. You wait and see." But her heart was heavy.

Anne heard the swish of a car coming in the drive. Usually Cleo came in the roadster, preferring to drive herself, but today a long grey limousine waited there. A chauffeur stood by the door. He was a new man.

Anne looked toward him casually, and her eyes stayed. For an instant they seemed to cling to him in frozen recognition. The chauffeur slipped easily into his own seat. There had not been a glimmer of surprise in his face; only a cool watchfulness.

Cleo's eyes widened. This was too good to be true. These two knew each other. Barry's wife and a chauffeur!

"I ditched the roadster yesterday so I'm giving it a rest until the parent stops roaring." Cleo sat watching Barry's wife with bright, slanting eyes. Anne talked when she had to, listened to Cleo, commented and even laughed, but now and then her hands moved nervously in her lap, and her eyes went back to that smartly uniformed figure in front.

"I have never been interested in the place. I hope, now that my son is married, he will definitely give up that kind of life." "Oh, but his heart is in it! I'd be willing to see him sell everything else that he owned, and live in a hut with him, if he could raise the money for the dam that way."

PARENTS SHOULD PROTECT CHILDREN BY VACCINATION BEFORE SCHOOL OPENING

Austin, Texas, Aug. 15.—The schools throughout Texas will soon be opening for another term and the Texas State Department of Health urges the parents of school children to see that they are protected against disease in so far as possible. Vaccination against typhoid, diphtheria, and smallpox should be done at once. School children are exposed to much infection so that where a definite preventive is known, parents should take advantage of it. These vaccinations may save many days out of school, doctor fees, and maybe life itself. More than six hundred children die each year in Texas from diphtheria. The child should be taken to his family physician at this time for a physical examination to determine if he has any remedial defects. A child with subnormal eyesight or hearing cannot be expected to do as well in his studies as one that has normal sight and hearing. A dentist should be consulted in regard to the teeth. Any defect found and corrected before school opens will mean much to the child and will have its effect on his school work as well as his physical well being.

Some physical defects of children, such as underweight or malnourishment, show no appreciable present effect. If such a condition is not corrected it may result seriously in later years. No hard and fast rules as to a child's weight at a certain age are available, but parents should see whether or not the child shows some gain each month.

SEASONAL ACCIDENT HAZARDS

The National Safety Council observes that the accident rate keeps step with the thermometer. With the coming of summer, all types of accidents, ranging from life-destroying automobile collisions to cases of sunburn, tend to increase.

A little common-sense will solve the problem these "seasonal hazards" present. When you go camping, regard axes, knives and other sharp implements with the respect they deserve—and in case you are cut or scratched attend to it at once. Many a person has died needlessly from infections resulting from minor injuries. And remember that sunburn can also be a killer, and that over-exercise after a year spent in an office chair amounts to holding out an invitation to the doctor—and possibly the mortician. There are obvious precautions that must be taken when it comes to swimming and other summer diversions and sports.

The automobile, of course, remains the greatest hazard of all. In summer roads are dry, the weather is fine—and the speed demon is likely to take command. The potential danger involved in this cannot be over-emphasized. Excessive speed—which can be simply defined as going faster than traffic and highway conditions of the moment justify—takes more lives and does more economic damage than any other driving error. Don't forget that the time-saving a few minutes of excessive speed may effect, is not vital—and that it may bring summer to an end for you and your family for all time.

YOUR FIRE BILL

It has been said that the greatest tragedy of fire lies in the fact that it is unnecessary. More than eighty per cent of all fires, large and small, are due to someone's oversight—a little care, a little thought, perhaps the spending of a little money, would have prevented them.

Fire would not be so serious if it were entirely an individual matter—if the person who allowed his property to burn because he permitted hazards to exist uncorrected paid the bill. But we all pay—every member of the community is assessed, directly or indirectly, for a share of the cost. We pay it in depressed business if a factory is destroyed—men are put out of work. We pay it in higher taxes—a fire that eliminates property from the tax rolls makes it necessary to increase taxes on all other property to make up for the loss. We pay it in higher insurance rates—over a period of years, the rate charged for insurance protection is based upon the amount of loss in the community.

The direct fire bill in this country is around $400,000,000 a year at present, and in some years it has passed the half-billion mark. The indirect loss is several times as great—observers say it runs close to two billions. That money comes out of the pocketbooks of the American people, and whether your property suffered a fire or not doesn't let you out of paying it.

Fire prevention is easy—care and thought are the main essentials. And every fire that is prevented means actual money saved to you.

THE GROUND FLOOR

Most observers believe that recovery will come slowly, and that there is little fear that any severe setbacks to the progress already made will occur.

If that is true, there is one investment the far-sighted citizen can make that will bring him "dividends"—a modern home. It will give his family something that cannot be adequately measured in dollars and cents—a higher standard of living. And, through the act of building it, he will stimulate recovery. No dollar we spend goes more to provide employment and to stimulate industry than the construction dollar.

Prices are rising, and strong forces, backed by government officials, are attempting to accelerate the rate of construction on the ground floor.

AMERICA WILL BE HAPPIER

Dr. S. S. Huebner, the well-known authority on life insurance, recently said that the annuity is likely to be the greatest single development in insurance, relatively speaking, during the next ten years.

It is an interesting fact that the depression focussed the eyes of the public on the annuity. Before that it was barely known in this country, though it had long been the most popular form of insurance in other countries. Hard times have shown the thinking public that those who trust to chance to protect them in the future are due for a bitter lesson—and the most necessary investment we can make is one that will provide us with a livelihood when our earning power has dwindled or vanished.

That is what the annuity does. It makes it possible for us to buy out of current income an income in the future. An overwhelming majority of men become destitute before seventy, and must be supported by relatives or charity. Many such men were once wealthy. Many more had good incomes. They had investments they believed safe—until economic storm destroyed values.

If Dr. Huebner's forecast is correct, and the statistics for life insurance sales bear him out, America will be a happier, more secure country in the future—the welfare of the individual is what makes the welfare of the nation.

THE SHIFTING OF THE HEMISPHERES

In a recent address, James S. Carson, Chairman of the Council on Inter-American Relations, said: "The West is to play a new role on the world stage. The great war caused a shifting of the hemispheres. The New will supplant the Old in a leadership which will be used in a different concept in international relations and commercial exchanges. The actual war did not end with the signing of the Armistice, but we believe its termination is dimly visible today. Inter-Americanism will finally point the way to stop the ruthless economic struggle which has been designated 'The War After the War.' If this be true the long labor pains caused by the birth of this new epoch will not have been suffered in vain."

It seems an axiom that intense nationalism, as pursued by many of the great European powers today, is productive of nothing save chaos—and there is good reason to believe that the peoples of the world will at last turn for relief to an enlightened nationalism—such as concerns Mr. Carson. The rigors of military war are not greater than those of economic war.

Friendliness and cooperation between nations is vital to world stability, world progress, world welfare.

INVESTING IN BETTER LIVING

To buy a modern home, small or large, expensive or inexpensive, is to make an investment in better living. Construction has stood still the last few years, ever since it tumbled to the depths with depression, but contractors, designers, builders and equipment manufacturers have continued to improve their services and commodities.

They have given us not only more comfortable, but more efficient homes—homes in which four or five rooms do the work that six rooms used to do. They have given us new ideas of heating, ventilation, air-conditioning, furnishing, designing.

They have given us mechanical equipment which can be adequately described only by the word "marvelous"—equipment which is more than human in doing work inexpensively and quickly, that used to take back-breaking hours before a furnace or over a washboard.

And, to cap the climax, building costs are still well below normal levels. There are plenty of skilled and unskilled workmen. When we build we give men jobs and not only get a bargain for ourselves, but advance recovery by stimulating purchasing power and industrial production.

There are few better slogans than "Build Now—Repair Now!"

4-H CLUB NEWS

GIRLS ARE CLEVER

If a check were made of the 4-H girls who are wearing some very smart outfits when they go places it would surprise a lot of people to know these same outfits were made of very inexpensive materials. It might be a mild shock to some to learn these outfits were even made of materials which no one would have thought of saving in our past periods of prosperity—materials such as old feed sacks, fertilizer bags and garments which had hung in the attic for a generation.

In Kent county, Michigan, a young lady came to a clothing project meeting with a piece of black broadcloth, which had an interesting history. This young lady's grandmother purchased the cloth back in 1893 to make a dress to wear to the world's fair in Chicago. But the hard times which fell on the country made it impossible to go and the material was stored away. Now it is to be made into a coat for the owner to be worn to this year's world's fair in Chicago.

In Pennsylvania the club folks have some interesting figures of what the girls have done with waste materials. Some $50 garments were made from flour sacks and burlap bags last year, reports Miss Harmony Stewart in charge of extension activities at State College for club members. Some of the garments were made without any actual cash expenditures. Miss Clara Syphitt of Jefferson county spent as little as 29 cents for bright buttons and dye, and when she completed her dress it was comparable to those selling in smart New York shops for $27.

In another eastern state the case is reported of a girl making towels out of material which is woven by hand on a loom in the girl's town. It is not the purpose of club projects to induce girls to use such materials if they can afford better but by their use many girls have been able to make garments required in projects which they would not have been able to do if they had had to purchase new materials.

MY HOME AND YOURS

By BERTHA EDSON LAY

If you like your bronze ornaments clean and polished, rub them with a little furniture polish and wipe them clean with a dry cloth.

A decidedly attractive way of preparing baked potatoes is to remove them from the shell after cooking, mash them with butter, salt and pepper and a well-beaten yolk of egg. Then replace them in the half-shells and brown them in the oven. They taste better and they're much more easily handled at the table.

Even the most delicate fabric may be cleaned of ink-stains with a teaspoonful of lemon salts diluted in a saucer of hot water. Soak the fabric a short while, paint over it with a brush dipped in a solution of glycerine and water and follow that with a few drops of ammonia solution.

Save time and trouble in washing a stack of dishes by passing each dish under the hot water faucet before regular washing. The worst of the grease goes down the drain and the washing is much easier, requiring fewer changes of water.

When roasting lamb or beef, shake a pinch of cinnamon on the bottom of the oven before putting the meat in and allow it to remain while the meat is cooking. You avoid the heavy odor of the oven usually associated with cooking either of these two meats.

To clean ink-stains from linen without damaging the fabric, dip the linen in milk and let it stand for two hours. Then wash the linen with a pure soap while the milk is on the spots. This method is almost always successful.

Before you polish dirty furniture rub it with hot water and dry it immediately. Then when you polish it, the wood will take a high lustre and won't show finger marks.

To clean coral beads, dip them in a solution of one teaspoonful of borax to a pint of warm water. When they are clean, rinse with tepid, clean water.

Keep bamboo furniture in good condition by going over it occasionally with equal parts of linseed oil and turpentine.

Sunday School Lesson

Amos Pleads for Justice. Lesson for August 12th. Amos 5 and 7. Golden Text: Romans 13:10. In 780 B. C., with Jeroboam the Second as king in the north, there was tumultuous revelry in Bethel where Israel now gathered for excited worship. Never had she been more eager to celebrate, for Syria, her worst enemy, had been badly defeated, and the good old times of David were restored.

But in the midst of the jubilation a rude, fiery figure appeared. He was Amos, the herdsman of Tekoa, a small town in the south near Bethlehem. In melancholy tones he exposed the sin of God's people, and predicted their overthrow and punishment. Naturally the people were astounded. "How can we, an invincible nation, suffer defeat?" they cried. And especially angered were they when this unwelcome visitor shouted that God himself would bring them into reproach. What blasphemy! No wonder Amosah the priest told Amos to return to Judah and prophesy there. And our herdsman was forced to obey.

Now there are three major emphases in Amos' teaching. First of all he proclaimed an impartial, international God. The Lord, he insisted, will punish the sinners in Judah and Israel just as relentlessly as those in Damascus and Moab.

Secondly, he sensed the peril of an external emphasis. "I hate, I despise your feast days" was the message the Eternal placed in his mouth.

But most important of all, Amos was an uncompromising champion of justice. "Let justice roll down as waters, and righteousness as a mighty stream." How modern! We desperately need peace today. But more fundamental is the need of a square deal for the disinherited masses. We need also charity, for millions depend upon philanthropy. But most of all we need fair play so that the wealth of all may be at the disposal of all.

Amos Pleads for Justice. Lesson for August 12th. Amos 5 and 7. Golden Text: Romans 13:10. In 780 B. C., with Jeroboam the Second as king in the north, there was tumultuous revelry in Bethel where Israel now gathered for excited worship. Never had she been more eager to celebrate, for Syria, her worst enemy, had been badly defeated, and the good old times of David were restored.

But in the midst of the jubilation a rude, fiery figure appeared. He was Amos, the herdsman of Tekoa, a small town in the south near Bethlehem. In melancholy tones he exposed the sin of God's people, and predicted their overthrow and punishment. Naturally the people were astounded. "How can we, an invincible nation, suffer defeat?" they cried. And especially angered were they when this unwelcome visitor shouted that God himself would bring them into reproach. What blasphemy! No wonder Amosah the priest told Amos to return to Judah and prophesy there. And our herdsman was forced to obey.

Now there are three major emphases in Amos' teaching. First of all he proclaimed an impartial, international God. The Lord, he insisted, will punish the sinners in Judah and Israel just as relentlessly as those in Damascus and Moab.

Secondly, he sensed the peril of an external emphasis. "I hate, I despise your feast days" was the message the Eternal placed in his mouth.

But most important of all, Amos was an uncompromising champion of justice. "Let justice roll down as waters, and righteousness as a mighty stream." How modern! We desperately need peace today. But more fundamental is the need of a square deal for the disinherited masses. We need also charity, for millions depend upon philanthropy. But most of all we need fair play so that the wealth of all may be at the disposal of all.

THE BOOK

the best line of which reads, "The Holy Bible," and which contains Four Great Testaments

by BRUCE BARTON

A MASTER GATHERS PUPILS. To all the temptations Jesus answered. "Get thee behind me, Satan," and He emerged from the wilderness with a clear-cut picture of His mission and His program. He saw very quickly that He could not adopt John's method. John was an ascetic, a reformer, a deacon of people, loved social life and liked to be in a crowd. John said, "Flee from the wrath to come." Jesus said "God is you Father, and has made the world as a happy place for His children." The two messages were very complementary, but while the friendship of the cousins was firm and their respect for each other deep and true, they were utterly unlike in personality. Each must speak the truth as he saw it and in his own chosen way.

It was an age when philosophers in cities like Athens and religious teachers in Palestine moved about out-of-doors and gathered as they went. It is interesting to remember that the name by which Jesus most liked to be called was "Master," not a master of servants but a master of pupils, a schoolmaster. And the name He gave to His associates, "disciples," means simply "pupils."

The story of the way in which He gathered these men is full of interest. He seemed to have no studied method. "As Jesus passed by," He called one and another, saying, "Follow me," and the man who was called left his fishing, or whatever his work might be, and followed instantly.

The significant thing to remember is His amazing faith in plain ordinary folk. He did not look over the Blue Book or the Directory of Directories, saying to Himself, "This is the most important mission that anyone ever undertook; I must have the very best and ablest assistants." On the contrary, it was almost as though He said, "If I can pick up about a dozen honest chaps who are physically strong enough to stand hardships and simple enough to let their faith carry them beyond intellectual doubts, I can trust this message of mine to their keeping and feel sure that it will never die out."

That supreme confidence in common humanity sets Jesus apart from most other leaders who have attempted large things, and the magnificent way in which His faith was justified is one of the finest proofs of His divinity.

It will be worth while to look briefly at these pupils of His. How many of us know anything at all about them, or could even write a list of their names? The first two of the permanent disciples were John, the son of Zebedee (with whom was afterward associated his brother, James), and Andrew. Andrew was apparently the sort of man who likes to discover good things and then tell them to a brother or to some one else with more initiative than himself. That is the fate of many of the world's most useful characters.

ican War days, various army camps reeked with typhoid; vaccination was unknown. Came the immense World War army—all immunized—no typhoid cases that I heard of.

A case of typhoid fever in your community, if you should be so unfortunate as to have one, should bring instant investigation of the water supply; if the water is found pure, then search all foods and sanitation within the district. Don't trust your road overseer or street commissioner to conduct the investigation. It is the duty of your physician—if he cannot do it, he must have it done properly. You can't tell whether water contains typhoid by just looking at a pailful of it. Call the bacteriologist.

The typhoid germ is a "bacillus." That means "rod-shaped." Like a short section of hair—only many times smaller—visible. The typhoid bacillus will live in well water indefinitely. It attacks the human intestine, where the disease "runs its course." We can immunize.

Two things imperative and without delay. First, boil ALL WATER used by the population of the city—and immunize as many as possible by giving the necessary vaccine that is now of proven value. The town is doing just that. An epidemic of typhoid must be prevented. Even as I write this the news reached me—that one of the cases, a bright young man—died of the fever.

WE MUST BE ALERT

This week one of my neighbor towns—a "county seat" town, was startled by the development of two cases of typhoid fever! The excitement was like that of a military invasion almost. Typhoid fever! Instantly the physicians sprang into action—the source of the infection must be found—and wiped out. It was discovered to be in the city's water supply.

RECENT HICO VISITOR DIES SUDDENLY AT FORT WORTH Those who made the acquaintance of and learned to love Ralph Thomas Farmer, better known as "Fats" through his appearance in gang comedies at Fort Worth, were shocked Wednesday morning to learn that the youth had died early that day.

Mrs. M. E. Wood, the child's grandmother, and his aunts, Misses Fannie, Dora and Tot, left immediately after receiving the sad message. Funeral services were conducted at 5 p. m. Thursday at Spelmann-Serrest Funeral Home at Fort Worth, with burial in Greenwood Cemetery at that place.

The Fort Worth Star-Telegram gave the following account of the sad and untimely demise of little Ralph Thomas: Ill since his legs gave way beneath him while playing on the beach at Galveston, Ralph Thomas Farmer, 11, was found dead in bed at 2:10 a. m. Wednesday.

The child played the role of "Fats" in a gang comedy made here recently. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Farmer, 3638 Ryan Avenue. The father is a mail carrier.

The death certificate, signed after a post mortem was held, stated the boy died of noncontaguous encephalitis or sleeping sickness.

The boy lost the use of his limbs while on a vacation trip last week with his grandmother, Mrs. M. E. Wood, and an aunt, Miss Fannie Wood, both of Hico.

No particular alarm was felt, the father said, as it was assumed the child's weight had become too much of a burden for his legs. He weighed about 160 pounds.

Although the boy's illness was not considered critical, the parents had been attending him during the night. He seemingly was all right at midnight but was dead when Mrs. Farmer summoned the father shortly after 2 o'clock.

The child's condition was thought to have been improved Tuesday when he apparently slept during most of the day. The father said Wednesday, however, he believed the boy was unconscious instead of sleeping.

Ralph's work in the local moving picture was in keeping with his ambition to play in Hollywood productions, relatives said. Negotiations were begun almost a year ago to place the child in Hal Roach Comedies.

A pupil in the fourth grade at South Side Elementary School, the boy formerly attended George Clark School. A sister, Mary Lou, also survives.

MRS. J. A. ANDERSON OF AGE COMMUNITY DIED SUDDENLY SATURDAY A number of Hico people went to Fairy Tuesday afternoon to attend the funeral services of Mrs. J. A. She and her husband came to the Fairy and Agee communities about 44 years ago, being old settlers in that section. She was a faithful member of the Baptist Church, a devout christian character in every respect, and loved by everyone. Friends from far and near came to attend the funeral services of one whom they held in highest esteem.

MISS LADY PASSED AWAY AFTER LONG ILLNESS NEW VISITOR AT AGE OF 80 YEARS Funeral services were held at the family home in Hico Monday morning at 9:30 o'clock for Miss Henrietta Chamberlain, who passed away at the home Sunday morning at 11 o'clock after an illness of several months' duration. Rev. W. P. Cunningham, pastor of the Hico Methodist Church, conducted the services after which the body was laid to rest in the Hico Cemetery.

Miss Chamberlain had been a resident in Hico for many years. She was born near Vicksburg, Miss., in Warren County, almost 82 years ago. In the year 1874, she came with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Chamberlain, to this country and settled on a ranch in the Duffau community. Her parents passed away more than forty years ago and for the past several years Miss Chamberlain had been making her home with her sister, Mrs. E. R. Sellman in Hico. She joined the Methodist Church early in life and lived a christian life since that time. Although quiet and unassuming, Miss Chamberlain acquired many friends.

She is survived by one sister, Mrs. E. R. Sellman of Hico, and one brother, W. Chambers of Arlington. She was also a first cousin of J. S. Bryan of Hico.

Among the out-of-town relatives who attended the funeral services were: Mr. and Mrs. W. Chamberlain of Arlington; Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Chamberlain of Henderson; and Mr. and Mrs. Willard Chamberlain and Mrs. Frank Chamberlain of Dallas.

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF TEXAS: Section 1. That there be added to Article IX of the Constitution of the State of Texas a new section to be numbered Section 2-A and to have five (5) lettered subdivisions and which section shall read as follows:

"Section 2-A. (a) General management and control of the affairs of the County shall hereafter be vested in the Commissioners Court, provided that in the exercise of powers not specifically granted to the Commissioners Court by the Constitution and Amendments thereto, the Court shall be subject to the authority of the Legislature of the State, and the Court shall also be subject to all general laws of the State now in force not in conflict with the provisions of this Amendment until such laws are modified or repealed.

"(b) All duties heretofore performed by the Clerk of the District Court and the County Clerk shall hereafter be performed by an officer to be known as Record Clerk; all duties heretofore performed by County Tax Assessor and the County Tax Collector shall hereafter be performed by one officer known as Tax Clerk, and in the counties where no such officer performs the duties of the Tax Collector he may hereafter perform the duties of the Tax Clerk. The Record Clerk and the Tax Clerk shall be elected to hold office for a term of two (2) years and until their successors shall be elected and qualified. The Commissioners Court shall have authority to combine the office of County Treasurer and the office of County Surveyor, or to combine either, or both, of said offices with any county office. Within the maximum and minimum limits prescribed by the Legislature the Commissioners Court shall have authority to fix the compensation of all county and precinct officers except County Auditor, County Judge and County Commissioners. The Legislature shall fix the compensation of District Judges, District Attorneys, County Judges and the County Commissioners and may provide for a County Auditor and prescribe his duties and fix his compensation and the number and compensation of his assistants. The Commissioners Court shall fix the compensation of and determine the number of deputies, assistants and clerical personnel of all precinct officers and county officers except the county auditor.

"(c) City and county officers and employees may, in addition to their duties as such city and county officers or employees, be required to perform such other similar duties for cities, towns and districts within the county, or for the county, as may be mutually agreed upon and contracted for between the Commissioners Court of said county and the governing board, or boards, of such cities, towns and districts; and the cost of such service shall be provided for in said contracts and paid by such county, cities, towns or districts into the Treasury of the county or city, town or district, as provided for in said contract. All such contracts shall be approved by the Attorney General of this State and such contracts shall not cover a period longer than two (2) years.

"(d) The Legislature shall have authority, by general law, to provide for the consolidation of county government and organizations different from that provided for in this Constitution to become effective in any county when submitted in such manner as may be prescribed by the Legislature to the qualified voters of such county in an election held for such purpose and approved by a majority of the qualified voters voting in said election. Provided, however, that no such law shall impair the right of the Commissioners Court to determine the compensation of county and precinct officers other than the County Auditor, to fix the number of assistants, deputies, and clerical personnel which said officers may employ; nor shall such general law change the present constitutional limitations as to particular and total tax levies for any of all county purposes, nor shall such general law change the present constitutional limitations on counties to incur public debts.

"(e) In any and all cases where provisions of the Constitution of this State are in conflict with the provisions of this Amendment, the provision of this Amendment (Section 2-A, Article IX) shall control; provided, however, should any county adopt a Home Rule Charter under authority of any provisions of the State Constitution or Amendment thereto, this Amendment shall not be applicable to such county."

THIS WEEK IN WASHINGTON

Washington, August 2.—A piece of news which the cables carried the other day is causing more mental perturbation in Administration circles than even the unpaid war debt. That is the statement officially made that in Great Britain unemployment has been reduced to the point where it was five years ago. Recovery, according to the cables, began in Europe early in 1932 and has continued without serious interruption since. Whether it had not already started in America at the same time, and whether it might not have progressed as rapidly here as there if there had been no experimental efforts to stimulate it, is what is worrying some of the advisers of the President.

Not that they admit there is anything to the idea, but they are terribly afraid that the Republicans will pick up the theory that the New Deal has hampered, instead of stimulated, economic recovery, and adduce so many facts in support of it as to make a convincing campaign argument out of it. And nobody in Washington forgets for a minute that this is a campaign year.

"Outs" Must Have Issue
In all fairness, it ought to be made clear that unless the Republicans do find something definite, positive issue between now and the beginning of the Congressional campaigns in September, they haven't any chance at all of capturing the lower house of Congress or the Senate. Their chance of an opposition majority is light, but if the only campaign argument they are able to put forward consists of stale pleas of the "outs" to be put back "in," based upon nothing constructive but merely upon dislike of the New Deal program, then they will capture very few seats in either house.

It would not be a novelty if they did even gain control of Congress. This has happened more than once in our political history—but never when there was as good a politician and popular personality as Mr. Roosevelt in the White House.

In 1890, for example, the greatest opposition landslide in our history occurred. Benjamin Harrison had been elected President in 1888, with a strong working majority in both houses of Congress behind him. But in 1890 the combined Democrats and Populists captured 85 Republican seats in the House of Representatives.

In Taft and Wilson Returns
In 1910 President Taft had a Republican Congress, elected with him in 1908, turn sour on his hands and go Democratic. In Woodrow Wilson's second term, the Congress was dominated by the Republican opposition. But in these and all the other instances of a mid-term upset in the complexion of Congress there was a definite issue before the people upon which they were thoroughly aroused. No such issue has as yet shaped itself. So while the President's friends conceded that they will probably lose some seats, they are not greatly scared of losing control of Congress. They have a feeling, which many old political observers with Republican leanings share, that there is not, at the present moment, enough political acumen and smart leadership in the Republican party to do much damage.

There is, however, a good deal of money on the Republican side. Campaign funds are going to count heavily this year in most districts. Here, again, the feeling in Washington is that the distribution of immense sums of Government money in various forms of welfare activity, such as the PWA, CWA, CCC, FERA and the farm benefits and bonuses will go a long way to make voters friendly to the Administration, and presumably to the Democratic party.

Congress Faces the Voters
Doubtless all the beneficiaries of Federal spending are grateful to Mr. Roosevelt—but Mr. Roosevelt is not running for re-election this year. It is Congress that has to face the voters, and mingled with the feeling that Congress has been nothing more than a rubber stamp which the President used to make his personal actions legal and Constitutional, is a good deal of dissatisfaction in many agricultural sections over the way some of the recovery projects have worked out.

Farm prices in general have gone up, but prices of goods the farmers have to buy have gone up farther and faster. The NRA has done a better job in its field than has the AAA. That has caused a lot of disgruntlement. Nobody yet knows how far and how deep that kind of dissatisfaction extends.

Busy Political Summer
The drought has offset much if not most of the gains for the farmers as a whole—the most severe drought in all history, authorities say. Probably nobody seriously will blame the drought on the Government, but it has beyond doubt created an undercurrent of discontent which may express itself at the polls in the states affected. And if it should result in a definite food shortage elsewhere, which seems not at all improbable, it may affect voters all over the country.

OFFSETTING THE SUMMER DECLINE

If present hopes materialize, much of the seasonal decline in general business that always comes with summer, will be offset by stimulated residential construction. It is an unquestioned fact that a sizable part of the public is in dire need of more and better housing, and that every month makes the need greater.

Today we can build a home in the middle-price bracket for about sixty per cent of what a similar home would have cost four or five years ago—and today's home will be superior in such matters as utilization of space, labor-saving equipment, and resistance to heat and cold. It is probable that, once the construction industry gets back to somewhere near normal, prices will rise, and the opportunity now offered us may never be offered again in the future.

FINAL COTTON FIGURES MADE PUBLIC RECENTLY

COLLEGE STATION, Aug. 7.—Reporting that contracts from every cotton county in Texas have been approved and decertified to Washington the State Cotton Board of Review presented this week the final figures in the cotton acreage reduction campaign.

A summary of the certificates of the 223 cotton counties shows a grand total of 236,183 contracts affecting 4,282,723 bales of 478 pounds net weight; 14,126,746 adjusted base acres, and 5,322,368 rented acres. The contracts show that 37.7 per cent of the base acres were rented to the Government. The total rental payments amount to $26,777,280 and the parity payment of one cent per pound will amount to $8,153,513. In most cases the checks for the first rental payment have been received by the farmers. The second rental payment will be made in early fall after the land has been measured and the compliance certificates sent to Washington. The parity payments will be made in December.

In connection with these final figures is of interest to note that Texas has about one-fourth of the cotton counties and one-fourth of the contracts in the United States, representing nearly one-third of the lint, and over one-third of the cotton acreage.

It is generally conceded, Board members declare, that the acreage reduction campaign saved the cotton farmers from again having to sacrifice their cotton at low prices because another big crop in the fact of large world carryover, together with lack of demand, could only have meant disastrous prices. Furthermore, it is pointed out that the benefit and parity payments take the place of crop insurance for the many farmers who will make little or no cotton due to the drought, while the rented acres will supply additional feed for livestock on farms wherever drought did not completely destroy the crops.

LET'S TALK ABOUT CLOTHES

By a "Young Modern" Texas State College for Women (CIA)

DENTON, Aug. 15.—With a whiff of personality that includes a downright interest in "everybody" and everything, a "young modern" with a flair for sports and a sun tanned complexion that is the result of whipping in and out of the water all day, grabs Dame Fashion by the hand and leads her into the daytime styles for late summer.

Dictating that soft, crisp cottons shall be foremost in her choice of fabrics, the modern miss of Texas State College for Women (CIA) in doing so, adds spirit of freshness to usual wadded look of late summer. Silks no longer depict brightness or gaiety, and it is to cottons that the younger generation looks for style.

The daytime silhouette is straight and slim, cut to a close contour with skirt fullness subtly inserted in the form of inverted pleats or flounced from the knee in fluid flares.

Sleeves of simple pattern often set off with cunning little inverted plaits matching those in the skirt add much interest to the sporting ensemble of the young girl. "Dressy" daytime frocks in cotton sheers are showing elbow length sleeves, accentuated by a deep cuff of contrasting material, thus lending a touch of dignity to the entire costume.

Necklines are close and cunning, ruffles issuing forth and spreading about the bodice in a new romantic way. Little collars and bows keep cropping up in contrasting fabrics, colors and in self fabric stitched. Shoulders follow a natural line, with little width shown.

Simplicity is the smart thing, but it takes more than classic simplicity to make true fashions. It's the clever cut and ingenious details united together that express the gaiety and girlish sport that is so palatable a part of the "young moderns."

A Baptist meeting began here Monday night, Rev. Quinn of Carlton is conducting the services. Bro. Quinn was accompanied here by Bro. Shepard Dore, who is assisting in the meeting. We have not fully decided how long the meeting will continue but urge everyone to attend the remaining morning and night services.

After the great to-do about the legislation of bars in the State of New York and permission to sip vertically instead of seated at tables, it seems that many of the hotel bars in town find that their bars are patronized only when all available tables are filled. . . . If there is any moral to the finding, I'd say it is that Americans demand their freedom whether they want to use it or not.

Nobody seems to know what the odds are against the playwright with a new manuscript for Broadway, but the stakes are certainly high. "Dodsworth," eminently successful on Broadway, has been sold to Hollywood for the movie rights at the neat figure of $100,000, or more.

That much criticized satire in Rockefeller Center Plaza is called "Prometheus Unbound" but it is popularly known as "The Man on the Flying Trapeze" because it looks the part. Done in brilliant gold it makes me cringe every time I see it—whether it is "art" or not—for "who am I to say?"

Many of New York's Chinese have moved to Newark, New Jersey—but the sight-seeing buses go blithely on showing the credulous sight-seers the so-called dens of iniquity of New York's Chinatown. I wonder if it wouldn't pay the sight-seeing buses to make up special interests: engineering features of New York for the interested engineer, and so on?

If you're driving in New York, don't ever try to bluff a cab-driver! They have the sturdiest bumpers I've ever seen on passenger cars anywhere. They're meant to be used—and to examine the dents and scratches on them is convincing proof that they are!

When you're scrambling eggs, add a few bread crumbs in the mixing. It changes the flavor a bit and it makes the eggs go much further.

TEXAS CORN-HOG CONTRACTS NOW TOTAL $2,104

COLLEGE STATION, Aug. 7.—County by county figures released this week for the first time by the Corn-Hog Review Board indicate that 32,104 Texas farmers in 228 counties have contracted to participate in the corn-hog reduction program. As cash return for their cooperation $4,895,500 will be coming to these farmers.

The work of the Corn-Hog Review Board was inaugurated by a statewide trip of the Chairman, E. N. Holmgreen, accompanied by F. E. Finley, statistician from the Federal Bureau of Agricultural Economics, meeting county committees and county Extension agents to discuss and explain the contract. After this Mr. Finley remained at College Station and handled the statistical end of the Board's work throughout the entire time. That the work of the county committees has been well done is shown by the fact that when the contracts of the first three Texas counties, Delta, Coryell and Gillespie, reached Washington they were immediately approved and passed for payment.

The Board has now made contract allotments in all but seven counties. Already county committees in 103 counties have made their adjustments within allotments. The movement of county contracts to Washington will proceed rapidly now. Mr. Holmgreen states, and returning checks will be coming right along as the contracts receive final approval and are passed for payment.

The Board's figures show that 222,000 acres have been contracted for $1,129,496, two-thirds of which is immediately payable, the remainder to be paid in November and December.

The quota of hogs raised for market which is the average for the past two years totals 985,073 head. For cutting their production one-fourth farmers will be paid at the rate of $5 per head for the remaining three-fourths. For thus restricting their output to enable consumption to catch up with supply these farmers will be paid $3,694,003, of which two-fifths will be paid in August and the remainder in two payments in December and in February.

Separating eggs is a simple matter when you break them into a small funnel held over a cup or a glass. The whites go through, of course, leaving the unbroken yolks at top.

Sticky, soiled leather on furniture may be best cleaned by rubbing with a piece of cheesecloth moistened with banana oil and following it up with a clean soft cloth.

While long-tailed monsters lived in PENNSYLVANIA

THE Devonian Age of a hundred million years ago was the source of two wonders: vast inland seas—and the crude oil found in the Bradford-Allegheny District of the Pennsylvania field. Sinclair today refines this crude into Sinclair Pennsylvania Motor Oil. Bradford-Allegheny crude is so old that it had already undergone millions of years of its mellowing and filtering process when dinosaurs lived in Pennsylvania. Today it is Pennsylvania's costliest crude—a product of the perfect oil-forming conditions in the Devonian Age plus a hundred million years of Nature's priceless treatment.
