The fair will be on the high school campus and ample room will be given the various booth and agricultural exhibits. The educational booth planned by the Future Farmers will stress those points that trend to advance farming in the most progressive way.

The Future Farmers have found in their farm survey where by improvement can be made at practically no cost to the farmers of this community and it is with this purpose in view they are undertaking the booth. The Future Farmer Boy of this community is not unlike any farm boy. ## Everything Ready For 1934 State Fair Opening Saturday

Dallas, Texas, Oct. 4.—With everything in readiness for a "bigger and better" exposition, Otto Herold, president of the State Fair of Texas, the board of directors, junior board and staff of the exposition was "all set" here for the opening of the 48th annual exposition, next Saturday.

More new features are promised for the State Exposition this year than ever before in its history. With its new quarter million dollar race plant which brings back horse racing to the State Fair for the first time in many years, a new type of show in the auditorium—"The Show of a Century," a huge musical extravaganza, the return to the policy of presenting free entertainment to visitors in the form of sensational outdoor attractions and many other innovations, President Herold has promised the people of Texas an entirely new exposition.

Despite the drastic drought through which the State passed this summer, the Agriculture and Livestock shows bid fair to be better than ever. A complete showing of livestock will be on the grounds throughout the 16 days. The agriculture show will be a recommendation to farm leadership as every county exhibit is from a county where there is stationed a home demonstration agent, a county agent, a vocational agricultural instructor or some agricultural agency which is ready to lend its aid in combatting such conditions as Texas has undergone this year.

The 48th annual exposition will open by celebrating its annual Press Day to which every newspaper editor in Texas is invited. The Press Day program this year includes luncheon at the Baker Hotel, the afternoon at the races, and at night in "The Show of a Century" at the auditorium.

F. F. A. Holds Meeting.

A called meeting of the F. F. A. was held Friday evening, September 21 at 8 p. m. at the High school for the purpose of discussing business of the moment. Twenty-one of the forty-two members were present. They were honored by the presence of one "Dad," Mr. Blakely. The minutes of the previous meeting were read by the secretary, Otis Holliday.

Paul Homer kindly presented the chapter with a hand engraved oval of cedar, in the form of a gavel. The owl, by the way, is the symbol of wisdom. As you all know, the plow is the symbol of labor and the rising sun is the symbol of a new era in agriculture. The official emblem of the F. F. A. is composed of the above symbols encircled by the cross section of an ear of corn.

Other items discussed at this meeting were as follows: The trip to the Dallas Fair was discussed. You parents may be "nagged" quite a bit between now and the time for that trip, but Mr. Lockhart of the local F. F. A. will be under the best of leadership and every precaution will be taken for their safety. As to the financial part of it, there is absolutely no quarter for argument. The Fair will be thrown open to the F. F. A. "The dues paid upon a boys' or girls' admittance to this organization entitle him to every F. F. A. activity. Of course other outside activities will cost something but that is optional to the individual.

A committee was appointed to assist in making plans for the trip. These were Herman Hendrix, W. H. Brown and William Hall. The objectives were adopted which appear in Hico News Review last week and three more were added to the list. These were: To attend some sort of church service each Sunday. To beautify the school campus, and to boost the organization by general advertising.

COTTON REPORT

The cotton census report shows that there were 4099 bales of cotton ginned in Hamilton County from the crop of 1934 prior to Sept. 16.

The report, sent in by W. W. Martin, special agent of the Department of Commerce, failed to show the number of bales ginned to a corresponding date last year, but other figures attainable give last year's yield considerably larger than that of this year.

Leased Blacksmith Shop

A. L. Phillips has leased the blacksmith shop at Elm and Second Streets from T. G. Hughes and has already taken active charge of same.

Mr. Phillips is well experienced in this line of work and invites his friends and customers to bring their general work as he is prepared to do blacksmithing, wood-working and horseshoeing and guarantee all his work.

MUCH BUILDING ACTIVITY REPORTED AMONG OWNERS OF HOMES IN THIS SECTION

Quite an impetus was given home-building and repairing through the example set by the Government's National Housing Act. Of course there is always quite a bit of improvement at this time of the year before winter sets in, but local lumber dealers report greater activity this year than for some time past.

J. W. Richbourg has had the roof torn off his residence, and plans to remodel the complete structure. A new roof will be built, with a pergola porch design, and repainting and repainting will make of it one of the modern residences of Hico.

J. D. Diltz began work this week on the new home and filling station he plans for his property on the new route of Highway 67, two blocks east of the post office. The old home is being razed, and the foundation for the new residence is about complete. When this is done, a new modern filling station will be erected next to the highway.

W. F. Gandy is erecting a new house, to consist of six rooms and a bath, west of his residence near the school house. It is understood that this will be a rent house.

B. B. Gamble is having two new rooms added to his residence in South Hico, near the Baptist Church. Remodeling plans also call for a new modern roof, repainting and repapering.

A new frame building is being added to the Fairy School property, which when completed will accommodate classes in the lower grades.

R. A. HERRINGTON MOVES GROCERY INTO BUILDING VACATED BY BURLESON'S

R. A. Herrington, who has conducted a grocery store in Hico for the past several months, since moving in a stock from the suburban store he ran for some time previous, this week moved his stock of goods into the Storey building, next door to the First National Bank.

Mr. Herrington had an advertisement in this issue of the News Review, inviting his customers to visit him and his sons in his new location and requesting the patronage of those who have not previously been trading with them.

In closing out his store, in the building now occupied by the Herrington Grocery, Mr. Burleson expressed regret that circumstances were such that this action seemed advisable. He was open for his last day's business last Saturday, turning the store over to Mr. Herrington that night.

The Burlesons, since moving to Hico some several years ago, have become established firmly in the business and social life of this section. The estimable family have made many friends, who regret to note the closing of the grocery store, and who hope that Mr. Burleson's health will improve to such an extent that he will look around in this community for some connection which will allow them to remain citizens of Hico.

As yet, Mr. Burleson has no announcement to make as to his future intentions, being intent on regaining his health and enjoying a short vacation before making plans for the future.

BAPTIST CHURCH

The month of September showed up well in all the work. Good attendance, increase in collections, 7 additions, four for baptism. A splendid promotion exercise in the Sunday school last Sunday.

Promotion certificates were awarded and the exercise was very impressive. The Week of Prayer, observed by the W. M. S. climaxed with a very fine Missionary Program at the church Wednesday night.

We lack one thing more. That's you. Hope to see you Sunday.

L. P. THOMAS, Pastor.

Presented in Lecture.

Stephenville, Texas, October 3.—Arthur Wallyn Evans, Welsh humorist, will be presented in a lecture at the first number on the Fairmont College lecture schedule for 1934-35 on Thursday evening, October 11, Dean J. Thomas Davis announced today. The program will begin at 7:30 o'clock.

Antelopes Trample Walnut Springs In Last Friday's Game

Displaying a better brand of football than ever before, the Hico Antelopes soundly trounced the Walnut Springs team, 20 to 0, to win the first conference game of the season.

In the first quarter, a sixty yard run by Bill Rusk put Hico in a scoring position and on the next few plays Smith carried over for the counter. In the same quarter Hico made a drive down the field for their second touchdown. Rusk carried the ball over the line.

Long gains by Lane, Smith, and Rusk in the second period enabled Hico to score its third touchdown.

The second half was cut to ten minutes and neither team had time to show any last minute stuff.

Outstanding for Hico was the brilliant work of the line on both defense and offense.

The starting lineup was as follows: Quarterback, Carroll Smith; halfbacks, Morgan Moon and Durward Lane; fullback, Bill Rusk; ends, Walton Gandy and Jack Hollis; Tackles, Cecil Sikes and A. D. Land; guards, Otho Horton and Otis Holliday; and center, A. L. Hays.

REPORTER.

SECOND-HAND COTTON

Usually when a farmer gets a good yield from one year's planting of cotton, he is satisfied.

But those who have examined a cotton stalk brought in to the News Review office last Saturday by W. E. Alexander are beginning to wonder if it isn't possible to make the fleecy staple come up each year from the old stalk.

Mr. Alexander was showing a stalk of cotton which he plowed under last year, and which had five new bolls on it this year. There were several of these "perennial" cotton plants in his crop this year, according to Mr. Alexander, who says this is the first time he has noticed anything like this since 1877.

He attributes the phenomenon to the mild winter enjoyed through out this section last year.

TO VISIT IN SOUTH TEXAS

Mrs. W. A. Moss and children left Thursday for Tom Ball, Texas, near Houston, where Mr. Moss has been employed finishing a residence for Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Handy. The rock in this house was shipped there from Hico, and the elaborate residence is just about completed. Mr. Moss being called down to put on the finishing touches.

Together with Mr. Moss, Mrs. Moss and the children will also visit at Houston, Galveston and Conroe, while away.

Next Sunday's LESSON

Interpreting the religious experience of the past into rules for today's happy living is, of course, the objective of Sunday School study. Rev. Charles Dunn is ably qualified to present the International Sunday School Lesson, which he does each week for the Hico News Review.

These lessons outline the coming Sunday study. They offer you the opportunity to acquaint yourself with the lesson and perhaps be prepared to offer a helpful thought to the class.

You will find the weekly Sunday School Lesson, by Rev. Dunn, in each issue of the News Review.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK TO BE OBSERVED LOCALLY FROM OCTOBER 7TH TO 13TH

Fire Prevention Week is again at hand. The object of the occasion is to remind the public of the seriousness of the large fire loss of this country, both as to life and property, and bring to the attention of everyone the fact that nearly all of this destruction could be avoided if greater care were taken in the construction of buildings, if litter and rubbish were removed from homes and places of business, if children and grown people were thoroughly educated in the handling of fire and taught the importance of extreme carefulness.

Now, therefore, I, M. A. Cole, Mayor of Hico, Texas, in cooperation with the nationwide movement for the elimination of preventable fires, do hereby designate October 7 to 13, 1934, as Fire Prevention Week in this city.

On those days I ask our civic and commercial organizations, our school officials and teachers, and our citizenship as a whole, to join with the chief of our fire department and our city fire marshal in arranging meetings and exercises for a study of ways and means of preventing fires, as well as to impress the seriousness of the wastage that it causes and the need for utmost care for the protection of life and property.

During Fire Prevention Week I urge that a thorough inspection of the entire city be conducted for the purpose of locating and removing fire hazards, and that the work thus inaugurated be hereafter expanded into a Fire Prevention Year.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I hereunto sign my name and affix my seal of office on this, the 3rd day of October, 1934, A. D.

Attest: J. R. McMillan, City Secretary, Hico, Texas.

M. A. COLE, Mayor.

LUTHER BELL TAKES OVER MANAGEMENT OF TEXACO SERVICE STATION HERE

Luther Bell took over the management of the Texaco Service Station Thursday morning, formerly managed by Howard Rierson, one block west of the post office, and will continue selling all kinds of Texas products.

Mr. Bell has been employed for the past two years as cheese-maker for the Bell Ice & Dairy Products Co., and has made many friends during his residence here.

Besides selling Texas products, Mr. Bell is equipped to fix flats, wash and grease cars, and give other needed service to car owners. He solicits a share of your patronage.

Hico Future Farmers Judge Milk.

Hico Future Farmers are planning to enter milk judging contest to be held at John Tarleton College October 6, at 9:30 a. m. The local chapter will be represented by Bill Nix, Raymond Johnson, C. A. Giesbeck, Wayne Boatwright and Wadley Hampton, who were winners of the contest of the local chapter.

These F. F. A. members will compete with other Future Farmers from thirty-seven or more F. F. A. chapters in Area IV, which is divided into the following districts: Heart of Texas, Center at Rochelle; Brownwood, center at Brownwood; Comanche, center at Comanche; and Brazos Valley, center at Stephenville.

These Future Farmers will also enter milk judging contest at the Dallas Fair, Future Farmers' Day, October 20.

ALL SINGING CLASSES ARE INVITED TO ATTEND THE CLAIRETTE FALL FAIR

Is there anything that the human people enjoy more than to hear some real singing made by real singers? No, there is nothing that is so pleasing to the human ear as the harmonious sounds that are made by singers. Then come to the singing class contest that is to be held at the Clairette Fall Fair.

This is to take place October 13th, the last night of the Free Fall Fair. All singing classes are especially invited to attend the contest. They are all invited to enter the contest for the purpose of winning the prize as well as enjoying the event.

There will be some of the best singers in the country here. The judges are Ernest Ripetto, Charlie Skiles, and Charlie Nichols. These men are of experience in the singing world, and are capable of judging the contest.

The entry fee will be 50c for each class. The winner will get half of the purse that is taken in for the entry fees. The more entries, the more that is won by the winning class, so urge that lots of classes enter this event.

Erathian Kills Son And Wife Before Ending Own Life

Three persons were killed in what officers said was a plain case of double murder and suicide in the Johnsville community, ten miles north of Hico Saturday night.

The wife and 4-year-old son of Jess Salter, 40, highway maintenance operator, were found shot to death at their home and shortly afterward Salter was found dead at the home of a neighbor with a shotgun and pistol lying beside him.

Neighbors notified John Wright, City Marshal, and Jess Brooks, Constable, after hearing shots at the Salter home. When they approached the house their calls brought no response, but as they started to leave they found the body of Mrs. Salter, 29, and her son lying in the yard. Both bodies were wet, apparently having been drenched with water when their clothing was set afire by charges at close range from a shotgun. The little boy had been shot twice through the heart. Mrs. Salter had been shot through the cheek, in the abdomen and through the heart.

Find Car With Motor Running.

Brooks and Wright then went to the house of Odell Wright, nearby, where they found Salter's automobile, with motor still running, parked at the front gate.

Salter's body lay in the yard of the Wright home and Mrs. Wright told them Salter came there looking for her husband. She said she hid under the house when he approached but he threatened her with the shotgun and told her he would kill her if she did not reveal her husband's whereabouts.

Mrs. Wright said when she told Salter she did not know where her husband was, he fired both barrels of the shotgun through the front door of the Wright home, then fired a pistol through his own forehead.

Son Hides Behind Tree.

Another son of Salter, 9 years old, who hid behind a tree when his father began shooting was suffering from excitement and shock and was unable to relate what occurred at the Salter home.

Salter was a World War veteran and neighbors said he had suffered an attack of mental derangement, which was attributed to shell shock.

Constable Brooks found three notes on Salter, which expressed regret that he didn't kill some of the other neighbors. One of the notes said: "They have stole me crazy."

City Marshal Wright and Constable Brooks said a Coroner's inquest might be held later, but that they thought it hardly necessary.

No Motive for Shooting.

Neighbors and friends of the family said Salter had been regularly employed for some months on highway work and they had heard him say nothing which would have indicated a motive for the shooting.

Mrs. Salter married Salter about six years ago after her first husband, Slim Johnson, was shot accidentally seven years ago and died in a Breckenridge hospital.

Funeral services for the three victims were held Monday at Johnsville. A. B. Cox, cousin of the woman, arranged that she and the child should be buried in the same casket.

I MISS YOU SO

By Ida Minus Clay
I miss you so, since you have gone away
To that Beyond where all is well for aye;
And I am left to carry on below
Without you dear, the going's drear and slow
Through ups and downs I meet from day to day.

In retrospect, I see our work is play,
For Love accomplished tasks in this survey;
But since the Master wrought the poignant blow
I miss you so!

When I am weary now, no one to say
The words I crave to brighten life that's gray;
Yet if I ask in faith, He will bestow
Just what I need to strengthen me; but oh,
The aching void within my heart will stay—
I miss you so!

Celery seems to have come to Maverick county as a permanent crop. F. O. Weylich has five acres in fine condition and compares favorably with that grown as a demonstration last year by Theodore Katakalis.

Keeping Up With
TEXAS

His spine severed by a buzz saw Tuesday, E. V. Cruse of San Antonio was dead Wednesday. Cruse was sawing wood in his yard when the saw belt slipped and hurled him into its whirling teeth.

The bullet riddled bodies of Homer Dobbs, 32, and Vergil Dobbs, 16, brothers, from San Juan were found in a pasture near Alice Wednesday and about $200 they were believed to have carried was missing. The men apparently were slain shortly after midnight Tuesday as they returned from San Antonio where they sold a truck load of vegetables.

President Roosevelt does not plan an increase of cattle purchases in the drought areas beyond the original program which called for the buying of 7,000,000 head. He said a report to the executive council showed that 6,074,808 cattle had been purchased up to Sept. 24 in the drought regions, leaving less than 1,000,000 still to be bought.

Victim of a fall from a wagon drawn by mules frightened by the sneezing of one of her sons, Mrs. Susie Kincaid, 49, of Oran, was buried in the Community Cemetery Wednesday. Mrs. Kincaid and her sons started home after driving to opening exercises of the Oran school. When one of the sons sneezed the animals bolted and one of the boys leaped from the wagon. The woman either jumped or fell from the wagon and when the team was finally stopped the sons found her in a semiconscious condition. She died shortly afterward.

J. C. Ragsdale, Palestine farmer, Wednesday had the corroboration of Philadelphia and Washington wild recently in his chicken house was one of the rarest ever found in Texas—the stinger species. Zoo experts, recalling that the only previous stinger found in this State was discovered at Coleman three years ago, said the species ranks next to the king cobra as one of most venomous. The farmer, finding the snake attacking his chickens by means of a stinger on its tail, killed the intruder and placed it in alcohol. The specimen was sent east for examination.

Texas' love for roses and development of the flowers were recognized by Gov. Mirian A. Ferguson Wednesday when she proclaimed the week of Oct. 7 to 13 as rose week. The proclamation recognized Tyler's second annual rose festival, which will be held Oct. 11 and 12. In her proclamation Governor Ferguson pointed out that the growth of propagation of roses have become a vital factor in the economic life of Texas. East Texas last year produced more than a third of the nation's rose bushes.

The Texas game, fish and oyster commission Monday fixed a shooting season of three days a week, from Oct. 26 to Dec. 30, for ducks and other migratory water fowl. Shooting days will be Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays. The season conformed with federal regulations. Authority for the commission to prescribe the season was granted by an act passed at the recent special session of the legislature. Bag limits set were: Ducks, 12 of all kinds, but not more than an aggregate of five of either elder, canvasback, red-head, greater scaup, lesser scaup, ring-neck, blue-wing teal, green-wing teal, cinnamon teal, shoveler and gadwall; geese and brant, four; coot, 25; Wilson and jack snipe, 20. Possession was limited to two days' quota of any variety. Hunting hours will be from sunrise to sunset.

Tarleton Football Game.

Stephenville, Texas, October 4.—Daniel Baker Hill Billies will play the Tarleton Plowboys here in the Plowboys' third game of the season Friday night. The game will begin at 8 o'clock.

The Hill-Billy-Plowboy contest is generally expected to be a hot one. Last year the two teams did not meet. In 1932 the Hill Billies scored 10 to the Plowboys' 9 in an exciting contest at Brownwood the year before the Tarletonites won by 13 to 7 at Stephenville. If skipping a year's play has not upset the teams' equilibrium, the Plowboys are slated to win the 1934 game on their home field.

Coach W. J. Wisdom today refused to offer opinions about the outcome.

A beautiful butterfly drill was put on between the first and second act and it certainly was beautiful. Paul Patterson sang two songs. Miss Dorothy Jack Weeks tap danced. Mrs. Coleman Newman gave a reading, all of which was fine and enjoyed by all. The play was sponsored by the P. T. A. and each one acted their parts fine. The sum of $23 was taken in which will be used in the school. The drill was put on by little girls and they certainly did fine.

Weds Hico Boy.
Miss Francis Bryant and Robert Doty were married September 30th by Rev. Jackson at the home of the bride's parents. Rev. and Mrs. Bryant of Fairview community. Mrs. Doty is well known here as she was in school here and has many friends. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Doty of Hico and is also known here. The wedding was very different to most of them as to the time, the sun was coming up over the eastern horizon when Rev. Jackson spoke the words that made them man and wife and made them happy. As the new Sabbath day was being ushered in by the rising of the sun so Rev. Jackson pronounced the words. As the beautiful sun arose on this Sabbath morning to flood the earth with warmth, light and beauty may the lives of these two bring joy, peace and happiness to all around them. Their new lives started with the rising of the sun and may their lives be bright and beautiful as the day was, is the wish of their friends.

THE LINDBERGH CASE

The general rejoicing that at least a partial solution has been found to the mystery of the kidnapping and murder of the little Lindbergh boy is, we believe, shared by everybody.

No crime that we can remember, short of the assassination of President McKinley, ever aroused such wide-spread horror and indignation as the stealing of the famous aviator's only child from his crib. And the horror was multiplied when, more than two months later the poor baby's body was found in the woods near the Lindbergh's home, exposed for crows to peck at, reduced to a pitiful little skeleton by the work of insects and the elements.

The elemental sense of justice which dominates every sane human being will be satisfied with nothing less than the swift conviction and equally swift punishment of the kidnapers and murderers, whether one man or a dozen. Yet we do not believe that even such fiefs should be convicted on anything but completely conclusive evidence. If there is a single reasonable doubt of their guilt, they should be given the benefit of it.

So far we have nothing but the newspaper reports on which to base a belief as to the guilt or innocence of the man who has been arrested. Undoubtedly accurate as far as they go, these reports probably do not tell the whole story of the evidence which the authorities have up their sleeve. Nor do we understand that the case against Bruno Hauptmann is yet so complete that there is no question of his guilt.

Nothing is more to be deplored than "mob law." It is a natural human impulse to desire to take a hand in administering summary justice for crimes which revolt every normal human instinct. We hope that there will be no legal technicalities permitted to interfere with bringing out the whole truth in this case; and we hope, even more devoutly, that there will be no attempt at an encouragement of lynch law.

HOW MANY TAXES DO YOU PAY?

We think the famous firm of cough-drop manufacturers who put a big placard in their window pointing out how many different sorts of taxes they have to pay—and of course, have to pass on to the buyers of cough drops or vice go out of business—are doing a real public service in calling the public's attention to the layers upon layers of tax burdens which all of us are groaning under.

Here is the list. Federal income tax; Federal excess profits tax; city tax; county tax; state tax; automobile license taxes; Federal oil tax; telephone tax; check tax; Federal capital stock tax; state franchise tax; city, county and state taxes on plant in another state; Federal gasoline tax; state gasoline tax; telegraph tax; tax for Code Administration; processing taxes on six different agricultural items that enter into their products; state of Indiana tax on foreign corporation; state of Oregon tax on gross receipts; state of Washington tax on gross receipts. "We do our part," remarks the placard. We think everybody will agree that they do.

Nothing could be more desirable than to have every man and woman become "tax-conscious." Of course, taxes must be paid; but we think it would be a good thing for those who pay them to realize that they are paying them. It might make the average man a little more cautious about voting for local improvements which are bound to add to his tax burden; a little less enthusiastic for state and Federal programs of huge expenditures of doubtful benefit to the ordinary citizen.

If every tenant realized that he is paying the landlord's taxes, every bridge player understood that he is paying ten cent stax whenever he buys a ney pack of cards, every cigarette smoker remembered that six cents out of what he pays for his pack of twenty cigarettes goes to the Government for taxes, we might not be so reckless about piling up the tax burden.

From the Editor of The American Boy

During the coming year, the boys of America will get a half-fare rate to adventure and fun! THE AMERICAN BOY—YOUTH'S COMPANION, the nation's leading magazine for boys, formerly $2.00 a year, now costs $1.00. A three-year subscription, previously $3.50 costs only $2.00.

Griffith Ogden Ellis, editor of THE AMERICAN BOY, brings boys the hearty assurance that the new prices will in no way affect the editorial contents of the magazine. It will be as large, as beautifully printed, as full of high-spirited adventure as ever.

"THE AMERICAN BOY'S leadership has been no accident," Mr. Ellis states. "We publish the magazine on the firm belief that boys deserve a magazine as good as any publication for grown-ups. So we use the best illustrators obtainable—well-known artists who work for the biggest magazines. We send our staff writers all over the country digging up the interesting facts of science, interviewing world-famous explorers, talking to coaches and athletes.

"We encourage and assist our writers to go everywhere for material—to Haiti, Africa, the South Seas, China—and bring back adventure for American boys. We hire experts on hobbies and boy problems to advise boys and young men. These steps account for our position as the quality magazine for boys, and we shall continue to take them."

Twelve issues of fun and excitement for $1.00! Three years for $2.00! Spread the news among your friends—and send your own subscription direct to THE AMERICAN BOY, 7430 Second Blvd., Detroit, Mich. Service on your subscription will start with the issue you specify.

PURCHASING POWER SHOWN IN CLOTHING FIGURES BY MID-YEAR SURVEY

COLLEGE STATION—Average annual expenditure of $32.01 per person this year as compared to $25.36 last year was revealed by figures compiled from the records of 700 farm women who served as wardrobe demonstrators working under the supervision of home demonstration agents in 51 Texas counties according to a statement issued here by Mrs. Dora R. Barnes, Extension clothing specialist. These 700 women kept complete and accurate accounts of their individual clothing expenditures for one year.

Figures of 155 farm women from 41 counties who kept clothing accounts for their entire families show an average annual expenditure per family of $88.32 as compared to an average of $76.17 spent the year before. These families contained 557 persons, making the average expenditure per person $24.95. The figure for last year was $21.73.

"These figures probably reflect the added buying power of the farm family," Mrs. Barnes said. "All the way through they show a definite gain. We know that many things have to be bought on farms before clothing is considered so when we find the records of the wardrobe demonstrators of home demonstration clubs consistently showing increased expenditures for clothing for themselves and families it seems a safe sign that 'times are better' on Texas farms," she said.

In Dallas county 346 4-H club girls kept clothing records from September 1, 1933 to June 1, 1934 which indicated an average expenditure of $30.18 for the nine months. It is estimated that for the year the expenditure would be $40.24 per girl. As a part of their club work 294 of these girls made 2,240 garments which were valued at $2,368.60.

A. J. Hoff who runs a small country store in Ander, Goliad county, told the farm demonstration agent. "The cotton program is bringing results. Several accounts on my books which had run up to $150 and $200 and gone unpaid for a long time have this year been paid in full. I am in favor of regulator production until everything is normal again."

LET'S TALK ABOUT CLOTHES

By a "Young Modern"

DENTON, Oct. 2.—Are you tired and just a bit weary from the effects of your summer vacation? Aren't you in need of something to restore that old vim to your personality?

With the openings of colleges and universities throughout the United States, fashion points to the college girl for the latest trends, and "young moderns" at Texas State College for Women (CIA) prescribe deep-headed dresses to add luster to your charms and bring back some of your former spirit.

Greens, reds, blues and rust-colored frocks are most essential for fall in bringing certain magnetism to your individual personality. They conjure back the ravishing little things of beauty in your features. Then, too, reflecting in your face, the colors challenge to the surface of your skin all your latent loveliness.

The colors most popular this fall are more dynamic, more life-giving than shades have ever been before. There's an extra tinge to the browns, a golden glow to some for blondes, a deep red background exquisite for true brunettes, and a delicate mid-shade for the girl with deep brown eyes. The crimson are a little gay and scornful, the duller reds, ravishing in their pretentious quiet, with greens and rusts warm and eager for life. Then there is a dull blue for evening that combines the aloofness of black with the warm rich gleam of satin.

Select your colors to glorify a single feature. Let them denote the sweeping restlessness of fall as fashion swings from sober black to the colors that set off your sparkling youthfulness, attractiveness and gaiety.

REVIVAL IN BUILDING INEVITABLE

In a recent article in the Analyst, Walter Renton Ingalls says that the nation's residential building between 1920 and 1929 was not in excess of requirements. Even though the high average total of 5,000,000 new residences were erected each year, changes in population density, increases in the total population, and obsolescence of old dwellings, prevented overproduction of housing.

Since 1929, residential building has dropped from 5,000,000 homes a year, to less than 1,000,000. The shortage is especially acute in rural districts, inasmuch as depression forced an exodus from

4-H CLUB NEWS

Plucky Arkansas Lad

So many folks have poked fun at Arkansas for its "easy goin'" ways that one would expect it to be the last place to find up-and-coming boys and girls. But it isn't. There are nearly 25,000 of them wide-awake enough to enroll in 4-H club work and carry on a full program of economic and recreational activities. Many of them have made records which have attracted wide attention in their state, and far beyond its boundaries.

One of their boys has just been graduated from the state university with exceptional honors. He earned them while making his own way through, and with the aid of loans available to such youth. The young man is Celma R. Gilliland, a native of White County, Arkansas. He stepped out of his cap and gown and went to work, expecting to repay his loans within a year. There is nothing "easy going" about such a boy.

While in the university he was elected a member of "Who's Who," numbering only 24 members, and was taken into a very select group of agricultural men, and the honorary "ag" fraternity, Alpha Zeta. He was also made a charter member of the Wesley Players, a religious dramatic fraternity, and also of Alpha Gamma Rho, a social fraternity. He made a perfect attendance as president of the young people's group in the Fayetteville Methodist Church. He was chairman of the committee which founded the University Co-operative 4-H Home.

In his native county his 4-H club record is full of achievements, including trips to national club events at Kansas City, Chicago and Washington, D. C. He was honored with the office of president of the White county council.

Sunday School Lesson

by Rev. Charles E. Dunn

Fellowship with Christ. Lesson for October 7th. John 15. Golden Text: John 15:4.

This is the first of a series of studies in the Christian life. The chapter chosen for the lesson, John 15, belongs to that sublime section of the gospel devoted to the discourses of the Master at the Last Supper. It begins with the wonderful allegory of the vine and the branches. Here we have a clear picture of the roots and fruits of the Christian vocation.

One of the key phrases in this eloquent passage is "Abide in me." (vs. 4) Do we abide in Christ? Is He our living room? Prof. Lucock, of Yale, reminds us of the parlor of a typical old-time New England dwelling, with its shut windows, drawn shades, and horehair furniture covered with crocheted dollies. The wall paper and carpet were in hideous taste, and the gold clock was utterly unable to keep time. This stuffy room was reserved for painful occasions such as a funeral or a minister's call. No one actually lived there. Now it is the business of religion to take us out of such a stifling parlor into the living room where Christ dwells. And what a spacious, attractive chamber it is, large and hospitable enough to harbor every person of generous impulses and spiritually-minded aspiration! There is nothing narrow or confining about fellowship with the Master. But how shall we enter this appealing room? Well, like all compartments, it has a door. The door stands between Christ and the human soul. Open it, enter in, and the avour and your own heart will abide together in the gracious abode of God's truth and love. And from this comradeship there will blossom rich fruit. "He that abideth in me, and I in him, the same beareth much fruit." This is the explanation of the magnificent success of Sir Wilfred Grenfell in Labrador, of Albert Schweitzer in equatorial Africa, of Toyohiko Kagawa in the slums of Kobe, and of Frank N. D. Buchman, the founder of the Oxford Group Movement, in reclaiming the lost. We can share in their reward.

THE BOOK

the first line of which reads, "The Holy Bible," and which contains Four Great Treasures

by BRUCE BARTON

THE FIRST CHURCH TRIAL

A strange thing had happened at Jerusalem. The brothers of Jesus had not believed in Him during His ministry, and at one time thought Him insane, but after His death they became loyal converts. Two of them, Jude and James, wrote short books, which are in the New Testament, and James went to Jerusalem and became very active in the church there. He was a "just man," a phrase that had been used of his father Joseph. It is said that his knees became calloused like those of a camel through his long periods of prayer. He was the head of the conservative faction, and Peter was at first of the same persuasion. James, by reason of his brotherhood to Jesus, had risen above Peter in Jerusalem, and he it was who presided over the first heresy trial in church history—the trial of Paul and Barnabas for baptizing Gentiles without insisting that they conform to the whole Jewish ritual.

It was a decidedly surprising experience for Paul. He had sat in Jerusalem as one of the seventy members of the Sanhedrin, the supreme court of the nation. Now he found himself back in the same city before Peter and James and John in positions not unlike that which he had occupied. He saw "those that were reputed to be somebody," as he rather loftily described them, and said, "whatsoever they were it maketh no matter to me." All the same, he cared greatly for their good-will and the effect of their endorsement.

The story is told in the fifteenth chapter of Acts, one of the great documents in the history of the liberation of the human spirit. Paul's accusers presented their case, and Paul and Barnabas replied, and after a long debate a compromise was arrived at. The church in Jerusalem, consisting entirely of Jews, would stand firm for the old fundamentals, but the churches abroad, being Gentile, might follow a more liberal faith. At the suggestion of James a letter was sent out to the Gentile brethren in the churches which Paul had organized: Forasmuch as we have heard, that certain which went out from us have troubled you with words subverting your souls, saying, Ye must be circumcised, and keep the law; to whom we gave no such commandment: For it seemed good to the Holy Ghost, and to us, to lay upon you no greater burden than these necessary things: That ye abstain from meat offered to idols, and from things strangled, and from fornication; from which if ye keep yourselves, ye shall do well. Fare ye well.

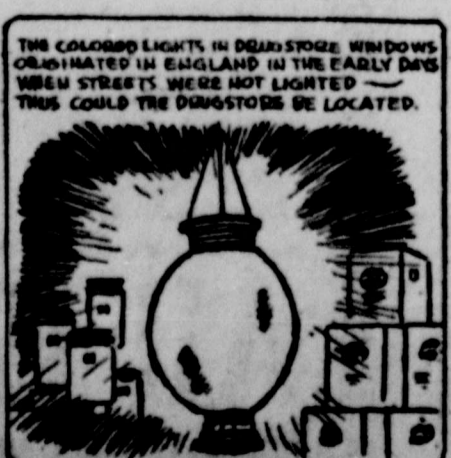

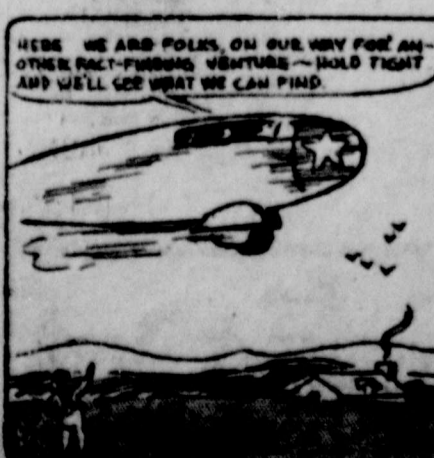

THE FAMILY DOCTOR

ABUSE OF X-RAY

The X-ray is one of our finest most accurate, diagnostic instruments. Not only does it require a machine that is technically perfect—it must have an operator who knows anatomy and pathology, and who knows a good picture from a bad one, and what each light and shadow of the negative signifies. Any organization, quack or otherwise, can now buy X-ray instruments. Manufacturers do not, as a rule, inquire into the ethical character of cash customers. Most all charlatans advertise the X-ray as part of their equipment—operated by an expert who is connected with our staff of specialists.

In this way thousands of victims are fleeced annually, out of various sums from $5 up to X-ray pictures that are absolutely valueless, because taken by men who are not capable diagnosticians. Most of these fellows insist on keeping the X-ray pictures that are made in their dens; they do not want any critics to inspect their work, and the liability of damage suits makes them doubly cautious. If you, dear reader, should be so situated that you need X-ray pictures for diagnosing your case, go to a real physician, who will not victimize you. You will be safer to stay away from the advertising quack who collects in advance, and refuses to give you the developed film that you pay for.

Japanese Tea Given at Methodist Church Monday

The opening or beginning of the study class of the Woman's Missionary Society on "Seizeki Looks at Japan" was characterized by a Japanese tea at the Methodist Church at 3 p. m. Monday afternoon, October 1st. Mrs. Lusk Rands is Study Superintendent and leader in the W. M. S.

The East wing of the church was converted into a veritable Japanese garden with its multitude of flowers and scenes. Four large posters, two of Mt. Fuji (one being in color the other in black and white) a Buddhist Temple, and a color photograph of a Japanese lady a map of Japan and huge Japanese fans were surrounded by plum and cherry branches blossoming forth in great profusion. Vases of vari-colored zennias and golden glow cosmos added much to the color array. A table covered with a cloth embroidered with Japanese umbrellas in colors was also an object of interest on which Japanese articles were displayed and a book on Little Japanese proved of interest.

The opening hymn was "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name" and Mrs. Ragsdale gave a short preview of the book, explaining the purpose of the study and giving valuable statistics regarding Japan such as items of population, climate, etc., and stating the book was written about the "ordinary" people of Japan, the Suzekis being an imaginary household embracing all Japanese characteristics, the name Suzeki being a name as common in Japan as Smith or Jones in America and representing the ordinary run of the people of Japan.

This talk was followed by the entrance into the study room of Mrs. Suzeki herself, Miss Wilena Purcell in Japanese costume, and the foreigners on Japanese soil represented by Mrs. Cunningham who entered into a very delightful conversation on the customs and family life of the Japanese people, giving details very graphically.

At the close of this dialogue Mrs. Rands announced the hymn "In the Cross," Kagawa's favorite hymn, which was sung by the group, and Mrs. Blair led in the devotional, taking as her theme, "Wonderful Words of Life." John 10:10, stressing the fact that mental, physical and spiritual development are all necessary in the service of the Master, closing the devotional with the prayer for Japanese women by Mrs. Cunningham.

Japanese men, with their slanting eyes and short kimono coats announced the opening of the "Japanese Study Club" and tea and cookies were served as is a custom in Japan after a religious service, plate favors being clusters of queen's wreath blossoms with leaves which further accented the Japanese idea of beauty.

Those present were: Mrs. Lusk Rands, Mrs. S. E. Blair, Mrs. W. P. Cunningham, Miss Wilena Purcell, Mrs. R. R. Alexander, Mrs. E. H. Persons, Mrs. Mary Eakins, Mrs. M. A. Cole, Miss Rosalie Eakins, Mrs. George Stringer, Mrs. Annie Waggoner, Mrs. John Haines, Mrs. Dellis Seago, Mrs. B.

SYNOPSIS—Three weeks after a cream colored roadster had been found wrecked in the sea at the foot of a cliff, a girl calling herself Anne Cushing appears at the desert town Marston. Later she marries Barry Duane. Her life is complicated by rumors about her past life which she has kept secret. This secrecy eventually leads to her separation with Barry, after they return West. John Gage, wealthy mill owner, and his wife visit the Duanes at their ranch. Cleo Pennington, in love with Barry, joins them. Jim Kennedy, a part of Anne's past, appears and says he has business at Barry's ranch. Anne follows him to warn Paula Gage. Paula becomes hysterical on hearing Anne's voice.

"Paula! Please! It's Nancy!" Paula! Again that low cry came, the ghost of a voice, calling to her. Pale hands beckoned, reaching out to drag her unwilling body down there, to black, shining water, cold and greedy. For another moment of gasping terror she endured it, and then her frantic shrieks came. "Oh, no, no! I can't come, Nancy. I can't. I'll tell, I'll make it right for you. I didn't mean it—I didn't!"

On the upper road walking animals tumbled into a run. Some distance back along the road to Marston, Petry straightened up from his inspection of the ditched and jumbled wreckage of an old black car. Listened once more for that thin sound of terror and jumped for his wheel. Nearer to the house Jim Kennedy, five minutes too late, dodged back among the trees and cursed under his breath.

"Paula, don't be frightened! Don't scream. It is Nancy. I've come to warn you. Jim is here. Paula, don't you know me?" "No—no, Nancy's dead! She's under the water—I see her all the time—and it washes over her eyes. Oh, God!"

She screamed again. The pounding horses were at the top of the slope, and Barry flung himself off and raced down, with Gage running heavily after him. A slim figure was backing away, turning, running, but Paula Gage was huddled in a terrified heap at the foot of a tree.

Barry bent over her and jerked his head up again. Nancy was just disappearing. She had looked at him, for one long, steady moment, and had turned her back on him. As though they were two hostile strangers. Knowledge crashed and clamored in his brain. He bent reluctantly over the huddled woman, but Gage was beside him now.

"John, Nancy's down there! She came out of the water! I can't go, I'm afraid! I only asked her to go away! I didn't mean her to die! And Jim—Jim—"

Overstrained emotions cracked. Paula fainted. "We'd better take her into the house," said Barry constrainedly. He wanted to go after Nancy. These incredible revelations were clamoring in his head; they were accusing him. Now he saw Petry's long legs hastening toward them. "Petry, help Mrs. Gage up to the house. I'll be back as soon as I can."

His nervous stride quickened to a run. Gage looked heavily after him. Barry ran along the edge of the lake, his eyes darting anxiously. Toward the back of the house he swerved and caught sight of a flitting figure.

"Nancy, wait! Just for a minute. She paused in mid flight, looked back just once and went on again. The light figure vanished around the edge of an outbuilding. Long before he reached it Barry heard the scurry of hoofs and saw a piebald streak flash across an open space. Nancy had gone.

He took it standing, but his face whitened. Nancy had made it pretty plain that she didn't want to see him, just the set of her chin as she had flashed across that patch of light had been enough to tell him that. He set his jaw and went back to the house.

Back of him Jim Kennedy edged cautiously around toward the smaller corral, where two saddled horses, left to themselves, had wandered back to wait patiently. In the house Barry found that Paula had regained consciousness. Petry had just edged out, and Gage was standing a little away from her.

"She's gone," said Barry briefly. "Was it—really Nancy?" Paula raised herself on one hand. "Is she alive? I didn't kill her? I mean—I—"

She broke off with a frightened whimper. "We'll finish this—presently," was all the reply he gave her. He turned a heavy stare on Barry. "I'd like a few words with my wife in private."

"I'm staying. We'll finish it here. It's my business as well as yours. Nancy is my wife—and you can keep your spur and your damned money, but I want to know what you've all been doing to her."

Gage glared at him. "And what have you been doing to her? The girl I saw out there is Mrs. Gage's sister, who is supposed to have been drowned five months ago, and if she is your wife why isn't she in our house, instead of wandering around in the woods like a demented woman?"

Barry whitened. "I'm beginning to think that she has had enough to drive anybody insane. I've done my own share, and I'm paying for it. But the jam that we're in now is due to something that happened here I met her—it's due to you, or one of you. And that damned Kennedy—"

He hit it off suddenly, but Gage caught the name up. "Kennedy! It always comes back to this Kennedy." He turned back to Paula.

"You'd better tell us all of it," he said evenly. "What do you know about Jim Kennedy?" "He was my husband. I'd divorced him a year before I met you."

"Go on," he said curtly. "I was awfully young when I married him. We were poor and lived in a little town. He was there only a few days, and when he went I'd married him. And then I found out that he was just a gambler, and we began traveling all over the country—and I left him and got the divorce. I never saw him again until last May. And then I got a letter from him, from Tia Juana. He said the divorce wasn't legal—and I was so frightened, because that meant that I wasn't really married to you. But it wasn't true at all—I found it out later."

Gage's jaw muscles ridged visibly at the mention of illegal divorce, but he went on implacably. "Which one of you met him at the beach bungalow, you or Nancy?"

"I—I met him. I'd sent a telegram to Nancy. I thought it would be better if she saw him—he always liked Nancy. But she didn't get the telegram in time. And I went down myself. I had some money for him. He'd said he'd tell you about the divorce—and I didn't dare let him do that! John—it was because I loved you so!"

"And who—who shot Kennedy?" "I did. It was a mere thread of sound. 'I didn't mean to. I was afraid of him, because he was so angry with me. I took the gun with me to frighten him. And—he just laughed and tried to take it from me, and it went off."

A deep shudder ran over her. "He looked so queer, and Nancy came running down the beach and snatched the gun and told me to go back to the house. And I did. I didn't know what was happening until Nancy came back and told me that you had found her there and that you thought she was—Jim's wife. And I begged her to go away, so that you couldn't question her any more, and it needn't ever come out that either of us had seen Jim that night, and if it did it wasn't murder. It was self-defense. I made her take the money that I'd brought for Jim—in case she went away—and she ran out. I heard the car start. And the next morning they told me that she'd driven it over a cliff—down on the rocks—with the tide in."

Gage's mouth was a thin line, but he drove his hands down into his pockets and looked away from her. "I suppose I'd better tell you the rest, as far as I know it. I'd been upstate on a business trip—drove myself and found that I could get back late that night. I heard something that sounded like a shot, down toward the beach. I have a beach bungalow there, but the main house is back up on the hill. I knew the bungalow was closed, but I caught sight of Nan-cy's roadster with nobody in it, so I thought I'd better investigate. I reached the bungalow just in time to find Nancy leaning over some man on the ground, with a gun in her hand I saw him trying to lift himself and heard him give a nasty laugh and say! 'Just a little present from my loving wife!' and drop back again."

"It looked pretty bad. I shot a question or two at Nancy, but she just stared at me and looked down again at the man and said yes, he was her husband. Nobody else seemed to have heard the shot so I told her that because she was Paula's sister I'd do what I could to hush it up, and I didn't want Paula in any way mixed up in it."

John Gage's strong face twitched. "She didn't say much, poor kid but she looked sort of desperate, and she stayed until I had made sure the fellow was dead and then she marched away without a word. 'It looked like murder to me and all I was interested in just then was in getting the evidence as far away as possible. I got him into the back of my car and drove like the devil, and left him on the outskirts of a town miles away. I still thought he was dead. Anyway, when I got back home Nancy was gone and the papers were full of the accident. They said it was the fog. I always thought it was suicide."

He paused and added gruffly: "She'd done some good bits on the stage. Working herself up. And she'd just landed a contract out in Hollywood, a pretty good one for a newcomer. She was to sign the next day. Chucked it all up."

There was a shuddering sound from the couch. Paula looked most dreadfully up and dropped again. Barry felt moved to a reluctant compassion. He couldn't stand it any longer. He was going down to Trail's End. A hovering shadow in the rear hall resolved itself into Petry. He looked nervous—for Petry.

"Thought you ought to know that someone's been around here. There's a ditched car a piece down the road and one of the horses is gone, the big roan Mr. Gage was riding. I know the car license. It belongs to a fella who's been staying in' at the hotel in Marston. Kind of a daredevil lookin' bird, dark complexioned."

Kennedy! Barry felt a little chill at the thought of Nancy, somewhere along the lonely road, and this man with his dark grudges roaming loose.

There was a sound behind him. Gage had come back. There was an envelope in his hand. He had started to open it, but he put it back in his pocket.

"What's the matter?" "Kennedy's around. He has just gone off with one of the horses. Wrecked his car down the road. I'm starting for Trail's End."

"I'm going with you." At the end of the passage leading to the kitchen Martha appeared. Her mouth was set primly, but her eyes had a snapping brightness.

"Ling says there's a kind of funny pounding going on in the garage. Who's out there, Boone?" "My gosh! Boone forgot the lady! Miss Cleo—she rode in with me."

"What the devil is she doing in the garage?" "Well, you see, Barry, comin' back up the road I heard somebody scream and I just shot the car straight into the garage and bolted out to see if I could do anything and I plumb forgot everything else on earth. I musta been so excited that I give the door a slam after me, and that bar drops awful easy. Gets kinda second nature to shut that door, Martha, you let the lady out, won't you?"

"I guess I'd better, Boone." The car roared down to Trail's End. There was no one there. Gage said little, but his deliberate gaze roamed curiously around the shabby little place where Paula's sister had come to hide. He read his letter, looked grim over it.

School Spirit.

I desire to make my bow to The Mirror. The idea of contributing to your high school paper was prompted by a recent comment of one of your editorials in which it was suggested that the paper might be made more than a scandal sheet. Since you have such a high purpose in mind, I desire to be an occasional contributor.

This time allow me to talk about "school spirit." As you see most of my contribution is a question from The American School Board Journal of September.

Often students think faculty members fail to support school activities as they should, and that they should be at all athletic contests and yell like wild Indians. The same student is likely to have a misconception as to the purpose of courses in English, history or mathematics. Students are not mature enough to understand the underlying purposes of education. Furthermore, many teachers do not have a clear understanding of the fundamental principle of education. But there are some things about our school which all of us can clearly see through. One of these is the fact that we could not have schools unless our parents paid taxes to make them possible. Another thing we can see is that teachers have other things to do besides attend athletic contests and social gatherings. A student may drop his work and run to a party, or go to a ball game or to a circus, but teachers can not do so. They must "keep the show going" and are seldom found out of place when work time arrives. A third thing we all can readily see is that teachers made possible the carrying on of class work, assembly programs, all ball games, of all sorts by acting as sponsors, and, in some cases seeing that the bill is paid. If it were not for your teachers you probably could not have a football team because no business house would sell you your suits on time and take the risk of not getting the money. I must stop before I write too much. Clip this quotation from the paper and keep it where you can read it occasionally. Next time I want to write about athletics.

"Perhaps nothing about school is more talked or written about than this so-called 'school spirit.' All schools are all the time wondering about their school spirit, and it is well that they should. In general there are two kinds of school spirit: (1) noise and enthusiasm in connection with the interscholastic activities, and (2) the general morale of the entire school which may not express itself at all in noise-making. In fact, it is often just the opposite. School spirit in this broader sense does not pertain altogether to extra-curricular activities. Years ago before there were any of these activities, there were schools which ranked high in morale and spirit. School spirit includes one's general attitude toward his school, faculty, and fellow students. How unselfish is this attitude? How much of his own pleasure and ambition is he willing to sacrifice in order that his club or his team or his school may benefit? From one viewpoint school spirit is a matter of working together to make a better school; from another, it is a matter of pride in the accomplishment of the school; from still another viewpoint is a matter of willingness to give of oneself to the group or to the school. This is the same spirit that makes a good community or a great nation. Several years ago a student and faculty committee in this school worked out the following standards under 'sportsmanship and school spirit':

In contests, does he win without becoming unduly conceited? Does he lose without becoming grouchy or giving alibis? Does he take a penalty gracefully? or at least appeal his case courteously? Does he treat his opponents with courtesy? Does he do his best, regardless of outcome? Does he stand for fair play in games and discussion? Does he take pride in the scholarship standards, forensic and literary exploits, and athletics of his class and school?

Does he stand criticism and jokes at his expense pleasantly? Does he attend a reasonable number of school affairs? Does he show his school spirit by doing rather than by shouting? Does he give in gracefully to the will of the majority?

Very truly yours,
C. G. MASTERSON.
