HICO, TEXAS, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 30, 1934.

NUMBER 27.

Here In HICO

THANKSGIVING is the time of the year when we usually look back over the past year's record and "count our blessings."

This year there seems to be a renewed spirit for the occasion, and we do not recall a time when the season was more appropriate. Upon every hand we find our acquaintances thankful, and imbued with the spirit that makes of them genuine friends.

While there have been many things, of course, that didn't turn out as we would have wished, still there is so much to feel grateful over that we hesitate to attempt to list them.

PERSONALLY we still feel that our decision to make Hico our home was a fortunate one for us. Friendships have been formed which mean more than anything else in the world. We did not come here with the intention of getting rich, and so are not disappointed along that line. We have managed to eat regularly, and have not worked hard enough to injure our health.

The spirit in evidence here makes one want to do all possible to get out a paper which will be looked upon with pride by the natives, and any dissatisfaction that might be found in our system is caused from the thought that perhaps we are not doing as much as we could toward that end.

FOR our subscribers, first, we're truly thankful.

They are the backbone of our business, and the way their numbers have increased is gratifying.

There are still some families not receiving the News Review, but gradually the number of non-subscribers is decreasing, and our list of readers is increasing.

LOYAL advertisers, who find this a convenient medium for getting their messages before the people, have our profound thanks.

Never has it been our privilege before to work with a more loyal set of business men than those in Hico. The friendly spirit, that is a part of the citizenship, is not lost in business matters, and cooperation is practiced to the end that everybody profits.

Last week it was announced that the Thanksgiving issue of the paper would be printed earlier in the week. Monday morning the majority of our advertisers had their copy ready, and some brought it to the office, others telephoned us to tell us that it was ready, and everyone approached before press time seemed to realize how much of a help it would be to give early copy, and did their part.

WE are thankful for the feeling of confidence in newspaper advertising that exists almost universally in the minds of Hico merchants, and for their loyalty and desire to play fair.

While in the past year there have been many projects of one sort or another some worthy and some a mere "panhandle" seeking their advertising dollars in other channels, we are glad that the business men are so frank as to admit it when they get "stung" and do not lose confidence in legitimate, bona-fide advertising in their home paper.

We need every dollar of the advertising money spent in Hico that rightfully belongs to us, but only ask a fair consideration and a square deal—after that if we can't make ends meet, it's our own fault.

YES, we are thankful for every friend we have, business, social or otherwise.

There have been very few occasions when we have incurred the wrath of the people, and this is a good record, for there are a thousand chances each week to say the wrong thing in the paper, or overlook something that should be mentioned. But our friends seem to keep the thought uppermost in their minds that we are doing the best we can, and overlook the shortcomings they find.

There are so many things to be thankful for that we cannot undertake to mention even a fair portion of them.

But let it be known here and now at this good Thanksgiving season, there is one editor at least who considers that he would be ungrateful if he failed to call attention to his blessings.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Welborn and Mrs. Johnnie Farmer were visitors in Fort Worth Tuesday.

Hico Maintains Lead In Turkey Shipments

ANNUAL GRID CLASH AT HAMILTON THANKSGIVING

Reports From Other Centers Show Hico Receipts Greater.

"Grudge Game" Gives Promise of Being Best of Season.

Doped to be the "underdogs" in the annual football game with Hamilton Thursday, Hico's grid-dogs nevertheless were putting forth every effort in their training the first of the week, with a determination to conquer if at all possible.

Work-outs of the boys at the local high school grounds were watched with interest by a number of fans who were gratified to find the spirit of teamwork uppermost in the efforts of the boys. Coach Otto Tiner has had a hard pull with the material he had to work with, especially at the first of the season, but the squad has been built up under constant and determined training until today it presents a formidable foe to any aggregation in its class.

Hamilton's record, compared with Hico's for this season, has led to repeated predictions that Hico hasn't a chance for victory in the game Thursday at Hamilton, but the boys at mid-week were going about their business in a quiet way, letting the tongues wag whatever way they wished, but confining their predictions to the simple statement, "We'll do our darndest."

Starting at 9:30 in the morning Thanksgiving Day, the game will be finished in plenty of time to allow the fans and players to return in time for Thanksgiving dinner, and to attend whatever other game they may choose in the afternoon.

PROBABLE STARTING LINE-UP

Coach Otto Tiner, approached Monday for a copy of the probable starting line-up, stated that his plans were not complete, but that unless some changes were made at the last minute, his Hico outfit would look as follows:

Ends ..... Gandy and Joiner
Tackles ..... Sikes and Land
Guards ..... Holliday and Horton
Center ..... Hays
Quarter ..... Carroll Smith
Halves ..... Stacey and Rusk
Full ..... Captain Lane

Plans are being made by Hico to have a large delegation on hand for the game at Hamilton Thursday morning. Hazel Shelton, leader of the Pep Squad, has a number of plans for innovations at the between-halves intermission, and other surprises are in store according to reports from the fans. The pep squad members in their flashy uniforms will lend color to the game, and doubtless as in the past, will lend needed support and encouragement to the players.

Whatever the outcome, Hico people feel that they will be satisfied with the results of the annual grudge game on Turkey day, for they know that the players will do their best. Upsets often occur, and they are not at all discouraged at the preliminary predictions that Hico is in for a good wallop.

POEM INSPIRED BY LITTLE TOWN ON ALTMAN ROAD

One of our good readers was in last Saturday to have us call attention to the little settlement on the Altman road, Hico Route 2, details of which are given in the following poem:

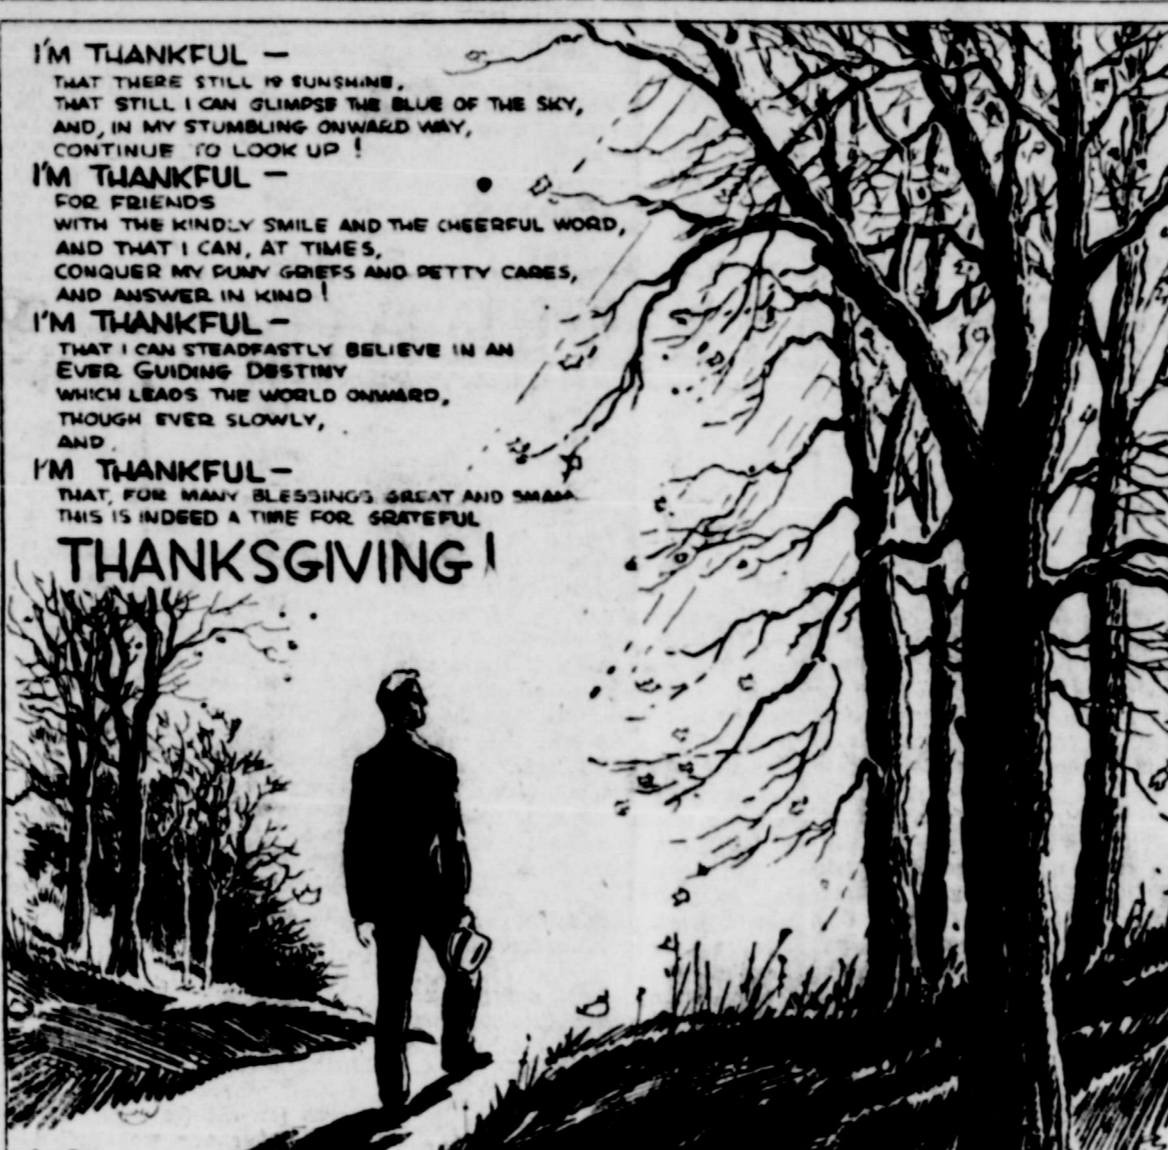

Jenkins City,
Thompson Street;
Bush's Hotel, and
Nothing to eat.

Those who have had occasion to visit in this neighborhood will realize that the hard-time aspect of the above poem is entirely assumed, and that when they say when they have nothing to eat, they mean just the opposite. For a more thriving center can hardly be found anywhere.

To Preach At Dry Fork.

Bro. O. O. Newton of Pottsville will preach at the Dry Fork School house next Saturday night at 7:30 p. m., and Sunday at 2:30 p. m., if it is the Lord's will. The public is cordially invited to hear him.

"Better Is The Heart That Sings" — by A. B. Chapin

Thanksgiving Spirit Increased by Cattle Check Distribution

When H. F. Sellers began Tuesday distributing the 50 cattle vouchers, issued in payment of distressed cattle purchased by the Government, he looked like Santa Claus to a number of local cattle raisers, who stated that their Thanksgiving would be more real this year by reason of having some ready cash.

The 50 vouchers which Mr. Sellers brought from Hamilton Tuesday morning were Hico territory's part of the 195 issued to Hamilton County farmers, and were in payment for cattle taken up by the Government on November 15th, less than two weeks ago. The vouchers were direct orders on the Treasury of the United States, and represent a substantial sum to be released into local channels of trade.

CATTLE CHECKS ARE RECEIVED IN HURRY

In less than one week after the last of 180 Cattle Vouchers left the offices of County Agent C. E. Nelson, 166 checks were received from the Field Audit office of the A. A. A. in Kansas City. These checks represent the last purchases of cattle in Hamilton county and only 14 vouchers are yet to be heard from. The total of these payments was $10,580 and represent benefit and purchase payments on approximately 350 head of distressed cattle.

TO PREACH SUNDAY AT HICO CHURCH OF CHRIST

Elder O. O. Newton of Pottsville will preach at the Church of Christ in Hico next Sunday, Dec. 2, at 11 a. m. and at 7 p. m. Members of the church are urged to attend these services, and others have a cordial invitation.

A Model T Ford coupe made a valiant effort to outrun the stork Friday night in Fort Worth, but gave up in despair and stalled when the bird of destiny overtook it on Commerce, opposite the old courthouse, and a baby daughter was born there to Mr. and Mrs. Wayne G. Key of Dalworth. Quickly the mother and daughter were transferred to the emergency ambulance by Dr. J. L. Hawley, Bob Smith, driver, with the father were taken to Parkland Hospital. The baby weighed nearly eight pounds. Both the child and her mother were doing nicely at last reports.

Horse Show Sponsored Saturday

The long-awaited Horse Show was finally held through it could not be termed exactly as a "howling success." Saturday afternoon at 1 p. m. the show started and the entries in each section were recorded by the officials in charge. The pulling contest followed shortly afterward. This was the feature attraction of the afternoon.

Below is a list of entries in their proper section:

Saddle Horses—Owner, R. B. Elkins, age of animal, 8 years, wt. of animal 900 lbs.; W. H. Koonsman, 7 years, 1150 lbs.; Fred Jagers, 3 yrs., 825 lbs.; Walt Lewis, 6 mo. saddle colt, 545 lbs.; J. L. Partin, 3 yrs., 710 lbs.; Bud Connally, 2 yrs., 500 lbs.

Stallion—D. J. Jagers', 2 yrs., 1200 lbs.

Brood mare—Ed Chris.

Young mare—Clifford Early, 17 months of age.

Mules—D. J. Jagers, 6 months.

The entries in pulling contest were:

Owner, E. W. Bradley, weight of team with harness 2840 lbs., without harness, 3725 lbs., amount pulled 2,690 lbs.

E. S. Bradley, with harness, 2520 lbs., without harness 2420 lbs., amt. pulled 2290 lbs.

O. W. Hofner, 2350 with harness, 2250 without harness, amt. pulled 1600 lbs.

G. V. Bradley, 2275 with harness, 2195 without harness, amt. pulled 1150 lbs.

E. W. Bradley took first place in the heavy-weight class with Chuch and Ted pulling 2000 lbs. E. S. Bradley took first in the medium weights with Snip and Nig pulling 2290 lbs. This team also won the contest championship by outpulling any team in any of the classes. The 2200 pounds, amplified by the pulling arrangement on the truck and plus the weight of the truck, was equivalent to 45 bales of cotton on level ground.

G. W. Bradley took first place in the light-weight class with Cop and Charley pulling 1150 pounds. The Bradleys from Dublin, all

Cotton Producers Will Hold Vote On Bankhead Act Soon

Cotton producers of the United States will soon express their own views of the Bankhead Cotton Control Act in a referendum to be held December 14. The conduct of the election will be in the hands of the County Control Associations throughout the cotton raising sections, each voting box being under the supervision of both members and non-members of the associations. Places of voting will be announced in the near future.

Those who may vote are defined in the Act as follows: "Persons who have the legal or equitable right as owner, tenant, share-cropper, or otherwise to produce cotton on any cotton farm, or part thereof in the United States" for the crop-year 1935-36.

During the height of the ginning season and about the time that Senator Smith of South Carolina was aluding to the Bankhead Act as a heart-breaking disappointment the belief was prevalent that a referendum would result in a decided rejection of the Act, but at this time a number of persons in position to be familiar with Southern sentiment, including Cully A. Cobb, of the Cotton Section of the A. A. A. are confident the compulsory control Act will be approved.

Afflicted Member Of Pioneer Family Succumbs to Death

Closing an interesting and eventful life, which came into being the year the town of Hico was founded, death came to Miss Jonnie Huchingson last Friday night, November 23, shortly after 7 o'clock.

Born in 1881 in the house where she was living at the time of her death, Miss Huchingson was a daughter of the late Captain and Mrs. J. C. Huchingson, pioneer family of this section. Captain Huchingson died about five years ago, and Mrs. Huchingson preceded him in death several years before.

Immediately after her graduation from Hico High School, Miss Huchingson was stricken with facial meningitis, which paralyzed an optic nerve, and left her afflicted with blindness. To an ordinary person accustomed to a life of activity as she was during her girlhood and early womanhood, this affliction probably would have destroyed any evidences of cheerfulness and faith. But she made the best of her condition, and throughout the ensuing years was not heard to complain of her handicap, taking a lively interest in the people around her, and in the things happening in the world.

During her father's life she assisted him in conducting the news stand in the postoffice, and became so familiar with the duties thereof that following his death in January, 1930, she carried the business on with the assistance of Leonard Howard and Miss Beulah Truss. Both the latter were constant companions and helpmates to Miss Jonnie, helping to cheer a life made vacant through the loss of sight.

Miss Jonnie was converted at the age of 14 years, and joined the Baptist Church. All of her life she had been a constant churchgoer, and was seen at many places of worship, as well as being prominent in her attendance on civic affairs of every nature. The piano furnished her chief enjoyment, as she was quite an accomplished musician at the time her affliction came upon her, and kept up her practice in the interim with the result that she was a master of that instrument.

Funeral services were held at the Methodist Church Saturday afternoon at 3:30, conducted by Rev. W. P. Cunningham, assisted by Rev. L. P. Thomas. Pallbearers were composed of the postoffice force and others, who had been closely associated with her in her work. Interment was made in Hico Cemetery, beside the grave of her father and mother and a brother who had preceded her in death.

Surviving are a sister, Mrs. Jessie Overton, of Duncan, Okla.; a brother, Frank P., of Mexico; a nephew, William, of Eldorado, Ark., and a cousin, Mrs. Newt Adams, who were very close to her, having resided in her home at various times.

More Thanksgiving turkeys found their way to the tables of consumers in the North and East through Hico produce houses than were shipped by any of the neighboring towns, a survey made recently shows.

This statement is based on reports given in last week's newspapers issued from the various turkey-shipping points, and is credited as being as reliable as any other method of checking could be.

According to the newspaper accounts, the Thanksgiving shipments were lighter than usual this year, and most of the articles expressed a belief that more birds remained for shipment at Christmas than were sold on the Thanksgiving market. The drought and resulting light weight of birds was given as one reason for this. All buyers finished out their quotas several days ago, and the reports in last week's papers is considered complete.

The survey made by the News Review resulted in the following figures on shipments from Hico and surrounding localities:

- Hico—9 cars, 8 by freight, and another carload of dressed birds shipped out by truck. Some three cars shipped out live by truck.
- Hamilton—3 cars, with 12,000 pounds on foot.
- Stephenville—4½ cars, with a reported equal amount moved from territory on foot.
- Meridian—3 cars.
- Clifton—3 cars shipped.
- Iredell—2 cars.
- Walnut Springs—3 cars.
- Lampasas—7 cars.
- Goldthwaite—$25,000 worth.
- Car shipments not available.
- Comanche—5 cars.
- Brady—8 cars.
- Dublin—Figures not given.

Hico undoubtedly remains the most popular selling point for turkey raisers of this section, as may be seen from the above figures. Always maintaining an enviable reputation as a turkey shipping center, it seems that this year the buyers outstripped their previous efforts. No little of this is due to the cold storage facilities afforded locally by the Bell Ice & Cold Storage Co., and the shipping facilities provided by the M-K-T Railroad. Added to this is the fact that a number of experienced buyers were in the market, in addition to the dressing plants operated by two of the major companies and one independent operator.

Some credit for the position Hico occupies in turkey marketing operations is given by the buyers to the cooperation enjoyed from the business interests of the city as a whole, who always in the past have aided in advertising Hico's pre-eminence in the industry. This keeps the public conscious of the fact that they can find here a fair market for their birds, courteous treatment, and a square deal all around.

Prospects for Christmas marketing are at present bright, depending of course on the price structure, which is always a gamble as it is with other commodities.

THANKSGIVING SERVICE

The Union Thanksgiving Service this year will be held at the Baptist Church Wednesday night at 7:30.

This service is for all the churches and all the people. It seems that all should appreciate a service like this when all come together in one spirit of Thanksgiving and praise to Him from whom all blessings come.

Several minutes will be given to congregational singing. Let all who sing be in their places in the choir.

Ten minutes talk by Mrs. Dolly Lynch on "The True Spirit of Thanksgiving."

Thanksgiving.

Thanksgiving is here, more important than ever. Of course you all know that this day goes back to the Pilgrim Fathers who gave thanks to God for the harvest. That is the bare story. I have always known that there was more to that story and it is that little bit more that I want to talk to you about.

The Pilgrims were not all fathers. There were mothers and children, aunts and uncles and neighbors and friends. Home, and home means father and mother and a house and a special bit of sky and water and growing things and neighbors, was three thousand miles away across a stormy ocean. The Pilgrims, young and old, were hungry and sick for home. They wanted to go back. They knew they never could do that because the one thing they wanted more than anything else, more even than home, was here in this new world. Here they must abide with the sacred thing called freedom of conscience. But that did not cure the ache of their loneliness.

Finally they decided to have a party. Everybody would come and sit together at one big table, like a family. They would get as close to each other as they could get, and warm each other's hearts. It was the next best thing to going back home and they did it. Because God meant so much in their lives, they got close to Him first and went to church early. Then they had that Thanksgiving party.

Thanksgiving, then, means being at home and feeling thankful about it. Stay at home on Thanksgiving day. Get close to your father and mother. Get so close to your mother that she sees in you the little child that she used to hold in her arms. Get so close to your father that once more he feels you clinging to his fingers as you stagger along in your first efforts to start out in the world. Show your parents that you love them above anyone else in the world.

This is really what Thanksgiving day means. It is a time for the expression of thanks we have felt for a long time and never quite got around to showing. Thanks for home and father and mother; thanks for sturdy health and good appetite and something to satisfy it; thanks for the fun of living; thanks for the eternal love that guides and shelters us from harm; thanks for a childhood that knows the feel of the earth under its feet, the glory of sunrise and sunset, the joy of young strength and the protection of home.

Miller's Line-Up of '35.

Coach Miller, since the beginning of school, has trained his basket ball boys to a greater advantage than any other coach that has ever been in Fairy High. He has trained them to go into their ball games with this thought in mind: "We will win this game, and we will win it fair." When complimentary facts are stated concerning the boys, it must not be forgotten that, had it not been for the beneficial physical training by Coach Miller, the boys would never have advanced to the stage which they are now in—victorious.

As basket ball season now opens, the motto, "Meet the Pass" is seen written on the face of every ball player. The five regular players, W. F. Clayton, Jr., Ray Miller, Elton Freeman, Sammy Davis and Pee Wee Allison, have the determination to win, because they are "one hundred strong."

W. F. Clayton Jr. is the captain of this notorious five. He is both capable and willing to take upon himself the responsibility that was bestowed upon him by the other players. One might miss his guess if he guessed on the position that W. F. plays on the court, because, to watch him ring those goals, both long and crisp-shots, it looks evident that he is a forward, but he is a guard. W. F. can "meet a pass" and he can "pass the ball." When he gets the ball, whether it be under the opponent's goal or not, the crowd begins yelling, because they know that it is a "sure goal." On breaking thru a defense, W. F. is perfect. The spectators admire the swift pass-work of this outstanding player.

Ray Miller can pass the ball and dribble down across the court to the goal like no other player that Fairy has ever known. One of Ray's most important and striking plays is the play of "getting the ball" after the centers have given the tip-off. He is always there, and he usually gets it. When the ball is in the hands of the opponent, under the opponents' goal, he goes after it and brings it out. Ray is a forward; and to be convinced that he is, is to witness his hurling the ball to the goal a few times. When it comes to sportsmanship, Ray is the one to be remembered. He goes into a game smiling and comes out smiling.

Elton Freeman is that defensive guard that people have heard so much about lately. He "stays with 'em" and "holds 'em tight." Elton can break up a pass before the other players have time to think what they are doing; he can block the path to the goal, and no player imaginable is able to cut through. Elton has those long shots down "pat." For Elton to get a long shot over the defense, is to make a goal to his credit. When Elton yells, "Hey! Hey!" he is heard, the crowd knows that he is about to secure the ball from his opponent. He is co-captain, and the boys could not have chosen a more fitted person for that position.

Sammy Davis is a "star" when it comes to giving the tip-off. In center, he has the height, the ability, the strength, the knowledge, and last but not least, the training to get in the air and "place the ball." Sammy is really good when it comes to swift passwork. He knows exactly where, ohw and when to pass, and exactly where, how and when to meet a pass. When Sammy gets the ball, if it is convenient for him to shoot, he shoots, and nine times out of ten, he makes it.

(Pee Wee Allison is the other

Illness and bad weather made it impossible for the Fairy boys and girls to participate in any athletics this past week. Due to this fact, the sport editor does not have a report this week. But, in place of this report, the high school girls wish to give their boys a "send-off."

Is the Ray of the Spotlight.

In the ray of the spotlight this week, we are aware of the presence of Dalton Akin, an ex-Senior. In Trigonometry, Dalton is the leader. In Economics, he "just can't make the grade." "Shakem" is the "day dreamer" for the Senior class; it is nothing uncommon to see him sit for hours "just thinking." His classmates often wonder if it is a girl that he has loved back in his past life that causes his grief, or if it is just the memory of his good time the Saturday night before in Hico.

In spite of all these defects, the Senior class would not part with Dalton, as he is a good sport in every activity, and has the ability to rise above the educational standard.

New Faculty Member.

Members of the faculty, along with all the students of Fairy High School, were more than proud to welcome their new member and teacher, Mrs. Neoma Stringer Tipple of Hamilton. Miss Stringer Tipple of Hamilton, Miss Tipple teaches high school English and every student of Fairy High School hopes that she is well pleased with her new school, and they intend to make it their duty to help her like.

P. T. A. Friday Night.

A large crowd was present for P. T. A. Friday night. Mr. Akin gave an interesting talk on "From Babyhood Up," after which an interesting program was rendered. The next P. T. A. will be three weeks from Friday night. At that time the outsiders will present a play.

Chapel Monday Morning.

Students and teachers assembled to the high school auditorium Monday morning for chapel, as usual.

After three songs were sung, led by Lorene Pitts and Louise Seago, with Miss Caraway at the piano, Mr. Miller talked to the school on "School Spirit."

The Pep Squad is going to reorganize and before long Fairy will be "on the map."

Mr. Horsley made some address assembled to its room.

Sport News.

Illness and bad weather made it impossible for the Fairy boys and girls to participate in any athletics this past week. Due to this fact, the sport editor does not have a report this week. But, in place of this report, the high school girls wish to give their boys a "send-off."

One of Ray's most important and striking plays is the play of "getting the ball" after the centers have given the tip-off. He is always there, and he usually gets it. When the ball is in the hands of the opponent, under the opponents' goal, he goes after it and brings it out. Ray is a forward; and to be convinced that he is, is to witness his hurling the ball to the goal a few times. When it comes to sportsmanship, Ray is the one to be remembered. He goes into a game smiling and comes out smiling.

Elton Freeman is that defensive guard that people have heard so much about lately. He "stays with 'em" and "holds 'em tight." Elton can break up a pass before the other players have time to think what they are doing; he can block the path to the goal, and no player imaginable is able to cut through. Elton has those long shots down "pat." For Elton to get a long shot over the defense, is to make a goal to his credit. When Elton yells, "Hey! Hey!" he is heard, the crowd knows that he is about to secure the ball from his opponent. He is co-captain, and the boys could not have chosen a more fitted person for that position.

Sammy Davis is a "star" when it comes to giving the tip-off. In center, he has the height, the ability, the strength, the knowledge, and last but not least, the training to get in the air and "place the ball." Sammy is really good when it comes to swift passwork. He knows exactly where, ohw and when to pass, and exactly where, how and when to meet a pass. When Sammy gets the ball, if it is convenient for him to shoot, he shoots, and nine times out of ten, he makes it.

(Pee Wee Allison is the other

forward. Even though Pee Wee is the smallest on the team, it does not mean that he is not one of the best. He ranks second, so far, in the number of points made this year. Captain Clayton is first, with 75 points, and Allison is second with 71 points. It is especially noticeable when Pee Wee comes in contact with the ball in center and gets away with it. He goes like a shot out of a cannon, and the result is, usually, a successful crisp-shot. Even on long shots, Pee Wee has a good record.

Boys, we are behind you in every play you undertake to put over. We know what grand prospects of a successful ball team you have, and until doom's day, we'll stick with you. In a ball game, we're your stand-by's. In trouble, we're your guides.

FAIRY HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS.

State Supervisor Visits Fairy.

On Wednesday, November 21, the state supervisor, Miss Opal Gilstrap, visited in the Fairy school, Supt. O. R. Williams, Supt. Elect Bert C. Patterson, County Judge J. C. Barrow, and County Board Member J. W. Jordan, with Miss Gilstrap, took dinner in Fairy. The Fairy school board members present at the school building, with the above mentioned, were: Robert Parks, T. L. Betts and H. S. Pitts.

Mr. Horsley, along with every one else connected with the Fairy school, was anxious to hear how much state aid the school could be awarded, and when Miss Gilstrap told him the amount for the Fairy school this year was $3,200, he felt that his time and money had been well spent.

First and Second Grades.

We regret very much when Claude Barnett turned in his books last Tuesday, saying he was moving to Hico. The second grade will certainly miss him.

We are enjoying our new cement porch which the carpenter completed this week end.

The students in the second grade are putting out special efforts to be better spellers since we are running a contest for the best speller this month. This applies to first grade reading also.

Third and Fourth Grades.

The third and fourth grades went with their teacher on a picnic Friday. Each one took his own lunch, and after eating, we had an hour of play. We then made a search for odd-shaped rocks. Later in the afternoon we studied the leaves. The leaves were so pretty that we could not resist the temptation of bringing some of them home and decorating the room.

We are glad to have Rosemary Miller back with us. She has been to Dallas to have her tonsils removed.

Fifth and Sixth Grades.

Bertha Lea and Everett Barnett have moved to Hico where they will attend school. We hope they don't get "high hat" and forget us.

Our ranks are now reduced to twenty-seven, but we hope to be back to our original number by the first of the year.

Seventh Grade.

Do You Know That—The seventh grade arithmetic class is battling, trying to win those extra points? The olive is the oldest fruit known to man? America has 64,000 blind persons?

Weeks Add-a-Laugh—Silly Sally says the pedestrian's favorite hymn must be, "Guide Me, O Thou Great Jehovah." According to the statistics, four-fifths of all mis-ing girls have bobbed hair; maybe they're just hiding until their hair grows out. A husband and wife served on the same jury in a Minnesota case; of course, the jury disagreed.

Eighth Grade.

The Juniors will start practicing indoor baseball as soon as they get their ball.

Lorraine Blakley missed several days from school last week, but he is back with us this week. We missed him very much in Algebra classes.

If James didn't have so far to come to school, he might get here on time; Andrew was to bring up his lessons, it would be a great surprise to everyone.

Braxton: "Mr. Horsley, why do you wear glasses?" Mr. Horsley (looking surprised): "Because my eyes are weak, I guess." Braxton: "Well, well, it's a wonder you're not wearing a glass hat."

Mr. Hutton: "Junior, what if I were to die? What would become of you?" Junior: "The question is, what would become of you?"

Ninth Grade.

The Sophomore class was proud to have Dalton Driver on the honor roll list this last six weeks. We Wonder Why—Margaret (Red) Blacklock was absent last Thursday and Friday; Hazel Slater wanted off two days for Thanksgiving and a certain red head did not?

The Junior class failed to report this week. The staff misses their report very badly.

Senior News.

The Senior class of Fairy, like that of Hico, is wrangling over class colors, motto and flower. Individually, the students have the question settled, but the class as a whole just can not "get together."

Seventh Installment.

SYNOPSIS—Ellen Church, 17 years old, finds herself alone in the world with her artist mother's last warning ringing in her ears, to "love lightly." Of the world she knew little. All her life she had lived alone with her mother in an old brown house in a small rural community. All her life, as a baby, then a bubbling child, then a charming young girl, she had posed for her talented mother who sold her magazine cover painting through an art agent in the city. Mrs. Church's broken life... the unfaithful husband, his disappearance... and after seventeen years of silence announcement of his death was at last disclosed to Ellen. The news of the husband's death killed Mrs. Church. Ellen, alone, turned to the only contact she knew, the art agent in New York. Posing, years of posing, was her only talent so she was introduced to two leading artists, Dick Alven and Sandy Macintosh. Both used her as a model and both fell in love with her, but Ellen, trying to follow the warped philosophy of her mother to "love lightly," resists the thought of love. Her circle of friends is small, artists and two or three girl models. Ellen attends a ball with Sandy. While dancing a tall young man claimed her and romance is born.

GO ON WITH THE STORY

Tony, his eyes alight—"But it doesn't mean anything. It's just that I'm a new sensation!" Ellen tried to tell herself—was helping her out of the car. All at once her attitude toward her held a difference—it was as if she had grown very soft, very fragile. "Well, here we are," said Tony. "Any last statement you'd like to make to the press, Miss Church? Before entering the church?" Ellen essayed a smile. She was realizing that she wouldn't be Miss anything much longer. "Keep back the reporters, big boy. For I'm to be queen of the May!" Tony was answering seriously. "You haven't any flowers?" And then they were in the church, and it was dim and cool and sweet and somehow very lonely. And Ellen ceased suddenly to think of Tony, and thought instead of her mother. Lying in a cool, sweet, lonely place. Of her mother—who had warned her, with that sad, whimsical mirth, against the very thing she was about to do. That, oh, God—her heart had already done!

The minister had come swiftly into the room. A minister who wasn't at all old; who looked at Ellen as if he liked her and who shook hands, firmly, with Tony. The minister examined the marriage license, and said to Ellen—"You're very young, aren't you?" And, "Haven't you any people you'd like to have with you?" at the shake of Ellen's head, "or any friends, to be witnesses?" Again Ellen shook her head, mutely, but Tony answered. He wasn't awed by the loneliness of the church, not Tony—he wasn't eaten by memories! "We didn't even remember we had friends," he told the minister. "Say, isn't there someone around here who can witness this for us?" The minister nodded. He wasn't as young as Ellen had thought, at first! He left the chapel. And, while he was gone, Tony bent swiftly, and kissed Ellen. It was not the kiss of possession—it was a comforting, friendly kiss. Just exactly the sort of a kiss that Ellen needed. It made her whole soul turn to Tony!

The minister was back again with a man in overalls, with grass stains on them—who would be the handy man who took care of the square of lawn—and a tall girl with spectacles. He had put a gown over his dark suit, and he carried a silt prayer book in his hand. "Stand together, so," he told Ellen and Tony. "No, in front of me. Join hands. No, your right hands." Ellen, in a daze, felt Tony's large fingers close about her small ones. The minister's words wound around her in a midst of sound. Beautiful words—liquid, musical phrases—the marriage service. "Dearly beloved," said the minister, and then— "For better, for worse, for richer, for poorer—" (Was Tony glancing down at her—didn't he know, couldn't he guess that the money didn't matter?) "In sickness and in health."

A mist of words. And the tall girl fussing with a hang nail on her thumb, and the man in overalls scratching his ear, and a fly buzzing just in back of the minister's head. And Tony's hands so damp, so slippery with moisture, that it was hard for him to place the little sapphire hoop on Ellen's finger.

It wasn't such a gay luncheon, after all.

With his hands clasped tight on the wheel, and his mouth not very firm, and his eyes staring straight ahead at nothing at all.

Just before she knocked on the door of Dick's studio, even as her hand was raised for the knocking, Ellen remembered her wedding ring. She couldn't have forgotten it—not really—it was such a gallant, glittering small ring. She drew it off so sharply that one of its blue stones scratched her littlest finger of all, and folded it into the corner of her handkerchief, and placed the handkerchief in her pocket. She transferred the other ring, the great solitary sapphire, to her right hand.

She felt like a feminine Judas as she did it. Dick was standing before a huge canvas, with his paint-marked shirt carelessly open at the throat, and his hair rumpled, and his eyes intent upon some detail of his picture. She went behind the screen in Dick's studio. And got out of her blue crepe dress (her wedding dress) and put on the white backskin suit and the coral and turquoise beads. And like a little girl—only one dressed up to play pretend—she emerged from behind the screen, and took her place in a kneeling attitude, with her two pink palms cupped together in front of her, and her face raised to the smoky blur of the studio ceiling. She was an Indian priestess, you see. A very young one—suitable to belong in any school.

Dick made no comment. He painted with bold, sure, brisk strokes. It was four-thirty. Ellen, counting the strokes of the clock that sounded from the Metropolitan Tower, not so far away, wondered if Dick were almost through with painting. Dick was painting absently. She knew that she couldn't break into his absorption no matter what came of it. The years with her mother had taught her not to interrupt creation unless some desperation drove her to it. However, she asked herself, wasn't marriage a desperate matter? Wasn't it, in the final analysis? She began to count her heartbeats—each heartbeat was a second, wasn't it? She counted for a long while.

The clock chimed again in the Tower. It was four forty five. "Almost done?" she ventured nervously. But Dick didn't answer, which meant that he wasn't. There was a shuffle of feet on the stairs. Ellen started, her nervousness growing, before she realized that the shuffle was too light to be made by Tony's feet. It must be a girl who was coming.

It was a girl. It was Claire, perfectly groomed from her slippers of suede to her soft straw hat. "I didn't expect to see you here, she said, "after what I heard! I thought for once that I might get a break and find Dick by himself."

Ellen hadn't heard the last part of the other girl's speech. Her whole being stood forward, on tiptoe, to catch the first part of it. "What have you heard?" she asked, in a breathless little voice. "From the tone of her," she said, "you'd think our ewe lamb had something on the old conscience, what? Never can tell, can one, Dicky? However," perhaps she sensed the hysteria back of Ellen's blazing eyes, "however, it was this! I heard that Sandy was out gunning for you. That he was abandoned, absolutely abandoned by you, at the Six Arts last evening. That you blew, just before dawn, with a handsome man. How's that for scandal, Dick? How's that—"

Dick was scraping the paint from his palette. He held his palette knife very much as though it were a dagger. "Ellen told me all about it," he said briefly. The clock struck five—the clock in the Tower. And Ellen, who for a moment had forgotten, whirled around on one slender moccasined heel. "Oh, I must run," she said. "I really must. Dick I've a date for five, I must—"

Claire hitched her skirts the merest fraction of an inch lower. "I suppose," she said, "that the red rolls, at the curb, is waiting for you?" Ellen was staring toward the screen, but she stopped short at Claire's words. Stopped for a blank second as Cinderella must have stopped when all of her loveliness was turning back to rags. "It's not down there already?" she asked. "Why, I said—"

Claire was laughing. Her laughter blew, like thistles down, against the sound of feet—the sound of feet, once more, climbing the stairs. Again Ellen's heart stood still. For this time the tread was unmistakably masculine. Again she, herself, stood still, with her eyes on the door. Knowing, even as she waited, that the anxious eyes of Dick, the scornful eyes of Claire, were upon her.

Millerville By CHAS. W. GIESECKE

The cold spell last week was fine; quite a few killed their hogs. Herbert Miller and his mother of Purvis visited their sister and daughter, Mrs. Clarence Higginbotham, Saturday and Sunday. Charlie Conner and his father, E. J. Conner, were in Stephenville one day last week on business.

Our old neighbor and friend, J. W. Robertson, has been quite sick for several days, but is improving at present. Uncle John's friends trust he will soon be out in his usual health. Lewis Giesecke and wife and Willie Arnold were in Stephenville Tuesday.

John Miller and wife of Mt. Zion visited their kinsman, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Howerton, here last Sunday evening. Mrs. Howerton hasn't been in the best of health the past three weeks. Marion Elkins and wife, and also R. B. Elkins and wife visited Jim Land and family of Camp Branch, Sunday.

Bluff Robertson and son Thurman have a papering job at Mrs. S. O. Durham's. These boys are kept busy the past several weeks. Mr. and Mrs. Hayden Glover visited their daughter and family, Henry Nix and wife, of Camp Branch, Sunday. Luther Land and wife were in Stephenville last Friday, where Mrs. Land was examined and treated at Dr. Terrell's Sanitarium.

Mr. DeWitt made a business trip to Tolar last week. His daughter, Mrs. Willie Arnold, met him at Stephenville on his return home. "PECK'S BAD BOY" IS RICH IN HEART TUGS

Suggested, rather than adapted from the famous "Peck's Bad Boy" stories that delighted readers a generation ago, the Fox Film screen production of that name, coming on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday of next week to the Palace Theatre, has Jackie Cooper as its star and Thomas Meighan in a story role. This picture is in no sense a kid's story. It is a rich human document.

Be sure and see this great picture.

Our Junior boys' basket ball team was defeated in a game with the Gum Branch team last Friday, on the Gum Branch home court. We will match a game with them Wednesday, November 28, on our home court. This is our second match game and we boast for our boys, for we know they have had good training given by Coach Simpson.

Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Ables and Elmer Ables and son, Billy Ray, spent Sunday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jess Douglas and family. Mr. and Mrs. John K. Lester and daughter, Patsy, of West, Texas, spent a few days in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jess Douglas and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gordon and family spent Sunday in the home of J. E. Gordon and family of the Oil community. Bro. O. O. Newton of Pottsville will preach here Saturday night and Sunday.

Miss Opal Driver spent Saturday night and Sunday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Murrell Ables and son.

National Cheese Week—celebrated throughout the nation November 11 to 17—has a double significance for Victoria, Texas, and the entire Southwest. With Governor Miriam Ferguson proclaiming Cheese Week for the state, the Week will get under way at Victoria November 9, 10, and 11, in a formal opening of the new cheesemaking plant at which J. L. Kraft, and other dairy leaders from both the North and South will be present.

The Victoria plant, regarded as a model for American cheese production, will provide a year-round cash market for several thousand dairy farmers in the immediate vicinity. Another model plant at Bonham, Texas, is being erected, making a triumvirate of important cheese-producing centers for the state of Texas. The first important cheese-production center, and present headquarters in the Southwest, of the Kraft-Phenix Cheese Corporation is the plant at Denison.

RIDE 'EM, COWGIRL!

(Above) Ethelyn Decirvaux gives a practical demonstration disproving the law of gravitation. (Inset) Aside from skill, here is the reason why riders are able to stick to their mounts. A fair rider shows a mohair saddle girth used by Texans.

Who said that horses have nothing in common with automobiles? Peggy Long, Texas rodeo star, shows the point of contact between the one-horsepower means of locomotion and modern eighty-horsepower cars—a saddle girth. For the benefit of non-equestrians, a saddle girth is the belt that makes the saddle stay put on the horse's back. Not only must the saddle girth be able to "take it," it must be soft and smooth so as not to irritate the horse, and it must be easily cleaned. Down in the plains country, as well as in rodeos, where the saddle girths have to withstand grueling punishment, angora mohair is used almost exclusively in their manufacture. The mohair, incidentally, is a Texan product, coming from the long silky fleeces of the Angora goat, of which there are millions in the Lone Star State. However, the millions of angora goats would have little to do if they worked only to produce mohair for horses, most of their fleeces being used in the manufacture of mohair velvet automobile and furniture upholstery. Its popularity for automobile use is due to the same things that make it the choice of hard-riding horsemen, its strength, ease of cleaning, and silky softness.

I eat anything without distress, my cough is gone and I have gained back my strength and flesh."—Emma Withers, Box 50, Belmont, N. C.

This is the only solid emulsion made, and so palatable that it is eaten with a spoon like ice cream. Wonderful for weak, sickly children. You are urged to try Milks Emulsion.
