

Area Experts to Discuss Aspects Of A and B Plan Cotton Thursday

Castro County farmers who are still in a quandry over whether or not to go A or B plan on their cotton planting this year will have another chance to hear experts clarify the situation next Thursday.

There will be a meeting in the District Courtroom, Thursday afternoon, March 12 at 2 p.m. and the principle speakers will be Mr. George Pfeiffenberger, executive vice president of the Plains Cotton Growers and Dr. Tom Longnecker, of the High Plains Research Station at Halfway.

"Despite considerable information that has appeared in the press and farm journals, the farmers of this particular area have problems that make clear-cut decisions over whether to aim at the A or B plan almost impossible," Edd C. McLeroy, First State Bank farm representative, said this week. McLeroy, who set up the meeting for county farmers, went on to say that "We are getting these men here in the hopes that their expert information will help those farmers still on the fence. They have promised to reveal the most vital considerations and I feel that every cotton farmer in the county should be there if at all possible."

Three Dimmitt School Bands Plan Sunday Afternoon Performance

A one-day concert by three Dimmitt school bands will be held at the High School Auditorium beginning at 3 p.m. Sunday.

This concert will be the highlight of the year for the students of band director Ralph Smith. This event will be conducted by 102 members in the High School Band; 78 members in the 6th and 7th grade band and 45 beginners in the fifth grade band.

Due to prohibitive costs, Smith says no distant band trips—like to festivals at Enid and Corpus Christi—are planned. Outside the regular interscholastic league competition it is expected that the Dimmitt High School Band may play for one or more other school audiences in this area.

There will be no charge made for the performance, although there will be someone at the door to take any donations for the band that spectators may wish to give. Smith stressed this week that there were only ninety-five uniforms for the 102 members of the High School Band. "We'll work out some kind of a temporary solution to

Hale-Aikin School Improvements Depend On Peoples' Actions Says Sister Loyola

Castro County Citizens and their children are not going to benefit from the Hale-Aikin recommendations for improved schools unless they tell the Legislature they want the program. That was the report today by Sister M. Loyola Schumaker of Nazareth, president of the Castro County unit of the Texas State Teachers Association.

Sister Loyola participated this week in a conference in Amarillo where prospects for school legislation were discussed. "Many legislators favor the bills which would put the Hale-Aikin report into effect," she said. "But they have not heard from enough people telling them they are willing to pay the increased taxes necessary to pay the bill."

"The wishes of thousands of people in every county of the state are included in the Hale-Aikin recommendations," Sister Loyola declared. "But it's very possible that the school bills won't pass unless the people speak up."

"The school needs are certainly no less today than they were when the Legislature created the Hale-Aikin study two years ago," she pointed out. "In fact, they are greater."

"If the Legislature fails to enact these school bills at this session, and fails to provide the money for them, it may be years before the timing is right for another such appeal."

"We can't afford to lose the tremendous citizen force back of these recommendations at this time. And if we don't levy the necessary taxes to pay for them at this session, it may be years before another Legislature will be in the mood to consider again the kind of taxes needed to put the Hale-Aikin type of program into operation."

"If we're going to stay ahead of Russia, we'd better not miss a chance to improve our schools. We need to pass this program this year—no two or ten years from

Farmers Dinner Planned at Arney

Principle speaker for the Arney farmer's dinner, scheduled for next Monday night, March 10, will be Dr. Tom Longnecker who is head of the High Plains Research Station at Halfway.

The dinner will be at the Arney Community Building beginning at 7:30 and tickets are now on sale at the Chamber of Commerce or they may be bought from Edd McLeroy and Russel Moran. Price per plate is $1.50.

Dr. Longnecker will discuss some of the findings his research station has made regarding "skip-row" cotton planting, dryland crops, and the general work now underway at the research station.

A group of 30 farmers is expected to attend the dinner which is the first in a series of farmer-businessmen programs being sponsored by the Castro County Chamber of Commerce throughout the county.

Lose to Seminole, 65-67

Bobcats 2nd In Region

Dimmitt's hard-working Bobcat basketball team, unable to move in the first half, dropped a heart-breaking game to Seminole Saturday night by a 65-67 score.

This game was the gateway to the state championship tournament in Austin this week end.

Dimmitt started off eager for a win and threw the ball at the basket plenty of times, but they couldn't hit. At the end of the first quarter Seminole led, 13-20. The Bobcats started making a few more from a percentage standpoint in the second quarter and pulled to within one point, 33-34, of Seminole at the end of the first half.

After that there was a ball game, considered generally to be the most exciting of the tournament. During the last half the Bobcats held the lead on seven occasions, Seminole the lead five times and the game was tied five times.

Seminole was heavily favored, being graced with the five returning starters of their last year's state finals team.

The Bobcats trailed with two points with 11 seconds left to play and called timeout to get the ball at mid court. Tooter Smithson attempted to get off a shot, but the ball was blocked. The Indians took the ball but was whistled down for walking with one second left. Smithson got the ball off but it missed and the ball sounded on a Dimmitt defeat.

Leader in the scoring was Hal Ratcliff, who tossed in 20 points. He was followed by Smithson who made 17, although he watched

Final Cotton Premeasurement Date March 31

Farmers in Castro County who wish to have their cotton measured prior to planting may do so by making application and paying the cost of the service no later than March 31.

Cost of the cotton premeasurement service is $12.00 per farm, plus $4 for each plot of cotton over one.

This is only an extra service, according to Charley Hill, manager of the local ASC office, and is by no means required. All cotton must be measured sometime later in the year after it is planted.

Eighth Grade Basketballers Have Fabulous Win Record

One of the most fantastic basketball records to be compiled around these parts in many a year belongs to a group of efficient, capable and ambitious eighth graders.

Not only have they won thirty-seven games without a loss, the team can say it has never lost a game!

Coached last year as seventh graders by Bob Wolfe and this year by Ronnie Mills, their record is the best ever compiled here by a grade school team and it is possible they hold an all-school record.

You may not know it, but this is just part of Public School Week in Texas.

There are plenty of special weeks—National Printing Week, National Potato Chip Week, National Clean-up Week and others that total literally into the hundreds. But school week should at least be acknowledged by everyone in the country and if possible there should be some visiting of the local schools before the week ends.

Schools in Castro County form our second largest industry, exceeded in expenditures and personnel only by farming.

These schools are a lot of things to a lot of people. To the ambitious student, it is a tool for his own advancement in an economic world that calls for knowledge and understanding of our fellow man. For the few fledgling intellectual students who are becoming aware of the fantastic wonders of the world around us, our public schools offer basic preparation to higher study and learning. To the indifferent student school it is a place to find a wife, or a husband, or to enjoy the frivolities and by-plays of adolescent schoolhood. To still others it is a place to play football, to line up parties, to discuss grievances against the world and dispute the merits of high-lift omeashts.

Four all these people into the single school pot and it's quite a mixture. The different attitudes probably do more than anything else to create problems in school procedure. A student slow to learn but exhibiting a willingness to try is a more rewarding target for teacher's talents than a brilliant, but indifferent and lazy pupil.

These points lead to one conclusion: That school begins at home. We can complain bitterly about the inadequacies of today's teenager, about the cost of school programs, and about everything else connected with schools—but somewhere, somehow, it all began with the pre- and early-school training; the parents gave their youngsters.

This country would be awestruck today if it had any idea of the tremendous waste of ability and energy that has come about through parental indifference.

If parents could only instill into their children the idea that above all else, an education in this technological world of ours is second in importance only to our spiritual and moral strength, then there would be a tremendous boost in progress somewhere down the line.

Reading other people's newspapers is sort of a busman's holiday for us. Lately there seems to have been a rash of newspaper editors trying to explain to their public why they say "we" instead of "I".

This has never been fully explained to us, but there are some interesting conjectures, viz: Some editors say "we" in their editorials because it sounds like there are at least two of them and anyone disagreeing with what they had to say might be more loath to jump on two people than one.

Or it may mean the editor and whoever else may own the newspaper with him—such as note holders, fathers-in-law, or what have you.

And one way says the only editor legally qualified to say "we" in his writings is one with a tape-worm.

Personally we use this term because what "I" believe doesn't amount to a hill of beans, but what "we" believe seems to carry a little more weight.

Anyhow, it's sort of a tradition among editors to do it that way. It's called journalistic license or something.

Speaking of other country editors, Harold Hudson of the Ochiltree County Herald a few weeks ago put into words a thought that has jarred all of us from time to time.

Hudson says that he has sometimes paid a higher price for some article in his hometown instead of going to Amarillo or somewhere where the competition's keener just so he could go along with his trade at home program. Then, Hudson says, it is almost too much to get a bill for the item on a statement printed in some other town.

We receive bills every once in a while in envelopes and on statement blanks printed somewhere else. This makes a printer groan a bit inwardly because he feels like he's holding the short end of the stick. A printer can tell at a fleeting glance the work his own plant has done.

We would go Hudson one better and say that one of the other things that bothers us is the idea of getting credit for someone else's crummy printing.

We have seen letterheads sold by out-of-town printing salesmen here that contained as many as four different styles of type, and we would bet their press rollers

Also Alton Goodin, commercial teacher; Mr. Larry Tucker, agriculture; Mrs. Betty Alsup, High School English; and Mrs. Nancy Westcott, homemaker, LaDwain Bowen, high school and elementary science teacher was reappointed also.

Re-elected to their posts in the elementary school were Mrs. Branch Sheets, Mr. Fred Eyster, Mrs. Trammie Ruth Mapp, Mrs. Bill Shelby, Mrs. Opal Ray, Mrs. Frances Kennedy, and Mrs. Shirley Tucker.

Mr. Paul Kennedy, superintendent of Hart Public Schools, said this week that "I certainly do appreciate the board's action in returning all of these fine teachers to our system. They are all credits to their school and community and I believe the board is to be commended for their decisions."

LIVESTOCK MARKET REPORT

The quality of this week's 3,200 cattle and calves was mainly good and choice grades with stock calves and yearlings comprising the bulk of the supply. Stocker and feeder calves made up a greater percent of this week's run than at any time in the past several months. The movement of cows was somewhat larger than recent weeks but the increase was mainly Canner and Cutter grades. Lower prices were paid for cows and bulls with cows selling mostly 30c lower while bulls were 50-70c off. The demand was broad for stocker and feeder steers and heifers with prices strong to 50 higher, most upturn of kinds weighing under 600 lbs. and feeder steers over 800 lbs. The volume of stock calves was insufficient to meet the expanded demand and 50c higher levels were general with extreme advances of 1.00 on choice lightweight calves. Stock cows sold on fully 1.00 lower basis.

Each year hundreds of indentations in the generally flat top of the Caprock trap rain water. In most instances it evaporates because attempts to store it underground are stymied by silt.

The loose topsoil of the Caprock mixes with the water and clogs recharge wells to the point that their operation is uneconomical. If this problem is solved, several hundred thousands of acre-feet of water can be saved and stored in a year of normal rainfall—much more in above-average years.

Soybeans have been grown in Texas for more than 40 years, but have not yet become an important crop although their potential value is recognized.

Soybeans can be grown in most irrigated sections of Texas. In the East Texas, yields are inconsistent under dryland conditions and the crop is not recommended unless irrigation facilities are available.

Average Castro County yields under irrigation are approximately 30 to 40 bushels per acre. At this level of production, soybeans do not give as much cash return as grain sorghums. Soybeans, however, are valuable in a soil-improving rotation, and weed control following soybeans is not as serious a problem as following grain sorghum.

Soybeans are adapted to about the same soil and climatic conditions as corn or cotton. They do best on well-drained, mellow, fertile and sandy loams, but good results can be obtained on most properly-drained soils if water is available for supplemental irrigation.

They are usually planted in 36 to 42-inch rows at a rate to give 10 to 12 plants per foot of row. Date of seeding is important because of the sensitivity of the plants to day length and temperature. Optimum planting dates occur when the minimum soil temperature is above 65 degrees and the day length reaches 14 1/2 hours—May 15 to June 15 in about all areas of the state.

The Texas Agricultural Experiment Station has released a bulletin entitled Soybean Production in Texas. It discusses all phases of production including adaptation, production methods, fertilization, harvesting and storing. The bulletin is available free of charge from the Agricultural Information Office, College Station, Texas. Ask for Bulletin 919.

Texas Tech Joins In Experiments To Devise Workable Recharge Wells

New efforts are underway at Texas Tech to unclog one of the world's large "storage tanks" and pour in untold gallons of surface water.

The tank is the famed Caprock a high plains geologic formation which holds underground water near the earth's surface where it may be tapped easily for irrigation.

Each year hundreds of indentations in the generally flat top of the Caprock trap rain water. In most instances it evaporates because attempts to store it underground are stymied by silt.

The loose topsoil of the Caprock mixes with the water and clogs recharge wells to the point that their operation is uneconomical. If this problem is solved, several hundred thousands of acre-feet of water can be saved and stored in a year of normal rainfall—much more in above-average years.

Water experts estimate that the recharge would free close to one million acres for farming—acres now covered with water after rains.

Texas Tech agricultural engineers, supervised by Bill Schweiss, say they may have an answer to the problem—lines of subsurface filters stretching underneath a high plain pond and connecting to a main line leading to a recharge well.

A frame of 16 different types of filter lines has been constructed underneath a pond on the Tech Farms at Lubbock. Four of the lines are built with plastic pipe, another four with clay tile.

Bituminous pipe is used in four of the lines, while the final quarter of the system is built with transite (cement-asbestos) pipe.

Four types of fillings are used above the filter pipes, natural sand, coarse sand or gravel plus soil.

Water is expected to filter through the variously-created ponds, into the filter pipes, and from there to the mainline which is expected to feed relatively clean water into the recharge well.

Each year hundreds of indentations in the generally flat top of the Caprock trap rain water. In most instances it evaporates because attempts to store it underground are stymied by silt.

The loose topsoil of the Caprock mixes with the water and clogs recharge wells to the point that their operation is uneconomical. If this problem is solved, several hundred thousands of acre-feet of water can be saved and stored in a year of normal rainfall—much more in above-average years.

The Man who Appreciates the Finest... BUYS HIS WIFE GAS APPLIANCES!

Brush and Brubeck... an unlikely combination! Not to the man who recognizes the "best of his kind," be it reggie or appliances. That's why he insisted on a new GAS Clothes Dryer for his wife. He sees the advantages of instant heat (turn it on and it's on), and no heat hang-over (gas off, heat's gone). He observed how gentle Gas heat blows moisture away instead of baking it out. Clothes come out fluffier, more wrinkle-free and easier to iron! They last longer, too. Yes, in every way—economy included—GAS gives you more. And where the finest is truly appreciated... GAS belongs!

Annual Soils Fertility Day Promotes Farm Practices

Following is a summation of three of the speeches given during the Soils Fertility Day program at Dimmitt High School, Friday, February 13. Space limitations have prohibited their being published before this time.

A summary of the current status of cotton and sorghum diseases was given during the Soil Fertility meeting by G. M. Watkins, dean of agriculture at Texas A & M College. He pointed out the importance of protecting seedling cotton against disease losses and described the vigorous program of research on this subject being carried on in the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station. Progress in the breeding for resistance of bacterial blight and fumarium and verticillium wilts was discussed. Watkins described the potential of sorghum head smut, which has appeared in several parts of the state the past two or three years. Most popular varieties of sorghum are susceptible to head smut, but there are a few which are resistant.

Prosperity in agriculture and livestock is fundamental to every business man in the Dimmitt area, Cecil G. Kersey, Executive Assistant, FW&D Ry. Co., Houston told the annual Castro County Soil Fertility Day group at the High School Auditorium.

future of the railroad industry because of new developments and said it would prosper in proportion to agriculture.

"Because of technological advancements in diesel locomotives, cars with greater capacity, higher train speeds, longer trains, and the new piggyback developments, railroads can haul products of farm and ranch more economically than any other transportation media. Railroads haul freight for less than 1 1/2¢ a ton mile. This is less than half the cost by any other known overland method. Freedom from governmental regulation to operate as a transportation agency using all kinds of vehicles, and freedom to price transportation in a competitive market are definitely needed to give the most efficient and economical service possible for agricultural products. This would definitely benefit all agricultural interests as well as others.

Today a train can easily haul 125 cars with two truck trailers each or 250 truck loads piggyback with only one engine and one crew, he pointed out. Railroads seek freedom to operate in this manner.

Fort Worth & Denver Railway were cosponsors of the program with the Dimmitt Lions Club, Chamber of Commerce, Texas Agricultural Extension Service and the Soil Conservation District.

Through the annals of American history, few investments have paid off like agricultural research and the Extension Service, Robert G. Cherry, Economist from Texas A&M College said today. Each Texas citizen "cuts a melon" in dividends every day, the economist stated. Cherry was speaking at the Soils Fertility Day meeting at Dimmitt High School. Cherry is Economist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, a part of the Texas A&M College System.

One of the problems farmers and ranchers face today is getting the public to understand how agricultural progress has contributed to the general economy and to each person individually. "Most people understand how we help the farmer and ranchmen," he pointed out, "but they tend to overlook the fact that the city man benefits from our work just as much as the agricultural producer."

In the last 10 years the average Texan's income has risen 38 percent. It might be reasonable to expect that the farm price of food would have risen around that same amount. But instead of the price of food, at the farm level, increasing, the opposite has occurred. Food prices at the farm have actually gone down by three percent. What does this mean to you? Well, let's look at the personal saving to you, the economist suggested.

If the farm price of food had increased the same as personal income, each Texas family would have paid an average of $284 more for its food last year. For the entire state of Texas this adds up to be $768,000,000. The State government's investment in the Texas Agricultural Extension Service for last year was just 13 cents per person. Everybody benefits when research and Extension increase agricultural efficiency, he pointed out.

Chevy stops quickest... goes farthest on a gallon!

Chevy showed the best brakes of the leading low-priced three in a test of repeated stops at highway speeds conducted and certified by NASCAR*. Chevy also won over the other two in a NASCAR economy run—with the highest gas mileage for 6's and V8's at cruising speeds of just over 55 miles an hour.

Here's a car that knows how to get the most out of a gallon. And it's the only car in its field to bring you hydraulic valve lifters in all popular engines—6 and V8. This means smoother, quieter performance for you. There are many other advances just as fundamental as the efficiency of Chevrolet's engines and the dependability of its new brakes (with more lining area than any other low-priced car). But why not stop by your dealer's and let Chevy do its own sweet talking!

see your local authorized Chevrolet dealer for quick appraisal—early delivery!

A Tribute To Our Lawyers!

The astute lawyer is a philosopher as well as a humanitarian. Your troubles are his troubles. He knows people. He understands character. He is kindly and considerate. On occasion he can be a firebrand, but always in the defense of the client whom he believes in the right. Poring over huge legalistic tomes or sincerely defending you in court, he is truly your friend and counselor against the unjust and avaricious. In this community our excellent lawyers stand as a bulwark against inefficient government. Civic pride and betterment are their goals. We salute them today for their magnificent achievements!
