VOLUME LII

HICO, TEXAS, FRIDAY, JULY 5, 1936.

NUMBER 6.

Here In HICO

A most convincing piece of evidence that this is a neighborly section came to our attention this week. Not that such evidence is scarce, nor that same is in any way out of the ordinary in this land of peace and plenty. On the contrary it is such a typical example of this spirit that we feel compelled to tell about it.

Johnson Patterson, a thrifty farmer of the Olin community, whose grudge turned sour on him late in May and forced a four-weeks' sojourn in the Gorman Hospital, at the same time throwing visions of harps and angels about him and causing him to reflect seriously on the kind of life he had lived, has a reputation for energy and thriftiness if nothing else. Pat's involuntary vacation came just at a time when farm work was pressing, and at first prospects for raising a crop this season were dark and dreary. But do you think his good neighbors allowed the farm to go to the dogs? If you do you are badly mistaken.

The story goes that fourteen staunch friends and neighbors deserted their own fields, bringing their own equipment and tools, to the Patterson soil with a determination to put some up in its customary enviable condition and get crops growing where they had always grown. They worked so loyally and so effectively that it is said that the Patterson farm was one of the first in that community to be sown and planted, and that many of the fellows neglected their own places to some extent in caring for that of their friend and neighbor. Mr. Patterson says that if he had tried to hire the work done there would not have been enough money in the country to do so, for the emergency came at a time when there just wasn't any labor available for hire.

We think the whole affair is very commendable. In the first place it showed an excellent spirit on the part of the neighbors, and then too it proves conclusively that Mr. Patterson must be pretty careful about his conduct in order to enjoy friends such as this. He certainly has made a success of what he likes to refer to as his business. If everyone would look upon diversified farming as a business, as do Mr. Patterson and his wife and helpmeet, we believe we would hear less aching about conditions, and would see more modern, convenient and slightly farm homes in this community.

On a trip to Austin Monday of this week, the News Review editor was even more definitely impressed with the appearance of this section in comparison with other parts of the State traversed.

Cotton and corn and grain through this portion of Baradise showed up to better advantage than we ever have noted before. Throughout the cotton belt in the black land of Bell and Williamson counties something seems to have happened to the crops which are later than usual this year, and spotted. Those farmers down there concentrate on cotton, and it they can't raise that better than our farmers, who diversify and have a number of other irons in the fire, then we must be doing well.

Nowhere between Hico and Austin did we see better crops than right around Hico, unless it was down around the Hamilton-Coryell line, and we look upon that as a piece of our own territory when it comes to drawing lines. This is no criticism of the parts of the State we traveled through, either, for we realize that our own section has been blessed by the elements, and that we would be territory ungrateful should we fail to show up to advantage when we have good seasons.

Hico is receiving quite a bit of favorable publicity and comment from the folders recently issued, distribution of which began last week. The News Review alone has had several requests for copies of same, and we believe that members of the Chamber of Commerce and others interested in the city and territory can promote the interests of this section in no uncertain way by using a generous share of the folders to include in regular correspondence and in various ways that may occur to them. They are furnished free by the Chamber of Commerce to those having a legitimate use for them. Call for yours.

This newspaper consistently and continuously tries to call attention to the merits and virtues of the Hico country, but of course there are quite a few people in the United States who as yet are not numbered among our subscribers. So if you believe in genuine promotion, without over-enthusiasm and too much hot air, we would look upon it as a personal favor if every citizen would lend his hand toward helping us tell the world about Hico.

State Treasurer In Hico For Visit to Friends At "Home"

Enjoying shaking hands and reminiscing with the old-timers of the town where he was reared and where he attended school, State Treasurer Charley Lockhart was in Hico this week for a short visit before taking up the strenuous duties of his campaign for reelection.

Mr. Lockhart stated that he was willing to let his record stand as a large plank in his platform, as the duties of the office he has so efficiently held during the past few years prevented him from making a complete canvass of the State. He was unwilling, however, to pass up this opportunity to come by and say "howdy" to his staunch friends of this community, whom he holds in such high regard.

Mr. Lockhart previously had accepted an invitation to speak at the Annual Hico Reunion, which will be held on August 12, 13, 14 and 15. A committee visited his office in Austin on Monday of this week and he tentatively accepted the invitation extended by them, assuring them that he would be present on one of the days, although it will be necessary to wait until later to announce the exact day and time.

4 School Districts Consolidated With Fairy's Recently

Supt. W. M. Horsley of the Fairy Schools, who has been instrumental in securing additional affiliation for the Fairy school district during his period of service, this week reported that additional progress had been made in school affairs, calling for a greatly enlarged district taking in a total area of around 84 square miles, with a total assessed valuation of about $700,000.

At a recent meeting of the Hamilton County Board of Education the following schools were consolidated: Fairy, Falls Creek, Acee, Long Point and Mt. Pleasant. This is the largest consolidation ever made in Hamilton County.

The following men were appointed to serve on the board of the consolidated district: H. S. Pitts, C. C. Parks, J. T. Jackson, Clair Branson, Walter Abel, Carl Blacklock and C. W. Russell.

Credits for affiliation granted Fairy school this year include 2 in English, 2 in Algebra, 1 in Plane Geometry, 1 in Ancient History, 1 in Modern History, 1 in American History, 1 in Junior Science and 1 in Biology.

Patience Asked Of All Applicants For Old Age Assistance

In reply to an inquiry from Judge Barrow, he received the following letter from the Waco office, the letter explains itself:

An estimate of 40,000.00 applicants for Old Age Assistance in Texas will receive checks the first of July, ranging from $9.00 to $30.00.

Many of the applicants have not yet been investigated due to the fact it was impossible to contact everyone before first of July. We urge that you be as patient with us as possible and please refrain from writing to the District and State Office, as to why you have not been investigated. We expect to contact each and every applicant by the last of August. If you have not been investigated and your application was on file before the first of July your payments will date back to the first of July.

We wish to take this opportunity to thank each and every one in District No. 8, who have helped in any way in assisting the aged people in filling out their applications. Especially do we thank the County Officials and the newspaper editors in this District for their splendid cooperation. It was through your efforts that we received about ninety five per cent of the applications type written. This has been a great saving, both in time and expense to this office.

Any time we can be of service to you let us know.

Supervisor District No. 8.

Monthly Trades Day And Political Rally Wednesday, July 8th

Plans forming for next Wednesday, July 8, point toward a real old-fashioned "hot time" in Hico.

That day is the date for Hico's regular Trades Day, which in itself attracts large crowds for the gift distribution of fifty dollars, together with a number of thrifty shoppers who always attend the event to save money on their purchases.

In addition, there will be combined with the July Trades Day an old-time political rally, to which all candidates have been issued invitations. H. F. Sellers, in charge of allotting the time for the candidates, states that quite a number have filed their requests for a place on the program, and indications are that most of the county and district offices will be represented with speakers.

Arrangements are being made for conveniences for the speakers and the audience. Speakers will be limited as to the amount of time allowed them, and the affair will provide an opportunity for voters to familiarize themselves with the candidates for each office in which they will be called upon to cast their ballot on July 25th.

In this issue of the News Review will be found advertising messages from a number of Hico merchants who are offering special inducements to the trading public on this special day.

The Trades Day committee of the Hico Chamber of Commerce announces that the gift distribution plan is being supported by almost one hundred per cent of the merchants. There are some few who do not cooperate in the plan, and the committee requests that in making purchases the public ask at each place about this and insist upon full cooperation.

Instructions Given For Saving Money On Centennial Trip

DALLAS, Texas, June 30.—Park ing rates from five cents an hour to 25 cents a day, tourist caravan camping spots from nothing a day up and regulation tourist camps from $1.50 a night up for a couple. That's what the tourist to Texas finds and with the $25,000,000 Texas Centennial Exposition in full swing, the travel trend is to the Lone Star State.

The thousands of motorists coming here for the first World's Fair of the Southwest are experiencing no difficulty in finding quarters for themselves and their cars. In addition to an abundance of garages, there are many parking lots in the immediate vicinity of the 200-acre exposition inclosure. All-day parking fees range from 10 cents to 25 cents and motorists are taking advantage of these low rates in great numbers.

Tourist camps for the "in-can" caravans have sprung up like wildflowers on the outskirts of Dallas to take care of Centennial Exposition visitors. Most of these are thoroughly modern in design and equipment, supplying running hot and cold water, private bathrooms with showers and really comfortable accommodations in hygienic surroundings. Many of the camps have electrical facilities for those who prefer to live in their trailers.

Although Dallas is crowded with motorists from throughout the nation, traffic is being handled with a minimum of new and special regulations. A few streets in the Centennial Exposition area have been made one-way thoroughfares, but the three-light system, the amber caution light accompanied by the ringing of a bell has served to keep traffic moving without need of much assistance from traffic officers.

In the Dallas business district, visitors have found the parking meters of great convenience. For five cents an hour motorists get undisturbed possession of a parking space near all hotels and shops, without necessity of traveling for blocks to locate an open spot.

Officials from various American cities always seek information regarding the success of the parking meter system. Dallas is second large city to install the system. Tulsa, Oklahoma, where the parking meter was invented by Carl C. Magee, militant news paper editor, was the first city to put parking meters in its business district. Many other cities have followed suit.

Dallas officials declare the system is a success, both financially and from the standpoint of regulating traffic. The meters are on iron-pipe standards, about four feet high. When a motorist parks in the space marked off within proper range of the meter, he inserts a five cent piece and a green light signifies that the space is reserved for an hour. At the end of the hour, the meter light goes red and a police ticket charging overparking is placed on the car unless another five cent piece is inserted.

The meters are declared by officials to have paid for them selves within the first two months of operation.

Most Hico Stores Agree to Observe Monday As Holiday

Due to the fact that Independence Day comes on Saturday this year, and that closing in observance of the Fourth on that day would inconvenience shoppers, most Hico stores have agreed to close their doors Monday, July 6, for the holiday.

The post office will take the holiday on the regular day, it is announced, so those who have postal business are cautioned to anticipate their needs.

Responding to a petition circulated this week at the following stores, signatures were obtained as follows:

Power Company to Hold Demonstration This Afternoon

All ladies of this vicinity are invited to attend a Nesco Cooker Demonstration to be held at the local offices of the Community Public Service Company Friday afternoon, July 3, beginning at 3 o'clock.

Local Manager C. P. Coston states that there will be 10 large dinners prepared at the demonstration and afterward awarded to 10 ladies present in the audience, and believes that interest will be high in the educational advantages of the program, as well as in the free dinner awards which will be offered. In discussing the affair, he adds:

"Our staff home economist, Mrs. Dallas Plauche, is going to stage a novel demonstration of electric cookery. She is going to cook 10 meals simultaneously in 10 Nesco electric cookers. She is going to do the cooking while you watch to show how easy it is to cook with a Nesco; how it keeps the kitchen cool; how it eliminates guess-work and assures uniform results; how it cooks without attention; how it improves flavor by cooking foods in their own nourishing juices.

"To prove her points, Mrs. Plauche is going to give each of the 10 meals away to someone present in the audience. She is going to invite them to take the food home in the cooker, compare its flavor with that of food cooked in the ordinary way and then try the cooker for three days without obligation. You may be one of those to take home a free meal. Don't fail to attend."

Superintendents Of WPA At Hamilton For Instructions

Among those present at a meeting held at the sewing room in Hamilton Tuesday evening of this week was R. L. Jenkins of Hico, Superintendent of the WPA project involving street paving and storm sewer work here.

The meeting was attended by 16 superintendents from various parts of the district composed of Hamilton, Lampasas and Comanche counties. It was presided over by W. W. Stephens, Second Assistant Field Supervisor of WPA. The purpose was to discuss progress of the different projects in the district and to outline the program for the coming fiscal year, beginning July 1.

According to Mr. Jenkins, it was explained that there will be no radical change in the program as carried out during the last fiscal year, and that all projects would continue under the original set-up. The only rearrangement will come in the prevailing wage scale, which as yet has not been established. Under the plan outlined for this year, however, the hours of work per month will probably be reduced, and the wage scale increased in direct proportion.

In other words, the scale for common laborers on the local project has been 15¢ per hour for common labor, and the laborers worked 140 hours per month. In case the wage scale is increased to 30¢ per hour, then the hours will be reduced to 70 per month, and at any other scale established the hours will be reduced in proportion.

The main point established at the meeting, according to Mr. Jenkins, was that all WPA workers must really go to work. Each laborer will be required to put in full time or will face dismissal. This is a rigid requirement of the Government which will be enforced on each project.

The local storm sewer project has gone rapidly toward completion within the past few weeks, and the excavation work is practically completed. At the upper end rock bottom was struck, but this will cause little difficulty and it is expected that the rock work will continue at a pace rapid enough to assure completion in the near future. Inspectors and supervisors have praised the job highly, saying that it is showing up well in comparison with other projects in the district.

Back In Texas

THOMAS L. BLANTON
Congressman

Blanton Returns to Texas Following Close of Session

Following his strenuous duties during his service in Congress, Thomas L. Blanton, Representative of the 17th District of Texas, arrived in Texas this week from Washington and will make a whirlwind campaign for reelection throughout the district as soon as he can get his itinerary mapped out. Owing to the manifold duties of the office which he has so efficiently and conscientiously filled, Mr. Blanton will be prevented from making an extensive campaign. He feels, however, that the voters appreciate his position and would prefer to have him take care of the matters that come up for his consideration. A recent letter from his Washington office follows:

"It will be July 1 before I can reach Texas. My mail has been terribly congested during the closing days of Congress. It must all be answered.

"There are numerous WPA and PWA projects in my district not yet released. I shall endeavor to get them all approved and released.

"In spite of everything the few of us who watch them closely could do to stop them, several scores of bad bills get by and more passed during the last three days of Congress. I am preparing briefs on them to submit to the President with the recommendation, and in the hopes that they may be voted.

"THOMAS L. BLANTON."

Postal Receipts At Local Office Show Gain Over Last Year

If postal receipts may be taken as a barometer of business conditions, then business in Hico this year is better than in 1935.

At the close of the fiscal year on June 30 the local post office sent in its annual report and figures submitted by Postmaster Jimmie L. Holford show that receipts during the first six months of this year exceed the figures for the same period last year.

In the quarter just closed, including the month of April, May and June, receipts were $2,743.84, as against $2,502.47 for the same period of 1935, a gain of $241.37 over last year. The first quarter, January, February and March, ran $55.44 behind last year, which deducted from the gain in the second quarter still leaves a net gain of $185.93 for the six month period.

Distribution of the soldiers' bonus bonds and the attendant large amount of work did not add to the receipts of the local office, as the matter was mailed without charge.

REPRESENTATIVE ADDRESSES VOTERS HERE SATURDAY

Earl Huddleston, Representative in the Legislature from the 94th District composed of Hamilton and Coryell counties, and a candidate for reelection to the same office, was in Hico last Saturday afternoon and addressed a large crowd of citizens in the interest of his candidacy.

In his short talk, beginning at 3:30, Mr. Huddleston discussed his record, which he stated was open for the inspection of those who cared to know about it. He maintained that he had stayed on the job and worked for an honest and economical administration of the State government.

Mr. Huddleston stated that he had tried to work in harmony with what the people of his district wanted, and for laws that were for the best interests of the masses of the people.

Adding that he had voted for the original pension bill and also for a bill providing for payment of pensions to begin on January 1, 1936, Mr. Huddleston thanked his listeners for their attention and solicited a continuance of the support which he had always received from the voters of his section.

Accorded Honors.

Denton, Texas, July 1.—Three Hico girls, Misses Martha Porter, Flossy Randals, and Jeannette Randals, have been accorded scholastic honors at Texas State College for Women (CIA) on the basis of their work during the second semester of the past session. Their names will be inscribed on the dean's honor roll, and special recognition will be given them by the College.

Keeping Up With TEXAS

Business research experts at the University of Texas Tuesday tabulated a slight gain this month in Texas employment and payrolls over May and a substantial increase over last June. The number of workers increased 5 per cent over last June and 1 per cent from May. Payrolls were up 15 per cent from a year and 1 per cent from May. Cities with records better than the state average were Amarillo, Denison, Galveston, Houston, Laredo, San Antonio, Waco and Wichita Falls.

Texas paid its first old age pensions Monday. Frank Kainer, 103 years old, and his wife, Anna, 95, who came to this country from Austria-Hungary in 1870, received the first checks. They live at Austin. Each of them got $25, but Mrs. Kainer promptly handed her check to her husband, an invalid confined to a wheelchair since he fell and broke his hip several years ago. "That's a model wife," commented Gov. James V. Allred as Mrs. Kainer turned the money over to her husband. The first pension checks, issued in confirmation with a constitutional amendment voted last fall, were given to the recipients at an elaborate ceremony cut short by rain and repeated for the benefit of news reel men who spoiled their first "shots."

Two unmasked men who forced three employees and a customer into the vault of the Friona State bank escaped Monday with $3965. They missed $5000 which they could have taken. They fled to the east, whence they had come, with a third man who drove their new (Ford V-8) automobile. Charlie McLean, bank cashier, said both men were in their late twenties or early thirties, one heavily built and the other medium built. The men parked their car across Main street in front of the bank, one remaining in the machine while the other two crossed the street and entered the front door of the bank. Both had guns drawn and forced McLean, his wife and Miss Norma White, bank employes, and Hugh Lee, a customer, to enter the vault. The heavy door was swung shut but not locked, and the bandits went out the back door. It was the third time the bank has been held up since 1927.

L. A. Woods, superintendent of public instruction, Wednesday released to depository banks warrants paying $1 on the annual per capita school aid of $17.50. The payment brought to $16 the amount paid this year for each of the 1,557,782 schoolchildren. Woods said the remaining $1.50 of the current apportionment likely would be paid by Aug. 10.

All persons inclined to live this side of the law were advised to "steer clear" of Denison—or else bring their own beds along. It was revealed that contractors who erected the new city jail overlooked the minor detail of building in beds which were included in the blue prints.

Twenty-one persons were drowned and at least 14 others were missing Wednesday night as devastating South Texas floods devastated homes into driftwood, drowned hundreds of head of cattle and did more than $1,000,000 livestock and crop damage. After 12 lives had been counted earlier, rescuers and rehabilitation workers reported late in the day that four members of a prominent family near Nixon had been drowned when flood waters crushed their home, and that the bodies of four Mexicans had been recovered from the swollen Plum Creek, 15 miles southeast of San Marcos. An unidentified Mexican's body was found on a farm near Buda. An all-night deluge, totaling 14 inches in sections, sent Plum Creek on a rampage which wrecked a Missouri Pacific train and claimed 15 of the dead.

Clad demurely in a poke bonnet and bustled gown that trailed the ground, Sally Rand, beauty of the bubbles, went to Fort Worth Wednesday as one of the stars of the Frontier centennial celebration. Miss Rand, however, was firmly determined to use her fans during her stay here. "Letters from Billy Rose indicate I won't be able to do my fan dance," she pouted, "that something else is planned. I want to do the fan dance. People are always disappointed when I don't."

Accorded Honors.

Denton, Texas, July 1.—Three Hico girls, Misses Martha Porter, Flossy Randals, and Jeannette Randals, have been accorded scholastic honors at Texas State College for Women (CIA) on the basis of their work during the second semester of the past session. Their names will be inscribed on the dean's honor roll, and special recognition will be given them by the College.

ONE OF BEST FEATURES OF TEXAS COWBOY REUNION WILL BE BIG PARADE

STAMFORD, Texas, June 23.—The best attended and one of the most enjoyable features of the Texas Cowboy Reunion has always been the big down-town parade. The parade this year will be the biggest and best in the history of the Reunion, according to Warren B. Tayman, chairman of the parade committee who says that some brand new attractions will be incorporated in this year's event.

Parades will be held daily during the three days of the Reunion, July 2-3-4. However, the grand parade of the Reunion featuring merchants floats, individual decorated floats and cars, cowboys, mounted girl sponsors, junior cowboys, chuck wagons, clowns and brass bands will be held on Friday July 3, the second day of the Reunion, starting at 11 a. m. A special parade of the sponsors on horseback will be held the opening day, Thursday, July 2, at 9 a. m.

Mrs. Margery Bailey who has charge of floats is booking entries now for the parade. Cash prizes of $10 each will be awarded to the winners as follows: best individual entry, best commercial entry, best out-of-town entry, and most typical ranch entry. The winner of the best juvenile entry will draw down $5. A new ruling of the parade committee requires that all entries must be registered before the parade starts.

At least six bands and possibly more will march in this year's parade. The Hardin-Simmons Cow boy band will appear in all parades, and will play at all rodeo performances during the Reunion. The Haskell Band, Breckenridge High School Band, Abilene High School Band, Mascot Temple Band, Wichita Falls and the Stamford Firemen's band will all appear in the grand parade on Friday.

PRACTICAL HOME ECONOMICS DEPARTMENT COOKERY

Denton, Texas, June 30.—Leaf vegetables such as spinach and Swiss chard are valuable for their minerals and vitamins. For this reason they should be used regularly as a food staple.

In the preparation of these vegetables it is absurd to cook the leaves until the stems are tender. The leaf is the most valuable as well as the most palatable part. Therefore remove the stem from all except the very tender center leaves and cook only until the leaves are somewhat tender but not soft. Much of the mineral and vitamin content is lost by cooking in water for a long time. They should be cooked over a low fire and should be turned with a fork occasionally. For greens which are in good condition four to ten minutes of cooking is sufficient.

Leaf vegetables may be served buttered, in croquettes, souffles, in casserole dishes, or mounded.

PINACH CROQUETTES: 1 c bottled potatoes, 1 egg yolk, 1-2 t salt, bread crumbs, 1 c bottled spinach. Mix ingredients, roll into balls and dredge in the bread crumbs. Fry in deep fat and you have a delicious dish. This may be called "spinach disguised."

BREAKFAST: Chilled orange juice, bran, cream, sugar, peanut butter biscuits, coffee.

LUNCH: Baked potato, stewed tomatoes with chopped cooked liver, toast, butter, lettuce salad, baked custard.

DINNER: Meat loaf, buttered rice, creamed carrots, cabbage pepper salad, baked apple with raisin sauce.

BREAKFAST: Stewed prunes, soft cooked eggs, toast, butter, coffee.

LUNCH: Sliced ham, potato salad, tomatoes, whole wheat bread, butter, mash/yellow pudding.

DINNER: breaded veal, baked spinach, creamed potatoes, rolls, butter, pear salad, punch, coconut cake.

BREAKFAST: Bananas and cream, scrambled eggs and toast, coffee.

LUNCH: Bacon, spinach souffle, butter corn, whole wheat rolls, butter, stuffed celery, apple whip with whipped cream.

DINNER: Broiled chicken, gravy, new peas in cream, parsley potatoes, biscuits, butter, spiced vegetable salad, ice cream.

Pity him who wants to live with friends.

"I WOULDN'T RISK MY LIFE ON ANY OTHER TIRE"

Says Louis Meyer - Only three time winner Indianapolis Race 28 33 36

EQUIP YOUR CAR WITH Firestone GUM-DIPPED TIRES for Greater Safety!

THERE is a reason why Louis Meyer won the 500-mile Indianapolis race this year—and why he is the only man ever to win this gruelling race three times. He always used Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires, and never experienced tire trouble of any kind.

Louis Meyer knows tire construction. He also knows that to drive for 500 consecutive miles over this hot brick track, negotiating the dangerous curves 800 times at the record-breaking average speed of 109 miles an hour, requires tires of super strength and greatest blowout protection, as a blowout on any one of the dangerous curves would likely mean instant death. By the Firestone patented Gum-Dipping process every cord in the tires on Louis Meyer's car was soaked and coated with liquid rubber, thereby preventing internal friction and heat. This is the secret of the extra strength and reserve safety built into Firestone Tires.

When you make your holiday trip this week-end, you of course will not drive 109 miles per hour, but at today's higher speeds you do need tires that will give you greatest blowout protection and will stop your car up to 25% quicker. Take no chances! Let us equip your car today with Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires, the safest tires built. It costs so little to protect lives worth so much!

GOES 'ROUND AND 'ROUND
(And It Comes Out Here—)

The Green Frog place of business has had the partition moved back a few feet from the front allowing room for three more people to eat at the counter. Mable said the publicity they had been getting in this column had increased their business one hundred percent.

Buster Swillings, a sailor stationed at San Diego, California, who is visiting relatives here while on a furlough, is spending most of his time on the river fishing. We imagine he does not get to see enough water while in the navy, and he has only been in the service eleven years.

Teague's Variety Store is sporting a new awning at the front of the store to keep out the sunshine in the afternoon. It is of a bright blue and red, and perhaps when a little of Hico's white dust mixes with it, the Centennial motif will be carried out fully. Anyway it gives the place a pretty appearance. They have also added a new ceiling fan in the store.

A new ceiling fan has been installed in the H. & D. Harelk Dry Goods Co., and the Harelks invite the public to come in and be comfortable.

A lot of people in this country might like to get married if they could go to Japan to have the ceremony performed, as we read the other day where a marriage ceremony in Japan consists of passing a cup of wine 18 times between the bride and bridegroom.

The many friends of E. F. Porter are glad to see him back on the job at the drug store after an absence from the store of several months. He has such a friendly way of greeting his customers and usually ends the conversation with a good rich joke. If you feel down and out, just talk to Ebb a while and he will live you up a bit with a joke of the latest kind.

The Silver King contest which has been going on at the H. & D. Harelk Dry Goods Co. for several weeks, closed on Tuesday afternoon of this week and Wynonne Graves was made happy with a new bicycle. Odell Welborn received a bright red racer, and Roberta McMillan a wrist watch. Several other boys and girls in Hico were recipients of other nice and useful gifts.

Hico golfers have been having good luck recently on the local course and attributed their success to the good water in the water tower to quench their thirst after playing a round of nine holes. The other afternoon they were bragging about the advantage they had over other towns, and to keep the tower in fine shape they hired Jim Lane to clean it out. Just as the weary men came in from the last round Tuesday tired and thirsty, Mr. Lane dragged out a buzzard which apparently had drowned in the bottom of the tower some time previously. Wednesday the men were seen with their thermos jugs declaring town water was the best. But now everything is in tip-top shape and the tank filled with good pure water again. That's one birdie that certainly wasn't welcome.

Wednesday morning the street in front of the Farm Implement Supply Co. was filled with new bright red Farmall tractors. A carload had just been received and the seven made the street look like a manufacturing plant. Mr. McDowell, the manager, said he would like to place one of these on your farm.

Mrs. Laura Homer who recently returned to her old home from Dallas has been making extensive improvements on her residence here. A new roof, floors for the porches, a screened-in porch, new screen doors and many other things have been added to make the home more comfortable and cozy. She occupies three rooms, and Mr. and Mrs. Morse Ross the rest of the house.

Since Lusk Randalls only spends from 6 a. m. until 7 p. m. in their store, he feels that he doesn't get enough exercise so he finishes the day by mowing their lawn late in the afternoons. If he could only find a little night work to do, maybe his mind would be fully occupied.

Dick Hollis was telling us an outlandish fish story the other day, and one we didn't believe so we won't print it for we don't want to mislead any of our readers on any subject. Sometimes we wonder if Mr. Hollis' influence isn't having an effect on Johnnie Farmer since they seem to be such close friends. We hardly think Johnnie would ever exaggerate any kind of a story—much less a fish one—and he might get the habit from Mr. Hollis.

Don't forget to attend Dollar Day in Hico on Wednesday of next week. Many bargains are being offered by the merchants besides the free prizes as usual. We'll see you then.

John E. Miller Gives Views In Campaign For Representative

John E. Miller gives his views on Legislative issues. The people of District 94, (composed of Coryell and Hamilton counties) are vitally concerned with the representative's office and in casting your vote I ask that you consider the soundness of my platform on the most important questions. I advocate:

1. A unicameral or one house Legislature.
2. Prompt and full payment of Old Age pensions.
3. General economy in handling tax money.
4. Specification of appropriations to each department.
5. Tax on one's equity in property only.
6. Increased tax on natural resources.
7. Abolishment of unnecessary departments and curtailment of some other departments that are using too much money.
8. Adequate support of Public Education and Government.

I believe that we will not obtain justice for the common people until we have a more democratic representation in the Legislature. The people desire a government which confers special privileges to none but guarantees equal rights to all. Most every one knows that a privileged few are dominating our Legislature and that these few are not working for the interests of the common people. A one house Legislature will permit a critical public to know just how their representative is conducting the affairs of the district he represents, and will give him a chance to more adequately perform the duties incumbent on him besides economical advantages financially the powerful lobbyists will find it much more difficult to buy the majority of one house than the few who are selected to do most of the major legislation under the two house system. This one question is the people's individually and regardless of how your representative stands I believe the people should be allowed to vote on this issue.

Enough has already been said to disgust those rightfully paid pension promises are all right when fulfilled but this one question has caused more unfulfilled promises than any question. Those who deserve a pension may not know it but our two house system of Legislature is directly responsible for the present lack of funds. The natural resources of this state, which could and should take care of the old aged if a just tax could be put on them, have escaped a fair tax by lobbying with the present system of Legislature. If the people's tax money paid in support of our government were handled economically by the Legislature the tax payer would not grumble so long as money is squandered they have a right to kick. I believe in economy first and last.

If the legislature would specify what the money was to be spent for when it makes appropriations to the various departments. If it could throw more work on them but when approximately $20,000,000 per year could be saved, the time would be well spent. Most of the state departments would be willing to use all of the taxpayer's money for selfish purposes if allowed to do so and that is practically the condition under promiscuous appropriation. Some of the departments could be abolished and most of them could be cut down so that Texas would have a balance instead of continued threatening deficits.

If a person buys some property he should have to pay tax only on the part he actually owns. The holder of land notes is the man who profits under the present system of taxation at the expense of the fellow who is able to pay a small down payment on a place and then has to pay taxes on the entire indebtedness just as if he owned it. I do not believe in being unjust to any one or any organization but I believe that the little man deserves justice too.

Believing the public schools are as much a part of our government as the constitution, I believe we should adequately take care of the smallest and the highest. We have at hand the opportunity of making Texas schools the best in the world and in the next few decades the advancement of Texas in progressive channels will depend upon the school system as well as a contentment of the citizenship in general.

I have worked conscientiously and diligently at every job I have undertaken. I am working hard to be the next representative of Coryell and Hamilton Counties and if elected to that office I shall employ every means available to equip myself with the necessary knowledge on taxation and political science as well as strive to know the will of the people I represent, so that district 94 shall be as well represented as any district in Texas. Ask the person who knows me for any desired information. Your support will be gratefully appreciated, and I shall endeavor to prove worthy should I be elected to represent you in the Legislature.

Respectfully,
JOHN E. MILLER

INTERNATIONAL HARVESTER EXHIBIT AT CENTENNIAL A WONDERFUL SIGHT

The International Harvester Company exhibit at the Texas Centennial Central Exposition occupies all of the west wing of the Transportation Building—an area comprising 19,810 square feet of floor space. This exhibit includes displays of historic and educational interest not only to users of farm machines, motor trucks, and industrial power equipment made by the Harvester Company, but also to all men, women, and children interested in the social and economic progress of the past century.

A replica of the first reaper, built in 1831 by Cyrus Hall McCormick, is on display, as well as models of many of the machines that evolved from the reaper. A full-sized 16-foot McCormick-Dearing harvester-thresher is displayed operating slowly so that visitors can see how each part functions. This mighty monarch of the harvest fields can cut, thresh, and clean the grain from 40 to 50 acres a day.

Much of the progress of the past century is a direct result of American ingenuity in perfecting not only the modern grain binder—showing just how this ingenious invention of 55 years ago, still in extensive use, loops the twine around a sheaf of grain, ties the knot, and then cuts the twine when the knot is completed.

Of interest to the dairymen is a milk cooler, a new product of International Harvester, as well as a variety of cream separators and milking machines—several of them in operation and cut away to show their mechanism. An outstanding attraction, of interest to every one is the mechanical cow—an accurately reproduced Holstein that chews its cud, blinks its eyes, moves its head and ears, switches its tail, breathes, moos, and gives milk in a most realistic manner.

Various sizes and types of farm tractors are shown as well as machines of the quick-attachable type that are used with these tractors. Throughout each day there are demonstrations of how many of these modern machines can be attached or detached from a tractor in from two to five minutes each. In continuous operation is a tractor-operated two-row cultivator, demonstrating the ease with which the modern equipped cotton grower can cultivate 25 acres a day—cultivating close to growing crops without damaging them even though the rows may be quite crooked.

There also is an extensive display of stationary power units and wheel-type crawler-type tractors made by International Harvester for use in oil fields, lumbering, road building and maintenance and for various other industrial purposes. In continuous operation is an International Diesel engine cut away to show how it starts on gasoline and then shifts automatically to operation on Diesel fuel.

An important part of the progress in transportation featured in this building is an extensive variety of motor trucks displayed in the International Harvester wing. These include four and six-wheel trucks with panel, stake, and oil tank bodies, as well as one of the latest types of school buses.

A complete description of the variety of displays in the International Harvester exhibit would reveal a great many other items of historic interest and educational value not only to farmers but also to city people. The careful fair goer will find that he can profitably spend several hours in the west wing of the Transportation Building studying the many International Harvester displays.

SPENDING THE BONDS

Nearly two billion dollars of fresh purchasing power is now being put into the hands of more than three and a half millions of American families through the distribution of the bonus bonds voted to veterans of the World War by Congress. That this distribution is bound to have a stimulating effect upon business of all kinds in every part of the country is certain.

Never before has such an enormous amount of fresh money been dropped at one time into the channels of trade. How permanent the effect of this influx of cash may be it is much too early to say. At best, its effect can only be guessed as since there is no precedent in economic history. That it will, in the main, be beneficial in tiding the business of the nation over the usual Summer slump is probably true. It is another question, however, what the effect of the bonus payments will be upon those who are receiving them.

Doubtless a fair proportion of the veterans will save their bonus bonds, either adding to savings they already have accumulated or starting a fresh back-log against the future. But it is too much to expect of human nature that the majority will be so prudent. Economic conditions being what they are, it is reasonably certain that a high percentage of the bonus recipients will feel themselves compelled to meet pressing obligations with the proceeds of their bonds. And it is even more certain that a great many of them will behave as the general run of people are prone to behave when wealth comes into their hands.

"Easy come, easy go." is much more than a mere catchword. It expresses a philosophy based upon a sound understanding of human nature. Few people can resist the temptation to splurge when they find themselves suddenly in possession of money. It is to be feared that it will not be long before a large proportion of the recipients of the bonus will be just as "broke" as they were before they got it.

THE CONSTITUTIONAL ISSUE

A few months ago it looked as if the Constitution of the United States might be one of the major issues between the two political parties in the Presidential campaign which has just begun. The reversal by the Supreme Court of some of the Administration's measures, enacted by a Democratic Congress, and the resentment openly expressed, prepared many political observers to expect a demand by the Democrats for a revision of the Constitution, either extending the powers of Congress or curbing the authority of the Supreme Court. Surprisingly enough, however, the only suggestion of a Constitutional change, so far as it officially figures in the campaign, has come from the Republican candidate for President, Gov. Landon.

President Roosevelt took occasion to declare himself and, by inference, the party which follows his leadership, in his speech at Little Rock on June 10. In referring to the Constitution as "the best instrument ever devised" for maintaining the fundamental principles on which the nation was founded, and declaring that "it is intended to meet and satisfy the amazing physical, economic and social requirements that confront us," he put an effective end to the talk that he and his party would inject the Constitutional issue into the campaign.

Gov. Landon, in his telegram to the Republican National Convention, did not accept his party's platform declaration that ways can be found under the Constitution whereby states may enact minimum wage laws for women and children and declared that he was prepared to advocate a Constitutional amendment to that end, if necessary, to accomplish the purpose.

Neither candidate has voiced any criticism of the Supreme Court. Both Gov. Landon and President Roosevelt are intelligent enough to understand that even though the Constitution does not specifically authorize the Court to set aside an act of Congress, it is its prime function, as it is of any court, to interpret the law, and the Constitution specifically declares itself to be the "supreme law of the land." It will so remain until the people themselves decide otherwise.

Better a poor man's friendship than a rich man's benefactions.

FOURTH OF A SERIES OF QUESTIONS ASKED ABOUT OLD AGE ASSISTANCE

AUSTIN, June 15.—This is the fourth of a series of questions asked by citizens of this State and answered by Orville S. Carpenter, executive director of the Texas Old Age Assistance Commission:

Q—Did the United States Government have any part in drafting the Texas law?

A—The Texas Legislature drafted the Texas Old Age Assistance Law in such form as to enable Federal cooperation. In preparing the bill the Legislative Committee had the assistance and advice of a representative of the National Social Security Board.

Q—How many applications for assistance have been received?

A—About 190,000.

Q—How many applications do you believe will be approved by July 1?

A—Approximately 40,000.

Q—What about the payments to those old people whose applications have not been approved July 1?

A—The Commission will continue investigating applications for assistance, and as each application is approved, the applicant will receive a check for all payments beginning July 1. Aged applicants who are found to be eligible after July 1 will receive back payments. This, of course, concerns those who applied before July 1 and are subsequently found eligible.

Q—Payments will be based upon need as required by law?

A—Yes. Payments will not only be based upon need but upon the amount of need. Old people who need more money will receive larger grants than those whose needs require less.

Q—Is it true that after the first job of investigating the 190,000 applications, the operating expenses of the Commission will be paid by the Federal Government?

A—Yes. We believe that a large part, if not all, of the actual costs of operation—after the 190,000 applications have been investigated—will be paid by the U. S. Government. The 5 per cent expense allotment allowed Texas by the Social Security Board will be sufficient, we believe, to cover the ordinary running expenses of the Commission.

CHARMING TOWN FROCK

Pattern 8724: Here you have a dress model which runs the gamut in general utility wear. Good for any day time occasion on which you want trim, sporty, unstudied appearance.

The slenderized hip and waist lines give way to freedom in the skirt through the use of the popular, kick pleat in center front.

Especially of interest to the sports girl is the inverted center pleat in back which allows for a full swing, a hard drive or whatever activity one's bent follows.

Women who like the button shoulder trim (and who doesn't!) will be more intrigued with the one piece sleeve and yoke in this model. A shirtwaist-skirt combination which requires a minimum of sewing experience; it will serve well on many occasions this spring and summer.

Nancy Hart's HOME NEWS

Nothing is more fatal to love-liness than frowns and fatigue lines about the eyes and mouth. Nothing makes fatigue lines grow faster and thicker than painful, burning feet. Unbecoming frowns are often found to be due to uncomfortable feet.

Weak feet are usually due to a flattening of the long arch that extends from the heel to the great toe. And a lot of that weakness is due to nothing else than lack of exercise and improper shoes. Just walking isn't enough. You must practice walking correctly, with feet pointed straight ahead.

Unless your feet are badly strained or weakened, the following exercise will help keep that lone arch in the position it ought to be. All exercises to correct and prevent weak feet should be done barefooted. Even a stocking is slightly restricting.

1. Standing with feet in correct walking position, raise the instep by contracting the sole of the foot, bringing the toes and heels as much together as possible.

2. Turn up the inner border of the foot as much as possible and walk on the outer.

3. Rise on the toes, raising the arches with weight on outer side of feet. Relax and repeat several times.

4. Walk on the outer edge of the feet with toes and heels turned in.

5. Place marbles on the floor and try to pick them up with your toes, walking on the outer border of the feet with heels and toes turned in.

So many women do not remove one coating of lipstick before they apply a fresh one. It's a good idea to carry a few absorbent tissues in the purse and wipe off every trace of rouge before applying fresh. This helps to keep the mouth from looking dry and chapped, with crumbly, splootchy lip rouge showing up unattractively.

Narrow brushes give the hair a better "currying" than wide ones and are much easier to keep clean. Let's Talk About Clothes

YOUNG MODERN TEXAS STATE COLLEGE L. UORNICIA

Denton, Texas, June 30.—During these hot sultry days, little attention is given to clothes. Something cool is all that is necessary for the average woman, but for the office worker, the appearance element enters just as strong as in the winter months. She has to look nice even if the thermometer does register 98, and sometimes it isn't such an easy problem.

The elimination of silk from the office is by far the best thing girls have done. In the middle of the afternoon, nothing can look worse or be so hot and sticky as a wilted silk dress. And no girl can do first class work when her clothes are uncomfortable.

Instead of the old tub silks she now adorns crisp little cottons—dotted swisses, dimities, and novelty weaves of every description.

There's a new fabric on the market similar to crash, yet as thin and cool as dimity. It makes an ideal office dress. Of course, linens and piques are always nice, but they wrinkle too easily to be really practical for office wear.

The dresses are simple—we see no intricate patterns or unnecessary trimmings. They have very short sleeves, medium-low necks, with tiny flat collars of contrasting material, and few or no pleats. Trimming consists of colored buttons or grosgrain ribbon belt and bows.

Cotton laces are extremely popular, according to Texas State College for Women (CIA). They are shown in pastel colors with shoulder lacings of narrow velvet ribbon. Some even have a tiny bolero jacket that makes a dress-up frock when you have a luncheon date. The dresses are street length and have very little trimming.

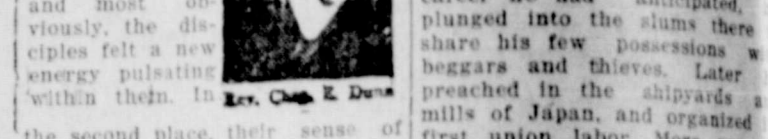

Sunday School Lesson by Rev. Charles E. Dwan

The Coming of the Holy Spirit in Power. Lesson for July 5th. Acts 2:1-11 Golden Text: Acts 1:8.

On the day of Pentecost there occurred a very remarkable demonstration of spiritual power. The disciples of Jesus, gathered in the early morning for worship, were suddenly seized by the breath of God and inspired to speak in many tongues. So unusual was their behavior that they seemed to be intoxicated.

The fruits of Pentecost were five-fold. First, and most obviously, the disciples felt a new energy pulsating within them. In the second place, their sense of fellowship was greatly reinforced. They seemed bound together by the cords of a corporate solidarity. And finally they were lifted to a height where they saw life from a fresh perspective. Fortunately this spiritual vitality is still available, for we are the children of a dynamic, living universe. One vital illustration of this truth is to be found in the person of Toyohiko Kagawa, a Japanese prophet and saint who has been addressing such crowded audiences all over America and Canada. Although his command of English is defective, and his bodily appearance unimpressive, tuberculosis and trachoma contracted in the slums of Kobe, feels that here indeed is a man of God captured by a divine impulse.

Now Kagawa's career began with a close study of the New Testament, the teachings of which he accepted literally after the manner of St. Francis. Breaking with his family, abandoning the public career he had anticipated, he shared his few possessions with beggars and thieves. Later he preached in the shipyards and mills of Japan, and organized first union labor. More recently he has developed a series of cooperative organizations which he believes to contain the secret of truly Christian economic order. Today he may be called the world's most influential proponent of the social gospel.

Rev. Charles E. Dwan

When the market crashed in the fall of 1929 it happened to be hitting a rich man who, though still fairly young, had already made up his mind to retire. In four days two-thirds of his fortune was swept away; he knew that his plans for his life would have to be radically revised. At breakfast on the fifth day he came up smiling. "I'll have to keep at work," he said. "I've thought the thing through, and adjusted my mind to it." Then he added: "After all, retiring is just one form of suicide."

I thought of that extraordinary comment the other day when I met a man who has been retired always. He is now in his early fifties; he is married, but has no children; his health is good, and his income, probably between $12,000 and $15,000 a year, is derived from government bonds which he bought with money left him by his father.

After graduating from college he "worked" for a short time in the family business, but with no enthusiasm, and when his father passed away he promptly took his share of the estate and has done nothing ever since. In the summer he drives to New England where he has a little farm. He has no interest in any of the arts, pays no attention to the advancement of science, does hardly any reading, and takes no part in politics.

His income being tax-exempt he makes no contributions to the expenses of government, and having carefully guarded against the incidence of off-spring, he has no care for the future of the race. In fact the only spark of interest he showed during our conversation was when he told me that he had at last found why the grass would not grow around the borders of the pond on his farm.

Here is a chap who has what one might call the "most abundant life." But why was he born at all? What's it all about? He is the dullest man I have ever met.

BRUCE BARTON Says

The Race Goes On... Meet a "Most Abundant Life"...

You have read, of course, the story of the French Revolution. Riot and pillage swept through Europe's noblest city; proud blocks; the gleaming knife descended; wise heads and beautiful heads rolled together into the basket.

Ask almost anybody the question: "How many met death by the guillotine?" and the answer probably will be: "Tens of thousands."

Recently I had occasion to look up the figures. It appears that in the fifteen months from March 1793 to June 1794, 1251 men and women were sent to the guillotine in Paris. The highest computation that we can make of the increase in the death rate is the city in that period is that it rose from 27.8 per thousand to around 30—noting to be compared with what an influenza epidemic or a list of automobile casualties can do in this country today.

France was as near to chaos as any modern country has been at any time. Yet even through this chaos we must assume that bakers rose early and fired their ovens, the butcher slaughtered his animals, the grocer chaffered with the farmers, the mothers scrubbed the faces of their children and packed them off to school. The actors played in theaters; the people walked the streets.

I was quoting these historical facts recently to a rich and apologetic gentleman who had been arguing that the United States is about to come to an end. I said: "You confuse your personal fortunes with the fate of the nation. You are going to lose some money, perhaps, but the country is not going to die. People will keep on getting married, having babies, telling lies, engaging in silly quarrels and drinking too much coffee, just as they always have done. You and I, who have had things easy up to now, may not be quite so comfortable. But the race goes on."

Each summer brings its round of aggravations. An attack of ivy poisoning may be one of yours. You picnic, clad in light, airy, and very wholesome garments; you sit on, or handle the venomous plant; you are in for it if you are at all susceptible.

Some writers claim that you can not be affected unless you bruise the leaves of the ivy on some part of the person. I believe this is an error. Rarely does a person get a fisherman bruise these leaves on his face, and the face is the surface most frequently affected.

Other writers say that people who are very sensitive to this plant may become poisoned by simply walking through a forest where the "poison-vine" is in bloom. I am satisfied that I have treated such cases.

A new suggestion is that we carry a small bar of good soap with us on our woodland excursion; on being "stung" by a bruised leaf, soap and wash the point of contact thoroughly and no poisoning will result, they say. It's worth trying.

The chemical poison from ivy is toxicodendric acid. It is said to be volatile—that is, may evaporate in air. Being an acid, alkalies are useful in treatment. My favorite prescription for quick results is alcohol and lime-water, equal parts. Apply on soft cloths, wet with the solution, which should be kept out of the eyes. The solutions of lead salts are useful, but I have always feared lead absorption. Lead should never come in contact with the eyes, except by advice of the oculist. It may do great harm. The poison-ivy patient should keep the bowels free with saline laxatives and keep away from strong light or extreme surface heat. Recovery should follow in two to four days.

LETTERS from Our Readers

LETTERS FROM READERS Bakerfield, Calif. June 27, 1936. Hico News Review. Dear Folks: Seems like a long time since I wrote you last but just one year. Enclosed you will find a check for $1.50 for the paper and don't you miss one copy for we read the whole thing, even to the ads, so you see we praise it highly.

I believe I will tell you about a trip me and Miss Muddy made up through the north into Oregon. We went north on 99 highway to Sacramento on north to Uca, saw the Lassen Volcano that is in action now. On the north side is a lake called mud but as clear as can be and cold as ice Monzanta Lake. In a few yards on is so hot you can't hold your hand in them. Several other small lakes they call them the Devil's Kitchen. These are nearly half way up the mountain and that is as high as you want to go, as the roar and tumble in the ground makes you feel creepy, and is dangerous. We went on up to Siscue County, went in the coast house. There is the gold mine county there. They buy gold. I saw in a show case bushes of gold and some nuggets were as high as $600. Went on up into Oregon. You talk about pretty. If you like mountains and flowers, you sure will enjoy that heavy timber up the mountain. The air gets so light they stop to a line and the top looks like a bald headed man. Then we came back to the coast and came back and crossed the bay at San Francisco, the first and only time we were ever on a boat. Came on down the Seawood highway and saw the highest tree there in the world. You can find its history from Washington.

I could write you for a week and not finish then, so come home, this is a fine country for anyone that likes it but I wouldn't give Hico and its trade territory for the whole State. Me and Miss Muddy are doing fine and will try to see you all this summer.

I have had another bad spell with my heart, was in the bed 63 days but have gone back to work. Lots of love to you all from S. O. SHAFER AND MISS MUDDY.

P. S. I will try to send you a box of fruit and vegetables out of my garden some of these days when they get their best.

Other visitors at the home and hospital during his illness included Mr. Quarles, Charlie Patterson of Clovis, Ed Patterson of Lubbock, Albert Patterson of Hamilton, J. D. Patterson, wife and son Buddy Duane of San Angelo, Mr. and Mrs. Osteen Patterson of Hamilton, and a number of relatives as well as a host of friends who are seeing to it that Mr. Patterson does not get lonesome. Mr. and Mrs. Patterson say that they have had so many kind acts done for them during the period of his illness that it would be impossible to begin to mention all of them. Everyone is glad to have him back home, and it is hoped that his condition will continue to improve so that he may be up and around soon.

TO THE VOTERS OF PRECINCT NUMBER 3

Owing to the fact that there have been various reports concerning the finances of my precinct, I print the following certificate from the County Treasurer: "The State of Texas, County of Hamilton: I, Doll Adams, County Treasurer of Hamilton County, Texas, do hereby certify that there is to the credit of S. A. Clark, Comsr. Prec. No. 3 of Hamilton County, Texas, the following amounts in the different road funds, viz: Highway Fund $3,983.83 Road & Bridge Fund 2,663.02 Special Road Fund 2,938.17 Total in All Funds 9,585.02 Given under my hand and seal of office this 27th day of June, 1936. DOLL ADAMS, County Treasurer."

The only indebtedness that my precinct owes is $3,400.00 on tractor and grader. For many years we have bought our road machinery in yearly payments, that is we pay for it as we use it. Those who desire may verify this by reference to the auditor's report published in the Hico News Review of March 27th, 1936. S. A. CLARK.

LETTERS from Our Readers

LETTERS FROM READERS Bakerfield, Calif. June 27, 1936. Hico News Review. Dear Folks: Seems like a long time since I wrote you last but just one year. Enclosed you will find a check for $1.50 for the paper and don't you miss one copy for we read the whole thing, even to the ads, so you see we praise it highly.

I believe I will tell you about a trip me and Miss Muddy made up through the north into Oregon. We went north on 99 highway to Sacramento on north to Uca, saw the Lassen Volcano that is in action now. On the north side is a lake called mud but as clear as can be and cold as ice Monzanta Lake. In a few yards on is so hot you can't hold your hand in them. Several other small lakes they call them the Devil's Kitchen. These are nearly half way up the mountain and that is as high as you want to go, as the roar and tumble in the ground makes you feel creepy, and is dangerous. We went on up to Siscue County, went in the coast house. There is the gold mine county there. They buy gold. I saw in a show case bushes of gold and some nuggets were as high as $600. Went on up into Oregon. You talk about pretty. If you like mountains and flowers, you sure will enjoy that heavy timber up the mountain. The air gets so light they stop to a line and the top looks like a bald headed man. Then we came back to the coast and came back and crossed the bay at San Francisco, the first and only time we were ever on a boat. Came on down the Seawood highway and saw the highest tree there in the world. You can find its history from Washington.

I could write you for a week and not finish then, so come home, this is a fine country for anyone that likes it but I wouldn't give Hico and its trade territory for the whole State. Me and Miss Muddy are doing fine and will try to see you all this summer.

I have had another bad spell with my heart, was in the bed 63 days but have gone back to work. Lots of love to you all from S. O. SHAFER AND MISS MUDDY.

P. S. I will try to send you a box of fruit and vegetables out of my garden some of these days when they get their best.

Meeting at City Park. A section of the Gatesville district of M. E. Churches held a preachers' meeting and workers' conference at the City Park, at Hico on Wednesday of this week in an all-day affair.

Rev. W. C. Craig of Walnut Springs preached at 11 o'clock in the morning. A business meeting and program was given. A big dinner was served at noon.

Laughs Under the Big Top!

Gay crowds are thronging Dallas for the magnificent Centennial Exposition. And why? Well, one good reason is that the Gainesville Community Circus is booked for three shows June 25, 26, and 27, and laughs and thrills will tumble over each other in three big rings of excitement. Juanita Bailey, daring aerialist, is as comfy on a dizzy high wire as she is here in the ample arms of Billy Bassinger, chief clown, whose specialty is a hula in a grass skirt. The circus, the only enterprise of its kind in the world, is composed entirely of amateurs drawn from ranks of merchants, waitresses, judges, policemen, Sunday school teachers, and many other classes.

First Candidate for Queendom

First to register in the state-wide selection of the official Queen of the Texas Centennial Exposition was a West Texas girl, Charlene Fallon, who registered at Big Spurr. Contestants are signing up at Chrysler, DeSoto, Dodge and Plymouth dealer rooms and semi-finalists will come to Dallas from four zones of Texas on July 4, 10, 24 and 31. The Exposition is joined in sponsoring of this Queen selection by newspapers of Dallas and over Texas. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios will take the winner to Hollywood for screen tests before an outstanding director.

BLUEBONNET BELLE SERENADED AT OPENING OF WORLD'S FAIR

Miss Frances Nalle, center of attraction in Standard Brands' patio.

"The most beautiful Fair held in the United States in the last decade" is the verdict of visitors to the Texas Centennial Exposition in Dallas these days. It opened June 6, and since then a heavy stream of sight-seers from all parts of the world has been flooding the grounds, day and night. The night scene is more fascinating, because of the lighting effects. The Esplanade, just inside the main entrance, is a fairland of colored lights and fountains at night. One of the main structures of the Exposition is the huge Foods Building, where all sorts of displays of things to eat and drink attract the hot and thirsty visitors. Here cool breezes and cold drinks are refreshing, and chairs are provided for the tired. The largest display is that of Standard Brands Incorporated, a Spanish structure with a wide patio, where a continuous floor show is going on while Joaquin Bernal's Mexico City Troubadors do some serenading. One of the features of opening day was their serenade of the Bluebonnet Belle, Miss Frances Nalle, in the patio, while she sipped iced dated coffee.

Be Sure To Look

Pedestrians killed last year crossing in the middle of the block could well have taken the time to ask the question that the pedestrian shown above is raising with his "come hither" friend. A short cut to where? That's pertinent. Very likely few of the 4,500 pedestrians who were killed when they crossed the street in the middle of the block last year stopped to ask themselves such a question. Many of them would have been better off, if they had.

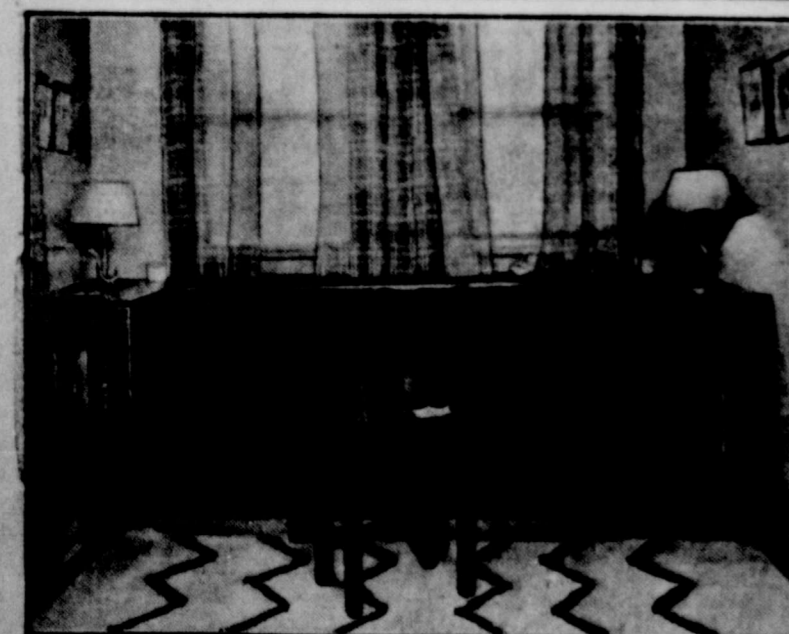

According to a study by the Travelers Insurance Company, the rate of death last year per pedestrian accident which happened when a person crossed in the middle of the block was 200 per cent worse than when the crossing was made at the intersection with the "Go" signal.

New Way To Dress Up Your Studio Couch

THE studio couch is coming into its own in the modern home. Twentieth century hospitality includes the ability to ask guests to stay the night even though the apartment be small and only one bedroom, available. This accounts for the extraordinary sales of studio couches and the transformation of the living room itself into a combination studio-bedroom. Suggested below are a few ideas to incorporate the studio couch into a lounging nook by daytime and destroy none of its advantages as an emergency bed. A framework of rough 2 x 2 seasoned lumber is built to the necessary size. This is then covered with pressed wood and trimmed at the joints with ordinary decorative moulding obtainable from any lumber dealer. Book shelves, radio, liquor or linen compartments can be built into the end sections and it is well to include also on the top of each end section an electrical socket for lamps. In the unit pictured here, the back is hinged at the bottom and swings down and open to allow the storage of blankets, sheets, pillows. Units of this type can also be constructed to make use of extra box spring and mattress of either standard or special size. A midwestern hotel was recently remodeled and refinished and leather divans were fitted into units of this type in modern private dining rooms. Pressed wood is suggested for use here because it is easy to handle and offers none of the joining and finishing problems of regular lumber. It can be purchased in sheets up to 4 x 12 feet and the surface is smooth and it needs no finishing. It can be painted to fit the general color scheme of the room, but the rich, brown luster of the fabricated wood offers a delightful combination with other colors either in harmony or contrast.

Fair Texan Nominates Centennial

Politics did not completely dominate the stage in Philadelphia at the Democratic National Convention. The Texas Centennial celebrations had their charming emissary in the person of Marion Fore (right), whose father, Sam Fore, Jr., is the popular publisher of the Floresville Chronicle-Journal. Her commission was signed in Austin by Governor Alfred and presented in Tyler at the annual convention of the Texas Press Association by President Louia Elbert of Galveston. First to congratulate her was Janice Jarratt of San Antonio, lovely sweetheart of the Texas Centennial, who is shown examining her official commission, while the gentleman in the center, also an honoree at the Philadelphia conclave, looks on approvingly from his portrait.

Fifth Installment.
SYNOPSIS—Silas Spelle, high-handed, low-principled cattle baron, is out to smash the local bank and force foreclosure on the small ranchers of the Kanab desert country so that he can seize their range lands. He is opposed by Ed Starbuck, president of the Cattlemen's Bank, and by San Juan Delevan, prominent rancher who has been crippled by a fall from his horse. Tex Whipple and his partner, Johnny Clehoo, are cowpunchers employed by San Juan Delevan to fight the rustlers.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
It took Tex a long quarter of an hour to write four telegrams. They were finally, however, sent out. Then Tex went out, took his three jaded mounts to a lively stable, with advice that they were to be fed and cared for until his return. After that he ate a huge breakfast and spent the balance of the time until the train had backed in and made up, dozing on a baggage truck in the sun.

For thirty-two hours Tex rode west and south to the clicking of rail and wheel. It was late afternoon when he swung from the train at Sevier. He had hardly reached the platform before there was a leonine bellow of delight and a huge, tawny bearded man caught him by the shoulders, whirled him around and began pumping his hand mightily.

"Tex, yuh old sand hawk—how are yuh? What'cha want? I got yore telegram an' come arunnin'." "Lafe—I need five thousand dollars. Got a chance to buy in fer Johnny an' myself on a regular spread over the sweetest bit of range yuh ever saw. The present owner, name's Delevan, is crippled an' he's fightin' a range grabbin' skunk who bought up all the mortgages on a local bank what went under due to a robbery. This range grabber gets ahold of a ten thousand dollar mortgage aganst Delevan who he wants special to put on the rocks. Delevan told me his story so I'm figgerin' on steppin' in an' takin' up that mortgage for a partnership split. I got five thousand of my own saved up. Been waitin' for a chance like this to get Johnny started on something worth while. If you can see fit to let me have the money on a personal note Lafe, I'd shore be obliged."

Lafe Stillman's answer was to draw a checkbook from his pocket and twist the end off an old fashioned fountain pen. "Five thousand be enough, Tex," asked Lafe. "If yuh want more just say so."

"Five's plenty Lafe, an' shore I'm thankin' yuh. We'll go round an' see a lawyer an' have him fix it up legal."

"Like hell we will," growled Lafe. "Yore word's plenty for me. An' lemme tell yuh somethin'. If I hear yuh're scrippin' an' scratchin' so's to be able to pay that back, I'll be damned if I'll take it, Savvy?"

During Tex's absence Johnny found plenty to keep him busy. Early on the same morning that Tex left, Delevan called Johnny and Pink Crosby and Pod Fortune to the ranchhouse and announced that Johnny was now foreman of the Box D. Johnny having already talked the thing over with Tex, knew what was coming, but the other two were somewhat surprised. In view of Johnny's tender years. However, neither of them had ever aspired to the job, so were perfectly content to see Johnny get it.

Pink Crosby was a bright-eyed cheery young fellow with clean features and a peaches and cream complexion. Pod Fortune was hulking and slow going, with a booming voice and a laugh which made the walls of the bunkhouse creak. Both were honest and faithful.

Delevan held Johnny after the other two had departed.

"Son," he said. "Seem' as this partnership is comin' up we'll want a few tallies to know where we stand, mebbe. So I'd suggest yuh take the boys an' comb the plateau, particularly the north-east side an' make a count of the cattle yuh find hollin' up out in the meadows. The rider was a stranger to Johnny and instinctively he bristled. He jogged down toward the straffer and reined in warily at a little distance.

"Hello there," he drawled carelessly. "Lookin' fer somethin'?" The stranger faced Johnny coolly. He was a big man, and Johnny didn't like anything about him.

"I asked yuh somethin'," snapped Johnny, nettled by the silence of the other. "Who are yuh an' what do yuh want?" "I'm Silas Spelle," was the even, cold reply. "I'm merely looking over what will shortly be mine."

"Oh—yeah?" said Johnny, openly skeptical. "Well, shore now that sounds pretty thin. Suppose yuh amble on over to the Box D ranchhouse an' tell that same story to ole San Juan Delevan. He oughta be plumb interested."

"Doubtless. Only I don't care to talk to him today. My time to talk will be a little later. Then I'll see him."

"Naw," said Johnny. "Cain't let yuh get away today without seemin' him. Yuh better amble along ahead of me."

Spelle stiffened and looked Johnny over intently. His surface examination was of a stalwart curly-headed, good looking kid. Good-looking, yes—but not exactly dangerous looking.

"Don't be the fool," growled Spelle. "I'm not interested today."

He turned to ride away. The next instant a hissing loop settled over his shoulders and he was dragged backwards from his saddle. Spelle, being a heavy man, hit the ground hard, and for a moment he lay half stunned. By the time he had recovered Johnny had expertly frisked him of weapons and was back on his horse, rolling a cigarette.

"When yuh're feelin' up to it yuh can fork yore hoss again an' we'll amble in an see ole San Juan," suggested Johnny mildly.

Spelle cursed venomously. Johnny listened patiently to the tirade, calmly smoking until the cigarette was reduced to a butt. This he crumpled in his palm, tossed away, then reached for his rope once more.

"All right," he snapped, the levity wiped from his face. "I give yuh a chance to ride in like a man. But yuh ain't no man. Yore a stubborn damn fool. When I runs into that breed of cats and they won't listen to me I winds a magney round their horns an' drags 'em."

He shook out the loop and rose in his stirrups. "Wait!" snarled Spelle. "I'll go. But yuh'll pay heavy for this my smart young friend."

"Yeah?" drawled Johnny again, in insultingly frank unbelief.

San Juan Delevan was seated in his usual place on the veranda when Johnny and Spelle rode up. An amazed expression fell from Delevan's lips at the sight.

"Spelle!" he rumbled. "Where in hell did yuh pick him up, Johnny?"

"Back along the crest away. He was snoopin' around some of the stock. Said he was jest lookin' over what he was goin' to own pretty quick. Sorry I mussed him up. But he got kinda salty so I rubbed him over once or twice."

Delevan grinned. Spelle did look disheveled.

"Better git off an' have a seat, Spelle," invited Delevan. "Seem' as yuh're figgerin' so strong on ownin' this layout yuh oughta get acquainted a little bit at least."

"I'll say where I am," snarled Spelle. "When I get ready to sit down on that porch, it'll be when it's mine."

"Then yuh'll never sit on it," rasped Delevan suddenly, leaning forward with fiery eyes. "I know all about yuh Spelle an' the things yuh been tryin' to do to bust me. Yuh bought off my own punchers to rustle Box D cattle an' throw them onto yore range over north-east. Yuh even paid 'em to try an' wipe me out. They did their damndest an' half-way succeeded. I'm a cripple for life but thank God my gun hand ain't crippled. An' then again I been hearin' things. Don't ever figger everybody is forgettin' that bank robbery an' murder of three good men. Somehow, someway that affair stinks of yore paws, Spelle. It works out jest a little too smooth to yore advantage. Mebbe what some of us know'd surprise yuh."

Spelle, obviously very angry, and not a little fearful, whirled his horse and rode away. There had been a ring of truth about Delevan's last words which Spelle could not shrug off. Delevan knew something and it, as he had stated, he could pay off the mortgage at any time, it meant Spelle's big gamble had come to naught. Of course Delevan might be bluffing. He would have to find out at any rate and see the thing through to a finish, whatever the outcome might be. Not that Spelle was really considering defeat. He'd win, whatever the cost or methods necessary. In the meantime, he'd do a little thinking and figuring.

When he reached the Double S ranchhouse, Spelle's first move was to go directly to his office and send a messenger for Montana Wade, erstwhile foreman of the Box D.

"Wade," asked Spelle when the turncoat had arrived. "Dyr know of any way Delevan could have got hold o' some money?"

"Nope. He was plumb broke when I left. Any surplus he mighta had was in Starbuck's bank an' that went with the hold-up."

"Uh-huh. Who's that smart young Jasper workin' fo rhim? Reckon he must o' jest took him on. Struck me as bein' a stranger."

there's been alk goin' around about the hold-up. Mebbe we slipped a leetle somewhere."

On the morning of the third day following, a little cavalcade headed away from the corrals of the Box D and clattered off along the narrow, winding road which skirted the edge of the San Juan plateau on the west, to lead out across the eastern face of the Kanab Desert.

In the lead rolled a buckboard with Pink Crosby at the reins. Beside him sat Ronny Delevan, a soft Stetson pulled well down on her dark head, a voluminous linen duster swathing her from ears to heels against the inevitable dust. Behind the buckboard rode Tex Whipple and Johnny Clehoo, jogging easily stirrup to stirrup.

It was early and the sun not yet up. The keen, crisp air was a tonic to vitality and the lean broncos drew the light buckboard along at a spanking pace. Johnny Clehoo's eyes were bright and he whistled softly between his teeth. On the other hand Tex's face was seamed with thought and weariness, for only late the night before had he come in from his trip to Sevier.

MODERN WOMEN

CHARL ORMOND WILLIAMS
President of National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Inc.

Women of the western hemisphere are concerned about their representation at the Inter-American Peace Conference to be held in July in Buenos Aires. They are especially interested in the possibility of the adoption or revision of treaties framed at The Hague Conference nearly thirty years ago. Feminist leaders are requesting that women delegates be sent to the South American gathering. Their point is, that unless women sit in at the July convention, only one-half of the American population will be represented.

Two Japanese high school girls have written letters to pupils in the United States with the hope of establishing friendship with their sisters here, and to give them a better understanding of Japanese ideas and ideals. The letters, selected from 250 written by students in the 900 high schools in Japan, are a part of the work for peace undertaken by the Women's Peace Association of Japan which Mrs. Tsune Gauntlett is president. Mrs. Gauntlett believes that the hope of peace lies with the youth of the world.

Women's clubs are an important factor in keeping motion pictures clean. Mary Knight told recently of the nine women's organizations in Hollywood which sit in judgment on new screen offerings. The nine represent a variety of interests and religious beliefs. Their unofficial presence at HICO Friday July 3. 3:00 P. M.

Attend the NESCO COOKER Demonstration

FREE-10 DINNERS-FREE

OUR staff home economist, Mrs. Dallas Plauche, is going to stage a novel demonstration of electric cookery. She is going to cook 10 meals simultaneously in 10 NESCO electric cookers. She is going to do the cooking while you watch to show you how easy it is to cook with a NESCO; how it keeps the kitchen cool; how it eliminates guess-work and assures uniform results; how it cooks without attention; how it improves flavor by cooking foods in their own nourishing juices.

To prove her points, Mrs. Plauche is going to give each of the 10 meals away to someone present in the audience. She is going to invite them to take the food home in the cooker, compare its flavor with that of food cooked in the ordinary way and then try the cooker for three days without obligation. You may be one of those to take home a free meal. Don't fail to attend.

ON TEXAS FARMS

By Minnie Fisher Cunningham Extension Editor

Under the non-interpretative title of "program planning project," men and women in the rural communities of Texas have been meeting during the last six months and analyzing land use customs on Texas farms and ranches.

The object of this work, which was inaugurated by the Extension Service, is to start a flow of live information from the farm to the Department of Agriculture, and the method was for small groups of neighbors to meet and, using prepared schedules, may their own and the whole community's land use.

Two hundred and four counties having been engaged in this work, 70 of these counties made out schedule seven which had to do with gardens, orchards, and sweet potatoes, all for home use.

Figures compiled for the State from these 70 counties are very revealing: 31,649 acres more of orchards are needed in these 70 counties to supply fruit for the home table; 24,716 more acres of garden are needed in these 70 counties to supply vegetables for home use; and 6,128 acres more of sweet potatoes are needed by the families in these 70 counties.

In releasing these figures which he has assembled from the county reports, George E. Adams, assistant state agent, who has had charge of this project, comments: "These are not the findings of county agricultural and home demonstration agents, but of the men and women who themselves live on Texas farms and ranches. Having come to the conclusion that they need this additional acreage in food for home consumption, it is logical to expect that 1936 will see a considerable increase in home gardens and orchards."

Culminating the Centennial

Farm and Home Demonstration Contest, in which more than 2,000 farms and ranches were entered, winners have been selected in nine districts from among the 157 who were tops in their counties.

The five highest ranking contestants in each district have been selected and announced. The nine first rankers automatically become the State winners since there are nine placings in the State contest.

Judging these nine first class farms and ranches to place them in the order of their excellence is now going on. And since district judges are reporting that the county winners were hard to choose between, the State judging is probably a very difficult business, calling for nice discrimination.

According to reports of county and district judges these Texans have honored their State and themselves by establishing splendid demonstrations of good agricultural and home practices.

To demonstrate—to conduct a demonstration—means in essence to show how a thing is done. Texas will fail to reap full advantage from the patriotism of these 2,000 demonstrators if many persons do not learn from their demonstrations how to carry on more successfully.

The announcement of the placing of the State winners will be made by H. H. Williamson, Director of the Extension Service at the Short Course. And G. B. Dealey, President of the Dallas News will award the $2,500 worth of prizes which go to State and district winners.

The ceremony of presenting the awards will be broadcast over the Texas Quality Network during the regular Farm and Home Hour 11:30 to 11:50 on Thursday, July 23. At an evening session of the Short Course, on the same day, the winners themselves will interpret the significance of their demonstrations.

WARDEN LAWES EXHIBIT AT CENTENNIAL DALLAS, IS VERY REAL AND AUTHENTIC

Warden Lawes of Sing Sing Prison and his associates of the Crime Prevention Exposition at the Texas Centennial, Dallas, in cooperation with police officials and prison authorities of the country, show in the most graphic way four phases of crime, cause, prevention, detection and finally the inevitable punishment. Warden Lawes in commenting to direct the exposition feels that the more interesting and more effective he can make the methods used by police authorities to apprehend and punish criminals the quicker will it be realized that crime does not and cannot pay. To illustrate these methods there is an array of prison and crime exhibits never before publicly displayed. The result is a remarkable Crime Prevention Exposition that should be seen to be appreciated.

Millions of the country have read Warden Lawes' books and have heard on the air. Now here is the ultimate in Warden Lawes' campaign to reduce crime.

The exhibit occupies one of the largest spaces on the Midway. The front, with its lobby of crime, stretching across 80 feet, is a unique prologue to the exhibition continually going on. Inside the spaciou hall, before beginning the dramatization of a man who later is actually executed, the visitors are taken in company with competent lecturers to each and every exhibit, including the famous Capone car, the displays from famous prisons of the country, including Sing Sing and Joliet, and other interesting things such as a complete scientific crime prevention demonstration, illustrating the methods used at police headquarters when a hold-up has occurred.

The execution of a condemned man exactly as it is carried out in reality at Sing Sing Prison, which Warden Lawes heads, and in other prisons of the country is a unique drama, enacted by a cast of 18 living competent actors. The detail with which the scenes previous to the man being carried to the chair are so realistic that some times people with faint hearts feel a cold shiver down their spinal column. An Oklahoma newspaper man, visiting the exhibit, had witnessed 43 executions by electricity, and that the demonstration at the Warden Lawes exhibit was the most realistic he had ever seen.

Lets Talk About Clothes

DENTON, June 16.—Never before has dame fashion predicted a gay summer on the beach. Stores everywhere are displaying new and interesting models in swimming suits, and the fact that you already own two won't curb your desire to buy another. You can't be quite satisfied in last year's model after seeing the new designs.

If you are slim and don't have to worry about bulges, the new satin latex suits will be your choice. These arrivals are lined with soft jersey, and according to girls at Texas State College for Women (CIA), are tops for snug comfort. The colors run towards pastels.

There are more suits of trick textures in wool, nubby material, small waffle weaves, and ribbed jerseys, all of which are unusually attractive. The colors again take your vote. I saw one suit in ivory with tangerine and blue wool straps haltering it around the neck. The very brief shorts were buttoned to the top with a row of alternating tangerine and blue bone buttons.

Dressmaker swim suits have been designed for the plumpish swimmers. They are lined through out with a slightly elastic jersey which does wonders with the remote control idea.

Beach accessories are reaching a new high this season. Rubber sandals, fish-net shoes, and Roman soles that are tied onto the foot with printed cotton fabrics are the new arrivals in shoe wear. Bags are flat rectangular creations of printed crash material, and are lined with rubberized cloth. Huge towels in blaring stripes, sporty robes, and baggy slacks take first honors in beach wraps.

Speeding Farmers' Business

COLLEGE STATION—When the Federal Government's new business with farmers came into the State of Texas four months ago, action and speed became the keywords of the agricultural center at the Agricultural and Mechanical College.

The two-wing building, shown in the upper left, was built by the A. and M. College in which to house the 325 trained workers of the General Auditing and General Accounting divisions. It has 18,820 square feet of floor space.

The brick building, on the campus of A. and M. College, shown upper right, with a floor space of 4,000 square feet, was rapidly turned into the Disbursing Office, a branch of the U. S. Treasury with a personnel of 83 who are busy writing checks for the Texas farmers participating in the various agricultural programs.

Lower left to right—Here are the 32 men and women carrying on the auditing and accounting work of clearing the remaining old AAA contracts, the checking and certifying of the Cotton Price Adjustment Program applications and the working out of the details of the Agricultural Conservation Program with its more than 300,000 farmer cooperators.

A majority of the work of these divisions during the last few months, has been on the Cotton Price Adjustment Program. An average of 4,000 Cotton Price Adjustment applications per day are being certified for payment, amounting in number up to date to 186,082 and totaling $6,880,503.28.

Lower middle—The State Agricultural Conservation Committee holding its first meeting at A. and M. College to plan for the tabulation of the work sheets of the 300,000 farmers who have indicated their intention to cooperate in the 1936 Agricultural Conservation Program.
