HICO, TEXAS, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 23, 1936.

Here In HICO

Reports from the Hamilton Co. Democratic Campaign Fund committee are very disillusioning. If not discouraging. Something evidently is wrong in a Democratic county when only the paltry sum so far collected is available.

It is not our prerogative to question the motives of local Democrats. We would not criticize them individually or as a whole for any purpose than to get to the bottom of the mystery that apparently surrounds the committee's efforts. The only fear we have is that they do not understand the situation, and will wake up later on with guilty consciences.

It is not disgraceful for any one to fail to contribute to the Democratic campaign fund in fact, we have lots of good Republican friends to whom this criticism also would apply should they fail to back up their convictions with a little financial aid when it was needed.

However we have had occasion to overhear considerable praise of the present Administration from parties who either were getting something out of it directly or indirectly, or who just believed that Mr. Roosevelt is doing a good job of running the country. Some of these people are not able to contribute money. But some of them most certainly are.

It is easier to understand how lifelong Democrats can desert the party and risk the scorn of their ancestors beyond the pearly gates than it is to explain the unwillingness of supposed-to-be loyal Democrats who are able to bear their part of expenses attached to "saving the country."

Our firm conviction is that the proper efforts and organization have not been made to put the matter squarely up to members of the party. So let it be known here and now that contributions are in order. W. M. Cheney, chairman. Or if you prefer, contributions may be left at this office and will be turned to the proper authorities. This is the last time we intend to mention this, but really something ought to be done, it seems.

And, darn it, if your convictions are such that you want to help the Republicans or the Socialists, or the What-Nots in, don't be a wetcher. Back up your convictions, send in a contribution, and bear your part of the burden.

While getting this off our mind, we are reminded of our growing reputation, especially in Erath County, as a deliverer of certain lectures. Ordinarily these are intended to be harmless, and in a philosophical spirit and one of those "all-well-with-the-world" feelings which comes upon most any newspaperman when he has a hundred irons in the fire, two days work to turn out, and three hours before the deadline, we have been worrying us considerably.

While D. F. McCarty up at Albany is not exactly our protégé, we do feel interested in his progress and his future, and feel motivated by a deep-seated fear that he is getting off on the wrong track, to lecture him forthwith.

Since the opening of the football season, D. F. has been making prognostications in his front-page columns in the Albany News as to probable football results. The remarkable part of it is that he has been astonishingly right. Two weeks straight he has made a 100 per cent perfect pick.

Our concern is not based on this feature of his operation, however. You can be right mathematically and still be wrong morally and civically. (We don't know whether these words are right literally or not, but you get our meaning or hope).

Where we fear that D. F. is treading thin ice is his sacrifice of the old home team spirit to the obsession that a newspaperman is supposed to be right. Amazed at his accurate picks of winners the week before last, we naturally checked up the following week and found that he was right again, so far as correctness was concerned. But if we were amazed at his accuracy, we were actually astounded at his bad judgment in picking Stamford to win the following day over his home town team.

The fact that the scores of the game went that way has nothing whatever to do with the case. D. F. will have to learn immediately that no forecast should put the home boys the underdogs. Nothing is ever conceded until after the scores are counted, and then, of course, the home paper can alibi. Would he want to risk disturbing the morale of the home boys? We have seen instances where a team which wasn't conceded a chance was pepped up by the old home paper and other means to the point of becoming a tough rival.

Tab, tab, D. F.! We would of thought you would of knew better.

Nearly All Texans To Be Affected by Social Security Act

Austin, Texas, Oct. 20.—Nearly all Texans except those engaged in agricultural pursuits, domestic service and on public payrolls will be affected by the taxes to be levied and collected under the Social Security Act next year, according to a statement issued here by Frank Scofield, collector of internal revenue for the First Texas District. These and a few others are specifically exempted by the act.

There are two separate and distinct taxes, according to Mr. Scofield. One went into effect on the first of this year and is payable on or before the last day of next January and annually thereafter. This tax is on employers of eight or more persons who are employed for any portion of a day or more in twenty weeks, consecutive or otherwise, during the calendar year. The rate for 1936 is 1 per cent, for 1937 it will be 2 per cent and for 1938 and thereafter it will be 3 per cent. This tax is paid wholly by the employer and must not be deducted from the wage or salary of the employee. The return must be filed on Form 940.

The other tax, which is paid jointly by employer and employee, but for which the employer is held liable and must be remitted by him, becomes effective on January 1, next year, and the first return is due on or before February 28 and monthly thereafter. Under this title of the act the employer must deduct 1 per cent from the employee's wage, add 1 per cent to it and remit the 2 per cent to the collector of internal revenue every month.

The exceptions under this title include all those listed above and in addition it accepts the labor of persons 65 years or more in age and casual labor not in the course of the employer's trade or business. All seamen are likewise exempted under this title while under the other only those members of crews of vessels on navigable waters of the United States are exempted.

Where the remuneration is not all in cash the cash value of all considerations for services must be calculated and an appropriate tax paid. Mr. Scofield's office here in Austin has built up an extensive mailing list of probable taxpayers, and as soon as the proper forms are received from Washington they will be distributed to this list. No forms are available for distribution now.

"The fact that a man's name is not on the list does not mean he is not an employer, however," said Mr. Scofield. "It is going to be up to each employer to determine if he is liable for the tax, and failure to do so may subject him to penalties when it is determined that he was liable."

"The title going into effect next year effects both the employer and the employee in such places as a country store with one clerk, the small newspaper with one compositor, meat markets, abstractors, lawyers and any other employer who has even a part-time bookkeeper, stenographer, office boy or part-time janitor."

"I want to urge that inquiries and communications addressed to my office be limited in subject to tax matters. The administration of other features of the Social Security Act is in other hands and we will not undertake to answer questions not pertaining to taxes. It is also important that potential taxpayers address inquiries to the collector of the district in which they live, and that they likewise file returns with that collector or in the district where they have their principal place of business."

TAX COLLECTOR FOLLOWS NEW SYSTEM IN SENDING STATEMENTS OUT BY

Initiating a custom new in this county, Tax Collector-Assessor R. J. Riley this week announced that he had finished mailing out a statement to each and every taxpayer in the county for his 1936 taxes. Mr. Riley requests the taxpayers to study these statements, as they have information which might be of interest.

"The mailing of these statements is something new in this county," said Mr. Riley, "and they are sent out for your convenience that you might know what your taxes are and so that you can make your plans to meet same before they become delinquent."

In a display advertisement in this issue of the News Review, Mr. Riley announces that he will be at the following places on the dates mentioned, for the purpose of collecting taxes: Fair, Thursday, Oct. 29; Carlton, Friday, Oct. 30; and Hico, Saturday, Oct. 31. He requests the taxpayers to meet him at their town on those dates, and they will be saved the inconvenience of a trip to the county seat.

Although there are 230 kinds of fishes in Texas waters, Texas has failed to appreciate the opportunities for a great fishing industry, according to data which also demonstrates that Texas oyster catch declined from 114,729 barrels in 1910 to 48,704 barrels in 1930.

Look 'Em Over, Folks

Arrival of the "cold snap" this week, accompanied by the dark, gloomy weather, started a cycle in our thoughts which has resulted in our winding up with the subscription receipt book in our hand wondering why we have neglected a most important feature for the past several months.

Trying to explain this, we offer the following: The editor and his family arrived in this part of God's paradise just prior to the worst cold spell since eighteen-eighty-something—that of 1930. "Woe is us," said we. "This is awful. The people won't come in, and we won't get any subscriptions." But to our surprise, the bad weather really increased business in this line, and we felt called upon to tell the world about it.

So with this premise, we enter the pleasant task of gossiping about our readers. Not finding a more proper place to start, we'll just begin at the top of the book in current use, including subscriptions received in the past five or six weeks.

W. H. SMITH, Route 3, called to order his paper sent another year, and lingered long enough to flatter us with one of his "pop-calls."

MRS. T. M. NIX, San Diego, Texas, will receive the News for a year through the courtesy of her brother, Dr. O. N. Lackey of Conway, Arkansas.

ESSIE MAE DUNCAN, 1869 Belmont, Fort Worth, subscribed for the paper through Papa Goynne at Fair.

C. E. LESTER, City, smilingly obliged us with the dinero to put his time up another six months. He is one subscriber we don't have to remind when his time is up, and is always prompt.

J. J. SMITH, Route 1, paid up for three months only, in order to connect with our bargain rates on club offers.

A. O. ALLEN, our good Democratic friend out on Route 1, came in while we were out and turned his dollar over to Ollie Davis.

Mrs. W. A. COX, Seminole, also authorized Mr. Davis to mark her time up a year and tendered the dollar and a half in payment.

MRS. I. W. WEAVER, Route 4, followed the example of her father, J. J. Smith, and extended her time another three months.

E. A. KOONSMAN, Iredell Route 1, subscribed through Ollie. (Say, we'll have to take to staying at home more.) Thanks anyhow, Mr. Koonsman. Sorry we missed you.

LEONARD McLENDON is our one and only cash-and-carry customer. On account of peculiarities of the mail service, he paid up for his subscription and ordered us to hold it at the office each week. He is one of our regular Friday morning visitors, and a very pleasant one at that.

G. P. MORRIS, Route 1, subscribed for another year through Leonard Howard at the news stand recently.

R. L. BEAMAN, mail carrier of routes 1 and 4 out of Hico, and a new citizen since having taken the place vacated by J. T. Dix, begins his local residence appropriately by subscribing for the N-R. You have our thanks, Mr. Beaman, not only for your dollar, but for your painstaking care in delivering the paper to the people on your routes each Friday.

S. B. TUDOR, Route 3, comes in again with his dollar for another year's subscription. He is another faithful subscriber, and we really believe he reads the paper occasionally, too.

P. H. SIMONS, Route 3, is one of our new subscribers. He said he didn't want the "Headache" but that his mother did. Which is all right. We can take it.

ROY B. ADKISON, Iredell Route 2, thriftyly saved fifty cents by taking us up on our club offer with the Dallas Semi-Weekly Farm News.

J. C. BARRROW, Hamilton County Judge, cautioned the editor not to stop his paper while the latter was in his office on business recently. O. K. Judge.

DOLL ADAMS, efficient County Treasurer who retires this year from the duties she has discharged so capably for the past four years, says she wants the News Review another year as she has lots of friends in and around Hico.

W. E. SALMON, the Mussolini of Claiborne, was in the other day and gave us his annual dollar. We don't mean to infer that Mr. Salmon is really a dictator, but he sure knows how to get things done in his end of Erath County. Witness, for instance, the new Hico-Claiborne road.

R. J. ADAMS, owner of the City Cleaners at Hico, ordered his subscription extended another year. He not only believes in advertising, but wants to read his own complete paper each week.

G. C. KENNEY, who gets his mail for convenience on Route 5, having bought the J. W. Newsom place at the north edge of town, is now a full-fledged citizen. He took the final step when he subscribed for the News Review.

MRS. WILLIE FLATT, who has lived in Hico long enough to believe she wants to locate here, subscribed recently through Leonard Howard.

J. H. ADKISON, Iredell Route 3, finds sufficient interesting matter in the paper to make it worth the money, and recently renewed his subscription for another year.

W. H. TINSLEY, JR., Route 2, Hico, has a perfect record on his subscription card in our files. Mrs. Tinsley brought in the money just the other day to keep her paper coming, and said some nice things about the paper which we appreciate very much.

J. W. MOORE, Route 1, subscribed for the home paper and the S-W Farm News at the office recently through Leut Davis.

MRS. L. P. RICHARDSON, City, also turned in her dollar to Ollie Davis, and asked that her time be marked up another year.

A. B. ROBERSON, City, made it three straight for Davis by giving his dollar to Ollie. Glad to have you visit us, ladies and gentlemen. And thanks for the visit.

J. W. LOCKIE, Iredell Route 1, took advantage of our club offer in the N-R and S-W, which in plain language is a lot of good reading. And he was out only a dollar and a half.

J. W. PRATER, Iredell Route 1, renewed his subscription through one of our agents. We missed his visit to the office.

J. J. SEAGO, Route 3, Hico, was a pleasant visitor when he brought in a dollar and a half for the famous twins. And he would have been a profitable visitor also, had not our wife pocketed the cash.

BELL ICE & DAIRY PRODUCTS COMPANY, at Hico (who also make cheese, you know) will receive the paper each week at the plant, upon orders from Local Manager Roy Welborn.

W. E. ALEXANDER, Route 7, was indignant at having missed a copy of the paper—and we don't blame him. He had paid one of our self-appointed representatives, and the latter hadn't turned in the money. But we'll get it.

W. J. NIX, Route 5, again came in and renewed for the N-R and S-W. Mr. Nix is another of our faithful and regular readers, by whose promptness we calculate the interest on our notes.

C. C. SMITH, Route 4, Hico, is scheduled for another dose of the home paper. We know Mrs. Smith keeps up with the home paper, and hope they both enjoy reading it at their Chalk Mountain abode.

ERNE BURNETT, Carlton, is a new name on our mailing list. We hope he will find the News Review interesting, since Carlton now has no paper of its own.

J. C. BRANNON, Carlton, is another new subscriber to our paper. We need more good folks like the two mentioned in a row. Step up, gentlemen, who will be next?

MRS. EDITH REED, 418 West Mulberry Street, San Antonio, will receive the News Review for a full year since her subscription was given in by her mother, Mrs. O. E. Meador, of Hico.

W. V. JACKSON, Route 1, who isn't quite satisfied with the way the monthly gift distribution is handled, gave us his subscription for another year. A lecture, some advice and a load of wood.

P. E. McCHRISTIAN, Route 7, lived up to his name of "Pleas" by graciously and smilingly turning over his hard-earned dollar in exchange for another year's subscription.

MRS. J. C. HORSLEY, City, was in last week to order the paper continued to her address.

W. V. COTTEN, our neighbor to the north, who serves good cooking, makes good barbecue, and behaves himself well, decided to have the paper sent to him regularly last week. We hope he gets his money's worth.

JUNE BURKETT, who got the paper free for a year as a wedding present, has to pay for it now, as his wife, the former Jessie Stegall, says she can't get along without an occasional copy of the paper.

DR. W. V. HEDGES, Hico's new physician and surgeon, looked over a few sample copies of the News Review and couldn't resist the temptation to subscribe. Glad to have you with us, Doc.

R. E. BASS, City, keeps up with the expiration of his subscription by the water notices. And seldom does he fail to come in right on the dot to renew for the home paper.

K. HUNTER, Route 7, believes he can stand another dose of the News Review, provided the Dallas Semi-Weekly is sent along with it as an antidote.

MRS. O. LONGBOTHAM, our good friend out on Route 3, gave us a surprise last week by renewing her subscription. She had been rambling round the country so extensively that we were surprised to learn she was back at home. Hope she had a nice time, but we don't want her to get into the habit of being away from home too long.

R. E. McELROY, Iredell Route 2, keeps his name in good standing on our books by renewing his subscription promptly. Thanks.

MRS. R. W. BINGHAM, Route 2, Hico, has extended her time for a year. Mrs. J. H. Goad turned the money in to us.

MATTIE LEE GOAD, 2519 Alco St., Dallas, will keep up with the old home town since her mother, Mrs. J. H. Goad, ordered the paper sent to her for a year.

C. W. MALONE, Route 1, has us in a pickle. He handed us a dollar on the street, and meanwhile his wife paid a dollar at the office. How's that for good pay? But the sad part is, we might have to give one of them their money back if they get their heads together.

MRS. T. A. DUNCAN, 5019 Worth St., Dallas, resisted the urge as long as she could. When her brother, Joe Guyton, started to Hico last week, Maxine gave him explicit instructions to turn over a dollar and a half to the editor, so they might read the old home paper, to which they were so loyal during their residence here. Mr. Duncan is now employed at the big Dallas department store of A. Harris & Co., in a responsible position. He has held several years.

A. T. McFADDEN, now a resident of Stephenville, forced a dollar on us last Sunday, with the direct order to renew his subscription from him.

C. S. TRIMBLE, Route 4, gave his subscription in through one of our representatives. We're glad to have him and his family as new readers of this paper.

H. F. TRIMBLE, Route 4, is another new subscriber through the same representative. We're for the Trimbles, one hundred per cent.

JOHN SYER, Johnsonville, who at one time was a regular subscriber to the News Review, comes back into the ranks this week. Thanks, Mr. Syer, and come to Hico more often—the oftener the better.

R. B. LIVELY, Route 2, whose age we missed about 20 years when challenged by him to guess at it, is still young enough to keep up with what is going on about him. He didn't scare us when he said this would be the last time he'd subscribe as he would soon be too old and gray-headed to want the paper. Shucks, he was only 82 years old last April.

GEORGE STRINGER brought in a sack of select pecans this week to continue his regular arrangement of exchanging pecans for the home paper. He reported the nut crop light, with many saying they would have none for sale.

MRS. MINNIE SIKES renewed her paper this week through the News Stand, and Leonard Howard very promptly turned it in, as is his custom.

W. D. JONES, Route 6, owner of a suburban store at the southern edge of the city, will continue a subscriber since his daughter, Miss Naomi, paid up Thursday.

BEAUTY SPECIALIST TO BE AT CARLTON STORE THREE DAYS NEXT WEEK

Announcement by J. W. Richardson of the Hico store of G. M. Carlton Bros. & Co. is to the effect that a treat is in store for the ladies of Hico and vicinity in the visit of a prominent beauty specialist next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Miss Katherine Haney, a representative of the Dorothy Perkins company, will be on hand those three days demonstrating that superior line of beauty aids and skin care factors in those desiring them.

Mr. Richardson urges the ladies to take advantage of this opportunity to learn new beauty hints, and assures them of a hearty welcome at the store. Those who desire may telephone for appointments.

FRIENDS AND RELATIVES OF JOHN LATHAM JOIN IN OBSERVING HIS BIRTHDAY

"On Wednesday of last week, October 14th, a number of relatives and friends of John Latham met on Honey Creek and spent the day in joyous celebration of his 79th birthday. Mrs. J. O. Bodford and Mrs. J. D. Killion, Sr., cooked an elaborate birthday cake, which was enjoyed along with the other good things to eat which were provided in abundance.

Those attending the affair were: Mr. and Mrs. George Latham and daughter, Leah; Mr. and Mrs. Batley McQuinn, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Bodford, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Killion, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Justin Bullard, Mr. and Mrs. Moore Latham and daughter, Mrs. John Smith, Mrs. Edgar Ballard, Grandma Sogins, Odell Hendricks, Mrs. John Latham and the honoree.

After a most enjoyable day, the party disbanded, each member wishing for Mr. Latham many more such happy occasions.

State Democratic Leaders Jubilant Over Prospects

Austin, Oct. 19.—Jubilant over favorable developments during the past few days, state leaders in the Democratic national campaign this week pushed forward their plans for a sweeping victory along two fronts—a Texas contribution of $250,000 to the Roosevelt-Garner fund, and a mammoth Democratic majority at the polls.

Three $10,000 contributions, a $5,000 donation, and smaller contributions from thousands of loyal Texas Democrats poured through state campaign offices here to National headquarters at New York for use in carrying on the Democratic campaign in doubtful states. Those rapidly-increasing donations to the party's "war chest" pushed the Texas total well over the $100,000 mark last week-end, and Roy Miller, state director, predicted the state's quarter-million-dollar quota will be raised before election day, November 3.

Jesse H. Jones, Houston capitalist, publisher, and chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, authorized the announcement by Director Miller of a $10,000 contribution from him and Mrs. Jones.

Announcements of $10,000 contributions also came from Mrs. Clara Driscoll Sevier, Democratic National Committeewoman from Texas, and Mrs. W. L. Clayton, wife of the Houston cotton factor. Mr. Clayton himself, who a short time ago announced he would support President Roosevelt for re-election after previously criticizing the New Deal, authorized an announcement of a $5,000 contribution from him.

From every section of the state also came contributions in varying amounts by Democrats with no less party fealty but with more moderate means. Additional Texas counties daily were exceeding the quotas set for them by the state campaign organization. Among the new ones were Lynn County, with a quota of $647; Liberty with a quota of $574; and Fannin with a $1666 quota. Oldham, San Patricio, and Potter County Democrats also reported they had exceeded their quotas early this week.

Vice-President John N. Garner himself broke his usual campaign silence, and added impetus to the Democrats' efforts with a stirring radio address, and with the authorization of telegrams to all district and county chairmen throughout the state, commending them for their work and urging them to redouble their efforts in the two-fold drive for Democratic funds and votes.

"Conferred with vice president today," the telegrams, sent by State Director Miller read. "He asked me to express his personal appreciation to all chairmen and committeemen for their splendid cooperation and urge them to redouble efforts to raise Texas quotas. He is confident of sweeping victory and therefore exceedingly anxious that Texas Democrats will do their part."

Employees of a fourth state department this week contributed 100 per cent to the Roosevelt-Garner fund. State Labor Commissioner Fred E. Nichols turned in $67.50 to state headquarters with the statement that every employee of his department had contributed. Employees in the governor's office, the attorney general's department, and the state comptroller's department previously had made 100 per cent contributions.

At least a four-to-one Democratic victory at the Texas polls was predicted by Director Miller after receiving reports from more than one-third of the county chairmen in the state, in a statewide poll conducted by campaign headquarters to determine the probable total vote, the probable Democratic total in each of the state's 254 counties.

Local Democratic leaders were urged, however, to exert every effort to make certain a representative Democratic vote in their respective counties.

"It is essential to the welfare of Texas Democracy that we poll the largest vote possible on November 3. Mr. Miller declared. "When the national convention last June voted to abolish the two-thirds rule, Southern Democrats, who opposed that future convention representation would be based on the Democratic vote in each state. For that reason Texas Democrats who have their state's future interests at heart should certainly cast their ballots November 3."

Keeping Up With TEXAS

A four-State organization to promote the cause of Red River improvements, principal of which is the proposed dam and hydro-electric plant north of Denison, was planned Monday in a meeting at Shreveport. Representatives of the Red River Flood Control Association, a Texas-Oklahoma organization, met with officials of the Red River Improvement Association, a Louisiana organization, and tentatively agreed on a meeting at Shreveport the week of Nov. 16.

The 1937 federal aid highway program for Texas has been reviewed by district headquarters of the U. S. Public Roads Bureau at Fort Worth, and forwarded to Washington for approval. C. E. Swain, district federal engineer, announced Wednesday. Worked out and submitted by the State Highway Commission, the 1937 program calls for expenditure in excess of $15,000,000. The $7,771,000 in U. S. funds available for Texas must be matched by state funds. Federal approval of the normal federal aid program is expected within the next 10 days.

American Airlines' giant Flagship, "The Southerner," roared away for New York City yesterday after an emergency landing 24 miles west of Fort Worth. It developed mechanical trouble. It returned to the airport after the 12 passengers were picked up in taxicabs and placed on another plane at the airport for Los Angeles. Johnny Martin was pilot of the first plane.

For the first time in many years Wacoans may witness a torchlight parade on the night of Nov. 11, this being one of the features of Armistice Day observance considered by the James Edmond Post of the American Legion. It is to precede an old-fashioned street dance, to be given on Waco's main business thoroughfare, Austin Avenue, for a distance of about four blocks.

Rain can't scare Frontier Centennial officials now. And show patrons need have no fear of getting wet. Autos and taxis will be permitted to drop patrons for the Casa Manana Revue directly at the door of the Jumbo building, in the event rain falls on any of the remaining 9 nights of the exposition, officials said today. In inclement weather makes the outdoor cafe-terrace impossible, the revue will be shifted to the Jumbo building.

New passenger car registrations in thirteen representative Texas counties during September totaled 4,364, a decline of 14.8 per cent from August, but an increase of 41.8 per cent over September last year, according to the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research. Sales during the first nine months of the year in these thirteen counties totaled 51,642 cars, an increase of 21.8 per cent over the corresponding period a year ago.

Instead of the original Texas forest area of some 18,000,000 acres, there now remains less than one-half million acres covered with old growth or virgin timber. Mrs. Clara E. Lewis points out in a recent article on Texas forest products for the magazine, "East Texas." She calls attention, however, to approximately 3,000,000 acres of second growth of pine and hardwood of merchantable size, and to another 4,000,000 acres covered with timber which has not yet obtained usable growth.

Reports to the Bureau of Business Research at the University of Texas from more than 1,500 Texas business establishments show a total of 79,773 employees during September, an increase of 7.5 per cent over September last year and of 2.9 per cent over August. Average weekly payrolls totaled $1,788,723, an increase of 8.9 per cent over September a year ago and 2.9 per cent over August. Industry groups making better than average gains were building materials, clothing and textiles, cotton oil mills, wholesale and retail distribution, food products, furniture manufacturing, newspaper publishing, petroleum refining and steam railroad car shops.

Before a crowd of 2,000, including state and county officials, old Fort Graham, 7 miles northwest of Whitney, and an adjoining 50-acre park were dedicated Sunday. Col. E. O. Thompson of the Railroad Commission and Lieutenant Governor Woodall represented the State. Fort Graham was a frontier post on the Old Chisholm trail.

Vermiculite, a strange mineral which floats on water after heat treatment, has been found in Texas and efforts now are being made to interest industry to use it for insulation on ice boxes and hot water heaters. In the raw state vermiculite looks like mica. It is heat resistant.

Citizens should be proud of the new home of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Waldrop, which has just recently been completed in the southern part of the city. After making a thorough inspection, we found it complete and modern in every detail. It contains a nice-size living room with fire place, a dinette room, kitchen, service porch, two bedrooms and bath. Each room has all the built-in features, with large clothes closets, also closets for linens and other articles in the various rooms. A. Rierson did the carpenter work on the frame structure, R. B. McClure the rock work and Bloof and Sherman Roberson the painting and papering. Mr. and Mrs. Waldrop are to be commended on their splendid selection of plans, etc., in making the home so beautiful and attractive.

We have been wondering why so much cotton was being brought to Hico, and learned this week that it was due to the expert ginning of the local gins and the splendid price that is being paid in Hico for the cotton. This city is noted for its good market on all products, and it won't be long until the turkeys will be rolling into town.

The photographs of Miss Marguerite McMillan of Hico, and Miss Rose Ellen Williams of Mineral Wells, appeared in Sunday's edition of the Fort Worth Star Telegram, telling of the announcements of the engagements of the two who were graduated from Texas Wesleyan College in 1934 and were inseparable chums during their four years of college. Miss McMillan's fiancée is Mr. Ira W. Scudder of Graford, and Miss Williams will wed Mr. J. D. Sebring of Sudan. No date has been set for either wedding. Miss McMillan, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. McMillan of Hico, taught in the Graford schools last year, and has the same position again this year.

Miss Willie Little of New York City, N. Y., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. U. Little of Hico, now has a permanent position in her home city as X-ray technician and secretary of Port of Authorities of New York. This is a splendid job with a nice salary. This commission built the Washington Bridge and also the Holland Tunnel under the Hudson River, both of which connect New York and New Jersey.

One of the most hospitable homes in this part of the country in which to be a guest is the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Fairley in the southwest part of the city. As soon as you enter the living room the atmosphere of hospitality reigns and before you leave you realize you have visited in a "home" instead of a "house". Mrs. Fairley and her daughter, Mrs. Marguerite, are charming hostesses. They have a nice place with turkeys, fancy chickens, quail in cages, a peafowl, Jersey cows, pigs, kittens, and even a pet turkey called "Shoes" which comes to the door and begs by its "gobbling" to come inside. We inquired why they chose the name of Shoes, and it was explained that this particular turkey was picked out as the one to be sold and the proceeds used to buy a pair of shoes. All of the fowl and stock are named, and it is quite interesting to look over the display and learn the history of each.

While in Stephenville Tuesday morning we heard a former Hico citizen say that our editor was a real collector, besides an A-1 newspaper man. The person telling us this was A. T. McFadden, and he said when he and his family were in Hico last Sunday, and the day of Sabbath at that, that the editor got a dollar off him for the News Review another year. Mr. McFadden finally admitted that they could hardly get by without it though. He stated that Mrs. McFadden was getting along nicely from her recent illness and that they enjoyed being Old Hico friends again Sunday. The McFadden family is well liked in Hico, and their friends here miss them since they have moved out of the city.

We wonder why our good friends, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Copeland, who are former residents of Hico, but who now live in Mineral Wells, never come back to their old home town, Hico. Almost every week someone mentions their name in some manner. It might be that they are a little "high-headed" since they are "grandpa and grandma."

This is a fact. The other day Leighton Guyton was driving along a country road when he noticed a couple of repairmen climbing telephone poles. "Fools!" he exclaimed to his lady companions. "They must think I never drove before."

Straight thinking does not emanate from a crooked mind.

Stop starting and you will soon start stopping.

Rambblings.
Lorraine and Ann got their dates mixed up Friday night, but they didn't seem to mind—much.
What Junior girl likes to sing, "If I Kiss You, Would It Be a Sin?"
Did O. M. really go to the Centennial Thursday? Some certain red-headed Junior girl has her dates.
What Senior girl had rather stay over at Leighton's than at school Friday afternoon?
Does Miss Haltom still like Honey Creek? When she buys some of it, will O. M. be supervisor for her? They both seem to like it very much.

Parties.
Florence had open-house Friday night for anyone who wanted to go—and we went. Thanks for the swell time, Florence.
Saturday night everyone divided into groups and went to other towns. Some went to Dublin—some to Stephenville.

Thumb-Nail Sketches.
While chatting with one of our prominent Seniors Monday, Jeanette French, she informed me that her most favorite popular song hit is "Until the Real Thing Comes Along." For food Jeanette will take sea food—jellyfish. She attends the Hico Palace Theatre quite often, and says her favorite movie actress and actor are Eleanor Powell and George Raft. Her favorite radio entertainer is Art Hassell. I also found out that her one ambition is to be a stenographer. Of course, everyone knows that Jeanette French is one of our well leavers, and we all think she is just fitted for the position.
—Mavis Hardy.

Pep Squad News.
At least the Pep Squad girls have obtained their uniforms. I'm sure most everyone who attended the Friday afternoon game noticed the striking orange blouses and white skirts. The girls have some new yells and hope to have some new formations soon.

Six-Weeks' Exams.
Notice—Beginning on Thursday morning, and lasting through Friday morning, six-weeks' exams will be in progress. Mr. Masterson said that he knew some of his students were on the ledge, and if you pointed your finger at them they would fall off. Get the point?
Miss Johnson already has informed the English IV students that her test will be plenty hard. From the answers given in class to some questions she has asked, it seems as if some cramming will need to be done.
We only hope that the Seniors are not the only unprepared pupils. My best advice to everyone is to forget the boys and (most important) stay at home.
—Mavis Hardy.

Sport News.
Hico won its third game Friday, against Meridian. The score was 34 to 6. Due to the fact that the boys nearly lost the game to Glen Rose Friday before, they played a hard game Friday. This was our second conference game.
The points scored were as follows:

Jack Smith (Burrhead), 8; A. D. Land (Heavy), 14; Jack Hollis, 6; Dan Holliday (Half Pint), 6.
Two who earned mention for their very good running were Heavy Land and Grady Brown. Jack Hollis played a good defensive game as well as offensive. He caught two passes that were very well directed by Dan Holliday. Jack made a touchdown on one of these passes.
The line-up that started the ball rolling right was: Ends, Walton Gandy and Hosea Warren; tackles, Johnnie Elkins and Bill Hall; guards, A. C. Odell and W. H. (Dub) Brown; center, A. C. Hays; quarterback, Jack Smith and Grady Brown; fullback, A. D. (Heavy) Land.
Walton Gandy played a good game at end in the first of the game, and then in backfield. Jack Smith played a very good game, both offensive and defensive. Bill Hall covered a fumble that later meant our first touchdown.
It can truthfully be said that everyone on the team played a good, hard game of football.
We will have a hard game for next Friday, meeting Walnut Springs on their home field. Everybody come!

Freshman News.
Friday night found the old 8th grade gang at Carroll's having one grand time. Letha Mae Beaman, a new girl in our crowd, taught us a new game, "Feet In the Well." You Juniors and Seniors ought to try it some time. It's guaranteed to please everyone, even the old maids.
The day after the night before, Saturday to you Sophomores, Babe finally persuaded his grandmother to let us come to his house for a few games, etc. We all had an extra good time and wondered why Eugene H. went home so early. Well, why not ask Eugene?
Six of us pushed in on Richard Sunday evening and demanded entertainment. We got it, and how! He made everyone of us go thru the storm sewer that runs in front of Bantals' homes. We all wish the city hadn't finished it so soon. Are we sore? Oh!

Assembly Program.
The ninth grade entertained with a fine program in assembly last week about the new books in the library. They gave a synopsis of each book which made everyone want to read them.
This year there are several new books in the library in addition to the regular outside reading. The most important of these are: "The Mark of an Educated Man" by Wiggam; "How to Find the Right Vocation" by Kitson; "Wake Up and Live" by Brande; and "The New Book of Etiquette" by Eicher.
Although these books are not fiction that everyone likes, they are interesting books and will help every reader socially.
Don't expect others to think more of you than you think of yourself.

A Telephone Can't Plow a Field!

It would be unreasonable to expect it to do so. Yet, considering what the farm telephone CAN do, it is equally unreasonable to try to get along without one. To those who farm for a living the telephone is a necessity. It helps to locate the best prices when the farmer sells—the best bargains when he buys. It saves time and it saves money. In emergencies it is the fastest known alarm for help. The telephone's cost is so little that one small saving from its use will pay for it.

Tenth Installment
SYNOPSIS: Maris Trevor is discouraged because Rod O'Rourke spends all his money developing an invention which he hopes will provide an income so that they can marry. Maris thinks they should enjoy the present rather than deny themselves for the future. She becomes uncertain of her love for Rod. Perhaps there would be more happiness with someone else.

"How about coming for a ride? What say, sweetness?"
"But with this gown on? Oh, Stan, I couldn't."
"Of course you could. But here hop in the car with me. I've fixed things."
"What do you mean?" she asked as she stepped off the porch.
"Just this. I'm tired hearing everyone rave about your beauty. I'm getting scared someone will try to cut in on me, so step in the car and I'll tell you the rest. There was a strange, restless look in Stan's eyes and his hand felt feverishly hot as he helped her inside the car."
"It sounds exciting," said Maris, suddenly catching the infection of his laughter. "You sound as though you were up to something."
"Maybe I am," he answered. He started his car and swiftly headed down the drive before he said any more. Then—"I'm running away with you. We're going to get married."

"Married—where—when?"
"Sure. You still love me, don't you, honeybunch?"
"Of course I do," she answered.
"Then," he said, "there's absolutely nothing to wait for, so we're heading for Connecticut, and by this time tomorrow you'll be Mrs. Stan Faxon."
"But your folks, Stan. I don't think your mother approved of me," Maris' voice was tremulous.

"She'll approve of you, all right, when I present you as my wife. There, honey, don't look so blue," and he slipped his arm about her.
"You're sure, Stan?"
"Of course I am. Who wouldn't approve of you darling?"
"But I can't drive about the country like this." She looked down at her glorious wedding gown.

"No?" he questioned, and for a second a strange look leaped into Stan's restless eyes. "Rather than have a wedding gown, huh?" he asked.
"Well, when we're eloping this doesn't just seem to fit."
"Oh, it's all right. You can slip this round your shoulders." He pulled out a thin tweed coat from the side of the car, and slipped it about her. "Now," he said, "we'll come back and look the place over after we're married. We're going straight to Connecticut now." And letting out his engine, he raced the car along the shore road.

Quickly they skimmed along the road that headed for a small town in Connecticut when Stan said he knew a fellow who would marry them in a couple of shakes. They did not say much, for Stan kept his eyes on the road. He was driving at a terrific rate.

At last when they were well on their way, he suddenly slowed down. "Say, honey, I bet you're starving. Want something to eat now?" he asked.
"I wouldn't mind," answered Maris, "only I feel so foolish in this rig."
Swiftly he put his arm around her. "Well, you can soon take it because I put your suitcase in the rumble seat. But don't you want to wait till after we're married? You look so lovely, Maris darling, in that gown. I wish you'd keep it on."
"And you're sure you want me, Stan?" asked Maris wistfully.

"Of course I do," he answered as he kissed her. But he did not meet the questioning gaze of her dark eyes. "Come on, let's have some lunch," and reaching into the rumble seat, he brought out a picnic basket.
"You funny boy," she said. "I wonder what else you've got in there."
"You'd like to know?" he questioned, as he held her in his arms. "Of course I would. Surely you won't keep any secrets from me?" she asked.

"I should say not. Well, look," he pointed to a couple of quarts of whiskey and a bottle of gin. "Just something to celebrate with after we're married."
"Oh, Stan," she cried. "I thought you were going to cut out drinking!" There was a note of reproach in her voice.
"Was I?" he asked. "Well, we'll have a drink now, so we can get on the water-wagon the minute we're married. How's that, Maris darling?"
"I'd rather you didn't," Maris said. "You told me once they're pretty strict about that up here when folks are driving."
"Oh, you think a few drinks will spoil my driving? Nothing like that. See, I'll show you." And before Maris could stop him, he poured himself a good stiff drink.

"Want one, sweetheart?"
"No thank you, Stan."
"But it'll make your sandwich taste better. Here, have a drink," and with his arm about her neck, he tried to force it down her throat.
"Oh, you're spilling it on this lovely gown," she cried in alarm.
"That's nothing. You can get another," he answered thickly.
Maris suddenly realized he was getting to the stage when he was ready to pick a quarrel with anyone. And this was the man she had chosen to marry!

Taking another drink, he cork-

"But, Stan, it means such a lot to a woman—how her son marries," she insisted, her hand still on his arm, chances that no sane man would take. Shaking it off rather roughly, he said, "Don't you think it's rather late to be thinking about that now?" Gee, Maris, you're no kid. You've promised to marry me, and you're going to, so that's that."
The daylight faded, and the winding country road crept away from the city. Maris now felt a sudden fear of the man beside her. Swinging around corners on two wheels, darting past other cars, Stan took no chances that no sane driver would have taken. Time and again Maris' heart was in her mouth. It was only by a miracle that they had escaped so far. She was ready for an accident any time.

Yet she knew she dared not speak to the man beside her. It would only infuriate him. Mile after mile they rode like this, Maris expecting that each moment would be her last.
Then as they turned into a lonely side road, a sudden, unreasoning dread seized her. When she slowed the car down, and whispered thickly, "We'll soon be there," her heart leaped into her mouth.

Not a light from any farmhouse illumined the lonely country road, nor did she hear the welcoming bark of a single dog. Here and there, there were thick

"When we're eloping this doesn't just seem to fit."

ed the bottle, and putting it back in its case, he said, "Well, my girl, if we don't hurry up we'll be too late. I promised—" Then suddenly he stopped, and once again, Maris caught a strange gleam in his eyes.
What was Stan thinking about, she wondered. Then she remembered he had been called to the phone, and before he realized the door of the booth was still open, she had heard him say, "We'll be there before eight o'clock and be sure to have on all the trappings. There had been a pause, and then she'd heard him laugh, as he said, "You can depend on me."

But surely there was no connection with that and the adventure on which they were now setting out. Yet as Stan started up the car once more, swearing furiously as a little doe leaped suddenly from the side of the road and was almost run over, all the happiness Maris felt should be hers on her wedding day, seemed to have left her.

How changed Stan was! If only he wouldn't drink so much, she might take things over with him. She might even plead with him to let them delay their wedding so they could have some semblance of a proper one. Something seemed to tell her that his proud mother would never acknowledge a daughter-in-law who entered the family by the back door, as it were.

As they raced along nearer and nearer their goal, Maris put her arm on his. "Stan, darling," she asked "are you sure your mother won't feel badly about what we're going to do?"
"Of course not," he answered thickly. "It won't mean a thing to her." A hint of sinister laughter lurked in his voice.

clumps of trees that looked as though they might tell of strange doings, mysterious happenings. She shivered.
Then, as they swung round a corner, Stan said, "Here's the place."
Maris peered into the darkness, and as her eyes grew accustomed to it, she saw a dejected looking house standing at one side of the road. One feeble light glimmered in a window on the ground floor.

It was a twisting uncertain sort of road. After following it for half an hour, Maris found herself again on the high road. Small white farm houses nestled here and there among old apple orchards, and now and then the lowing of cattle reached her ears.

Surely at some of them she would find a welcome. Surely some farmer would at least give her a drink of water, and let her call Patsy. The thought of Patsy but it seemed to say to her, "Abandon hope, all ye who enter here."

Placing her hand impulsively on Stan's arm, she said, "You don't mean that wretched old house? Oh, we can't be married there."
"Sure we can," he answered, and as the light from the car flashed across his eyes, Maris surprised a sudden sensual look in Stan's face. His thin lips curved cruelly as he smiled at her. "Come on," he said as he opened the door of the car.

"Oh, but I can't!" cried Maris. "I can't bear the looks of that house. You'll never get me to go in there." She pulled herself away from him.
"Say, what's this you're staging now, Maris—a reluctant bride act? Snap out of it. Pretty soon you'll know what it is to obey." He tried to drag her from the car.

"Not you, Stan." She finally jerked herself free from his possessive grasp. "I'm not going to marry you. Turn the car around and take me home."
"What's that? Not going to marry me?" Stan replied as his blood-shot eyes opened wide. "What d'ye think I drove up here for? Just a joy ride? I should say not. Nothing like that. You're coming with me," he added, a note of fury in his thick voice as he tried to gather the girl into his arms.

"Don't you dare touch me," cried Maris, suddenly afraid as his hot, gin-reeking breath reached her cheek.
"Come along, Maris. The preacher's waiting for us. Of course you're going to marry me," cried Stan, and he tried to drag the girl from the car.
"Never!" shrieked Maris. Hysterically, she slipped from his grasp and jumped from the car.

"So you think you can pull a dirty trick like that on me? Nothing doing," Stan zigzagged after her, while the door of the sinister looking opened, and two or three evil looking men tumbled from the broken doorway.
With a shriek of terror, Maris raced along the hemlock-fringed road, away from the treacherous house with its one-lighted window—beyond the range of the auto's headlights. On into the mysterious darkness of the country road she stumbled, behind her the silence of the black night broken only by the echo of Stan's staggering footsteps as he pursued her.

Gathering the soft folds of the wedding frock around her, she ran as she had never run before, blindly, desperately. She splashed through muddy pools, bruised her feet against the cruel, jagged stones that broke the bed of the rough, seldom-used road.
It was a twisting uncertain sort of road. After following it for half an hour, Maris found herself again on the high road. Small white farm houses nestled here and there among old apple orchards, and now and then the lowing of cattle reached her ears.

Surely at some of them she would find a welcome. Surely some farmer would at least give her a drink of water, and let her call Patsy. The thought of Patsy made her realize what a mess she had made of everything.

But as she rounded another bend in the road, she saw a stalled auto. Fear surged through her. There was still quite a distance to any of the farmhouses. And her fears were well founded, for suddenly a dark-haired man stepped from the car and started speaking to her.

At first she could not understand what he was saying. He spoke with a decidedly foreign accent. But as he repeated, "You had accident. You wanta lift. You come with us," she shook her head.

Presenting the phenomenal facts about GULFPRIDE
THE WORLD'S FINEST MOTOR OIL

THE facts on this page sound hard to believe. But here is the reason why GULFPRIDE—and only GULFPRIDE—can accomplish such results . . .

Gulf begins with selected Pennsylvania crude, refines it to a motor oil that equals the best—then further refines it by the exclusive Alchlor process.

Only GULFPRIDE is made by this process—result of 15 years' research—the same scientific research that has made every Gulf product a leader.

Read the facts below. Then drain your dirty summer-worn oil and refill with GULFPRIDE now. At all Gulf dealers.

AN AMAZING TEST. Bottle No. 1 shows a mixture of 6 famous Pennsylvania motor oils. Bottle No. 2 shows them after being put through Gulf's Alchlor process. Bottle No. 3 shows the 20% waste removed from these already highly-refined oils by Gulf's Alchlor process. This process starts where others stop! That's why GULFPRIDE is the world's finest motor oil.

TOPS IN THE AIR—8 out of the 11 winners in last year's National Air Races used GULFPRIDE OIL, the identical oil you can buy for your car at any Gulf dealer. This "aviator's oil" will take you farther before you need to add a quart than any oil you ever used!

THE U. S. NAVY specifications for motor oil, as well as those of all other government agencies, are bettered on every point by GULFPRIDE. For instance, this oil forms only 1/4 the amount of carbon allowed by Navy specifications. That's why GULFPRIDE almost completely banishes carbon cleaning.

THE BIGGEST AMERICAN BRAIN

There is still a considerable difference of opinion among scientists as to whether the size of a man's brain has a direct relation to his mental capacity or not. In general, however, it is the common belief that the person with the largest brain has also the most powerful intellect.

If that is true, then the most intellectual person who ever lived on the North American continent, so far as any evidence goes, was an Aleutian Indian who died several hundred years ago and whose skeleton has just been unearthed on one of the islands off the tip of Alaska.

The largest brain of which there is any record belonged to Targuieloff, the Russian novelist, which measured 2,939 cubic centimeters—not much bigger than that of the unknown Aleutian Indian.

All of which is flattering to the man who wears a 7-1/2 hat or larger, though it must be admitted that some mighty smart men never wore bigger than a 6 7/8 hat.

Nevertheless, it is too bad that there are no records, traditions, or relics to tell us more about this Aleutian Indian with that great brain case.

FEAR AND FAITH

Mankind's greatest enemy is fear. Fear is at the root of a high proportion of the ills of the human body, reports the famous experimental surgeon, Dr. George W. Crile of Cleveland, after years of intensive study into the causes of heart disease with its accompanying histories of high blood pressure and sudden death and all the other ailments which take such a heavy toll of lives in America every year.

It has long been known to physiologists that physical fear stimulates the action of the heart and causes tension of the blood vessels. It is Dr. Crile's belief that the same or similar results follow the various forms of fear which speak of as worry, apprehension, jealousy and by other names all of which simmer down to the fact that we are afraid of something.

Just how fear can be eliminated from the human subconsciousness Dr. Crile does not undertake to point out. There probably is no rule or remedy of universal application, and it is also probable that the habit of fearlessness is one which must be acquired in youth or childhood.

The interesting conclusion can be drawn, however, from Dr. Crile's report, that there is sound foundation for the teachings of spiritual leaders that the physical and the spiritual life are inseparable, and that in the long run it is the spiritual nature which controls the physical body.

That this is true is the accepted belief today of the most advanced thinkers in the medical profession as well as of the foremost religious leaders. This conclusion leaves us facing an unsolved mystery, but brings some of the vital importance of faith as an element in human life.

Mrs. J. C. Mack is the genius behind the Kansas-Republican of Newton, Harvey County, Kansas. She buys machinery, makes the contracts, hires and fires the employees and directs the editorial policy of her daily paper.

Cuba is giving recognition to women in government appointments. The first to be so honored are Fina Forcada de Jackson, whom President Miguel Mariano Gomez has made assistant secretary in the Education Department.

LIBERTY.

There is only one fundamental conflict in this world of turmoil which need give anyone any real concern. That is the conflict between human liberties and dictatorship.

Throughout the world great masses of people are surrendering their liberties of action, speech and thought to the tyranny of obscurantist governments. In return for what appears to be economic security, they consent to let their governments do their thinking, direct the conduct of their daily lives, even prescribe their religious observances and interfere, in some nations, with their most intimate domestic relations.

The greatest disillusionment in this respect has been that of the Russian people, who submitted to the autocratic control of a handful of Communist leaders and who find themselves today living in a condition of economic misery far more degraded than anything under the old Czarist rule.

We do not think that such a crisis is imminent, or that it is even foreshadowed. We base this belief upon our faith in the inherent commonsense of a nation of free men and women, who have thrived under the freest form of government that has existed and who are today better off economically, socially and in individual freedom than the people of any other nation in the world.

No government is perfect, since governments are composed of human beings and human beings are not perfect. But, a government which is based upon the freely expressed will of a nation of free people not only comes nearer to being perfect than any other form of government can possibly be, but it contains within itself all of the forces necessary to bring about such changes as may be required to bring it still nearer to perfection.

So we Americans pin our faith upon the American system as we know it.

ON TEXAS FARMS AND RANCH

Home demonstration county councils—which represent home demonstration club women in their county-wide activities, certainly do varied and interesting things as revealed by the reports of home demonstration agents.

The Wilson county council reported a recreational encampment for home demonstration club women at Sutherland Springs with all expenses paid and $11.06 left in the treasury.

In the meeting of the McLennan county council it was reported that 14 home demonstration clubs in the county had a total of 59 stores in the paper; and that a reported training conference had been held with 14 clubs represented by their duly appointed reporters.

The Childress county council reported that the editor of the Childress County News had given a picnic for his rural correspondents and that 50 per cent of the home demonstration club reporters attended.

The Leon county council reported that 4-H club girls and boys and home demonstration club women went to the Texas Centennial on Leon county day; three county school buses furnished the transportation for the two-day educational trip which was sponsored by the council.

The Farmer county council approved the plans of its recreation committee for a 4-H club encampment and county-wide all-day picnic for home demonstration club women. It also approved the plans of its exhibit committee to enter a bedroom improvement exhibit at the South Plains fair.

The El Paso county council went in for community booths showing home demonstration exhibits at the Harvest Festival.

The Yoakum county council appointed a committee of two of their members to give the commissioner's court a complete report on home demonstration club work in the county.

The Midland county council received the report of the cook book committee that 1,000 copies would be in the hands of the sales committee immediately.

Cuba is giving recognition to women in government appointments. The first to be so honored are Fina Forcada de Jackson, whom President Miguel Mariano Gomez has made assistant secretary in the Education Department.

If you are one of those high-tension persons who go to bed at night only to pitch and toss around until the smooth sheets are twisted into wrinkled knots, here are some bedtime relaxing exercises from a famous beauty specialist that are guaranteed to work wonders for insomniacs.

1) Stretching in bed—Stretch arms above head. Pulling first one arm up-up-up, then the other, stretch every muscle from the waistline. At the same time stretch the alternate leg downward, pulling first one leg down, then the other. In the exercise the pull should be felt from toes to finger-tips.

2) Salaam in bed—Kneel on bed, with body upright, arms stretched upward, head relaxed backward. Drop body forward, head between arms on bed, relaxing completely with the trunk folded back on the heels. Repeat several times.

3) Rolling in bed—With arms at sides, body relaxed, knees slightly bent, roll over on one side, leading with the hips and following with the shoulders, until you are completely turned over and lying face down. Turn back and repeat to the other side. Do it several times, first to one side and then to the other.

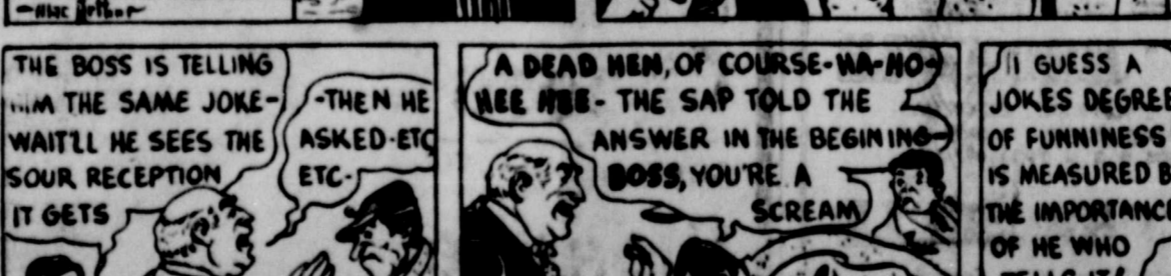

Even Joseph's famous coat would have been put to shame by the multi-colored heels on the new fall evening pumps. Many of the heels that click in the smartest night clubs and hotels are covered with exquisite brocade fabrics and shimmering bits of silver and gold.

Treasure Hunt—No more dashing around the countryside to find a treasure. Deep sea treasure can be taken right from the country into the home and you can have the fun of searching for a pearl yourself. An oyster, not edible, packed in a can, with its shell still on and containing a cultivated pearl, is the latest novelty.

New bath tablets that foam slightly when you put them in water are another grand little way of softening it. The tablets come in flower colors, are cut in the shape of a flower and are perfumed to make the water smell like your favorite bloom.

Sunday School Lesson

Christianity as Love Lesson for October 25th. I Corinthians 13. Golden Text: I Corinthians 13:13.

"The greatest of these is love," says our Golden Text. Paul knew whereof he speaks. When he affirms that love is the supreme gift, he talks with the authority of a prophet and a saint, and we may accept his words as the utterance of God.

I am sure that what Christians need more than anything else is a conviction of the sufficiency of love. Henry Drummond, the saintly teacher and evangelist of such wide influence forty years ago, cherished this faith as one can discover by reading his famous exposition of Paul's hymn to love.

BRUCE BARTON Saps

There is Purpose and Plan in a remarkable book called 'Black Reconstruction' by W. E. Burghardt du Bois.

It is a fact that religion has been subjected to a series of shocks that have pretty nearly wrecked its traditional structure. Galileo shocked it with his discovery that the earth is not the center of the universe with the sun and stars circling about it.

So religious people, robbed of the mental images of old and with no clear images to take their place are bewildered and groping. In this sense they have ceased to believe.

But nothing has happened to the voice inside that speaks in silence, nor the sense of awe that is still under the stars, nor to the deep conviction that somehow there is a purpose and a plan that makes life significant and duty worthwhile.

So religious people, robbed of the mental images of old and with no clear images to take their place are bewildered and groping. In this sense they have ceased to believe.

Bewildered and broken, the common man still has something in which he believes and even though that something be only one percent of what he once was taught, he is one hundred percent better off than as though he believed in nothing.

Let's do less generally speaking. The advertising manager of a corporation had an idea that his company could gather some good-will for itself by broadcasting an hour of dinner music.

He had talked to twenty people on a yacht and he thought he was getting a cross section of American life. Much of the bad judgment and trouble in the world originates from this habit of picking isolated bits of information and proceeding forthwith to construct a general statement.

Bacon remarked that it is the nature of the mind of man to the extreme prejudice of knowledge to delight in the special liberty of generalities. Scientists, physicians, sea captains, and airplane pilots do not generalize. Writers, orators, economists and politicians do to the vast annoyance and injury of the rest of the human race.

The Family DOCTOR

by JOHN JOSEPH GAINES, M.D., F.A.C.P.

COOL DAYS BRING ON SKIN IRRITATION. Cooler weather is the signal for the spread of skin diseases. This is because many people neglect proper bathing and are exposed to radical changes in temperature on the surface of the body.

Exema is by far the most common skin disease. It may develop on any part of the human body whether protected by clothing or not. It is not contagious and may become a chronic disease if neglected.

My advice must be general, although correct. Remove every source of irritation if you have exema. You will not recover with the best medicines if you do not. I once compelled a lady to cease wearing a fur neck-piece much against her will, but she recovered from a fitre exema of the neck and shoulders.

Be careful what you say when you talk to yourself.

RURAL CARRIERS MEET AT RIDENHOWER RANCH IN AN INTERESTING SESSION

The Hamilton County Rural Letter Carriers and the Ladies Auxiliary met Monday, Oct. 19, at 5:00 p. m. and enjoyed a picnic lunch at the Ridenhower Ranch on Highway 66, ten miles south of Hico. Those present were: C. C. Dyer, Carlton; Mr. and Mrs. Robt. S. Lee, Hamilton; B. B. Gamble, W. F. Gandy and family, R. L. Beaman and family, and Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Jackson, Hico.

All had a fine time and hope to get a chance of another such meeting and spread.

Following the lunch hour, the ladies elected officers, and the men held a business session of their respective organizations. E. S. Jackson is president of the Letter Carriers Association, and Robt. S. Lee of Hamilton is Secretary-Treasurer.

LET'S TALK ABOUT CLOTHES

Denton, Oct. 20.—Some of the most effectively decorative dinner and dance dresses are fashioned of net. By all votes of the masculine dancing partners, it is the big time favorite, and inspired designers are using it with telling results. Young fashionables wear net and gloat over the fact that these, filmy airy frocks are distractions for any appreciative stag line.

We sleuthed the shops and found some new arrivals that are just in time for all the parties on the winter schedule. A royal blue net has bands of grosgrain ribbon going around and around the skirt and the short, sleeved bodice top. The high neckline is devastatingly demure, and the bodice fastens with tiny pearl buttons. The whole thing billows over a clinging slip of blue.

A gun metal gray net is a knockout with baby ribbon width bands of gun metal gray velvet racing around the skirt and around the ruffle edging of the drop shoulders. This dress has a gray velvet sash, and the slip is taffeta of the same gun metal gray.

Girls at Texas State College for Women (CIA) are parties to a ginger brown net trimmed with matching brown velvet ribbon on the full gathered skirt. All kinds of utterly lovely filmy black nets are dramatized with black velvet and are just as easy to buy and wear as the colored creations. Don't overlook net among the coming attractions for appealingly feminine and picturesque party clothes. Although gleaming metallics, slinky dark toned velvets, and stiff taffetas fashion the season's most spectacular creations, your dress is net.

TODAY and TOMORROW

FRANK PARKER BOOKBRIDGE

MUSIC . . . Down the furrows

One of the early American philosophers—I think it was Thoreau—wrote: "Give me the man who sings at his work." A modern version might be "Give me the man who listens to the radio at his work." Not all of us can sing, and some of us work at trades in which music would be an annoyance, but the general idea that music is helpful in getting through the drudgery of the day's work is sound.

I don't know how many cars have radios, but "there's music in the air" along almost every country road and city street. The latest application of this idea is the radio-equipped farm tractor. Doubtless the furrows seem shorter when they are ploughed to the accompaniment of "If This Isn't Love."

Corks . . . . . Shortage

One result of the civil war in Spain has been to threaten a world shortage of corks. Cork is the bark of a particular kind of oak tree which is cultivated principally in Spain. After the tree is a few years old its thick bark can be stripped off every year without hurting the tree. Some Spanish cork groves have been so "harvested" for hundreds of years. Years ago Leland Stanford tried to introduce the cork oak in California. Some of the trees he planted are producing as well as the Spanish trees do, but American farmers did not have the patience to wait for results during the several years it takes a tree to begin to yield cork in commercial quantities.

Germany has just enacted a decree forbidding the use of corks in bottles. Only homegrown wood stoppers may be used. That has nothing to do with the cork shortage, however; it's just one of Hitler's schemes to keep Germany's money in Germany.

CHICKEN . . . . . All white

I don't always believe in everything I hear, and I confess that I am a bit skeptical about the new scientific discovery reported a few days ago. The report is that a poultry farmer in Illinois has found that by exposing his chickens to ultraviolet rays instead of sunlight he can produce fowls which have only white meat when cooked for the table. If true, this will be welcome news to the chicken-eaters who always want "a slice off the breast." For my part, I seem to lack enthusiasm. My choice, when my family gives me the option as what part of the chicken I want, is the "second joint." That wouldn't taste natural if it were white meat.

GOLD . . . . . Worth hunting

The world scarcity of gold, and its consequent high price resulting from the devaluation of so many of the world's currencies, has been a boom to miners everywhere. Ores which didn't pay to work at their old prices, now yield a handsome profit.

Canada has a real gold-mining boom. More than 125 mills are now extracting gold from Canadian ore. Last year about nine million tons of ore were milled, yielding about 2,600,000 ounces of gold. The first half of this year, the gold output of the Dominion was even larger.

"Gold is where you find it." It pays, these days, to hunt for gold. At least twice as much as is now available is needed, to bring the world's finances back to normal. Go out and find yourself a gold mine, young fellow.

VETERANS . . . . . the G. A. R.

The Grand Army of the Republic held its last parade a couple of weeks ago. I remember when the men of the G. A. R. were in their forties, and 300,000 of them turned out for a great parade in Washington. Now the last handful of the survivors of the armies of the North are men of 90 or so. The American Legion today is where the G. A. R. was fifty years ago. For thirty years or more the G. A. R. dominated the politics of America, and stood for a pension system on which we will be paying for another forty years. It looks to me as if the Legion was headed in the same direction with the exception that the G. A. R. boys of the 1880's were Republicans with few exceptions.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS AND JUDGE GO TO DALLAS TO ATTEND CONVENTION

Early Thursday morning S. A. Clark met a party composed of County Judge J. C. Barrow, and commissioners Schrank, Rigney and Fuqua from Hamilton, on their way to Dallas to attend the annual session of the Texas County Judges and Commissioners Association, and joined them for their attendance at the opening session. Meetings are to be held daily through Saturday, but the Hamilton County party planned to return Thursday night. Included in the entertainment was a trip to the Centennial grounds, to which they were given passes. On the program at the downtown meeting were Clyde L. Garrett, president of the Association, and Senator Tom Connally.

DRAGONS' DEN

A Tribute To Football.

(With apologies to Grantland Rice).

"Blocking backs and interference. Iredell School wild adherents. Tackle thrusts and headlong clashes.

Two yards back and dizzy dashes. Head and shoulders, heart and soul.

'Till they fall across the goal." Members of the Dragon's football team, we dedicate the above lines to you. We supporters on the sidelines are for you: both heart and soul; we know that you are on the field, head and shoulders, heart and soul until you fall across the goal the last time before the final whistle is blown.

Dragon's, we have faith in you and we hope we are as happy over your success at the end of the season as we are thus far, and we believe we shall be.

Assembly. The entire student body met October 19 for assembly.

Miss McMahan's fourth grade sang "Home On The Range" and several songs; following this the whole student body sang.

Mr. Phillips gave a talk on sportsmanship and then made announcements.

Assembly is to be held every Monday morning instead of Monday afternoon.

Centennial. The school board and faculty have made arrangements for all high school students, who so desire, and all grammar school students over twelve and above the third grade to go to the Centennial at Dallas on Oct. 21.

This is a splendid opportunity for all students. The transportation is free to all, and the admission to the grounds and several major shows is half price to school students.

The high school bus will leave Iredell at five in the morning and arrive about nine or nine-thirty.

The high school students will be divided in groups and be under the supervision of some teacher for a few hours in order that they may observe special exhibits. They will return home when the majority requests.

The grammar school students will not leave until about seven or seven-thirty. They will be under the supervision of some teacher all day and will probably return home before the high school students.

Notice!

P. T. A. will have its first meeting Tuesday night, Oct. 27. As a special feature on this program, Mrs. Bates and Mrs. Saddle's third grade rooms will present "The Dolls' Symposium."

All of the cotton should be out by then so all of the parents and patrons should be there for a grand opening night.

Start the year off right by attending this meeting and keep coming all year.

Through the P. T. A. it is possible for the patrons to learn what's going on in school.

Additions to the Library.

The following books have been added to the high school library this week:

Second History of the Season. The Iredell Dragons' second other hard fought victory Friday

October 16, when they met the Walnut Springs Hornets.

The Hornets scored over the Dragons in the first quarter. The Dragons woke up then and kept them from making their free point, and from there on, the Dragons outplayed the Hornets.

In the third quarter, James Lundburg intercepted one of the Hornets' passes and made the Dragons' only touchdown. The Dragons made their five points and the final score was 6 and 7.

The Dragons will meet the Cranfill's Gap eleven at the Gap Friday Oct. 23. Every one come and see the game. It promises to be a good one.

New Students on Campus. 6th grade: Frances Stone, Iredell; Delma Stone, Iredell. 5th grade: J. W. Locker, Waxahachie.

4th grade: Marie Stone, Iredell. 3rd grade: Rosa Mae Trotter, Shafter, California.

2nd grade: Malcolm Trotter, Shafter, California; Willie Mahoon, Denison, Texas.

LETTERS from Our Readers

The Legislature Should Obey The Mandate Of The People.

As is well known to all the people of Texas, more than a year ago voted by a majority of four to one for an Old Age Pension Amendment, authorizing the legislature to pass a law to take care of the needy aged people of our State.

Notwithstanding this fact, the Legislature has up to date failed to fully carry out the will of the people. I have maintained since the people voted for such an amendment, that it was the duty of the Legislature to carry out the peoples' desire, as expressed at the ballot box. I voted for a bill during the session of the last called session of Legislature for not only setting up the Old Age Pension system, but for one also to provide revenue to pay the same, taking the position that payments should have begun on last February, however, the majority of the members of the Legislature refused to vote for such a bill, and as a result the old people of our State have not been taken care of.

I am taking the same position this call session of the Legislature. I have supported bills placing taxes on our National Resources, such as oil, sulphur, and gas, which, if passed, would enable us to pay our aged people. I am supporting bills also, which will take care of immediate payment. At this writing, I cannot say whether this will be done or not, but I am using all my influence to this end.

Respectfully,
EARL HUDDLESTON,
Representative, 94th District.

The Tell Tale Squint

— a sign of Poor Home Lighting

If your child squints while reading or studying at home, don't overlook it. For squinting is often a tell tale sign of poor lighting.

Guard your child's sight—and your own—with better light. In rooms where members of your family read, study or sew be sure there is plenty of light, well shaded and free from glare. The whole room should be lighted, too, not just parts of it.

Poor home lighting can be corrected easily and inexpensively. Defective eyesight, on the other hand, is difficult to correct and sometimes costly. Play safe. Make sure that the lighting in your home conforms with safe seeing standards by having it measured with a Light Meter. We'll gladly perform this service for you free of charge. Phone for an appointment today!

I. E. S. BETTER SIGHT LAMP

- 1 Wide opening at top throws light to ceiling, eliminating shadows.
- 2 Glass bowl softens light, prevents glare.
- 3 Wide shade plus extra height of lamp spreads light over wide area.

The I. E. S. Better Sight Lamp (right) provides several times as much light as the ordinary lamp using the same amount of current. It is scientifically designed for safe seeing.

AT YOUR DEALERS'

Boys' Sport News.

The Fairy Tigers met Pottsville for the first game of the season on our home court Friday. Pottsville was defeated by the score of 12 to 14, which was a very good game for the first one of the season.

The line-up for Fairy was: Morrison, center; Duncan and Russell, forwards; Winters and Bridges, guards; Duncan and Russell were hot as a little train Friday, with Russell being high-point man. The game was a very clean one, with three fouls being made in the entire game. Two of the ex-players, Allison and Davis, of '35 were referees of the game, and we thought served well.

The Fairy Tigers will return the game to Pottsville this coming Friday. We are hoping to defeat them again.

Agriculture Class.

We were very excited over our game Friday with Pottsville. We won to a tune of 9 to 13. We realized when we went into that game that we were going up against a strong team, so we will have to admit our knees were very weak, and our hearts were much weaker, but luck was with us. At the end of the half the scores were 5 to 5. Thinking then maybe we had a fighting chance, we went in with a determination to "do something" in the last half. Our opponents showed real sportsmanship all the way through the game. When we started running up a few scores in the third quarter our hearts became a little more normal, and when the game ended we had won by four points. We were very proud of our girls.

We play Pottsville Friday on their home court. We also have a game with Cranfill's Gap Wednesday on our home court.

The girls on the first team line-up are: forwards, Norma Lee Sellers, Juanita Parks, Lucille Herricks; guards, Etherage Williamson, Dennie Wolfe, Margie Hutton.

Freshmen.

There are eighteen fine Freshmen in our class and we are all going to make excellent grades—or rather, we will be caught trying.

We are proud to have Shirley Fitts and Dale Garner enter our class, and we give them a hearty welcome.

This week we are going to have six-weeks' tests, and oh, how we are going to have to work!

BRAZOS VALLEY FAIR AT WACO TO BE FEATURED BY "ADOLF" AND HIS BOYS

Thursday, November the 5th, has been designated as Czech Day at the Brazos Valley Free Fair, which opens in Waco on October 29 and runs through November 5th.

It is expected that Czech Day will be one of the biggest days of the fair, and already, hundreds from all over the state have made known their intention to attend. To round out a day of enjoyment, a dance will be held in the coliseum starting at 9 P. M. and featuring Adolf and his Boys. This band is known to every radio fan in the Southwest, being heard over the Texas Quality Network daily and Sunday. Adolf has promised an unusual program of dance music and the thousands of dance lovers in this section have a rare treat in store for them.

Adolf and his boys are popular as a dance orchestra because they feature the popular tunes of the day, and yesterday, and only on special request play the folk songs of their native land. A varied program has been prepared for the dance on Czech Day with waltzes, one steps and fox trots holding the spotlight.

Extensive Visit.

Returning home last week from an extensive trip over Texas, which began with a visit with her daughter-in-law, Dr. Mandie Longbotham at Cross Plains, Mrs. O. Longbotham reported having enjoyed a pleasant vacation.

Accompanied by her daughter-in-law and grandchildren, Mary, Ruth and Ray, Mrs. Longbotham went from Cross Plains to San Antonio, Garland and Dallas, visiting her sister at San Antonio, her daughter, Mrs. Gene Darnell, at Garland, and attending the Centennial at Dallas.

While in San Antonio Dr. Mandie Longbotham attended the Chiropractor's Convention.

Preaching Notice.

There will be preaching at the Hico Presbyterian Church Sunday morning, Oct. 25, at 11:00 o'clock. Rev. H. A. Anderson of Hamilton will do the preaching, filling his regular engagement.

All members of the church urged to attend. Visitors extended a cordial invitation.

GOVERNOR PLEADS WITH VOTERS FOR ADOPTION OF AMENDMENT NUMBER 4

Austin, Texas, Oct. 13.—A plea to Texas voters to adopt Amendment Number Four on the November 3rd ballot, was made here this week by Governor James V. Allred.

This proposed Constitutional Amendment would remove pardoning power from the hands of the Governor to those of a non-political, non-partisan Board. At the present time the Governor has absolute power in clemency matters.

"It is not fair to the convicts nor to the public," Governor Allred said, "and no governor has the time to give the proper attention to each case. It is a full-time job and every convict's case should be subject to review without the necessity of bringing influence to bear. Prior to my election as Governor, I advocated this change in our basic law and since I have been in the office I am more convinced than ever that it should be adopted."

The Governor pointed out that during his administration, criticism had greatly diminished but that the system inaugurated of having a board pass on meritorious cases could be better insured by adoption of Amendment No. Four on the ballot.

"In my opinion," the Governor continued, "the case of each inmate in the penitentiary should be subject to review automatically at the proper time. This would be possible if this Amendment is adopted. I appeal to the people of Texas to give this proposal their most earnest consideration and vote for its adoption. In so doing, this State will take a long step forward."

WINTER SEASON PRESENTS PROBLEM OF COLDS THAT DESERVE CONSIDERATION

Austin, Texas, Oct. 14.—The common cold is an economic problem of considerable importance and more time is lost from work and school through colds and the illness to which they open the way than from any other single cause, according to observation of public health authorities.

"As a means of preventing colds, grippe, influenza, or whatever you choose to call the ailment that is usually present at this season, keep yourself as fit as possible," said Dr. John W. Brown, State Health Officer. "Get plenty of sleep. Don't overdo. Eat nourishing food at regular times, but do not overeat. Drink plenty of water and take some exercise out of doors every day."

"Colds are spread from person to person through the discharges from the nose and throat. Avoid droplet infection from the coughs and sneezes. The germs which cause you to catch cold may enter your nose and throat passages from the air when the infected person talks, coughs, or sneezes. You may also catch cold by using an unwashed glass, spoon or fork, which has been used by someone with a cold. The germs may be on your hands because you have touched something which has been handled by the person with a cold. Wash your hands frequently, especially before eating."

"Dress according to the weather. Have a coat ready for the cool days and don't feel that you are coddling yourself when you put it on. Sleep with your windows open but have sufficient blankets available to be comfortable. Do not allow the temperature of your home or working place to exceed 70 degrees."

"The quickest way to get rid of a cold is to go to bed and stay there—following your physician's advice at the beginning of the attack. For the public, the surest prevention is for everyone who has a cold to go to bed and stay there until it is cured, to receive no visitors and to avoid all crowds, in order that one may not be guilty of transmitting a possible deadly infection."

VOCATIONAL AGRICULTURE BOYS TO BE HEARD OVER RADIO FROM KPFL, DUBLIN

Stephenville, Oct. 20.—News of John Tarleton College students, music, talks from agricultural experts on everyday problems of farm life, and programs by vocational agriculture boys in the Stephenville vicinity will be heard this year on the John Tarleton broadcast which begins last week over KPFL, Dublin.

John Tarleton goes on the air every morning at 11 o'clock with the John Tarleton College News program. The fifteen minute period will be at times devoted to tidings of Tarleton's campus. At other times talks will be given by T. A. Hensarling, professor of poultry at Tarleton; A. J. Spangler, director of the Tarleton school of agriculture; Roy B. Mefferd, professor of vocational agriculture; L. G. Rich, professor of agronomy; Verne A. Scott, professor of veterinary science; C. H. Dawson, professor of industrial arts; N. M. Randolph, professor of horticulture; W. D. Coates, professor of agricultural engineering; and E. A. Blanchard, professor of blacksmithing and auto mechanics.

REPORTER.

To French Saturday.
Rev. Johnnie Lovell, who is a minister and broadcasts over K F P L, will speak on the streets in Hico at 1:00 o'clock Saturday afternoon. He has recently returned from Long Beach, California where he spent several weeks for the benefit of his health.

Washington, October 13.—The most important news which has occurred in Washington for many months—possibly the most important news since the beginning of the depression—was the unexpected announcement that an agreement had been reached by the United States, England and France, for the stabilization of the currencies of the world's three greatest democracies, on a basis of a parity of values.

This was the culmination of efforts which were begun in 1932 and which took form in the Summer of 1933 in the World Economic Conference held in London. That conference failed to accomplish anything when the United States withdrew its delegates because of France's stubborn insistence that it would not cooperate in any movement which would reduce the gold value of the franc.

Since then the political situation in France has changed and that nation's steady loss of world trade, due to the French Government's maintenance of the franc at a higher proportion value than the pound sterling and the dollar, has finally impressed upon the French people the importance of equalizing international exchange. So when France finally made the proposal to devalue the franc by about 30 percent, provided England and America would cooperate in assisting to maintain its gold value on the new basis, both of the other nations were willing to agree.

Forecasts Trade Revival
As had been expected, Holland, Belgium and Switzerland followed the example of France, so that now, except Germany, Italy and Poland, all of the important European currencies have been placed on an equal basis with the currencies of Great Britain and America.

Italy is expected to see the light before long. Germany's financial position is such that it may be difficult for the Hitler Government to fall into line. But the results just arrived at, which followed weeks of international discussions over the transatlantic channels, are regarded here as promising to bring about a restoration of international trade on a scale which will be of immeasurable benefit to all of the nations concerned. Particularly it is expected to stimulate our own export market.

Russia's Sale of Sterling.
The Russian Government is not a party to the agreement and its position is as yet uncertain. Immediately after the announcement had been made that France was about to devalue the franc and that an understanding had been arrived at, the Russian Government offered a million pounds sterling of British exchange for sale in New York at any price it would bring. This was immediately reported to the Treasury by the Chase National Bank, and the Treasury notified the bank that it would take up the offering at the current market value of $97 to the pound, out of the exchange stabilization fund of $2,000,000,000.

This move by the Russian Government was interpreted at first as an effort to depress the pound and impair the workings of the new agreement between France, England and America before it had got fairly started. This has been since denied from Moscow, which claims that it was merely a necessary move to realize funds with which to meet obligations maturing in London.

The whole situation is pointed to as additional evidence of the closeness with which the affairs of every nation are tied to those of every other nation, and the consequent importance of maintaining friendly relations and putting no unnecessary obstacles in the way of the exchange of commodities with each other, if any nation, no matter how peaceful its desires, is to avoid being entangled in a war.

Forstalls Early War.
There is a little doubt felt here that this new international money agreement has staved off the imminence of war in Europe for perhaps two years. It has served notice upon Germany and Italy that the three great democratic nations of the world are at last in accord on a highly vital subject and that they are in a position to pool their resources, if necessary, to exert economic pressure upon any nation which thinks it would like to do a little fighting.

There is nothing in the new agreement which impairs the gold standard as the international basis of money value. While gold as a commodity is not any longer actually in circulation in the United States and England and probably will not be in France, yet it remains the standard by which all of these currencies are compared to each other. Nothing has yet taken the place of gold as the one medium of exchange accepted by every nation in the world.

Under the new arrangement the value of the franc expressed in our money will be slightly under five cents, or at just about the proportion which it had prior to our devaluation of the dollar. This is going to be beneficial to France, which has been suffering a considerable loss of tourist business because the franc cost so much more in terms of dollars than it did prior to 1933.

Benefits For All.
But France will not be the only beneficiary, by any means. American business houses importing from France can now buy more francs with an American dollar and consequently will be able to supply such commodities as only France can sell us at a lower price in dollars than hitherto.

England gains the same advantage, with the pound sterling stabilized at between $4.90 and $5.00. And in the competitive markets of the rest of the world, where France, the United States and Great Britain are constantly striving for trade

As Justice of the Peace, Mrs. Alice Craig Edgerton of Mukwonago, Wisconsin, can marry couples. But that isn't the limit of her activities by any means. She writes speeches, prepares material for debates, writes letters of condolence, prepares petitions for probate proceedings for she has been admitted to the bar—cooked the most marvelous boiled dinners and raises watermelons and muskmelons that are famous. When she had to earn her living she learned stenography, got a job in a lawyer's office and worked her way up.

One of the picturesque delegates to the recent world power conference in Washington, D. C., was Mme. Kapoorvundri Agarwal, who came from India to represent her country at the conference of delegates from fifty-two countries. Mme. Agarwal wore native Indian costume.

I was interested to note that a member of the British Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs had an important place on the opening program of the New York Herald Tribune's Sixth Annual Forum. She is Miss Caroline Haslett, chairman of the council of the British organization, here to attend the International power convention. Miss Haslett is a consulting engineer and she has been invited by Mrs. William Brown Meloney, editor of the Herald Tribune's "This Week," who was chairman of the Forum, to speak on "Power for Better Living."

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH
E. E. Dawson, Pastor.
Winter seems to be here again at least the first assault of Old King Boreas. Well, we are ready for him and the church is to be comfortably heated whatever cold may come.

A Senior B. Y. P. U. is a new addition to our church family. Next an intermediate and a Junior. So the family grows.

In Sunday school you will find a place under capable leadership when you come for the Bible study. Ten o'clock every Sunday morning.

Morning worship is always at 11:00 and we change the evening hour back to 7:15 next Sunday. Bible messages of interest each time.

"I must work the works of Him that sent me while it is day—the night cometh." So said Jesus as He faced life. Are you burning daylight without doing the work He has for you? Will sundown find you with the task unfinished? Better be busy today, for working every day all life through you will barely have time to do life's task properly.

As I am here and have my place in Lamesa leased until December the first, I am going to make the public this proposition: To all that want to take treatments, if you are short on money and are a sufferer, come on and just pay me what you can and I will help you and you will help me. Don't stand back on account of not having the money—come on anyway. This is my way to pay tithe, help those that cannot help themselves.
