VOLUME LIII

HICO, TEXAS, FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 10, 1937.

NUMBER 16.

Here In HICO

Basking in the peace and quiet of an Indian Summer not disturbed by political propaganda, we were jarred back to realization of newspaper responsibilities last week-end through arrival of The Cross Plains Review at the box of one of our good friends in Hico who subscribes to same. (Our copy did not arrive until the next day.)

It seems that we are in Dutch with Editor Jack Scott of that thriving Central West Texas city, through no fault of our own but in a manner for which we accept complete blame. Mr. Scott read—or had read to him—a paragraph from a recent column by "Dink" (who to local folks is Mrs. Frankie Perry, and whose writings are never malicious intentionally) which riled Jack up considerably. To get the picture complete, here's what Jack said about us:

"Roland Holford, editor of the Hico News-Review, owes the city of Cross Plains a retraction for an erroneous item carried in his paper a couple of weeks ago.

"For some unknown reason the Hico journalist took it upon himself to inform subscribers that the city of Cross Plains has only four telephones. If Holford has ever been in this up and coming little city no one here seems to know anything about it, and where he received this absurd idea is an even greater puzzle.

"For your information, Mr. Holford, let me say, Cross Plains has 38 telephones and one of the most accommodating operators in the West. Please enlighten your readers accordingly, both of them."

If retraction is what Mr. Scott wants, here it is. If we owe anything we can pay, we are more than glad to settle up. And it does seem that there's some basis for his plea. We'll even do better than he expects by leaving the original four instead of retracting them, and throw in the additional ninety-eight he claims, making a grand total on our books of a hundred and two, which will stand until such time as Dink finds opportunity to make a personal check-up. She may require this for her records, since she just can't understand why a fellow would want to tell an untruth about anything concerning his home town.

In all seriousness, the article written by Dink was occasioned by nothing more than astonishment at the information divulged to her by one of our good citizens and business men of Cross Plains, and accepted by her in good faith, that there were only four telephones in that city, which she went on to describe, if Jack had really read her article, as a thriving and attractive metropolis.

That she was misinformed is regrettable, in view of the consequences of her unintentional slur. But in talking over the matter with her, she says she does not remember having met Mr. Scott in St. Louis or somewhere, therefore on account of her rearing and teachings cannot afford to enter into a literary conversation with him on such a delicate subject.

Since Jack addressed his somewhat caustic remarks to the editor anyhow, we feel it our duty to do the necessary, whatever that may be, respecting his innate chivalry in not arguing with a lady, and his intense pride in his home town which he commensurately defends whenever "demands."

Please confer our apologies to your telephone manager, Mr. Scott, and to your ninety-eight phone subscribers and "one of the best operators in West Texas" who most really deserve that description to be able to take care of that size switchboard single-handed.

Personally the editor is rather embarrassed at having his shortcomings and going called to public attention, and regrets that his misadventures have never taken him to Cross Plains. Perhaps in the near future he may have that privilege, at which time he hopes to repay the pleasant visit made upon his home by Editor Scott and his charming wife some several years ago. By that time, hasten the day, he shall have forgotten the Cross Plains editor's blow below the belt in adapting the old saying about "both" of our readers to this case, and certainly shall not call a foul on him. The decision is his. Long may he live and prosper.

Well, well, well. This space has been occupied for the past few weeks by a column from a highly paid writer who is reputed to know what he's talking about—Mr. Frank Parker Strickbridge. We had just about decided to turn it over to him regularly, but after thinking the matter over we may pre-empt it again for personal uses.

With Fall opening up, school beginning, and cooler weather scheduled, perhaps we can manage to scrape up our thoughts and put them into type some week again.

This is not a promise—more of a threat. Not that we seriously believe anybody cares.

U. S. Crop Forecast Indicates Production Of 16,098,000 Bales

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—The Department of Agriculture Wednesday reported that a cotton crop of 16,098,000 bales of 500 pounds each is indicated for this year, basing its estimate on the acreage and condition of the crop Sept. 1.

The Census Bureau announced 1,871,493 running bales of cotton of this year's growth, counting round bales as half bales, had been binned to Sept. 1, compared with 1,374,247 a year ago and 1,135,990 two years ago.

A month ago the department reported an indicated crop of 15,593,600 bales, based on Aug. 1 conditions. Production last year was 12,398,882 bales.

Last month's estimate was based on 32,429,999 acres—the area in cultivation July 1 less the 10-year average abandonment. Wednesday's estimate was based on the area left for harvest after abandonment since July 1. Abandonment was placed at 1.2 per cent since that date, compared with the 10-year average abandonment of 2.3 per cent. The area left for harvest is 33,736,000 acres, compared with 30,023,000 acres picked last year and 27,640,000 in 1935.

The condition of the crop Sept. 1 another factor in the indicated production was 75 per cent of normal, compared with 81.3 a month ago—the highest condition reported since August, 1911—59 per cent on Sept. 1 last year, and 55, the 1927-32 Sept. 1 average.

Indications are for a yield of 228.5 pounds of lint cotton to the acre, compared with 197.6 pounds last year and 189.9 pounds, the 1927-32 average.

The acreage remaining for harvest, condition of the crop on Sept. 1 and indicated production, by States, follow:

Virginia, acreage 64,000, condition 84 per cent of a normal and indicated production, 40,000 bales; North Carolina, 1,074,000, 75 and 686,000; South Carolina, 1,635,000, 67 and 850,000; Georgia, 2,631,000, 72 and 1,321,000; Florida, 113,000, 79 and 40,000; Missouri, 488,000, 73 and 37,000; Tennessee, 941,000, 78 and 521,000; Alabama, 2,558,000, 77 and 1,310,000; Mississippi, 3,444,000, 80 and 2,027,000; Louisiana, 1,547,000, 78 and 873,000; Texas, 12,667,000, 76 and 4,622,000; Oklahoma, 2,569,000, 62 and 858,000; Arkansas, 3,056,000, 74 and 1,564,000; New Mexico, 136,000, 91 and 128,000; Arizona, 239,000, 85 and 244,000; California, 614,000, 85 and 642,000; all other States, 30,000, 82 and 19,000; Lower California, 140,000, 84 and 60,000.

TWO DEATHS OCCURRED IN J. W. PERRY HOME WITHIN THREE DAYS

Two deaths occurred in the J. W. Perry home, nine miles from Hico, in the Prairie Springs community last week. Mr. Perry's wife passed away last Thursday and his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Francis Perry followed by death Saturday.

Funeral services for Mrs. Perry, wife of J. W. Perry were held at the Prairie Springs Church Friday afternoon at 2:30 by Rev. R. H. Gibson of Carlton, and interment made in the Duffau Cemetery.

Miss Louise Cornelius Pendergrass was born Feb. 26, 1857. She was converted and joined the Baptist Church when young. She was married to J. W. Perry Feb. 13, 1883. To this union eight children were born, four of whom are still living, three sons and one daughter. All were present when she passed away. She also leaves behind her husband and the four children, eleven grandchildren and four great grandchildren.

The children surviving are: T. B. Perry, Hico; J. L. Perry, Midlothian; Mrs. A. B. Russell, Iredell; J. P. Perry, Iredell.

Mrs. Perry was a true Christian, a faithful wife and loved her family. She was a good neighbor and always ready to help those in need. Before she passed away she said: "I am not dying, just walking in the arms of Jesus."

Funeral services for Mrs. Elizabeth Francis Perry were held Sunday at Prairie Springs by Rev. R. H. Gibson and she was also laid to rest in the Duffau cemetery. She was born in Abberhill, South Carolina, Nov. 27, 1838. She was married to John D. Perry Sept. 1852. To this union twelve children were born.

She joined the Baptist Church more than sixty years ago and lived a noble Christian life. Since the death of her husband she has resided with her son, J. W. Perry and family. Had she lived until November 27, next year, she would have been 100 years of age. Mrs. Perry has seen many hardships but has always been kind and loving through all these years. Friends enjoyed her association as she related many interesting occurrences of days gone by.

She is survived by four children: J. W. Perry, Iredell; Tom Perry, Garden Valley, Texas; Mrs. Mary Herring, Ringling, Okla.; Mrs. J. L. Crane, Hefflia, Ala.; one brother, Dick Glasgow, Larkin, Texas; also her grand children, great grand children, and great-great grandchildren.

THOMA RODGERS HOME IS DAMAGED BY LIGHTNING

Ripping boards from the ceiling of upstairs apartments and both ends of the house, lightning struck a chimney at the residence of Miss Thoma Rodgers Sunday morning shortly before noon, and damaged the property to the extent of several hundred dollars.

Fortunately no one was badly injured, although Miss Rodgers and Mr. and Mrs. John Arnold, who occupy the upper back apartment at the Rodgers place, were in the Arnold kitchen at the time. The flue was knocked down, and a falling brick struck Miss Rodgers in the back, but her injury was not serious, she reported. The McAnellys, occupants of the front upper apartment which also was damaged, were away from home at the time.

The loss was reported covered by insurance, and an adjuster visited the scene Tuesday, making a settlement at that time.

ADMISSION IS FREE TO VISITORS TO FIESTA GROUNDS

FORT WORTH, Sept. 9.—Record crowds are thronging the Fort Worth Frontier Fiesta grounds nightly now that the 50-cent gate charge has been removed, throwing the turnstiles wide open to the public.

The free gate policy was started Tuesday night on the heels of the huge attendance which marked the Labor Day week-end. Free attractions, notably the Astor House, Silver Dollar dance hall, Gulf studio broadcasts and the West Texas Chamber of Commerce exhibits, continue.

Although the gate charge has been abolished, Director-General Billy Rose is sparing no expense to keep Casa Manana, the Pioneer Palace and the Salici Marionettes constantly fresh and new. Just added to Casa Manana are—Cass, Mack and Topsy, comedy team, and Gomez and Winona, America's foremost ballroom dancers. Paul Whiteman and his band, Everett Marshall, Harriet Hoctor and other stars remain.

Prospects Are Bright For Successful 1937-38 Term

When the doors of the Hico Public Schools swing open next Monday morning, Sept. 13, an enrollment of 435 is expected, 130 of which will be composed of high school students. This estimate is made by Superintendent Ray D. Brown, elected several months ago by the board, who moved to Hico July 1 and has been busy with school affairs almost constantly since that time.

Advance registration of high school students is planned for Friday and Saturday of this week, according to Mr. Brown, and grammar school students will report to their rooms Monday morning.

A faculty meeting will be held at the school building Saturday morning at 8:00 o'clock for discussion of teachers' pensions and other plans for the coming year.

Classes will start at 8:30 in the morning of each school day this year, turn out at 12:15 for noon, take up at 1:00 and turn out for the day at 3:45.

Bus Information.

No buses will be run to Greysville by the Hico Schools this year, due to the shortage of students on the Greysville run as a result of the 8th and 9th grades being taught in that school.

There will be no bus to Camp Branch, as the Millerville bus has arranged to bring in the pupils from the Millerville and Camp Branch districts.

Arrangements have been made to bring in the Old Hico pupils in private cars.

A bus will run into Unity if the election carries for consolidation, date for which election has been set for Sept. 18.

School Board Active.

Expressing determination to promote the best interests of the pupils and patrons of Hico Public Schools during their tenure of office, the members of the local board have put much time and effort into smoothing out the paths of the teachers and arranging all details in the best order possible.

The school board at present is composed of: Roy Welborn, president; H. N. Wolfe, secretary; D. F. McCarthy, G. M. Barrow, Mrs. Marvin Marshall, Mrs. P. G. Hays, and W. B. Guthrie.

The board has set the typewriting fee this year at $150 per month, payable in advance, and has set a library fee of 50c for high school pupils.

Teacher Assignments.

The faculty and assignments for the coming school year have been announced as follows: Supt. Ray D. Brown, Civics and History; Principal and Coach J. I. Grimland, Science and History; H. D. Gilmore, Vocational Agriculture; Mrs. J. I. Grimland, Commercial Work and Spanish; Miss Iris Wagstaff, Home Economics; and Mrs. R. O. Sequest, Mathematics. Grammar School: R. B. Jackson, principal and teacher 7th grade; Miss Opal Harris, sixth grade; Miss Kathryn Milholland, fifth grade; Miss Elizabeth Berekman, fourth grade; Miss Mary Spivey, third grade; Miss Ruth LeRue, Mrs. John Rainwater and Miss Gladys Haltom, primary grades.

Some changes may be made in the placement of grammar grade teachers, according to Supt. Brown, but the above is the way the assignments are made for the present.

FUNERAL SERVICES HELD LAST FRIDAY AT CEMETERY FOR MR. W. H. HARDY

Last rites for W. H. Hardy were held at the Hico Cemetery Friday, September 3, who passed away at the family home Sept. 2, after a long illness. Rev. James Carroll, pastor of the Carlton Baptist Church, conducted the services, and interment was made in the Hico Cemetery.

William Henry Hardy was born April 18, 1858 in Alabama, last surviving of that branch of family. He came to Texas at the age of 17 to make his way in the new state. He settled in Bell County where he met and married Miss Annie Laura Slaughter on January 21, 1881. To this union eleven children were born, seven reaching maturity.

Mr. Hardy joined the Baptist Church the first year of his marriage and was an active member. He served as clerk of the church for some time. He later transferred his membership to Greysville community.

The family moved to Hamilton County 42 years ago, and to Hico in 1916 where the deceased had made home of friends.

Surviving Mr. Hardy besides his wife are six children, namely: Mrs. Ollie Gamble and C. B. Hardy, Dallas; Mrs. Lyle Gold-4, Dallas; Mrs. T. J. Johnson, Will and George Hardy, Hico.

Narrow Undertakers had the funeral in charge.

Grand Jury Returns Fourteen True Bills And Asks Discharge

The Hamilton County Grand Jury met last week and having been charged by Judge R. B. Cross, set about their duties of investigating violations of the law in this county. The Grand Jury made the following report back to the Court at 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon: The State of Texas.

To the Hon. R. B. Cross, District Judge:

We, the Grand Jury for the August term, A. D. 1937, beg leave to report as follows:

We have been in session for four days and have examined 91 witnesses, and found 14 true bills of which number 8 were felonies and 6 were misdemeanors.

We are glad to report that the general conditions of the County are good. However, there were some rumors of minor and petty thefts and also of violations of the law regarding the driving of a motor vehicle on a public Highway while intoxicated, and we suggest that the officers and the citizens generally try to eliminate violations of either as much as possible.

We deem it prudent and advisable to take no definite action on some cases pending before us at this time. This action is made because of the condition of the evidence that we have heard and the investigation that we have regarding said offenses and cases.

We desire to thank the Court for his charge. We also desire to thank the District Attorney, County Attorney and Sheriff and all the bailiffs for their services.

We have inspected the Hamilton County Jail and find that it is in serious need of immediate repairs. Some of the rocks are falling from said building, the roof leaks badly and the general condition of the building is bad. We recommend that for the safety of humanity the proper authorities take some action toward eliminating the condition that exists.

Having completed our labors, and having made full and complete investigation of all matters coming to our knowledge, we request that we be discharged.

Keeping Up With TEXAS

An employe of the Pan-American exposition's Cavalcade of America in Dallas went suddenly berserk Tuesday night, climbed to the top of a 60-foot property cliff and stood off besiegers for an hour with a club before he was dislodged. Cline Johnson, performer, climbed up a ladder while the belligerent one was not looking, slipped behind him, and grabbed him by the neck. They wrestled on the precarious perch until foremen arrived to help. R. C. McClure, also a Cavalcade employe, said the man, employed at a milk and ice stand which supplies performers, threatened him with a property pistol.

The three-day holiday period in Texas had accounted Tuesday for 28 deaths by accidents and violence. Twenty died in automobile accidents, four were shot, three were drowned and one was burned to death.

A "John Garner for President" boom in Texas was planned this week at San Antonio after Vann M. Kennedy, secretary of the state democratic executive committee, appealed to Texas citizens to support the move.

Mary Lee Hall, 1-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Turnie Hall, was burned to death Sunday morning at Snyder when flames destroyed their trailer home. Parked on a city street, Hall is in the hospital suffering second degree burns, inflicted when he ran into the trailer in an effort to rescue his daughter. The fire originated from a small oil cook stove. Mrs. Hall left the door open as she went outside and the wind blew the flames against the wall of the trailer, igniting it. The next day was the small victim's first birthday.

Just a "pal" . . . Arrested in a Calhoun St. beer tavern Tuesday night in Fort Worth, a 29-year-old Nashville, Tenn. man and his 32-year-old companion from Gainesville, languished in city jail on a drunk charge Wednesday. Then the 32-year-old man summoned Police Sgt. Paul Jones. There was whispering. A half hour later, the Gainesville man was released. Left behind, the Tennessee faced a new charge—theft of an auto at Denison. His "pal" had turned informer.

Among the U. S. Marines enroute to Shanghai and the scene of the fighting between the Chinese and Japanese are 16 young Texans who enlisted in the marine corps at Dallas this summer. Major Peter Conahy, recruiting officer said this week. Clarence R. Morgan, Palestine; Lon P. Rowlett; Denton; Floyd S. Willis, Lubbock; Loyd W. Chapman, Littlefield, are in the group.

The long-contested Turman divorce and custody suit entered a new phase Wednesday when Luther C. Turman Jr. and Thomas Robert Turman, school boys, filed suit against their mother for possession of property held by her. The suit, filed in 96th District Court in Fort Worth, asks that Mrs. Beryl Overstreet and her new husband, Ellis Overstreet, be restrained by injunction from removing household and office property from Fort Worth to Lea County, N. M., where they now reside. The sons, who now live with their father in Corpus Christi, are the boys whom the father kidnaped from their mother several years ago and took to Mexico after a divorce difficulty. The latest action in the case asks for residential property $20,000 in Riverside and Cheltenham Additions, for possession of a $7500 eight-cylinder Cadillac auto, and for $10,000 worth of personal property which the lawsuit alleges, was transferred by the father to the boys in 1931.

Elliott Roosevelt of Fort Worth, son of the president, appeared before the communications commission hearing Wednesday in Washington, in behalf of his wife, Ruth G. Roosevelt, who seeks to purchase radio station KPJZ at Fort Worth. Roosevelt, managing director of Hearst radio stations in Texas and Oklahoma, said the Hearst enterprises had no connection financially or otherwise with the proposal and that the station would be owned solely by his wife. He said the purchase price agreed on by the present owner, R. S. Bishop, is $57,000.

Governor James V. Alfred, returned from a visit to Louisiana and a turn at sail boat racing, said Tuesday he was willing to talk with members of a senate committee, investigating state finances, but he would not testify. "I have informed the committee I would talk with them at any time," he said, "but it won't be testifying."

WE MAY YET GO TO WAR

The possibility that this country may be drawn into the war in the Far East is not as remote as it seemed to most people a few weeks ago. To American eyes, the ruthless invasion of China by the Japanese, the wanton destruction of the heart of China's largest city, Shanghai, by bombs dropped from the skies, and the callous disregard for the lives of non-combatant civilians seem to carry evidence that Japan intends to let no considerations of mercy or of international law stand in her way.

This country has a considerable naval force in Chinese waters and a detachment of United States soldiers, besides the Marine Guard at our legation in Peking. Several Americans have already been killed or wounded, including one enlisted man of the Navy, killed by a shell while on board one of our own naval craft. Doubtless this killing of Americans was unintentional and accidental, but if Japan should carry out its threat to stop or sink foreign ships attempting to land cargoes in China, the situation might easily become serious.

WHY WORRY

How many people we all know who spend their lives in worrying about things that never happen. Worrying is the most fruitless of all human occupations. Worrying about something which has already occurred cures nothing. Worrying about something which has not yet happened will not avert it, and nine times out of ten the things we are worrying about never come off.

Worrying has its roots in fear. Really courageous people do not give way to worry. Most worrying is due to too lively an imagination. Those who indulge in worrying are usually soft-hearted, sentimental folk who do not have a realistic outlook on life.

Most worries have an overly strong sense of personal responsibility for other people. Their high sense of duty leads them to fear that they have in some way been remiss in their obligations to others.

Most chronic worries are concerned about their personal health. Many have worried themselves into premature graves. Whatever is wrong with the bodily machinery is made worse by worrying about it.

There are few things which can happen to anyone that are worth worrying about. To advise people to stop worrying is not to advise them to take no precautions against the future. Careful, foresighted people are seldom worriers. They face the present with a stout heart and the future with the calm assurance that all the world expects of anyone is to do the best he can. And they let the dead past bury its dead.

REAL SOCIAL SECURITY

With all the talk about "security" which is finding expression in new laws and in the efforts of the trade unions to obtain for their members the exclusive right to work in many industries, we hear very little about the only way in which a man can insure his own security in his employment and for old age. So-called security which rests upon the changing varieties of politics, or for which its beneficiary has to pay by surrendering his personal liberty and freedom of choice to labor leaders or others, is pretty sure to turn out to be insecurity in the long run.

The one way in which any young man can insure his own future security is to master some trade, craft or profession so completely that his services will always be in demand. The highly-skilled worker is seldom out of a job except by his own choice. In the very depths of the depression few first-rate men were unemployed. It was the second-raters, the ones who had never developed their skills to the utmost of their ability, who were dropped from the payrolls.

THE SCHOOLS RESPONSIBILITIES

The responsibilities thrust upon the schools today are too heavy for the teacher to carry alone. We need and must have the hearty support of other agencies, including the church, the home, the community, and any other mind making agency is called upon to help carry the load. All working together we may expect to have a successful school year this 1937-1938 term.

There are three recognized fundamental factors, perhaps more, involved in the proper education of children, the teacher, the child, and the parent. The home must reach into the school, and the school into the home. The parent, many times, puts too much responsibility upon the teacher, and expects too much. Every child is entitled to the proper home influence, training and discipline. The child should be admonished in the home the great lessons of life: namely, honesty is the best policy, right will win, truth never hurts, and that goodness is happiness.

In order to be intelligent in regard to our school problems, the parents and other interested supporters should understand the organization, management and support of our public schools. To get the most benefits from investments in the school system, we must all stand ready and willing to assume our share of the responsibility by lending our moral support as well as our financial support. We must be wide awake enough to see the welfare of our children, as well as the success of our nation, depends upon the kind of education we give our children. The kind of education we should give would prepare them to be able to take their place as homemakers and citizens when they become of that stage in life. The education should be practical. So it is necessary that we be able to comprehend the present day society with its present day demands.

If we are to be helpful in making schools better, we must have an educational ideal. We must live and teach this ideal. Our ideal should be to have a school system that will give all the children the same benefits and privileges, whether rich or poor, city or country. We want to feed the nation with well informed citizens who will be able to take their rightful place in the home, and in this industrial and political life.

It is sad but true, that many people have failed to grasp the primary principle for establishing our school system. Schools were not established to make community centers, or to give teachers jobs. To be sure we want the community center, and to have schools we must have teachers. I have heard school officials and others remark in reference to hiring teachers, that this or that teacher has gone to school and spent money, her folks are in need, they pay taxes in the district or can't find any other work to do, or some other like reason. And the question of qualification, or whether it was for the child's best, interest was not mentioned. Too many times politics shapes our schools welfare and policy. Schools were established with one ideal in mind and that was to train and educate our boys and girls.

There are at the present time about a half million school board members serving on 150,000 school directing bodies in the nation. To maintain these systems it requires annual expenditures of about two and a half billion dollars. Hamilton County is a part of this great system. We as school administrators and officials are constantly being criticized and censured for our great expenditures and poor accomplishments. Perhaps some of which we deserve. We, as officials, teachers and patrons will do well to take inventory now and then, and see if more can be done for the child with what we have in our hands to do with. The school board is the body upon which rests the ultimate responsibility of seeing to it that the schools are conducted well, under the law. They in turn employ a professional superintendent to take the initiative in studying educational needs and formulating school policies, but he is held accountable to the board for his program.

We all need to get sold on the idea of the necessity of having well trained and well paid persons in the profession, let them be secure in their positions as long as they do their work well. Each one of us should never relax in our efforts for better and still better schools and equal opportunities for every child. It is my hope that every teacher, trustee and patron will go into this new school year with renewed confidence and determination to accomplish more than ever before in their school experience. Let us get the educational ideal that the school was established to train the boys and girls to be useful citizens.

MENUS AND RECIPES

DENTON, Sept. 1.—Frothy cream puffs stacked high in bakery displays have made more than oneurchin get window-smashing ideas, and any housewife who craves popularity with the family can win it by learning to make these pastry triumphs.

To make them pleasantly surprising, one can try various kinds of fillings. The original cream filling is always a favorite, but variety never hurt any one.

THE PUFF: 1-2 c. butter, 1 c. and 2 T. pastry flour, 1 c. boiling water, 3 large eggs. Boil the water and butter together in a saucepan. Add the flour all at once and stir until the mixture leaves the sides of the pan. Remove from the heat and cook for five minutes. Stir in one beaten egg at a time. Butter a baking sheet. Set mixtures in rounds about 2 inches apart. Bake at moderate temperature of 350 to 400 degrees F. for 40 to 45 minutes. When cold, split puffs on side and fill.

PLAIN FILLING: Whipped cream seasoned to taste may be used for the filling. Cooked fillings include English cream filling, coconut cream filling, or chocolate filling. For English cream filling use 2 c. milk, 1-2 c. sugar, 1-4 t. salt, 1-4 t. vanilla, 1-2 c. flour, 2 eggs or 4 yolks, 1-4 c. sugar. Scald milk, sift dry ingredients, except the 1-4 c. sugar, and add scalded milk, gradually, stirring constantly. Cook in double boiler, stirring constantly, about 10 minutes. Beat eggs, add the 1-4 c. sugar and beat. Stir this into the hot mixture. Cook, stirring constantly, until thick. Cool. Add flavoring. Use in puffs.

CHOCOLATE CREAM FILLING: 1 ounce of chocolate, 2 T. water, 2 T. sugar, pinch of salt. Make a syrup of the above and add to English Cream filling.

Some of the paintings executed by Mrs. Ernest Dunbar Clark of Seattle, Washington, are so minute that you have to look at them under a magnifying glass in order to see the detail. Many of them were painted from a porthole or from an automobile.

That the dress of the women of ancient Greece is the apotheosis of the art of the beautiful drapery is the belief of Dr. Margarete Bieber, one of the world's outstanding authorities on Greek art and dress and formerly head of the department of archeology at the University of Giessen, Germany, who is now visiting lecturer at Barnard College and on the Columbia University faculty. The mantle of the ladies of Greece was worn as an outside garment. It was a very long and wide rectangular piece of cloth, sometimes weighted a little at the corners with a metal ornament or tassel. No two women wore their mantles in exactly the same folds.

The sculptured head of George Washington which graces the great stone building across the Potomac from Washington and which was erected to the memory of the Father of Our Country by the Masons, was made by Mrs. Gall Corbett, a member of the Architectural League of New York. This organization only recently opened its membership to women.

It is amazing how the garden club interest has spread all over the country. Members hold annual conventions and have their national officers. Mrs. Murray Hooch of Keswick, Virginia, a state where some of the finest gardens in this country are to be seen, has been elected president of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association, a steadily growing organization.

Practical pharmacy has interested Mrs. Ann O. Edison of West Orange, N. J., wife of Theodore Edison, son of the late inventor. She has just received a prize from her state's Pharmaceutical Association. Mrs. Edison is a Vassar graduate.

Women who visit the Paris Exposition will have an opportunity to learn something about organic chemistry as applied to such industries as the making of perfumes, dyes, etc. This display is in charge of Pauline Hamart, professor of organic chemistry at the Sorbonne, where she is the only woman to hold a chair.

Preparatory to assisting in the management of a 650-acre farm in Virginia, Mae Francis Lewis majored in Farming at Rutgers University, the first woman ever to do so, and now has her degree.

Sunday School Lesson

by Rev. Charles E. Dean

A Nation Needs Religious Homes. Lesson for September 12th. Deut. 6:1-9.

Golden Text: Proverbs 22:6. We all realize that there is something wrong with the American home. Divorces are numerous, the relations between men and women are lax, and the motion picture and taloid press have done great harm in over-stimulating sexual passions. While sex is a creative function of divine origin and purpose, it can easily become a devastating monster bringing disaster and ruin in its wake. When sex union occurs outside of marriage, as is so often the case today, family happiness suffers irreparable damage. There can be no question that the ideal base upon which to build wholesome family life is the monogamous relationship, with lifelong union of the mates. It is also obvious that children are of very fundamental assistance in keeping parents together.

Poverty or financial mismanagement is also a factor of great importance in the prevailing instability of our domestic life. Insufficient income is likely to provoke an almost unendurable strain between husband and wife. Low wages and unemployment, especially when accompanied by too many children, are a menace of the first order. On the other hand extravagance, due to lack of training in home economics or systematic attention to budget limitations, can frequently unsettle the normal equilibrium of the home.

But what the home needs most is not money and its wise distribution so much as high religion. True marriage is spiritual, for it is God who joins together man and his mate. Where faith is kept glowing by family prayers, grace before meat, and habitual church-going, the frequent tension one finds in marriage is forestalled. And children greatly need such an atmosphere. No home can be too religious for them. And spiritual training, as our Golden Text declares, will last. "When he is old, he will not depart from it."

FOOLS RUSH IN I have never seen any statistics of the number of automobile fatalities that are due to amateur first aid. I mean the number of injured who might have got well if they had been left alone but were killed by good but ignorant Samaritans who joggled them around driving the sharp edges of bones into blood vessels or nerves. These figures should be collected. When dealing with broken bones (unless you are an expert) try to get a doctor to the patient before you try to get the patient to a doctor. Most dangerous fractures are those of the spine and skull. Then very small movements may cause fatal injury to the spinal cord or brain. When the legs are paralyzed the back has been broken. When the arms and legs are paralyzed the neck has been broken. Bleeding from the nose or ears suggests at once a fractured skull. Any person who lies unconscious may have a broken neck or a fractured skull. Do beware!

Safest way to move people so injured, if they must be moved without a doctor's supervision: Fractured limbs should be splinted.

A man with a broken back should be laid on his face in a blanket so that his spine curves towards his front.

A man with a broken neck should be edged very gently onto a door face upwards and carried, as the army men carry a stretcher, with the man in front and the man behind carefully and deliberately out of step.

Nancy Hart's HOME NEWS

CHILDREN'S LUNCHEONS

The windows of the corner drug stores are full of gay pencils, so-called note-books and important-looking pads because children of all ages will soon be trading back to school. Neat lunch kits cleverly equipped with thermos bottle fill a corner of the window too since many children carry their lunch with them. Of course there are thousands of schools throughout the country which provide cafeterias directed by women especially trained in nutrition and lunch room management where healthful lunches are carefully planned and prepared in a convenient place for a small sum. These cafeterias relieve the mother from the actual work of preparing her child's meal but the responsibility is still hers for the luncheon must supplement the other two family meals and make a perfect whole. When a lunch box must be packed every morning the menu should be planned the day before in order to avoid a mad scramble at the last minute. Keep heavy wax-paper, paraffin cups with covers and paper napkins in a convenient place so the packing will be as easy as possible. Sandwiches, a hot soup or drink, raw vegetables such as celery, radishes, fresh fruit, cookies, cup cakes, dates, a piece of milk chocolate—these foods are easy to pack and stay attractive under trying conditions. One hot food should always be included in a child's luncheon so that easy and rapid digestion will take place. This is very simple to manage when the meal is eaten at home and quite as easy to accomplish with the aid of a vacuum bottle when the lunch is carried to school. Of course the choice is limited to cream soups and hot milk drinks when the thermos bottle is used.

The home luncheon should consist of a warm dish such as a vegetable casserole or a vegetable cream soup, bread-stuff and butter, either raw vegetable or fresh fruit or a salad, a simple dessert and milk to drink. Here are some sandwich fillings for the lunch box: Combine equal parts of chopped dates and nut meats with enough salad dressings to make moist. Combine crisp cooked bacon with cream cheese made moist with chili sauce. Good with rye bread. Combine chopped hard cooked eggs with the same quantity of shredded lettuce and add mayonnaise to make moist. Mix grated cheese with grated raw carrot and chopped hard cooked eggs. Add salad dressing to make moist.

When you launder your glass curtains this fall put a little starch in them to restore their new crispness. Have the starch perfectly smooth and quite thin and just as hot as you can put your hand in it. Run the curtains through the wringer rather than wringing them by hand. If you would have soft, young-looking hands in spite of dusting, dish-washing and gardening, keep your hand lotions in convenient places and then use them. Get in the habit of using a good hand softener every time you wash your hands. It just takes a few seconds to smooth a few drops of lotion or a dab of cream over your hands and you can massage your hands as you go on to the next task. Cultivate the habit of wearing gloves when you dust. Nothing is harder on hands than dust and furniture polish. A pair of well-fitting rubber gloves are not bunglesome and will last a long time. Soft leather gloves that are treated inside are comfortable for gardening.

Autumn is a splendid time to plant bulbs for spring flowering. You can plant until the ground freezes although it is advisable to prepare the soil well in advance, digging it deep, pulverizing finely and enriching well with bone meal and wood ashes or potash. If you are planning to renovate last year's clothes by dyeing them before making over, be sure that the fabric is thoroughly cleaned before trying to change its color. Dye will not cover dust or grease spots. Carbon tetrachloride is an effective agent for removing grease from silk and woolen materials.

Make a practice of pushing the flesh back from the nails every time you wipe your hands after dish washing. This will do much toward keeping the tiny half-moons at the base of the nail in evidence and will make the manicuring of your nails much easier. If many tubbings have taken a new look and luster from your silk things this summer add one tablespoonful of white vinegar to each gallon of the last rinse water. This will tend to restore their sheen and crispness.

To be eligible for unemployment benefits payable January 1, 1938, an employer must have worked for a "covered" or subject employer for a period long enough to have earned sixteen times the amount of his weekly benefit payment.

The Unemployment Fund of Texas is now $13,232,486.88, of which $6,590,000 was collected on 1936 payrolls. Weekly deposits to this fund usually amount to about $400,000. The Commission estimates a $20,000,000 fund by January 1, 1938.

The House of Hazards

The PENTHOUSE MURDER

Twelfth Installment

SYNOPSIS: A card game is in session in Elmer Henderson's penthouse atop a New York skyscraper. The players are: Henderson, Police Inspector, Flaherty, Martin Frazier, Archie Doane, Max Michaelis, and his friend Wilkins, a stockbroker.

They are waiting for Stephen Fitzgerald. When he fails to appear, a telephone call brings the information that he is out with a girl. Fitzgerald and Henderson are both romantically interested in Lydia Lane, the famous actress, but Archie Doane reveals that she is engaged to marry him.

Doane leaves the party early when Fitzgerald fails to appear. A short time later he telephones Inspector Flaherty with the frantic news that he has found Fitzgerald and Miss Lane dead in Lydia Lane's penthouse apartment.

When Flaherty and the medical examiner reach the apartment, they find that Miss Lane is still alive. She is rushed to a hospital where blood transfusions and care promise to restore her.

All circumstantial evidence points to Archie Doane as the murderer, especially when the murder gun is found carefully planted in the chimney clean-out in the basement.

sure you. The deed is already done. It is as irrevocable... as irrevocable as Stephen Fitzgerald's death. There is no antidote known to science for the virus which is already coursing through my veins. However, if it will satisfy the law to send for a doctor, I have no objection. You will find the telephone in the foyer, Frazier."

The Assistant District Attorney hurried to the telephone, while Dan Flaherty looked at the unperturbed countenance of Elmer Henderson with an expression in which amazement was mingled with admiration.

"I owe you an apology, Henderson," he said, after a moment's steady scrutiny. "Last night I said you were a great poker player and a good winner, but that I thought you'd show a yellow streak if the game went against you. I take that all back. You're a rat, but you're a game little rat, at that."

"Thank you, Inspector," replied Henderson, politely. "I am a soldier of fortune—a gambler with life, if you like—and when I lose I pay without grumbling."

"There'll be an ambulance from Bellevue here in a few minutes," reported Frazier, returning from the telephone.

could have been made by a hypodermic needle.

"That did not connect anyone specifically with the crime, but the finding of that revolver at the bottom of the chimney did."

"It was the ideal weapon for the crime. Access to it could be attributed to Doane. And it was equipped with a silencer."

"Only five persons concerned, so far as we know, had an opportunity to abstract that particular weapon from the Highart studio. Those five persons were Fitz himself, Miss Lane, Adele Marceau, Archie Doane and Elmer Henderson."

"The circumstances eliminated both Fitz and Miss Lane. They also eliminated Doane, because of the absence of any way in which he could have thrown the pistol down the chimney without leaving tracks in the snow. We did not know then whether the maid was involved or not, but I dropped her from consideration for the time being, after hearing the janitor's story."

"I decided to concentrate first on Henderson, and the more I reviewed the situation, the more clearly it all pointed to him. Yet there was nothing conclusive."

"If my theory was right, then Miss Lane did not telephone to Archie Doane. She was lying there, unconscious, with Fitz's dead body on the floor. Who did telephone Doane then? And why?"

"Miss Lane had been making voice tests in Henderson's studio—recording her voice on film by his new method. Archie Doane confirmed my suspicion that the words he heard over the phone were the exact words from a part she had been taking in a sound picture. What would have been easier than for Henderson to have called up Doane's rooms, switched on the film in his soundproof laboratory here, and let Archie hear the frantic call for help in his fiancée's own voice?"

"But we were all playing poker right here, at the time," Dan Flaherty objected.

"A perfect alibi," Michaelis admitted, "except that you may recall that at just about eleven o'clock Henderson called attention to the time and went into the other room on the pretext of hunting for the whiskey, saying his man had gone out."

Many farmers in this community are worried about what to do with the bountiful grain crop now being harvested all around. Unsatisfactory prices for marketed grain sometimes add to their worries.

If they listen to the dictates of their better judgment, they will provide additional storage space through the erection or enlargement of barns, bins, granaries and storage sheds. Every bumper crop reminds us of short crops which occur now and then.

Those who are most successful in their farming endeavors have learned this lesson. Wouldn't it be wise to follow the age-old example of thriftiness?

"But we were all playing poker right here at the time," Flaherty objected.

Miss Lane's French maid, Adele Marceau, has been overheard threatening to shoot Fitzgerald if he did not stop annoying her. The janitor reports that Mademoiselle Marceau works in a night club on her day off and that she had talked to him in the basement on the night of the murder.

Medical examination reveals that Lydia Lane had been given a hypodermic injection of a hypnotic drug before being shot, and that Fitzgerald's body also shows the mark of a hypodermic needle on his leg.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"Shall I explain to you, Henderson, wherein your plot failed, and at the same time explain to Inspector Flaherty and Assistant District Attorney Frazier the modus operandi of your crime? How much time have we?"

Henderson glanced at his wrist watch. "I shall be able to check you up, if you have gone wrong in any of your deductions, for about another half hour," he said.

"Afterwards—who can tell? Again, Mr. Michaelis, I bow to your superior intuition and reasoning powers. I confess I am curious to learn how your suspicions were first directed in my direction."

He shrugged his shoulders expressively, with a courteous smile. "What's this about?"

"Henderson, did you kill Fitzgerald?"

"Not only that," said Max Michaelis, "but he administered to himself a dose of slow-acting poison—hypodermically, I presume, Henderson?—which gives him another half hour of consciousness before he lapses into the sleep from which there is no awakening. Am I right, Henderson?"

"Suicide," exclaimed Martin Frazier, as Henderson nodded in confirmation of Michaelis' statement. "We can't allow that."

"Suicide, I understand, is not a crime," Henderson suggested. "It is much preferable to death by electricity."

"No, but attempted suicide is a crime, and connivance at suicide is also a crime," said Frazier. "We would all be guilty. I shall telephone at once for a physician."

"As you please," Henderson assented. "It will be useless, I as-

"I'll make my recital brief, then," said Michaelis. "Martin, am I right in the belief that it was Henderson who suggested to you the idea that the revolver might be found at the bottom of the chimney?"

"Yes; that was a suggestion casually dropped by him when I called him up last night and reported that Miss Lane was still alive."

agreed Frazier. "We naturally talked about all the details, so far as we knew them at that time. I told him, I remember, that the weapon had not been found, but that we had not looked outside of the apartment for it as yet. He said something to the effect that it might easily have been thrown off the roof into the street, down the chimney or into the elevator shaft. I attached no special significance to what he said then. It was merely following out my own line of thought."

"But it was said with a purpose," Max Michaelis resumed. "The purpose was to pin the crime irrevocably on Archie Doane, which the discovery of the gun in the chimney would have done, had the evidence of the snow not proved that he could not have put it there."

"The snow ruined your plot, Henderson," he went on. "It was obvious after the first minute, gentlemen—to me, at least—that both Miss Lane and Fitz had been shot before the snow fell. Regardless of what the Medical Examiner said as to the time the bullet could have lived with a bullet through his heart, I was convinced that he had lived for three hours, possibly longer, after being shot. A vague memory of a similar case stirred in my mind. While we were hunting for clues and discussing those we had found, the memory came clear."

"It was a case which was widely reported in the newspapers, of a man, shot through the heart, who had been kept alive for several hours thereafter by the prompt administration of a hypodermic injection of adrenalin, the drug extracted from the supra-renal glands which control the pressure of blood in the arteries."

"As soon as I remembered that, I asked the medical examiner to look for any abrasion of the skin on Fitzgerald's body. You know what he reported—a puncture that

GOES 'ROUND AND 'ROUND
And It Comes Out Here—

Mr. and Mrs. I. J. Teague started "battling" nine years ago last Friday, according to Mr. Teague. They celebrated their wedding anniversary by spending the day in Dallas attending shows and buying new fall merchandise for their store here. Mr. and Mrs. Teague, who came to Hico from Bonham only a few years ago, are well liked by all Hicoans. They have a nice stock of variety goods and say they are well pleased with the growth of their business since locating in this thriving city.

As we made our rounds on Monday of this week, we found A. T. McFadden doing the most work of any person in town. He was quite busy in the men's department of the G. M. Carlton Bros. & Co. Store rearranging the stock, and using the dust rag and cleaning up in general. He was jotting down items that he needed and said by the last of this week they would have one of the largest stocks of men's ready-to-wear that the store has had in some time. Mr. McFadden has been away from Hico for the past three or four years, and comes back to his old position all enthused over future business. He has been to several other towns and believes that Hico is among the best. The entire town was glad to see the return of the McFadden family the first of this month.

Most Hico folks do not know that Bernard Ogle is a real golfer, for we doubt if he has ever played on the local course. But we learned the other day that he met the lady of his choice, whom he later wooed and won while playing golf on a West Texas golf course. He says the game got him into so much trouble that he hates even the name of golf. But his wife should hear the nice things he says about her when he isn't kidding and when she isn't around. Just the same Bernard knows he can easily start an argument and get by with it since his wife only weighs 84 pounds and wears a 10-year-old dress size.

If you are interested in a "real" fish story, go around to Randalis Bros. store and let T. A. tell you about the 105-pound fish that he almost landed at their camp recently. It was such an effort that it almost took his life in trying to get it to the surface. T. A. said he had spent many years trying to land some real fish but this incident proved to be the greatest thrill of his life.

A family who moved 21 miles from Hico in the Gastine community eight years ago came back for their first time last Sunday. That family was Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Skinner, daughter, Lucille, and son, Bobby. Mr. Skinner had been back once or twice on business but the other members had been away all that time. Mrs. Skinner said Sunday she could give no legitimate reason for the act. Bobby is now married and his wife accompanied them on the trip. They were guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. V. H. Bird, and also visited other old friends while in town. The Skinner family formerly lived where Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Randalis now reside.

We heard the following conversation between two Hico men the other day:
"Your doctor's out here with a flat tire."
"Diagnose the case as flatulency of the perimeter, and charge him accordingly," ordered the garage man. "That's the way he does."

It is indeed hard to give up a loved one, but it is a tragedy when a man has to see two of his loved ones pass away within three days. Such was the experience of J. W. Perry who lives northeast of Hico, when his wife passed away at their home last Thursday, and his mother followed by death Saturday. His wife had reached the age of 80 years, and had his mother lived until November of next year she would have been 100 years of age. Mr. Perry has the sympathy of all his Hico friends in his bereavement.

Maynard Marshall, 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Marshall took his first train ride a few days ago when he went to Runge, Texas, for a week's stay with relatives. Before boarding the train at Waco, he laid in a supply of candy, magazines, etc., and as soon as the train pulled in, he was so excited he got on without bidding goodbye to his family who had accompanied him that far on the trip. He was met in Yoakum by relatives from Runge. The entire trip proved to be a real thrill for the youngster.

Recently a father was introducing his family of boys to a visiting Governor.
"Seventeen boys," exclaimed the Governor. "And all Republicans, I suppose."
"All but one," said the father proudly. "They're all Republicans but John, the little rascal. He got to readin'."

LET'S TALK ABOUT CLOTHES
DENTON, Sept. 7.—Fly-away hats plus fly-away shoes equals fly-away season. And that's exactly what this fall has turned out to be. Shoes are continuing on the high road they began last year, with definite and extreme variations.

The most notable trend in shoe styles is the added grace of sport types. No longer must one wear the unflattering, enlarging fashions of yesteryear, since shoe manufacturing moguls have definitely streamlined the work shoes of milady. Soft suedes and leathers are being draped just as if they were so much cloth.

All the newer shoes are high over the instep. One black suede dinner boot has the high front cut in wing-like divisions, the edges banded in patent. Even suede ties, which will be so prominent in the sports field again, are laced up high with the arched sides curving into the eyelets.

Gores are used as much in the new shoes as in dresses, and the elasticity thus given promises a season for comfort as well as beauty. Slip-ons are more popular than ever, and the elastic insets have solved most of the fitting problems formerly attached to them.

Classic shoe of this season and the one most favored by girls at Texas State College for Women, is a high-cut, slip-on pump of suede. An over-turned scroll of suede rests far up on the instep. The graceful line of the scroll and the fine molding of the shoe itself are destined to place it with shoe immortals.

SIR MALCOLM CAMPBELL

The Fastest Racer On Earth—300 Miles An Hour—Hunts Pirate Treasure for a Thrill!

Writing of Eddie Rickenbacker reminds me of Sir Malcolm Campbell—for at a dinner one night I found myself seated between these two, both quiet and soft-spoken men, yet both itching with this unquenchable mania for speed!

I knew Rickenbacker went into the desperate game of racing in the first place because he needed money. But what about Campbell? Campbell is independently wealthy. I knew he didn't care if he never made another dime.

What was it? Fame? Glory? But he said, No—he just did it for the fun of it.

Then, turning to Eddie Rickenbacker, I asked him how he enjoyed watching Sir Malcolm zoom over the ground at a speed just a trifle too slow for a comet, and Rickenbacker, veteran of two hundred automobile races himself, handed me a jolt by saying: "I've never seen him. And I never intend to. I figure that every time he races, the chances of his being killed are four out of five!"

He Has Driven Hundreds of Thousands of Miles, but Never Had a License

No other living creature has ever hurtled over the earth's surface as fast as Sir Malcolm Campbell—three hundred miles an hour five miles a minute. New York to San Francisco in ten hours! Four other men, it's true, traveled faster than two hundred miles an hour—Segrave, Lockhart, Keech and Hibbs—and each one died a horrible death. Campbell is the only one left.

But he's a fatalist. Never worries. Never gets nervous. And when it's all over, he steps out of the car as calm as some fellow who has just driven home from the office.

When Campbell was sixteen years of age, he told his father that he wanted to be a bicycle racer. His father threw up his hands in horror and immediately got his son a job as a clerk with Lloyds', the famous insurance company in London.

Sir Malcolm told me he worked in the office for two years and never got paid a cent. The third year they consented to give him a little salary. Today he is one of the directors of that world-famous firm.

He was only nineteen years old when he got the idea of selling libel insurance to English newspapers. The libel laws in England are much more severe than in America. Campbell soon had practically every newspaper in the kingdom signed up to a policy. And by the time he was twenty-one, he was independently wealthy. He immediately started buying motorcycles and automobiles and entering races. He has spent over fifty thousand pounds—a quarter of a million dollars—to satisfy his longing to break speed records.

And he has traveled thousands of miles looking for the perfect speedway on which to make his headlong dash to death. He has been to Denmark, the Sahara Desert, South Africa and Florida. But he told me that the finest track on earth is out in Utah—the salt bottoms of old lakes that dried up a hundred thousand years ago—salt that is hard and smooth as ice.

One time he was racing in Denmark, driving at one hundred and forty miles an hour, when—Bang!—one of his front tires shot off. It hurtled itself straight at the car, standing along the roadway killed a young boy, and then leaped clear over the crowd and bounced along a dizzy path for a whole mile before it came to a stop.

But Campbell's greatest adventure—and he has written a fascinating book about it—was on Coconino Island where he hunted for hidden treasure. Hidden pirate treasure! Coconino Island is one of the desert spots on the face of the globe. There is not a single house there and you never see a human being. The natives are degenerate survivors of the pre-time cultured and wealthy Incas. B-pathway before them. He lit a match. Instantly there was the crackle and snap of burning wood. In five minutes, the jungle was a red hot roaring furnace!

Suddenly, to their horror, they saw that the flames were leaping in all directions. The fire was roaring down upon them. They were in danger of being roasted alive. So they began a mad, wild, pell-mell dash through the jungle, racing against a horrible death.

Finally, gasping for breath, blackened by smoke and scorched by flame, they flung themselves on the beach. Hundreds of acres of jungle were on fire and the flames lit up the sky with a burning red glow. It grew so hot that for a while they thought they would be driven into the water where dozens of man-eating sharks were waiting for them. But the palm trees were so green and wet they would not burn. Their lives were saved.

After three tantalizing weeks of treasure-hunting, all Sir Malcolm Campbell had to show for his search for pirate's gold was a pair of bloody feet, torn fingers, nails and a blistered back. He looked more like a convict than a wealthy English gentleman. Tired, discouraged, and feverish, he was eager to go home. But he told me that he is going back to Coconino Island some day, and if there is any treasure there, he will get it.

"You know," he said in his quiet way, "I'd go half way around the world for a little adventure."

NEW ORLEANS, La. (P.A.S.)—The world's biggest "mud pack" has been created by engineers of the Freeport Sulphur Company. It has pumped more than 4,000,000 cubic yards of mud into sulphur mine to plug underground channels.

A coincidence of Christian names in two branches of one family was revealed when Miss Eleanor Norton, a Detroit school teacher, visited her uncle, T. W. Norton, at Llano, Texas, recently. Each was unaware of the other's existence until shortly before they met. Norton left his home at Boston, Mass., when 13, wandered to Texas, and established himself in the granite business at Llano in 1900. He had business at Llano in contact with his family in the North. Upon their meeting the coincidence in names became known. In the family of Miss Eleanor Norton the names of the children, all girls, are identical with those of T. W. Norton's family of girls. In one instance the likeness included a double name, Marguerite Estelle. Miss Norton was accompanied by her aunt, Mrs. Eleanor Norton Dillon of Houghton, Mich., a sister of T. W. Norton. It was the first meeting between brother and sister in 50 years.

WHY NEWSPAPERS ARE ANXIOUS FOR "EARLY COPY"

The Advertiser Is Unfair to Himself When He Sends His Advertisement to the Newspaper Office Just Before the Dead-Line

Early "Copy" Late "Copy"

| 4. Good typography. | Risk of poor typography. |
| 5. Prompt delivery to reader. | Risk of late delivery. |

| 10. Illustrations correct. | Risk of misplaced cuts. |

* While a newspaper is a marvel of mechanical efficiency, there are limits on what can be done by a given force of printers, stereotypers and pressmen in a short, crowded period of stress.

* There is plenty of time to give every advertiser good service when early copy is sent in.

* The News Review believes that its advertisers all desire to be fair to the printers, stereotypers and pressmen who serve them, as well as to be fair to themselves.

* Visitors to the mechanical department are invited so that the process of handling advertising may be thoroughly understood and the mechanical problems fully realized.

* Your co-operation will be greatly appreciated by the entire personnel of The News Review.

MRS. ROOSEVELT LIKES FAIR "SAMPLE"

NEW YORK (Special).—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, wife of the President, like more than 200,000 other persons from all over the world, has already sampled the New York World's Fair of 1939 by visiting the exhibit the Fair Corporation maintains for the public on the Fifth Avenue floor of the Empire State building.

"I am much interested in this Fair," said Mrs. Roosevelt, after she had seen the ingeniously illuminated models and animated displays that promise so many wonders for the "Nation's Fair." "It seems to me that there is opportunity here to do a remarkable piece of work from the educational standpoint. The conception of the whole Fair as outlined to me sounds very provocative of thought." The theme of the Fair is "Building the World of Tomorrow."

SUPREME DICTATOR-ELECT, LOYAL ORDER OF MOOSE

Cleveland, Ohio, September 3.—William J. Egan, Assistant Attorney General of New Jersey, was today unanimously elected Supreme Dictator of the Loyal Order of Moose by the delegates to the 49th Annual International Convention of this fraternity. His one-year term of office begins immediately.

Mr. Egan is fully qualified for this important office, the highest elective post in the Moose. He has had much experience in serving his fellow men by assuring their security and comfort. While Director of Public Safety for the City of Newark, N. J., he was daily concerned with their welfare. As Supreme Dictator of the Moose, he charges himself with the additional responsibility of helping to care for widows and orphans and for the aged—two vast missions of this world-wide fraternity, as expressed in the Moose child city of Mooseheart, in Illinois, and in Moosehaven, the Moose home for the aged in Florida.

An interesting fact about Mr. Egan's successful career is that he began it within one hundred miles of his present home, Lambertville, N. J., where he was born on June 9, 1888, on the extreme western side of the State, overlooking the Delaware river. Newark is on the eastern side. Hence, while others went far afield to seek fortune, Mr. Egan found his horizon, figuratively, just over the hill.

Attending St. John's Parochial School and Rutgers College at Trenton, he next went to the New Jersey Law School and upon graduation he became a member of the New Jersey State Bar. He began to practice law in Newark and his practice resulted in much success. Blessed with a charming personality as well as a keen insight into human affairs, it was but logical that his fellows should choose him for city clerk and it was but a step from that position to his present one.

PROPOSED STATE OF TEXAS BUILDING AT WORLD FAIRS

The Texas Planning Board has recommended to the Legislature that Texas be represented at the Golden Gate International Exposition at San Francisco and at the New York World Fair in 1939, by a replica of the historic Alamo in which 7,000 feet of sound and color film depicting Texas as it is today would be shown in an air-conditioned auditorium seating 500. The cost of the exhibits will not exceed $225,000.00. The above drawing is an artist's conception of how the proposed State of Texas building will look in a fair setting.

FOLKS THAT TALK MOST USUALLY HAVE TH' LEAST T' SAY.

Federal Beer Tax Reaches Billion

BEER, designated by national leaders as the bulwark of moderation, has also become a tax bulwark to such an extent that on August 10 it had netted the Federal Government its billionth dollar in excise revenue since it was relegalized on April 7, 1933.

On June 30, 1937, at the end of the fiscal year, the aggregate had reached $958,159,786, of which $27,500,000 was for wort, malt and special taxes and the balance for barrelage tax.

With tax stamps being purchased during summer at the rate of more than a million dollars' worth a day, statisticians were able to fix August 10 as the day when the billionth beer tax dollar was earmarked for the Federal treasury. This, incidentally, is exclusive of the State-imposed taxes, which have aggregated in the neighborhood of a quarter-billion dollars since relegalization.

Economists point out that this billion is practically "net profit" for the Government, there being almost no expense for collection—in contrast to the millions paid out for futile enforcement and loss of revenue for the Federal treasury during prohibition, when only bootleggers and speakeasies were the gainers.

Under the present set-up, Uncle Sam exerts almost no effort in collecting his beer tax. The brewer purchases revenue stamps in advance, canceling them as the beer leaves the brewery. Meters, installed at the brewers' expense and supervised by Federal inspectors, provide an extra check against possible inaccuracies.

One of the reasons why the billion piled up so fast in comparison with previous years is that the current Federal beer tax is five times the amount levied by the Government before prohibition. In 1914, when the per capita consumption was at its peak, the Federal tax was $1 per barrel and there was no State tax. Today the Federal tax is $5 and State taxes vary from 62 cents to $4.96 a barrel.

At least three factors have been suggested to explain the arrival of the billion dollar date in advance of early anticipations: (1) improved economic situation, itself induced by relegalization of beer stimulating industry; (2) growing population for the Federal treasury during return of beer as a home beverage.

Hints For Homemakers

By Jane Rogers

INSTEAD of pouring it hot over ice, try making iced coffee by chilling the coffee in the refrigerator. This will mean less dilution from the ice in the glass, and a much more refreshing drink. The coffee should be kept in an airtight container between brewing and serving, so that it will retain its flavor and aroma.

Beets are rich in vitamins A, B and C. Also they possess calcium, phosphorus and iron, all of which is more than enough to recommend them for both children and grown-ups. A small amount of sugar added while boiling, about a teaspoon to a cup of water, restores the garden sweetness they are almost sure to have lost in greater or less degree on their way from the garden to the saucepan.

Mr. Pickle: "Why weren't you in school today?"
Whit: "Because I washed my face this morning and the teacher thought I was sick and sent me home."

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste
Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—and will move impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body mechanism.
Symptoms may be nagging headache, persistent dizziness, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder trouble may be burning, scanty or too frequent urination.
There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wise in such cases. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your druggist!

Notes From Office Of Hamilton Co. Home Dem. Agent

Demonstration and her Tomatoes.

"I sold enough tomatoes from my garden to buy one dozen quart jars to can tomatoes in," reported eleven-year-old Betty Jean Harris, garden demonstrator of the Eliza 4-H girls' club.

Besides selling tomatoes to buy new jars for her canning, Betty Jean canned 12 quarts of tomatoes for neighbor boy who hoed her garden for her. He had no tomatoes, was an orphan, and he and Betty Jean made the trade themselves. He was to hoe the entire tomato patch which was one dozen rows, each at least 150 feet long, and she was to can him 12 quarts of tomatoes. A pretty good trade it seems.

One-Half Acre of Peas Pays.

"We received between $10.00 and $12.00 from our surplus peas the last two weeks," reported Mrs. Eric Adams, food cooperorator of the Eliza Home Demonstration Club, to the agent August 23.

Besides the containers, Mrs. Adams has canned for her home use she has canned and sold 50 No. 2 cans, given neighbors enough for 32 No. 2 cans and her mother enough for 24 No. 2 cans and had them for fresh use for several weeks now. The patch is one 1-2-acre but is more than paying for itself.

Mrs. Adams also reported that she had added 235 containers of canned food to her pantry shelf this year consisting of 20 varieties and had help can for her neighbors 175 containers.

Live At Home.

"I want you to see my pantry," said Miss Zula Gardner, sponsor of the Union 4-H girls' club, to the agent in a home visit on August 26.

A visit to the well constructed cellar revealed that they would live at home this year. There are 160 containers of canned food of 26 varieties, 40 lbs. of dried peaches, 1 lb. dried peas, 5 gallons of honey, 75 gallons of sorghum syrup and a few gallons of lard yet. They belong to a beef club and have fresh beef every week during the year. Their poultry flock is sufficient to supply the meat and eggs needs of the family. Their dairy herd supplies ample milk, butter and cheese and their park animals the meat and lard needed at home.

Be Regular Fruit Farm.

"We have 30 grape vines, part of them one year old and part of them two years old, that averaged 2 bushels of fruit to the vine," stated Mrs. Bessie Brown to the agent in a home visit on August 13.

Mrs. Brown and her sister canned all that would be needed for home consumption for the family of seven and sold the remainder for $1.00 per bushel or traded them for work with the neighbors. There are five varieties of these grape vines: Niagara, Concord, Agarvan, Champion, Campbell's Early and Winisap.

Of the other fruits on the farm, there are:
50 berry vines, 110 peach trees, 8 cherry trees, 8 apricots, 12 apple, 12 pear, 14 pecan, 3 walnut, 18 Persimmon, 12 figs.

On the cellar shelves there are 26 varieties of canned food. Among the outstanding foods are:
400 bottles of grape juice, 150 containers of tomatoes, 70 gallons berries and 60 No. 2 cans chicken.

Ogle; to those who contributed the beautiful flowers; to the ladies of the community for the food prepared and to Dr. Chandler of Hamilton for his eight years of faithful service, we offer sincerest thanks.

THIS WEEK IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—With Congress out of the way as the focus of public attention, for the time being, Washington is relaxing by paying more attention to the doings and personalities of men and women whose functions are not primarily political.

Somebody raised the question around the table at the National Press Club, as to who is the hardest working member of the President's Cabinet. After a very brief discussion there were unanimous agreement that that honor goes to Harold W. Ickes, Secretary of the Interior.

Certainly no other Cabinet member has so many jobs. He gets appointed to committees and commissions because he has proved himself such a tireless worker and a first-rate executive. He gets things done.

Duties of Mr. Ickes.

The work of Secretary of the Interior covers a fairly wide range of interests, which most of Mr. Ickes' predecessors have found enough to attend to. But in addition to the duties involved in administering the Public Land Office, the Reclamation Service, the Bureau of Indian Affairs, the Patent Office and a few other branches of the Interior Department, Mr. Ickes is the head of the Public Works Administration, in charge of all grants and loans to states and communities for public works of all kinds. That is a job which would keep an ordinary man busy if he did nothing else.

But besides that, Mr. Ickes is chairman of National Resources Committee, Member of National Forests Reservation Commission, Member of Migratory Bird Conservation Commission, Member of District of Columbia Permanent System of Highways Commission, Chairman of Special Committee on Special Site for Auditorium in Washington, Chairman of Special Committee on Space Control in Government Buildings, Member of Smithsonian Institution, Member of National Emergency Council, Director of the Virgin Islands Company, Member of Council of National Defense, Patron ex officio of Howard University, Member of Planning Committee on Mineral Policy, Member of Committee on National Land Problems, Member of National Advisory Council on Religion in Education and Member of the Federal Loan Committee.

On top of all that, the President has just appointed Mr. Ickes Administrator of the Puerto Rico Reconstruction Administration, which has been placed under the Department of the Interior.

Mr. Ickes, who was a Republican before he became active in Theodore Roosevelt's Progressive Party, and never was known as a Democrat, is a prodigious worker, and expects his secretaries and bureau chiefs to pay as little attention to office hours as he does.

Hugo Black to Supreme Court.

With the exception of Treasury Secretary Morgenthau, Secretary Ickes is probably the wealthiest man in the Cabinet. He made a comfortable fortune in the practice of law in Chicago, and inherited a large amount from his wife, who was killed in an automobile accident last year.

Washington people who know Senator Hugo Black of Alabama as one of the most outspoken men in public life, a man of action, restless and of strong personal convictions, are wondering how he will enjoy the restraint which custom, tradition and the nature of his new duties will impose upon him when he takes his seat next month on the bench of the most august judicial body in the world, the Supreme Court of the United States.

He will have opportunity, naturally, to express his convictions and exercise his skill in debate in discussions with his colleagues of the bench on cases which come before the Court. But those debates are held behind closed doors.

There is nothing dramatic about them, and no hint of what has been said by any Justice is ever allowed to leak out. Except as they express themselves in written opinions handed down from the bench, either in agreement with the majority of the Court or dissenting from the majority view of the law, Supreme Court Justices have no opportunity to express themselves publicly on public questions.

That is one of the reasons why Justices lead what to many seem somewhat like cloistered lives. They are not "mixers." They mostly avoid attendance at dinners and parties at which they are likely to be thrown into contact with politicians and others who might ask them indiscreet questions about cases which the Court is considering. There is an implied obligation to avoid friendships with people who might conceivably have a personal interest in what the Court is doing.

Social Life of Justices.

That tradition does not bar them from most of the ordinary amenities, but makes them particular about the company they associate with. It sometimes interpreted as signifying snobbishness. The only opportunity which a Supreme Court Justice has to express his views on issues of public concern, except as he writes an opinion, is when he questions attorneys from the bench in the course of argument on a case.

By the tone and phrasing of his questions, a Justice may give expression to his own views of the fundamental issues at stake. Senator—now Justice—Black, as chairman of the Senate Investigating Committee, was an adept at asking searching questions.

As a member of the Supreme Court, his friends expect him to avail himself of opportunities to express himself by that Socratic method. But such opportunities are few, and if he follows the precedent set by Justice Cardozo, up to now the "baby" of the Court, he will not ask any questions from the bench during the first term after he takes his seat.
