TODAY and TOMORROW

My wife and I were awakened before sun-up a few days ago by a cry of "Hello!" which seemed to come from the sky, followed by a raucous screech which sounded like a child in pain. We rushed to the window. The screeching continued. It came from the top of a tall ash tree close to the house. Perched on an upper branch was one of the most beautiful birds I have ever seen, pure white, with a crest of feathers tinged with pale yellow. It was bigger than a Leghorn pullet. The bird screamed "Hello!" at us again, and flew to another tree, emitting loud screeches as he flew.

Soon there was quite a gathering of neighbors on our front lawn, rapping up at the strange bird. One of them was its owner. It was a trained Australian sulphur-crested cockatoo, he said, which he uses in a theatrical act, and had escaped when he was cleaning its cage.

The bird stayed in our trees for two days and nights, refusing to be coaxed back to captivity. He was beautiful to look at, but every time he screeched he reminded me of many people I have met, who are attractive until they open their mouths.

Coming up the path after a long rainy spell my wife saw two beautiful objects on the lawn which had not been there the night before. They were globular mushrooms, one as big as a baby's head. She picked them and brought them to the house, where we all admired their beautiful skins, mottled like a leopard's, pale brown and white. A couple of mornings later, after they had laid out on the front porch rail in the sun, I found the mushrooms had turned black and their insides were a slimy, stinking mess.

They were a perfect example of the truth of the old adage, "Beauty is only skin deep." I sometimes wonder at the effort and expense to which so many girls and women go to make themselves beautiful. I never see one whose face and hair have obviously been fixed up at a "beauty parlor" without wondering what there is behind the artificial beauty. I like to look at a beautiful woman, as every man does, but for steady companionship I think most men prefer the ones who do not make the pursuit of beauty their main object in life.

Men's standards of feminine beauty vary from country to country and from time to time, almost from man to man. It is a good thing for the great majority of young women that this is so, and that men seldom pick their wives for their beauty alone.

One of the reasons why Shakespeare is the universal and everlasting poet is that he does not describe his heroines except to tell us they were beautiful. Every man can apply his own standard of beauty to Juliet, of whom Shakespeare wrote only that she was young and beautiful. To the Scandinavian race—that makes Juliet a blonde; to the Italian, she is a brunette; to the Turk, who admires feminine plumpness, Juliet was fat; a Chinese Juliet would be slant-eyed, and if the beauty standards of the African jungle are those of the savage belles we have seen in the circus and the movie travel pictures, with huge, distended lips, or necks stretched to incredible lengths by encircling brass rings, one can imagine how the African beaux would visualize Juliet if they ever read Shakespeare.

"Beauty is in the eye of the beholder," an ancient philosopher wrote. No truer words were ever spoken.

Most of the girls who try to make themselves more beautiful than Nature made them attempt, consciously or unconsciously, to look like some popular star of the stage or screen, usually the screen. Many think these actresses are popular because they are beautiful, while usually the contrary is true. They become popular stars because they have talent as actors, and most of them have to be artificially beautified for their public appearances. Most of them make no effort to look beautiful when not on the job of entertaining.

Almost without exception, however, the ones I have known have been delightful companions. Their charm came from their wit, vivacity, their voices and their intelligence, rather than from being pleasing to look at.

The greatest professional beauty of my time was Lillian Russell. When I last saw her she was in

Palace Theatre to Reopen This Week With New Sound

Having been closed the first part of this week for repairs, remodeling and the installation of new equipment, the Palace Theatre will reopen soon with an entirely new house, according to Manager Harold Stroud of Hamilton, who completed a deal for the purchase of the theatre last week from E. H. and Bill Elkins. According to Mr. Stroud, the improvements have taken a little more time than he anticipated, but he is making every effort to rush things up so that the show house may be reopened for performances Saturday of this week. He left for Dallas Thursday morning to book pictures for the coming season, and assures the Leghorn that he will have only the best of programs for public approval.

The building has been cleaned out completely this week, the interior remodeled and refinished, and the front lobby has been freshened up with new paint. Other improvements in the interior include rearrangements in the projection booth and box office.

Installation of modern new sound equipment has been in progress this week, and Mr. Stroud believes the patrons will be pleased with the mechanical improvements in the theatre. He plans to continue the modernization work as the demand requires, and hopes to have a completely new theatre for local patrons to enjoy the best programs in when his plans are completed.

Announcement of coming programs will be carried in next week's issue of the News Review, according to Mr. Stroud, who will have his bookings completed for publication at that time.

EXTENSION CENTERS TO BE LOCATED IN TEXAS TOWNS

SAN MARCOS, Sept. 22.—J. R. Buckner, Chairman of Extension Department of the Southwest Texas Teachers College here announced today that extension centers would be located in a number of Central Texas towns enabling teachers and others unable to attend College to take courses for college credit at home. Hico has been named tentatively for the establishment of one of these centers.

Any courses beginning freshman courses included, will be offered if there is a demand for them. Two courses toward a Master's degree may be completed at extension centers. Requests for information from those interested are desired immediately, Buckner said. In order that courses which are in demand may be offered, Centers will be established at any place where the demand is sufficient.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

Sunday morning, Bible classes at 10 A. M.
Praying and Worship Hour, 11 A. M.
Sunday evening, Bible class 7:30 P. M.
Wednesday evening, hour of singing, prayer and study 7:45 P. M. We are trying to give in these various hours of meeting such things as we believe will be of real benefit to all present.

The Lord's work is a work of industry, growth, patience and love—and as such should enlist the attention of all to the point of real sacrifice.

her sixties and still retained the classical loveliness which made her famous. But Lillian Russell was born beautiful.

VANITY

artificial beauty After all, the desire to look prettier than the way one was created is one of the most natural and ancient of human ambitions. There were barber-shops and hairdressers in ancient Babylon. Men as well as women are vain about their personal appearance. If that were not so there would be no profit to the advertisers of cures for baldness. Few men are as free from this sort of vanity as was Oliver Cromwell, who insisted that the painter of his portrait should depict the warts which disfigured his face.

Recently an English newspaper criticized the current fashion of colored fingernails, saying that it originated among American women trying to conceal evidences of Negro blood. A historian contradicted this, pointing out that Cleopatra dyed not only her fingernails but her toenails. Among the commonest of relics of early civilization dug up by antiquarians in the ruins of ancient cities are the cosmetic pans used by prehistoric belles.

I have no desire to change human nature. I couldn't if I wanted to. The girls can change from redheads to platinum blondes, from boyish bobs to pigtails and back again so far as I care. It's all right with me until they begin dyeing their hair green.

W. A. LODEN DIED IN HICO WEDNESDAY; SERVICES HELD THURSDAY P. M.

Funeral services were held at the Joe Collier home Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock for W. A. Loden, who passed away at their apartment at that residence Wednesday morning. Rev. E. E. Dawson, pastor of the Hico Baptist Church, conducted the services and interment made in the Hico Cemetery.

William Abner Loden was born June 9, 1851, near Rusk, Texas. He was married to Miss Louisa Bazer in Cherokee County, Nov. 17, 1887. To this union nine children were born, all of whom were present at the funeral.

"Uncle Billy," as he was known, resided in the Millerville community for the past thirty years, until recently when he and his wife moved to town and rented an apartment from Joe Collier. Prior to that, they resided in the Altman community. Mr. Loden was a member of the Missionary Baptist Church, and lived faithful to the duties of his church. He was an honest, upright citizen, and had friends everywhere. Although he had reached the age of 86, he was quite active for a man of his age. He enjoyed his family and friends, and the community lost a good citizen in his passing.

Besides his wife, he is survived by the following children: Mrs. Katherine Osborn, Tahoka, T. W. Loden, Meadow; Mrs. Martha Lisenby, Lubbock; Mrs. Effie Lowe, Hico; George and Ben Loden, Waco; Mrs. Lena Goyno, Fair; Mrs. Billie Luckie, Albany; and Willie Loden, Ballinger. He is also survived by thirty-two grandchildren and six great grandchildren.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK IS FROM OCTOBER 3RD-9TH

Fire Prevention Week is October third to ninth. What are you going to do about it in your city? The State Firemen's and Fire Marshal's Association urgently requests that every city governing body, its fire marshal and fire department prepare some sort of a publicity campaign and, if at all possible, a program of some sort, at a given hour, which will interest its citizens in the very important matter of Fire Prevention.

Now is the time to call to the attention of the citizens of your respective cities the fact that chimneys, flues and fire places should be inspected for any defects prior to their coming into use in the cold weather. Gas explosions due to defective appliances and piping must be forestalled and will be if you will have an inspection made of the piping and appliances in the houses in your city.

A great work can be done and a great assistance extended to all of the citizens of Texas through the efforts of you people who are in this position of accountability to the public if you will insist on and plan an active campaign of publicity particularly for Fire Prevention Week, October 3rd to 9th. It would be kept up at about two or three month intervals during the entire year.

Remember that fire losses in your city have a direct bearing upon the fire insurance premiums to be collected in your city and just in the ratio that there is an active, wide awake interest taken by the authorities responsible for such things in the prevention of fires through reminding the public that it should keep its premises cleaned up of all rubbish and litter, that it should have inspection made of its piping and heating appliances, and in proportion to the interest that is taken to educate the public and keep them "Fire Prevention Conscious"—just in that ratio will your entire citizenship profit in dollars and cents by reason of enjoying the best rate on fire insurance schedules. This has no relation whatever to the greater good which will come to your citizenship and that is, through the removal of every possible hazard to the loss of life through fire. This is the most important activity to which our Association and your City can dedicate itself; and while the matter of saving in dollars and cents is an appreciable and substantial factor in the lives of all of us, yet the preservation of human life by far outdistances all of the money that could possibly be saved to any human being.

Let's make Fire Prevention Week a reality in Texas.

OLIN CULBERSON, Sec. State Firemen's and Fire Marshal's Association of Texas.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH TO HOLD SERVICES SUNDAY

Rev. Harvard A. Anderson of Hamilton, part-time minister of the Hico Presbyterian Church, will preach at the local house of worship next Sunday, September 26, according to announcement from one of the members.

Morning services will be held at 11 o'clock. It is stated, to which the public has a cordial invitation.

Singing at Dry Fork.

There will be a singing at the Dry Fork school house each 4th Sunday night. Every person of this and surrounding communities has a special invitation to be present.

PREACHING AT UNITY

The Rev. Otis Holladay will preach at Unity at 11:00 o'clock next Sunday. Everybody in the community is invited.

Call For October CCC Enrollments Made by Director

"A call for approximately 11,000 white and 1,200 colored boys to be enrolled into the Civilian Conservation Corps during October has been issued by Adam R. Johnson, Director of the Texas Relief Commission, to the various County Welfare Boards.

"This number far exceeds any former enrollment and will give almost all boys in the State an opportunity to enroll if they are unemployed, 17 to 23 years of age, in need and whose parents or themselves, due to financial limitations, are not in position to secure or provide comparable training. Full strength of the Texas quota is 15,000 white and 1,700 colored, and due to discharge of boys reaching the age of 24 and/or completion of the maximum enrollment of two years, re-enrollments will be necessary.

"Heretofore, rules did not allow boys from other than the groups receiving or eligible to receive public assistance be accepted, but these have now been modified. Such boys who have no dependents may allow two thirds of their pay remain on deposit and upon discharge or completion of their enrollment, receive the full accrued amount. Where there are dependents, an allotment will be made each month direct.

"Over $500,000.00 each month is brought to Texas through these allotment checks to dependent, which materially relieves the burden that would otherwise be carried by the communities."

Old Age Retirement Benefits Financed by Payroll Assessments

Much public confusion has arisen in regard to old age retirement benefits and unemployment insurance because each plan is financed from contributions based upon payrolls. The Unemployment Compensation Commission was formed for the purpose of collection of contributions for the support of unemployment insurance and the administration of the Unemployment Compensation law and is separate from the administration of the Old Age Assistance Commission.

Old age retirement benefits are provided for under Title VIII of the Social Security law, and are financed by monthly assessments upon payrolls made by both worker and employer, in equal amounts. At age 65 the worker may retire and receive certain monthly benefits, based upon the amount of his wage and the length of time worked before retirement. The benefits cannot exceed $85.00 monthly or be less than $10.00 monthly.

Unemployment compensation is financed entirely by a tax on payrolls paid only by the employer of eight or more in occupations covered. No assessment whatever in Texas is made on the worker for unemployment insurance. The payments will be based entirely upon the work record of the individual and will be one-half the former full time weekly wage, with a maximum weekly payment of $15.00, for a period not to exceed 16 weeks. Unemployment benefits will be payable January 1938.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

E. E. Dawson, Pastor

Next Sunday is an important day in Sunday school life because it is Promotion Day. If one ought to advance to a higher grade, that is the day it takes place. So the importance. Enrollment plans will be presented for adoption aig. New quarters for the last quarter of the year will be distributed.

There will be two worship hours during the day: 11:00 A. M. and 7:30 P. M. At the morning hour, the sermon subject will be, "How Predestination Panned Out." At the evening hour, "Which Way and Where Did Man Fall?"

Baptism will be administered at the evening service.

There is always a welcome for you.

Sunday, October 3, will be Rally Day and General Enlistment Day. Keep it in mind.

Preaching at Millerville.

Bro. Oran Columbus will preach at the Millerville Church of Christ Sunday the 26th. Morning services at 11 o'clock and evening services at 8:15. Everyone has a cordial invitation to be present for each of these services.

Singing at Dry Fork.

There will be a singing at the Dry Fork school house each 4th Sunday night. Every person of this and surrounding communities has a special invitation to be present.

PREACHING AT UNITY

The Rev. Otis Holladay will preach at Unity at 11:00 o'clock next Sunday. Everybody in the community is invited.

Queer Names and Why.

Five towns in Texas have every right to be dirty—their names are Mud, Clay, Earth, Sand and Grit. Among other odd names is that of Round Top, so called because it has an old log house with a round dome situated on a round hill. Origin for one of the most optimistically named towns in the state, Rising Star, has never been discovered. And then there is the town named Playdada by mistake, because some post office employe could not read the handwriting which designated it as Playdada.

Dorothy Ruth Chastain, 16, college freshman of Wichita Falls, was reported in "satisfactory" condition Tuesday afternoon after she had been placed in the "iron lung" at St. Johns Hospital at Tulsa, Okla. She was carried by airplane in company with her family physician, after paralysis had threatened her lungs.

Old Hico Preaching Service.

Our regular monthly preaching service at Old Hico will be held Sunday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock, and all the community is invited.

E. E. DAWSON.

SEVENTY-EIGHT PER CENT OF HICO SCHOOL BOYS ARE FUTURE FARMERS

Three out of every four boys in high school and seventh grade are now enrolled or have had vocational agriculture.

The Hico Future Farmer Chapter met last Friday night. A committee was appointed to plan the work of the chapter for the coming year. The chapter appointed another committee to plan an entertainment to be held in the next few weeks.

Mr. H. P. Sellers has kindly consented to the use of the show window, formerly occupied by Harellek's Dry Goods, for an educational exhibit put on by the Future Farmers. The first will be an exhibit on Soil Conservation. The exhibits will be changed from time to time as we study different phases of agriculture.

The Hico F. F. A. boys have been asked to initiate the Fredell Greenhands sometime next week. The officers will attend a district meeting held in Stephenville next Tuesday night.

NEW DRIVE LAUNCHED TO IMPROVE RELATIONSHIPS OF TENANTS-LANDLORDS

A new drive is being launched to improve relationships between landowners and those tenants who are being financed by the Farm Security Administration (formerly Resettlement). It was stated by C. P. Emmett, county supervisor.

Recommendations of a committee of supervisors are now being printed for guidance of all county offices in Texas and Oklahoma. The 45,000 farm tenant families in these two states who are being financed by Farm Security can blaze a trail for the remainder of the 147,000 Texas and Oklahoma tenant families, the supervisor said.

The committee report recommends that leases be prepared at a conference between landlord, tenant, and county supervisor. The lease should always be in writing, it was suggested, because "disturbance frequently exists, and because of the human element of forgetfulness as to what agreements have been made." A long-time lease was recommended, in place of the one-year lease now commonly used.

Cancellation clauses were suggested, for use by either party, for reasonable cause, at least ninety days before expiration of any lease year. "Where it is absolutely impossible to obtain long-time leases, we feel that one-year leases should be automatically renewed, unless one of the parties gives notice sixty to ninety days before expiration," the committee said.

Each Farm Security borrower is working under a long-time plan, and it was recommended that the lease encourage him to make improvements which will aid in carrying out that plan. Improvements which he makes should be considered the property of the tenant, and he should either be allowed to remove them at expiration of the lease, the report said, or an understanding should be included in the lease as to how the tenant should be compensated.

Present division of crops, on the "third and fourth" basis, was declared inequitable. "On good land it is usually to the disadvantage of the landlord, and on poor land, to the disadvantage of the tenant," the report declared, urging that "a fairer distribution should be made, based upon the respective contributions of the landlord and tenant." However, the committee condemned the "bonus" or "privilege rent," now being used in many counties of Texas and Oklahoma. It recommended that payment for special privileges be made in labor. It was also recommended that county Farm Debt Adjustment Committees act as conciliation boards, to settle landlord-tenant differences.

Large Contingent Of Soldiers Coming Through Hico Soon

Several weeks ago two army men were in Hico conferring with Mayor H. F. Sellers relative to facilities available locally for taking care of several thousand soldiers overnight. After inspecting several sites, and receiving offers of cooperation on the part of this community, the officers informed the mayor that he would be advised later of definite plans.

The soldiers coming through Hico are a part of the troops which will be on their way to Mineral Wells from San Antonio, due to take part in maneuvers in which some fifteen or twenty thousand troops will be concentrated in the Mineral Wells area.

Since first advice on the matter was received, additional plans seem to call for overnight stops at other places, according to the following daily newspaper dispatch published this week, which indicates that Hico will see a great many of the troops pass through here on their way north.

STEPHENVILLE, Sept. 20.—Lieutenant Col. Eli Brown of the Medical Corps and Maj. E. A. Guillemet, Quartermaster Corps, U. S. Army, who were in Stephenville last week, closed a contract with W. D. Terrell for 200 acres of land on the Terrell ranch, east of here, for a camp site to be used about Nov. 11 by a large contingent of the Second Division.

There will be a minimum of 6,000 and possibly 10,000 troops, the officers said, in the contingent which will move on Stephenville in a series of maneuvers to be carried out this fall by all permanent standing organizations of the U. S. Army. The entire division is motorized.

The division will leave San Antonio, coming north by way of Fredericksburg and Lometa, where overnight stops will be made. Stephenville is scheduled for the camp site for the third night. The troop movement is expected to split at Hico, with part of the outfit going to Fort Worth and the other part coming here.

FUNERAL SERVICES HELD LAST FRIDAY AT FAIRY FOR MR. J. A. SPENCER

In the presence of an immense crowd of sorrowing friends and relatives, funeral services were held Friday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock at the First Baptist Church of Fairy for Jim Anderson Spencer who died Friday at 12:30 a. m. at his home in the Falls Creek community, after an illness of only four days. He never regained consciousness, although every effort was made to alleviate his suffering and prolong his life.

Services were conducted by Rev. Lloyd Lester of Waco, assisted by Rev. E. E. Dawson of Hico. Burial was in the Fairy cemetery. Pallbearers were: C. W. Russell, J. R. Griffiths, David Foust, Frank Allen, Winfrey Griffiths, and Allen Gossett.

Jim Anderson Spencer was born March 4, 1872, and died Sept. 17, 1937, being 65 years, 6 months and 13 days of age. He joined the County Line Baptist Church about 15 years ago and lived a true life to the end. He was a good and true friend to everyone. Many happy times I have spent in the home of the Spencers and certainly did enjoy being there. The deceased was a great talker, could interest one and all in his conversations. He never did talk about anyone. He was a good neighbor, who will be missed in the community by his host of friends. He will be greatly missed in the home by his brothers and sister. All that the doctor, relatives and friends could do for him was done. They have no regrets as they wanted to relieve him of his suffering but God saw best and took him. No time and expense were spared for his recovery. They all bow in humble submission to God's will.

He is survived by two brothers and one sister. One brother and his mother and father being deceased. Those surviving are: Frank Spencer, Fort Worth; Calvin Spencer, Hico; Miss Nannie Spencer, Hico; his nieces and nephews and a number of other relatives.

—BY A FRIEND.

Keeping Up With TEXAS

Another Cinderella girl came into her own this week when Dorothy Howe, pretty 19-year-old Dallas girl, landed a feature role in a W. C. Field's picture within two months after quitting a telephone switchboard. The blonde daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Howe of Dallas was plugging a switchboard in a Dallas exchange and handling stray bits of drama in a Little Theatre when a movie scout offered her a screen test. It was successful, and she went to Hollywood, one of 23 aspiring actresses who were sent to the Paramount talent school for training. The studio announced it was casting her in Fields' "The Big Broadcast of 1938" with a feature role as prominent as that being given Grace Bradley and Shirley Ross, both established players.

Here is a fish story that can be substantiated. Eight monstrous goldfish—two of them more than a foot long and weighing three pounds each—were found in a Hermann park zoo pool at Houston the first of the week. The fish were burrowed in the mud when the pool was drained. Zookeeper Hans Nagel said they had been put there six years ago and forgotten. Carl E. Fischer, a student of goldfish and their habits, pronounced six of them perfect specimens. Two of the fish were spotted. The expert said goldfish belong to the carp family and thrive when they can burrow in mud. The fish were moved to another pool in the zoo aquarium.

Governor Alfred, now busy preparing his message to the special tax session of the Texas Legislature, said today he never had seen greater propaganda than that now being carried on in Texas against taxes. Without mentioning a state Senate economy committee, Alfred said: "The people who are raising a hue and cry for economy now should have joined with me in the spring when I urged economy and consolidation."

Lady Temple, an English White Leghorn hen, Monday beat a world's record and had two days to go in the fifty-one-week John Tarleton international egg-laying tournament at Stephenville. The hen produced 342 eggs for a scoring system total of 367.4 while the world's record was 338 eggs and a point total of 367.2. Lady Temple is owned by Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Ramage of Temple.

On the four Sundays in October—3, 10, 17, 24—the Texas penitentiary at Huntsville will be not a prison, but a replica of the old West, when the great cattle round-ups were followed by a cowboy celebration. Then a hundred Texas convicts who can ride and who have been rounded up from the 13 farms where they spend the other 11 months of the year will entertain the public and their brethren in the only prison rodeo in existence, so far as is known at Huntsville. Under the muzzles of machine guns in the hands of prison guards, these men, many of them incorrigibles, will attempt to tame the hardest and wildest stock in the confines of the prison system.

A 60-year-old Fort Worth means business when he sets out for his man. Under the impression that a neighbor had stolen something from him, the man set out with a drink or two and the avowed intention to shoot the supposed thief. When police arrested him in the 2700 block Mansfield Rd. he had the following "weapons": One shotgun, one pistol, three ice picks, one razor and two dogs.

Stella Malislatia, 27, Kansas City, believed he was lucky Monday after facing the terrifying prospect of death for several hours while his foot was wedged in a switch in the railroad yards at Dallas. He was walking along the tracks when his foot slipped into the open switch "frog" and the steel rails clamped together, crushing his foot. A section crew finally heard his screams and released him, shortly before a passenger train roared over the track where he had lain.

A San Bernardino, California, father appealed to Fort Worth police Tuesday for aid in locating his 15-year-old son whose disappearance has left his mother in a critical condition. The information was relayed in Fort Worth by amateur radio station W5ERV, Shreveport, operated by Sam D. Dowell, brother of Police Chief A. E. Dowell.

Applications for Social Security Account numbers in Texas on August 1 totaled 1,168,632. Total number in the United States was 31,961,069.

A COOPERATIVE EXPERIMENT

Consumer co-operation is about to be tried on a large-scale scale in the new Federal town of Greenbelt, Md. This is the model town built by the Resettlement Administration, near Washington, to provide homes for low-salaried Government employees. It will house about 500 families, and all of the local retail stores will be co-operatives. Will be financed in the first place by a million-dollar fund provided by E. A. Filene, the Boston merchant who has long been an advocate of cooperative movements.

The whole nation will be watching this Greenbelt experiment, for the consumer co-operative movement is a subject on which there has been a great deal of public comment recently, but little experience in America, on which to base a judgment as to whether it will work well or not in a country so diversified as ours, peopled with so many varying racial stocks, with different tastes and desires. Consumer co-operatives have worked out well in numerous communities where their members have a common racial point of view and are on practically the same economic level. There is room for doubt whether the same results will follow if the plan is imposed upon an entire community, instead of growing spontaneously by the efforts of the co-operators themselves.

Producer co-operatives have a good record in America. Consumer co-operatives do well in some European countries. The Greenbelt experiment will go far toward answering the question whether American consumers in general really want to co-operate.

A WELCOME TO AUTUMN

Over most of the United States the Autumn season, on which we are now entering, is the pleasantest season of the whole year. Nothing like the North American Autumn is known to the people of Europe. Over there the Spring is the pleasant time of long-drawn-out mildness between the chill of Winter and the heat of Summer. In this country the seasons break abruptly in the Spring. Summer temperatures succeeding Winter so swiftly that the interval is hardly noticed. But at the end of Summer we are not plunged at once into Winter. Instead, we have the long Autumn, weeks and sometimes months in which it is still enjoyable to remain out of doors most of the time, before we look for snow and ice.

For country folk in the North, especially, Autumn is the best season of all. The hard work of the farm is over, the crops have been harvested and stored or sold and there is a breathing-spell in which the farmer and his household can relax and "go visiting," attend to a hundred things for which time could not be spared in Summer, perhaps take a long motor trip.

The shooting season is open, or soon will be, almost everywhere. Whether one brings back any game or not, there are few things more relaxing and invigorating than a day in the woods with gun and dog. Nowhere is the air so clean, nowhere does Nature make such a powerful appeal to the nomadic spirit which is in all of us as in the northern woods when the leaves have begun to turn from summer green to their Autumn brilliance of red, yellow and brown.

Nor is Autumn in the South without its delights for the lover of the out-of-doors. The fish are still biting, the coons and foxes are daring the hound-dogs to catch them. "Br'er Rabbit" is shaking his cotton tail in the clearing by the briar patch, and the fragrance of the tall pines is like incense ascending in Nature's cathedral of the great out of doors in which their straight trunks are the pillars supporting the high dome.

This is the best of all times of the year.

GOVERNMENT AND THE FARMER

How far should Government subsidize agriculture? How hard should farmers lean on Government? These are questions which have an important bearing on the future of the country, and on which there is no general agreement.

In New York State, where agricultural conditions are back more nearly to normal than in many other states, Governor Lehmann the other day defined his concept of the duty of the state to the farmer. He said:

"The State must of course give certain protection to farm products and to consumers by passing laws to insure purity, grade standardization of products, and protection against diseases and insects. These are basic and must always continue. But what in addition to these? Each year I am more and more convinced that the greatest aid a State can give to the people of the open country is through an adequate support for education and agricultural research."

That is a pretty clear statement of the case against direct farm subsidies. If farming is regarded as a mode of living rather than primary a commercial industry, there will be widespread agreement with Gov. Lehmann's position.

ADVERSITY STRENGTHENS FARMERS

Today agricultural marketing cooperation is an accepted and highly regarded phase of agricultural life. Yet the farm cooperative movement had a long, hard road to hoe before it reached its present high state of development.

As late as 1917, officials of farmers' cooperatives in many states were indicted for conspiracy in restraint of trade, and it was necessary for the Dairy-men's League Association of New York to petition the legislature for laws making it legal for farmers to organize cooperatives. Not until 1922 was a Federal law legalizing cooperatives passed. And only this year the state of New York has passed a law which, in effect, eliminates political dominance of agriculture and gives farm organizations greater opportunity for service to members and the consuming public.

The difficulties attendant on the growth of the cooperatives probably did the movement a great service. In the face of obstacles, farmers had to stick together if they were to get results—and so farm marketing co-operatives were strengthened.

IF YOUR HOUSE CATCHES FIRE

If your house catches fire—keep your head. Follow a simple but vital routine and your chance of escaping safely will be tremendously increased. Succumb to panic and thoughtless activity and your next stop may be at the hospital or the morgue.

Writing in McCall's, John J. McElligott, New York Fire Chief, points out that two-thirds of our annual fire deaths occur in dwellings, mainly because the occupants don't know how to get out. And three-fourths of these victims are trapped on top floors, because they fail to recognize the danger signals of heat and pressure on bedroom doors.

The first thing the householder should do if awakened by fire, is to feel the bedroom door panel. If the wood is hot, don't open the door unless you want to sign your death warrant. If there is an exit via a window or roof, take it. If you stay in the room with the door closed and call for help.

If the door is relatively cool, open it an inch, with your body braced against it so it can be instantly slammed if a rush of hot air follows the opening. If the heat outside is bearable, move with the utmost speed. Don't try to save belongings. Fire travels a thousand times faster than the uninitiated realize. A stairway that is passable one minute, may be a roaring inferno the next. And once you're outside—stay out! Many a life has been lost because someone rushed back inside a burning building.

Chief McElligott recommends that every family hold periodic fire drills, especially if there are children. The experience these drills provide may be a life-saver if fire eventually breaks out—a mind and body trained in the technique of escaping a burning building, are not so susceptible to the deadly delay and panic.

THE ESSENTIAL INVESTMENT

An essential part of every investment program is a plan that will reach—surely and steadily—from your life old age and meet the eventualities faced by the aged as well as the young.

Here is where life insurance stands in a class by itself. The vital element in any policy is time—it is designed to give man a method to assure income in old age and also to care for his dependents in event of death. It leaves nothing to chance, nothing to an individual's judgment in making investments. Based upon the theoretical law, it is as safe as human ability and faith can make it.

THE CLASS IDEA

"As good citizens, we should insist that the public interest is paramount to the special claims of either employer or employee. We should oppose all attempts to promote the so-called class concept in American life. The class idea is a foreign importation, and its cultivation here would destroy the very basis of our freedom."—W. C. Mullen, Director, U. S. Chamber of Commerce.

ODDS AND ENDS FROM THE GARDEN

When the sweet corn gets down to the nubbins and there are only fragments of this and that vegetable left in the garden it's time to can soup and salad mixtures for winter use.

Salad mixtures are best canned in a slightly sweetened vinegar solution. The vinegar aids in the preservation of the vegetables as well as making them pleasantly tart for salads. Lima beans, tiny flowerettes of cauliflower, neat cubes of new turnip, slices of baby carrots, threads of green pepper, whole kernels of sweet corn and late peas make a colorful mixture. However, you can, of course, concoct any mixture you may fancy—or have in your garden.

Speaking of salads, if you haven't put up a few jars of pickled beets, try and do it now. There's no garnish more attractive in winter than slices of crimson beets. Vegetable, fish and meat salads gain immeasurably from this simple accessory. They're good for the Christmas holidays and work in beautifully again in February for St. Valentine's parties as well as one of the national colors for patriotic parties.

Fruit mixtures are good to can for salads and fruit cups. A combination of peaches and pears and cantaloupe balls is good to use just as is or you can add fresh fruits such as oranges and bananas when you make your salad or fruit cup.

When you come to soup mixtures the combinations are innumerable. Everything including onion goes into a vegetable soup. Celery is good in the soup concoction but fresh celery is better in the salad. The same way with onion. Add minced onion or a few drops of onion juice to the salad when you mix it for serving.

If you can soup and salad mixtures by the hot-pack or pressure cooker methods, process the mixture for the length of time required by the vegetable needing the longest processing period.

A delicious way to serve a mixture of vegetables is in a rich cream sauce in a crisp cheese tart. This makes a delectable luncheon dish to serve with broiled bacon and a fresh vegetable salad for this time of year.

Vegetable Cheese Tarts.

One-third cup grated cheese, 4 tablespoons butter or other shortening, 1 cup flour, 1 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1-16 teaspoon powdered mustard.

Use a cheese that is really meltable and cooks without toughening. Add cheese to shortening and mix until creamy. Cut flour, salt, and mustard—sifted—into first mixture. If necessary add a few drops of water to make a dough. Chill several hours in refrigerator. Roll on a slightly floured molding board and cut in rounds to fit over the outside of muffin tins. Prick with a fork. Put tins on a cook sheet, pastry side up and bake in a hot oven (425 to 450 degrees F.) until crisp, about 12 minutes.

Fill with a mixture of vegetables and serve.

One-half cup cooked corn cut from cob, 1-2 cup cooked lima beans, 1 sweet green pepper, 1-2 cup sliced mushrooms, 4 whole mushrooms, 4 tablespoons butter, 3 tablespoons flour, 3 cups milk, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon pepper.

Melt butter in a smooth flat-bottomed sauce pan. Add mushrooms, sprinkle with part of the salt and cook five minutes. Remove whole mushrooms and keep hot. Stir flour into butter and cook and stir until thoroughly blended. Slowly add milk, stirring constantly. Cook and stir until mixture boils. Add vegetables and heat five or ten minutes. Turn into tarts and drop a whole mushroom on top of each. The pepper is shredded and can be cooked with the mushrooms or merely heated with the vegetables.

An easy way to moisten the rim of the under crust of a two-crust pie is to rub an ice cube lightly around the dough.

As soon as corn stalks and other vegetable plants are through bearing and become dry they should be pulled up and burned, thereby destroying possible insect pests and leaving the ground clear and ready for next spring's digging.

Skunk Sales.

DENTON, Sept. 7.—Possums and skunks may not sound very enticing, but there two animals yield a larger number of pelts to trappers in Texas than any other animals. Out of the 1934-35 catch of 912,276 raw furs, over 600,000 of them were opossums and about 120,000 were skunks. The season's fur catch was valued at $600,000, but in past years the amount has been estimated as high as $3,900,000. Other fur-bearing animals which are breadwinners in the southeastern and southwestern part of the state are fox, raccoon, badger, civet cat, muskrat, mink and beaver.

God in the Making of a Nation.
 Lesson for September 26th
 Deut. 8:11-20.
 Golden Text: Deut. 8:11.

Ten years ago America was riding on the crest of a wave of optimism. The war was safely over, a minor business depression had passed, prosperity was in full swing, and science, with its marvelous advances, seemed able to save the world. What a change today! We have just been through the most devastating depression of our history, and its wounds still bleed. But worse than economic disaster is the depression in morale. Maxine Davis, after using the case method of personal interviews with many young people in all kinds of situations, summarizes her conclusions in her book, "The Lost Generation." In this heading, "Mope—hope—grope." The June, 1936, issue of "Fortune" presents the results of a careful study of the state of mind of college youth, and the picture it presents is far from encouraging. According to its findings the unwilling-ness of youth to challenge the social order is on the increase. Thus while the knowledge of social studies has advanced, there is a failure to apply them. Moreover religion occupies a very limited place in the cultural interests of the college world.

"Take care not to forget the Lord your God," says our Golden Text. But our generation renders little heed to this solemn warning. Its lack of religious vitality is striking. How often folk assume that there isn't very much in religion, that religious attitudes are mere escapes from reality! We live in a time when the majority seem far adrift from religious moorings. The triumph of secularism is complete over large areas of our common life.

In the face of such a peril how much we need the teaching of our lesson! "If you ever forget the Lord," cried Moses, "I warn you today that you shall most certainly perish." Our tragic era, in its fury of rebellion against the Christian gospel, desperately needs to hearken to this warning voice of old.

CANCER OF THE MOUTH

The mouth is one part of the body where a cancer cannot easily hide. Sores on the lips are obvious not only to the patient but to his friends. Growths inside the mouth can be felt with the tongue at a very early stage. And yet there is an average delay of ten months between the appearance of a growth and the first visit to a doctor's office.

When the growth first appears it has nothing horrifying about it. The patient feels perhaps a little roughness in the mouth. He may think he has a small wart. Very often he will say that there is a "canker sore." There is no pain, no real discomfort. Time passes. The sore on the lip does not heal; or the wart in the mouth gets a little larger; or the lump on the tongue begins to get in the way. But there is no pain. Time still passes. Now there is sometimes a little bleeding but still nothing has begun to hurt. The patient is a little anxious but would rather not see a doctor in case he should suggest an operation. And anyhow this is a busy time; in a month or so it would be more convenient to go to the hospital. Time still passes. At last there is an ache and the lump is tender to the touch. Little lumps have begun to grow in the neck. Pain drives the patient to the doctor in the end. But by that time it is too late.

Treated early no less than 95 per cent of cancers of the lip can be permanently cured. Cancers of the tongue are more rapidly dangerous but at least half of them can be completely cured if only they are taken in time.

MODERN WOMEN
 CHARL ORMOND WILLIAMS
 President of National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Inc.

A hundred years hence, when the centennial box deposited by Mount Holyoke graduates will probably be opened, the college girl of the far distant future will learn something of the prognostications of the college girl of today. Under the leadership of Miss Rosamond Frame of Abundant, Massachusetts, who is community chairman of the college, several students wrote a composite picture of the 1937 class answer to the general question, "Toward what are we heading in government?" It will, indeed, be interesting to compare fact with the prediction.

Brooklyn's only woman watchmaker is Miss Gizele Pearl who has a passion for mechanics, preferably of the delicate type, and learned all about time pieces from her father who had a clock store in Budapest, Hungary. Miss Pearl, who is just twenty-one, thinks that women are better adapted than men to watch repairing, provided, of course, they know mechanics.

In the little town of Friendly, West Virginia, women won every office in a recent municipal election by an average vote of 40 to 15. They hailed the occasion as their first big "ladies' day."

Miss Mary M. Emo of Hornell is said to be the first woman to head the advertising department of the New York State Publishers Association and the first woman executive of any newspaper association.

DENTON, Sept. 22.—Simple logic will answer your questions about accessories this fall. Here's the way it works—black rules as background favorite, black is somber and dark, lovely ladies need color to set off their charms. Conclusion accessories supply color.

Manufacturers worked out the problem too, to get an idea about her color desires and the stores will furnish all necessary materials. Among the ideas that the might dig up is the currently popular one of matching her gloves and hosiery. These two articles in beige worn with black will instantly mark her as an expert in subtle style.

New shades of green, wine brown, rust and gray are other accessory colors that will accent black costumes. They are reflected in bags, gloves, hats and shoes, but one must be careful not to have over three articles in the same color.

First Installment.

Humming out of the east, the little black plane sped straight for the landing field. Natalie Wade watched it idly. She had nothing else to do.

The plane had held her gaze mostly because of the directness of its flight. Other bees from the busy hive of San Carlos Airport circled or looped or dived as though in sheer abandon at having found their wings, but this black ship dived straight for the searchlight towers and the sagging windsock as though all life must perish if it did not reach the field within the instant.

Then suddenly someone yelled in the field office. Grease monkeys came heads up at the cry. Then racing feet pounded on the concrete where the girl stood and shirt-sleeved men rushed past her to the open field.

Crossing the light breeze, the ship skimmed low, its motor roaring more and more loudly as it neared. Then, at the last possible moment, it seemed, the roar died. The ship sat down on the far tarmac but taxied straight on as though it would crash the high barrier before the hangars.

Moved by the rushing feet about her, the girl slipped through the barrier gate. A burst of hoarse cheering drew her on. Field men were mobbing the filer now as he flipped out of the open cockpit and clambered to the ground.

"Atta boy, Monty," someone yelled behind her. "Yeah," came an answering shout. "An hour and a half off the East-West record. What do you know about that?"

Then the girls' voices added their shrill note to the clamor. A bevy of gay creatures from the motor park beyond bore down upon the knot of men about the record-breaking Monty—whenever he might be—and carried Natalie along with it.

He stood there grinning, grimy but happy, beside the small plane. He had jerked off the helmet, he wore and the mark of it crossed his forehead beneath a mop of tousled brown hair.

Natalie recognized him now, though she had never seen him before. This was Monty Wallace whose cross-country flights were already famous. She had seen his picture in a score of papers.

She knew now what the excitement was all about. Monty Wallace had finished another of his great flights. He had broken the coast-to-coast record flying from east to west. An hour and a half, the excited reporter had declared.

And now he was reaping the reward of glory, the girl thought, and she laughed, for the bevy of sweet young things had flung itself upon him, had caught at his hands and arms and now they were taking turns kissing him.

Natalie chuckled as she stood there watching. Just like fool women to spoil a good-looking boy like this by too much adulation.

But the crowd was moving toward her. Girls and men both moved down upon her and those behind blocked her retreat so that they suddenly stood face to face.

Natalie smiled up into his laughing eyes in their mask of oil and grime. She tried to step aside but his hand, still holding the helmet, reached out to stop her.

"Come on," he laughed, "don't be bashful. A few more kisses and my face will be clean."

Without ado, he bent to kiss her squarely on the lips and then swept her along beside him to the apparent chagrin of the shrieking admirers.

At the hangar office, Natalie would have been away but the hero thrust her through the screened door and shrieks rose from the other girls when they were stopped at the entrance with the mechanics and a queue of loitering boys.

Inside, Monty lifted the girl quickly to one of the desks. "Now stay put there," he laughed down at her. "I'll give you that interview in a few minutes. Got to clean up first and sign the papers."

Natalie "stayed put." There wasn't anything else to do and, after all, what did it matter? The brown-haired Monty had disappeared into the wash room. Presently she could hear him sloshing water over himself with much puffing and splashing. A gray-haired man who seemed to be the port manager was pelting questions at him and writing in a big book. Monty bellowed back the details of his flight.

His wrist watch was handed out to be compared with the office clock and the watches of the other men.

When, presently, he came back into the office, his face was clean and the tousled brown hair had been ruthlessly plastered back from his forehead. Natalie saw now that his chin was cleft in a somewhat fascinating way.

"You're with the paper, you said," he offered with a chuckle and a little wink. "We'll go down to the office and you can do your story there."

Natalie made no response but his grin was so infectious that she smiled. This man worked fast, she thought. He was just as swift with adoring femininity as he was in breaking records.

He was at the telephone now ordering a taxicab. Offers of other cars he spurned lightly.

There would be a fast ride into town, the girl knew, and she thought she could guess what came afterward. She must match wits with him and a daring plan came to her as she swung her heels from the desk where she sat.

Her father had been a newspaper man. She knew the machinery of news-getting. She would make him pull out his hand.

And so when the cab arrived, she named the office of one of the Wallace who just broke the East-West flight record. I'm writing the story and he's going to sign it if I do a good job. Does that rate a tryout from you?"

The small man peered up at Wallace. Then he thrust out his hand.

"I got a flash on the yarn from the airport," he said. "My men were late at the spot and they told me someone else had grabbed you. If you'll give the young lady your story, she goes on the payroll right away. I can't promise how long she'll stay there, but she'll get a trial."

Wallace grinned. "About how long," he questioned "would that trial last?"

But the girl spoke up quickly. "It doesn't matter about that," she said. "If I can hit the ball I'll know it quickly enough and so will they. My name's Natalie Wade. Put it on the payroll and let me draw enough when the story is done to take the big boy here out to dinner."

"I'm Mack Hanlon," the city editor said, glancing wisely at the filer. "The dinner goes on office expense account if you keep on the way you're going. Slap her out fast. We go down in twenty minutes."

Sitting across from Monty Wallace over the very excellent dinner that was to be charged to the San

"You aren't really one of those writing women?"

Carlos Express, Natalie laughed merrily.

"This," she explained, "is what I call getting the breaks. No job, no money, no place to go. I wander out to the airport because it is a long walk and I like to watch the planes. Then you buzz in, kiss me sweetly, and carry me off. I use you to muscle into a job and a good dinner with the hero of the hour. Isn't life a joke?"

"All perfectly sensible," Monty assured her. "You are young, you are beautiful. And you have a head on your shoulders. That's all any girl needs in this world."

"The evening will soon be complete," bantered Natalie. "You don't by any chance happen to have fallen in love with me? That's about all that could possibly occur to add to the occasion."

"Well," the youth laughed, "I thought so," Natalie grinned impishly.

"You aren't really one of those writing women?"

"I wasn't," the girl laughed. "I was out of a job. I didn't know where dinner was coming from. But with a story like this in my pocket, I have an idea that I've got a job as well."

"What if I run out on you?"

"Oh, I'm sure you wouldn't do that. You're a hero, you know. And heroes never act like that even in real life."

And so it was that, when the taxicab pulled up at the newspaper office, Natalie Wade led her youthful captive straight to the editorial room, pounced upon an unused typewriter and began pounding out the story of the flight as she thought her father would have done.

"Boy," she called presently. The loitering office-boy reluctantly toward her.

When he stood at Natalie's side, she spoke to him quickly. "I'm new here," she said. "Tell the city editor I want a job and that I'm writing Monty Wallace's exclusive story of a new record flight."

The boy looked at her with a fishy eye and then rambled off to the desks where two or three men worked apparently at getting out the sporting extra.

One of these with worn suspenders and with his green eye-shade drawn down so that it formed an almost perfect mask, looked up in startled fashion. He reached for a piece of paper, stared at it, and then came over to the girl's side. "What's all this about?" he demanded.

"I'm looking for a job," she jerked out between bursts of typewriter pounding. "This is Monty

"you can add that up, too, I guess. Something happened to me when I saw you standing there at the field. That's why I kissed you. And it isn't just a kiss, it's a perfect counterfeiter. You might as well give it the name of the doubt."

"That," she chuckled, "is what I consider the response of a gentleman. I wouldn't call it an impassioned declaration but it certainly fills the bill. I am very greatly obliged to you."

"Never kid an aviator, Natalie Wade," Monty laughed. "Give me a few drinks and I'll make it just as impassioned as you like. What say we go somewhere to dance after dinner?"

"That would be very nice," Natalie accepted. "But please omit the drinks. I am quite satisfied and I don't know you well enough yet to try hopping up our acquaintance with cocktails."

"All right," he agreed with evident reluctance. "Just as you say. But you have no idea how a few drinks ripen the affections."

When dinner was over he became a host. He insisted on hiring a car and they drove first along the beach road. At length they found an abandoned lighthouse had been turned into a sort of roadside inn and there they sat for a long time looking out toward the Pacific.

It was not till the girl found that they were sitting side by side without speech that she realized something unusual had happened to her. This was no ordinary evening, no commonplace flirtation. There was something about their sudden acquaintance that turned night glorious and that made the first strains of the small stringed orchestra send them into each other's arms without realizing it.

They had risen when the music sounded and stood upon the tiled terrace. It was only a step from the shadow that clothed them to the moonlit outdoor dance floor. But for long moments they did not take that step.

Other couples began moving from the tables within, but the two were not aware of it. When he bent his head, her lips met his without shyness or confusion. It was as though the moment were preordained.

Then she gave a low laugh. "Aren't we supposed to be dancing?" she asked gaily.

He kissed her again quickly. "Perhaps we are," he chuckled as he swept her out onto the floor with swift, rhythmic strides, "but it seems like a waste of time and of very excellent music that might be much better employed."

He danced, she found, with grace and ease. It was as though he really enjoyed the music and as though there had been no need for him to learn the steps through which he guided her. For the first time, she reminded herself, since her high school class dance, she was enjoying—really enjoying—a party like this.

GOES 'ROUND AND 'ROUND

And It Comes Out Here— Last Saturday Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Tinkle who reside in the Agee community were in town mingling with old friends. We feel a little badly since we learned that the Tinkles have been making frequent trips to neighboring cities instead of coming to Hico like they used to do. Mrs. Tinkle said they were nearer other towns than Hico and just got the habit. While here she gave us a check for a two-year subscription to the News Review, but we hope it will not be two years before she pays us another visit. Thanks for your kindness and we hope you enjoy the paper. Mr. Tinkle calls it the "Hico Headache."

Word came the latter part of last week from Mrs. Lenora Langston, who has been visiting relatives in Fisher, Oregon, for several weeks, that she was leaving there for a two-weeks' visit with relatives. She said she would tell the Hico friends all about her trip upon her return home, but that she had had a lovely summer. The News Review has been going to Mrs. Langston all during her vacation trip. Her many Hico friends will be glad when she returns home as she is missed about the place of business, but they hope she enjoys her stay in sunny California.

Quite a lot of rearranging has been done in the dry goods department at the G. M. Carlton Bros. & Co. store within the past week. The ready-to-wear and millinery has been moved upstairs and new cases arranged for the hats and wearing apparel. Miss Jessie Garth is in charge of this department. This was done in order to give more room for the gents furnishings which department is managed by Mr. A. T. McFadden. Miss Grace Phillips has charge of the piece goods, notions and shoes.

Friends here might be interested to know that Rev. Clarence Allen Morton of Gatesville, a former Hico pastor, has accepted the pastorate of the First Baptist Church at Ballinger and he and his family will move there within the next few weeks. Rev. Mr. Morton left here six or seven years ago and accepted the church at Gatesville. The family has many friends who wish them success in their new home.

One of our young friends, who is only a little past 25 years of age, was in the office on Tuesday for a short visit. He is Mr. H. L. Bingham of Anson who is here visiting his daughter, Mrs. J. H. Good. Mr. Bingham can't understand how the up-to-date ladies can wear Fall coats in August and September for the other morning he wore his coat to town as the weather seemed a little cool, and on his way home he stopped to talk to one or two friends on the sidewalk and collapsed from the heat. He said he started to pull his coat off before he started home but thought he could make it. Mr. Bingham is a very pleasant person and we all wish him joy in his visits.

A note comes from Mrs. W. F. Culbreth this week that she is now in Brady and on her way home. Mrs. Culbreth has spent the past several months with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stovall in Las Cruces, New Mexico. She has been ill most of the time she has been away, but says she has improved some at this time. She is anxious to get home again and see all her old Hico friends.

We did not realize that Hico did have such a good market for their products until we learned of a farmer who lives at Cottonwood, nine miles north of Cross Plains, who brought his eggs that distance because he received twice the price per dozen here for the produce. That farmer was D. E. Black, who with his son, Henry, was in Hico last Saturday. The Black family, who used to get their mail on Route 4 out of Hico, moved to that country about four years ago. If they received twice as much for eggs here, then it might pay people to bring their turkeys and other products a distance of a hundred miles or more, for they would still have spending money left aside from paying their expenses for the trip. Although Mr. Black likes the country where he now resides, he still has some nice things to say about the Hico people and this community.

If you have missed two Hico young men around town in the persons of Bill Rusk and Ray Cheek, and wondered where they were, we will tell you of their whereabouts. Bill is working in a drug store in Dallas, and Ray is employed at a filling station in the same city, and by the way the two boys are rooming together. So if you go to Dallas, be sure to visit them, for we believe they would be glad to see anyone from their old home town. Ray is a son of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Cheek of Hico, and Bill, a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Rusk.

HELP KIDNEYS

To Get Rid of Acid and Poisonous Waste

Your kidneys help to keep you well by constantly filtering waste matter from the blood. If your kidneys get functionally disordered and fail to remove excess impurities, there may be poisoning of the whole system and body-wide distress.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination may be a warning of some kidney or bladder disturbance.

You may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feeling nervous, all played out.

In such cases it is better to rely on a medicine that has won country-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Use Doan's Pills. A multitude of grateful people recommend Doan's. Ask your neighbor!

Edward Turner and Charles Appleby returned home Saturday where they went west to pick cotton.

Mr. and Mrs. John L. Tidwell visited her mother, Mrs. J. L. Spencer at Stephenville Sunday.

Mrs. R. Y. Patterson Honored. Tuesday, September 14, was Mrs. R. Y. Patterson's birthday. A week or more before the event, I spoke to Mrs. Ralph Echols to assist me in getting up a surprise birthday party for her. Mrs. Echols done her part in making the party a success.

Mrs. T. M. Tidwell came by here Tuesday morning inviting Mrs. Patterson to her home Tuesday night for a game of "42" on her birthday. Mrs. Pike and Mrs. Cora Mitchell knew about the arrangements and were at Mrs. Tidwell's soon as Mrs. Patterson got there for she was anxious to play "42" with these ladies and this was to be a complete surprise to her.

The friends that were invited soon came in and we got the room ready for the honoree.

Mrs. Ralph Echols went down to Mrs. Tidwell's and told Mrs. Patterson that Mrs. Appleby and Mrs. J. E. Lawrence were here. She didn't want to leave, wanted to play some more games of "42". Mrs. J. L. Tidwell had charge of the games and when the hon-pepper and salt shakers; Mrs. T. M. Tidwell, towel; Billy Echols, twin vases; Paul Patterson, silk slip; Mrs. Cora Mitchell, silk hose; Mrs. Dick Appleby, what not shelf; Mrs. Clinton and Mrs. Hayden Sadler, towel; Mrs. Rosa McAden, over night bag; Mrs. R. L. Kimmins, a handkerchief.

All the guests expressed themselves as having had a fine time. Mrs. Patterson has lived here for many years and is known by all and loved and respected by every one. She is a good woman and treats everyone the same. I have boarded here with them nearly 3 years and she sure is good to me and is known every where to be a fine cook and cannot be beat. Her meals are fine and plenty of it.

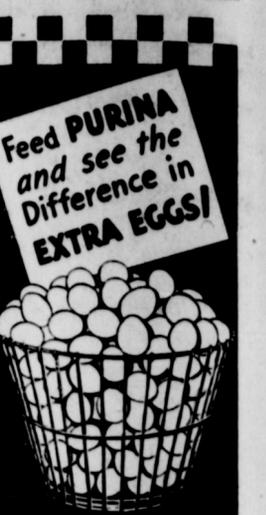

Vic, as she is called, is a deserving woman and her friends were glad to give her the birthday shower. I thank everyone that helped to make it a success, especially Mrs. Ralph Echols and Mrs. John L. Tidwell.

The host of friends of Vic wish for her many more happy birthdays like the one just passed. She was very proud of her pretty gifts and it was a complete surprise to her. After I wrote up this, her little grandson, Bobby Jean Patterson, gave her a pretty plate which matched some of her other dishes.

The Texas Unemployment Commission is anticipating a return of more than a million quarterly earning reports for the third quarter, which would apparently indicate that many people are being added to the payrolls of covered employers. The first quarter brought in only 700,000 quarterly earning reports.

Only two per cent of Texas employers are delinquent in their contributions on their 1934 payrolls to date. Approximately nine per cent are delinquent for the July payrolls, five per cent for the June, four per cent for May, February and March, and three per cent for April and January. Considering that there are approximately 14,000 employers covered under the Texas Act, this would indicate their cooperation with the Texas Unemployment Compensation Commission is excellent.

THIS WEEK IN WASHINGTON

Washington, Sept. 21.—Even when Congress is not in session many of its members are busy on official business. That applies particularly to members of committees and sub-committees engaged in investigations and the preparation of legislative measures for the next session of Congress.

One of the most interesting and unusual of these between-session investigations is that being conducted in New Hampshire by Representatives Belter and Wadsworth of New York, to find out what became of 34 ballots which were cast at the 1936 election for Congressman in the first New Hampshire District.

This is part of an effort to decide the first "dead heat" Congressional election in 110 years. Republican candidate Arthur B. Jenks and Democratic candidate Alphonse Roy were each credited with exactly the same number of votes, 51,679, on the original count. A recount was held, and Mr. Jenks was credited with 10 additional votes. He took his seat in Congress, but his right to it has been challenged by Mr. Belter, who claims that 24 legitimate ballots cast for him were either lost or stolen while the recount was in progress.

The committee of two is taking the testimony of election officials and other witnesses to find out, if they can, where those 24 ballots went. On their report will depend whether Mr. Jenks retains his seat in Congress or whether Mr. Roy takes his place.

Change in Cabinet Hinted
When the President agreed to a continuance of Federal loans on the cotton crop in exchange for a promise by Congress that it would give early consideration at the next session to a new plan for Federal crop control, he gave all of the members of Congress, especially those from predominantly agricultural districts, work to do over the recess. What members want to know is how much and what kind of crop control their farmer constituents want or will stand for, if any.

Nobody knows exactly what the President has in mind, but well-informed Washington observers say that he no longer sees eye to eye with his Secretary of Agriculture on this subject. Mr. Wallace is said to be shying away from any new plunge into rigid production control.

The President wants to start where A. A. left off, with even more control. The rumor is that a serious rift has developed between the President and Mr. Wallace, who has been away from Washington most of the summer, and a cabinet change is hinted at. Meantime the International Institute of Agriculture, in its annual meeting at its headquarters in Rome, has gone on record as opposing any artificial crop control, such as is practiced, it points out, in the totalitarian states of Russia, Germany and Italy, and in the United States.

The welfare of the world depends upon increased production and more efficient distribution in order that the economic needs of all people shall be supplied, says the Institute.

Edward F. McGrady Resigns.
The resignation of Edward F. McGrady from the post of Assistant Secretary of Labor to become the counselor on labor relations of a big industrial corporation is regarded here with regret that the Administration has lost the services of one of its ablest harmonizers in the troubled field with which the Labor Department is concerned.

Mr. McGrady has been the "stabilizer" of the department in the difficulties arising from the activity of the C. I. O., and is credited with having brought Secretary Perkins around to a more impartial point of view on strike tactics than she held when she expressed the opinion that sit-down strikes were not illegal.

The Resettlement Administration, the pet project of Prof. Rex Tugwell for putting people back on the land, has gone out of existence. In its place has been set up the Farm Security Administration under the Secretary of Agriculture, which will carry the Resettlement Administration's project on to completion but will launch no more.

International Situation Tense

Secretary of State Hull, according to Washington gossip, is bitterly disappointed that his dream of bringing the world back to sanity under the leadership of the United States, by means of reciprocal treaties to restore the free flow of trade, has had no effect in preventing the occurrence of one international crisis after another.

The far from peaceful international situation is giving the Administration much more serious concern than appears on the surface of official pronouncements. Memories hark back to the administration of Woodrow Wilson, under whom, President Roosevelt served as Assistant Secretary of the Navy. Mr. Wilson had started a New Deal of his own.

He was driving ahead to broad reforms when the World War came along, halting his program at once, because the economic upheaval was felt in America for nearly three years before we got into the war. The world today is again on the brink of serious trouble. Whether this country becomes involved or not, any outbreak of general warfare, either in Europe or the Far East, would seriously affect American business and industry and reduce the public's receptivity to programs of reform.

War involving Japan to the extent of impairing her ability to buy American goods would cost us the sale of $199,000,000 of cotton and about $250,000,000 of other goods.

That is what is worrying the Administration.

Nineteen thousand cotton picking jobs have been furnished this season in the 14 counties of the Waco district by the Waco office of the Texas employment service, Sam Wynn, interviewer with the office, told the Optimists club at the Raleigh hotel Tuesday.

Bob Burns Will Star At Pan American Exposition

Bob Burns, bazooka-playing screen and radio star, will be presented by the Pan American Exposition in Dallas in two big free shows in the Cotton Bowl Sept. 25-26. The affair will be in the nature of a reunion of Burns' famous family, including Aunt Boo and Grandpa Snazzy from Arkansas. Free to Exposition visitors, the show will be held nightly in the Cotton Bowl seating 47,000.

Plan School Pilgrimage to Exposition

L. A. Woods, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, visited the Pan American Exposition in Dallas last week, with members of his staff, and joined with Exposition officials in outlining plans to bring 500,000 Texas school children to the World's Fair before its close October 31. Railroads are running scores of special trains for school children and the movement will also be by automobile and bus. "The public schools of Texas should make the Pan American Exposition a field event this year," Superintendent Woods (right) tells Assistant Director General Frank N. Watson.

Very Latest

Designed in sizes: 2, 4, 6 and 8 years. Size 4 requires 2 1/4 yards of 35-inch material. The dress alone requires 1 1/2 yards.

PRETTY AND EASY TO MAKE

Pattern 8935: This darling little dress, so cunning and simple, will take top honors for any little girl's wardrobe. You will find it a delightful model for Summer things, cool and dainty in dimity or fine muslin with laundering no problem at all. Gingham and prints are practical for everyday wear.

The panties are made free of elastic at the legs and with plain front, no binding across the waist front. Trim them in lace for the dimity and an odd piece in plain colors for the gingham.

This is a grand number for any Miss Two-to-Eight.

Designed in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 4 yards of 39 inch material with short sleeves. With long sleeves it requires 5 yards.

THE SHIRRED BODICE DRESS SUCCESS OF THE SEASON

Pattern 8029: Here is the perfect dress to wear between summer and fall. It will look lovely in town all through the late summer and will see you smartly into fall. Make it of silk and rayon jersey, that drapes so very easily. Black and brown are two important colors which accents the charm of the feminine figure. Note the becoming low neckline and the slide fastener at front of bodice into which the dress is shirred. The tapered front panel in this skirt gives a pleasing slowness to the whole silhouette.

It's easy to make the pattern includes a complete sew chart that tells you every step to take.

SET "DUCKY" NEW STYLES

Not to be outdone by stylists of motor cars and miffady's gowns, lamb growers of the United States also have been busy with some designing. The official preview of their 1938 models of lamb cuts was just held at a national conference of lamb men in Chicago under the supervision of the National Lamb Growers association. The two young women in the picture are inspecting two of the new style leaders—the kingly crown of lamb and the mock duck. These and many other unusual cuts were given the industry's official o. k. F. R. Marshall of Salt Lake City, Utah, national secretary of the lamb growers, reported that the 1937 lamb crop totals 30,712,000 head and that range conditions have been excellent.

To please, inform, and promote good will—these are our chief aims.

Hico High School, Hico, Texas

This year—No. 1

LOCAL STUFF

Off again with the first issue of "The Mirror"—a new heading, arrangement and new features. "The Mirror" has them all; even a column is included.

This year's staff consists of: Editor: Rollie Forgy; Assistant Editor: Mary Jane Clark; Assistant Editor: C. A. Giesecke; Sports Editor: Reporters: Allyne Roberson, Eleventh Grade; Ralph Horton, Tenth Grade; Roberta McMillan, Ninth Grade; Louise Blair, Eighth Grade; Assistant Reporters: Bill Hall, Ninth Grade.

WALK, DON'T SKATE
There seems to be a tendency on the part of a few students to use the halls and rooms (when the teacher is out) as a skating rink. The practice of running at break-neck speed and sliding on the turns may be good exercise and it may be a good method of arriving in ten seconds flat, but it certainly is not good for the floors, especially if the persons who follow it insist on wearing hobnail shoes.

The Ninth Grade says: We have only enrolled 32 in our class so far. This is the lowest number ever to be enrolled in our room since primary grades.

We appreciate every effort to make our school the best in Hamilton county, thanks to the fine cooperation shown by the teachers to the principal and superintendent. Why not let the ninth grade help you do a little hard work?

The Juniors Report: All the Juniors are very happy to be back in school. They are very well pleased with their teachers this year. Mr. Brown seems to be their favorite.

New pupils in the Junior class are: Charley Faye Simmons, Bonnie Thompson, Helen Roberts, and Guy Wylie. We are very happy to have them in our class.

The Junior class is the smallest one in school, several boys and girls dropped out since last year.

The Junior class is very ambitious and expects to show more progress and better grades than any other class in school. We are working to a 100 per cent class in loyalty to the football team. Most everyone in the class has bought season tickets. By the time of the Pep Squad rally Thursday night, every one in the Junior class will have a season ticket and will be at the Pep rally 100 per cent strong. We are going to hold the title of the class with the most school spirit. The class has to be careful of its manners this year because it will be hosts of the Seniors this school term. Watch our further progress in "The Mirror."

NEWSLETS
Monday at noon the report was that $70 worth of football tickets had been collected toward a goal of $100.

This year only two of last year's four buses are being run to Camp Branch, Unity and Old Hico. The school is trying to cut down on expenses.

The names of those who have bought season tickets for the football games will be published in next week's paper—better hurry to get your name in the paper, because all copy must be handed in early.

SCHOOL OPENS WITH 112 PUPILS

School started last Monday, Sept. 13. We had fifteen-minute classes Monday morning in order that the teachers could assign lessons for Tuesday.

Tuesday morning at 8:30 o'clock, regular classes began. All the students seemed glad to get back on the old grind again. Now everyone is singing "School Days."

One hundred and twelve pupils have enrolled this year in Hico High School. This year there are only twenty-five freshmen, having as their homeroom teacher, Miss Gladys Halton. The sophomores have thirty-two in their class and have Mrs. Segrest as their homeroom teacher. The Juniors have twenty-three and have Miss Iris Wagstaff as homeroom teacher. The dignified Seniors number thirty-two, and Mrs. Grimland was chosen as their homeroom teacher.

SUBJECTS
This year Chemistry is not taught. But next year it will be taught instead of Biology. Mr. Gilmore is teaching Vocational Agriculture I and II, and a new subject, seventh grade agriculture. Plane geometry has been made an elective instead of a required subject.

With Officers Elected, Classes Are Ready To Get Right Into Their Various Activities

Several Offices Never Selected Before: Vote on Flowers And Colors Also

All school was in an uproar last week until the students finally settled that inevitable question—whom shall we elect for officers?

The result of the election is that everyone's mind is now at ease and the selected few can lean back in their chairs and assume command.

The eighth grade elected as officers for their class: President, Ruby Lowe; vice-president, Mamie Jones; secretary and treasurer, Priscilla Rodgers. Green and white were selected for class colors. The chrysanthemum was chosen for the class flower.

Forty-two join to make largest pep squad in long time

Three songs and costumes elected at meeting

Forty-two high school students met Wednesday and organized the largest Pep Squad Hico has had for several years. The pep leaders selected for the coming football season were Mamie Wright, Kathryn Massingill and Roberta McMillan. Each served in last year's Pep Squad.

Misses Gladys Halton and Ruth LaRue are the squad sponsors and will escort the Pep Squad to every game possible.

The apparel selected for this season was white dresses with orange sashes and boleros. On the back of each leader will be a tiger.

A telephone was installed at the school this year—the first time in several years.

TIGERS MEET DESDEMONA HERE IN FIRST SCHEDULED CLASS B GAME

I'M THE BIRD

I'm the bird who never attends a football game.

I'm not a good enough player to play on the team myself, so why should I help the others by attending the games and rooting for them?

I go once in a while and the players are no good. I try to tell them what to do—but they always do it wrong. When they make a mistake, I am always there to criticize them. I ought to be kicked out of school.

Reduction Made In N. Y. A. Workers

The school was allowed six workers on the N. Y. A. this year, whereas twelve were allowed last year. This reduction in workers was made throughout the state. Each worker now is on duty thirty hours per month at the rate of 20c per hour, that is, $6 a month. However, ten different students will share this $36 payroll, and will do odd jobs around the school.

LIBRARIAN HERE SOON

Supt. Brown wrote district officials of Waco to secure a librarian for the school through W. P. A. This librarian will spend full time, five days per week, from 8:30 to 4:00, and will mend and put books in good shape.

The board of trustees set a 50c library fee.

The Mirror wishes to thank the merchants for contributing funds toward the purchase of the jersey sweaters for the football boys.

Geraldine Elkins, Jane Wolfe and Ann Persons will help contribute to the "Mirror" in future issues.

POWERFUL TIGERS TO MEET DESDEMONA IN TOUGH GRIND HERE

Coach Grimland and his Hico Tigers will make their initial appearance in Class B competition this Friday afternoon at 3 P. M. when the Tigers meet the powerful Desdemona eleven at Desdemona.

The Desdemona squad is reported to be one of the strongest in District 26 and the Hico Tigers will enter the game as underdogs with but a slim chance of winning. The Tiger squad will be accompanied by the Hico pep squad.

The Tigers are ready for the Desdemona eleven and feel like they will bag their first conference victory. The starting eleven will consist of Hollis and D. Polk, ends; Hall and J. Wylie, tackles; Nix and G. Wylie, guards; Odell, center; Holliday, quarter; Ogile and McFadden, halves; and A. Brown, fullback.

ANTELOPES DEFEATED BY HICO TIGERS; CLASS B GAME SCHEDULED FRI.

The High School Tigers downed the Hico All-Stars by the score of 14 to 0 in the first football game of the season last Friday afternoon. The game was slow through out due to the lack of conditioning on both teams.

The half ended scoreless with the Tigers threatening the All-Star goal. Soon after the second half started, the Tigers scored a safety when G. Cheek was downed behind his own goal line. Late in the third quarter Holliday went over for the first touchdown. In the fourth quarter, Holliday scored again just as the whistle blew ending the game. Both tries for extra point failed.

Box Score by quarters:
Hico All-Stars 0 0 0 0
Hico Tigers 0 0 2 12

HOME ECONOMICS

The Home Economics department has three classes this year owing to an advanced sewing class.

In addition to the equipment they had last year, they are now taking four well known magazines. They also have some new library books and reference books.

The first project is new curtains for the Home Economics laboratory. So don't be surprised if you see bright new curtains fluttering in the windows.

Everyone please notice that the annual Home Economics candy sale is on now. They have any kind of candy you could possibly want. How about getting the Home Economics girls sell your candy here? If you do, maybe we can then get enough equipment to finish the advanced sewing course. Even a penny helps.

Geraldine Elkins, Jane Wolfe and Ann Persons will help contribute to the "Mirror" in future issues.

MENUS AND RECIPES

DENTON, Sept. 22.—Fun is often poked at beginners in the kitchen for cooking "unrecognizable" dishes, but the teachers forget that it takes an artist to disguise those staple foods which must be served over and over for the sake of balanced menus.

More power to the young housewife who dares to try out something new, who believes in putting adventure into cooking. Here are some novel recipes that can hardly go wrong, and are guaranteed to lend freshness to any menu.

FRIED FOLENTA: 1-2 c. corn meal, 2 c. water, 1-2 t. salt, 1-8 t. cayenne or paprika, 1-2 c. grated cheese, 1 c. tomato sauce, 3 T. fat for sautéing. Cook the meal into cold water, and cook over the flame until the boiling point is reached; then cook over hot water 1 hour. Stir the grated cheese into the mush, add paprika, and turn into mold. Cool until sufficiently firm to slice. Cut into thin strips and saute.

HONEY FRITTERS: 1 pt. hominy mush, 2-3 c. stale crumbs, 1-2 c. milk, 2 eggs, 1 small onion, 2 T. chopped parsley, 1 t. salt, 1-8 t. pepper. Add to the mush the crumbs, beaten eggs and enough milk to make a stiff paste (omit part of the milk if mush is moist). Stir into this mixture the seasonings and fry in hot fat until brown. Drop by spoonfuls into the fat, 1-2 c. of cheese may be added if desired.

BEAN LOAF: 2 c. dried lima beans, 1 c. dry bread crumbs, 4 T. peanut butter, 1 T. bacon fat, 2 T. grated onion, 2 t. salt, 1-4 t. pepper, 1 c. rice stock or other liquid, 1 T. celery leaves or seed. Wash, soak, and cook beans 45 to 60 minutes. Drain; when cool, chop coarsely and add crumbs and all other ingredients. Put into greased bread pan and bake in a moderate oven 30 minutes.

OYSTER AND MACARONI CROQUETTES: 1-2 c. macaroni (1-2-inch pieces), 1 pt. oysters, 1 c. thick white sauce, 1-4 c. grated cheese, 1-2 t. lemon juice, 1-8 t. paprika or cayenne. Cook macaroni until soft, and drain. Clean and heat oysters cut into pieces if preferred. Use 1-2 c. oyster liquor and 1-2 c. milk with three T. butter and three T. of flour to make white sauce. Mix all ingredients together and cool the mixture. Shape croquettes; dip in crumbs, in egg, and in crumbs again. Fry in deep fat.

FRUIT SOUFFLE: 3-4 c. fruit pulp, 1-4 c. sugar, 3 eggs. Prunes or apricots are used. Stew dried fruits and rub through sieve. Bake in buttered molds or in a pudding dish in a slow oven until egg is firm.

5-Minute Biographies

Author of "How to Win Friends and Influence People."

LEO TOLSTOY

He Was Ashamed of Having Written Two of The World's Greatest Novels

Here is a life-story as incredible as any tale out of the Arabian Nights. It's the story of a prophet who died in our own time—in 1910 to be exact—and who was so venerated that for twenty years before he died an unbroken and unending stream of admirers made pilgrimage to his home in order to catch a glimpse of his face, hear the sound of his voice, or touch the hem of his garment.

Friends came and lived in his home for years at a time and took down in shorthand every word that he uttered; even in the most casual conversation, and described

His Teachers Despaired of Ever Pounding Anything Into His Thick Skull

In minutest detail even the most trivial acts of his daily life. These records were then printed in huge volumes.

Nearly 23,000 books—not 2300, mind you, but 23,000 books—and 56,000 newspaper and magazine articles have been written about this man and his ideas; and his own writings fill 100 volumes—a gigantic amount of words for any man to have written.

The story of his life is as colorful as some of his own novels. He was born in a forty-two room mansion, surrounded by wealth, cradled in the luxury of the old Russian aristocracy; yet in the last part of his life he gave away all of his lands, stripped himself of all his worldly goods, and died without a dollar in a lonely Russian railway station, surrounded by peasants.

In his youth, he was a snob, walking with mincing steps and spending a small fortune in the tailor shops of Moscow; yet in his later life he dressed in the rough crude clothes of a Russian peasant, made his shoes with his own hands, tugged his own bed sweep, his own room and ate his simple food on a bare table from a wooden bowl with a wooden spoon.

In his youth he lived what he himself described as "a dirty vicious life," drinking, dueling, committing every sin imaginable—even murder; but in late years he tried to follow literally the teachings of Jesus and became the most saintly influence in all of Holy Russia.

In the early years of his married life he and his wife were so happy that they actually got down on their knees and prayed to Almighty God to continue their heavenly bliss, their divine ecstasy. Yet later on they were tragically unhappy. He finally came to loathe the very sight of her, and his dying request was that his wife should not even be permitted to come into his presence.

In his youth, he failed in college and his private teachers despaired of ever pounding any sense whatever into his thick skull; yet thirty years later he wrote two of the greatest novels that the world has ever known, two novels that will live and endure throughout the centuries—War and Peace, and Anna Karenina.

Tolstoy is more famous today outside of Russia than all the Czars who ever ruled that dark and bloody empire. Yet did the writings of these great novels make him happy? For a while—yes. Then he became utterly ashamed of them, and devoted the remainder of his life to writing little pamphlets, preaching peace and love and the abolition of poverty. These booklets were printed in cheap editions and trundled about in carts and wheelbarrows and sold from door to door. In four short years 12,000,000 copies were distributed.

A few years ago it was my privilege to know Tolstoy's youngest daughter in Paris. She acted as his secretary during the last years of his life and was with him when he died. She is living on a farm near Newton Square, Pennsylvania, and I learned from her own lips many of those facts about Tolstoy. Since that time, she has written a book about her father, The Tragedy of Tolstoy.

Truly Tolstoy's life was a tragedy, and the cause of his tragedy was his marriage. His wife loved luxury, but he despised it. She craved fame and the plaudits of society, but these frivolous things meant nothing whatever to him. She longed for money and riches, but he believed that wealth and private property were a sin. She believed in ruling by force, but he believed in ruling by love.

And to make matters worse, she was consumed by a fierce and fiery jealousy. She detested his friends. She even drove her own daughter away from her home, and then rushed into Tolstoy's room and shot at the girl's picture with an air rifle.

For years she nagged and scolded and screamed and abused him and, as he said, turned his home into a veritable hell because he insisted on giving the people of Russia the right to publish his books freely without paying his royalty.

When he opposed her, she threw herself into fits of hysteria, rolling on the floor with a bottle of opium to her lips, swearing that she was going to kill herself and threatening to jump down the well.

The Tolstoyes were married almost half a century; and sometimes she knelt at his knees and implored him to read her the exquisite, poignant love passages that he had written about her in his diary forty-eight years previously, when they were both madly in love with each other. As he read of those beautiful happy days that were now gone forever, both of them wept bitterly.

Finally, when he was eighty-two years old, he was unable to endure the tragic unhappiness of his home any longer, so he fled from his wife on the night of October 21, 1910—fled into the cold and darkness, not knowing whither he was going.

Eleven days later he died of pneumonia in a railway station-house, saying, "God will arrange everything." His last words were, "To seek—always to seek."

To receive benefits during times of unemployment, a worker is not required by the Unemployment Commission to accept a job created by strike, or other labor dispute. Also, he is not required to accept a job if the hours, remuneration and other conditions are less favorable than those prevailing for similar work in the community or if acceptance would require the worker to join a company union or prevent him from joining or retaining membership in any bona fide labor union.

Room and board provided by employers count as wages under the Texas Unemployment Compensation Law and contributions to the Trust Fund must be based on the amount of this item. Unless there is an agreement between employer and employee as to the value of the room and board, it is set by the Commission as $5.00 per week for room and board.

The administration's Social Security Legislation has provided a job for at least one man in San Francisco, a tattoo artist, instead of tattooing ladies' names on his clients now tattoos their Social Security numbers.

NINETY-FIVE OUT OF 100 SCHOOL CHILDREN HAVE DECAYED TEETH, SAYS COX

Austin, Texas, Sept. 22.—Ninety-five out of every 100 school children have decayed teeth, estimates State Health Officer G. O. W. Cox, and the average pre-school child of six years has three or four cavities.

Dr. Cox this week urged Texas parents to have their children's teeth examined now by the family dentist in order that mouth defects might be corrected early and with the least possible ill health, pain and expense.

"It isn't possible to say definitely how much time is lost in school attendance through tooth troubles and neglected teeth," Dr. Cox said. "But it is an admitted fact that if every school child could start the school year with teeth free from defects and well cared for the attendance would be materially improved. At the same time, the child would be spared the unnecessary suffering that comes from neglected teeth."

"Individual care of the teeth is of special importance in maintaining mouth health—and incidentally in keeping up the general health. Eating proper food, and a thorough cleansing of the teeth, twice a day, plus gum massage are essential for the preservation of mouth health.

"As a matter of fact, more parents should see to it that their children use their tooth brushes properly," Dr. Cox stated. "The more fact that a child goes through the motions of brushing his teeth does not mean that his teeth will not decay. Cleaning is not mere brushing; it is the thing to be emphasized. The proper way to brush the teeth is to brush the upper teeth downward and the lower teeth upward, sweeping across the gum in between the teeth, thereby reaching the areas most susceptible to decay."

And finally, sensible people have formed the habit of going themselves and taking their children to the dentist every six months, whether or not they notice any evidence of trouble. Periodic inspections enable the dentist to detect the beginning of tooth decay.
