NUMBER 33

Here In HICO

On Page 2 of this issue will be found a partial list of what the management considers its most useful and appreciated assets. Advertising is the main source of revenue of any newspaper, as is generally known. But without subscribers and reader interest, any money spent in advertising is more or less wasted. That the News Review has so many loyal friends among the citizens of this community has always been our chief pride. Aided by the confidence inspired through the reader interest we know exists, we can conscientiously and aggressively approach business men with sales efforts. We know that we have something that will help them, whether they use it or not. They also seem to realize this fact, judging from the way our advertising columns have been regularly patronized. It is essentially a matter of teamwork. Merchants can sell cheaper when they have volume. Buyers will provide this volume if they can be convinced of fair prices and service. The News Review acts as a go-between in a certain sense. We have no apologies to offer for the product we have for sale, since we know that by promoting our own business we are at the same time helping that of our associates who spend their money with us.

Suddenly we have made the discovery that the N-R editor is a factotum. The nine year old (growing on ten) who has made her home with us through no particular choice of her own uncovered the fact the other night in a round-about way, while getting her lessons. "Daddy, what is a factotum?" she inquired. "What do you think they made dictionaries for? Who expects a fifth-grader to know the answer to that? Do you want to go to the show?" Thus we parried, knowing we were in such a spot. Gentilly, but with a touch of disgust, the young lady resumed her studies without further questioning. The next day, with a broom in one hand, a galley of type in the other, and casting glances at the typewriter which shortly would claim our attention, wishing all the while we were out playing golf, a sudden remembrance struck the editor and innate curiosity led us to the dictionary. "Factotum," Webster states in black and white, means "one who has many diverse activities." Here we've been one for lo these many years and didn't know it. Seems like the folks at home, however, used to call such one a "Jack at all trades."

Our readers and contributors would shudder occasionally if they realized the fine line which divides the live news from the waste basket at our desk. Through no foresight or intention, it happens that the former is placed in direct juxtaposition with the latter. A sudden draft would convert otherwise live news into sweepings, shortly into ashes. Frequently we have thought of changing the arrangement. But, we surmised, who are we to pose as a judge of which should go where? The line of distinction between what could be printed and what should be burned is sometimes as fine as to cause the most astute editor a flurry of discards. These thoughts cause us to discard the would-be improvement, and to continue the arrangement that, so far as we know, perpetrated itself. Doubtless we proceed to put forth our best efforts in separating the wheat from the chaff. Admittedly the human equation entering into the plan causes errors of judgment now and then, but if something we should have covered as news fails to appear, we have the constant alibi of predestination—the notes dropped into the waste basket without conscious propulsion on our part. If on the other hand we print the wrong thing, we can console ourselves with the memory of our absent-mindedness and the belief that what should be burned is sometimes judged too far in obtaining grist for the mill. Perhaps, we tell ourselves, it was just meant to be that way.

Pay your poll tax. This is neither a demand nor a request. Rather it is a kindly admonition about an important matter which will cause you quite a bit of embarrassment and probably some regrets if you neglect it. County Tax Assessor-Collector R. J. Riley, in town the early part of this week, stated that poll and property tax payment were brisk, but that there were a lot of people who had not yet taken care of the latter. Midnight, January 31, is the deadline, he warns. His office will remain open late the last day for the accommodation of taxpayers.

Hico Business Men's Commercial Club In 2nd Meeting Monday

On Monday night, January 17, the newly organized Hico Business Men's Commercial Club held its second meeting at the High School building for the purpose of further perfecting their plans.

The Club was entertained by the forty piece High School band, after which the business was attended to by Dr. H. V. Hedges presiding as president of the club. The executive committee presented a constitution and by-laws to the membership. The Club voted unanimously for the following constitution and by-laws:

"The Hico Business Men's Commercial Club is organized for the purpose of promoting good fellowship, local enterprises, such as the building of roads, influencing of new business enterprises and any such activity that will be for the betterment of Hico and community. The meetings shall be every other Tuesday night at the City Hall, starting the twenty-fifth of January, 1938. Every other meeting is to be a combination dinner and business meeting, the first dinner to be Jan. 25, 1938.

"The membership of this club shall be composed of anyone interested in the upbuilding of Hico and Community. Anyone may become a member upon the payment of the monthly dues of $1.50. "It will be the duty of club members to assist in all possible ways through their club organization for the betterment of Hico and Community by attending all meetings, paying monthly dues, and serving on committees.

"Any member using or trying to use this organization for any selfish interest or any local political interest shall be disqualified as a member in this organization. "The officers of this club shall be composed of a president, vice president, secretary-treasurer, and a board of five directors elected by the members. Each officer shall serve a term of six months without pay.

"The president shall preside at all meetings, notify members of called meetings, call meetings of the Board of Directors. The vice president shall act as president in the absence of the president. The secretary-treasurer shall keep minutes of all meetings, attend to all correspondence, collect dues and sign checks for expenditures. His dues and luncheons shall be paid by the club.

"The Board of Directors shall serve as an advisory body to the president and help in formulation of plans and policies of the club. All activities participated in by this organization shall be passed upon by the membership of the club. "The expenditures of this club shall be used for dinners, payment of committee expenses while on business trips, stamps, stationery and such other expenditures as the membership may deem necessary."

The Club was given some pointers by an out-of-town visitor, Mr. Cozzens of the Southern Union Gas Company, who pointed out that this kind of organization is meeting with success in other parts of the state. Members of the club are urged not to forget the first dinner to be held Jan. 25, 1938, at 7:30.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY AND WIFE VISIT HERE MONDAY

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Flentge of Gatesville were in Hico a short time Monday on their way home from Stephenville where they had been attending court.

As district attorney of this district, composed of Hamilton, Coryell and Comanche counties, Mr. Flentge has occasion to be in Hico frequently, but expresses regret that he is usually busy and hasn't as much time as he would like for visiting with his constituents. However he hopes to find time during the next few months to cover most of his district in his campaign for re-election.

Mrs. Flentge, who assisted her husband in the campaign two years ago, has several friends here also.

Brother Not Doing Well The condition of Henry Alex Wieser, injured several weeks ago in a car-train collision at Bluffdale, was reported to have taken a turn for the worse last week-end.

Vincent Wieser, brother of Henry Alex, said infection had set in in the knee injury, and that it would be necessary for him to remain in St. Joseph's Hospital some time longer. A tube has been inserted to drain the wound.

Former Bosque Co. Clerk Here. C. M. Gandy, for several years County Clerk of Bosque County, was in Hico Tuesday on business. Mr. Gandy, who is now with the State Comptroller's Department, was checking up on cigarette taxes, vending machine licenses, etc. At the same time he found time to say "howdy" to his many friends in this community.

R. J. ADAMS RECOVERING FROM INJURIES SUSTAINED IN CAR-TRUCK COLLISION

In a letter to Mrs. J. M. Adams last week, Mrs. R. J. Adams reported that her husband was recovering satisfactorily from injuries received in a car wreck 3 miles below San Antonio, on the Three Rivers road.

Mr. Adams, who moved to Three Rivers from Hico last summer, and a cafe proprietor from that city, was returning home from San Antonio when they met a truck on an incline. Another car was involved in the mishap on wet pavement, and R. J., who was driving his car, was thrown out the door and dragged several feet. It was reported, His mother, who has received word of his condition in frequent letters, says he was finally admitted that he was "worse scared than hurt."

PECAN SPECIALIST WILL DEMONSTRATE TOP WORKING

Mr. Price, a pecan specialist from the State Department of Agriculture, will be in Hico Monday, January 24, to demonstrate top working of pecans. Anyone interested in this type of work is urged to come to the High School or see H. D. Gilmore, vocational agriculture teacher, before that time.

Hico Man Enters New Dealership At Stephenville Store

The Farm Implement Supply of Hico has been appointed dealer for International Harvester Company products in Stephenville, and will announce the opening of their store there about the first of February.

A new building being constructed by Charles Nebbett on North Virginia Street directly opposite the Triangle Cheese plant, will house the new firm. A large lot directly behind the building will be used for display purposes.

W. L. McDowell, who established the International dealership at Hico eight years ago, has announced that F. B. Shannon, rancher and cattleman of the Chalk Mountain community, has purchased half interest in the new firm and will have charge of the Stephenville store.

STATE SANITARY ENGINEER HERE ON INSPECTION TRIP

W. R. Hardy, District Sanitary Engineer of the Texas State Department of Health, Public Health District No. 2, was here the first of the week on a routine visit for the purpose of inspecting the local water supply. Headquarters for the district are maintained at Mineral Wells, Texas.

Unofficial report to Water Supt. J. R. Massingill was to the effect that everything was found in order, with no contamination existing. Official reports are mailed from Austin periodically, based on samples sent in regularly. Several weeks ago R. B. Wolford, M. D., District Director of 37 counties in Central Texas for the Health Department, visited in Hico with Mayor H. F. Sellers and other city officials and citizens. District No. 2, with headquarters at Mineral Wells, was established Sept. 1 as one of six similar districts in the State. Dr. Wolford had at that time visited 23 counties in his jurisdiction, and planned to make trips to the remainder as fast as this could be expediently done.

Representative

Earl Huddleston, who is well known to Hico people through frequent visits during the tenure of this important office, will have a more detailed statement to make regarding his race in the near future.

Three Experts On Poultry Problems Lecture At School

The Poultry School sponsored by Keeney's Hatchery, at which 123 people registered, closed with the presentation of attendance awards to five people. T. L. Bates of Ireddell won 100 baby chicks, J. G. Edwards, the sack of feed, Mrs. Ben Winkler of Hamilton, the feeder, Mrs. Lee Autry, $2 worth of garden seed, and Mrs. Joe Sharp of Carlton, $1 worth of garden seed.

The morning session was taken up with lectures on flock management and housing by Dr. Martin Portray of Charles City, Iowa, head of the disease department at Salsbury Laboratories, Mr. A. G. Davidson, Abilene, both poultry technicians for the same laboratories. The afternoon lectures were concerned with prevention and treatment of disease.

The sponsors and those who attended were well pleased with the success of the school, and Mrs. G. C. Keeney, who assisted with the programs and administration, reported that the response was greater than the local sponsors had expected.

LANGSTON CAFE NOW OWNED BY MRS. INEZ HEFNER

Gene's Cafe, formerly owned by Gene Langston, was recently purchased by Mrs. Inez Hefner, and changed by Mrs. Inez Hefner, and will be known in the future as Inez's Cafe.

Mrs. Hefner intends to make a number of improvements, including a complete remodeling of the front, and feels that upon completion of these improvements she will be in a better position to serve her patrons. She is being assisted by Garland Ables.

Gene Langston and his mother, Mrs. Lenora Langston, have as yet made no announcement about their future plans.

TARLETON PLOWBOYS PLAY DECATUR TONIGHT IN TRY FOR 5th STRAIGHT WIN

John Tarleton Plowboys, a basketball team with 50 straight wins, engages Decatur tonight (Friday) with the avowed intention of adding another to their list of victories. The Tarleton Plowboys are beginning their fifth year of consecutive wins, their last defeat being recorded in 1933 when the Rams from San Angelo Junior College broke a 13-game winning streak of the Plowboys.

The game tonight will be played in Stephenville and is a conference game. Other conference games scheduled are as follows: January 22, Saturday—Hillsboro at Hillsboro. January 28, Friday—Weatherford at Weatherford. January 29, Saturday—Ranger at Ranger.

February 4, Friday—Clifton at Clifton. February 4, Saturday—N. T. A. C. at Tarleton. February 11, Friday—Hillsboro at Tarleton.

February 18, Friday—Weatherford at Weatherford. February 22, Tuesday—Decatur at Decatur. February 25, Friday—Ranger at Tarleton.

February 26, Saturday—N. T. A. C. at N. T. A. C.

Brunk's Comedians, Benefit of Firemen, Here Rest of Week

Tonight Brunk's Comedians, road show playing Hico all this week, will present "Why Wives Step Out," a former New York production, with Fay Adams in the leading feminine role. Music is furnished by the Waikiki Novelty Boys, feature attraction of the show, with song and dance numbers by ten-year-old June Brunk, who is said by Ripley to have attended more schools than any other child in America.

Saturday's matinee offers "The Man From Texas," and Saturday night "The Great Southwest," a Texas western will be enacted by five of the leading actors. Musical intermissions will feature the Waikiki Novelty Boys.

MRS. SEGRIST AND SISTER REPORTED IMPROVING FROM INJURIES AT PHOENIX, ARIZ.

A card this week from Kai Segrist, writing from Good Samaritan Hospital, Phoenix, Ariz., states that his mother, Mrs. Sue Segrist, and his aunt, Mrs. C. A. Goodman, of Ireddell, are recovering from injuries sustained in an automobile accident Christmas Eve.

Kai's card states that both ladies have had normal temperatures for the four days prior to Jan. 15th, and that with fair conditions prevailing they will be back in Hico with their friends in February.

Kai is remaining at Phoenix with his mother and aunt, while his brother, Cecil, and Mrs. Goodman's son, J. L., of Hico, returned here several days ago when a turn for the better eased their anxiety as to their mother's condition.

Stolen Car Burned

Sheriff Houston White of Hamilton was in Hico early Tuesday morning investigating the theft of a car belonging to J. L. Goodman of Hico. The car was recovered between Hico and Ireddell, damaged by fire. It was reported Wednesday that insurance carried on the automobile would cover the loss.

Second Annual Hico F.F.A. Poultry Show Pronounced Success

Over two hundred poultry entries from three counties were exhibited in the Second Annual Future Farmers Poultry Show held in co-operation with the Hico Chamber of Commerce and Hico business men.

According to the judges, T. A. Hensarling, head of the Poultry Department of John Tarleton Agricultural College, and Mr. Hardy, of the soil conservation camp at Dublin, the placing was much more difficult this year than last, because of the increasing improvements being made by poultry owners in their flocks.

Among the breeds exhibited were White Leghorn, Rhode Island Reds, Barred Rocks, Silver-Laced Wyandottes, Anconas, Japanese Silky, Bantam Turkey, and Pheasant. Some mink rabbits and owls also attracted considerable attention.

The Hico Public Schools, under the supervision of Supt. Ray D. Brown and the faculty, succeeded in adding interest to the show in the form of woodwork and domestic science.

The Home Demonstration Club of Honey Grove, a group of women working under the supervision of the County Home Demonstration Agent of Hamilton County, prepared an attractive exhibit of home canned vegetables.

High point individuals in the judging were Cran Massengale of the Hico chapter, and Floyd Fair of the Walnut Springs chapter, who won first and second respectively. Glen Marshall of Hico and Mingus of Ireddell tied for third. The Ireddell team composed of Harper, Graves and Hix won first for high point teams. Gaddell, Jackson, and Massey of Wadwell Springs won second, and Grady Brown, A. Brown and Holiday of Hico tied for third. Winning teams of the judging contest received cups.

Keeping Up With TEXAS

An East Texas oil family, who set out to adopt a child for every ten oil wells brought in on their property, were in Fort Worth Monday trying to catch up on their children. They now have 49 wells, but only two adopted children. Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Alford, of Overton, were just another farm couple until oil was discovered on his land. Even now he continues to work the fields, and Mrs. Alford does the house work.

Plemons, Texas, with less than 100 inhabitants, bought $55,500 worth of United States savings "Baby" bonds, to take the lead among fourth class post offices in the sale of the bonds.

Fourteen-month-old Billy Fullingim of Houston miraculously escaped serious injury Sunday in a plunge from a second story window of his home to a sheet of corrugated iron on the ground. A small cut was his only injury, and fifteen minutes later he was playing again.

Sheriff A. B. Carter of Fort Worth has entered many strange investigations in his days as a peace officer, but today he was called out to search for a 500,000 barrel oil well. The request was from a man in Temple, La., who informs the sheriff that the well is located somewhere in Tarrant County. The sheriff believes the letter is the work of an illiterate man swindled in a bogus deal.

Six-week-old Wallace (Hercules) Gough, son of Galen Gough of Fort Worth, can swing from his father's hand as though on a trapeze, stand alone on his father's hand, and kick off his covers and peer over the crib. His father is a former vaudeville strong man who now gives talks on psychology.

Scores of firefighters in Kilgore fought vainly last Monday to stem a wild-blazing oil well which threatened to ignite a dozen buildings in the heart of the city. The flames during the first hour caused $50,000 worth of damage, and five patients of the Care Memorial Hospital, 25 feet from the uncontrollable flames, were quickly evacuated. Practically all business (was suspended while the city watched the fire.

"Believe it or not"—Jack Meyers lifted from the waters of Lake Eanes, three miles south of Comanche, one big mouth bass weighing eight pounds and nine ounces and another weighing six pounds and seven ounces. Within the past three weeks he has had the same kind of luck, and he has Michael B. Sullivan, postal clerk, and Robert A. Carpenter of the Comanche Chief, to verify these weights.

Commissioners And Judge Inspect Jails At Various Points

S. A. Clark, member of the Hamilton County Commissioners' Court from Precinct 3, which includes Hico, Fairy, Carlton and other towns in this end of the county, took a trip with Judge J. C. Barrow and other members of the court Thursday of last week to South Texas points. The purpose of this trip was to inspect jails at Carrizo Springs, Laredo, and other points in South Texas. Their trip also took them across the border into Mexico at the latter city.

The Hamilton County jail has been condemned, and the commissioners find it necessary to plan for the erection of a new structure, they report, since it is not considered advisable to spend money on repairs that would be necessary to make the present building safe for occupancy.

Before making any decision they deemed it wise to gather all the information possible before having plans drawn up, which is expected at an early date. The News Review is informed that payment will be made through warrants, thus obviating the delay and expense that would be attached to voting on a bond issue.

Letter From "Dink"

On a visit to our old home city, Hico, Saturday we saw many people, as usual, on the streets and noted quite a bit of business going on. The town seems to be getting a new start for the coming year with new businesses being opened up and new lines of merchandise displayed.

We found Jennie Mae "Jot" quite busy at the office "jotting" down squibs about the folks around Hico, and she acts like an old hand at the business. With her qualifications, and the best editor in Texas (adv.) Hico should have the best newspaper it has ever had. And we shall always be interested in the Hico News Review and its success.

We saw the postmaster and had a nice long chat with her, and learned that she was still keeping things straight at the post office and going to the News Review office occasionally to see if there is any cash in the drawer. Ben Chenault was around as is his custom trying to start a feud between the News Review force and kidding about the amount of gasoline the editor's car uses.

Mr. Holford still contends his car is more economical than his old one, even though it has more cylinders. Visiting the force at the bank, we found them busy as usual on Saturday, but missed the presence of Mr. Dorsey who we learned was out on account of illness.

We saw other faces which we were glad indeed to see after having been absent from that city a whole week except for a few minutes at a time, which is a long time for us. One of Hico's citizens was a visitor to our place of business in this county seat town Saturday morning (adv. again) in the person of Jim D. Wright, who lost a few nickels at his "usual game" with a Hamilton man. We missed seeing Hoard Randalls and a few others from that city in the game. Grady Barrow's face was also missed. We joined the game for the first session, but ran out of nerve and other things essential when taking part in such sport.

W. M. Cheney was also a visitor over here the latter part of last week, being accompanied by J. J. Green of Dallas, who transacted business in this city. We are always glad to see people from Hico, even though only a few miles away. We heard our good friend, O. E. Meador, was over here Saturday, but we didn't get to see him.

As we drove into town we almost ran over Aubrey Diaz, who was in the middle of the street displaying cattle, implements, and used cars, or rather using his hands in telling the customers what values he had parked on the used car lot. He still contends that it pays to advertise in the Hico News Review, as the ads are bringing in new customers all the time. His partner, George Jones, agrees with him on that one thing.

On our way out, we saw Herman Leach at Higinbotham's, sitting on the front porch telling a customer that he should build a new home. We didn't get half around this trip but will try to see more of you next time. And when in this city, don't fall to drop around and visit with us a little (final adv.). We will always love all Hicoans for what they have meant to us.

Our Subscribers Provide Good Reading Along With Their Cash

Good Start Made Toward Record-Breaking Year In Subscription Department

In resuming our friendly chats about our friends and their subscriptions it will be necessary to make apology for having overlooked this important detail for so long.

Where to start is a problem, for it's been a year since we made these weekly chats a regular feature. However one way's as good as another because we'll get around to everybody in a year's time anyhow. So here goes with mention of all subscriptions contained in the current book, covering a month's period.

Glen D. Higginbotham, San Jon, New Mexico, will receive the News Review for a year through the courtesy of C. R. Higginbotham.

Mrs. J. A. Shaffer, Hamilton, Route 3, likes the News Review, flattered as last month by getting back on our list for another year. Thanks, Mrs. Shaffer, and come back often to Hico.

T. L. Betts, Fairbrite who gets his mail on Hico Route 3, renewed through W. E. Goynne at Fairly.

J. H. Glover, Hico Route 5, took advantage of the combination rate on the News Review and the Dallas Semi-Weekly Farm News.

J. E. Burleson, the old tightwad, turned loose a dollar and a half for the News Review recently. We imagine his wife made him do it, for he doesn't have time to read and is so lazy he'd make his wife read the paper to him anyhow. We charged him an extra four bits for moving away from us to San Angelo, later landing at Coleman.

J. W. Burks gave us his annual order, just before Christmas, for the News Review and the Star Telegram another year. We'll buy him a cigar some morning if he'll remind us and tell us he read this in the paper.

Fred Gordon, Hico Route 3, came in not long ago with his renewal to the home paper, along with another year's subscription to the Waco Times-Herald.

J. O. Bodford, Hico Route 3, will receive the News Review and the Dallas Semi-Weekly Farm News another year since renewing last month. Mr. and Mrs. Bodford are among our staunch friends. They are loyal to the home paper.

D. H. McMurray, who gets his mail on Iredell Route 2, but who makes Hico his trading point, renewed again for the News Review, taking the Fort Worth Press with it this time. Mr. McMurray was taking both Hico papers when they consolidated, in a home town booster, and regrets to see anything had happened to the old home town. He always welcomes news of progress or improvements.

W. McEdden, one of our good friends out on Route 5, dropped in a few weeks ago with his dollar to pay for the News Review another year. This is Mr. McEdden's ninth consecutive prompt visit with the present management of the N-R for this purpose, and his card in the file reflects his loyalty in no uncertain manner. He also paid for the paper another year, as usual, to his daughter, Mrs. W. O. Thompson, Big Spring.

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Jameson, Route 1, in town to do some Christmas shopping, dropped by to leave their dollar for another year of the home paper.

John L. Moore, Gatesville, Texas, ordered a subscription from Dink before she left. The editor will have to break down and admit he doesn't place Mr. Moore, but we know he's our friend from the tracks he left.

C. R. Candler, Empire, Calif., will receive the News Review during 1938 through the courtesy of Mrs. G. W. Hooper, Route 1, another of our good subscribers with an unbroken record for the past eight years.

H. J. Leach, who strayed off to Stephenville several years ago, has recovered from a recent serious illness, and came down last month to visit with friends and relatives. Unfortunately we had dropped his name from the list upon the expiration of his time, through oversight, as he always wants his old home paper.

W. V. Jackson, our wood-hauling friend out on Route 1, made arrangements for another year's time on the N-R and the Dallas S-W last month.

Miss Sallie Cunningham, visiting at Snyder at the time with J. H. Hargrove, ordered the paper for another year, to be sent out West until her return to Hico.

John Rainwater, Fairly, found the "devil" in the office late one afternoon and gave him a dollar for a year's subscription. Roline took care of the details satisfactorily, at least to us, and we hope also to Mr. Rainwater.

Miss Mae Phillips took another chance on the News Review and Fort Worth Star-Telegram staying in business through 1938, and paid up in advance for a full year's time on both publications.

J. P. Owen, whose wife reads the News Review and tells him what we have to say, ordered the paper another year, together with the Fort Worth Press.

Lorraine Logan, Route 3, brought in 60¢ of her own money to have the News Review sent to her six months in her own name. We hope she is never disappointed in the investment.

J. W. Jordan, singing association officer who frequently avails himself of the use of our columns for news of his association's conventions, renewed his subscription through Elmer Carlton, the Jim Farley of the town that bears his own surname. That Mr. Carlton is most industrious we are convinced, for we heard he kept his office open one day last year in spite of the fact that he could have closed up on account of a National holiday.

W. H. Howerton, Hico Route 5, another friend who depends on the News Review for local news, and the Star-Telegram for information about State, nation and world, has taken care of his subscriptions for the ensuing year.

B. J. A. Grimland, Iredell Route 1, mailed in his money for another year's time on the News Review and the Star-Telegram.

W. E. Boyd and young son, W. E. Jr., paid a pleasant visit to the office the latter part of December to insert a want ad, and we exerted our salesmanship sufficiently to induce him to subscribe for the paper. He lives 2 1/2 miles southeast of Iredell now, but has lived in and around Hico several years. Mr. Boyd says he has found it a fellow will "keep pitching" times won't be so bad.

T. J. Luckie, Hico Route 3, keeps his record perfect by renewing again for the News Review and the Dallas Semi-Weekly Farm News.

A. C. Stanford, whose name slipped from the list recently through oversight on our part or his, has everything fixed up now for another six months renewal of his subscription New Year's Day.

W. B. Hughes, Hico Route 3, wants another year of the News Review and the Dallas Semi-Weekly Farm News, and has paid for same. Thanks.

Miss Mary Gandy believes she can stand another dollar's worth of the paper she has been reading regularly. We're glad to have her of this opinion, and appreciate her spirit as well as her dollar.

S. W. Everett believes in advertising, and admits it has helped the tailoring business he established several weeks ago. Mrs. Everett is now associated with him in the active management of the shop, and they report a satisfactory increase in trade. Probably because their name has been added to the News Review subscription list upon their recent order.

J. T. Dempster, efficient clerk of Hamilton county, never lets his subscription to the News Review expire, believing this is a good way to keep up with his friends in this end of the county. He sent a check last week in payment for same, along with his money for announcing for re-election.

Mrs. Walter Fleming, St. Luke's Lane, Woodtown, Maryland, is one of our far-away friends receiving the paper from year to year. Her father, C. E. Tyler, always sees to this, and says Mrs. Fleming is still interested in Hico and Hico people, although she has been away several years.

N. Grimes, another of our customers out on Route 1, has renewed for the News Review, along with the Dallas Semi-Weekly. If R. L. Beaman, the carrier, could get the money to pay for her own which recently came near ruining his car, Mr. Grimes will receive his mail regularly. He would, anyhow, in spite of any accident like this, for Mr. Beaman would walk around with the mail if necessary.

Mrs. S. E. Massengale, Hico Route 5, keeps in our good graces by again renewing for the great moral and metropolitan weekly, dispenser of fact, fiction, and fancy.

C. F. Young, Hico Route 2, who keeps the paper coming from year to year by renewing promptly paid his annual visit to the office shortly after the first of the year, looking not a day older, and seeming in good health and spirits. All of which is good news to us.

F. S. Crafton, Rout 2, who can get along without lots of things but hasn't found a way yet of doing without the home paper, ordered his subscription marked up last week, and also wants the Waco News-Tribune, his bible among the daily papers, if we can induce the Marsh-Fentress organization to give us the rates. By the time for fryers to ripen we'll have to get this deal straightened out, for we bought some of his fowls last year and found that eating them improved our disposition, as well as enhancing our good looks.

B. B. Waldrop, Hico Route 2, sent in an order to start the News Review coming to his mail box—postmaster Elmer Carlton took the order.

Mrs. Ola Driver, Uvalde, Texas, is marked up for another year since receipt of her renewal. Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Shelton of Hico, and reared mostly in this community, Mrs. Driver wants to keep up with the home-folks.

John L. Wilson, who received the News Review for twelve months as a wedding gift to himself and wife, shows his appreciation by putting the cash out for another year's subscription. Leonard Howard took his order.

Mrs. Annie R. Currie, city treasurer, gave her renewal to Leonard.

Mrs. J. I. Tooley, city, renewed for another six months' time, and will keep up with local happenings at least for that period.

Mr. and Mrs. Grady Hooper, newlyweds, will receive the News Review for a year as a wedding gift. Grady and Carmen can remember their anniversary easily in the future years, for about that time they'll receive a notice that their time is out. They displayed their 10 per cent loyalty to the home paper by getting married on press day, thus providing us with a news story while it was still news.

The Majestic Theatre at Dublin will keep up with local news, following a visit from the proprietor Mr. Blevins, who gave us a dollar for a year's subscription. He reported his business satisfactory, and said he believed everybody else would consider theirs the same if they just wouldn't set their sights too high and remember too often what is usually referred to as "the good old days."

Mrs. J. C. Lane, pioneer of the thrifty and friendly community of Salem, a few miles north of Hico, wants to keep the paper coming and sent in her renewal recently.

A. C. Odell, hard-working farmer living out on Route 2, not far from town, recently renewed his subscription to the News Review and the Dallas Semi-Weekly Farm News. Arthur is interested in Hico, transacts his business in a very pleasing manner, and is due a lot of credit for his efforts.

C. C. Smith, Hico Route 3, keeps the record of the Smiths' relations with the home paper in good order by renewing his subscription.

Ray Cheek, who secured a position at a Texaco service station in Dallas several months ago, will keep up with the old home town through the thoughtfulness of his mother, Mrs. S. J. Cheek, who ordered the paper sent to him at 4703 Bryan Street. "Red-Tie" doesn't get home as often as his departure some of the boys have begun to believe they know something about playing golf. Just one short visit from the future oil magnate of Dallas would convince them, we surmise, that they are all wet. We'd be willing to take him for a partner and play the field—for fun.

Travis Alton, son of a former editor of the News Review, who probably in his younger days has played around the presses which still print this paper, and who harbors newspaper inclinations himself, along with the rest of the Altons, enclosed three one-dollar bills in recent letter ordering subscription to himself at Texarkana, and to his sister, Mrs. Arthur Holloway, Rudd Route, Christoval, Texas. Admitting our negligence in not having kept up with Travis since his departure from Hico, we're wondering what he's doing now.

J. C. Prater, proprietor of a first-class barber shop in Hico, dropped by the other day and left a dollar for subscription.

Clarence Walker, Bluffdale, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Walker of Hico, is the recipient of a year's subscription paid for last week by his father.

Miss Josie Harris, Iredell, renewed her subscription last week through Miss Stella Jones, our efficient correspondent at that place, than whom there is no thanner.

Mrs. Justin Bullard, Hico Route 1, whose husband "fell from grace" last year and tried to get her off on a diet of another penny paper, read up a dollar of her own last week and brought it by the News Review office for the paper of her choice. If we were in her position, we wouldn't let Justin even read the Hico paper—at least not first. All joking aside, they are both loyal to Hico and its institutions, and we're glad to have them back on our list.

Mrs. J. F. Blackburn, like lots of folks out on Route 4, has found the roads so bad they have kept them from coming to Hico as often as they wish. To avert the possibility of missing a copy of the paper, she telephoned in her order, saying she would bring the money in upon her first visit to town. Mr. Blackburn made the promise good, bringing in the dollar Monday.

Mrs. Richard Peck, whose interest in the home paper even before the present management was one of the bright spots in the paper's existence, wrote recently enclosing her check for another year's subscription. Mrs. Peck, at present a "Galveston gal," was reared at Hico and was before her marriage Miss Mary Golden. She has many friends among the local folks, who always enjoy her visits and appreciate her interest in the old town even though separated from it by more than three hundred miles. Primarily a Stella Jones fan, Mrs. Peck finds other things in the paper to interest her, judging from the way she closed her letter accompanying her check as follows: "My congratulations to Mrs. Goughly—I'm sorry, however, that she won't be with the paper any more. I'll miss her column, 'Dink.' Can't you persuade her to write something each week? I'm enclosing a check for renewal just to prove to you that I still have faith in the future of the News Review."

Leonard Howard turned in the following subscriptions and these people will continue to receive the paper: J. R. Tidwell of Iredell, Mrs. J. R. Alford of Dallas, O. H. Fincher, Route 1, Richard Tooley, Route 6, J. A. Garth, Route 7, Rav Duckworth, Route 4, and L. A. Powledge.

B. M. Bontwright stopped in Thursday also, saying he wanted to renew for the "Siamese Twins." It took the new cub reporter several seconds to figure out that meant the News Review and the Semi-Weekly Farm News. Mr. Bontwright is a regular visitor every year about the middle of January, for the expressed purpose of renewing his home paper.

John Gulna, Hico Route 4, got by cheaper this year than he did last year. On the former occasion he pulled out two one-dollar bills in Barnes and McCullough's place, handed the editor one, and can't remember where the other one went unless Hugh McCullough got hold of it. Roads are bad out his way but he managed to get into the office Friday, anyway.

A. O. Allen, he of the famous sons and daughters, was in to renew, and took advantage of the occasion to criticize the editor's ability as a weather prophet. He reminded us that there are three things even the Lord doesn't know: the decision of a pettitor jury, who a girl will marry, and how Texas weather will turn out.

We received a letter from Jewell Faulk, of Fontana, California, enclosing $1.50 to have the paper renewed. Mrs. Faulk takes the Hico paper to keep up with what her father, Tom Fowers, and the rest of the Hico people are doing.

Melbourne Giesecke, Mayor of Millerville, came in Saturday to renew his subscription for another year. The editor misled him on his visit to the office, but saw him at the poultry show. We noticed particularly that he was so busy he failed to speak to us, but hope it was an oversight. Ain't mad, are you Mel?

You've heard of finding money in a pig-track, but Ben McAllister, Hico Route 4, actually found a dollar bill in a cow track this week. He showed it to Earle Harrison at the bank first, and Earle brought Ben by to show the "Believe It or Not" to the editor. After inspecting it, we were informed by Mr. McAllister that we could keep it and mark his subscription up another year. He said he found it in his lot, after passing it by several times. Then he said he decided it was good money, and couldn't see any harm in picking it up. Neither do we.

Mrs. W. D. Jones, who moved with her family below Hamilton last year, writes as follows: "You will find enclosed $1.00, so please send us your paper. We have missed two copies and don't want to miss another one in 1938. We miss the paper as much as we would our dinner on Friday."

Take 2 BAYER ASPIRIN tablets and drink a full glass of water. Repeat treatment in 2 hours.

If throat is sore from the cold, crush and stir 3 BAYER ASPIRIN tablets in 1/2 glass of water. Gargle twice. This cures throat soreness and soreness almost instantly.

All it usually costs to relieve the misery of a cold today—is 3¢ to 5¢—relief for the period of your cold 15¢ to 25¢. Hence no family need neglect even minor head colds.

Here is what to do: Take two BAYER tablets when you feel a cold coming on—with a full glass of water. Then repeat, if necessary, according to directions in each package. Relief comes rapidly.

The Bayer method of relieving colds is the way many doctors approve. You take Bayer Aspirin for relief—then if you are not improved promptly, you call the family doctor.

J. W. Hickman, Route 6, Hico, renewed for another year through Postmaster Elmer Carlton.

Mrs. J. F. Ogle, who lives about a mile from Fairly on Route 3, has been taking another county paper, but has decided that since she is really one of us Hico folks she would like to keep up with what we do, and the News Review is the best way. In another part of the paper a want ad will be found concerning some articles left at her home which she would like for the owners to have.

Red Sargent's prize-winning chickens won him a year's subscription donated by the News Review to the sponsors of the poultry show. Red lives at Indian Gap and on his visit to our office was accompanied by Emil Stegmoller, who paid for one issue to be sent to him. We hope he likes it well enough to want it regularly.

E. E. Wimberly of Cranfills Gap missed two issues of the paper (after the editor had predicted fair weather for Christmas) because it was so muddy he couldn't get to town to renew his subscription. He noticed the editor stiffened his neck and predicted the weather, and his wife told him he'd better stiffen his neck and go in and pay their subscription. He did.

Mrs. W. T. Rodgers will receive the paper for another six months, since she came in on time to have her subscription extended.

T. L. Walker, who lives on Route 6, has been taking the paper for eight years to our certain knowledge, and how long before we couldn't say. But he wants it to keep coming, and he wants it had enough to drop by and tender us his dollar, so we'll see that it does keep coming.

R. L. Autrey, Hico Route 7, in renewing his subscription and ordering a want ad Monday, said if the editor didn't believe it was hot that day he should have been on a trip he took. Mrs. Autrey carried him four miles north of Iredell in a car, and he returned horseback to his home five miles north of Hico, with a horse he wanted to bring back. He's done quite a bit of riding in his day, he said, but either he is out of practice or the weather was wrong for January.

We are charging Barnes and McCullough at Goldthwaite for another year, and sending them a statement as they always remit promptly on receipt of a notice.

Mrs. Kathryn Sawyer's time is up, but before she left on her trip she instructed us to be sure and see that she got the paper. We are marking her time up another year, and sending the paper to Houston.

As most people know, I have purchased the remaining stock of G. M. Carlton Brothers & Company at Hico, and will continue business at the same place with a general line of DRY GOODS, MEN'S AND WOMEN'S WEAR, HARDWARE & IMPLEMENTS.

We will strive to maintain the high esteem held so long by Carlton Bros., by offering good merchandise with the best service possible.

On our plan for doing a STRICTLY CASH BUSINESS, we are sure we will be assisted in maintaining the high quality of merchandise and service rendered by the former firm.

We'll be very happy to have our friends come to see us, and we solicit a share of your business on a basis of Fair Prices and Courteous Treatment.

WE STILL HAVE A QUANTITY OF WINTER MERCHANDISE THAT WE ARE OFFERING AT GREATLY REDUCED PRICES

Up in the Clouds with Beulah Earle

Eighteenth Installment

Monty Wallace, round the world flight hero, has been blackmailed by Vivian Morgan, who claims to be his wife. Sunny Marlon, newspaper woman, is being chased by Jabe Marlon, airplane manufacturer, who backed Monty on his record making flight, and engaged to marry Jimmy Halepogether. Then Sunny and Monty were low staff worker with Natalie under their editor, Mack Hanlon.

Instead of having a claim on Monty, Vivian really has information concerning one of Sunny's escapades during a New York visit. This she admits in a private session with Sunny. Vivian threatens to create a scandal about Monty unless Sunny, to protect herself, induces Sunny to pay off the alleged wife. She attempts, but in a moment of childish connexions her own interest, Monty comforts her but the pair are surprised by Natalie, who misinterprets the situation. Jimmy, Sunny's fiancée, also appears and hears Natalie's story.

Monty is being feted at a restaurant dinner given by the Mayor and he decides to take Sunny. Instead of Natalie, Sunny realizes that perhaps Monty loves her after all and we invite you to conclude the story in this last installment.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY!

"Monty!" she cried in exultation. "You darling!"

And then came the ever-familiar query:

"But what am I going to wear?"

"I like us just the way we are—and they'll have to like us the same way" asserted Monty, smiling down at her.

"I'll dust off the shine and be with you in a minute" was all Sunny could say.

As they left, arm in arm, their first step into the crisp evening air seemed to herald a change of world—at least for them. In a trice they were seated in the long shiny black car. The motor purred and they were off, on the happiest evening of their lives.

"We're going the way we are!" retorted Monty. "If they can't take us this way—they won't take us at all!"

"Getting a little independent, aren't you?" bantered Sunny.

"Why not?" countered Monty. "Nobody seems to be over-solicitous about us!"

In a trice both Monty and Sunny had stepped into the Mayor's luxurious motor and were on their way to the evening celebration. Monty was evidently stirred with a double emotion. This was his personal triumph—recognition of his victory over the elements in a round the world flight. It was a triumph in another way too. He had been challenged by mishap and tonight he would show them all that Monty Wallace always landed on his feet.

Sunny snuggled closer and sought the comfort of Monty's arm. They both looked curiously out of place in the richly upholstered limousine. Sunny's chic sport frock was an excellent companion to Monty's flying togs. But it was evening—and they were bound for an array of white-ties and low-necked evening gowns.

Monty looked down at Sunny. He smiled.

"Fraid?" he asked.

"Not a bit!" came Sunny's stout answer. "And you?"

"On the contrary—I'm looking forward to it!"

Monty offered Sunny a cigarette. He piled the match to both.

"We should be there soon," Monty commented.

"I wonder if Nat and Jimmy will be there," queried Sunny, half to herself.

"Nat's covering the blowout," remarked Monty, meaningly, "and I hardly think Jimmy would miss the fun."

"Aren't you just a bit malicious," Sunny asked.

"Just curious," was all Monty would say, but a glint in his eye spoke more than words.

The car swayed to a stop and in a moment Monty and Sunny were relieved of their wraps and were being ushered into the glittering hotel ballroom. The huge room was packed. Suddenly a score of voices rose in greeting.

"It's Monty Wallace!" somebody shouted and immediately Monty and Sunny were the center of a hundred eyes. Swiftly the Mayor took them by the arm introducing them here and there, nodding to some, speaking to others. Miraculously they found themselves at the banquet table. The Mayor raised his hand for silence.

"Ladies and gentlemen" he began—while the buzz of conversation continued. "Ladies—and gentlemen—e-n!" the Mayor repeated.

The confusion subsided. The Mayor addressed the throng again.

"This is a very informal gathering," he assured them. "Because I know you're all hungry—let's honor the chef first and then spend the rest of the evening honoring out hero!"

It seemed that the Mayor, shrewd judge of human nature that he was, knew his audience. The banquet proceeded. As the entree was served, Sunny, who sat next to Monty, suddenly whispered.

"Monty!—There's Nat and Jimmy—they've just arrived!"

"Too bad they missed such a delicious meal" was Monty's orthodox comment.

"I don't think they'll miss it," corrected Sunny, "they're coming for those two places on the other side of the Mayor."

"Good!" exclaimed Monty. "It's great to have all the old friends engaged to marry Jimmy Halepogether."

Then Sunny and Monty were drawn away from each other by small-talk of their dinner companions. It seemed ages later that Sunny found a way to turn her attention to Monty again. No sooner had she begun to speak when her voice suddenly rose.

"Look!" she cried and motioned to a far table.

It was the woman, Vivian Morgan, to protect herself, induces Sunny to pay off the alleged wife. She attempts, but in a moment of childish connexions her own interest, Monty comforts her but the pair are surprised by Natalie, who misinterprets the situation. Jimmy, Sunny's fiancée, also appears and hears Natalie's story.

"That's great—now we're all here," Sunny's dry reply.

Dessert and coffee heralded the beginning of speechmaking and shortly the Mayor was rapping for order.

By this time Monty and Sunny were standing close to each other, Natalie and Jimmy, with Mack Hanlon and Sunny's father were opposite. The latter two were unaware of the drama in the situation for the other four.

"Well, we have a charge of blackmail on the books, but it's never been pressed. I remember it was against Butch McCork, the gangster that's up in Alestraz now. So I guess it won't do much good to hook her on that one."

"Anything else?" questioned the Mayor.

"Disorderly conduct here—and resisting an officer."

Monty stepped forward.

"May I have a word, Chief—and your Honor?"

"Of course!" came the reply.

"Seeing that you haven't anything really serious against her, why not let her go—that is, if she promises to leave town and not get into mischief?"

Natalie, Sunny and Jimmy chorused their affirmation. Sunny was especially strong in urging the woman's release.

"Looks like you've got some pretty influential friends, Kate," observed the Mayor. "What do you

"Of course," came the reply.

Next, Monty found himself acknowledging applause. Words seemed to find themselves. Monty's eyes could not help being focused on the woman in the distance. He was conscious too of Natalie and Jimmy. He sensed something in the air. What he knew not, but that the evening would be full of events he was sure.

"I should have rehearsed this speech while I was dodging clouds over Alaska," began Monty with a breezy smile, "but maybe some of the language I used then wouldn't fit in right now."

"And if I had known we were going to have such a good time at this end of the line—"

A commotion at the far table disturbed the audience. Monty paused, and as he did so, a throaty voice filled the great room.

"You can't do this—get away from me!—Let go of my arm!"

The Mayor, the Chief of Police, the Fire Chief and a score of assorted notables rose to their feet. A struggle was going on between the woman and a group of three burly plainclothesmen. It was Vivian. Monty wondered what new mischief she had been upto. The cries continued.

"What's the matter back there?" demanded the Mayor. A chorus of hoarse voices answered in unison.

"We got Clark Street Kate, chief!"

The Chief of Police leaped from behind the table. The Mayor and others followed. They met the struggling quartette midway in the room. They all returned to the table of honor.

"Who's this?" asked the Mayor.

"Clark Street Kate" came the verification, "you know—she's that Chicago shake-down artist what gave us the jump a couple years back!"

"Fancy meeting you here, Kate," was the Mayor's sarcastic greeting. "I suppose you're here by invitation?"

"Invitation nothing!" came Vivian's indignant denial. "I pay for what I get—and you'd be surprised what five bucks can buy these days!"

The Mayor turned to the Chief.

"What's the charge?"

say, Chief—let her go?"

"Okay—if everybody says so—I'll dismiss the charge of disorder and resisting an officer—and call it quits."

Sunny threw her arms around Monty's neck.

"You're safe—I'm safe!" she cried happily.

Natalie and Jimmy stepped forward.

"Good work, Monty—we're glad to see everything turn out."

The Mayor and Chief looked at each other with a puzzled expression.

"What's going on here—do you two know each other?" His Honor interrogated.

"We're old friends!" insisted Monty. Sunny chimed in.

"She made me realize that I loved Monty after all!"

"And if she hadn't done that—I wouldn't have got Nat to promise to marry me!" returned Jimmy.

"And then Monty and I would have gone on kidding each other and goodness knows where it would all have ended!" exclaimed Natalie.

The Mayor and the Chief were thoughtful for a moment. They turned to Jabe Marlon and Mack Hanlon. There could be no explanation from that quarter.

"I don't get this," faltered the Mayor—"how do you mean she made you all realize you loved somebody else instead of—oh bother. What's this all about?"

"This woman—Viv— I mean, Kate—accused me of being her husband," ventured Monty.

"Are you?" demanded the Chief.

"Of course he isn't!" replied Sunny indignantly—"he's going to be mine!"

"So that fixes it so I can marry Natalie, here, who was engaged to Mont before Viv—I mean Kate—said she was his wife!" explained Jimmy, none too clearly.

"Hold on now!" The Mayor shouted. "Let's get this straight. Do you want to marry Mont Wallace?"

"I sure do" spoke up Sunny.

"And you, Jimmy Hanlon—you want to marry this girl?"

"I want Natalie more than anything else in the world!" came Jimmy's firm assurance.

"And how about you?" asked His Honor, turning to Vivian, now known as Clark Street Kate, the Shake-Down Queen.

"I can't get married—yet" was Kate's rueful reply. "My husband is doing a two-to-four-teen stretch at Stateville and he won't give me a divorce!"

"That's enough!" cut in the Mayor. "Now if you two couples will line up here for about five minutes, we'll get the matrimonial part of this party over and start in where we left off!"

"Why you old darling!" cried Natalie.

"I wouldn't have it any other way!" assured Jimmy.

"Isn't it just perfect?" was all Sunny could say as she smiled into Monty's eyes.

"Happy landings!" came Monty's gay reply.

Occupations Of A Lady.

Silk-making in West Texas may seem a bit queer, but according to a report on the early industries of the state, the cultivation of silk worms had a bright future. The description says that "The mulberry tree is of common growth and thrives vigorously in Western Texas, the climate of which is well adapted to the rearing of silk worms." According to this writer one of the best aspects of the situation was that the silk industry "would afford an easy and advantageous occupation to females and children."

Lighting Tips

When somebody trips on a lamp cord and the shock makes the lamp bulb go out suddenly, the bulb can often be made to work again by tapping it sharply with the finger. During the long winter nights most of us like to read. Be sure you have adequate light, well-shaded. Try a few experiments by placing floor and table lamps in different positions around the room. Very often you will be pleasantly surprised to find a new arrangement gives better illumination and often creates a welcome change.

Pattern 8031 is designed for sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 requires 4 1/2 yards of 39-inch material and 3/4 yards of bias to trim.

PRACTICAL FOR KITCHEN Pattern 8031. Choose this frock for its pretty lines, the slim Princess silhouette and for its practical character. You can slip into it as you would a coat and feel prettily dressed all through the busy hours of the day. This front closing from neck to hem is important, too, for the simplicity it gives to the ironing problem. You can put this dress on the board as you would a man's shirt, and iron it smooth in a few long strokes. Choose one of the lovely new chambrays for this dress and trim it, as pictured, in a contrasting braid.

For PATTERN, send 15 cents in coin (for each pattern desired) your name, ADDRESS, STYLE NUMBER and SIZE to: Pauline Dow, Hico News Review Pattern Dept., 115 7th Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

LETTERS from Our Readers

WHAT IS THE ANSWER?

I have an old song book, "Sacred Harp," that has a song the title of which is "I Am a Great Complainer." I am frank to admit I am badly afflicted with that trouble. It appears most of the human family is afflicted more or less with that same trouble. The people of our nation are complaining the government, some saying they reckon our officials are going to let us starve, even while food is abundant. It appears to me our officials are doing their utmost to provide food and raiment for the unfortunate in this time of unrest and trouble around the world.

One trouble with us, we have been living so fast it would be hard for the ones in power to give us enough to satisfy us in this fast age. If the young of this day had to go through what the writer did in his childhood, probably they wouldn't think they were having such a hard time.

Just before the Civil War closed the "Yankees" marched through our section of Georgia. They took about all our people had to eat. Soon after this the war closed. Father came home with his health gone. Soon our mother died, leaving Father with eight children, and nothing to feed them. Many times would we sit down to corn-bread and water. When I was little I would get real hungry and not a bite of bread on the place. I have gone to the garden and pulled off collard leaves and eaten them. I was so hungry, and how much better they would have been with bread.

And according to news reports some in our beloved nation are in that condition now, not because of scarcity of food, but because people can't get work to do. I can tell the world what has caused this condition, but can't give a remedy, and don't believe any other man or set of men can.

When I was a boy we would go from six to eight times to plow out a corn middle. We used what we called Guano under all our cotton; in all go six times to put in the Guano and bed the land, then it was ready to plant. Then I have seen the cotton get so grassy with much of it in a bed of flint rock. I have put in four days of about as hard work as I ever did to clean out an acre of cotton that was in that condition. So young fellows, don't complain about having to work so hard. Yes, we worked in those days. My wife and some sisters helped their father clear land, cut large trees, cut off rail cuts 10 feet long, split them into rails; helped build the fence; then at night help their mother card and spin thread to make their clothes. But how is it now? Plow two to four rows at a time. And now I hear them advertising a cotton chopper to do the work of six men. They have a machine to gather corn in the corn belt—one in which one man can do the work of six men we are told. The men used to go from here North to work in the wheat harvest. A man was telling me he got five dollars a day and had got as high as seven dollars a day. The combine had taken that work from the laboring man.

When I was young in Georgia there were two railroads, but in our section most of the dirt was moved with man power, at a wheelbarrow. It carried a longer distance, it was done with mules and a dump cart. Much labor is being saved in the auto building with machines. Will they ever go back to the slow ways I have mentioned?

The one and only answer is, no. What our Brain Trust will do about this tangle, we will just have to wait and see. This great strife between Capital and Labor is a big problem, and how it will ever be adjusted the Lord only knows. I wouldn't even venture a guess.

But I am trying to quell being such a complainer. David said, "Trust in the Lord and do good, and verily thou shall be fed." I believe that's a good motto.

M. P. WALKER.

EVERYTHING FINE

Port Lavaca, Texas, Jan. 16, 1938. I am writing a line to say that everything is all O. K. down here. We are having some fine sunshine—first in a long time. It is warm like spring. Been here twenty days. Been mud and water ever since I got here. Rained on us all day the day I came. I think I will like this country fine if it will stay dry. Some difference in this country and Hico.

I see Hico is improving since I left. I knew something would happen. Hope everybody is well. All got the mumps down here and more colds than I ever saw.

Met lots of people, like them fine. Don't seem like Hico here, but it is fine.

Read the Hico paper, like it fine. Hello, Everybody.

MAJOR FRANCIS YEATS-BROWN What the Movies Didn't Tell About The Bengal Lancer

One afternoon about ten years ago, a slim, serious young English man by the name of Yeats-Brown sat before my fireplace in Forest Hills and kept me spell-bound for hours with tales of his adventures in the mystic and fabled lands of the East. He was thirty-nine years old then; and ever since he was nineteen, he had seen death on many battlefields.

He had been a prisoner of war in Bagdad and Constantinople. He had fought the Turks on the scorching hot desert sands of Mesopotamia, and he had fought the Germans on the muddy fields of Flanders. He had written a book, "The Bloody Ten Years," and yet, like Lawrence of Arabia, I found him a quiet, soft-spoken English gentleman more interested in poetry and philosophy than in fighting.

He hadn't lived just one life like the most of us. In his thirty-nine years, he had lived many lives—in fact, when he finally wrote the story of his hectic career in which he related many of the things he told me that afternoon, he called the book, "The Lives of a Bengal Lancer." It was the sensational success of 1930. And it made one of the most engrossing films that ever came out of Hollywood. But, like most Hollywood films based on biographies, it deviated very, very far from the facts of Yeats-Brown's astonishing career.

Francis Yeats-Brown was only nineteen years old when he first put on the dazzling blue and gold uniform of the Royal Bengal Lancers—the proudest and lordliest cavalry in all the far-flung dominions of his Britannic Majesty. They were a picked body of men, the crack regiment of India, these Bengal Lancers. Their pay was almost nothing—something like ten dollars a month—and they had to supply their own horses and their own equipment. But they didn't go out there to Mother India for gain. These darling young men of England. They went there for glory—went out there imbued with the spirit that carried Kitchener and Chinese Sir Walter Raleigh to the ends of the earth.

I asked Yeats-Brown to tell me of his narrowest escape from death. He said it occurred one day while he was out "pig-sticking." He and his men had flushed a great boar out of the brambles. The boar pig was racing across the field, his huge tusks glistening in the sun. Yeats-Brown, mounted on his polo pony, was in hot pursuit. Just as he drove his spear into the pig, his horse stumbled; and horse, pig and Yeats-Brown went down in a screaming whinnying, helpless mass of tangled legs and clashing forefeet. Yeats-Brown was pinned under his kicking horse; the pig impaled upon the spear, was struggling to get up. The horse heaved. And the pig got loose just as Yeats-Brown leaped to his feet and a rescue party rode up. He had lost a tooth, sprained a thumb, and was bruised and mashed from head to foot.

But I suppose the strangest episode in Yeats-Brown's strange career was the time he disguised himself as a woman. He had been fighting the Turks in Mesopotamia or "Mesopot" as he called it. He had been taken prisoner by the Turks and had escaped from his vermin-infested cell in Constantinople, but had not been able to get out of the city. The Turkish authorities were searching for him frantically.

Naturally they were looking for an English officer, so they never suspected a German governess who used to meet a Russian prince in one of the cafes. The Russian prince was also being watched by the authorities, but sentimental Turks hadn't the heart to interfere with a little harmless flirtation. So when Yeats-Brown, all dolled up as a German governess, in a picture hat, with a veil, a black fox scarf around his shoulders and a muff over his hands, mimed into the cafe, the Russian prince would jump to his feet, bow respectfully and kiss the lady's hand. And the Turkish detectives would smile at one another knowingly and shrug their shoulders. After all, even a suspect Russian prince was entitled to a little romance.

He was unable to get out of Turkey disguised as Made-moiselle Josephine, so he played under another role. Overnight, he changed his sex and nationality and became a Hungarian mechanic who had lost his job in a munition factory. He grew a small, turned-up mustache, and wore a derby hat, a pair of steel-rimmed glasses, a stained white vest, and a pair of shoes with elastic sides. Actually he looked like a second-rate comedian, but the Turks never doubted that he was the real McCoy.

In a Picture Hat and a Black Fox Fur, the Police Didn't Know Him

BIRTHDAY DINNER

W. A. White, who celebrated his 50th birthday Saturday, Jan. 15, was the honored guest at a birthday dinner the following Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Griffiths of Hico.

Relatives and friends brought food, which was spread and served at the lunch. Relatives present were: Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Voburn and son, Marvin, of Fort Worth; Mrs. A. M. Appleby, Fort Worth; Mr. and Mrs. T. L. White and children, Mrs. E. S. Dinsley and Tom Hamilton; Mr. and Mrs. Tom Griffiths and Joy Ann, Hico; and Gerald Griffiths, Fort Worth.

Friends present were: Mr. and Mrs. W. Logan, Hamilton, and Miss Eloise Williams, Fort Worth. Three children, Mrs. Lou Sharp of Fort Worth, Mr. W. V. White of Petrolia, and Mrs. Cecil Whitten of Los Angeles, Calif., were unable to be present.

Mr. White, a native of South Carolina, was born in Abbeville County, later going to Anderson County where his early days were spent. Too young to enlist in the regular army when the Civil War broke out, he joined the Home Guard, where he saw service for some time. He first came to Texas in 1872, but left again in 1884 to go back to his old home. The next four years he spent in South Carolina, Florida, and Tennessee, returning to Texas in 1888, locating near Waco.

In 1896 he moved to Hamilton County, living at various times at Fottsville, Hamilton, and Hico. Mr. White hopes to live to the century mark, and he is still remarkably strong and active. He spends most of his time at his old farm home on Pecan Creek with his son, T. L. White.

MRS. PROFFITT IS BURIED AT FAIRY

Margaret Elizabeth James Proffitt, seventy years old last October, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Jess Hickman of Carlton, Monday of this week, and was buried from the Baptist Church at Fairy on Tuesday, with interment in the Fairy cemetery, beside her husband who died in 1930.

This aged mother originated in Tennessee. Coming to Texas with her husband, George W. Proffitt, in 1892. Their first settlement was on Falls Creek, where Mrs. Proffitt reared her family and continued to reside until last November. Mrs. Proffitt was the mother of ten children, two of whom preceded her in death: Mrs. Jessie Massengale, and a son, Carl. The remaining children are as follows: Ras and Oford of Hico, Horbart of Hobbs, New Mexico, Mrs. W. L. Appleby of Iredell, Claud of Abilene, Mrs. Jess Hickman and Charlie of Carlton, and Ray of Granbury. Twenty-six grandchildren and three great-grandchildren also survive her. All of these were present at the funeral.

Mrs. Proffitt united with the Baptist Church early in life and lived in that fellowship a faithful life. At the funeral such a crowd was in attendance that the house was full to capacity and numbers of folks stood in the yard unable even to get standing room inside. E. E. Dawson, Baptist pastor of Hico, and S. W. Miller, Baptist pastor of Carlton, jointly held the service. Six grandsons acted as pall-bearers, and six granddaughters were the flower girls. Many out-of-the-county visitors were present for the last rites.

HICO LADY'S SISTER WENT TO WASHINGTON SATURDAY

Mrs. J. E. Williamson of San Antonio, formerly of De Leon, left Saturday for Washington, D. C. to attend the National conference on the cause and cure of war to be held there from January 18 to 21, inclusive. A., the Local Council of Jewish Women, the Business and Professional Women's Clubs, the W. C. T. U., and other local groups which cooperate peace activities into their regular programs.

Mrs. Williamson is a sister of Mrs. J. B. Pool of Hico, and has quite a number of friends here.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH E. E. Dawson, Pastor

Everything was looking up last Sunday, an increased attendance beginning in the Sunday School and marking all the other services of the whole day. The new superintendents are injecting vigor into every department of the work. They desire earnest co-operation and deserve it. They want to enlist you, reader.

All the regular services will be had next Sunday, starting with the Sunday School at 10, worship at 11 and 7:30, and the B. T. U. at 6:30 in the evening. Your welcome is assured before you come—so, come!

Return From West Texas

Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Cheek returned Monday from West Texas, where Mr. Cheek had business, and Mrs. Cheek visited with friends and relatives. Their trip took them to Plainview, Lubbock, Lamesa, and other towns in the West. Mr. Cheek reported business good throughout the territory they visited. They had been gone since the previous Friday.

At Lamesa they visited their son, Geary, who has a job on a farm near that thriving city, and whom they reported to be well satisfied with the country and "very happy about the whole thing."

Singing Convention

Fifth Sunday singing convention will meet January 30, at Union, six miles south of Hamilton. Come as we are expecting some good singers and a good day. Ollie McDermott is president and Hazel Walker is secretary. Dinner will be served on the grounds and everyone is invited.

Sunday School Lesson by Rev. Carlos E. Deane

MINISTERING TO PHYSICAL NEEDS

Lesson for January 23rd. Mark 1:29-45. Golden Text: Mark 1:34.

The Committee on the Costs of Medical Care, of which Dr. Lyman Wilbur was Chairman, estimated that in the prosperous year of 1929 the American people spent about $3,700,000,000 for medical care of every kind, an average of $30 per capita, or $108 a family. This is an enormous sum and ought to assure adequate results. The Committee found, however, that surprisingly large numbers of sick people go without proper treatment. It discloses that 25 to 30 per cent of all cases of serious illness never come under the supervision of a physician and that about half of the families with incomes of less than $2,000 receive no medical care of any kind, although these are precisely the folk who need such attention the most.

This deplorable situation is due to a lack of doctors or nurses for both professions are overcrowded. The trouble is that medical service is now organized on a hopelessly wasteful and chaotic basis. vast sums are being spent in a hit or miss fashion on the stupid assumption that "rugged medical individualism" is preferable to group practice on the co-operative plan. Dr. Wilber's Committee, in its majority report, recommended "that medical service, both preventive and therapeutic, should be furnished largely by organized groups of physicians" centering their activities "preferably around a hospital." The famous Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn., is geared to this technic. A complementary proposal is group hospitalization which operates on an insurance basis.

Our lesson gives a vivid portrait of Jesus as the Master Physician. "He healed many that were sick," says the Golden Text. Were he alive now in the flesh he would be eager to improve the health of mankind by every means available. The emancipation of the people from the curse of disease would be to him a major Christian aim.

Fronts For Japs

"The trouble is that business lacks confidence and is scared..."
—R. E. Wood, Pres., Sears, Roebuck & Co.

"Action by Congress—prompt, immediate and effective—will halt the recession."
—William Green.

NEW YORK CITY... Alix works her magic this time in black silk shifon jersey. This dinner gown is corded at the neck and shoulders and long scarf ends of the fabric are twisted to swathe the body and tie in a huge bow. Barbaric gold metal jewelry is set with colored stones.

NANKING... Bearded Tao Hsi-shan, assuming head of the new Autonomous Commission which is to rule this city under Japanese advisors, denounces the Chinese government formerly in power in Nanking under General Chiang Kai-shek and announces himself head of new city government.

NEW YORK—Symbolizing mankind's control of nature, this large statue will have a prominent place on the $60,000,000 Central Mall of the New York World's Fair 1939. Dozens of statues and murals will turn the pages of history and portray in patriotic themes the rise of the United States to a commanding position in the world's affairs. Two other companion statues will make this group an imposing one.

How to Have More Trivial Accidents

If we are going to have automobile accidents, let's have little ones. It is not such a serious matter when we dent a fender. What we don't want to dent is a skull.

How shall we select for ourselves the smaller or more insignificant or skin-deep or grade "C" accidents? I have a book in my lap, compiled by The Travelers Insurance Company on last year's smashes and crashes. It tells us which kind of accidents are the deadliest. Let's get a line on 'em and avoid THAT kind.

About the surest way to cinch your death in an automobile accident is to mix in a little alcohol. With an intoxicated driver (you or somebody else) at the wheel, your chance of death is greater than with a sober man at the wheel. I mean if you take 1,000 drunk accidents and 1,000 sober accidents there'll be more deaths in the drunk accidents.

Even an intoxicated pedestrian has a better chance of being killed than a sober pedestrian—per accident.

There has been a lot of loose talk about the safety of driving fast. A lot of people think that it is all right to drive fast if they drive "careful." But the figures show that the rate of death per accident which involves exceeding the speed limit is much worse than the average death rate for all accidents due to improper driving practices.

Places, too, have a lot to do with the violence of your accident. The rate of death per accident on highways and at rural intersections is more than 200 per cent greater than on city streets.

Time plays a part, also. The death rate per accident after dark is about 60 per cent worse than during daylight.

May all your accidents be little ones, and they're more apt to be little if you know about and avoid these deadlier spots and practices.

Play Hours Add Pep to Dancers' Stage Work

NEW YORK—On the theory that "all work and no play makes Jill a dull dancer," the playtime hours of the famous Corps de Ballet and the other troupes, the Rockettes, precision dancers of the Radio City Music Hall, are considered almost as important to the girls' performance as the hours they spend in rehearsal. A rooftop playground offers the dancers and all the other employees handball, deck-tennis, shuffleboard and similar outdoor sports. Downstairs, a recreation room and library equipped with soft lounges and all manner of games permits pleasant relaxation between shows.

Although one might question the need of exercise for girls whose careers consist largely of strenuous performances of precision and ballet work, the dance directors of the two groups point out that it is the change that counts—both in the muscles used and in the mental point of view. For example, a boxing dummy provided the Rockettes great sport recently, although it meant hard physical exercise. Again, a mohair "arm-chair swing" was brought in to become the immediate center of attention of members of the Corps de Ballet who had just come off the stage from a whirlwind dance. "Play hard and work better," say the dance directors—and it seems to be a good rule for the average girl who wants to be healthy and beautiful, as well as for the dancers.

Makes Way

WASHINGTON, D. C. ... When Associate Justice George Sutherland retires from the Supreme Bench January 18, his place will probably be taken by a "liberal." As Sutherland has been accounted a "conservative" the change is expected to mean much to future decisions on New Deal measures. Michigan's *Governor, Murphy; Texas Representative, Hatton W. Sumners; Harvard's Felix Frankfurter have all been rumored possible successors to Sutherland.

Shirley Salutes National Milk Week

WHILE motion picture stars are noted for their dependence on milk in the diet, most consistent of Hollywood milk fans is the nation's favorite—Shirley Temple.

Throughout the country from November 14th to 20th millions of dairy farmers, milkmen and their customers honor the country's 25,000,000 dairy cows which provide the "most nearly perfect food."

The medical profession has repeatedly emphasized that a larger per capita consumption of milk would improve the general level of public health while governments have urged larger per capita milk consumption as a means of improving economic conditions as well as the health of their people.

It has been reliably estimated according to the Milk Industry Foundation that 3,000,000 people in this country are alive today because of the improvement in purity resulting from added cleanliness and sanitary precautions of both producers and milk companies in the last two and a half decades.

The objectives of National Milk Week with its slogan "Keep Youthful—Drink Milk" are to make the public more conscious of the importance of milk in the diet and to suggest an extra glass of milk per person every day during Milk Week.

An extra glass of milk daily translated into dollars would mean an increase of more than $5,000,000 in dairy farmers' pockets.

Helps Conquer Measles

NEW YORK CITY... Dr. Jean Broadhurst, Professor of Bacteriology, Columbia, announces the location of the virus causing measles, one of the most common communicable diseases. Doctors may now identify and isolate cases several days earlier than before, thus detecting carriers and opening way to control and prevention of the disease by vaccines.

WHY NOT CLUB MET SATURDAY

The Why Not Club met with Rachel Marcum Saturday afternoon. Some of the girls went to the show and the others were at the Poultry show, but at 4:00 they went to Rachel's and talked and gossiped.

Refreshments, consisting of olives, potato chips, ritzs, toasted cheese, cookies and hot chocolate were served to Daisy French, Jane and Jean Wolfe, Ann Persons, Marguerite Vickery, Eileen Christopher, Katherine Massingill, Mary Jane Clark and the hostess, Rachel Marcum.

CIVICS CLASS VISITS STEPHENVILLE COURT

MAPS MADE WILL RETURN OF HICO

Five members of the civics class, with the aid of Mr. Brown, drew maps of the city of Hico and the city of Hico as it should be.

The pupils were divided into the following pairs, the first of each group drawing Hico as it is and the last of each group drawing Hico as it should be: Meredith Woods, Roline Forgy; Max Ragsdale, Kenneth Brown; Derwood Polk.

Each pupil received an extra grade for this outside work and several were exhibited at the poultry show.

WILL RETURN JANUARY 31

The Civics class went to Stephenville Monday morning to attend court, with Mr. Brown as Sponsor.

First case on the docket was the case of C. F. Jeske, accused of assisting three robberies of Comanche county. The case was postponed until Jan. 31, because the attorney for the defense, Thomas F. Robinson, was disqualified on that case.

Members of the Economics class next term will probably visit the court on that day.

BURSDAY THERPERS MET THURSDAY

The Bursday Therpers were entertained Saturday night with a party at Sarah Frances Meadors. Each member was permitted to invite one boy, but some invited two or three. Games were played until 9:30, and then pop corn was served to the guests present.

At 10 o'clock almost everyone left. But three couples stayed until after 12, playing Pig. Those present at least once during the night were Roberta McMillan, Carroll Anderson, Mary Brown, Mary Ella McCullough, Golden Ross, Louise Blair, Priscilla Rodgers, Ruby Lee Ellington, Jaunita Freeman, Sonny Leath, Raymond Hefner, Babe Horton, Joseph Paul Rodgers, Richard Little, Eugene Hackett, Eugene Lane, Derrill Elkins, Joe Powers, A. Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Gosdin, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hughes spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Bill Helm.

Mr. Henry Horton was born July 9, 1896, in Eulogy, and died in a Sweetwater hospital Jan. 12, following an emergency operation for ruptured appendix. His mother, Mrs. Mary Squires, was with him when he died. He lived in and around here for several years. For the last 3 years he was living with his niece, Mrs. J. C. Oliver, of Devide. Mr. Horton was a war veteran, having been in the 90th Division. Besides his mother, he is survived by his widow of Hico and 5 children, one son at Gatesville, Mary, Roland, Burrell with their mother, and Wanda and Vaughan at Iredell with their grandmother, Mrs. Squires. He also leaves 4 sisters, Mrs. John Pruett of Iredell, Mrs. Della Phillips of Crystal City, Mrs. Mittie Squires of Longworth, and Mrs. Jane Phillips of Eulogy. Mr. Horton and family lived here for some time and has many friends here, as he was well known. The body was brought here by Mr. Barrow and the funeral was held at the Baptist church Saturday morning at 11 by Rev. Bennett who delivered a comforting message to the bereaved. The casket was opened and all looked at him, and he looked very natural. To him the sorrows and trials are over and we trust that he is at rest. The pallbearers were some of the men who were in the war. The remains were laid to rest in the cemetery east of town. He will be greatly missed by his loved ones and friends who extend sympathy to the bereaved.

Lewis Smith visited Albert Hayes south of Iredell Wednesday night.

Mrs. Lucille Smith, who has been in Dallas the past two weeks taking treatment, came home Saturday. Mr. Smith and Mrs. Tony Meadows went over Friday after her. Mrs. Cybalene Sawyer went as far as Glen Rose with them and spent Friday night with her mother, Mrs. Eunice Thrash. Mrs. Smith returned to Dallas Monday where she will continue the treatments two more weeks. We hope she will soon be well again.

A. B. Sawyer and wife, Lynn Sawyer and Cas Bowman and wife, visited in the Otto Bowman home a short while Friday night, enjoying radio programs from their new radio.

Marielle Harper visited Georgetown Harris Saturday night and Sunday.

Mrs. A. B. Sawyer spent Monday afternoon with Mrs. Ella Newton and Mrs. Ima Smith.

Mrs. Rachel Harris spent Friday with Mrs. Minnie Perkins.

Mrs. Fannie Sawyer and Mrs. Joe Tidwell visited Mr. and Mrs. Bud Smith and children, W. B. and Billie, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Whitley and children and Mr. and Mrs. John Tidwell also were visitors there Sunday.

JOTS.... JOKES & JINGLES

JENNIE MAE

L. A. Powledge was in the office early Saturday morning to "look over the new Dink." He didn't appear overly enthusiastic, but thinks maybe she'll do. With him he had a sack of corn, 61 ears of which made a bushel. He challenges anyone anywhere to produce corn as fine as this, and if they do produce it, he wants some seed.

Dink, erstwhile purveyor of news around here, and about as famous in her line as Lloyd's of London in theirs, still has printer's ink in her veins. Every once in a while she drops in to leave a news story or money for the paper to be sent to someone.

Jimmie Durante defines Broadway as a place where you stand while you wave goodbye to your friends who are enroute to Hollywood. It's a swell place — for memories.

Mable Bailey and Mrs. J. T. Mobley were in Fort Worth Sunday to visit the Forest Park Zoo. Mable said she had to pay her respects to the relatives sometime. Now we wouldn't exactly have said that, but why did they have to lay it on the kids—we mean their excuse for going?

J. L. Goodman, the Iredell "boy who made good," was the object of a very nice compliment we heard the other day. A business man in town said he admired the style of ads J. L. ran to advertise his tailor shop. He didn't try to say too much, but always seemed to get over to the public the fact that his shop gave courteous, efficient service and appreciated your business.

Mrs. Wallace Petty, who has been on probation as far as her news-giving ability is concerned, is just about to emerge a full-fledged news thinker-upper. And this is not the only thing she does well. She keeps up to the minute on fashions and can assist you with your problems in that line.

The next time we wander in the door after lunch and the editor very airily asks us if we had fried chicken for dinner when we fasted on goose liver sandwiches — warning to an editor with good intentions.

Mr. A. T. McFadden and Mr. J. W. Richbourg are busy every time you pass them, stopping just long enough to patiently show you anything in the line you are interested in. They got off to a good start with an attractive window display.

Something you may not all know about the film, "The Bombing of the Panay," which will appear at the local theatre next Sunday and Monday is that in its long journey across the Pacific it was insured for $300,000, and that today the man who filmed it, Norman Alley, would be $50,000 richer if he had not been such a good sport. He brought news reels taken by other photographers along to America with his own, and for this gesture his company decided not to give him the $50,000 bonus.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul McCullough, of Goldthwaite, announce the birth of a son, Paul Michael, Tuesday morning at Stump Hospital in Brownwood. Hugh McCullough reports that the mother and baby are doing fine and Paul is expected to recover.

Two columnists met in the office of the Hico News Review Thursday for the first time. One, comparatively new at the game, was strangely silent, while the other, a veteran, admittedly born with a natural talent for writing, offered a few bits of advice. We salute versatile Stella Jones, who not only writes news, but em-broiders, leads an extensive social life, skates, takes an active part in church work, and writes short stories.

Folks you know: S. J. Cheek, Jr., hunting cigar boxes to make the chairs higher for his younger customers — Margaret Ross, sporting a diamond ring on — yes, the right finger — the dream I had last night, that there would be a PWA, an NYA, or some kind of government check for all those who have spoken words of en-

HELP KIDNEYS

To Get Rid of Acid and Poisonous Waste

Your kidneys help to keep you well by constantly filtering waste matter from the blood. If your kidneys get functionally clogged and fail to remove excess impurities, there may be poisoning of the whole system and body-wide distress.

Burning, stinging or too frequent urination may be a warning of some kidney or bladder disturbance.

You may suffer sagging backache, persistent headache, dizziness of dizziness, swelling up thighs, swelling, puffiness under the eyes — feel weak, nervous, all signs of acid.

In such cases it is better to rely on a medicine that has won country-wide acclaim than on something you have never known. Use Doan's Pills. A multitude of grateful people recommend Doan's Kidney Pills.
