

The FEUD at SINGLE SHOT

By Luke Short

First Installment

On the second seat from the front of the coach, facing forward, two cowpunchers were hunkered down, apparently asleep, for it was night. Their backs were to the poker game being played across the aisle by three cowpunchers and a professional gambler on two up-sided sofas.

The gambler, a young man, glanced up. "Here comes Hoagy." The players did not betray they had heard him until the middle-aged brakeman, Hoagy Henshaw by name, passed beside the game. The cowpuncher whose back was to Hoagy slipped his hand down.

"Three Johns, gents, and a pair of bullets." Then, as if he had interrupted himself in the midst of a story, he continued: "—And this Jasper with the set of the size of a loadin' chute turns to the brakie, real polite-like, and says: 'So there is a law agin' poker playin' on a train. Is they?'"

"What did the brakie say to that?" a second cowpuncher, seated next to the speaker, inquired innocently. "The brakie said, 'It's a law, my friend. Not that I care if you play poker on a train, I'd like to play it with you.' And this Jasper Big Foot whips out a plow handle and says, 'Now ain't that fine! Jest set down.' The brakie sets down and they dealt him a hand after he'd bought in the game."

"Well, when the brakie'd been cleaned, Big Foot says, 'Mebbe you'd like a loan?' real meanin'-like. The brakie says sure. They plays for another hour, the brakie still losin'. When they comes to Big Foot's stop, he looks around. 'How much am I into you?' he asks the brakie. 'Fifty dollars, ain't it, bozo?' The brakie says yes and Big Foot looks around the car. 'Danged if old Henry couldn't use these here plush cushions on that ore-wagon of his,' Big Foot says. Well, almost everybody he knew was freightin' ore. He just helped himself to half the seats in that car."

The second cowpuncher looked up. "Hello, Hoagy. Like to sit in?" "Me?" Hoagy said, with well-feigned astonishment. "Hell, no. I was never so busy in my life. You fellows go ahead and have your fun."

He retreated, shaking his head soberly. The gambler, seated next the aisle, laughed silently at Hoagy's back. He built a cigarette with quick and sure fingers, shaking his head. His wide-set blue eyes roamed across the aisle to include the two cowpunchers in the joke, but they were still asleep. His eyes trailed to the one figure seated against the end of the car. He saw only a surly-faced cowpuncher looking out the window into the night. From a loose mouth a soiled cigarette drooped, curling smoke up into unblinking eyes. Cupped hands held a match preparatory to lighting the cigarette.

The gambler's eyes narrowed a little as he watched the man light his already burning cigarette. Observed now, the gambler was still-faced, quiet. He was perhaps in his early thirties. A close observer might have noticed with surprise that the wrinkles around his eyes were of the kind that spider-webbed from the outer corners, sun-wrinkles, instead of the kind that pouched the lower lids.

When the gambler saw the cowpuncher light still another match, he turned to his seat mate, mouth open to speak. "The man next to him had changed his mind, evidently, for the man had a sullen, almost chinless, face, so clean-shaven that it looked raw. He was a cowpuncher, in his middle thirties, whose continual scowling had worn creases in his forehead and soft loose face.

"Let's play stud," he growled. Finney yawned, stood up. "I'm startin' a game of draw back here if anybody wants to buy in," he announced. The chinless cowpuncher flushed but did not make a move. Finney cashed in a few chips, nodded to the gambler and left, followed by his companion. The gambler nodded also, then lounged back in his seat. He heard the door behind him open, and idly guessed that the match-lighting smoker had gone out. The door had not swung shut five seconds before one of the sleeping cowpunchers, a six-foot red-head, the gambler noticed, stood up, wide awake, stepped over to his partner and went out also with a kind of tense haste.

The gambler's companion moved to the seat facing the gambler and picked up the cards. "How about a showdown?" he asked. The gambler shook his head. "Finney's startin' a game down in back if you still feel like it." "You're a gambler, ain't you?" "When I'm at a table, yes." The gambler looked across the aisle. When his eyes turned, they were staring into the steady muzzle of a Colt in the hands of the chinless cowpuncher. "I say we'll play cards."

"I reckon not," the gambler's speech was a quiet drawl. He saw the eyes of the puncher smear over and watched the thumb start to slide over the hammer.

"Gamblers don't come high in this country, stranger," the puncher replied thickly. The gambler shrugged, but made no movement. "Once more," the cowpuncher said softly, "let's you and me play cards." The gambler shook his head slowly. From across the aisle a gun lanced fire in a deafening explosion. It was followed by a sharp cry from the cowpuncher who drew a bloody, gunless hand to his chest. The gambler was out of his seat like a cat and drove his flat into the face of the cowpuncher.

For the red-head waved carelessly and disappeared over the tinder. He made his way over the catwalk atop the baggage car to the far end, swung down upon the low platform. The door to the baggage car was opened and he lunged in. "That's the rabby," some one said from a group collected around a man lying on the floor. One lamp flickered dimly overhead. Hoagy Henshaw turned around. "How'd you know this stickup was comin' off?" "I was tryin' to sleep and I seen that Jasper in the seat ahead of me signalin' out into the night with matches. He got up. I followed him out. He was tryin' to uncouple the car." "Well, he's dead," Hoagy said, "and nobody saw him do anything out of the way. We got only your word for it."

"He's right, Hoagy," the gambler put in. "I saw the man lightin' matches myself and wondered about it."

"All right, Quinn. I'll take your word for it." He looked at the red-head. "But I'm goin' to talk to the train crew first, before I let you go. There's somethin' funny about this."

Back in the passenger coach the black-haired puncher introduced the gambler to the red-head. "Rosy, this is Martin Quinn." To the gambler he said: "This here is the hero of the train robbery, or the robber. I dunno which. Name's Rosy Rand."

After shaking hands, they all sat down in the gambler's seat. "What was the shot in here, Dave?" Rand asked. "Turner here—" Quinn began. Suddenly, he stood up and glanced around the car. "He's gone. He hightailed it while we were out of the car." He explained to the red-head what the shooting had been about.

"Who was he? Ever seen him before?" Rand asked. "Turner shook his head. 'There's not a stuffed Stetson hat that didn't think he could choose a gambler on any grounds of his own makin'.'"

Quinn nodded. "That's about it. I used to know an old-timer who said if a gambler changes his name once a month and keeps on the move, he's got an even chance of outliving a dumb rascal."

"Turner laughed. 'And I've heard him say it. It was Dipper-Mouth Hartley, wasn't it?'" "He's the one," Quinn said. "I'd been led to believe he was in the Yuma pen."

"That's where I knew him," Turner said briefly. "Sorry," Quinn said. He studied the two men before him with the acuteness of a man shrewd in the judgment of men. Turner was perhaps ten pounds lighter than Rand, two inches shorter. But they both bore the same stamp, that of quiet men, young, slow in judgment, quick in action.

It mattered not at all to the gambler that Turner had been in prison. A glance at him told Quinn that it had left him untouched. They were both young, perhaps twenty-five, dressed in the soft, off-washed range clothes of waist overalls and blue shirt.

"Blow them lights! It's a stick-up!" he yelled

Turning, he saw a sleepy-eyed cowboy, sitting erect, a six-gun drooping across his knee, a slow grin creasing a long, lean face under raven-black hair.

When the red-head stepped out the train door on to the front platform, the man squatting over the coupling from the platform of the baggage car ahead looked up.

"Howdy," the red-head drawled. "Whadda' you want?" the man growled. "Ain't," was the brief reply. The red-head lounged his even six feet of height against the end of the car. Slowly, the man came erect, his figure squat and shadowy in the light of the turned-down lamp.

"I been watchin' you in there for the last ten minutes," the red-head said. "You was smokin'." You lit that cigarette eight times when it was still goin'. Who's out there, anyhow?"

He jerked his head toward the night. A shot rang out from the inside of the coach. The train gave a sudden buck as the brakes screamed out. The red-head felt himself lifted from the wall. His hands streaked to his guns, swiveled up and exploded. The man on the baggage-car platform slid abruptly to a sitting position, coughing pupily, as the red-head crashed into the end of the baggage car. He took an accurate snap shot at the lantern, then opened the door to the baggage car.

"Blow them lights! It's a stick-up," he yelled, then swung himself to the top of the car. The train had come to a stop now, almost at the top of the grade. The red-head could see horsemen ahead in the glare of the engine light. He crouched on the roof, raced forward, leaped to the ladder, then crouched down. "Let 'em know we're here," a voice growled from the ground beside the baggage car.

"You fool, wait until we're inside. They'll slam that door shut, and we can't blow 'em out. Wait'll Snipe and Clich cut that passenger coach."

Stealthily, the red-head made his way over the coal until he could see down into the engine cab. Two masked men stood facing the fireman and engineer, who had been backed into one window seat. The red-head's action was quick. He slid down the heaped coal, both guns roaring at the two bandits silhouetted against the fire-door. One man pitched his length on the floor plates and the other made a wild, crippled dash for the steps. The red-head heard him sprawl on the ground.

"Get goin'!" the red-head commanded briefly. The engineer leaned against a lever which brought forth a rumbling shudder. The red-head dragged the limp form of the bandit from in front of the fire-door and dumped him off the train.

There was a running fire as the train labored into motion, most of it directed toward the engine. Glass tinkled down to the floor and the engineer swore wrathfully. The red-head sent a couple of shots into the night, then looked ahead as he did so for the top of the grade, which was close now.

As they nosed over it, he turned and faced the engine crew. The train was gathering speed steadily as it swung over the top. "What do you reckon is on behind?" "They're all there. I can tell by the way she pulls," the engineer said. He mopped the sweat from his brow with a grimy handkerchief. "There was three mine pay-rolls in that baggage car safe, and if they don't give you one of 'em, son, then—"

The sentence went unfinished.

Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the blood clean and free of poisons that would otherwise build up in the body. When the kidneys fail, the blood is no longer clean and the body is in danger. Urine is the waste product of the body. It is the kidneys that filter out the poisons from the blood. If you are suffering from any of the following conditions, it is a sign that your kidneys are not working properly: Headaches, backaches, stiffness of the joints, swelling of the feet, difficulty in urinating, and a general feeling of weakness. Doan's Backache Kidney Pills are the best remedy for all these conditions. They are gentle and safe, and they will give you relief in a short time.

Falls, the pilot, scanned the blue. I think, he said, I can make it through.

Above the hangar, a threatening cloud; The rain beat down on the anxious crowd.

And all about were eager eyes, Watching the plane, scanning the skies.

They lifted her nose, Waco bound, Headed northwest, then circled around.

Off with letters to every state To friends, to relatives, to lovers and great.

In the future when good friends meet Talk will drift to yesterday's feat. Someone is bound to relate the tale Of Hancock and Falls, flying the mail.

Come, my friends, drink a toast of wine To the two best pilots on the Hico line.

Fishing was good. For several hours Tullus Randalls drifted about in the boat, pulling up a nice-sized cat every few minutes.

Two strings of fish were anchored to the side of the boat. He had promised himself that he was going to take The Flying Jenny some fish the next time he caught some, but a fellow has to make such things all right with his wife.

He turned to Mrs. Randalls. "Think I'll take all the biggest ones and put them on a string and take it to Jots and Jingles," he said.

"O. K. Let's do," she replied, and set about helping him select the nice ones for that string.

All said and done he stepped out of the boat, put his fish in a container and reached over the side of the boat for Miss Merry-Go-'Round's.

Just then an awful thing happened. He woke up.

This week the Hico Review Club received three books for use in the library from a former News Review editor (1910-1920), Wilson Straley. Through the courtesy of Mr. Fred B. Robinson of Waco, he had been privileged to see a copy of the News Review, from which he learned of the existence of a library here. Mr. Straley issued one of these books while he lived in Hico, and the other he put out after moving to Kansas City, Missouri, where he still lives. The library is happy to accept this gift from Mr. Straley. Part of his letter to the librarian is quoted: "Mrs. Straley and I have a warm feeling for Hico, as it was there we spent the ten best years of our lives; where our children were born; and where we made a host of friends. We are always pleased to learn of every advancement that the cleanest little city in Texas makes. Our personal regards to all." We take this time to extend to Mr. and Mrs. Straley a very sincere invitation to come back for a visit to our "little city" and to the library.

Episode Two of the fishing yarn. Tullus Randalls went fishing Tuesday and brought back a nice string of fish. Mrs. Randalls help me fill the sink with water and corral the things until someone who could skin them got home. I had them for supper Wednesday night, and thought they were about the best I ever ate. Imagine my disappointment the next day when a man "in the know" told me he had bought them off a fish wagon.

We might tell you here that it costs a nickel every time you ask the boys at Ras Proffitt's Magnolia Station where Aubrey Duzan is.

People who have seen the movie, "Test Pilot," will understand why Miss Jewell Shelton stuck her gum on the plane, "Miss Hico," just before it took off for Waco Thursday morning. In the show Spencer Tracy always stuck his gum behind the cockpit of Clark Gable's plane to bring him luck. The only time he failed to dispense of his gum in this manner, the plane crashed. The safe return of the pilots Thursday afternoon is sufficient evidence of the results of this gesture.

Here and There: Dr. Hall, jumping puddles of water... Mr. Wiseman, watching the rain... Harvesting activities going on in the vicinity of Fairy... A. T. KARL CROWLEY

Gubernatorial Candidate, Charges Radio Is Unfair.

In a furious verbal blast, Karl A. Crowley, candidate for governor, this week challenged the right of what he termed "monopolistic radio over-lords" to censor his radio speeches, turning hard upon station WOAI, San Antonio, over which his address was to have originated and been broadcast over the Texas Quality Network Tuesday evening.

Crowley, having recently resigned the post of Solicitor General of the Post Office Department and returned to Texas to further his campaign, sharply represented the stipulation of WOAI and associated stations that he submit his radio scripts several days ahead of the program date to attorneys Boyle, Wheeler, Gresham and Terrell and agree to permit them to refuse, revise or censor the speech.

Campaigning through West Texas during the past week, Crowley spoke Monday night at Del Rio. He is scheduled to visit San Antonio later in the week, and then go to Dallas and Fort Worth.

Frank Falls left late Thursday for San Antonio to attend the convention of Young Democrats, to be held at the Gunter Hotel Friday and Saturday. Mr. Falls is permanent chairman of the Young Democratic Club of Hamilton County.

Kal Segrist of Dallas is spending several days here visiting friends and relatives.

Mrs. F. M. Richbourg and sons, F. M. Jr. and Horace Clinton, of Abilene, are visiting this week in the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Richbourg.

Ginger Rodgers, who stepped to fame in the movies from a start made through winning a Charleston contest in Texas, will reply personally to all fan letters sent her during Airmail Week.

Prophecy

PAN-AMERICAN AIRWAYS
Fort Worth, Tex., Apr. 22, 1938.

Dearest Allynne: Congratulations! How does it feel to be Mrs. Dan Holladay after being only an old maid? You were kinda fast though, weren't you? After all you only went with him nine years, steady. Really I was certainly surprised to read you had actually given your type of the line I watched her closely; then upon boarding the ship she spoke! Instantly I recognized her—the former Mary Jane Clark—just returning from Reno where she had recently obtained a divorce from a wealthy financier in order to return to her home town to marry her childhood sweetheart, "Jack," she said. "I'm joining very well in the grocery business and with what I have gotten from my ex-husband I think we can live in the style to which I have been accustomed."

The conversation drifted back to our Senior year of school, and as she had recently been visiting in Hico she told me of the classmates who still remained in or near the old home town. C. A. Giesecke had finally, after persistent courting, wed Marie Linch and lived on the old home place outside of Hico. Marguerite Vickrey is still in Hico and she thought, in the poultry business. Eileen Christopher has realized her highest ambition—stenography work. She has been for the past eight years employed as stenographer for the Hico Electric Co. There have been some rumors of her marrying the boss, Erma Dee Homer.

The next morning at my hotel I rang a bell for the boy to run an errand for me. Who should it be but Joe Powers, a very handsome one indeed. He handed me the morning paper and pointed to the name of the assistant editor, the name being that of Roline Forgy. The shock of so many classmates popping into my life so suddenly had me rather dizzy but I was due for another. Kenneth Brown had turned lawyer and had recently obtained the acquittal of A. T. McFadden on a blackmailing charge brought by Meredith Woods. Roline had spread it across the front page of the paper.

As I left the hotel, a taxi drove up and the driver said, "Cab Miss? What a familiar voice! I got in and looked at my driver. The recognition was instantaneous. Max Ragsdale of all people! I very nearly fainted. I told him of all the others I had seen and he said I might as well see one more of them, that he was to marry her when he got another job but that he guessed they could wait a little while longer as they had only been engaged about five years. His fiancée was none other than Katherine Massingill—a nurse at the Smithing Hospital!

Who should be our co-pilot but O. W. Hefner. O. W. told me that Cecil Ogle had crashed the gates in Hollywood, no, not another Clark Gable, but another Charlie Chaplin. Suddenly I thought of Bill Nix and asked about him. "Oh," he said, "Bill is keeping books in some bank and the former Nadine Perry (present Mrs. Bill Nix) is keeping house for him." There was

History

Eleven of the present twenty-six Seniors began together in the first grade here. Kenneth Brown, Ann Persons, Joe Powers, Mary Jane Clark, Marie Linch, Erma Dee Homer, O. W. Hefner, Katherine Massingill, A. T. McFadden, Jr., and Eileen Christopher were joined by the following in the second grade: Roline Forgy, Allynne Roberson from Fort Worth, and Jane and Jean Wolfe from Carlton. After Max Ragsdale came into the third grade from Duffau, none joined us for two years. Two of our students left the next year: Kenneth Brown went to Austin, and Allynne Roberson went to Millerville. Meredith Woods joined us in the seventh grade.

Five students arrived in the eighth grade, and one left. Kenneth Brown returned from Austin; Geraldine Elkins came from Fort Worth; C. A. Giesecke, Allynne Roberson, and Bill Nix came here from Millerville; but A. T. McFadden moved to Stephenville. Jack Hollis joined the class the following year, with Billy Collier's arrival from Camp Branch and Cecil Ogle's arrival from Carlton. A. T. McFadden returned here from Ranger in the tenth grade. This year our class was increased by the enrollment of Jim Wilie from Eant, Dan Holladay, and Nadine Perry.

TRIBUTE OF THANKS
In the final edition of "The Mirror" we feel that there is much to be said. The year 1937-1938 has been a year of pleasure, especially to the Seniors.

First, we wish to thank Mr. Brown for his cooperation with the staff in publication of "The Mirror" and for his cooperation with the class. We feel that no other Senior Class will ever enjoy a school year as much as we have. We all are regretting leaving dear old Hico High School. We also wish to express our sincerest thanks and best wishes to the editor of the Hico News Review for giving us the space for "The Mirror."

Thanks to you, Mr. Brown, and to you, Mr. Holford, for your cooperation with us in the publication of "The Mirror."

REVIEW CLUB ENTERTAINS FOR SENIORS

The senior class and their parents were entertained by the Hico Review Club at a garden party last Thursday night, given on the lovely lawn at the home of Mayor and Mrs. Lawrence N. Lane. The Junior class assisted the Review Club ladies as co-hostesses.

The lawn was beautifully decorated with the class flower, the pink rose, carrying out the class colors, pink and green. As the guests arrived and were assembled, the school orchestra furnished the music. After which the seniors were introduced. Miss Gladys Haltom introduced the seniors with an original poem portraying their individual characteristics. As Miss Haltom introduced them, the seniors came one by one from the house down the carpeted steps to pause beneath an arch of pink roses, where each was presented with a corsage of mock orange blossoms. The audience was then favored with the reading of the senior class prophecy, written by Miss Geraldine Elkins, and read by Miss Allynne Roberson. Meredith Woods read the class poem, his own composition. The valedictorian of the class, Miss Geraldine Elkins, was presented with a memory book by Mrs. H. N. Wolfe for the Review Club. After this Superintendent Ray Brown introduced the speaker of the evening, Deputy State Superintendent H. E. Robinson. Mr. Robinson delivered an address interesting to all, but especially to the senior class, on "Preparing For the Future." Mr. Robinson urged the seniors to make the most of their advantages and to overcome their disadvantages.

After the program the guests enjoyed refreshments of punch and cookies. The junior girls presided at the punch bowl.

BURSDAY THURPERS

The Bursday Thurpers met last Thursday evening with Priscilla Rodgers. The chief activity was centered around the Annual Refreshments of sandwiches and pop were served to the following members present: Mary Ella McCullough, Mary Brown, Golden Ross, Ruby Lee Ellington, Letha Mae Beaman, Sarah Frances Meador, Carroll Anderson, Roberta McMillan, and Priscilla Rodgers.

EDITORIAL
In behalf of the Senior Class, it can be said that this has been the happiest year of our school years. The teachers have been friends and made our last year a pleasant one. The underclassmen have been very good to us and cooperated in every way possible; therefore we wish that they may enjoy their coming years as we have the past ones.

The old school-house, to many, is just a building on a hill—a place of hard work and drudgery. If you are a friend, you will make friends and it will be a place of happiness and good will. When you know you have only one more week of school, it becomes a dear place that you hate to leave.

We wish happiness, friendship, and smooth sailing, for the Seniors to follow. We hope that we have set the examples that these will be proud of.

PRIZES GIVEN TO CONTEST WINNERS

The Hico Business Men's Commercial Club has sponsored a theme contest, "Why I Like to Live in Hico and Its Communities." The prizes were given on the material in the themes and not on construction.

The prizes were $2.00 for first place; $1.50 for second place; and $1.00 for third place.

There was a division in both Grammar and High School by the English teachers.

Donations were made by the following, making the contest possible: W. M. Marcum, R. L. Beaman, W. E. Petty, Max Hoffman, Mark Waldrop, and Frank Fallis.

Winners in grammar school were: First place, Louise Noland; second place, Dorothy Ross; and third place, Jimmie Smithwick.

In High School, the winners were: First place, Mary Ella McCullough; second place, Roberta McMillan; and third place, Dan Holladay.

WHY NOT CLUB

The Why Not Club was organized last year. This was during the summer and the club met on a week day, but after school started, the members decided to meet on Saturday afternoons. The members when organized were: Katherine Massingill, Helon Gamble, Mary Jane Clark, Ann Persons, Jean and Jane Wolfe.

Later Marguerite Vickrey, Eileen Christopher, Daisy and Jeanette French, and Mildred Bonstead were initiated into the club. Then after school was out, Jeanette and Mildred left.

Then Allynne Roberson, Geraldine Elkins, and Margaret Rellihan were initiated this year, making thirteen members.

Jeanette French returned from school and again became a member, making the number of members total fourteen.

FRIEND

To one who in our last years has stood by us, befriended us, and always shown a spirit of good will toward us, Mr. W. A. Brown—school janitor and engineer, we give our thanks and appreciation.

WE TEMPORARILY SUSPENDED BUYING MILK was the packers to whom we were selling our cheese advised us they could not sell their own production, therefore quit buying from us. We tried everywhere to find other markets or buyers, but could not. We then tried separating our milk, selling sweet cream and drying the skim, but were unable to do so at an advantage.

Therefore we had no choice left except to temporarily discontinue buying until market conditions change.

When they do we will come back. We might have continued to buy had we been willing to cut tests, weights and price, but we do not do business that way.

Any statement relative to our recent action other than the above is false and without foundation.

We want to express to the producers and all others that have cooperated with us in such a fine way, our sincere thanks, and trust it will not be long before market conditions are greatly improved so we can resume full and active operations of our plant.

Class Poem

For years our hungry hearts
Have longed often times with Fears
To be a Hico High School Senior
And graduate with cheers.

Eileen is always quiet in her way
A stenographer she'll become;
She cooks with rare ability,
And is a friend to everyone.

Jim's the best guy you'll ever meet
He always plays his part,
He enters into every sport,
And to him it is an art.

Marguerite, an independent little Lad,
Who takes life without a fret,
You can bet she is no baby
Nor a clinging little pet.

A. T. is a model gentleman,
The business type is he;
Will he become a banker,
Or a man of mystery?

Marie, a serious minded lass,
With never a trivla in though Helps the school in any way
And conquers all that's taught.

A stubborn cuss is Dan Holladay,
But really not so bad—
For when he's out in Football,
He's called a hot-cha lad.

Mary Jane, not only Billy Rose's Choece,
To be Texas Sweetheart Number Three,
But also Hico's favorite
And this will always be.

Joe, a dashing caballero,
Stays at Fairy for the test,
Waves his hair at leisure
And always looks his best.

Erma Dee, a delightful lass,
Who loves to have her fun;
She takes part in every sport
And sees that all is done.

Rollie, editor of all the news,
With sports as his salvation,
He'll make a Walter Winchell
On the slightest provocation.

Ann, a merry lass of talent,
Who loves to laugh and play;
We'll see her in the headlines,
A heroine some day.

Though at times Cecil is sedate,
He always likes to swing;
Being late and skipping school
He thinks are quite the thing.

C. A., a star at football,
A guard at any game—
Cause every time he throws a pass
The score is not the same.

Katherine takes her daily exercise
In pepping up the team;
She's led the cheers for two long Years,
And does she make them scream.

Kenneth, one of the Brown's quarter,
A sandyhaired Apollo,
He favors the freshman ladies
But all girls choose to follow.

Max, a swell musician,
Strives with his cor-net;
He's always gay and happy
And lives without a fret.

Allynne, quiet and gay in her own way,
This lady of our class
Is known throughout the school
As a very clever lass.

Geraldine, our valedictorian,
Who trips the light fantastic,
Will always be near
With love that's ever lasting.

Woods is a friendly and likeable
chap,
And will listen to command—
But the world is full of them, you know,
And there is little demand.

O. W. surely loves golfing,
But there is something lacking,
For when you see him on a green,
It's golf sticks he is packing.

Jean, a twin of Hico High,
Has made the honor roll,
And do not get me wrong,
For she's obtained her goal.

Jane's the other twin, you know,
And can she fill the bill?
Those two dark eyes and chocolate hair
Will send through you a thrill.

Billie, a hazy football player,
Ranks high with one sweet lass
And does he watch the sideline
When he is thrown a pass?

Nadine, a delightful, carefree girl,
And really quite the thing;
She has at least six gentlemen
Who say unto her, "Sing."

Bill, the lad from Millerville,
Who ranks high in Citizenship;
He had a scrap with a student
And climaxed our Cavern trip.

Jack, the boy with the cowboy boots,
Has come back from the woolly
West.
His plaid shirt he often wears,
And as a grocer he is doing his best.

my wife!" He was none other than the great Professor Collier.
O. W. gave me a Hico paper and in the school Mirror I read that the Home Economics teacher—Ann Persons—had returned from New York where she had visited Misses Jane and Jean Wolfe. The former is a leading designer for Gloria Vanderbilt and the latter is a reporter on the New York Times.
Did you know that that accounts for every one who was in our Senior Class? I don't guess we've done so bad; at least not you and Dan. More luck. As ever, Geraldine.

32 WARD PUPILS TO BE GRADUATED

The Seventh Grade that is going to High School next year is made up of twenty boys and twelve girls. These children are all energetic, hard-working children. They should be an asset to any High School.

The Grammar School feels a certain kind of sadness to lose such an attractive and energetic group as the thirty-two boys and girls who will enter High School next year. But in spite of our sadness for the loss of this group we are happy for their progress. I am sure it will be many years before the Seventh Grade of 1938 will be forgotten in Grammar School because of the memory of such distinct personalities of the group.

The two with the highest honors are Dorothy Ross with first honors and Betty Jo Anderson with second honors.

We, the Grammar School of Hico School System, cordially invite you to come to the High School Auditorium on the night of May 24, at eight o'clock, to see the passing of one of the most colorful Seventh Grades to High School in the history of Hico Schools.

May success follow them in their High School work.
—R. B. Jackson.

BOYS RECEIVE SWEATERS

The entire High School was called to assembly Monday morning where the basketball boys received sweaters.

The boys have put out much effort this year, as it was the first year in this sport and all who received a sweater were greatly entitled to it.

Those receiving sweaters were:
Dan Holladay, Wayne and Der-wood Polk, Cecil Ogle, Guy and Jim Willie, and Mr. Gilmore, the coach. Much credit must be given
Mr. Gilmore.

JUNIOR NEWS

This being the last week that the Seniors will be with us, the Juniors are planning to entertain them with a sunrise breakfast Saturday morning. Many more entertainments are being planned in the near future for them.

We, the Junior Class of Hico High School, wish to congratulate the Seniors on the work that they have done in high school and for the fine example that they have left us, the Juniors, to carry on by in our Senior year.

We, the Juniors, wish the Senior Class the best of luck and happiness as they go out into the business world.
—Babe.

SOPH NEWS

Since exams are so near at hand the Sophs, under different teachers' supervision, have been reviewing for exams for the past few weeks, believe it or not. So with finals at hand, the Sophs leave you for this week.

SENIOR EXEMPTIONS

Quite a large number of the Seniors have been exempted from all final examinations. The Senior Class has a fair average in grades.
This is shown by the fact that no Senior will be here next year. They will all receive their slip of paper which means to much to them. It takes lots of hard work to get through the four years of High School, especially with flying colors, but the joys take the sting out of the work.

Those exempt from all finals are: Geraldine Elkins, Allynne Roberson, Jean Wolfe, Jane Wolfe,
C. A. Giesecke, and Ann Persons.

FACULTY PLANS FOR THE SUMMER

As summer is near and school is almost over, the teachers have decided where they will spend their vacation.

Mrs. Grimland is going to school at North Texas State Teachers College the first six weeks of her vacation. Then she will spend the remainder visiting relatives, mostly in New Mexico.

Mrs. Segrest will spend the first six weeks in school. She plans to go to North Texas State Teachers College. The remainder of the summer she plans to visit relatives.

Miss Haltom plans to enter college for the summer at Denton, Columbia University, or University of Missouri. She will decide later.
Geraldine Smelly plans to work this summer in the public library.

Miss Wagstaff is not sure just what she will do this summer, but thinks she will enter the University of Texas for the first six weeks; the last part she will spend in East Texas.

Mr. Grimland plans to stay in Hico and put the band on the map, prepare the football team for next year, and get himself

Championship in 1937.
Mrs. Higgins plans to take two courses in correspondence through the University of Texas. She also plans to visit in Louisiana.

Miss Spivey plans to enter State Teachers College at Denton for the entire summer.

Miss La Rue has not yet made up her mind as to what she will do this summer.

Mrs. Holton plans to go to Illinois to visit her children and she will also visit her sister in Alabama.

Mrs. Rainwater plans to remain at home.

Miss Harris plans to enter school in Colorado.

Mr. Jackson is going to Hardin-Simmons University at Abilene.
Besides finishing other work, he will get six hours on his Master's degree.

Miss Milhollin is going to spend the summer at her home in Stephenville.

Mr. Brown plans to stay in Hico and work on his thesis.

CHAS. W. GIESECKE

The cemetery working wasn't as well attended as usual, but some good work was done.

C. W. Giesecke, Jr., of Roaring Springs came through here, staying with his parents, Mr. and Mrs.
C. W. Giesecke, Friday night. He was on his way to Austin on school business. His father accompanied him to Austin. They made the trip Saturday, getting into Hico at 2:30 Saturday evening.

Mrs. Opal Land and Mrs. Willie Smith of Gilmore were here Monday morning assisting in the cemetary working.

Oran Columbus delivered two sermons Sunday, and at night several from Duffau attended the services, Prof. Woods and family, Ewen Ledbetter and family, and L. B. Giesecke and family.

Mr. Albert Cooper of Stamford and Mrs. Dora Starley of Bluff-dale returned to their homes Saturday after visiting Mr. and Mrs.
E. J. Conner for a week. The old gentleman is slightly improved.

Millerville school is out next Friday, May 20. Dinner will be served on the ground, with a play that night. Candidates have the privilege of making announcements.

The wind, hail and rain did a great deal of damage last Wednesday night to crops and farms.

Mr. and Mrs. Orville Glover and son Cody were in Hico Sunday evening.

Mr. Pete Buys has been complaining the past few days. We trust he will soon be in his usual health.

Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Trimble of Duffau visited in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Vincent, Saturday.

WHAT DO MOVIE STARS DO FOR THEIR TEETH?

It stands to reason that Hollywood stars need sparkling, lustrous teeth more than anybody else in the world. And therefore, it is significant that so many famous stars use Calox Tooth Powder. Calox is made specifically to give teeth a real beauty polish. It contains five cleaning and polishing ingredients.

TRY CALOX—FREE!
Because a trial is so convincing we offer you a FREE 10-day trial. See

MRS. H. SMITH

Died Sunday Morning, May 14, At Stephenville Hospital

Mrs. H. Smith, a resident of Hico for over thirty years, who died about 2 o'clock Saturday morning in the Stephenville Hospital from a lingering illness, was buried Sunday afternoon in the Hico Cemetery. Rev. E. E. Dawson, former pastor of the Hico Baptist Church, conducted the services at the home. Two hymns, favorites of Mrs. Smith's, were sung at her request. They were "Lead, Kindly Light" and "Crossing the Bar."

Pallbearers were her four sons, Hudson, Herbert, Everett, and Leslie Smith, and two sons-in-law, Jack H. Hooker and B. L. Blackburn. Flower girls were Misses Mandy Louise Wright, Roberts McMillan, Carroll Anderson, Geraldine Elkins, Margaret Rellihan, Mary Jane Clark, Allyne Roberson, Marguerite Vickrey, Louise Blair, Mary Brown, Mayo Hollis, June Malone, Charlie Faye Simmons, Ann Persons, Louise Coleman of Hamilton.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Smith is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Louise Baldwin of Goose Creek, Mrs. Jack H. Hooker of Dublin, and Mrs. B. L. Blackburn of Dallas, and four sons, Leslie E. Smith of Hico, Everett E. Smith of Fort Worth, M. Hudson Smith of Stephenville, and Herbert V. Smith of Fort Worth.

Other survivors are a sister, Mrs. Anita Allen of Beaumont, a brother, Oliver G. Hudson of Hearne, and eleven grandchildren.

Mrs. H. Smith, nee Eula Clements Hudson, was born in Uniontown, Alabama, November 29, 1875, and came to Texas in 1889, first settling at Fort Worth. She later moved to Kopperl in 1884, where on Jan. 25, 1898, she married Herbert Smith. To this union seven children were born, all of whom survive. The daughter of a Baptist minister, E. E. Hudson, she united with the Baptist church at the age of 12.

Mrs. Smith was a member of the Order of Eastern Star, of which she was a past worthy matron. The large floral offering was evidence of the high esteem in which she was held and of the many friends she had.

Among the out-of-town friends who attended the funeral were the following: J. D. Thaggard, V. D. Thaggard, E. L. Moore, C. S. Smith, Mrs. J. Hubert Smith, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Blocker, Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Bean, Mr. and Mrs. Joe J. Miller, Mrs. Fred Dodd, and Mrs. D. Ewing Estes, all of Fort Worth; H. L. Bradshaw, Waco; George Burris, Temple; R. L. Abbott, Waxahatchie; R. L. Armstrong, Cleburne; J. E. Mahaney, Alvarado.

Little Daughter Dies.

Word was received here this week of the death of little Sylvia Beth Gallagher, age 2, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Gallagher of Mineral Wells. Mrs. Gallagher is the former Miss Johnnie Copeland. The little girl had been ill only two days. She became critically ill Saturday and was carried immediately to Nazareth Hospital in Mineral Wells where she died at 10:45 Sunday morning.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at the First Methodist Church, with the pastor, Dr. Edward R. Carous, conducting the burial rites. Interment was at Union Hill Cemetery.

Sylvia Beth Gallagher is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Gallagher; her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Gallagher, and Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Copeland of Mineral Wells; two uncles, Pat Gallagher and Carlton Copeland of Mineral Wells.

THE REASON FOR THIS CONTEST IS MUTUAL

Even Though There Were No Prizes Given, WE KNOW THAT YOU WILL BE TELLING YOUR FRIENDS ABOUT THIS COTTON CARNIVAL BECAUSE OF THE GREAT VALUES IT IS OFFERING. This, of course, will help your friends save money.

THESE PRIZES ARE GIVEN AS A TOKEN TO THOSE WHO ARE BOOSTING THIS CARNIVAL. The more you boost, the larger the prize. This to be determined by—

VOTES

HOW TO GET THEM

THE FIRST THING TO DO IS TO JUST TELL US YOU WOULD LIKE TO HAVE ONE OF THESE PRIZES. YOU SHOULD DO THIS AT ONCE. If you wait till after the contest starts you are sure to lose some votes that you would get otherwise.

WE WILL GIVE VOTES TO EVERYONE MAKING A PURCHASE AT OUR STORE at the rate of 100 for each $1.00 spent.

EXTRA! EXTRA!

In addition to the low prices throughout the entire store, ALL CUSTOMERS CAN SECURE

$5.00 MERCHANDISE CARDS FOR

$4.75

These cards may be secured from any contestant or from the store management.

To get this discount it is necessary that the card be paid in full in advance of purchase of Mdse. These cards may be traded off immediately—part at a time or any time in the future, as they are the same as cash—and, too—when you buy a card you help your favorite contestant because each $5.00 card sold for $4.75 will bear 500 votes plus regular votes when traded off. A total of 1,000 for only $4.75 spent.

Beginning Friday at 9 A. M.

We will show all customers the names of all persons who have told us they desire one of the prizes. This customer will then specify one of them and the name of the contestant will be written on the ballot—that's all there is to it. The contestant receiving the most votes will receive First Prize. SO TELL US NOW, OR AS SOON AS YOU CAN, THAT YOU WANT YOUR NAME ON THE LIST. OR, IF YOU CAN'T COME, PHONE—BUT START NOW TELLING YOUR FRIENDS IN YOUR COMMUNITY THAT YOU ARE GOING TO HAVE YOUR NAME ON THE LIST WITH PRIZE WINNERS.

— IN FACT —

SOMEONE ELSE CAN PUT YOUR NAME IN FOR YOU. START NOW AND TELL YOUR FRIENDS "WHEN THEY BUY AT PETTY'S, BE SURE AND CAST THE VOTES FOR YOU." Statements like that to your friends will help put you over, and they will enjoy it, too, especially when saving money at the same time.

HICO TEXAS

DOUBLE MILEAGE ON MILEAGE DAYS

WHEN A PURCHASE OF 25c OR MORE IS MADE.

This will be designated by the customer writing his name on the back of the coupon one time on mileage day only.

With an extra effort any contestant should be able to get 10,000 Free Votes which is the limit for each contestant on each registration day. This is an equivalent to $100.00 spent and it takes but 5 people living 20 miles away, to get it, or 10 people 10 miles, or 20 people 5 miles away, or 50 people in town. So don't forget FREE REGISTRATION VOTE DAYS!

All active contestants will be notified of all feature days in advance. However, EVERY DAY UNTIL CONTEST CLOSES YOU CAN GET 100 VOTES FOR EACH $1.00 SPENT or paid on account.

THE MOST IMPORTANT OF ALL is The FREE MILEAGE VOTES

For all adults, in order to give favorite a boost.

Tuesday, May 24th & Thursday, May 26th

NO PURCHASE REQUIRED

Any adult 18 years or older, whether they spend money or not, will be given an opportunity to register their name and the name of their favorite who has entered the contest.

Each registrant is allowed 100 votes for each mile the adult lives from town. Those living in town count 100 votes the same as those living less than 1 1/2 miles; 200 votes for those living 1 1/2 to 2 1/2 miles, etc. on up to 20 miles, which is the limit. All living beyond 20 miles count as transient or travelers, thus giving their favorite contestant 100 votes the same as those living in town. Visitors count from where they are visiting. The only exception to the above rule is when a registrant lives within a 40-mile radius and comes to register through the efforts of a contestant, and an advance notice given by the latter that such persons are expected.
