

Here In HICO

If people over the state knew E. Paul Jones as Texas publishers know him, they would join the fraternity in rejoicing over the news that he has been selected to serve as publicity director of the State Fair of Texas this year.

Paul is not so old in years, but a veteran in service on the publicity end of the Fair, having filled a similar position every year since 1918, except the three years when no State Fair was held on account of the Texas Centennial.

Let no one worry now about the success of the Golden Jubilee Celebration, for Paul with his gilded car and golden descriptions will carry the message to the ends of the earth.

As we see it, and naturally we think we are always right, delay in completing the Chalk Mountain Road connection from Highway 66 through South Texas to Northern parts of the State centered around Fort Worth and Dallas is costing untold sums in traffic deaths and property damage.

State Highway 2 from Waco to San Angelo is similarly congested. Every day you can pick up a paper and read of horrifying raids on the traveling citizenry by the Grim Reaper operating along these overloaded arteries of travel.

If the State Highway Commission and other officials and organizations are sincere in their declaration of war on traffic deaths, as forecast in the announcement of a giant assembly at Fort Worth on June 15th, they can scarcely overlook the opportunity afforded through completion of the short gap necessary to provide a load-lightener for the older and overcrowded highways.

John B. Sullivan, whose main claim to glory in the past has lain in his kinship with Mrs. Stephenville Higgs (nee Miss Johnnie Sullivan of Comanche) and in his success with school work at Hamilton, has enlarged his field of endeavor and for some time has conducted a column in the Hamilton County News.

Sullivan's column was thoroughly enjoyed at this desk, especially when he bragged on the personnel of the News Review. But now his personal prestige has suffered a setback. And no wonder, for look what he said last week:

"Memorial day was quiet in Hamilton, practically everybody taking advantage of the holiday to go to the country for a few hours fishing or for an outing. Just after lunch, during the siesta hour, a citizen who dropped into the County News office said that he had just looked down the south side of the square and did not see a single person on the sidewalk along the entire block. It's as deserted as the main street in Hico on a busy day," he commented.

Without attempting to tell John how to run his business, we would suggest that he refrain from listening to the half-witisms of village wags in his office, as he might overhear something similar to a recent comment of a Pottsville, who very aptly described his impression of Hamilton upon his first night visit with the words: "This is the first gosh-darned graveyard I ever seen with lights in it."

Otto's gene on another rampage up at Fort Worth, and after referring to this article and sage as a "lad" warns us to oil up our shootin' irons. Our irons are in good shape, thank you, Vignettes, but our woods are terrible.

Innocently charged with laying groundwork for another feud with the esteemed contemporary to the north, we feel obligated to work on his Star-Telegram. We said he had buried the hatchet, brushed up on his chirography, etc., and he replied as follows:

"On reading his paragraph we immediately rushed to a chiropractor and he gave us a clean bill of health. There is nothing wrong with our feet—and we resent those slurring remarks, Sub!"

We never inferred there might be anything wrong with that end of your anatomy, Otto. It does occur to us, however, that it's too bad you can't use the personally praised perfect pedals on your typewriter.

Be it understood that when we ran a paid advertising for an erstwhile publisher, Grady Perry, of Stephenville, recently and made a typographical error, we were not trying to start another feud or get funny. Mr. Perry advertised "One of the best country stores in this section" and some relative of Bordenkircher's must have set the copy for when the advertisement appeared it read, "One of the last country stores in this section."

The drinks are on us, Grady. And we believe you are justified in your indignant protest. Surely, as you say, this is not the last country store, and if so it should bring a premium.

BULL CIRCLE

Plans Made Saturday

Meeting Held At City Hall With County Agent, to Perfect Organization

Following efforts of local business men to assist progressive dairy farmers in obtaining a market for their products, and to improve the industry which had already gained such a rapid growth in this community, a meeting was held at City Hall in Hico Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock, presided over by County Agent T. D. Craddock, at which time discussion was had of local conditions and opportunities and plans formed to organize bull circles in this community.

Presented with a preliminary report on the support which might be expected from local sources, the dairy farmers learned that this was apparently sufficient to assure success of the movement, and proceeded with plans for organization. J. B. Ogle and M. E. Waldrop had contacted a majority of the business men, it was reported, and found that it would be possible to obtain enough money to buy two bulls. These were to be matched by three more to be provided by outside capital on a plan previously submitted, thus assuring local people of five bulls at the start.

A committee consisting of F. S. Crafton, chairman; P. B. Bolton, Walter Whitson, Hamp Rucker, Geo. Holladay, Jr., O. R. Clifton, and K. R. Jenkins, was appointed to contact the owners of dairy herds in their respective communities and to make plans for organizing bull circles as soon as possible.

Another meeting will be held at City Hall at 3 o'clock Saturday, June 11, for the purpose of electing officers which will consist of a president, vice-president, secretary, and three directors. At this time organization will be completed and plans perfected for the most efficiency. All milk producers and breeders are urged to be present at this meeting.

T. G. HUGHES

Died Saturday of Pneumonia; Was Buried Tuesday

T. G. Hughes, who died of pneumonia Saturday night in the Germania Hospital, was buried Tuesday afternoon in the Hico Cemetery.

Rev. J. C. Mann, pastor of the Hico Methodist Church, conducted the funeral services, with burial rites in charge of the Hico Masonic lodge of which Mr. Hughes was a long-time member.

Besides his wife, Mr. Hughes is survived by seven children. They are J. A. Hughes of Hico; Captain B. Z. Hughes, Daingerfield; Thomas C. Hughes of the United States Civil Service Department of the Air Corps, Osborne, Ohio; Mrs. M. J. Killebrew, De Leon; Mrs. O. W. Heffner, Hico; C. E. Hughes of the Civil Service Department, Food & Drug Administration, New Orleans, La.; and Miss Oleta Hughes, teacher, Corpus Christi.

Mr. Hughes was born in Simpson County, Mississippi, March 25, 1864. He was married to Miss Mary Margaret McDonald, January 16, 1889, and sixteen years later they moved to Texas, settling in the Vista community near Evans. They have lived in Hico since 1913. Mr. Hughes was converted and joined the Baptist Church in young manhood. He later changed his membership to the Protestant Methodist Church, and his membership is still held in that church at Vista.

Out-of-town relatives present for the funeral besides the children were: J. A. McDonald, Grivin; and M. A. McDonald and family, Houston.

Here's Good Health, Governor!

AUSTIN, Texas.—The milk route to good health was recommended by the Governor and the State Health Officer of Texas as Governor James V. Allred (right) issued a proclamation designating June 9 to July 6 as Milk and Dairy Products Month. "Here's good health," the Governor was saluted by Dr. George W. Cox, who added: "Good, clean, safe milk is the nearest-perfect of all foods."

SUBSCRIBERS NEWS AND VIEWS

Miss Mayo Hollis, who left to visit her brother, Heck, in California, wanted to get her name in the paper and, incidentally, to keep up with what the folks back home were doing, so she subscribed for the paper. Any of her clamoring public may have the address upon request.

News Review representatives, scouring the woods this week for prospective readers, have run up on Kirby L. Killion, Route 3; J. H. L. Parker, Route 3; and E. J. Brewer, Route 7. All of whom should have been devoted readers, but through some fault of ours were not. Now they are all on the list, quite a good deal of business passed through several hands, and the paper will be coming regularly.

Miss Dorothy Ross, the attractive young lady who was valedictorian of the seventh grade graduating class this year, dropped in on Friday of last week to renew the subscription of her grandfather, J. W. Jones. Mr. Jones is a constant reader of the Hico news and we always enjoy Dorothy's visits to the office.

J. C. Sills, Route 3, who raised his first cotton crop in 1893, and shortly thereafter became a faithful and constant reader of the Hico paper, came in last week to renew his subscription for another year. Somewhere in his interesting conversation he told us about a German farmer, referred to as Fritz, who in the old days followed the custom of hauling his cotton to Waco. Accosted one day on his return from market, Fritz was asked if he did well on the sale of his cotton. "I didn't get much money," he replied, "but I did a lot of business."

F. M. Richbourg likes Abilene all right as a place to live, but he and his family still like to get the news from home. Therefore he handed over money for a subscription while here on a visit the first of this week.

Oby Young, chef and maitre d' hotel at the Buckhorn Cafe, whose wife does most of the work and keeps him in line, got in on a bargain rate on his subscription last year. This year when his time was out, upon being assured that the rate was over and similar ones not likely in the near future, Oby produced a bat-wing promptly and got in good standing for another twelve months.

C. G. Land, Route 4, took leave of absence from the farm long enough to pay the News Review a visit and have his time marked up. Thanks, Mr. Land, for your consideration, and we hope that next year about this time you will drop around to see us again—if not before.

ROBBERIES

Result In Loss of $4,000 At Dublin Early Wednesday

Three or four gunmen robbed four establishments in Dublin early Wednesday and escaped in a stolen black sedan after binding three men with copper wire, slugging one of them.

The robbers blew open the safe of the Dr. Pepper Bottling Company and took $200 in cash, $4,000 in cotton receipts and a $127 cashmer's check. They robbed the Hoffman Brothers Dry Goods Company of an unestimated amount of merchandise and $30 in cash. They held up the Majestic Cafe and obtained $35. They finally fled in a 1938 black sedan they stole after breaking into the Reid Motor Company.

CAPTURE

Of Second Escaped Prisoner From Stephenville Effected Here

R. L. Franks, 29, Huntsville, who escaped jail at Stephenville Friday night, was captured by Sheriff Mont B. Thomas three miles northwest of Hico Monday night, and held in the Hico jail for two hours before being carried back to Stephenville for trial. His partner in the jailbreak, English, had been recaptured previously at a point near Dublin.

Wednesday Franks pleaded guilty to a charge of participation in the robbery of the Baxter Store in Stephenville April 17, and was given a five-year sentence.

BAND

Will Start Summer Practice Monday With Enrollment of 50

Coach Joel I. Grimland has announced that summer band school will open Monday with an expected enrollment of fifty students. One of the four band directors contacted recently will have charge.

Membership in the band by some students is being made possible by liberal donations from Hico merchants who contribute monthly to the tuition fees.

Each member will receive 24 lessons per week during the term of 12 weeks.

OFFICIALS

Favor P. O. Building

Correspondence Indicates Chances Good For New Government Building At Hico

Reassuring letters have been received by Dr. H. V. Hedges, president of the Hico Business Men's Commercial Club, relative to a new post office building at Hico. Dr. Hedges, after announcement that Hico was among the 92 Texas towns in line for new government structures, wrote letters to various public officials, and received replies which, though not definitely promising the building at any certain date, nevertheless were regarded by him as indicative of the proposition being looked upon with favor by those with whom he had been corresponding.

Senator Morris Sheppard acknowledged the letter addressed to him under date of May 23, stating that he would be glad to cooperate with the Congressman from this district in every way within his power. Under date of June 3, Senator Sheppard transmitted a communication from the Fourth Assistant Postmaster General, and promised to continue to cooperate.

The communication from Smith W. Purdum, Fourth Assistant Postmaster General, said among other things: "This city is carried on the eligible list and in the event additional funds for public building construction are made available at this session of Congress, the Post Office and Treasury Departments will give careful consideration to Hico in making allotments thereunder."

Senator Tom Connally, replying to letters asking his assistance, promised his cooperation and said: "You may be sure that I shall bear same in mind in connection with all developments." He sent with a recent letter a communication from the Director of Procurement, acknowledging his urgent request that Hico be included in the next public building program. Stating that Hico was on the eligible list, he added: "You may be assured that, when the projects in Texas are taken up by the Treasury-Post Office Committee, careful attention will be given to the needs at Hico."

Congressman Hutton W. Summers from the Dallas district and Congressman W. R. Peace from the Waco district both replied reassuringly in regard to the proposition, and agreed to cooperate with the congressman from this district at the proper time.

Explaining that Hico is one of the seven other towns in the 17th district which is eligible for one of the new federal buildings which it is hoped will be provided for in the next appropriation bill, Congressman Clyde L. Garrett of this district wrote that eligibility for a post office building is based on only one thing, and that is postal receipts must exceed $10,000 per year. Other things enter into the placement of the buildings, Mr. Garrett explained, since only one building from each district can be included in each bill under the present rules. "I shall be glad to file your brief with the committee when it is finally determined that this building program will be undertaken," Mr. Garrett said in his letter.

LAYMAN'S DAY

At the Hico Methodist Church Next Sunday

Next Sunday evening laymen will have charge of the program at the Methodist Church.

For ten years "Layman's Day" has been a part of the annual program of the Methodist Church. Program material is prepared by the General Board of Lay Activities, and is given by laymen of the local church.

"Says the Board of Lay Activities: 'This program enables us to bring to the attention of lay members of the whole church some vital phase of its life and work.' The theme next Sunday is 'Why Go to Church?' Again quoting: 'The General Board sends out the program this year with the earnest prayer that it may be observed in every church in this Connection, and that it may have a mighty effect in bringing home to the hearts of our people the central place that public worship has in the life of the church. The worship services lie at the very heart of the church's life and work.'"

The program will be in the hands of the Board of Stewards. There will be three speakers, one of whom will be Judge Barrow. Special music numbers are being arranged.

There will be reserved seats for the Stewards and their families.

The pastor will preach at the morning hour on the subject, "The Arrested Church."

If your duty doesn't call you elsewhere you are cordially invited to all services at the Methodist Church. J. C. MANN.

CLEAN-UP

Campaign Next Week

City to Cooperate by Hauling Off Trash Collected and Sacked by Next Friday

Principal business transacted at the regular monthly meeting of Hico City Council Tuesday night of this week was authorization of a city-wide clean-up campaign, and the appointment of a board of equalization. The meeting, which was postponed from Monday night, was presided over by Mayor Lawrence Lane, and attended by Councilmen Cheney, Coston, McCullough and Holford. J. W. Leeth was absent.

In the interest of public health, as well as of civic sightliness, the council and the mayor coincided in the opinion that a clean-up campaign would be beneficial at this time, and that they would be justified in authorizing wagons to call for trash collected by Friday, June 17, and placed in sacks or other suitable containers at convenient places. In conjunction with the movement, it is urged that a general clean-up of all property be engaged in, and that as a result the usually good health of this community may be preserved.

J. R. McMillan, city secretary, called attention of the council to the fact that it was time to appoint a board of equalization, and stated that his books were in readiness for same. On this board the mayor, with the agreement of the council, appointed D. F. McCarty, J. V. Lackey and D. L. Cox.

MRS. A. Z. CULBREATH

Died At Her Home Here Saturday After Lingering Illness

Last rites for Mrs. A. Z. Culbreath, who died at her home here Saturday after an illness of several weeks' duration, were held at the grave in the Hico Cemetery Sunday morning at 9:30 o'clock with Rev. J. C. Mann, pastor of the Hico Methodist Church, officiating.

Mrs. Culbreath is survived by three children: Mrs. A. B. Cox of Brady, Mrs. R. E. Stovall of Las Cruces, New Mexico, and C. C. Culbreath of Fairacres, New Mexico. Other survivors are six grand-children: Mrs. Leroy Brooks, Miss Annette Culbreath, H. B. Cox, Miss Dorothy Ruth Culbreath, Robert Frances Culbreath, and Patricia Stovall; and three great-grandchildren: Leroy, Barbara, and Aneta Brooks.

Mrs. Culbreath was born Miss A. Z. Worsham in Pulaski, Tennessee, on June 4, 1861, and moved with her family to Texas when she was 17 years of age. The trip, which was made in a covered wagon, required forty days. In Waco on October 5, 1881, she was married to W. F. Culbreath, who preceded her in death five years ago. Their four children were born in Waco and all survive except Robert F. Culbreath.

Mrs. Culbreath was converted and joined the Methodist Church in early childhood and was active in its work until her health failed. She sang in the church choir at Waco for many years. The Culbreath family moved to Hico in 1902, where she resided until her death. She has been a member of the Hico Methodist Church for thirty-six years, having assisted in the organization of the first Foreign Missionary Society. She also taught a large class of young people in the Sunday School.

A large crowd of friends were present at the funeral to mourn the loss of one of Hico's pioneer citizens. Hico people remember her gift several months ago of a lot to be used for a public library building or for a park.

Keeping Up With TEXAS

When Rufus Taff of near San Saba felt something pulling on his left leg between his knee and his ankle while he was plowing, he thought at first that it was some friend who had slipped up behind and was trying to pull him off the plow. Seeing no one, he looked down and saw to his amazement the tail of a huge snake coiled about it. He hoisted for the mule to "Ho" and fell backward off the seat flat on the ground. The snake in attempting to crawl through the spokes of the wheel had been caught up, and in order to brace itself as the wheel turned, had contacted Rufe's leg and coiled about it. On loosening itself from the wheel on this leg, the reptile headed for Rufe's direction, but changed its course when he jumped up and started after it. The snake, an 8-foot bull snake between 3 and 4 inches thick, is harmless to humans, but deadly to rattlesnakes, and now Rufe is sorry he killed it. At the time he was taking no chances.

Jim Tom Moody, 35, and Raymond Taylor, 24, were burned to death near Hillsboro late Tuesday when their plane crashed. The plane, with Moody at the controls, overshot the landing field and, after gaining an altitude of about 125 feet in another attempt to land, went into a tail spin and crashed. Witnesses said the craft burst into flames immediately.

The charred bodies of the two men were removed after a few minutes and had cooled off the wreckage.

The Interstate Commerce Commission granted permission Monday to the Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe Railway Co. to abandon 117 miles of line from Ladonia to Honey Grove, Texas. Also discontinued by order of the Commission is train service between Cleburne and Dallas, which has been in operation on the Santa Fe for more than half a century.

Four Randolph Field flyers, two of them instructors, one of them a flying cadet and the other a student officer, were killed Tuesday morning in two airplane crashes which occurred within a few minutes of each other near the main field. The planes involved in the crashes were both BT-9 basic trainers, low-winged monoplanes. The machines were engaged in routine maneuvers and were not taking off or landing.

Safe driving, like charity, begins at home, the state police believe. They advise motorists planning vacations in other States to learn the principles of good driving before they leave Texas' confines. In support of the recommendation they point to five Texans arrested in Pennsylvania where the speed limit is 50 miles an hour and conviction sometimes brings suspension of license.

Two children were killed and three persons injured Monday night when the roof of a barn filled with 1500 bushels of oats collapsed on the B. F. Warren farm, 10 miles west of Fort Worth on State Highway No. 1. The dead: David Lee Clifton, 4 son of Ike Clifton, a neighbor farmer; Betty Jo Kennedy, 13, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ransom Kennedy, neighbors across the highway.

Funeral services for Mrs. Lottie Box, whose age was 100 years, six months and seven days, were held at De Leon Tuesday. Born near Little Rock, Ark., on November 30, 1837, Mrs. Box was living in Bell County, Texas, before 1850. She was residing at De Leon with a daughter and formerly lived at Belton and McKinney.

Joe is the popular name among possessors of untaxed liquors in Houston. To hear them tell it, Joe is the moonshine king of the city. Gerald Franklin, State L-man, said Tuesday. He said that when L-men make a raid and seize untaxed liquor, they try to find out where the liquor came from. The answer is always the same, Franklin said—"I got it from Joe."

PAINTERS' MEETING

Sponsored by Local Material Firm Monday Evening

Attended by painters from Carlton, Ireddell and Walnut Springs, in addition to local artisans, a meeting was held at Barnes & McCullough's offices in Hico Monday evening, June 6, where an entertaining and instructive program was enjoyed.

C. H. Sisson of Waco, representative of the Du Pont Paint Co., was on hand and conducted the meeting, similar to those in which he and Barnes & McCullough have cooperated in the past.

A sound picture, "The Wonder World of Chemistry," was the highlight of the evening's entertainment.

A survey of textbook flyleaves made at Texas Tech yielded a vast assortment of information, among them, this poem. Coming as it did from the pen of a genius, we hesitate in quoting it without giving credit to some student who, in the throes of an emotional upheaval, gave vent to his feelings in a style which even Rufus Higgs would do well to emulate:

"If all the world was one big flood
From the earth up to the sky,
I'd climb upon my history book
Because it is so dry."

Miss Florence Chenault is giving would-be bridegrooms and "all concerned" a big hint in her window decorations this week. Max Hoffman says the fact that the robbers who looted their Dublin store were so careful in selecting the correct sizes shows that they must have deliberated for a long time before they decided to "favor" Hoffman Bros. in preference to other stores in this section. They outfitted themselves completely from Sol's stock of khaki work clothes and took along enough extra to last them for quite a while.

There must be times when a person can lounge and rest in peace but it certainly is not around a newspaper office.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

The Duffau Baptist Church has been informed that a young lady came to the business people of Hico, Stephenville and Duffau soliciting funds to buy song books for our church. This lady was not authorized by the church, and the members knew nothing of it until she was through. She also misrepresented the church and pastor to you. Therefore, being plenty able to buy our own books and feeling the imposition placed on us, we unanimously rejected the books. Thanking you for your interest, we remain, your friends,

PASTOR E. E. BARBER,
CLERK MRS. L. W. WEEKS.

NOTICE TO SCHOOL TAX DELINQUENTS

In view of the fact that the City of Hico has deferred until July 1st, 1938, the collection of penalties and interest on its taxes, we have instructed our attorneys to defer collection of said penalties and interest on school taxes also, until that date.

We urge that prompt payment of school taxes be made before July 1st, in order that you may save that much of your money.

NOTICE

To the Voters of Hamilton County
From L. W. KOEN

On account of the strenuousness of the task of canvassing the entire county, the condition of my health, and upon the advice of my physician I am forced to the conclusion that it is best for me not to make the race for the office of Tax Assessor-Collector at this time.

I sincerely regret having to withdraw from this race but feel that the preservation of my health means more to me than anything else. I desire to express my heartfelt thanks and appreciation for their loyal support and many kind words of encouragement and I sincerely trust that I may yet be of some little service which is my chief desire.

Very truly yours,

Fairylike Making Good

A clipping from the San Angelo Standard, submitted to the News Review last week tells of the success of W. R. (Dick) Jones, son of W. L. Jones of Fairy, who is making good with a large chain store.

According to the Standard, Mr. Jones recently was made assistant manager of the Western Auto Stores at San Angelo. His progress has been rapid during the time he has been connected with this concern. Born and reared at Fairy, Mr. Jones moved to the West shortly after his marriage to Miss Hope Blacklock, daughter of J. M. Blacklock.

Fairy

By
MRS. HOLLIS FORD

Rev. and Mrs. A. S. Gafford of Taylor and Rev. R. W. McCall of Bruceville visited in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Parks early last Monday morning. Some of Bro. Gafford's Fairy friends wonder if it is love he has for his former parishioners or the love he has for the delicious pies and cakes that Mrs. Bob Parks bakes that causes him to visit Fairy so often and arrive at Uncle Bob's just at meal time. This party was headed for the fishing waters of Comanche county. So look out, minnows and pollywogs, Gafford is loose with his bank book.

Visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Jackson and family Monday and Tuesday of this week were: Mr. Aaron Jackson and his son Leslie and wife and children, Mrs. Robert Jackson and children of Russellville, Alabama, and Mrs. Roy Driver and niece, Frances Barrett, of Waco.

Church services were conducted at the Church of Christ both Sunday morning and evening, by Bro. May, pastor, of Meridian.

Mr. and Mrs. John Jones of Waco were visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Tinkle and son near Aage during the week end.

Miss Peggy Ruth Allison is visiting with her sister, Mrs. Seago, in Waco.

Mr. and Mrs. Clair Brunson and Mr. and Mrs. Nona Brunson and children attended the family reunion held in De Leon the fifth Sunday in May.

Will Jones, W. M. Horsley, and W. E. Goyne attended the funeral of Mr. T. G. Hughes Tuesday afternoon.

It has been circulated around the community that Professor W. M. Horsley and Hollis Ford have been going fishing and catching so many fish that they threw a part of them back in the creek. Sounds like a fish story.

When Life Depends on Tire Safety

IT'S ALWAYS Firestone

FOR 19 CONSECUTIVE YEARS THE WINNERS OF THE INDIANAPOLIS 500-MILE RACE HAVE PROTECTED THEIR LIVES WITH FIRESTONE GUM-DIPPED TIRES

On May 30, Floyd Roberts shattered all track records for the 500 mile Indianapolis Race, averaging 117.2 miles an hour using Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires.

They said it couldn't be done — that tires could not withstand the torture of the new high speeds. Yet Floyd Roberts set a new record, at this year's Indianapolis Race, averaging 117.2 miles an hour for the 500 miles on Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires.

With the sun-baked brick of the straight-away and the granite-hard surface of the turns pulling and grinding at their tires, 33 daring drivers, every one on Firestone Tires, waged a thrilling battle for gold and glory. Never before have tires been called upon to take such punishment. Never in all the history of the motor car has tire safety been put to such a gruelling test. Yet not one tire failed — not one single cord loosened — because Gum-Dipping, that famous Firestone patented process saturates and coats every cotton fiber in every cord in every ply with liquid rubber counteracting the tire-destroying internal friction and heat that ordinarily cause blowouts.

Why risk your life and the lives of others on unsafe tires? Join the Firestone SAVE A LIFE Campaign today by equipping your car with Firestone Triple-Safe Tires — the only tires made that are safety-proved on the speedways for your protection on the highways.

ABOLISH TAX EXEMPTIONS

There will be general agreement except among those whose pocketbooks are directly affected, with the proposal laid before Congress by the President that no more Federal bond issues should exempt their holders from income taxes on the interest which the Government pays them, and that the rule of exempting state and Federal government salaries from income taxation should be abolished.

Tax exempt bonds were devised in World War times to induce people to lend money to the government at low rates of interest. There seems to be no good reason why such an inducement should be offered in peace times.

On the taxation of salaries, Constitutional questions are involved. The Income Tax amendment to the Constitution authorizes Congress to tax incomes from whatever source derived. But for more than 125 years the Supreme Court has held that the independent sovereignties of the states and the Federal government are inviolate, and that neither may tax or interfere with the instrumentalities of the other. Under that principle the Federal Government may not tax the salaries of State employees, nor the states which impose income taxes levy such upon Federal salaries.

This is plainly an inequitable exemption of workers in the public service, whose incomes generally are higher than those of persons similarly employed in private occupations. Federal employees pay the Federal income tax, and state employees pay their state income taxes, if any. But there is no good reason why the four or five millions on state payrolls should not pay the same proportionate Federal taxes as those who have no political jobs.

It may take another Constitutional amendment to bring it about, but the President's proposal should be put into effect.

THE NEW POLITICAL PARTY

The new "National Progressive" party which Gov. Phil LaFollette, of Wisconsin, and his brother, Senator Bob LaFollette, recently launched, may or may not prove to be an important factor in national politics. That depends upon many things which time alone can disclose. It must be conceded, however, that the effort to set up a third party is under the direction of no political amateurs. The LaFollette brothers inherited a natural genius for politics from their father, who ran for President on his own third party ticket in 1924 and received nearly five million votes. They have had much practical experience in politics themselves, both in their home state of Wisconsin and in Washington. They know all the arts of political organization.

It seems likely, therefore, that their new party will be a factor to be reckoned with in the Presidential election of 1940. Especially will that be the case if, as has been suggested, the National Progressive Party attracts to itself the strength of the Farmer-Labor Party of the Northwest and the American Labor Party of the East, together with the personal following of Fiorella La Guardia, the Mayor of New York.

Whether the National Progressive party can gain enough seats in Congress and carry enough states in the next Presidential election to establish itself as a permanent "Centrist" party remains to be seen. The history of American politics has been that whenever a new third party has shown such strength its principles have been adopted by one or the other of the two older parties and its voting strength absorbed by the party which chose the most popular of these principles.

From where we sit the pronouncement of the new party which seems most likely to appear to ordinary, middle-class Americans is the declaration against "coddling or spoon-feeding" the American people. "We shall use the power to restore to every American the opportunity to find himself. After that he can sink or swim." That is the sound old American tradition.

A CHECK TO BUREAUCRACY

There has been a check to the labor disputes to give employers equal opportunity with employees to present their side of the case. That sort of one-sided leaning is not confined to the newer agencies of government. It has long been practiced by other Federal Bureaus in efforts to make good their charges of unfair trade practices. That sort of thing is one of the principal dangers in delegating judicial functions to any but duly established courts of justice.

The Supreme Court took notice of this practice not long ago, when it reversed the order of the Secretary of Agriculture fixing market agency rates in the Kansas City stockyards because the agencies had not been permitted to state their side. This, the high court held, violated the rule of fair play and rendered Secretary Wallace's order "fatally defective."

Taking notice of that court ruling, the NLRD has reopened its inquiry into labor practices of certain automobile and steel companies, which have charged that rulings adverse to the employers were made without hearing the employer's side.

There is no room in America for anything favoring in the slightest degree of the European style of arbitrary and one-sided verdicts. If the National Labor Relations Board has awakened to the understanding, then the movement toward government by bureaucracy has at least been checked, if not halted.

PRACTICAL AND NAUTICAL Pattern 8192

Pattern 8192 is so simple and so well-designed that it's practically everybody's dress. Shirting on the shoulders makes it softly full where it should be full. The puff sleeves are becomingly narrowed by tucks, and the waistline is snugged to the figure by darts. An ideal dress for cotton, 8192 will be stunning in linen, which comes in beautiful blues, gold to brown tone and violet. Also it will be very smart in gingham or printed percale. If you make it in print, choose a gay and lively pattern, for it's a gay little dress.

Pattern 8192 is designed for sizes: 12 14 16 18 20 and 40. Size 14 requires 3 1/2 yards of 39 inch material, if you make it with short sleeves. 3 3/4 yards if your sleeves are to be long.

Pattern 8894 Ship shoy there, my lassie! Hoist yourself and jump into this nautical ensemble which will enable you to breeze through the Summer with both feet on the deck. In assembling this costume, be sure that the ascot matches the trousers in color and that the intervening jacket offers a nice contrast.

Designed in sizes: 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, and 38. Size 14 requires 2 1/2 yards of 35 inch material for the jacket and 3 1/2 yards for the slacks.

CROWN PRINCE RUDOLF The Pillows of the Crown Prince Were Stained With Blood

On a cold foggy morning, shortly before sunrise, in January, 1889, three pistol shots rang out in the hunting lodge of Rudolf, the Crown Prince of the mighty Austro-Hungarian Empire.

Rudolf's friends, who had been spending the night under his roof, knocked and pounded excitedly on the door leading to the royal bedroom. Hearing no response, they quickly pried the door off its hinges and dashed into the room. The sight that greeted their eyes made them gasp with horror. The room was in wild disorder. The Crown Prince Rudolf, fully dressed, even to his hunting boots, lay across the bed, with the top of his head blown off. Beside him lay the woman he loved. She had been killed by a bullet in her temple.

Did Rudolf shoot his sweetheart and then commit suicide? Or did some third party murder both of them? No one knows. The dark secret of that royal tragedy will probably never be solved.

Only two friends were in the hunting lodge when the shooting occurred. Prince Philip of Coburg and Count Hoyos, and the both thought it was suicide. They knew, as almost everyone in Vienna did know, that Crown Prince Rudolf was unhappily married.

He had married the golden-haired Princess Stephanie, daughter of the King of the Belgians. But he didn't love her and she didn't love him. The marriage had been forced upon them for political reasons. For years they had been estranged. She seldom visited his apartments, and yet she was madly jealous of his attentions to other women.

In 1888, the year before his death, he met Baroness Marie Vetsera, a charming, vivacious young woman, with blood of the old Greeks coursing through her veins. She was nineteen; he was twenty-nine; and they fell romantically, ecstatically, in love.

The flaming love affair startled even the scandal-hardened drawing rooms of Vienna, and the rumblings of it reached the stern old Emperor, Franz Joseph. At first, he winked at the alliance. But the flagrant affair persisted. It became a public scandal. So Franz Joseph called his son Rudolf to the palace and told him this wild, illicit love affair had to stop.

But Rudolf defied the old Emperor, swearing that he would never give up Marie. In fact, he wanted to renounce all claim to the throne, divorce his wife and marry Marie. But the old Emperor flew into a fearful rage of denunciation.

So Rudolf and Marie often met secretly, after that, at his hunting lodge, nesting among the pine trees, thirty miles away from the prying eyes and wagging tongues of Vienna.

And there they had gone again on that fatal week in January, to steal a few happy days of love, when suddenly three pistol shots rang out—and, altered the course of history.

The House of Hazards By Mac Arthur

Sunday School Lesson by Rev. Charles E. Dunn

Facing the Supreme Test of Service. Lesson for Today (June 12th). Mark 14: 32-46. Golden Text: Mark 14: 36.

After the Last Supper Jesus retired with his disciples to Gethsemane, a walled garden to the east of the brook Kidron. There he prayed in agony of spirit while his weary disciples slept.

We are impressed by the loneliness of the Saviour. "Alone he goes and none can go for him who goes unto the land which no one knows." Some one has said that beyond the Garden of Gethsemane, most tragic issues of the human soul. There he accepted the terrible ordeal of the Cross which "stands," as Dean Sperry of Harvard says, "as an inalienable pledge bath no sorrow which Christ hath not shared."

We do not wonder that Jesus shrank from the exquisite agony of Golgotha. He knew, to be sure, that it was coming. In his days of temptation in the wilderness; at the wedding in Cana, when his mother provoked him to think of his "hour"; on the occasion when the crowd wished to make him a king; on the Mount of Transfiguration; when the mother of James and John sought the highest, most rewarding places of honor for them; at these and other times the Master foresaw his approaching fate.

But it was perfectly natural for him to fear this sacrifice with all of the terror it involved. It was "the baptism of his sorrow," the cup of his agony," as one commentator well says. We can fully sympathize with that poignant cry, "O my Father, if it be possible, let this cup pass from me." Life was precious to him as it is to every normal being. Death was a cruel choice. And through all those dark hours his disciples, upon whom he leaned so heavily, slumbered. Wistful for sympathetic companionship the Master found it not. And at last the soldiers came with their torches, and the drama leading to Calvary begins its relentless pace.

The DOCTOR Tells the Story by W. E. Aughinbaugh, M.D.

Nora Cavanaugh It is strange indeed what hobgoblins populate the brain of simple individuals. I am certain that the most superstitious person I ever knew was Nora Cavanaugh. She and her husband, a day laborer, came from Ireland and brought with them all the beliefs current there about fairies, elfs, signs, and symbols. According to their stories they had seen and heard the Banshee—that imaginary creature whose bloodcurdling howl precedes death—and even met fairies, at night along the roads of the Emerald Isle. Friday was the day of terror for them. To spill salt a dangerous incident. If a hat, a cloak or coat was left on the bed it doomed the owner to sickness. They worked hard and saved a little money, buying a small house. Nora was perhaps the best washerwoman in the neighborhood and her husband a handy man with a pick and shovel. They had ten children.

Her Old Age Secret One morning Patrick, the husband, said to me, "Doctor, go by the house today. Nora expects a new baby and was complaining this morning." In the afternoon I visited Nora and to my utter surprise found her washing clothes. "I thought you were expecting a new arrival this morning, Nora." "Sure, he's here," she nochalantly remarked—"over there on the bed." And she continued bending over the tub and scrubbing board. Later in the year I was called to her home, because Patrick was ill. I arrived in the midst of a terrific rain storm, accompanied with lots of lightning and thunder. Opening the door I entered the place, but saw no one about. Calling their names, two voices replied: "Here we are, under the bed." I asked, "What in the world are you doing there?" "Feather mattresses protect you from lightning. We always crawl under the bed when it's lightning" was their childlike answer. They both lived to be more than 85 years of age and to their dying days clung to the superstitious beliefs they inherited, and always maintained that those beliefs were responsible for their long lives and contentment.

Picnic Drink Picnics will soon be in full swing with lemonade in demand. So if you keep a good supply of simple syrup on hand you can make the picnic beverage sweetened to taste without waiting for the sugar to dissolve—a long process in cold water. Boil two parts sugar with one part water for five minutes to make simple syrup. Cool and store in a covered container in refrigerator.

Summer Tables Hundreds of ideas are at hand for glamorous summer tables. Gift graduates, brides and summer guests are to be feted and there should be a specific table for each occasion. Make the table for the sweet girl graduate youthfully simple but colorful and modern. Use crisp ticking, daisies for the flowers; working them into a daisy chain to wreath the center of the table. Choose gay linens in the class colors and for place cards have tiny diplomas tied with narrow white satin ribbon. A lovely table for a bride is arranged on gleaming white damask. A pair of vases holding lilies of the valley flank a tiny prisedau placed on a table mirror between tall burning tapers in low holders of silver or crystal. A midget brides' bouquet is put at each guest's place.

Despite the fact that copper and bronze screening is non-rusting and long-lived, it has the drawback of discoloring painted surfaces when water drips from it. Of course, if your house is painted with a lead paint the stain usually can be washed off with ammonia water. On a paint containing zinc, however, the stain can be removed only by repainting. In order to avoid this unsightly staining, have the screens covered with a thin coating of varnish which has been diluted with an equal amount of linseed oil and turpentine.

Crochets At 97 Mrs. Sarah Brodsky, who is 97, is busily engaged in crocheting a bedspread which she hopes will be exhibited at the New York World's Fair of 1939. She does not even have to wear glasses when she works. The bedspread is made in medallions, forty-seven of which have been completed and there are only fourteen more to work. Mrs. Brodsky, who lives on Riverside Drive, New York, has a son who is a magistrate.

MODERN WOMEN by EARLENE WHITE

President of The National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Inc.

Laws of Other Lands The women of Norway have different laws from ours, according to Fru Betsy Kjelberg, who has been in this country recently. Fru Kjelberg owns numerous medals received from the King of Norway and is frequently a representative of her country at international conferences. Norwegian women pay alimony, if they have more money than their divorced husbands, and they are allowed three months off to have children. But three fields of work are closed to them legally. They are not allowed to enter the ministry, the diplomatic service, or the military and navy service.

Lady Blacksmiths I have already mentioned in this column one or two women who are expert blacksmiths and my attention has recently been called to another who should be included in this old profession. Mrs. Savannah Barrett Butt, sixty-five years old, makes miniature horseshoes for decorative purposes, a taste that is an outgrowth, perhaps, of her work in a munitions plant during the war. She also makes wrought iron and brass antique productions, door knockers, foot scrapers, andirons and book ends. She has been noted for her Irish bunters and once she operated a dairy farm.

BURIAL IN UTAH
For George W. (Jockey) Hall, Car Wreck Victim

Funeral services were held last week at St. George, Utah, for George W. (Jockey) Hall, 48, a former resident of Hico, who was killed instantly when the car in which he was riding struck a bridge on a highway near that city. Mr. Hall was alone in his car, and no explanation of the tragedy was given further than that the bridge had long been recognized as a hazard, and an engineer had just recently completed plans for its replacement.

A large crowd from Utah and surrounding states was present to pay their respects to Mr. Hall and his family and the great profusion of flowers indicated the esteem in which he was held by the people of his home community.

Mr. Hall is the brother of Mrs. James D. Wright and Mrs. Tyrus H. King, and a son of W. R. Hall of Hico. He also is survived by three half sisters, Mrs. Loraine Doty, Mrs. Nadine Langston, and Miss Frances Hall, all of Hico.

News of the World Told In Pictures

LISTEN TO THIS

By TOM FIZDALE

Between the ukulele, the camera and her surrealist painting, Gracie Allen manages to keep rather busy for a gal who is supposed to be slightly on the dumb side, capable of grasping only one thing at a time.

Being the network zanie she is, no one probably ever suspected Gracie could be serious long enough to play the uke, much less draw pictures with such titles as "Dogs Gather on Street Corner to Watch Men Fight" and "Eyes Adrift as Sardines Wrench at Your Heartstrings"—and maybe she wasn't serious. But the paintings have drawn great crowds when exhibited in Hollywood and Chicago and are now scheduled for a New York showing. Anyway, Gracie must have had fun doing them.

That "Attorney at Law" daily drama starring Jim Ameche and Frances Carlon, with Dolores Gillen, Connie Osgood and other radio stars featured in the cast, is so popular it has been moved on an afternoon spot on the NBC-Blue network. Now heard at 1 p. m., C. S. T., daily. Makes a great afternoon radio fare as it follows the popular "Betty and Bob," "Arnold Grimm's Daughter," "Valiant Lady" and "Hymns of All Churches" on NBC.

Richard Himber, maestro of the CBS "Monday Night Show," has stirred up plenty of melody and laurels for his thirty years. Plenty of brains behind his skyrocketing to fame... Speaking of fame—those DeVore Sisters on "Vocal Varieties" via NBC are due for plenty of it. Critics hail them as the best sister team on the air.

Fred Waring and his Pennsylvanians, long absent from the airwaves, return early next fall in a series of weekly half hour programs... Year's contract reported to call for a $10,000 weekly paycheck... Norris "Abner" Goff of "Lum and Abner," has just bought a six-hole golf course which adjoined his property in Hollywood.

Joan Blaine, "Valiant Lady" serial star, is mulling over two Broadway stage offers... Bob Burns is laying away his bazooka for a vacash from the Bing Crosby show... Crosby himself rests for eight weeks this summer when the same Robin Burns will be in charge of the Thursday night Music Hall proceedings... Likewise, Edgar Bergen will be tacking Charley McCarthy away in the suitcase Charley calls home ere long for a two weeks' rest from microphones. Don't be surprised if W. C. Fields chooses that particular time to sneak back to the coffee program while the "little nipper" is in his satchel.

Lola Hutchinson, 16-year-old singer from Wichita, Kansas, who made her first radio appearance on NBC networks a few weeks ago, already has been tagged a comer... The Friday night "Song Shop" on CBS is scheduled to fade June 19... Benny Goodman is studying European-bound boat sailings... The Monday "Radio Theater" shuts its doors July 11 for a summer lull, reopening Sept. 11... Linda Lee, de-lovely Ripley warbler, is homesick for Naw-leens... Jan Garber, who checks off Burns & Allen, July 4, may be featured in his own program, "What Do You Know About Movies?"... Walter King, Eddie Cantor's announcer, has scored as a singer on the show... Jim (Fibber McGee) Jordan plenty proud of daughter, Kathryn, high-school grad this month.

1936 G. O. P. Candidates Meet

Former Governor Alf M. Landon (center) of Kansas, the Republican Presidential candidate in 1936, stops to chat with his running mate, Col. Frank Knox (right), Chicago newspaper publisher. Mr. Landon came to address a group of members of the Inland Press Association. Mr. Landon's address championed "free speech and a free press."

Jerry—SADLER—Harley

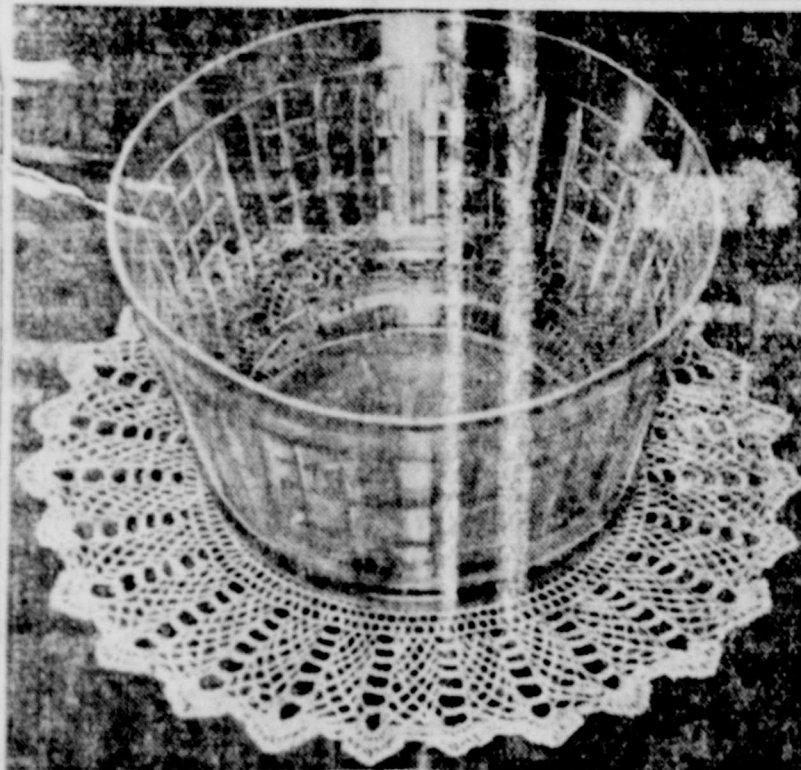

Harley Sadler, (right), famous Texas showman, has broken a life-long custom of keeping out of politics to become the West Texas campaign manager for his kinsman, Jerry Sadler, (left), of Longview, 30-year old candidate for Railroad Commissioner of Texas. "I consider Jerry the best man for the job," is Harley's explanation for breaking his non-intervention policy, Harley says: "Pot Sadler in 'the Sadler' and he will ride the broncho of monopoly."

Collegiate Dancer "Most Artistic"

Creation and artistic execution of modern dance won for Palma Robinson of Coleman, Texas, the annual Lemna Award which is given to the senior making the most artistic contribution to Texas State College for Women in Denton. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Robinson, she has studied dancing in the department of Physical Education throughout her college career and has been presented in numerous programs throughout the state. The medal has been won by writers, artists and musicians, but this is the first time it has gone to a dancer.

Kidnap Attempt Fails

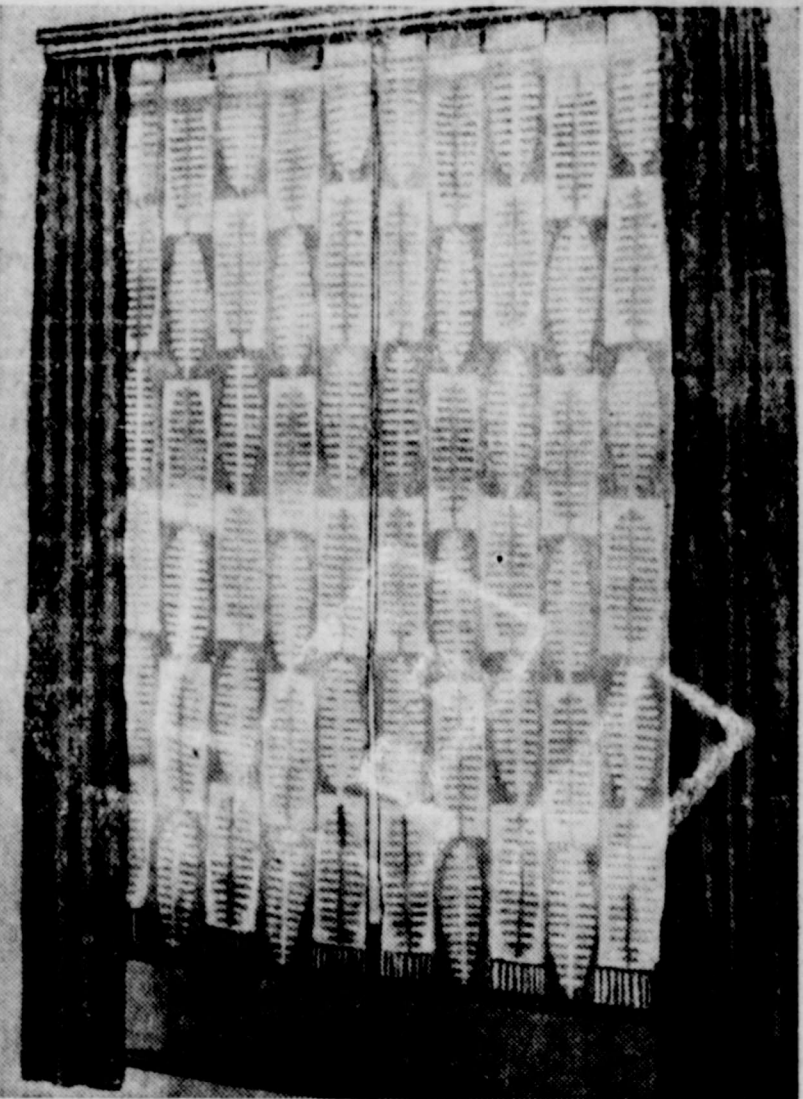

LONDON... The daring attempt to kidnap Viscount Nuffield, wealthy British manufacturer from his office near Oxford by two men was frustrated by the quick action of a friend in a near-by office who notified the police when he overheard the men order Lord Nuffield to leave with them. Both of the would-be kidnapers were arrested.

A Lesson in Zoology—For Drivers

A car is like a cat, according to a new highway safety booklet entitled "Death Begins at 40" recently issued by The Travelers Insurance Company. It is quiet, except for a low and pleasing purr. Its padded tires are like padded feet. It has powerful eyes that shine at night. And when it is allowed to run wild, it gives an awful screech at the moment before it does its victim to death.

nine times as powerful as at 25. It is nine times as hard to stop, nine times as hard to turn, nine times as deadly. Thinking of speed in these terms will help you to keep a lighter toe on the accelerator.

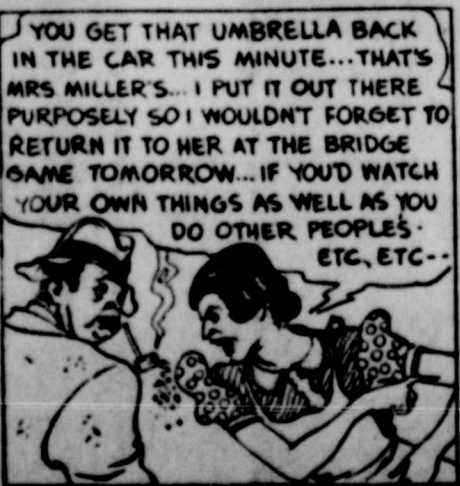

At 25 miles an hour, it is like a pussy-cat. It may scratch you up in an accident, but it isn't likely to kill you. Few fatal accidents, it has been found from official reports, occur at low speeds. At 50 miles an hour, it is not twice but four times as powerful. Like a bobcat, it is quite able to inflict great damage. And at 75 miles an hour it is not three times but

BEST ROOMS

Improving Through Efforts of Health Campaigners.

AUSTIN, Texas, June 7.—The State Health Department's three-month old campaign against filthy rest rooms over the state has been marked by splendid cooperation from the retail business establishments involved, the public at large and the press. Our department is so firmly convinced that filthy rest rooms are a major public hazard that the department's sanitary inspectors are checking rest rooms as carefully as they do other violations of sanitary regulation.

Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, said: "We have served notice on all they must clean up their rest room establishments in Texas that rooms and continue to keep them clean under penalty of violating the State Food and Drug Law, Article 695, which carries a fine of not less than ten nor more than one hundred dollars.

Our sanitary inspectors have been notified to assess this fine whenever they find rest rooms maintained without adequate sanitation. The public and business establishments have been adequately warned. Any subsequent violations will be dealt with through legal channels.

"We want the public to cooperate with us in this campaign. Such filthy conditions as heretofore have been prevalent over the state will never again be tolerated. When the public finds a rest room that is unsanitary, whether it be in a cafe, tavern, filling station, retail establishment, or a bus station, they will be doing their community a favor if they transmit State Health Department, Austin, this information directly to the so that necessary steps can be taken.

"Disease breeds in unsanitary rest rooms and is spread from one person to another, indiscriminately, under such conditions. Facilities should be available for washing hands; toilets must be sanitary and must be kept that way.

TODAY and TOMORROW

LIFE . . . origination
 How life began on earth is a question the answer to which scientists and philosophers have been searching for hundreds of years. To the millions who take literally the Biblical account of the Creation it is no puzzle. Among others, opinions are divided between two theories of the origin of life.

Svend Arrhenius, a Swedish scientist, put forth the theory that life first came to earth in the form of tiny organisms borne from some other planet, by meteorites. A vast amount of scientific research has failed either to prove or disprove the theory.

The generally accepted belief of scientists is that life originated right here on the earth, by the chemical combination of non living elements. This theory is borne out by the study of the extremely simple structure of the low forms of life. Now a Russian bio-chemist, Dr. Oparin, has come out with a book in which he shows how it was possible, in the beginnings of all living matter and in all the stars, to combine with water to form hydrocarbons, the simplest of all organic compounds, and for those to combine with other elements to form the living matter, from which all higher forms of life, including humanity, have descended.

SURVIVAL . . . new discoveries

How long can animal tissue be kept alive after its removal from the living body in which it grew? Dr. Alexis Carrel started to find the answer more than 25 years ago. In 1912 he showed me in his laboratory a chicken's heart which he had kept alive and growing for nine months, in a glass tube. That heart is still beating, and will continue to survive so long as the necessary chemical elements are supplied to it.

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh has been working with Dr. Carrel for some years. He applied his mechanical ingenuity to the invention of a pump-like device by means of which all kinds of tissues can be kept alive and experiments can be made upon them to discover what makes them grow, what retards their growth, and how various disease germs and injurious substances affect them.

Out of these and other experiments scientists are beginning to learn as much about death as about life. High hopes are being held that eventually ways will be found to prolong life far beyond its present limits.

DEATH . . . its phenomenon

The instinct to live is deep-rooted in the human spirit. "All that a man hath will he give for his life," is one of the axiomatic truths in the Bible. To the young death seems an awful thing to contemplate; and it is for the young who have so much ahead of them to live for. As age comes on, the terrors of death diminish. Regardless of whether one looks forward to a life beyond the grave or believes that death is the ultimate end, the philosophical mind is ready for it when it comes.

A considerable group of scientific workers is engaged in studying the phenomenon of death and its causes. They agree that death is generally painless. Even sudden and violent death is usually only a surprising shock. The lower forms of life do not fear death, for

Greatly as mankind dreads death, however, the human spirit rises above fear when facing death in defending others or in fighting for their and his own rights and liberties. STORAGE CELLARS

Worth Far More Than Their Cost, Says Co. Demonstrator

"I want to show you my storage cellar," Mrs. W. W. Moore told the Blue Ridge Home Demonstration Club women after their meeting last Tuesday. "It has not cost us anything but some time and some work."

When the women saw the cellar they could scarcely believe it was the same cellar they had seen before, the one with the steps and wooden casings completely decayed; the one with the side walls of the entry caved in; the one half filled with loose dirt; the one that leaked!

"We got the wood for the new steps, door and casings from a little old chicken house that had already fallen to pieces and was not in use at all, just in the way. There will also be enough wood from this to make me some shelves across the back side. We have cleaned all the dirt out of the cellar, straightened the inside walls, and put enough more dirt on top that it does not leak at all."

Mrs. Moore is Home Food Supply Demonstrator for the Blue Ridge H. D. Club, and one of her big problems was to get a good storage place for her vegetables and canned goods. Even if her house had not been too small for an indoor pantry, she would have preferred the cellar because it does not seep and will make a storage place free from excess moisture; one where the temperature is evenly controlled, that is, where the stored foods will not freeze, not get too warm; where good ventilation can be furnished; where rats, mice, and insects can be kept from the foods; and where partial darkness can be had.
