SUBSCRIBERS NEWS AND VIEWS

Mrs. Dan Jaggars, Route 4, has mighty good chickens, and sent her daughter in again last week to make the annual trade—chickens for subscription. While there is a limit to how many trades like this we can make, we never yet have seen more chickens than we could eat.

Young Mr. Jerry Yvonne Graves, City, subscribed for the paper Saturday morning for his Dad, took a copy of that week's edition and left in a hurry, only to return about thirty minutes later with a list of the misspelled words—a correct list too, but just a little late for a prize.

John Clark, City, remembered a notice on his paper last week to the effect that his time was out, so on one of his numerous visits to town he stopped in to renew to keep from missing an issue.

G. S. Ellis, Route 1, Iredell, who hasn't been getting our paper for several months but usually tries to stay on the list, paid up for the combination offer to receive the News Review and the Semi-Weekly Farm News.

J. C. McCoy, Iredell, Route 1, took a chance on a traveling representative several weeks ago and still hadn't received a copy of the paper until he came by the office to report the trouble. We have our Operative No. 122 on the case, and hope to find out how come pretty soon.

At the request of his father, we are starting the paper next week to W. H. Brown, Jr., who is attending Arkansas State College at State College, Ark. W. H. was a former athlete at Hico High and since his graduation his brothers, Grady and Albert, are carrying on the family tradition.

Miss Mable Jordan, who submitted one of the few correct lists of words in our misspelled word contest, came in the first of the week to renew the subscription of her father, A. J. Jordan, Route 3.

H. N. Wolfe, City, is just stuck a huck—that's all. He has been taking the paper so long that when his time is out we merely mark it up another year and charge it to him. Then it's a simple matter to collect, if and when we catch him.

Marvin Marshall is either lucky or smart when it comes to football games, for by a double-backed deal last Friday he paid for another year's subscription to the paper. Now he has a whole year to think over how superior to Cranfill's Gap's football team the Hico boys are—and grin!

MEDICAL SERVICES

For Farm Family Represent About 6 Percent of Living Costs

Medical services for the farm family represent about 6 percent of the cost of all goods and services required for farm family living, according to a joint report by the Bureau of Agriculture Economics in cooperation with the Agricultural Adjustment Administration and the Bureau of Home Economics, submitted to the News Review by C. P. Emmett of Hamilton.

"Cost of the medical services for the farm families," he said, "is equivalent to an annual expenditure of about $265,000,000 for the United States, or an average of $39.00 per farm family. Other medical costs such as medicine, drugs, health and accident insurance, bring the total bill for the farm family medical care to about $350,000,000 a year. That's an average per farm family per year of about $51.00 or 8 percent of the average farm family budget.

"Farm families generally devote about 85 percent of their total expenditures for living expenses to the purchase of commodities. The other 15 percent goes for services of various sorts. Of these, medical services are the most important single group.

"The report is the first of a series dealing with prices paid by farmers for services and commodities in the years since 1910. Other reports in this series will deal with prices paid by farmers for machinery, building material, clothing, food, electricity, and other articles. The series is one part of the income parity study to be used by the Department of Agriculture in administering the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1933. Other parts of the study are farm income, expenses of agricultural production, and income to farmers from non-farm sources.

"Medical service rates to farmers do not fluctuate greatly from year to year. They increased 21 percent, however, from the 1910-14 period to 1924-29. In the early thirties the economic recession brought some lowering of rates, but from 1932 to 1935-36, the average of rates for the country as a whole was unchanged at 16 percent above the 1910-14 level.

On the other hand it was pointed out that the increase in medical service rates has been accompanied by an improvement in the quality and availability of medical services. Improved transportation facilities and an increase in the number of hospitals have made medical care more readily available to farm folks.

"More farm folks, it was reported, now come to the doctor than in the earlier days of rural health service. Except for this increased efficiency in the use of the doctor's time, there probably would have been more of an increase in rates for medical services in the rural areas during the past 25 years.

"As a rule the most of us are not interested in a lot of statistical figures, but we are represented by these figures. Our principal aim and motive is to find a way to decrease our medical services. This, we believe, can be done by first starting at the beginning and learning the source of the trouble, then by constant perseverance eliminate the source of our bodily ills.

"The Farm Security Administration is now offering a plan whereby these problems may be solved, and it will be to the advantage of all Farm Security Administration borrowers to investigate.

Making Wool Study

At the last district Federation meeting of the Brazos Valley District of Future Farmers, the Hico Chapter was appointed to preside over and initiate the Greenhands at the next district meeting to be held at Stephenville October 4.

Officers of the Hico Chapter that hold the meeting are: President, A. C. Odell; vice-president, to be elected, treasurer, Guy Willie; parliamentarian, Wayne Polk; secretary, to be elected, secretary, Guy Willie; reporter, Babe Horton.

A chapter meeting is to be held next week to initiate Guy Willie and Babe Horton to the degree of Future Farmers so that they will be eligible to help preside over the meeting at Stephenville.

An F. F. A. band is being organized by the boys under the direction of Mr. Kluge, band director. They will play several numbers at the meeting at Stephenville. Uniforms were discussed by the members. Members of the band are: Song leader, Bill Hall; trumpets, honorary members Mary Brown and Mary Ella McCullough; trombones, Babe Horton and Glen Marshall; baritone, Owen Wellborn; alto, Odell Wellborn; cornets, Bill Hall and Guy Willie; saxophone, Raymond Hefner; bass, A. C. Odell; drums, Albert Brown.

MURDER TRIAL

Of Mings Youth Begun This Week At Stephenville

STEPHENVILLE, Sept. 27.—After three continuances, the murder trial of Everett Jones, Mings youth, got under way here Tuesday morning in Twenty-ninth District Court with Judge Sam Russell on the bench.

Jones is charged with the Jan. 21 slaying of his step-father, W. H. Spillers, 50, Thurber farmer and World War veteran. Domestic trouble was blamed. Spillers was shot once with a 22 calibre rifle, the bullet severing his jugular vein.

Examination of a special venire of 60 began at 9 o'clock. Two jurors had been selected by 10 a. m. C. O. McMillan and W. J. Oxford, Sr., are handling the defense and Ernest Belcher is the prosecuting attorney.

MISS SALLIE STRINGER

Died At Home Tuesday After Long Residence Near Here

Last rites for Miss Sallie Stringer, 58, who died at her home here about 1:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, were held at the grave in the Iredell cemetery Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, with Rev. Clyde Blackburn officiating.

Miss Stringer had spent practically her entire life in this community, having taught for several years in the Iredell schools. She is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Ed Crist, Hico, and Mrs. John Miller, Oklahoma; and two brothers, Bob and Will, Hico.

Prayer Meeting The Ladies' Circle Prayer Meeting was held last Saturday at the home of Rev. and Mrs. J. C. Mann, with Miss Goldie Hendrix leader. The lesson was from Psalms. The ladies will meet next Saturday at 3 o'clock with Mrs. R. O. Lackey. Mrs. Mann will be the leader. All ladies are invited to attend these meetings.

Called to Louisiana G. M. Gaskins was called to Grayson, La., the first of the week to the bedside of his mother, Mrs. J. H. Whittlesey, who became ill while visiting her daughter there. No change in her condition, which was thought to be critical, had been reported Thursday.

County Cotton Report Census report shows that 1604 bales of cotton were ginned in Hamilton County, Texas, from the crop of 1933 prior to Sept. 16, as compared with 2973 bales for the crop of 1937.

ELECTION COUNT

Explained In Statement by County Democratic Chairman

Regarding the misunderstanding which arose following the second primary, when Weldon Burney of Evans opposed Earl Huddleston, incumbent for the office of representative of the 94th District, W. A. Patterson, county Democratic chairman, made the following statement Wednesday:

"There seems to be some misunderstanding in regard to the nomination of the Representative of the 94th District, Hamilton and Coryell counties, in which Weldon Burney and Earl Huddleston were candidates. The official count in Hamilton County is Weldon Burney 2164, Earl Huddleston 1134.

"In transferring these figures to the list to send to Austin, I personally made an error in Mr. Huddleston's votes. I gave it as 1134 instead of 1134. This error gave Mr. Huddleston a majority in both counties of 78 votes. As soon as I learned that I had made an error in these figures, I made an affidavit stating the correct figures and personally delivered it to the Secretary of the State Democratic Executive Committee at Austin, Texas. Weldon Burney was nominated by 275 votes, according to the official count.

"This statement is made for the benefit of the friends of the two candidates and will eliminate any doubt as to who was nominated. The records of this case are open for public inspection at all times.

"Signed, W. A. Patterson."

TIGERS WIN FIRST GAME

Here Last Week With 33-0 Victory Over Cranfill's Gap

The Hico High School Tigers won their first game of the season by defeating the Cranfill's Gap team 33-0 here Friday night. Vastly encouraged by their victory, the team will go into another game to night with the Walnut Springs eleven prepared to take them by an easy margin.

Seventy hundred and fifty fans saw Albert Brown place kicks after three of the five touchdowns squarely between the goal posts for extra points. Only casualty of the game was an injury to Eldon Rogers, who was removed from the line-up early in the game with a dislocated shoulder.

The game tonight starts at 8:00 o'clock and an even larger crowd than was present last week is expected to witness the struggle under the newly-installed lights on Hico's playing field.

Scout Executive Here George M. Powell, State Scout executive, was here Wednesday in conference with J. P. Rodgers, Jr., chairman of the troop committee, in the interest of reorganization of the Hico troop.

He is expected back in the near future, according to Mr. Rodgers, and all boys are asked to be considering the reorganization movement.

Many Submit Lists Of Misspelled Words

"Fightin' Man" Relaxes

Miss Mary Ella McCullough was awarded the first prize of $100 in the misspelled word contest sponsored by Hico merchants in the News Review last week, and the prize tickets went to R. B. Jackson, Mrs. D. R. Proffitt, H. M. Goolsby, and E. H. Persons who submitted the next four correct lists.

Correct lists were turned in, but too late to qualify for prizes, by: Elizabeth Ross, Mrs. E. S. Jackson, Mable Jordan, Mrs. Norman Johnson, Mrs. Bess Warren, Jerry Wynonne Graves, Mrs. W. E. Alexander, Jr., Mrs. Guy Eskins, Miss Charlie Looney, Mrs. T. M. Noland, Miss Stella Tyler, Miss Lucille Proffitt, Rev. Harvord A. Anderson, and R. N. McKeage.

A complete list of the corrected words is given below for the benefit of those who wish to check their own lists: Frigidaires, ready, delivered, flour, plumbing, candies, Stephenville, becoming, operator, especially, see, phone, operate, profit, jeweler, services, implements, furnishes, medicine, batteries, factory, accessories, and batteries.

The word "Fater" which appeared in one of the ads caused quite a bit of trouble, but was not one of the misspelled words, since that is a trade name used by a feed company for that particular kind of feed.

"Here are the mistakes," is the admission with which Miss Ana Louise Moss handed over her list. Those who made errors in last week's contest are urged to try again this week, and to get their answers in as soon as possible Friday. No lists will be accepted before Friday morning.

For the nearest list submitted each week, Randals Bros. are offering an additional prize of $100 which the judges have decided will go for the first week to Mrs. W. E. Alexander, Jr., Route 7, Mrs. Alexander is asked to call at the Randals store at any time for the prize. The nearest award will be offered each week by Randals Brothers, in addition to the other prizes already announced.

HIGHWAY MEETING

Expected to Bring Large Crowd to Waco Friday

R. J. Potts of the Waco Chamber of Commerce highway committee announced Tuesday that practically every opportunity invited to send delegations to the "fill the gaps" rally at the Cotton Palace Friday had responded. Those not yet announcing their intention to attend are requested to do so without delay in order to estimate the number which will be entertained at a barbecue preceding the formal program.

The program which starts at 1:30 P. M. is open to the public. Feature speakers will be R. L. Bobbitt, chairman of the highway commission and Commissioners John Wood and Harry Hines. County Judge D. Y. McDaniel also of McLennan county will speak. At a separate session of the program a round table discussion of central Texas highway problems will be held.

STEPHENVILLE WILDCAT

Ceremony Scheduled to Mark First Stages of New Hole

STEPHENVILLE, Sept. 28.—A "spudding" ceremony for the W. C. Peyton No. 1 Eye, well, located two and a half miles west of here on the Palyton Dairy tract, will be held Thursday at 4:15 p. m. Wildcat is in Erath County.

Originally the program was scheduled for last Friday, but difficulties encountered in digging a water well caused the delay.

Included in the program is music by the Stephenville Yellow Jacket Band, short talks by local business men, and a "christening" of the well.

T. K. O'Neal, Breckenridge, is the driller, and C. B. Colliard, Fort Worth, assisted in preparing the leases for the 10,000-acre block. The test is being made on the northeast corner of the Henry Pierson survey and will be drilled to the Ellenberger formation, according to Colliard.

Hicks Infant Dies

James Boyce, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. James Hicks, died Tuesday afternoon after living only a few hours. Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon in the Hico cemetery. Bro. O. O. Newton officiated. Those attending from out of town were: Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Jones and family, and Miss Faye Henderson of Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Wooten and Mrs. Netter Killion, Stephenville.

Review Club Meeting

Mrs. H. N. Wolfe, president, has announced the first Review Club meeting for Oct. 6, to be held in the club rooms. All members are requested to be present.

Pentecostal Singing Sunday

The public is invited to attend the singing Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Pentecostal Church. Some good singers will be present.

Joe Guyton Injured

Joe Guyton was carried to the Stephenville Hospital early Tuesday morning with a broken leg, sustained when the limb of a tree which he was holding in an effort to recover a squirrel he had shot, broke.

After an X-ray examination there, doctors said the nature of the fracture was such that it would be two weeks before they could set it.

Joe and J. P. Rodgers were hunting in the J. W. Fairley pasture when he shot a squirrel that lodged between the branches of a tree. He climbed upon a fence and grasped one of the limbs when it broke.

Keeping Up With TEXAS

An election contest for the next session of the legislature brewed at Austin last week as Rep. Earl Huddleston of Coryell County attempted to determine whether he or Weldon Burney is the nominee. The original showed Huddleston had been selected, but a corrected tabulation of the votes sent in by election officials of Hamilton and Coryell counties to the state democratic executive committee listed Burney as the winner. Huddleston conferred with numerous party and state officials, had not definitely determined his course. In the event of a contest, the legislature itself usually the judge of its own members.

While several families in Laredo have coyotes for pets, Clemente Quintanilla is the first to make a household pet of a javalina (Texas wild hog). The animal not only plays with the children, but accompanies Quintanilla on walks about the city. Quintanilla found the javalina on a ranch in Webb County when the animal was about fifteen days old. He brought the javalina to Laredo and he and his wife reared it on a bottle.

Efforts to promote the sale of small metal plates carrying the social security account number and name of the worker under which it was issued brought from the Social Security board at Austin the statement that it had not authorized or sanctioned their manufacture or distribution. "Although we have consistently urged workers to keep a separate record of their account numbers in order to facilitate the issuing to them of new ones in the case of the loss or destruction of their cards, said Jesse C. Carter, manager of the Austin office, 'we have not authorized the production of any supplementary device or card.'"

A change in the Texas old-age assistance program would have no effect on the amount of money the State would obtain from the Federal government, Arthur J. Altmyer, chairman of the Social Security Board, said at Dallas Monday. "Federal aid is available only to those who have been investigated and found in need," Altmyer said. "If the State makes the pension available to all persons eligible by age then the State must bear the full expense for all those who were not properly investigated and found in need. This program now is in effect in Texas, the federal contribution to the State being $10,000,000 annually."

Sheriff Jack Pullen of Rockwall spent two days in Kaufman's jail last week, which goes to show how they like their football there. Pullen was a bona fide inmate for 48 hours because he lost a bet to Sheriff John Keller of Kaufman when Kaufman defeated Rockwall 6 to 0 in a football game. Sheriff Keller made it easy, though, giving the loser the run of the jail's guestroom instead of a cell.

They start playing football very young at Odessa. A football composed entirely of 7-year-olds, believed to be the only one in the Nation, today was seeking a coach. Louis Griffin, its captain, said: "We want to be sure Odessa will have a good team when we grow up, so we thought we would start now. But we've got to have a coach now because we are too good to just use kid players any longer." There are more than 20 boys on the squad, which executes intricate grid maneuvers with precision.

A moose's skinned nose evoked considerable turmoil and amusement in the Waco police department Tuesday. This was a stuffed moose, being hauled from San Angelo to Austin. When the truck bearing it stopped at Elm and Peach, a negro's auto collided with the vehicle and jammed the former lord of the forest's proboscis into the sideboards. The negro probably alarmed by the sight of the moose, left the scene swiftly.

A new wrinkle in picketing procedure came to Mayor Fonville's attention at Houston Tuesday. The mayor's telephone rang and a disgruntled Houston cafe owner explained to Fonville that recently a union, in attempting to force his employes to join the union, had picketed his cafe, although his employes were not on strike, and that he had obtained a court injunction to stop the picketing. "Now," explained the morose cafe man, "the union men come into my cafe, occupy all the seats, buy a nickel cup of coffee and just stay there. My regular customers can't get a seat. What can you do about it?" "Nothing that I know of," replied the mayor.

The University of Texas men's glee club Tuesday sent out a call for tenors. The club, organized for the school year Monday night, listed many deep-throated tenors, but there were not enough tenors to raise a peep higher than a newly hatched setting of eggs.

TIGERS OPEN SEASON WITH 33-0 VICTORY OVER GAP

The Hico Tigers crushed the Cranfills Gap Lions, 33 to 0, here Friday night in the opening game of the season before a crowd of seven hundred and fifty people.

The Tigers got off to a slow start, letting a Lion man rush through them for a 40-yard gain on the kickoff. The Gap boys made no yardage plunging the first three downs, but gained 15 yards when the Tigers became over-anxious and were therefore penalized 5 yards each time for being off side. Quarterback Grady Brown did not think receiving the ball on the Gap's 15-yard line was so serious, so he let James Ross make a long, sweeping end run for a gain of 24 yards. Each down was good for a first down until a pass was intercepted.

Hico's line held in every respect, so very few yards were gained by the Lions by bucking the line. The Lions saw their only hope was to toss short passes, but even their passes did not click.

The new discovery, Red Odell, as a backfield man was a surprise to most of the fans when he dashed over the Gap line three times for touchdowns. This game was the first time he had ever carried the ball because he has been our center ever since his football career started. Grady Brown and James Ross also made two touchdowns.

Albert Brown's goal kicking was very accurate and straight. James Ross's long end runs were very profitable. Bill Pontremoli's passes clicked several times, and Grady Brown called a very interesting and exciting game. We must add, too, that the men on Hico's line blocked and held nicely all during the game.

The Tigers will miss Eldon Rogers in practicing for a week or two, but we know he will come back strong and ready for action. He had the hard luck of knocking his collar bone out of place the first play of the game.

The Tigers have great possibilities and will be dangerous for the rest of the season. They have the manpower to go places and are not responsible for anything that may happen when feathers will be flying next Friday night with Walnut Springs. Competition is what we are looking for and Walnut says she can supply us plenty. The Walnut Springs Hornets will probably buzz around and try to sting the Tigers but we are expecting about one thousand fans out Sept. 30th to watch us settle them down in a hurry.

HICO TIGERS TO ENGAGE WALNUT HORNETS

With the victory over the Gap eleven under their belt, the Tigers are waiting for the Hornet eleven to come to town. With the forecast of a tight, exciting game, the Tigers have been working long and hard this week so as to be more than ready for the Hornets. The Hornets are said to have a stronger team than the Gap and are just ready to wipe the Tigers off the map.

The Tigers have been working on blocking and tackling the past week and are ready to show the home town fans some hard smashing blocks and tackles. With their power plays more improved and several new plays perfected the Tigers are ready to take the sting out of the Hornets.

Place—Grimland Field, Hico. Time—8 o'clock. Date—Sept. 30, 1938. Under the new lights of Grimland Field.

class sponsor, Max Ragsdale, and Jim Willie. We were the first class to have any kind of entertainment this year and it proved to be very successful. Oh, Yea! Margaret Reilhan forgot to come to the party and Mr. Kluge joined the barnyard. Thanks, Mr. and Mrs. Carlton. M. L. W.

THE BERTNANNIES

The Bertnannies met at the home of Priscilla Rodgers Saturday evening. The main thing played was Star Checkers. Other games were played also.

After this refreshments of candy bars were served to each member. The following are pet sayings of each member:

Roberta—You can't do this to me. Carroll—You're all afraid. Mary Ella—I told Priscilla I would come by at 1:30.

Joseph—"Noooooo!" Eugene. Glen—I've got to watch my figure.

Eugene—Hush, John. Richard—I ought to quit.

Priscilla—Monty Magee and his little old fat fingers. That's silly.

The Bertnannies will meet at Eugene Hackett's next Saturday.

FRESHMEN

The freshman class is so large we had to divide them into two classes. We have three new students while three have gone. Our class role is now 53.

Although we have a hard time finding our classes, we enjoy High School a lot.

We were glad to see such a large crowd out on Freshman Night. Our entertainment was the band, and songs and yells from the Pep Squad, and a speech from Coach Grimland, Durwood Polk, and Bill Hall.

We have organized a Social Club and Rita Gandy, Pansy McMillan, Ima Norton, Odell Welborn, Sunny Leeth and Bobby Jones were appointed as Social Committee. We expect to have parties, picnics, hikes and many other entertainments.

HOME EC. NEWS

We have finished the unit on managing money. We are going to study, "How To Be Well Groomed."

There are sixteen girls in the home economics class. We all enjoy the course and are looking forward to having a home economics cottage.

REPORTER

At the football game Friday night the Pep Squad in full uniforms of orange and white, waving orange and white banners, with the help of the school band seemed to cheer the winning spirit with their songs and yells. Although the Pep Squad did not have any formations this week, at all the other games they will. The Pep Squad is improving daily under the direction of Miss Wagstaff and the three chosen leaders. D. R. F.

ANNUAL STAFF

Tuesday morning the Seniors met the first period to elect the annual staff. They elected: Business Manager: Mamye Wright. Assistant Business Mgr: Daisy French.

Editor: Dorothy Cunningham. Asst. Editor: Rachel Marcum.

The rest of the assistants will be appointed by the above staff at a later date.

We, the Seniors, are looking forward to doing our part toward making this annual one of the best and feel confident that the other classes will give us their whole hearted support.

GRAMMAR SCHOOL NEWS

General: School has been running long enough to know that the Grammar School is running better than ever. Teachers are enthusiastic about their work which naturally causes children to be enthusiastic.

The new physical education program is causing quite a bit of enthusiasm and sore muscles. The principal has threatened to paint some artificial trees on the playgrounds for teachers to use at play periods, but he now thinks since the heat is getting less intense it will not be necessary.

The whole Grammar School is grateful for the clean building which makes children and teachers feel better.

They are anxious to welcome all children from other schools. May they enjoy this school year.

Seventh grade news: The seventh grade is organized with Joyce Gandy as president, Mary Nell Hancock as vice president, Zella Diltz as secretary, and Lola Mae as class reporter.

The 4-H club met last Wednesday and quite a bit of enthusiasm among the girls was shown.

SIXTH GRADE

The sixth grade room has made a great improvement in appearance since last year. The walls all patched and clean make everyone anxious to get to school in the morning. Three new pictures have been added to the room.

One of the best things is that Mrs. S. H. Carlton has been elected Home Room Mother. The class is very proud of her and is looking forward to a very successful year.

The following officers have been elected: President, Mary Nell Ellington; vice president, Walter Ramey; secretary, Margie Lee Simons; reporter, Carolyn Holford.

FIFTH GRADE

The 5a class returned to school

this year to find much improvement in the appearance of the grammar school building.

The class has been organized with James Ray Bobo as president, Barton Everett as vice president, Sunshine Mann as secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. Mann as Home Room Mother.

The FEUD at SINGLE SHOT

By Luke Short

Fatal Installment
Crowell laughed again, that soft insane laugh that struck chills to Rosy's spine. Crowell turned to Pearson, who had not moved in the last minute. The banker's face was gray with fear.

"Let's get out, Crowell," Pearson said.
"You squealing swine," Crowell said tonelessly, a kind of secret mad delight in his voice. "I would have died for you and you turn me in." Slowly his gun swiveled to Pearson, but his eyes were on Rosy and the sheriff. Pearson backed away against the wall, uttering small, unearthly cries of terror. Crowell slid his eyes to the gun and shot twice at Pearson. The banker's scream was cut short and he folded up like a tired child. Crowell's gun was trained again on Rosy and the sheriff, who did not dare move.

"A good job, wasn't it?" Crowell asked. Mary moaned a little in the corner.
Suddenly, Crowell laughed a high, frenzied laugh of a maniac, turned the gun to his chest and pulled the trigger. The impact of his own shot bumped him against the wall and he sagged to the floor. "Probably the first good thing he ever done," Laredo said softly.

Rosy fell in beside Mary as they left the doctor's. Laredo and Quinn were ahead of them. The rest had stayed behind a moment.
"Let's walk slow," Mary said.
"I reckon I feel that way too," Rosy answered. "It come a little too fast."

The silence was long.
"Rosy, do you mind telling me things?" Mary asked presently.
"Anything you want to know," Rosy said gently.

"Did you know that Ted was mixed up in this when you came to the house this morning?"
"I was pretty sure."

"And you didn't tell me why?"
"I couldn't," Rosy said huskily. "He was your husband."

"What would you have done if this—if Ted had been along with Pearson and Crowell tonight?"
"I wouldn't have been there," Rosy answered promptly. He amended this. "Yes, I would too. But I wouldn't have liked it."

"Why? Was Ted any more deserving of sympathy than the others?"
"Less," Rosy answered briefly. Mary thought this over and asked why.

"Pearson was a lone wolf," Rosy explained. "Out for money and he didn't care how he got it. Crowell was a gambler. He'd risk his neck for a stake. Winters? Well, he had more to lose than the rest. He carried more with him when he fell. He turned to Mary. "Why are you asking me this?"

"I don't know," Mary answered soberly. "It's just—she looked up at him. "Maybe you wouldn't understand me if I told you."

"I'd try."
"Well, it's hard to put in words. I can't remember very many men. Dave was taken away when we were both young. He was a good brother, but he didn't have much use for girls. Dad was—well, headstrong. Dave's arrest made him bitter and unjust. Dad was harsh, terribly harsh, even on people he loved. Sometimes he could be unjust too. Then after I married Ted, it seemed as if the same traits were in him. Harshness even cruelty. Besides Ted and dad, I haven't been around men much—except the two hands that were working for us."

"And they weren't any different. Maybe worse," Rosy said.
"That's it. And when you and Dave came home, I saw you were different from the others I'd known. So when you were kind enough to hide all this from me, it was hard to believe. It was something new."

They rounded the corner and cut across the street to the hotel. Rosy's face was grim, his jaw set. Mary looked at him shyly; he did not look at her. As they entered the lobby, Mary stopped.
"I'm sorry if I've offended you," she said humbly.

Rosy smiled a little crookedly. "Bless your heart, you didn't," he said gently.
"I don't understand," Mary said. "You looked so cross."

Rosy fumbled with his hat, not taking his eyes from hers. "Then some day, I'm going—I'm going to ask you something and if you will answer it the way I hope you will—He bogged down, then began again valiantly: "When this is all over and you know your own mind, I'm going to—I hope—"

"I think I know what it is, Rosy," Mary answered simply. She placed a hand on his arm. "I think I know what I'll answer."

Rosy waited for her to go on. She only smiled and squeezed his arm a little. "And I think it will be what you hope it is."

She turned and walked across the lobby and up the stairs, her back straight, erect.
Dave was the last to leave the doctor's.
"I'm going to sleep the clock around," he muttered as he descended the steps.

"Dave," it came from the opened door and he stopped. It was from Dorsey. She came close to him.
"I couldn't let you go without telling you that I'm sorry I said what I did this afternoon," she said, her voice low and sincere.

"That's all right," Dave said. "It wasn't all wrong! I was wrong! I never understood how right you were until I heard and saw all this tonight."
"It was pretty bloody."

"But if a man doesn't fight for what he has and loves, people will take them away from him."
"I reckon that's right."

They walked down to the station both of them silent. Both the Free Throw and the Mile High were lighted brightly, a pleasant din issuing from their doors.

They swung into the station and Laredo hammered on the lowered window. A mild man wearing eyeglasses raised it and smiled when he saw Laredo.

"Hallo, Harvey," Laredo greeted him. "Reckon my friend here could send a telegram?"
"Sure."

The agent shoved the blank in front of Quinn, who wrote his message. When he was finished, he handed it to Laredo.

"I can't read," Laredo said dolefully. He swore. "It's the only time in my life I wanted to. What does it say?"
Quinn read aloud from the blank containing this message:

"And I was angry when you took to your guns to stop... Dorsey said humbly.
"You were half right at that," Dave said. "I took to my guns once too often—a long time ago. I lost enough that time to make me think twice about going for them again."

He looked down at her and spoke kindly. "That's what you were trying to remind me of, wasn't it?"
"No," Dorsey said simply. "I have never thought you lost anything in jail, Dave. I didn't know you before, but you couldn't have been any—she hesitated, seeking a word, and feeling a slow flush come over her face."

"Any what?" Dave said.
"Any finer, more honest, braver," she finished.
She felt Dave's hand grip her arms, saw his dark face with its darker eyes looking down on her.

"It's worth eight years in the pen to hear you say that," he said huskily. "It makes a difference."
"What difference?"
"I can hold my head up now," Dave said softly. "I can go on thinkin' there's something to life besides fightin', eatin' and sleepin'."

"Just because I said that, Dave?"
"You make it sound small," Dave said. "It isn't."
He looked down at her fondly.

"It's like—well, like food for the way I've been. I guess I've been sick."
"Then you'll grow fat and sleek, Dave," Dorsey said with a little laugh.
Dave frowned. "I reckon I don't know what you mean."

"That was honest, anyway," Dorsey said. "It was like you."
"But I still don't see," Dave said humbly.
"If my saying I trusted you, believed in you, is food for you, Dave, then you will grow fat. There. Isn't that plain?"

Dave paused, suppressing a grin.
"I reckon not," Dave said. "But Dorsey did not see the grin. "I can't make it plainer without making it too plain," she said softly.

Dave did not answer and Dorsey sighed. She would be honest. "I'll be blunt, Dave. It's simply this: I love you."

With a low laugh, Dave caught her in his arms and kissed her. "And I've loved you from the first time I saw you."

At the corner of the Free Throw Quinn asked Laredo: "Think I could send a telegram tonight, Laredo?"
"Sure. I know Stanley. He'll take it."

They walked down to the station both of them silent. Both the Free Throw and the Mile High were lighted brightly, a pleasant din issuing from their doors.

WE ARE ALL AMERICANS

There seems to be a tendency on the part of states and municipalities to discriminate against people from other communities who come seeking employment or the opportunity to engage in business or industry.

The strength of America has been derived from the migratory traits of its people. We have become a great nation, the wealthiest and most powerful in the world, because we are the largest area of land anywhere in the world in which there are no tariff or other artificial barriers.

THE WORLD OF TOMORROW

A survey of the America of the future has been made by the National Resources Committee in Washington, on the basis of the Census Office reports of population statistics.

Right now the high schools and colleges of the nation are overcrowded. The children born of marriages right after the war are filling them.

Such changes will have wide economic effects. Businesses which cater to the young will decline. Businesses which supply commodities to older people will grow.

for things which provide comfort for the middle-aged. That is what the future looks like now.

THIS WEEK IN WASHINGTON

Washington, Sept. 27. (Auto-caster).—The failure of the President's attempt to "purge" the Democratic party of Senators who have opposed any of his major legislative proposals is the main topic of political comment in Washington these days.

There is no doubt left in the mind of any impartial observer of public affairs that the split in the Democratic party goes much deeper than the surface and reaches down through the mass of the party voters.

There is no other way to account for the rejection at the party primaries of the White House appeals for the defeat of Senators Gillette of Iowa, Adams of Colorado, McCarran of Nevada, Van Nuys of Indiana, Smith of South Carolina, Bedings of Maryland, Loneragan of Connecticut, and George of Georgia.

In two other instances, where the President threw the weight of his personal appeal behind New Deal Senators who sought re-nomination, McDade of California and Pope of Idaho, both Senators were defeated.

The Presidential endorsement was heeded by the voters at the Democratic primaries which re-nominated the New Deal Senators Barkley of Kentucky, Thomas of Oklahoma, Bulkley of Ohio, Pepper of Florida and Mrs. Caraway of Arkansas.

Independent Congress

While it is conceded by almost every intelligent observer here that the President's personal popularity with the masses of the people is still only slightly dimmed, it is generally conceded that the failure of voters of his own party to act on his appeal will make it extremely difficult for him to get the next Congress, even though its complexion be overwhelmingly Democratic.

It seems certain that it will be a much more independent Congress than any which has sat in the Capitol since 1932.

There is much gossip about the chance of the President calling a special session of Congress to meet immediately after the November election.

No matter how cocky and independent the 76th Congress may feel and behave, however, there is no guarantee that it will be any more economical than its recent predecessors.

Close to the President is a group of political advisers who are committed to greater and greater Government expenditures.

Despite the Treasury attitude, it seems clear that the new Congress will be overwhelmed by demands from many sources for new spending.

groups will be extremely strong, and quite non-partisan.

Republicans as well as Democratic candidates for Congress are pledging themselves to support the Townsend Plan or some modification of it for old-age pensions for everybody.

National Defense Sums The Navy Department will ask, and the President will back it up, for more money for more fighting ships and planes.

There is much gossip about the chance of the President calling a special session of Congress to meet immediately after the November election.

Some smart political prognosticators figure that the President might get his Reorganization bill through this Congress, whereas it seems to face certain failure in the next.

If the European war situation seems to be affecting American interests, it is quite probable that a special session will be called to consider such things as revision of our neutrality laws, further strengthening of our naval air force, and our financial relations with European nations.

The one and only rule is that pictures must be hung at eye level, at a more or less uniform height around the room.

Sunday School Lesson by Rev. Charles E. Dunn

The One True God. Lesson for October 2nd: 1 Corinthians 8:4-6. Golden Text: Deuteronomy 6:5. During the final quarter of the year we are to study together the Ten Commandments in the light of the teachings of Jesus.

It is the fashion today to belittle the Ten Commandments as too negative and antiquated. Christians are fond of saying that the Beatitudes are much to be preferred.

Insomnia

No scientific study has solved the problem of sleep. The loom of life never stops and the pattern we were weaving when slumber enfolded us is still in the process of weaving when we awaken.

Recently medical men in a well known scientific laboratory have been making a study of sleep, using for this purpose puppies.

Nancy Hart's HOME NEWS

The selection of pictures for one's home is unquestionably a personal matter of taste but placing them effectively is something else again and requires study and a feeling for proportion.

The picture hung above the fireplace is necessarily above eye level. Naturally it dominates the room and should be chosen as the keynote of color.

the discipline of obedience to law. No one has the right to claim that he has measured up to the mature, positive tenets of the Beatitudes unless he has first trod the hard path of the Commandments.

But as Dr. H. S. Coffin points out, the Commandments might better be phrased, "You must have at least one God." The danger today, he well says, is not that folk have too many deities, but rather that they have none at all.

Exercise An Aid

I had an elderly lady patient who complained that she never slept except for a few minutes each night.

Take enough exercise so as to be tired when bedtime comes; have a quiet bed and cool room with comfortable surroundings; lightweight bed clothes, and relax when you retire and sleep usually will come naturally.

Dainty House Frocks
PATTERN 8291

And it just couldn't be cuter—proving, once again, that the simplest things are the best, when designed with real ingenuity and good taste! In just a few hours after you spread out your fabric, with your diagram pattern on top of it, you'll have 8291 all ready to slip on over your head.

Make the dress of Pique, gingham, percale, calico—any sunfast cotton in the prettiest print, and see if it isn't the most becoming and comfortable morning style you've ever worn!

Pattern No. 8291 is designed for sizes: 14, 16, 18, 20; 40, 42 and 44. Size 16 requires 4 1/2 yards of 35 inch material, 2 yards of rickrack to trim.

PATTERN 8990

Your little girl will adore this pretty frock, designed especially to become her growing years. The braid trimming is particularly new and very popular. A wearable version of the Princess silhouette with front panel trimmed in buttons, this dress will give her a grown-up look that is sure to delight her.

This pattern is easily converted into a party dress, if made up in taffeta or chiffon and trimmed with ribbon or lace instead of braid. For daytime wear, colorfast broadcloth or wrinkle-proof linen are satisfactorily used.

Designed in sizes: 4, 6, 8, 10, 12, 14 years. Size 6 requires 2 1/2 yards of 35 inch material and 6 yards of braid for trimming. If ribbon is used on sash, 2 1/2 yards are required.

Boyce House says there is a sign in a Tyler cafe which reads: "Our food is like Mother used to cook before she took up bridge."

Bernard Ogle had a birthday Sunday, but forgot all about it until after he had worked all day. He claims he doesn't know how old he really is, but we think he has a pretty good idea.

Joe Collier received a letter last week from his son who is in Sanatorium, and says that he is doing nicely. Friends here who visited there Sunday and saw John also reported that he is getting along fine.

Jots appointed herself as sports writer several weeks ago to handle all the Tigers' football games and went up to the game Friday night to get the lowdown. Several touchdowns were made and also the points after the touchdowns, but here is about all the dope we could gather: Mrs. Brown had a new black dress; Mrs. Jones was wearing last year's hat; the band had three new drum majors; Miss Smith had a date; Mrs. Greene won high score at the bridge party; and Mrs. Vandevanter doesn't approve of her new son-in-law. More next week after we play Walnut Springs.

Miss Imogene LaGrone, County Home Demonstration Agent, was a visitor in our office Friday to get acquainted with the force. Miss LaGrone says she feels like she is almost out of the county when she gets up this far. From Milam county, Miss LaGrone took the place of Miss Sally Jones, who left Hamilton to go to a Central Texas county, which she did not like half so well as Hamilton county and finally grew so desperate that she got married. Miss LaGrone is well pleased with her work and was in Hico looking for a sponsor for a girls' 4-H club, which she hopes to establish here in the near future.

Bill Ray, salesman for Friedman-Shelby Shoe Co. out of St. Louis, is one person who broke his neck and lived to tell about it. Mr. Ray comes through town every so often and stops at Richbourg's. Several years ago an icy pavement in Wichita Falls caused an accident in which he broke his neck and was forced to remain in a hospital there for a long time. After the doctor examined him he told him that he had three chances in a thousand to live. "Well, I'll take any one of the three," replied Ray, and he did. Now he drives a car as well as he ever did.

TARLETON PLOWBOYS

Lose First Game of Season to the Wildcats From A. C. C.

Stephenville, Sept. 25.—In the first game of the season for both teams, the A. C. C. Tarleton Plowboys won a hectic game from the team Tarleton Plowboys with a score of 21 to 6. The Tarleton Plowboys won the game by rushing over three touchdowns in the first quarter. They completed their scoring with a safety in the final chapter when Wooliverton, attempting to pass, was downed behind his own goal line.

After the opening whistle the Wildcats took possession of the ball and marched to a touchdown; Persky accounted for the score on a 5-yard jaunt around end. In an exact repetition of their first score, Jones went over for a second marker. The third touchdown came as a result of a pass from Persky to Bennett. The accurate passing of Wooliverton for the Plowboys won the admiration of the crowd.

"HUMAN ANTS"
Best Describes Thrifty H. Viertel Family of Hamilton County

By IMOGENE LaGRONE (Home Demonstration Agent)

"Human ants" could well be the name applied to Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Viertel because of their constant work and far-sightedness in storing away a food supply for this winter.

Safely stored in a dry, well ventilated storm cellar are 610 containers (291 quarts and 229 pints) of 46 varieties of foodstuffs. In addition to the canned products are 7 gallons of lard, 15 pounds of dried beans, 2 bushels of popcorn, 60 pounds of onions, and 5 bushels of potatoes.

They have also cured 175 pounds of pork, 50 pounds of bacon, 25 pounds of sausage, 75 pounds of ham, and 25 pounds of shoulder.

The different varieties of foods in Mrs. Viertel's pantry are: Beef roast, beef chili, beef soupstock, stew meat (beef and pork), pork roast, spare ribs, pork sausage, tenderloin, mincemeat, turkey, turkey soupstock, chow chow, sandwich spread, beet pickles, cucumber pickles (dill and spices), sweet pickle peaches, blackberry jam, plum jelly, plum butter, pear preserves, grape jelly, blackberry jelly, pears, peaches, blackberries, tomatoes, greens, black-eye peas, green beans, wax beans, sauerkraut, corn, corn relish, vegetable salad mixture, pinto beans with potatoes, Irish potatoes, onions, dried beans (white and pinto), and popcorn.

Mrs. Viertel is the Home Food Supply demonstrator for the Goar Valley Home Demonstration Club, and has all this food put away for just her and her husband and company. Don't we hope we can be some of the company?

News of the World Told In Pictures

LISTEN TO THIS

By TOM FIZDALE

Jack Haley goes into rehearsal this week for the opening of his new fall radio series on October 14. The Haley program this year will be built around the stars of last season, including Ted Fio Rito and Virginia Verrill. Switching over to the CBS network, the comedian will be heard Friday nights. October will be a big month for Haley, since he also starts work then on a new picture at Twentieth Century-Fox.

Meredith Willson, music director of the Good News broadcasts, is getting a lot of kidding from Frank Morgan, Bob Young and other members of the cast about his English haircut that he brought back from his European jaunt, but he is giving them just as good in return. Willson is just about the best actor among the conductors whom, current radio practice insists, must read lines as well as music.

Because his work as an adjuster of family and social problems is so highly appreciated, John J. Anthony, conductor of the Original Good Will hour on Mutual, has more than thirty children named for him. He believes it is the highest compliment anyone can receive.

When you hear Parkyakarkus on Al Jolson's broadcasts you wouldn't guess he was a coin collector—but that's his secret passion. He had a near tragedy last week as a result of it. Sent an 1877 penny, valued at $20, he left it on his desk and the maid picked it up with some other change to pay the milkman. He's still trying to trace it down.

Jane Froman, beautiful songstress, and her husband, Don Ross, are closing their New York apartment to entertain for Hollywood where Jane will share singing honors on the new Star Theatre with Kenny Baker starting October 5, via CBS. The fire chief show will mark the first time in several years that she has been induced to come to the microphone as a regular weekly assignment—having been devoting her time to guest spots, concert work and pictures.

Adventure will return to the air for boy and girl listeners on September 28 when Jack Armstrong—the All-American Boy, comes back to an NBC-Red network, Monday through Friday. Zanzibar, South America and Tibet are on this season's itinerary. Written by Talbot Mundy, world traveler and adventurer, the adventures that Jack Armstrong and his friends encounter ring true.

Fibber McGee reports that his vacation was very profitable—thanks to the hot weather in Kansas City during the nine weeks he was off the air. His extra-broadcast activity is a soft-drink bottling plant. It's about the only thing he hasn't been able to move to Wistful Vista.

Jerry Cooper, romantic baritone of radio, stage and screen, is the new star of Vocal Varieties over the NBC-Red network these Tuesday and Thursday evenings. Cooper, who is one of radio's most popular singers, was added to the all-star singing cast which includes the Smoothies, DeVore Sisters, Vicki Chase and a male octet, all under the direction of Bill Steiss.

Those surrealistic paintings by Gracie Allen which caused such a furore in Hollywood and Chicago, are now on exhibit in the exclusive Julian Levy galleries in New York. That completes Gracie's coast-to-coast trip on a paint brush.

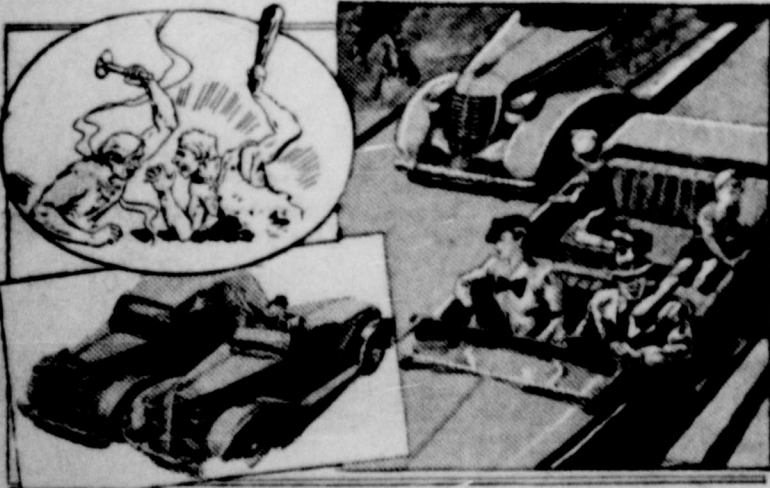

TEXAS 4-H ENTRY IN NATIONAL DAIRY MEET

PAUL ADAMS, 18, and Ivey Miller, 16, both of Pickton in Hopkins County, will represent the State in the National 4-H Dairy Production Demonstration Contest at the National Dairy Show in Columbus, Ohio, October 8 to 15. The contest is being conducted by the Extension Service throughout the Nation for the second year, and is designed to improve methods on dairy farms. The state winning team won over pairs from 12 other counties and was awarded the trip by State Club Leader L. L. Johnson. The boys demonstrated the production of clean milk, showing the best utensils and the procedure to follow, and were coached by Assistant County Agent J. W. McFarridge. They receive all-expense trips to Columbus through the Kraft-Phenix Cheese Corporation, which is also giving a total of $2,800.00 in college scholarships to the two highest ranking teams in each of the four Extension Sections. Last year L. C. Love and James Dean of Eastland County represented the State in the national finals.

Are You a Throwback?

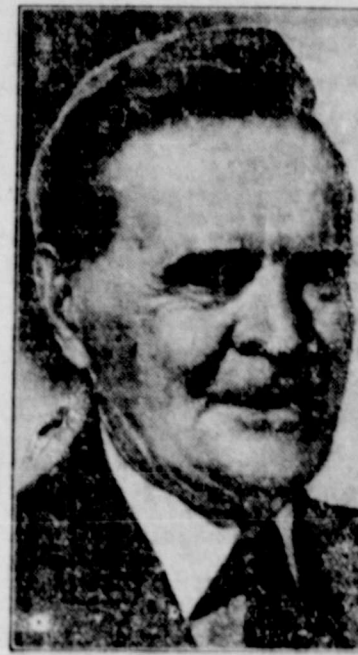

We shudder when we read of the unthought and ignorant savagery of our aboriginal ancestors. We wonder that the race survived. And yet, have we really progressed so far? Americans, when they get a toe on an accelerator, often revert to barbarism. No other term adequately describes some of the dangerously bad manners witnessed every day on the highways.

"Next time you start out on a trip," the booklet says, "Take that chip off your shoulder! Add to your sense of humor along. Promise yourself that you won't let little things disturb you, and see what happens. If someone attempts to steal your right-of-way, don't argue, but let him have it. A safe journey, and a surprisingly pleasant journey, will be your reward."

WHO WROTE IT?

My Sweetheart's The Man In The Moon

HE was a singing waiter before he became a songwriter, and songwriting led him to a long and prosperous career in vaudeville. Ben-vivante, friend to his contemporary great, he amassed and spent or gave away several fortunes in the days he toured America "rocking the cradle of vaudeville." He wrote many songs on inspiration. Once, when his wife complained that he didn't love her, he told her that he loved her just as he did when she was sweet sixteen. Out of that grew the song "When You Were Sweet Sixteen." During the Chicago World's Fair of 1893, he remarked of Little Egypt, "She never saw the streets of Cairo," and from that grew another song. His long life drew to a close only recently, and hundreds of celebrities of the music world, the theatre and radio attended his last rites. The American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, of which he was a member, continues to pay his heirs his share of the earnings of its repertoire to commercial users of music. His name is James Thornton.

Don't Blame the Car

Less than 10 per cent of the fatal and non-fatal crashes on our highways last year were caused by mechanical failure, according to The Travelers Insurance Company's analysis of the 1937 automobile accident experience.

In more than 90 per cent of the accidents, the vehicle was found to have been in apparently good condition. The trouble lay in human failure.

In the vast majority of cases it is the driver and the pedestrian and not the car that causes accidents.

PERSONALITIES IN MUSIC

JOHN TASKER HOWARD, A.S.C.A.P.

By Daniel I. McNamara

JOHN TASKER HOWARD, A.S.C.A.P., interpreter of current trends in American musical culture, occupies an outstanding position among contemporary men of music. Author, composer, pianist, lecturer, radio speaker, he constantly reveals a spirited-nationalism born of pride in the achievements of native American musicians.

His zeal for historical accuracy has made him a storm-center of numerous controversies. It was his personal effort that finally settled the dispute over the birthplace of Stephen Foster, and indicated the restored musical shrine at Pittsburgh as the building that really cradled the great American composer. Similarly, he dispelled the myth of Foster's having written "My Old Kentucky Home" in Bardonia, Kentucky.

His encyclopedic work, "Our American Music," and his biographies of Stephen Foster and of Ethelbert Nevin are permanent contributions to the library of American standard literature. His musical compositions include orchestral and choral music, organ and piano pieces, songs, the music for Percy Mackaye's folk-masque, "Wakefield," and many arrangements of early American songs used in his radio broadcasts and lectures.

Born November 30, 1890, in Brooklyn, New York, grand nephew of a namesake who founded Plymouth Church of Henry Ward Beecher fame, Howard first studied music with his mother. He left Williams College after three and one-half years, before he completed work for his Bachelor's degree. In 1937 the College conferred on him an honorary degree of Master of Arts.

Brief experience in commerce convinced Howard that music was his life work. He occupied editorial posts with musical publications, and then began lecturing and radio work, and the writing of books and biographical pamphlets.

His "Our American Music" is a standard reference work in schools and colleges. His library in his Glen Ridge, New Jersey, home is rich with rare historical documents bearing on the development of music in America.

Howard's enthusiasm for modern music is stimulated by his associations in the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, of which he has been a member for many years. More than one thousand creators of music are included in this organization, founded in 1914 by Victor Herbert to protect the performing rights of its members' musical works.

Howard's writing and radio broadcasts are prepared with meticulous care. "Hard writing makes easy reading" is his motto. He has found that for each minute on the air, he spends an hour in preparation.

Howard has five enthusiasms—he lists his family first (the personally teaches his daughter piano); then come contract bridge, golf, cross word puzzles and his cocker spaniel, "Tucky," an abbreviation of "My Old Kentucky Home." But the driving force of his life is his nationalism, his work for recognition of American composers.

TODAY and TOMORROW

HISTORY understanding People who do not know the history of the past are inclined to think of the world of the present as a pretty hard place to live in...

The chief value of history is to make people understand that most of the romantic talk about "the good old times" is pure bunk.

The worst tenement houses of the city slums, which such great efforts are being made to eradicate, are palatial mansions by comparison with the houses that even the upper classes lived in in the "good old days" when Henry VIII was king of England.

HOUSING 200 years ago

I have been lately looking into the history of housing, in Europe and America. From the movies and romantic historical novels it is easy to get the impression that our ancestors all lived in beautiful "Colonial" houses or magnificent castles and manor houses.

In England, until the rediscovery of the process of making brick, there were no chimneys in the houses of ordinary people. A hole in the roof let out the wood smoke which filled the single room.

The houses which the early American colonists built for themselves were of much the same order, or else of "shakes," rough boards split out of logs, since they had no sawmills.

RELIEF progress

In the "good old times" of Henry VIII's reign laws were enacted forbidding the poor to beg, and providing for the collection of a poor fund by each parish priest.

Any person who violated the law against begging was whipped. If he was caught begging a second time he had his right ear cut off.

VOTES disqualifications

The idea that every citizen is entitled to a direct vote in the election of public officials is a very new one indeed. Down to less than 100 years ago in most American states, and still later in most other nations, none but the owners of property and taxpayers were allowed to vote.

In most states until very recently paupers or others supported out of the public funds had no vote.

I am quite in sympathy with the group of women of Suffern, New York, who point out that, since recipients of relief must take the "pauper's oath," and all W. P. A. workers are taken from the relief rolls, those groups are automatically disqualified from voting in the states where paupers are disqualified.

DRINKING warnings

One effect of the repeal of prohibition has been the efforts of brewers and distillers, on an unprecedented scale, to induce people to drink.

drinking lately issued by the New York State Liquor Authority. It reads, in part: "Watch for these warning signs: "If you drink when you are tired to brace up; if you drink to escape from worry and trouble; if you drink when you feel blue; if you drink in the morning to pep up for the day; if you find that taking a drink before lunch or dinner or at any stated time has become such a habit that you feel uncomfortable without it; if you find that your drinking is no longer or social drinking, but that you are thinking more of the drink than of the sociability and are often drinking by yourself; "Then it is time to watch out!" That is commonsense advice. Nobody who heeds that warning will become a drunkard.

SHORT COURSE

Trip Described by Mary Elizabeth Lund, 4-H Girl

(Mary Elizabeth Lund of Hamilton County gave this report to the Home Demonstration Council Saturday, Sept. 17. The council had awarded her the trip because she won the county "Judging of Canned Fruits Contest," and was eligible to enter the State contest at the Junior Short Course.)

We had a nice trip down and lots of fun, but it was more fun to get assigned to our rooms and find that we had to sleep upon two and three story beds. If Mary Nell had not caught me one time, I would have rolled off one morning. The girls were all jolly, and we learned to know many girls from over the State. My roommates were Gertrude Stegmoller from Indian Gap, and two girls from Plainville.

Every morning we went to Guion Hall, a very pretty building, and it was thrilling to see several thousand people gathered in one place. (Approximately 2,500 club boys and girls representing 50,000 Texas 4-H club members, attended the Junior Short Course.) We heard special programs and we enjoyed the group singing led by Mr. Walter Jenkins from Houston. We saw and heard the most outstanding club boys and girls from all over Texas; the 4-H delegates to the National 4-H Encampment in Washington, D. C.; our state agents; and our State Senator, Mr. Tom Connally. They all made good talks, if we could just remember part of what they said it would help us.

Wednesday morning we were organized into groups by districts. Our county was in group four, and we elected floor leaders, pep-leaders, and song leaders. Every time we went to a program, to meals, or anywhere we had to march in our group. One of the most interesting things to me was going to the big dining hall, and rows of tables all set with white dishes, white paper napkins stuck in the glasses, and pretty oranges and colored cereal boxes. The boys who waited on the tables wore white coats and were always so polite and kind; we were always hungry and had good meals.

One interesting program we heard was some girls imitating a broadcast station and giving the names of suitable vegetables to plant. Some girls were from West Texas, and they dramatized their frame gardens. They raised fresh vegetables from April 15 on in places where some of them had never seen even Irish potatoes growing before they learned in 4-H club work to make frame gardens. One girl showed us how she made tiles for sub-irrigating her frame garden. She used four parts coarse sand and one part cement with just enough water to make it stiff. She made the tile in a home-made form and it costs only about one cent a foot. She said you could use tin cans with both ends cut out and lay them end to end and wrap them with brown paper.

In some counties the 4-H girls are learning how to raise poultry. They had made their own water fountains, feeders, and nests, and said that these must be kept clean all the time. They kept records and made files of their poultry flock. Some girls had learned to candle their eggs, and sold them to customers for fancy prices. They used a joint of black stove pipe with a hole cut out and a lamp inside, or a number 2 can and a flashlight. If you have electric lights you can use a shoe box. The main thing is to have clean nests and to gather your eggs in a wire basket twice a day. These girls had made their own baskets. They also used fine wire on the bottom of the nests and made them six inches deep.

One group of girls told how they entertained their parents and had parties. They had four pretty tables decorated and they showed us several kinds of refreshments that were easy to make and serve.

We learned how to arrange flowers and fruits for the table, and use what we have. I enjoyed the stories and lectures about wild flowers and animals. Mitt Hatfield told us how to press flowers and make us a scrap book.

The day I went to the fruit judging contest I was just a little nervous, and we had to hurry so much to get to the chemistry building where it was held that I was almost out of breath. We drew numbers and it fell my luck to judge cherries. I did not know as much about them as about the fruits that we grow here. I surely saw some pretty canned fruit of every kind.

The 4-H boys and girls thought the promenade each evening for getting a date for the night's entertainment was the biggest thrill of all. I was afraid mother might frown, so I did not get a date! The picture show was grand anyway.

Best of all was when we marched to the stadium at Kyle Field for entertainment. Or was it when we were invited to the tea given in honor of the Gold Star girls? We got to shake hands with the Gold Star girls and Senator Connally.

The dining hall was so pretty. We learned to know so many new people, saw all the beautiful buildings at A. & M. College, and learned new songs and games. We had a lot of fun from the last.

I hope I will be a better 4-H club member because I got to go to the 1934 Junior Short Course.

Christmas Is Coming—Also Thanksgiving

By T. C. RICHARDSON, Secretary
Breeder-Feeder Association

Turkey-Lime approaches, and turkey raisers who think ahead will come out best in the annual competition in supplying festival tables. It takes at least four to five weeks of good full feeding to put a good market finish on turkeys, and longer if they are not already in good condition and healthy. At this time, therefore, it is time to make plans for the home-stretch with turkeys which are to be sold for Thanksgiving.

Three or four weeks later will do for the Christmas crop. It is the finish, the last few pounds put on the breast and other thick parts of the turkey carcass, that determines the grade and the price per pound. It is false economy, therefore, to stint the feed at this stage. On the other hand every pound of this "finish" weight adds to the value of each pound of the original frame. The best figures available show that it takes from 4 1/2 to 6 pounds of grain (including mash feeds) to make a pound of gain in turkeys, and the average cost of feed grains over several years has been $5.40 to $7 per hundred pounds of turkey. At the lowest imaginable price turkeys pay well for the grain and mash necessary to put them in first-class market condition.

An idea has been broadcast that the demand is now largely for smaller turkeys, 10 pounds or so. One of the largest turkey shippers in Texas says the 15 to 16 pound turkey is still in best demand. Even if the former were true an unfinished turkey would not be acceptable. The writer knows city dealers who buy thin turkeys at their own price and fatten them for their trade, making a two-way profit. The farmer who sells this kind of turkeys is losing both ways—the sale of the grain to the turkey at a good price, and the city feeder gets paid for the small labor of feeding.

Turkeys are becoming so plentiful that consuming centers are getting more critical on the qual-

DISPELLING THE FOG

By CHARLES MICHELSON
Director of Publicity, Democratic National Committee

It is not only the Republican program committee—Glen Frank's outfit—and the differing elements typified by Ex-President Hoover, House Minority Leader Snell, and a dozen other important factors, that need coordinating. Their newspaper propagandists are equally at cross purposes. I wonder if it would be out of order to suggest a corn-field conference or something of the sort for these industrious purveyors of inspired opinion, at which some sort of general understanding of what they are driving at could be reached.

Perhaps in this way somebody might get some idea of what the Republican party is standing for or aiming at, to the great relief of their confused readers. I am not including the official press agent of the Minority party and its forlorn Foreign Legion of disgruntled Democrats. He has a definite job that is not concerned with his individual views, and there is no disguise of the sponsorship of his output. I refer to the newspaper columnists who are ostensibly free agents and who are perfectly impartial in their judgment of New Deal activities—that is, they agree that everything the President does must be wrong and everybody he opposes must be right.

For example, Mr. Frank Kent was recently horrified because the President described Sheridan Downey, the California nominee for the U. S. Senate, as a Liberal and refused to be alarmed because that candidate in his campaign connived at a hair-raising scheme of bestowing on unemployed people over fifty the sum of $30 a week to be financed by his state's treasury with some stamp-tax trimmings. The commentator infers that this marks the degradation of the whole New Deal principle.

On the other hand Mr. Mark Sullivan hails the defeat of Senator McAdoo by Downey as a crushing defeat for the New Deal and an evidence that the country is in revolt against it.

Dopesters Can't Agree. Actually, the McAdoo-Downey conflict had no New Deal angle to it. The President supported McAdoo, who had been loyal to his policies, but the 800,000 Californians who thought they saw $30 a week in prospect swung the election to the other fellow.

Mr. David Lawrence saw in the President's indicated support of the Democratic candidate against a Republican in the coming election a token sacrifice of principle in view of the $30 a week business.

Now, all these writers have been discussing politics for many years. They know that the archives of Congress are jammed with bills providing for things beside which these later-day dreams are conservative, to put it mildly. Nearly all these dust-covered papers represent nothing more than a Congressman's effort to square himself with his constituents. None enactment, or even of coming to a

Dale Carnegie 5-Minute Biographies

Author of "How to Win Friends and Influence People."

Sixty years ago, a group of boys were playing on the streets of a London suburb when an accident happened. One of the bigger boys picked up a little chap, called Bertie Wells, and tossed him high into the air; but instead of catching Bertie when he came down, the big boy dropped him and broke his leg.

For months Bertie lay writhing in bed with a heavy weight tied to his leg. But the bone didn't set properly. It had to be rebroken. It was a terrible experience. Little Bertie screamed in agony and terror. That seemed like a tragedy then, but Bertie knows better now. Today he is one of the most famous authors in the world. You know him not as Bertie, but as Herbert George Wells, or H. G. Wells. You have probably read some of his books. He has written over seventy-five volumes; and he himself admits that that broken leg was perhaps the luckiest thing that ever happened to him. Why? Because it kept him confined to the house for a whole year. He devoured every book he could get, because there was nothing else he could do.

Today, H. G. Wells is one of the highest paid authors on earth. He has probably made a million dollars with his pen; yet he was brought up in pinching poverty. Finally, the crockery shop failed. The family was desperate, so his mother had to take a job as a housekeeper on a big estate in Sussex. Naturally, she lived with the servants, and H. G. Wells often went there to visit her. And it was there that he got his first peep into English society life—and he got that peep from the servants' quarters.

The future author of The Outline of History started out in business life at the age of thirteen, as a dry goods clerk. He had to get up at five o'clock, sweep out the store, build the fire, and slave for fourteen hours a day. It was drudgery, and he despised it. At the end of one month, the boss fired him because he was untidy and troublesome. He finally got a job clerking in another drygoods store. He had to eat, so this time, he held out a bit longer. But when the floorwalker wasn't looking, he would sneak biology class. Her name was Catherine Robbins. Presently H. G. Wells found that he was more interested in Catherine than in biology. She was freckle and sickly. So was he. They wanted to grab all the happiness they could, at once. So they were married.

That was forty years ago; and, instead of dying, Wells regained his strength, turned out to be a human dynamo of energy and has been girding out two full-length books each year, books that have sent their reverberations around the world.

Declining cotton prices were to blame for a drop in cash income to Texas farmers in August, a report by the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research said today. The report said August income of $40,000,000 compared with $37,000,000 in August, 1937. It added unfavorable comparisons probably would continue through November, since the bulk of Texas cotton will be marketed in the Fall months. Aggregate income for the first eight months of the year was $200,000,000 compared with $267,000,000 for the same period last year.
