Here In

With Thanksgiving Day slated for most any time one gets hungry for turkey, this part of the country is indeed fortunate in being a sort of headquarters for turkey raisers. Definite announcement of Thanksgiving Day will be made as soon as arrangements can be worked out which will conform with the plans of neighboring towns. In the meantime, let's all plan to call it Turkey Day, and observe both Nov. 23 and Nov. 30 with a big turkey dinner.

Do we hear an invitation? Local buyers state that there are a good many turkeys in this territory, and say that the quality is good this year. However there are changes in the business that are going to have to be recognized before we can make a success of the raising and selling of the feathered birds which have contributed heavily to the income of local farmers during years past.

One buyer who has been in the game a long time remembers when we used to ship lots of birds to California. Now that State not only raises its own turkeys, but has a surplus to ship to the Eastern markets in competition with Texas growers. The same thing has happened in a great many of the Northwestern States, where specialists in poultry care are developing the new streamlined turkey. This new variety is said to less than the old average.

But we predict that Hico will quite a while yet to come. The farmers realize too much money from their efforts in this direction to let other growers crowd them rendered aid. His out of the market.

Last week Cackles said that Bosque County has lots of sorry turkeys. It's not the raisers' fault he says, but the condition is due to the long, hot, dry summer Feed is cheap, he says, and it will pay raisers to feed their birds and keep thm for the Christmas mar-

"Folks, if you push out your sorry turkeys on the November market you are sure going to ruin the market for both deals." says. "Because if we buy 'em we are going to take the prive to move these green turkeys. However, about one-third of Bosque turkeys are and will be ready for the November deal, and we can mix a few of the other turkeys with this third and get by with it, which will put one-half of the deal on each market."

This seems to be about what local buyers think, since there is no great difference in conditions here and at the Bosque County

Hallowe'en is always time for a lot of genuine fun and clean amusement. Too bad that it also generates a lot of foolishness and epredations that cause the date to be one of fear and dread for property owners.

For the past several years the local boys and girls have confined their operations to innocent fun, perty owners have been saved from the expense of replacing damaged property, and cleaning up a lot of mess around their places after the spooks got

The mayor and city council have made a special request this year that the kids and grownups confine their Hallowe'en meanderings to things that will not cause age or embarrassment. They probably will be accorded this request without further caution. If not, then there might be some emarrassing and unpleasant result on the perpetrators of mischief which is deemed to be out of line with the spirit of the occasion.

Let's all have fun, but let's remember the property rights of all

TAXPAYERS MAY SAVE City, County and State Offer Early Payment Discounts

Prompt payments of 1939 taxes will bring special discounts, according to notices which are being run in this issue of the paper by the City of Hico, and by County Tax Collector O. R. Williams.

Under the present plan, authorized recently by the Legislature, taxpayers may save 3 per cent on their tax bill by paying in October, 2 per cent in November, and 1 per cent in December. The net amount must be paid in January, and be-ginning February 1 penalty and interest will be applied as usual.

Mr. Williams announces that he will be in Hico with the tax books today. Friday. Oct. 27, for the convenience of taxpayers in this end of the county. He will be stationed at City Hall, and those who owe city taxes may take care of their entire bill at the same visit.

TWO HOLIDAYS / Will Be Celebrated Next Month In Hico By All Citizens

HICO, TEXAS, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 27, 1939.

A committee from the American Legion announced Thursday that plans were under way for special services for Armistice Day, which last year became a national legal holiday, and stated that observance of the day positively would be held on November 11th, which comes on Saturday this year. It has been suggested that in view of the fact that the date falls on Saturday, the stores would be requested to close only a part of the day, probably in the morning from 10 to 12. Further announcements will be made when plans are perfected.

Thanksgiving observance is another matter, since confusion has arisen over the President's proclamation of an earlier date for observance of same this year. Mayor Lawrence Lane has been in correspondence with officials of nearby towns, and it is hoped to make the observance uniform in this section. As soon as a decision is made, announcement will be forthcoming as to whether Hico s to observe Nov. 23 or Nov. 30 -or both-as Thanksgiving Day.

FAIRY ROAD

R. W. Hancock, commissioner of Precinct 3, has had a crew of workmen busy for the past several days with the county machinery widening and improving the Fairy road from Highway 66 south of city park to a point near the Bluebonnet Country Club. Additional right-of-way was ac quired from V. H. Hird and W. L. McDowell, and the fences have been set back along these places. The road has been widened and straightened, and at the corner of the McDowell place the curve has been reduced by cutting a corner. The road now presents the appearance of a State highway, and when surfaced will be relieved of the low places which have caused

MR MURPHY ON INTOL. ERANCE

The United States is not at war. If the present determination of the American people and the declared purpose of the American government prevail, we shall not involved in the European war. But there is evidence of an emotional uprising all over the nation, which is expressing itself in ways which may well be dangerous to the welfare of the country-as dangerous as war itself would be.

The Attoreny-General of the United States, Frank Murphy, called attention to this danger in a radio talk a week or so ago. Recalling the "spy hysteria" which infected all America when we entered the first World War, Mr. Murphy pointed out that nothing can be more un-American and unpatriotic than to point the finger of suspicion at the people of any particular class or group because their names have a foreign sound, they or their parents came to America from somewhere else, or their religious practices do not conform to the general standards of their communities. Mr. Murphy was especially emphatic on the last point. He took notice of the fact that a wave of anti-Jewish propaganda seems to be sweeping over the country, and whom is a priest of his own Ro- waist, cut high and fitted. in patriotism and understanding of cause it is gathered, above and be- kins and baby at Millerville.

Golden Text: 1 Corinthians 6:9 In Bible passages grouped in the lesson text we find that. through 800 years, drunkenness was recognized as an infamous evil that aggravated others.

The liquor traffic today is indissolubly connected with entrenched evils, and with it stamped out we could better deal with other prob-The liquor traffic is always on the defensive. Even full-page ads of liquor advise moderation. None undertakes to show the blessings

Three thousand years ago Solomon wrote: "Wine is a mocker." And it still deceives men, and mocks them in the end.

The liquor traffic increases government revenues. But why thus collect money that must be spent, with more, to control the traffic and deal with its human wrecks? And we cannot hope for great social progress as long as this monstrous evil is licensed to thwart much that is being done to make things better.

Some tell us that the use of liqnor can never be prevented, and that the practical thing to do is o regulate the traffic in it and alow the government to share the profit. But Christians should not compromise with any evil himself. And the only way to deal with him is to declare war upon him now and forever.

Many, with easy assumption of infallibility, brand National Prohibition as a failure. But conditions were better then. Certainly they were never worse than now, with the liquor traffic brought from behind swinging doors and its wares displayed in glittering show windows, with an increasing number of women drinking in "cocktail lounges.'

Let us work for an enlightened public opinion that in due time Prohibition will come again-to be enforced and to remain.

BAPTIST CHURCH

The opening exercises of the ten miles south of Balmorhea. Baptist Sunday School give promise of unusual interest especially for the coming month. A commit tee met this week and outlined a very interesting order of procedure for next Sunday and every Sunday in November.

The regular preaching hour for next Sunday evening will be occupied with a service under the direction of the young people of the church. The occasion will be the closing event in the all-church program for state missions which has been on for several days, and will no doubt attract an unusual attendance.

The pastor's next sermon on the Ten Commandments will be given instead of the evening as heretofore. The subject will be "Remembering the Sabbath Day."

Last Sunday evening, at the preaching hour, the boys and girls of the Senior Training Unand Mrs. U. D. Brown, who ion occupied the choir, to the delight of the congregation. This may be the beginning of some very interesting choir work in the future for this church.

This week the pastor sent to the Brown has been employed on the Baptist headquarters at Dallas a engineering staff which recently list of thirty names of men, wocompleted twelve new dormitories men, boys and girls who recently took the Training Union study courses in the church, and who successfully passed the examinations. The certificates of award will be presented as soon as they arrive. Some Sunday School study courses will be arranged for soon. -REPORTER
