Being informed in their own words that hey were equally anxious to see that the office was filled, we prevalled upon a local citizen to allow his name to be used for write-in purposes on the ticket. He was not a candidate. He did not seek the office. And having assumed the role of his campaign manager, we feel that we owe him an apology for the results. He received fifty-three votes, two others received one vote each, and the present incumbent was credited with fifty-eight. The fact that our unwilling candidate didn't get the majority we so rashly promised him is of secondary consideration, except between us. Personally we think we conducted a lousy campaign in view of the fact that we mentioned the matter to only a few friends just the day before election, and were not apprised of all the facts in the case. We take all be, embarrassed.

As usual, before the guests arrive, we will want to tidy up about our premises . . . wash our faces . . . and put on our best bib and tucker for our guests.

As a suggestion along this line, it might be well to remember that not only our appearance but our attitude and enthusiasm make a great impression on outsiders. Let's get into the mood fitting to the occasion . . think over our advantages . . . and tell our visitors all the good things we know.

"We've come a long way together," says the heading on the Chamber of Commerce message in this issue. To which we might add, "And at times the going's been tough." But when we pause to survey the situation—the progress that we as a group of citizens have made during the past 59 years—we glow with satisfaction.

Thanks To The Magic of Electricity

IN PIONEER DAYS, men worked from sun to sun and women's work was never done. Washing, ironing, cleaning and other household tasks had to be done by hand. Adequate refrigeration was unknown and the only source of artificial light was a flickering fire or a smoky, coal oil lamp. There were no air-conditioned movies to furnish recreation; no radio to bring music at the twist of a dial. No wonder women were old before their time and men plainly showed the marks of Today, we live in an age made easier by the magic of electricity. Today's homemaker no longer is slave to an endless routine of hard hand labor. Man no longer works by muscle power alone. Electrical appliances have taken the toil out of homemaking and electric motors have shortened hours and increased production in industry. The radio, better lighting, automatic refrigeration, comfort cooling-all have brought comfort and pleasure undreamed of in grandmother's day. Yes, life is better in 1940—thanks to electricity.

FOOD POISONING CAUSED BY LACK OF PROPER CARE

Austin, Aug. 1.—"Sporadic out-breaks of food poisoning over the state in the past few weeks dem-onstrate the need for special care in handling and refrigerating any food that must be prepared some time in advance of serving." states Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Of-

"Prevention of food poisoning requires clean food handled as little as possible and consumed while it is fresh. Food Prepared hours before serving, and allowed to stand at warm temperatures becomes good culture media for Cooked products of a perishable nature are readily subject to decomposition, and must be kept well refrigerated.

'Most food poisoning is caused by infection by certain types of bacteria which grow rapidly under favorable conditions, such as high temperature and high humidity. The infection may come from dirty hands, utensils, flies, rodents, contaminated water, infected food materials, and in some cases, from certain types of bacteria which spread rapidly and not necessarily associated with filthy conditions.

food is particlularly "Pienie susceptible to transmitting food poisoning to the members of the picnic party. Be sure you have fresh, clean food, free from stagnant odors, slime, etc. Require all who prepare food for use to wash their hands thoroughly before handling it. Avoid excessive hand contacts with the food. See that clean containers are used and that special care is exercised in wrapping foods and in protecting them from contamination

"If food to prepared far in advance of its use, cook it thoroughly, and keep it refrigerated or otherwise protected at a temperature of 50 degrees F. until you are ready to use it. Avoid serving foods that are readily infected, such as the more perishable salads and cream-filled pastries. Any foods that are not to be served immediately should be kept on ice. Milk, ice cream, and dairy products in general should be from approved sources.

"Digestive upsets cannot always be blamed on the food served or eaten at an outing. Sometimes excessive heat and humidity combined with over-exertion and over-heating, as well as overeating, help to bring them about. Remember this, and don't indulge in too strenuous exercise when the days are hot and muggy. Don't indulge, either, in unwise combinations of foods," Dr. Cox further warned.

One of the features electric range owners prize most highly is cleanliness—the utter absence of soot, smoke, fumes and flame. Utensils stay bright and shiny after months of cooking. Walls and curtains remain clean and fresh. The range itself stays sparkling white. And that's only one of the many advantages that electric cooking has over oldfashioned, flame-type cooking. It's faster, cooler, safer, more convenient, more healthful, more accurate and a greater time-saver. #### FOOD POISONING CAUSED BY LACK OF PROPER CARE

Austin, Aug. 1.—"Sporadic out-breaks of food poisoning over the state in the past few weeks dem-onstrate the need for special care in handling and refrigerating any food that must be prepared some time in advance of serving," states Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Of-

"Prevention of food poisoning requires clean food handled as little as possible and consumed while it is fresh. Food Prepared hours before serving, and allowed to stand at warm temperatures becomes good culture media for bacteria. Cooked products of a perishable nature are readily subject to decomposition, and must be kept well refrigerated.

'Most food poisoning is caused by infection by certain types of bacteria which grow rapidly under favorable conditions, such as high temperature and high humidity. The infection may come from dirty hands, utensils, flies, rodents, contaminated water, infected food materials, and in some cases, from certain types of bacteria which spread rapidly and not necessarily associated are with filthy conditions.

'Pienie food is particlularly susceptible to transmitting food poisoning to the members of the picnic party. Be sure you have fresh, clean food, free from stagnant odors, slime, etc. Require all who prepare food for use to wash hands thoroughly before handling it. Avoid excessive hand contacts with the food. See that clean containers are used and that special care is exercised in wrapping foods and in protecting them from contamination

"If food is prepared far in advance of its use, cook it thoroughly, and keep it refrigerated or otherwise protected at a temperature of 50 degrees F. until you are ready to use it. Avoid serving foods that are readily infected, such as the more perishable salads and cream-filled pastries. Any foods that are not to be served immediately should be kept on ice. Milk, ice cream, and dairy products in general should be from approved sources.

'Digestive upsets cannot always be blamed on the food served or eaten at an outing. Sometimes excessive heat and humidity combined with over-exertion and over-heating, as well as overeating, help to bring them about. Remember this, and don't indulge in too strenuous exercise when the days are hot and muggy. Don't indulge, either, in unwise combinations of foods," Dr. Cox further warned.

IS VITAL TO SUCCESSFUL PICNICS

AND EVEN MORE SO TO THE SMOOTH OPERATION OF YOUR GAS COMPANY.

Day in and day out, good weather and bad, we give you a Fuel Service of CONVENIENCE, CLEANLINESS and COMFORT that no other fuel has ever equalled.

- * When the housewife turns the handle of her Gas Range and a burner automatically lights, is she conscious of just what it took to have that fuel right there, ready for her command at any moment?
- When families rush inside to escape the cold, blustery winds of Winter so they might enjoy the warmth and comfort of their gas-heated homes, are they aware of the work, thought, time and vigilance which made possible the response of a mere twist of the wrist?
- * When the man of the house commands hot water for his shave at a moment's notice, does he wonder just how many employees and dollars were required to insure him of this service at any hour of the day or night?

RESULTS - not CAUSES - are seen. Back of the flame on your burner stands your GAS COMPANY with its skilled employees and its facilities for delivering this All-Purpose Fuel. Service must be maintained! That is why we have made so great an effort and such an investment in Hico.

The fact that your GAS COMPANY must maintain the year 'round, at great expense, capacity equal to the coldest day of the year-even though this peak capacity is not required except on a few cold days during the Winter is merely one of the items of this responsibility called SERVICE.

Your GAS COMPANY takes pride in offering you Carefree, Unceasing, Untroubled SERVICE.

Greetings

In giving credit to those who have been of assistance to the manager, and to the committee in staging this year's annual Reunion, it probably would be fitting to name every man, woman, boy and girl in fiico and community, for they always have been loyal to the institution.

But special attention is called to the support and cooperation of the following list of merchants, firms and individuals, who by sponsoring this advertising message have assisted with their money in making the Reunion a success again this year. They deserve and need your patronage, for they will ever be found at the forefront in all Hico's battles and enterprises.

Thanks to each and every person for their assistance, and may we hope that in these troubled times we may put away our cares for four days of rejoicing and happy association.

TO HICO'S

58th Annual Reunion

AUGUST 7 - 8 - 9 - 10

We've Come A Long Way Together!

This year, as is the custom, Hico observes another anniversary. Lest the perspective of the years be blurred by the nearness of the economic upheavals and readjustments of the past few years, and by the fear and worries of the future, it is well to pause now and note that Hico citizens have never yet failed to survive the hard years and come forth to carry on an undaunted fight to make Hico a better place in which to live.

Through the three-score and more years of Hico's existence there have been many hard years, times as trying as any the present generation has faced. But always, as it will be now, Hico has survived to march into more prosperous days... to eras of building and growth.

Today . . . right now . . . is the time for all citizens to review the history of our town and resolve to take a more active part in its development. Let's all hail the observance of another anniversary of progress as an opportunity to renew civic pride in our town, civic pride, the nature of which will afford an inspiration to future citizens of Hico in the years to come.

CO-OPERATION AND PLANNING ALWAYS ASSURE SUCCESS LET'S WORK TOGETHER!
