

Dear Harry: Dad has promised two or three times to let me read one of her letters from you...

Since you suddenly took leave of Hico some two months ago, things have been rocking along about as usual.

In the office things have been rather dull. No king bee, and few visitors to argue with.

If you boys in the service could see how your wives and kindfolks haunt the post office just after the train runs...

That's up with your congressmen? I bought a small bond from her the other night and she gave the impression that she really appreciated the opportunity to serve me.

The new city council has its hands full. Streets are in a muddle of a mess, especially since the recent heavy rains.

Discussion is starting on whether to close stores Saturday or Monday for the Fourth of July.

Leo Cloud & Co. are back fixing up having finally received the steel. By the way, did your gravel truck make you enough money to retire on a sailor's pay?

Don't worry about this letter being a loss of time or a waste of space, for this corner doesn't mean much anyhow.

Needn't worry if you can't make it home by August, for it looks like we ain't gonna have a Reunion this year.

Yours till the service man's pay envelope fattens—then you'll be too snooty for an old friend.

Getting Ready For Registration of New Group Tuesday

H. E. McCullough, chief registrar for next Tuesday's registration at Hico, stated Thursday that the registration would be held at City Hall...

Governor Coke Stevenson today issued a proclamation calling upon every male citizen of this State born on or after January 1, 1922, and on or before June 30, 1942...

Governor Stevenson urged all employers and governmental agencies of all kinds operating within the State of Texas to give those persons under their charge who are subject to this registration sufficient time in which to fulfill the obligation incumbent upon them under the Selective Service Act...

Pointing out that the Selective Service registration on June 30 will complete the inventory of America's potential military manpower, General J. Watt Page, State Selective Service Director, said that it will affect approximately 220,000 young Texans between the ages of 18 and 20, inclusive.

Although under current policy, men under twenty are not subject to combat duty, General Page said, they will be registered in the same manner as men enrolled in previous registrations.

Local boards will conduct the registration with the assistance of volunteer registrars in officially designated places in their particular areas, and will record the same information on registration cards as was required in the first four registrations.

Local boards will conduct the registration with the assistance of volunteer registrars in officially designated places in their particular areas, and will record the same information on registration cards as was required in the first four registrations.

Exigencies of the war in which this Nation is involved demand that every registrant do his utmost to cooperate in every way with the Selective Service System at the time of registration and in the future so that the orderly processes of classification and possible induction into the armed forces can be maintained.

At the time of registration, he stated, the registrant will be required to answer only simple questions, and will not be asked to fill out any questionnaire or to undergo physical examination.

The nine questions pertain to the registrant's name, place of residence, mailing address (if other than place of residence), telephone, age in years and date of birth, name and address of person who will always know the registrant's whereabouts, his employer's name and address, and the place of his employment or business.

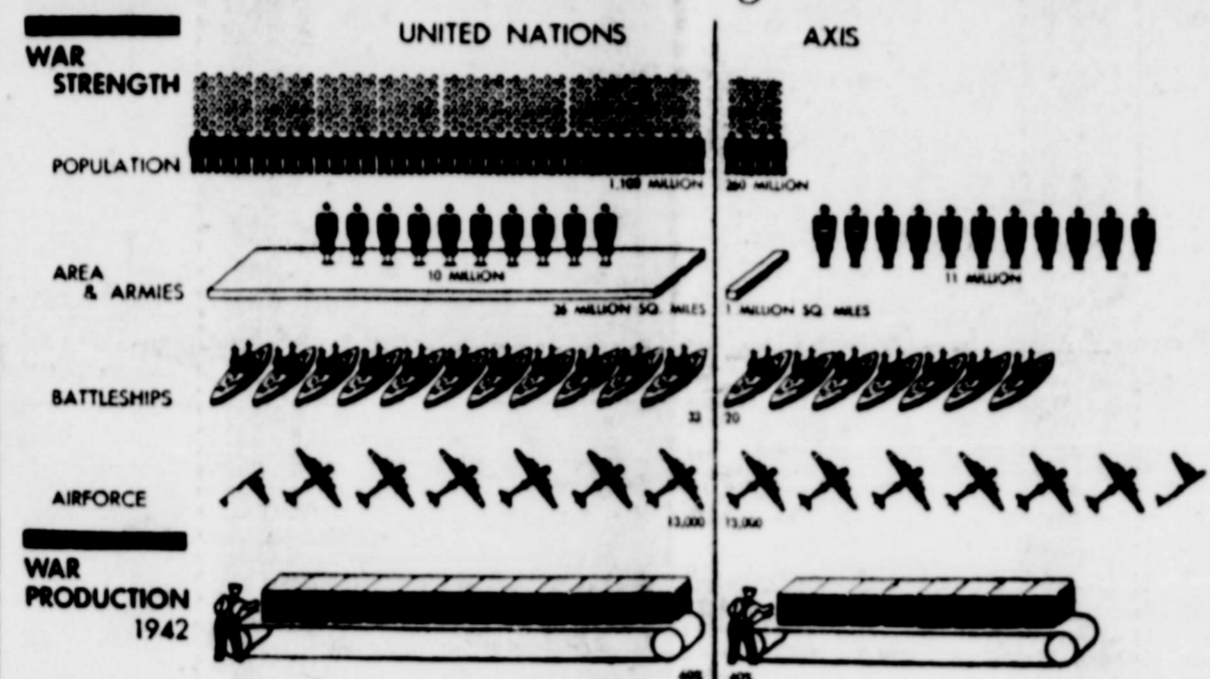

In a vigorous war time campaign to elevate the State health level by preventing the spread of communicable diseases which might be transmitted to foods, the State Department of Health is conducting training schools for food handlers in many sections of Texas.

"Food handlers are being instructed in sanitary methods of preparing, handling, and serving food for public consumption," Dr. Cox said. "Actual experience has shown that an insanitary eating establishment is one of the surest sources of spreading infection.

The training schools consist of elementary courses in bacteriology, communicable diseases, medical zoology, foods, disinfection, sterilization, personal hygiene, and sanitation.

Special attention has been paid to requests for schools in defense areas, and classes have already been held in Mineral Wells, Weatherford, Abilene, Liberty, Victoria, El Campo, Wharton, Bay City, Brownsville, Harlingen, Corpus Christi, Midland, Odessa, Gainesville, Georgetown, and Taylor.

More Registrants Ordered to Report June 29 for Induction

Several more registrants have been ordered to report for induction on June 29, 1942, according to a communication from the Hamilton County Local Board office.

"They will report to the Hamilton County Local Board Office at 12:30 p. m. on this date," the notice read, "whereby they will be sent to Abilene, Texas for final examination and induction."

Listed by the board were the following:

- 10,989. Blansit, John Martin, Rte. 3, Hamilton.
10,106. White, Charles William, Box 21, Hico.
10,111. Whitson, Rufus Easy, Rte. 3, Hico.
10,134. Douglas, Noel Lee, Rte. 3, Hico.
10,179. Burkett, Charles Alexander, Hico.
10,180. Spivey, Burton Virgin, Pottsville.
1,071. Stephens, Charles Lee (Transfer), Carlton.

Selectees May Enlist In Naval Reserve By Prompt Action

Men who have recently been reclassified for selective service may enlist in the Naval Reserve, provided application is made before call to report for Army induction is mailed.

Physical standards for Naval Reserve enlistment have recently been lowered and many men previously rejected are now able to meet physical requirements.

Qualified men are urgently needed for operation and upkeep of Naval ships and stations. Petty officers are now open to aviation and auto mechanics, bakers, cooks, carpenters, electricians, machinists, metal smiths, painters, pattern makers, pharmacists and hospital attendants, and practically all types of experienced construction workers.

Unskilled men, and those skilled in trades not open for enlistment, have opportunity to attend Navy trade schools and win promotion in the service.

Greek Meets Greek

Homer G. Cozby, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Cozby of Hico Route 2, near Carlton, has landed safely in India after many long weeks at sea, according to a letter to the News Review from his mother this week.

Mrs. Cozby said her son enlisted in the Army Air Corps in December, 1941, and was sent to Lowry Field at Denver, Colo. He was graduated and was one of the four in his class to be shipped out under sealed orders as an army technician.

Friends of the young man will be glad to know that he landed safely and was getting along so well when last heard from.

Grouping for Rides Good Neighborliness And Good Sense, Too

Asking your neighbors if they need anything in town or want to ride in with you is more than just neighborliness these days—it's good sense and a good way to save wear and tear on tires.

That's why the Hamilton County USDA War Board is urging farmers in the county to work out neighborhood plans for making the most possible use of transportation facilities.

As a further tire-saving step, the USDA War Board advises against going into town "empty."

"If you have an errand in town, call up your neighbors and take everybody who needs to go that day—then let them do the same for you," Mr. Couch continued.

"Make similar arrangements for small part-loads of produce. Don't make a trip alone with just a bushel of potatoes or a sack of grain, nor to get one or two small items of supplies. Double up. Cooperate with your neighbors."

Farm hauling is not subject to restriction under the Office of Defense Transportation order, Mr. Couch pointed out, but farmers are expected to comply with the spirit of the order by making as few trips as possible.

Stores Expected to Close July 6th In Honor of the 4th

George Stringer, after making a canvass of the business section Monday, informed the News Review that the general opinion of merchants on observance of Independence Day this year seemed to be for closing the following Monday, July 6th, since the 4th falls on Saturday.

Stringer said that the matter would be taken up at the next regular meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, to be held Tuesday, June 30, and that "definite" announcement would be made following the meeting.

So far as is known, no special program has been planned for the occasion.

"Mechanical Hen" Now On Display At Local Feed Store

Mrs. G. C. Keeney, manager of the K. B. Feed & Chick Store, has arranged for an interesting exhibit which will be featured in the show window of her place of business for a short time.

The display consists of a mechanical hen, impressively portraying through an ingenious arrangement of hidden gears and pulleys the way an "egg factory" works.

This is the mechanical hen that has been displayed at the Dallas State Fair and Poultry Congress. Because Barras Mills was afraid some of the people of this community drop by and see the exhibit, which is educational as well as entertaining.

The chairman pointed out that the USO drive, which opened May 11, is scheduled to close July 4 along with those in the other states.

Money collected in the USO campaign goes for direct support of the USO centers and clubs at the service bases and training camps in the United States as well as at the fighting fronts in Australia, Alaska, Hawaii, Ireland, the Middle East and in Asia.

Government Wants Fairs, Conventions, Picnics Canceled

WASHINGTON, June 19.—The Government asked Friday that all state and county fairs, nonessential conventions, meetings and group tours be postponed until the war is over.

Joseph B. Eastman, defense transportation director, made the appeal and said that if civilians restricted their use of trains and buses the Government might not have to take direct control over travel.

In asking postponement of fairs, Eastman said farmers should not be encouraged to use tires for such nonessential purposes.

Attendance at meetings connected with the war effort, he said, should be skeletonized "along the lines of the example set by the American Legion in its forthcoming convention."

Remembered Hitler As Bad Boy

The man who warned four years ago that "the big powers should clip Hitler's wings" died Monday at East Bernard, Texas. He predicted then that Adolf Hitler would annex French and British territory. He remembered Hitler from childhood, and said that even in the third grade in school in Moravia the present Fuehrer was a "bad, bold boy."

The speaker was Hitler's uncle, Alois Zozelsky, who succumbed to a heart attack after falling from his wheel chair Friday. He had been a naturalized citizen of America for years. He was the brother of Hitler's mother. One son, Louis Zozelsky, is a Camp Barkeley soldier.

Texas Wheat Estimate High

Texas indicated what production for 1942 last week was placed at 44,225,000 bushels by the Department of Agriculture crop reporting bureau. This compares with a 1941 production of 27,186,000 bushels and a 1940 production of 29,911,000 bushels.

Missing in Action

Maj. Gen. Clarence L. Timber, commander of the Hawaiian air force, who is missing in action. He failed to return from an attack on the Japanese fleet at Midway.

Time Growing Short For Completion of USO Campaign

Rev. Floyd W. Thrash, local chairman of the USO War Fund Campaign, stated early this week that he was asking 100 people to give 25c each to wind up the work and raise the $25,000 needed to make the county's quota.

He said contributions boxes, suitably marked, would be placed in local stores by Saturday for collection of donations in any amount, but suggested that the quickest way to raise the money was to get 100 quarters. Anyone who has not donated may, of course, leave larger sums with the chairman or at the bank.

J. T. Chesley, county chairman, informed the local chairman this week that Hamilton was over the top, and requested that a special effort be made in Hico to make up the $25,000 which is needed to put the entire county over.

Houston, June 22.—With just a few short days remaining before the deadline in the USO war fund campaign, Harry C. Wiess, state chairman, today issued a plea for support to put the drive over the top.

Latest reports received at state headquarters show that just over 80 per cent of Texas' $1,000,000 quota has been contributed to the fund which provides off-duty recreation for the men in the armed services. Seventy counties have reached or exceeded their quotas, the chairman said.

"Texans are noted the world over for doing the job well in the army, navy and marines," Mr. Wiess declared. "Every day we read of Texas boys sinking Japanese and German ships. Yet we here at home have not yet reached that perfection in support of these friers, sailors and ground soldiers. Eighty per cent wouldn't be enough in the Battle of Midway; why should it be enough in the home-front battle for the USO fund?"

The chairman pointed out that the USO drive, which opened May 11, is scheduled to close July 4 along with those in the other states. He called on Texans to take their contributions to headquarters in every town and county to complete the campaign as soon as possible.

All the large contributions that are expected have been made, Mr. Wiess said, so the remaining $25,000 must come in small amounts. Money collected in the USO campaign goes for direct support of the USO centers and clubs at the service bases and training camps in the United States as well as at the fighting fronts in Australia, Alaska, Hawaii, Ireland, the Middle East and in Asia.

Vocational Teacher Resigns to Accept Position At Bangs

Chas. H. Sargent, vocational agriculture instructor in the Hico Public Schools for the past year, announced this week that he had tendered his resignation as a member of the local faculty in order to accept a similar position at Bangs.

Sargent was graduated from Tolar High School in 1937, entering Texas A. & M. College in September of that year. Upon finishing his college work in July, 1941, he received his B. S. degree in Agricultural Education.

In September, 1941, he was elected as a teacher in the Hico Public Schools, and was re-elected for another year at a recent meeting of the board. His resignation came upon the offer of the new position, which he considers holds much larger opportunities.

During his connection with the public schools here and his residence in Hico, Sargent has proved a faithful untiring worker, well equipped for the field which he has selected for his life's work. As a citizen he has taken his place in civic and social circles, cooperating in every capacity when called upon, and has made many friends who will regret to see him leave.

2-Month Allotment Of Sugar Allowed Certain Institutions

Institutional and industrial users of sugar shall be given an allotment for the two months of July and August. These applications may be accepted by the local boards from June 30 to July 5, and should be made on Form R-314. Sugar purchase certificates issued for this period will be effective July 1, 1942.

The applicant will be required to take from his originally executed Form R-310 the amount of sugar used in 1941 for the same period which he is applying, and use this figure as a base. The percentage figures to be applied in computing the allotment will be identical with those used at time of registration.

Burney Offers To Serve Again As Representative

I am again offering myself as a servant to the people of Coryell and Hamilton counties. Asking for the privilege to serve in the next Legislature. Now that the confusion of the last campaign is in the past, it is my belief that the people have had an opportunity to better understand the position I took, while serving in the 46th Legislature. It is obvious now that my record proved that my only thought was for the protection of the rights and interests of the working people of Texas.

Today, the funds that are paying our Social Security obligations are derived from the very tax laws I helped write and sponsor through the House of Representatives while I was a member of that body. The position I took was without regard to my own political fortune. I had rather be a one-term man and be right, than to gain the highest office within the gift of the people by playing a game of foul politics.

Today our social security problems are solved and are in the past. We are now confronted with problems that are far greater than they were ever before. The next Legislature must face a deficiency of State income without any other source to tax our people, because we cannot afford to pay any more taxes. Those who run the government of this state for the next two years have a great problem to solve, that is, to carry out the efficiency of State government with a great decline in our income. The schools of Texas must be kept open although we face a sharp decline from income derived from our gasoline tax. This decline is coming whether we have gas rationing or not, because many vehicles will be off the road on account of lack of tires.

There is only one way to make up for this deficiency, and that is by cutting the expenses of our many departments and abolishing some of them. This, again, will call for some clear-cut decisions coming from a man who can be depended upon for his judgment without thought of future political campaigns. Texas needs men in the Legislature who are capable now more than ever before of making decisions without the influence of politics.

The war has brought to our state the labor racketeers who must be dealt with by the next Legislature. I believe everyone should have the right to work wherever they can get a job without paying an exorbitant fee to some labor racketeer. This is just another one of the many problems facing our Texas government today.

It is not my intention to make a very extensive campaign, because the people of this district are acquainted with my qualifications and know the record I made while serving them during my first term.

TEXAS SOUTHWESTERN GAS COMPANY June 22, 1942 Dear Friends: Do you remember the controversy last summer about the amount of fuel oil that American railroads could haul to the Atlantic Coast in case of an emergency? At the time, hardly any oil was being hauled by rail; but the railroad executives stated they could transport 200,000 barrels per day. High-ranking Government officials contended it couldn't be done. Then came our entrance into the war, followed closely by a devastating submarine campaign. Oil tankers were sunk in great numbers. The nation had to turn to the railroads for transportation of the vital fuel to Eastern industrial areas. Have the railroads been able to make good their promise to create a tank-car service capable of delivering 200,000 barrels of oil a day? YES - and then some. They are now delivering daily - every day - more than 650,000 barrels of oil. Moreover, they have promised that daily deliveries will be increased within a few weeks to 800,000 barrels. And, of course, the railroads are also hauling troops, war materials and heavy civilian traffic. This remarkable achievement constitutes striking evidence that when the American people get fighting mad they can accomplish any task. And - Americans are becoming fighting mad. That is bad news for Messrs. Hitler, Hirohito and Mussolini. Sincerely Albert S. Johnson President

THIS AND THAT

By JOE SMITH DYER
Selfishness plays a great part in the tragedies of friendship and few friends have been lost to us in which this petty vice has not played the leading role.

A "tireless" gentleman living on my street, who has recently acquired a bicycle had always been of the opinion that the street leading to town was very smooth and level.

It has often been said that the most interesting things in the world are people. The judge of a juvenile court sees more than her share of people.

Second woman juvenile court judge in the United States is Mrs. Camille Kelley, judge of the juvenile court in Memphis, Tenn.

The sunbonnet will be worn again this summer—so fashion experts say. The bonnet has always been a symbol of earnest endeavor.

ning reapers in the fields, and seeing that the household machinery is kept running smoothly. During the days of the civil strife, women wore the sunbonnet while their men were called to the defense of the Republic.

ON SUNDAYS: When Japan attacked Pearl Harbor, it was on Sunday, December 7th, and when the Virgin appeared at La Salette in France, she complained that Sundays were not observed in the right fashion.

The Franco-American War of 1870 started on Sunday and in 1914 Austria attacked Serbia during the week and the Sunday following, the big nations were declaring war on one another.

Now let us come to this side of the ocean. Three years ago the Atlantic coast was lashed by a terrific storm that killed hundreds of people on a Sunday. In 1940 we had a killing frost in New York and the New England States that caused millions of dollars worth of damage to crops.

Fortune tellers and mediums and those who know beforehand that this war will end on a Sunday.

Let's hope that it will be one Sunday soon.

The best way to get even is to forget the whole thing.

This Week IN WASHINGTON

Washington, D. C. (NWSN)—Those who keep close tabs on the pulse of public opinion say that the people's anger rose to the highest point since the beginning of the war when the story came out about the Nazi's having cold-bloodedly blotted out the whole population of a Czechoslovak town.

Ever since the war started government officials have been alarmed over the lack of patriotic fervor in certain parts of our country and many a morale-building campaign has been launched from this city to make us more keenly aware of the need for bringing the Axis nations to their knees in the quickest possible time.

But that one story, widely circulated in newspapers and over the radio, about the mass-murder in the little town of Lidice, Czechoslovakia, did more to make our nation's blood boil than any propaganda from this city ever could do.

Probably the most brutal, terrifying horror-story that ever came out of this or any other war, the Germans released it themselves to boast about the revenge they meted out to a town which, they alleged, had given shelter to the murderers of Reinhard Heydrick, the Number 2 man in the German Gestapo.

In their release the Germans own official message was: "After these facts had been ascertained all male grown-ups of the town were shot while the women were placed in a concentration camp, and the children were entrusted to appropriate education institutions. The township was leveled to the ground and the name of the community extinguished. The inhabitants of Lidice near Kladruby numbered 483." (According to the British the population was 1,200). This total blotting out of a community and the massacre of all of the people in it has made Americans in similar small towns in this country shudder at the heinous depths to which the Germans will descend—and it has sent a wave of hate against Hitler, much stronger than anything which has been felt before, surging throughout this country.

Our government, based on figures gathered by them as well as by other governments of the United Nations, estimates that over 500,000 civilians in conquered countries have been executed by the Nazis, by far the greatest number being in Poland and Jugoslavia.

Our domestic worries over gasoline, rationing, etc., seem of such inconsequential importance compared with the life-and-death struggle facing the millions of people in Europe that it may seem poor taste to even discuss them in the same breath. But we must remember that the final defeat of Hitler depends to a large extent on keeping things humming in this country. If our transportation is stalled, our health foods limited or our domestic economy too greatly disrupted, we couldn't do the war job that is necessary to assure victory.

That's why it is considered essential here to keep automobiles in the people's hands rather than confiscate them, ration only where it is essential and control the people's cost of living. To many easterners the decision to build a pipeline to carry oil to the East and proposed plans to supply rubber for tires, are perhaps welcomed as a possible continuation of normal living, but the whole purpose of devoting so much energy to this problem is in no sense aimed at continuing pleasure driving but to continue absolutely necessary transportation. The government realizes that our whole economic system is hitched to the automobile and that without automobiles there would be serious disruptions in our system.

Consequently, the pipeline will be rushed through in an effort to provide necessary gasoline as well as fuel oil for next winter. As for rubber, there is still little prospect of getting new tires for automobiles this year or next, but all possibilities are being explored. The President is urging everyone to turn in every available piece of scrap rubber, which is vitally needed for our war program. If the scrap collection is great enough, efforts may be made to use some of it for tires for the most necessary purposes.

According to Joseph Weiner of the War Production board, it is likely that we will soon be rationed on cocoa, coffee, fuel oil and electric power, but there is no immediate need for rationing of most foods or of clothing.

"Basic requirements of living," said Mr. Weiner, "can be met in this country to a degree which in all other countries would be so satisfactory that most of them did not even experience it in peace."

Congress now has before it a new all-time record appropriation bill asking $39,417,827,337 for the war department which, if passed, will bring the money appropriated for the war to just about 200 billion dollars.

TIPS ON CANNING: Fill containers full. Shortage of strategic materials makes it important to avoid waste of space in food containers.

Where there is too much air space between the top of the product and the top of the container, the food will lose color, flavor, and vitamins.

How it's done: Here is the way to get full containers: Prepare fruits and vegetables for canning as in Texas Extension Service B-85, "Canning Fruits and Vegetables."

Vegetables: Exhaust vegetables until the temperature at the center of the container is 185 degrees F. or about 20 minutes for tender young beans, varying to 30 minutes for hard vegetables such as beans.

Now about exhausting: Exhausting means heating foods to drive air out of the product and the container before the can or jar is sealed. Here are the steps in exhausting fruits and vegetables:

Place the filled containers on a rack in the water bath. The boiling water should be at least two inches below the tops of the containers.

CONSERVE FOR VICTORY
How to Get Better Service
FROM YOUR ELECTRIC TABLE APPLIANCES
With electric table appliances out of production due to war, you'll want to take good care of the ones you have in order that you can continue to enjoy their step-saving convenience. Here are some suggestions that will prove helpful:
ELECTRIC TOASTER: Be careful in cleaning your toaster. Never put it in water. Wipe outside with damp cloth, using mild abrasive if necessary. Heating element cleans itself when you turn on the current. Most toasters have removable crumb trays. Use a small brush to wipe out crumbs if your toaster has no tray. Be careful not to drop your toaster; it may break connections or damage thermostat.
COFFEE MAKER OR PERCOLATOR: Never immerse a metal percolator in water. Stand on dry drainboard, wash inside with warm soapy water, rinse and dry. Wash outside with damp cloth, being careful not to let water get into electrical connections. If you have a glass coffee maker with cloth filter, rinse filter cloth thoroughly with cold water after each using. Between usings, keep cloth in glass of cold water. If you have a metal coffee maker or percolator, substitute a tablespoonful of baking soda for coffee occasionally and proceed as though you were making coffee. This will remove coffee oil adhering to metal and eliminate that bitter taste. If your percolator refuses to heat, a fuse may have burned out. Remove bottom plate and replace with spare fuse or get another from your dealer.
WAFFLE BAKER: To clean waffle baker, wipe edge of grids with clean dry cloth. If any particles stick to grids, remove with wire brush. Never wash grids. It removes absorbed grease that prevents sticking. Wipe any spilled batter from outside with damp cloth, then polish with soft polishing cloth. Never put waffle baker in water. If waffles stick, due to improper preheating or insufficient shortening in batter, remove all particles from grids with wire brush, then with a small brush thoroughly cover grids with salad oil or unsalted melted fat. Connect iron and heat until grid begins to smoke. Pour in enough batter for one waffle and bake until done. Discard this waffle—as it has absorbed excess conditioner—and you won't have to grease waffle baker again if you take good care of it.

6,000,000 DAYS LOST

If 600,000 skilled war production workers said, "The heck with all this effort" and decided to knock off work for a week every month, the loss would be no greater than now incurred by sickness among our skilled manpower.

Last year many of us became so incensed over the loss of man hours due to strikes that we saw to it that strikes were rapidly brought to a halt.

We can't be expected to feel equal resentment over delays in production caused by germs. When one man gets sick here and another there, it appears to be just a happencence which can't very well be avoided. But when we realize that 6,000,000 work days are lost every month, germs appear to be more of a calamity than strikes.

We can't learn to prevent all sickness overnight, but all of us can be of real service to our country if, through right eating and right living, we wage a real fight to keep well—to help win the war by making this the healthiest period of our nation's history.

Money talks, except when it is making an exorbitant profit.

mother-in-law jokes are aimed at

THREE CHEERS FOR DEBT!

Some of us who, a year ago, were greatly alarmed over our nation's growing debt, now are registering deep satisfaction when we hear that the government has, by a tremendous national effort, been able to spend a billion or two more this month than it did last month.

Of course the only reason for this is that we have now been taught to think of war production in terms of dollars expended. An extra billion spent means an increased supply of tanks, guns, ships and planes.

We wonder, however, if this method of announcing production increases in terms of dollars isn't a smart maneuver on the part of officials to paint a silver lining.

We are all happy to see production bounding forward, but, while an enormous amount of money continues to be spent by the government on non-war items, it is dangerous to respond too freely to those government cheer leaders who jump up and down every time we are able to get rid of a few more billions.

A MOTTO HELPED THEM
The most unusual desk motto I ever saw was on the desk of a president of the New York Stock Exchange. Strictly speaking it was not a motto, but it served the same purpose.
It was an Aztec calendar made of stone, and covered with their ancient hieroglyphics. Mr. McChesney said that when he is troubled he picks up this old relic, holds it in his hand, and looks at it, thinking how eternal time is, and how fleeting is trouble. He claims that it always relieves the strain and cheers him.

DALE CARNEGIE
Author of "How to Win Friends and Influence People"
A MOTTO HELPED THEM

One of the finest of mottos was that of Admiral Peary, discoverer of the North Pole. Once when attacking the North, he was beaten by the ice. His feet were so badly frozen that he had to be carried by his men. They took him into a room at Fort Cresson and laid him tenderly on a rough bed, and turned away, fearing he would never be able to walk again. He slept heavily for hours. When he awoke, he was refreshed and his mind clear. He inched himself over to the wall, called for a pencil, and wrote his motto—"I will find a way, or make one."

Cecil Rhodes, who did so much to win Africa for England, had a down-to-earth motto that will help everyone who will apply it. It deals with that tremendously important subject—handling people: "Never quarrel with people you are eager to persuade." He employed this simple principle when he went to see the king of the Matabele, the war-like fighting tribe that meant to kill him; and he won the king over to his way of thinking by employing those nine words.

The same theory was practiced by President Theodore Roosevelt who used to say: "The most important single ingredient in the formula of success is the knack of getting along with people."

Judge Elbert H. Gary, steel magnate, had the shortest motto I know. Three words. "Organize. Deputize. Supervise."

Here is a humorous one by the first man to fly, Wilbur
Wright: "A parrot talks much, but flies little."

Joseph P. Day, the only man in the world who has ever sold a billion dollars' of real estate, has a motto under the glass on his desk. He has six children; their pictures are under the glass with the motto: "Eternal vigilance is the price of success, as well as of freedom."

Robert Ingersoll who, a generation ago, flashed across the country like a flaming, challenging meteor, chose the following: "The greatest test of courage on this earth is to bear defeat without losing heart." Who could want a finer guide?

It might be a good idea to cut out this column, place it under the glass top of your desk, and study these mottoes when things go wrong.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Malone of Waco were week-end guests here in the home of his mother, Mrs. W. L. Malone, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Jordan, of Carlton.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Strother of Brownwood have announced the birth of a baby boy born June 19. He has been given the name of Richard Kent. Both baby and mother are doing nicely, according to a letter received by his grandmother, Mrs. J. B. Blakley, Wednesday of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Bowles returned last week end from a visit in Fort Worth with their daughter, Mrs. C. B. Eustead, and family, and at Denton with another daughter, Mrs. W. E. Perry, and family. They were gone about eight days, and reported a nice vacation. Crops in the Panhandle are good, Mr. Bowles said upon his return.

Jack Gordon's column in the Fort Worth Press Monday carried the following item: "George McCullough's orchestra at Casino Park is featuring Raymundo Blues, an original composition by Dorothy Segrest of Hico, Texas." Mrs. Segrest also has written a number of other songs, most of them of a patriotic turn, which she hopes to have introduced and published.

Among the students making the honor roll at John Tarleton College for the first semester of 1941-42 was Dorothy Box of Hico. The honor roll was announced by the registrar, T. V. Crouse, on a recent date. To be eligible for this honor a student must make at least 30 grade points and not have any failing grades. A survey of the students of John Tarleton was made and it was found that 221 made the honor roll.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Boone and daughter, Janelle, of Dallas, W. V. White and family of Petrolia, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Coburn of Fort Worth, Mrs. Anne Whittenton and daughter, Sandra, of Fort Worth, and Mrs. A. M. Appleby of Houston spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Tom Griffin and daughter, Joy Ann. They all went to Hamilton Sunday to be with their father, W. A. White, and brother, T. L. White, and family for Father's Day. The elder Mr. White is 94 years old, and all of his children were present for the annual family gathering.

Mrs. D. G. Smith and Miss Eugenie Terry of Dallas came in Wednesday to spend several days visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Woods and daughter, Miss Quata Woods.

Paul White, who is attending Draughon's Business College, returned to Fort Worth Thursday after spending the week here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. White.

J. C. Rodgers has had workmen busy this week on the building occupied by Everett's Tailor Shop, covering it with a new roof and making other minor repairs. The work was started Monday morning.

Herman Leach, who is employed on a construction project at Waco, was at home last week end for a visit with his wife and other relatives and friends. Mrs. Leach plans to join him at Waco in the near future.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. McNeill, Mrs. Jack Smith, and Miss Jewell Smith of Waco, and Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Smith and daughter, Billy, of Temple, brought their dinner and spent Father's Day here Sunday with their dad, J. J. Smith.

Misses Carol and Betty Jo Anderson, who are students at John Tarleton College in Stephenville this summer, spent the week end here in the home of their father, Ike Anderson, and sister, Miss Wynama Anderson.

Mrs. Anna Driskell and daughters, Mrs. Oliver Rosamond and Miss Pauline Driskell, and granddaughters, Pat and Dot Rosamond, spent Sunday in Stephenville visiting in the homes of Mrs. Wm. Bellville and Mr. and Mrs. Carlton McKeage.

Mrs. L. N. Lane, Mrs. C. L. Woodward and Miss Quata Woods were guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Newsum in Stephenville Monday night and attended the All-Army Talent Musical Comedy from Camp Walters entitled "Life Begins At Five-Thirty."

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Prater and children visited in Waco and Temple Sunday. They were accompanied home by Mrs. T. W. McClelland of Temple, and Mrs. Mary Francis and Miss Ruby Lackey of Waco, who will visit here in the Prater home for a time.

Tom Herbert Wolfe returned home from Temple Thursday, where he has been employed for several weeks. He will visit here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. N. Wolfe, until he leaves for Naval Reserve training at Notre Dame about July 1.

Week-end and Sunday guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Woodward and her mother, Mrs. J. H. Roberts, were Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Berry of Fort Worth and Mrs. Lucile Port of New Orleans. Mrs. Roberts accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Berry back to Fort Worth for a visit with them.

Father's Day visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Burden were Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Profit and daughter, Melba Jean, and Mr. and Mrs. Luther Burden and children of Carlton; also Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Vaughn and sons, Joe Marshall and Jerry Max, of Lampasas.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Barrow are entertaining their three grandchildren, Selette, Jimmie Gail, and Gerline Barrow, children of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Barrow of Alpine, who arrived by train last week for their summer vacation here, after spending some time at Hamilton with Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Barrow.

Week-end and Father's Day visitor in the home of G. W. Crist were Mr. and Mrs. Roy Crist and daughters, Louise and Peggie, of Smithville, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Crist and daughter, Ira, of Peoria, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Crist and son, Mikey, of Fort Worth; and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Crist and daughter, Mary Alice, of Hico.

Ned Chapman announced early this week that he was closing his Western Auto Associate Store in Hico for the duration. The store will be open Saturday for a special close-out sale of all items in stock at liberal discounts. Inability to get certain lines of frozen merchandise, he said, coupled with handicaps of doing business in any line connected with the automotive business under restrictions deemed necessary in wartime, have caused this decision. Mr. and Mrs. Chapman and two small sons moved to Hico about a year ago from Hamilton and have found places in every phase of local community life, making many friends who will regret to see them move. Their plans for the future have not been announced.

Mr. and Mrs. Grady Brown, recently married in Houston and making their home there where Grady is in the Army Air Corps at Ellington Field, came in Wednesday night to spend several days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Brown.

Jane Ann Clark returned to her home in Hillsboro Monday after spending two weeks here with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. D. F. McCarty. Sylvia McCarty of Monahans who has also been here for the past two weeks remained for a longer visit with her grandparents.

Visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. N. Wolfe Thursday were Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Wieser, of Hamilton, Mrs. R. E. Welch of Groesbeck, Mr. and Mrs. Carter Brockenbrough, Sr., and Tommie Collins of Waco. The Brockenbroughs were accompanied to Hico by their son, Carter, Jr., Yeoman 2nd class of San Pedro, California, who will spend his furlough here with his wife, the former Jean Wolfe.

Miss Mattie Clark, who had been here several days visiting Mrs. J. A. Guyton and other friends, and seeing about disposing of the S. A. Clark home place and some of the household goods left here when Mr. Clark moved to Hillsboro last year, went to Stephenville Monday evening to visit with John Clark and family before returning to Lubbock. She stated before leaving Hico that she planned to rent a house in Lubbock, move their household goods out there, and bring her father out a little later.

Duffau

By Mrs. W. A. Deskin

The farmers are taking advantage of this pretty weather.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Kinser and children of Olin were guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eck Bell, Sunday.

G. O. Bowie is employed at Norman, Okla.

Arthur Phillips, who is employed at Brownwood, spent Saturday night and Sunday at home.

Mrs. W. P. Griffin and baby of Texarkana returned home Tuesday after a two weeks visit with her mother, Mrs. W. L. Sutek.

Private Roy Lawrence and wife of Camp Walters spent a while Saturday night in the W. C. Fouts home.

Mrs. W. C. Witt and baby of California spent the last two weeks visiting relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. Theo Mayfield and children of Fort Worth visited the past week with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Fallin and daughters spent Sunday in Johnsville in the Hugh T. Herrin home.

Many nice and useful gifts were presented to Miss Ruby Latham and Othella Powell at a shower given at the home of Mrs. G. O. Bowie. The home was decorated with the emblems of our country in red, white and blue. The bride-to-be is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Noah Herrin and the groom is the son of Mrs. Lillian Burkan. Both the young people have been reared here, and we wish for them a long and happy life together.

L. J. Jordan had the misfortune to get his foot badly crushed while working on a windmill at the C. A. Trimble farm.

Those visiting in the A. T. Lackey home last week were Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Vaughn and daughters, Russell and Helen, of Fort Worth and Granny Strepy of Hico.

John B. Fouts is visiting relatives at Claude, Texas, this week. Stanley Roach is employed at Claude, Texas.

Mr. and Mrs. Brooks Arnold and children of Fort Worth visited relatives here over the week end.

Pipe All Hands

Familiar to all nautical men is the shrill sound of the boson's pipe—that short whistle cupped in the hand which gives out orders more potent than any lusty bellowing of the old sea captain. This character study of a U. S. coast guard boat-swain's mate portrays the determination of America's fighting men.

Church News

Baptist Church

We have secured the preacher for our revival, Rev. Frank Means of Seminary Hill, Texas. The meeting will begin August 9 and close the 23rd. We were very fortunate in securing this fine young spiritual man of God to come to our city for two weeks.

All our departments are to resume their regular schedule, with the exception of the V. B. S. on Next Wednesday. It will be postponed one week in favor of the Methodist school that we did not know the dates of when this was planned, and we want as many of the children of the city to attend this fine school that is being conducted in Bro. Thrash's church.

W. M. U. will meet in the home of Mrs. C. D. Richbourg Monday at 4 o'clock for a social hour. All the ladies are urged to attend.

Prayer meeting will be Wednesday evening at 8:45.

Training Union is at 8:00 each Sunday evening.

Our folk were made happy Sunday morning when seven fine Christians were baptized. The right hand of church fellowship will be extended to them Sunday morning.

RALPH E. PERKINS, Pastor.

Methodist Church

Our revival meeting came to a close Sunday night. Many of our people were blessed by the services and have resolved to greater endeavor in the work of the church in the days to come. Let us remember the vows we have all taken and do all we can in these days that challenge the best that is in us.

Come to the services Sunday.

Sunday school at 10 a. m.

Morning worship at 11 o'clock.

Sermon subject, "The Keeping Power of God's Love."

Youth fellowship meeting at 8:00 p. m.

Evening worship at 8:45. Sermon subject, "They That Were Ready."

Come and help make these services what they ought to be.

FLOYD W. THRASH, Pastor.

The decade, 1929 to 1939, was the period of greatest growth in the population of Texas.

ANNUAL JAGGARS REUNION HELD ON FATHER'S DAY

June 21, 1942, all the children, grandchildren, great-grandchildren and other friends and relatives met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Jaggars for the annual family reunion.

At noon a large dinner was spread in the yard under the trees. Those present for the annual occasion were:

Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Fewell of Denton, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie McCoy and daughter, Peggy, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Jaggars and daughter, Leta Jean, all of Fair; Mr. and Mrs. Clint Herring and children of Hamilton; Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Jaggars and children, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Jaggars, Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Jaggars and daughters, and Mrs. H. H. Houser, all of Dublin; Mr. and Mrs. Ira Brown and children, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Tinsley, Jr., and son, of Carlton; Mrs. Jack Smith of Waco; Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Jaggars and children, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Jaggars, Mr. and Mrs. Benton Jaggars and children, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Jaggars and children, F. E. Stone, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Land, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Jaggars and daughter, Mary Helen, Miss Beth Jaggars, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Herrin and children, Mrs. Jesse Powell and Mrs. Coakson, all of Hico; Edward White of San Angelo; and Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Elkins and son of Los Angeles, California.

There were seven of the nine children of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Jaggars present; twenty-nine grandchildren, twelve great-grandchildren, and twenty-nine other friends and relatives. There were about seventy-seven present. Despite the fact of the shortage of sugar and tires, most everyone had a nice time. CONTRIBUTED.

Fun Aboard a U. S. Aircraft Carrier

Although raincoats are never short aboard American war ships, the best fed and best paid sailors in the world still can joke about some of the minor inconveniences of war. On the flight deck of a U. S. aircraft carrier, the last T-bone steak is passed in review as the ship's hand parades the juicy morsel past a steak-hungry crew. Note the steak's honor guard. Two enlisted seamen won the honor of scarfing this "last T-bone in captivity."

Hawaii Is 100% on Its Toes

Hawaii will never be caught napping again. The garrison of the "Pacific Paradise" would welcome another Jap raid now, for the boys are ready to dish it out and there are plenty of shelters to protect civilians from Nippon's murderous bombers. Above is one of the newly completed shelters. Built sturdily of concrete, the shelters are far below the surface. That chimney affair at the top of the mound is a ventilator shaft.

BREAK O'DAY IRON

By Reginald Wright Kauffman

CHAPTER IX SYNOPSIS

A man identified as Joseph Silms is found drowned in the Hudson river near Albany, N. Y. Silms was insured by the Protective Life Insurance company, and the beneficiary is a man named B. E. Twombly who lives in Troy. The company's Albany agent, Carlin, identifies the body, and the insurance money is paid to Twombly. But Jerry Glidden, suspecting that Silms was murdered, has gone to Ironburg, a little mining town in Pennsylvania, to see an "Angela Silms." She turns out to be an ugly pechuse of a woman who lives in a shack near the abandoned "Break O'Day" iron mine. She doesn't know Joseph Silms. Rose Walker, granddaughter of the owner of the mine, runs the local store and post office. When a man registers at the hotel at B. E. Twombly of Portland, Maine, Jerry wires Mart McDowell at Troy for information about Twombly. He sees Twombly talking to Rose, and later he sees her again at Angela's shack. He returns to the post office for the reply to his wire, which confirms his hunch that this Twombly is Silms's beneficiary. As he looks up after reading the telegram, he sees Angela Silms watching him from the doorway. Twombly, however, has not yet returned when the dinner at Angela's dinner alone in the hotel dining room.

With the second cup of alleged coffee, a possible explanation occurred to the solitary diner. Jerry asked the waitress for Rose's address.

She smiled knowingly. "Las' house on your left."

"Between here and that old mine?"

"Yeh. All the strange gents as comes here asts where she lives. But it's no goot; Miss Rose don't take up vis nobody. She ain't soft, she ain't."

Glidden heartily agreed. But he wondered if Twombly hadn't, anyhow, called there on his way back from Angela's. Jerry remembered the house, a neat one, fronted by a lawn and flower garden.

"What time did Mr. Twombly leave the hotel this afternoon?"

"This after? Why, him and Miss Rose was on the porch togesser for a while and then . . . But they was talkin' business, Mr. Glidden. Nussing else, they wasn't."

"What makes you think that?"

The waitress flushed.

"Cause I know Miss Rose," she loyally protested, "and 'cause"—she less readily concluded—"I had to pass close to 'em, couple o' times, an' I heard dollars mentioned like."

"All right. When did this traveling salesman leave the hotel?"

"Most soon," she said.

Jerry fought down an unmanly emotion.

"With her, do you mean?"

"Oh, no! The waitress tossed her head.

"But he followed her?"

"He went up the road, same's she done. But not foller'n her."

This was getting better.

"How do you know that?"

"Cause I know her."

Loyalty above logic, perhaps, but none the less satisfactory.

"About three o'clock, I suppose?"

"Somewhere there."

"Listen. Glidden pulled at a pocket. "That all you know about this afternoon?" Another dollar came.

The waitress glanced at her palm's new contents and blushed scarlet. Nothing can better describe the isolation of Ironburg than the mere statement that the local hotel employees were still on distant terms with tips.

"What were you talking to that man Twombly about?"

"Well, there's just this, an' I guess I oughtn't fer to've done it. But 'fore he started out—Mr. Twombly, I mean—he ast me who you was an' what fer you was here, an' I tol' him I didn't know nussing, but how you'd ast me yet about them old dead Twomblys an' said—you know you did when you heard his name—you used to know a Twombly in Troy."

Glidden studied the ceiling. "You talk too much. Still, it's a common disease. So do I. Keep the money."

She was going to! "I'm that sorry of I tol' him anysing I hadn't ought have."

"Did you tell him I showed this Twombly interest entirely after he came into the hotel?"

"Why, that's the way it was."

It wasn't. It was half otherwise. But he wouldn't correct her mistake for worlds.

"It's all right, Miss—whatever your name is. Not guilty, but don't do it again, see?"

She nodded fervent vows of obedience.

They might still laugh at him in the office; but he was going to write them the facts ascertained so far.

He went into the public room and wrote. The light was bad, his fountain-pen needed filling, and the quality of host Hasler's free ink wasn't a hundred plus. Moreover, as he wrote, his array of "facts" began to look like a string of broken coincidences pieced out by unsupported guesses.

Yet he had to unburden himself. He tore up his failures, he wrote MacDowell:

"Dear Mart: Thanks. I'll not forget, but you'll have to wait a while. That bird's trying to get something for nothing, and I'm trying to get something for something. If I win, there'll be a heat for you. But don't spill a line till I wire again.

Yours truly, Jerry."

Not what he had meant to do. Not half what he wanted to say. But he was afraid that, if he wrote the office, stupid Steinhardt would make some pacificistic move calculated to drive the quarry to cover, while Lightner laughed—and he was afraid, too, that, addressed to MacDowell, a full narrative of existing suspicions might tempt the capitalist print. The result he stamped. He addressed it.

"Mr. Twombly not back yet, Mr. Hasler?"

"No, he ain't, an' I'm now beginnin' to get some worried myself."

"I'm going for a stroll before I turn in. I'll keep an eye open. Where's the nearest mail box?"

"Ain't but one. Over there on the porch post of the store."

Thatner Jerry went. The moon hadn't yet risen, but there were many stars. He found the box—dropped his report into it.

"Oh, Jerry!" said a mocking voice near by.

"Hello!"

That return of her greeting leaped forth spontaneously; then he bit his under lip. Rose was extended for seizure of his shutters; an appealing pose for a painter. Jerry wished with all his heart that he did not mistrust her part in whatever plot Twombly was pursuing.

"I'm just shutting up shop for the night," she said.

Jerry's regard was a gaze as unswerving as his emotion would permit.

"How did you get hold of my first name?"

"There's a register even in Ironburg's hotel."

"Yes, I heard you'd been there."

His tone betrayed him. Her face clouded.

"What of it?"

Well, what? How could his rights extend to interference with her action? He owed her his life and she was duly grateful. Yet, like most people in the wrong, Jerry became belligerent.

"What were you talking to that man Twombly about?"

"Business."

"What business?"

"Mine!"

She banged those shutters. Jerry knew that, if his doubts were justified, he had prematurely shown them—supposing Twombly, or perhaps Angela, hadn't already revealed them. On the other hand, if they weren't justified, he had merely increased the girl's annoyance with him. He ought to go, but he wanted to stay!

He stayed.

And he had his reward. Soon—though not too soon—the door opened. She stood at it with that smile of the modern young woman which impudently transforms an insult into a peace offering.

Notable Hamilton County Pioneer Family

The above interesting group presented to readers of the News Review this week was photographed in the county seat some 42 years ago by the late Wm. S. Sparkman, whose studio was located on the east side of the Hamilton square. The family is that of J. A. McDermitt, one of the early-day settlers who helped to "carve" the present day Hamilton County out of a frontier wilderness.

Of this notable Hamilton County family, Ollie McDermitt and three of his sisters survive. They are Mrs. Lena Gordon, Hamilton; Mrs. V. H. Bird, Stephenville; Mrs. W. T. Oates, Cagle, Oklahoma. Deceased are Mr. and Mrs. McDermitt, and their daughters, Mrs. T. T. Durham and Mrs. Hiram Livingston.

Ollie McDermitt, who is making the race for District Clerk of Hamilton County, attended school in Hico at the old Bandals Academy, and will be remembered by a number of local people who were classmates at this pioneer institution. He is having the picture printed that all of the people now living within the boundary lines of Hamilton County may know something of the history of his family. Many others, who are long time friends of this notable family, will deeply appreciate the privilege of clipping and preserving the photograph.

Leaving Virginia in 1882, J. A. McDermitt came to Texas. In 1885 Ollie McDermitt's parents came to Hamilton County in a covered wagon. In 1888, they settled on a tract of land between Pecan Creek and the Leon River, and at that time Hamilton County was in its frontier stage of development and social advancement. Experiencing the hardships, deprivations and lack of opportunities of early day settlers, this pioneer family helped to make possible the prosperity, cultural advantages and privileges now enjoyed by our people in this section of Texas.

Mr. and Mrs. McDermitt and their children were industrious, worked hard and were thrifty in habits. He was a keen foresighted business man, and the McDermitt farm and ranch became one of the best known in the country. At the time of his death, J. A. McDermitt was vice-president of the Hamilton Bank and Trust Co., and was influential as a private citizen.

Ollie McDermitt has shown himself to be a man trustworthy as his father, careful in business matters, and industrious. While always interested and taking part in public affairs, and a "100 per cent Democrat" according to his own statement, none of the family has ever held public office, or held a salaries position in federal or county public capacity.

With regard to his candidacy for District Clerk of Hamilton County, this life-long Hamilton county citizen says:

"Now, to the voters of Hamilton County, I am 100 per cent for the All-Out War Program, and on account of fire rationing and a possible gasoline rationing also, it will be impossible for me to make a house to house canvass in my campaign to meet every one in person, but I do want you to give consideration to my candidacy and favor me with your support in so far as possible, and to vote for me at the July 25 primary election. I promise you, if elected, efficiency in office and service with a smile and courtesy for everybody with whom I come in contact as a servant of the people in the office of District Clerk. I promise also that my services shall be strictly official without any personal interest or expression in any way or manner. Also, I shall, if elected, give my entire time and attention to the duties of the office." (Pol. Adv.)

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Alcohol Facts versus Drinking Propaganda.

Lesson for June 28: Proverbs 21:17; Isaiah 5:20-23; Hosea 4:11; Joel 3:2, 3; Ephesians 5:18.

Golden Text: Proverbs 1:10.

The lesson caption is quite modern in its wording but the thing it names is very ancient, as the grouping of Scripture passages would indicate.

Drinking propaganda is now loosed upon the American people as never before, with the evident intent to fasten upon them, in time of stress, a habit they will find hard to break. No doubt it taxes the ingenuity of those who profit by such propaganda to advertise alcoholic drinks in a convincing way. Not long ago they advised moderation in drinking. Now they would seemingly steal upon people by advertisements that picture flowers, birds and other beautiful things, with a whisky bottle and a fancy name at the bottom. It is said that birds are sometimes intoxicated by eating certain berries; it is suggested that liquor advertisements show inebriated birds and a cat ready to pounce upon them.

Be not deceived by drinking propaganda. Over against it set appalling alcohol facts—too numerous to detail in limited space.

Evils of strong drink, with attendant evils, were known in Isaiah's time (verses 22, 23 of the lesson text), in Hosea's time (verse 11), and in Joel's time (verses 2, 3).

The most appalling thing to contemplate is the national ruin that will follow when a people have become a nation of drunkards. Read again the passage from Joel.

The only remedy for the drinker, and it is a sufficient one, is in the divine help. "And be not drunken with wine, wherein is riot, but be ye filled with the Spirit."

per to be delivered to us, which was done, and it proved to be a very interesting publication.

The issue was No. 18 of Volume 1, and contained a large quota of camp news, showing that the boys who publish the paper are on their toes. Needless to say, an article about the recent pay boost received front page attention.

AWAITING CALL

Hosea Warren, who was graduated from the School of Mines at El Paso this year, and who spent several days thereafter visiting in Hico, has signed up with the Armament Division of the Army Air Corps, according to information received by his mother, Mrs. Bess Warren, here.

Hosea, while awaiting his call, is working with a tin prospector on a project near El Paso. When inducted into the service he expects to be sent to an officers' training school at Lowry Field, Denver.

CARLTON SOLES

Ohlar Carlton who recently was transferred to Santa Maria, Calif., for further Air Corps training, wrote his mother last week that he had four hours and fifteen minutes flying time to his credit, and expected to take his solo flight soon. She replied to his letter with a request that he say nothing more about it until he had soloed, but before Ohlar had time to get her letter, she got another one from him telling her that he had experienced the longest for thrill.

Ohlar seems to be getting a big kick out of the Air Corps training, and we are still expecting that promised letter from him telling more about it.

Miss Elva Jenkins received a letter Saturday from her brother, Pfc. Leroy Jenkins, stating that he is now in Northern Ireland. He had previously been stationed in Maryland.

AN LITTLE PROMOTED

Mrs. T. U. Little of Stephenville, knowing local people would be interested in her sons in the service, wrote the News Review this week that her son, Albert Harold, has been promoted. Ab is now a first lieutenant in the Army Air Corps, according to a letter she received this week.

Mrs. Little said the show put on in Stephenville by the boys from Camp Wolters was something special, and that she hoped a number of local people saw it.

Mrs. Blanche Jones Addresses Voters Of Erath County

I announce my candidacy for the office of County Superintendent of Schools fully realizing the tremendous responsibility in the many duties of the office. These duties call for qualifications in education and experience in the field of rural schools, as well as a thorough understanding of public service to all without partiality.

Having observed these duties, I have acquired educational attainments, and feel that I have the executive ability to furnish the schools of our county that type of service which will give general satisfaction to all.

I am a school teacher; have taught 15 years in Erath County. I served 4 terms as a principal of schools, and have taught 12 years in my present position. I am an ex-student of John Tarleton Agricultural College, North Texas State Teachers College, Denton; and a graduate of Daniel Baker College, Brownwood, from which I hold my Bachelor Degree.

I am a widow, and the mother of three sons, two of whom are in military service.

I want to be your next County Superintendent because I am qualified and feel that I can best serve the people in this capacity. It is my sincere desire to help make the National Defense Program of paramount importance in the schools, so as to give to our county trained minds and trained hearts in this vital struggle.

Your vote and influence will be deeply appreciated and if I am elected to the office of County Superintendent of Schools, I promise to faithfully discharge each and every duty of the office to the very best of my ability. I shall at no time betray the trust that has been placed in me.

MRS. BLANCHE JONES.

Average American Mother Helping In Scrap Rubber Drive

Mrs. Joseph L. Doakes is just an average American mother. She has a son in the Army, and one in the Navy. Her husband, Joe, is a veteran of the last war and she wouldn't complain if the Army agreed to let him be a veteran of this one.

Mrs. Doakes doesn't consider that she deserves any special praise for mothering two service men. She thinks fighting is their job, and she'd hate them to dodge it.

And that's why she's determined to do her part—however large or small the task—to help her sons and their country toward victory.

Last week Mrs. Doakes read in the paper that all American housewives can help the war effort by turning in every scrap of old rubber they can find.

The United States will get no more new rubber until we chase the Japs back to Japan, she read. What we've got on hand must go into tires, gun mounts, bullet-proof gasoline tanks of our bombers and fighting planes. It must go on the wheels of jeeps and the treads of tanks. It must go into gas masks and raincoats, into life rafts and sailor's boots. . . . into a thousand and one things our fighting men must have to win the war.

But old rubber can be reclaimed, the story said. The nation's rubber plants can process 250,000 tons of it—if they can get it.

Mrs. Doakes saw a job for herself. She put on a big apron and tied up her hair and went to work.

For a start, she looked in the hall closet. Before she looked out again, Mrs. Doakes had unearthed three pairs of worn-out rubbers and two pairs of galoshes. . . . an old raincoat that Joe had been treasuring for years past its usefulness.

Encouraged, Mrs. Doakes charged on to the attic. With wifely instinct, she made for Joe's workbench under the window. There she retrieved an old pair of waders which he'd been talking about patching for more fishing seasons than she could remember. In the tool-chest she found several pairs of old rubber gloves left over from the boys' phase of developing their own snapshots. And behind an old trunk she spied a real find—a fifty-foot length of old garden hose, discarded for leaks. Flabby tennis balls, a rubber-tired velocipede and a little red coaster wagon finished out the attic's hoard.

Into the torn shower curtain went a retired rubber bath mat. From the pantry Mrs. Doakes salvaged old rubber rings from jam and jelly jars the family had emptied. To the growing pile she added two leaky hot-water bottles, a pure rubber reducing girdle she hadn't been able to stand, a worn-out rubber doormat, old rubber doorstops, and a plumber's suction pump that dated back to the little house the Doakes had moved into when they first married.

On to the garage! Mrs. Doakes looked a sight by now. But she found old tubes, two hopeless car tires, some bits of patching and re-liners.

With pride Mrs. Doakes surveyed her collection. Uncle Sam can make good use of that, she thought, and now for a bath.

Texas' State Motto is "Friendship," officially adopted by the Texas State Legislature in 1939.

Texas sent about 19,000 soldiers to the front during the Spanish-American War.

The first native Texan elected Governor of Texas was James Stephen Hogg (1891-1895).

The present capitol of Texas at Austin was dedicated in May, 1888.

ON THE NEWS FRONT

Nation's Grocery Basket Guarded By Food Requirements Committee

The federal government, to insure a steady stream of supplies for the nation's fighting forces, and also to its Allies, is assuming complete war-time control over the nation's grocery basket.

The War Production board vested such gigantic control in a nine-member food requirements committee under the chairmanship of Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard.

The Wickard committee stressed the idea, though, that it should not be assumed that there is a food shortage, or that consumer rationing of most foods is in prospect.

The total food supply this year is expected to be the largest on record, and even larger than the requirements of not only this nation, but also Russia and Great Britain.

Shortages in a Few Items

Despite the enormous amounts of foodstuffs in this year's anticipated supply, shortages in certain items are now showing.

Such items are sugar, pork, animal fats, vegetable oils, canned vegetables, coffee, tea, cocoa, and some tropical fruits.

But the prospect for a plentiful supply of wheat, fresh fruits and vegetables, fluid milk, cream, beef, lamb, mutton and eggs is encouraging.

This food supply is dependent on sufficient farm labor supply, available food transportation and processing and good weather.

Because of the limit to lend-lease shipments due to a present shipping shortage, food supplies here will not be cut into as much as if shipping conditions were normal. This is another factor which complements the nation's food supply.

But if a severe drought, or a farm labor shortage takes place, or if the sub menace is eliminated and there by enabling more foodstuffs to be exported to Russia and Great Britain, then there is a good possibility that rationing of some items here might take place.

Rationing Group's Authority

The food rationing group has the authority to say what foods may or may not be produced, what foods may or may not be imported, and to direct food supplies among the armed forces, American Allies and U. S. civilians.

Within a short time a joint American-British food board will be arranged so as to link up both of the nations' food supply.

Officials of the Wickard committee stressed the fact that any food rationing that would take place would be carried out by the Office of Price Administration.

The foremost duty of this federal food rationing group is to check on all food needs, and the prospects on production and imports. It can adopt any measures necessary and practical to obtain food supplies.

Because the war has stopped important foreign supplies of vegetable oils, the committee has been faced with its first problem.

It must decide whether to cut down on the consumption of fats and vegetable oils here, or to draw on the nation's reserve supply.

WPA to Begin Scrap Collection In Next Few Days

Waco, June 22.—Collection of scrap metals and rubber from rural areas will be started in Hamilton county within the next few days by the Works Projects Administration. It was announced today by W. H. Beazley, district manager.

WPA trucks and labor will be utilized to assemble scrap for shipping to points where it can be fed into America's war production machines. Farmers may donate or sell scrap to the WPA collectors, Beazley explained. The Government will pay 25 cents per hundred pounds for any kind of scrap metal and half a cent a pound for rubber.

From abandoned binders may come steel for anti-aircraft guns, scrap rubber can be utilized for jeep tires, and old scrap tubing now lying in farm barns may be turned into a shell which could eliminate a Jap cruiser. It has been pointed out by the War Production Board, sponsoring agency for the scrap collection drive.

One thousand seven hundred and forty cards are being mailed to Hamilton county farmers on which they may reply to a letter which has been mailed over the signature of WPB Chief Donald M. Nelson, inquiring what amount of iron and steel and other metals and scrap rubber can be collected from their farms. The cards, advising the approximate amount of materials available and whether or not equipment will be necessary to move it, may be returned postage-free to WPA.

Beazley expressed the hope that each farmer will be able to assemble his scrap metal and rubber at some convenient point near the road where WPA crews may pick it up easily.

"We shall answer every request to pick up scrap materials as soon as possible," he declared. "Speed is the essential factor in getting this vital material to our Nation's war plants and the facilities of WPA will be utilized by the War Production Board to the fullest extent in expediting the movement of the scrap."

Beazley pointed out that the Government pays a flat rate of 25 cents per hundredweight for all scrap metals, making no exception for such non-ferrous metals as copper, brass and lead nor, in the case of rubber, for inner tubes. He recommended that farmers having a large supply of non-ferrous metals can take them to town where they can receive a higher price from dealers than that paid by the Government.

WPA laborers will assemble the collected metal at convenient railway shipping points in the county.

where it will be auctioned to the highest bidder. After that it must be shipped to war factories and mills within 60 days.

"If farmers donate their scrap," Beazley said, "all money from its sale goes to the Government. If he sells the scrap, he is paid in War Stamps or in Government checks, whichever he prefers."

He stated that persons in rural areas who wish to sell their scrap under the WPA plan should go over their old machinery and remove any usable parts which might be needed later.

"It makes no difference whether the farmer disposes of his scrap through the Government or through a scrap dealer," Beazley asserted. "The main point is to get the scrap moving now toward America's war factories."

Texas is the 28th State to be admitted to the Union.

SUCCESSFUL PARENTHOOD

BABY'S BEAUTY CARE

Since there are numerous beauty columns for adults we shall review the minimum beauty care which a baby should receive. The daily warm, soapy bath has long been a tradition for American babies. There aren't any wrinkles except in the mother's forehead as babies are immersed in water at a much earlier age than formerly. Baby oil to keep the skin smooth and powder for comfort and sweet smelling are still baby's toilet standbys.

Great care should be taken to dry the baby well with a soft towel, especially behind the ears and in the folds of flesh. If moisture is left behind the ears, friction of the ear against the side of the head will often make a sore area. It is a good plan to leave a little oil behind the ears.

Clean scalp, lubricated with baby oil or scalp cream, well brushed hair which receives a sufficient quota of air and sunlight will provide the baby with a well-groomed head.

If the baby develops what is known as "milk crust" or "cradle cap," the mother should not blame herself, provided the scalp has been kept clean. It is usually an excessive secretion of the sebaceous glands of the scalp. If the hair is long and heavy it should be cut so that the scalp itself may be reached. The crusts should be softened with warm oil and a piece of linen covered with the oil should be left on the scalp overnight. Keep this in place by a little cotton hood. In the morning the scalp should be washed with warm water and pure, bland soap, being careful to rinse well with clear, warm water. Removing the crust forcibly with a comb is not advisable as it often leaves a bleeding area. If the treatment described is not enough for bad cases, the family doctor will usually prescribe an ointment.

It has been found that many faults of posture are acquired before a child learns to walk, so preventive exercises from the age of three weeks are now recommended for insuring a strong, straight back and sturdy legs. Of course much of a baby's exercising is instinctive and all you have to do is provide at least two kicking periods a day. The baby should be without clothing, lying flat on a table or bed and allowed to kick and stretch.

Adding rhythmic arm and leg exercises helps toward balanced development and fosters a sense of rhythm without which life is far more haphazard than it need be. After a few months of stretching arms and legs to a rhythmic count (or better still to music) you can begin such simple back exercises as raising and lowering the child to and from a sitting position. The first exercise period should last about half a minute, increasing with the months until at six months of age three to five minutes of varied exercises will be stimulating and then relaxing. Of course these formal exercises are in addition to those which are his own idea.

Keep the skin of your child's hands soft and smooth, the cuticle pushed down and the nails growing in a style suited to the shape of the ends of the fingers. For a baby all this can be accomplished at bath time with cold cream, small scissors and cotton-covered orange stick.

What Is ADVERTISING?

Let us try to define advertising in terms of its specific purpose . . . its immediate rather than its ultimate objective . . . as all other functions of a business are sometimes defined and judged.

Specifically, what do we expect our advertising to do?

Advertising has one specific thing to do; and that is to inform, and often . . . although not necessarily always . . . to persuade.

If some one insists that when you say "sell" you are saying the same thing as "inform and persuade," let us take a look at some recent advertising in the oil industry, where considerable space and time were used in an effort to induce people to use less gasoline. If that is "selling," it will be very difficult to measure the results in the sales figures at the end of the year.

The truth is, the term "selling" has come to be used very loosely . . . especially with reference to advertising. Advertising cannot possibly make change, wrap up packages, or perform any of the many services or functions of the retailer. Most of the time, it does not even operate in the presence of an opportunity to buy.

What advertising actually does is to convey a message . . . to say something which retailers want to say to a large number of people.

Which leads us immediately to a definition and concept of advertising which has far-reaching implications:

Advertising is a specialized technique for mass communication. It exists for two reasons . . . because it is fast, and because it costs less than any other method.

These are not the only characteristics of advertising, but they are the most essential ones. Without them there would be no advertising at all. These two characteristics explain what advertising is.
