Cease Firing Order Issued In Chinese War

All Political Parties Are Legalized

CHUNG KING —(AP)—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek announced Thursday, shortly after a truce had brought an immediate end to China's civil war, that the government had decided to legalize all political parties.

He said the government would free all purely political prisoners, grant the people freedom of speech and promote local self government.

Chiang, opening the political consultation conference almost simultaneously with the conclusion of the cease fire agreement, announced the government had decided to:

1—Grant the people freedom of person, conscience, speech, publication, and association and to safeguard them against illegal arrest and trial.

2—All political parties shall be equal before the law and may operate openly within the law.

3—Local self-government will actively be promoted in all places and popular elections will be held.

4—Political prisoners, except traitors and those found to have committed definite acts injurious to the republic, would be released.

Gen. Chou En-Lai, No. 2 Communist leader, approved the four points and said they were basic for achieving constitutional government.

Gen. George Marshall, special U. S. envoy to China, broke the deadlock in Chinese negotiations for a truce Wednesday night by visiting Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

Differences over wording a cease hostilities order were ironed out. It was believed that Chiang agreed to modify his previous insistence that the Nationalists should occupy certain specified areas in the Inner Mongolian provinces of Chahar and Jehol.

The "cease fire" order was issued after Gen. Chang Chun, government representative, and Gen. Chou En-Lai of the Communists, meeting with General Marshall, special U. S. envoy to China, reached an agreement in the surprise meeting, held nine hours ahead of schedule.

Except for the transport of government troops into or within Manchuria to restore Chinese sovereignty, military commanders were ordered to halt all troop movements.

Announcement of the truce came as 38 delegates of China's various political factions gathered for Thursday's opening of the Political Consultation Conference.

Chiang opened the conference with an announcement of the truce. The generalissimo declared the government was ready to accept all decisions of the conference "if they are beneficial to national reconstruction, tend to promote popular welfare and can help in democratization of the country."

Producers Granted Milk Price Increase

Milk producers of the Midland area were granted an increase in price for their product Thursday by the Dairy Production Division of the OPA in Dallas.

The price of milk was advanced 26 cents per hundred pounds, making the base price in Midland $4.01 per 100 pounds.

The temporary order was issued Thursday and remains in effect 90 days. Meanwhile, a study and investigation is promised by the OPA of the milk situation and recommendations will be prepared.

The order grants a price increase of one-half cent a quart in milk at wholesale and retail.

The order concerns a wide West Texas area, including Big Spring, Lubbock and Amarillo.

Protests Sending Telegrams By Mail

NEW YORK —(AP)—The legality of delivery of telegrams by mail became a top issue Thursday in the Western Union strike which left New York City in virtual telegraphic isolation for the third day.

Victor Rabinowitz, attorney for the CIO American Communications Association, charged the company had violated a Federal Communications Act in using the mails for delivery of telegraphic messages.

T. B. Gittings, vice president in charge of public relations, replied that the firm was using the mails only as a last resort and that it felt it was better to give this service than none at all.

Pappy Leaves Lucy In Lurch And Marries Former Actress

LOS ANGELES —(AP)—Lt. Col. Gregory (Pappy) Boyington, America's ace war flier, is honeymooning Thursday with the former Miss Frances Baker of Los Angeles whom he married in Las Vegas, Nev. Tuesday.

He announced the marriage, performed by a justice of peace, Wednesday.

Boyington's marriage to the 32-year-old former movie actress followed closely on an announcement in Reno by Mrs. Lucy Malcolmson that she expected to marry the 35-year-old Marine as soon as she received a divorce from her husband, an Australian motors executive.

Through his attorney, Arthur C. Miller, Boyington said Mrs. Malcolmson was trustee for an estate he had created for his three children by a former marriage, and that he never had any intention of marrying her.

"I don't know why Mrs. Malcolmson announced that she planned to marry me," Miller quoted Boyington as saying. "We made no such plans. At one time she wanted to marry me, but I told her I did not want to marry her."

Boyington said he was divorced in 1941 from Mrs. Helen Clark of Seattle and that their three children now are with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Hollenbeck of Brewster, Wash.

Miss Baker, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Reiman of San Francisco, was divorced in 1932 from Russell Baker of San Francisco, owner of a restaurant chain. They had no children.

RENO, Nev. —(AP)—"I am so stunned I have nothing more to say," Mrs. Lucy Malcolmson told her attorney Wednesday after she had heard that Lt. Col. (Pappy) Boyington, who she said was to have married her here Tuesday, married another woman in Las Vegas instead.

She told the attorney, Joseph P. Haller, that she would turn over to him some of the famed Marine Corps flier's personal effects in her possession.

"I have no reason to see him further," the attorney quoted her.

Mrs. Malcolmson, who Tuesday failed to appear in court here for a scheduled divorce hearing, went into seclusion immediately after her talk with the attorney. Her hosts at a ranch near here said they did not know where she had gone.

Her automobile remained at the ranch, her cottage door was open, and her little brown Pekinese dog, Pushface, was standing mournfully in the doorway alone.

Continental Air Lines representatives were expected in Midland Thursday afternoon to prepare data against opposition which has developed to their application for a permanent route through San Angelo, Big Spring and Midland.

William E. Amlong, executive assistant of Continental, is conducting meetings Thursday at San Angelo and Midland.

He will confer with aviation leaders and businessmen.

Chief Justice Harold C. Ward ordered the men retained by police for another 24 hours after Police Sergeant Jack Hanrahan and state attorney's officials pleaded for more time to question the two janitors. Both are employed in apartment buildings near the Degan home in the Edgewater Beach District on the North Side.

The immediate release of the two janitors, Hector Verburgh, 65, and Desere Smet, 35, and Verburgh's wife, Mary, 64, had been asked by their attorney, James A. Bieker.

The Chicago Tribune announced it would pay $10,000 for information leading to the apprehension and conviction of the slayer. This brought to $21,000 the rewards offered.

When he stopped the three girls got out to look at the tire. Huber said the eldest told him, and the youth forced her into the car and drove off. Her sisters walked to a farmhouse a half mile away and told Mrs. Fred W. Zoelick what had happened. She notified police.

Officials of the City of Midland, which owns both airports, had received no official word from the Army concerning its plans.

Col. Chester P. Gilger, commanding officer of the Midland Army Air Field, will leave Saturday on temporary duty status to become a member of a board of Army Air Force officers which will interview applicants for regular Army commissions.

After a short orientation course at Scott Field, Ill., he will report to Camp Shelby, Miss., the headquarters of the reviewing board.

WASHINGTON — (AP)

The War Department undertook to recast its entire demobilization program Thursday, as pressure mounted from disgruntled GI's demonstrating overseas.

Pending this revision, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower authorized theater commanders to waive all point score requirements in getting home men not needed in the occupation forces.

At the same time, Gen. Jacob L. Devers, chief of the Army ground forces, told the country that public clamor for bringing the boys back immediately is "jeopardizing our security and wrecking the morale of men needed to maintain the peace."

The announcement the Army was redrafting its demobilization program came less than a week after the War Department ordered its demobilization slow-down which touched off the series of GI demonstrations in the Pacific and Europe.

Despite Eisenhower's order and the promise of a new demobilization program, increasing dissatisfaction with the entire situation was voiced on Capitol Hill by some lawmakers returning for the opening session of Congress next week.

GI Demonstrations Humiliating
The demobilization slow-down were called "near mutiny" Thursday by Senator Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo.), "distressing and humiliating to all Americans."

Johnson formally called upon the Senate military committee to summon Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower "at the earliest possible moment" for a full investigation.

In a letter to Chairman Thomas of the Senate Military Committee, Johnson declared that "no American Army must ever be permitted by Congress to degenerate into a mob. What must our neighbor nations think of such an outrageous display of irresponsibility?"

Johnson also asserted that the War Department was repudiating "solemn pledges" about demobilization made to Congress last September by Gen. George C. Marshall, then chief of staff.

However, Gen. Jacob L. Devers, chief of Army ground forces, contended in a speech that public clamor for bringing the boys back immediately is "jeopardizing our security and wrecking the morale of men needed to maintain the peace."

WASHINGTON —(AP)—A report by the government's fact-finding board in the General Motors wage dispute headed toward the White House Thursday.

The three-man panel's recommendations, which may provide a basis for settlement of the 50-day-old CIO strike in GM plants, was expected to reach President Truman by mid-afternoon.

Chairman Lloyd K. Garrison declined to discuss with reporters the board's recommendations in addition to the fact-finding committee will recommend a wage increase of 20 cents an hour for production workers of General Motors Corporation. This will approximate an 18 per cent rate increase, the News said.

There was a steady blow of air throughout the period, which increased as the test progressed. When tool was opened the 3,000-foot water was flowed out and the drill pipe flowed oil and gas cut drilling mud for 20 minutes.

After pulling 41 stands of dry drill pipe the well again heeded oil cut drilling mud for an unreported period. Then when 66 stands of drill pipe had been pulled it unheeded mud and gas cut oil for 12 minutes.

Recovery, when all drill pipe had been broken down, was nine stands of heavily mud cut oil.

Army Will Combine Midland Air Bases

Army Air Force installations of the Midland area will move to the same field Monday when the 8th Ferrying Service Station of the Air Transport Command, which has occupied the Midland Municipal Airport for more than two years, transfers its personnel and facilities to the Midland Army Air Field.

The consolidation merely will be one of facilities. The ATC's 577th AAF Base Unit will remain a separate entity.

The announcement at the Midland Army Air Field came after several weeks of rumors and speculation, some of which bordered on the fantastic.

The actual move, however, simply reflects, the announcement said, "a more efficient use of the facilities available to the AAF in this area."

Space Is Available
The cessation of training of foreign nationals at MAAF and other post-war reductions in the regular training program have made available enough barracks space and other facilities to more than accommodate the personnel and equipment of the ferrying service station, which will operate at MAAF as a separate unit, under the command of its present commanding officer, Maj. W. L. Burdell.

Many details of the move have not been worked out, but it is expected that the 577th AAF Base Unit will occupy the area at MAAF which formerly housed the French bombardier cadets.

There was no announcement concerning Navy personnel stationed at the Midland Municipal Airport, but orders moving these men to MAAF are expected soon. Preliminary plans do not envision the re-occupation of the old always buildings on U. S. Highway 80 at MAAF, which were used by the ATC unit stationed at MAAF several years ago.

Plans are being completed to set up the ATC's operations office in the MAAF operations building under the direction of the Ferrying Service Station's present operations officers.

Other ATC facilities probably will be set up similarly, each operating as a separate unit from the training command's departments.

Officials of the City of Midland, which owns both airports, had received no official word from the Army concerning its plans.

Prime Minister Tells Delegates Mankind's Fate In Their Hands

LONDON —(AP)—The United Nations Assembly, carrying forward the world's hopes for prevention of an atomic age war, came into being in battle-scarred London Thursday and heard a bald warning that it holds in its hands the choice of "life or death" for mankind.

The warning came from Britain's Prime Minister Clement Attlee after Dr. Eduardo Zuleta of Colombia had called the delegates of the 51 United Nations to order at 10:03 a. m., CST.

"The coming of the atomic bomb was only the last of a series of warnings to mankind that, unless the powers of destruction could be controlled, immense ruin and almost annihilation would be the lot of most of the highly civilized portions of mankind," the British leader told the representatives assembled at ancient Westminster palace.

Attlee said, "I welcome, therefore, the decision to remit the whole problem of control of atomic energy to a commission of the United Nations Organization."

"This decision was made at the pre-Christmas conference of the Big Three foreign ministers in Moscow. It calls for setting up an 11-man commission.

But already King George VI had set the solemn tone of the session in a speech to the chief delegates at a glittering state dinner at St. James Palace Wednesday night.

Fate of Millions Unborn
"It is in your hands," he said, "to make or mar the happiness of millions of your fellow men, and of millions yet unborn."

"It is for you to lay the foundations of a new world. Where such a conflict as that which lately brought our world to the verge of annihilation must never be repeated."

Preliminary estimates were that construction might be completed in from three to four weeks. The assembly would then adjourn to reassemble later this year at permanent UNO headquarters in the United States.

Atomic energy controls furnished the chief pre-conference excitement here when Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) of the American delegation questioned whether the commission would have powers so broad that it might demand atomic bomb secrets from the United States.

Byrnes issued a statement denying this, and Vandenberg said he was completely reassured that the secrets would be adequately safeguarded.

Dr. Zuleta, temporary president of the assembly, told the delegates that all must give their unqualified and unhesitating support "to save succeeding generations from the scourge of war."

The American delegation took seats long before the last of the delegates had entered the hall. Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt sat on the left of Senator Connally (D-Texas), Secretary of State James F. Byrnes sat on Connally's right.

About 700 delegates held places on the assembly floor and the gallery offered seats for another 1,000 reporters, photographers, guests and plain citizens.

Dr. Paul Henri Spaak, Socialist foreign minister of Belgium, who was supported by Britain, was elected president of the assembly for the London meeting. Tryve Lie, Norwegian foreign minister, was the only candidate nominated from the floor. Lie's name was offered by Russia, who with the United States, supported him. On a secret ballot, the tally was Spaak, Lie 23.

When he stopped the three girls got out to look at the tire. Huber said the eldest told him, and the youth forced her into the car and drove off. Her sisters walked to a farmhouse a half mile away and told Mrs. Fred W. Zoelick what had happened. She notified police.

Officials of the City of Midland, which owns both airports, had received no official word from the Army concerning its plans.

Distinguished Lobbyists

The 200 scientists who have offered to assist in the drafting of national science legislation comprise what certainly must be the most distinguished group of lobbyists since the first influential constituent buttonholed the first congressman. Five Nobel Prize winners are among them—including Dr. Albert Einstein. It's enough to impress the most imperturbable of senior senators.

What the distinguished doctors want is a law that will provide federal support of research, assure scientists freedom of inquiry, let them range widely "in all fields of fundamental scientific inquiry relevant to national interest," assure publication of their findings and dedicate them to the public welfare, set up a program of fellowships and scholarships for training researchers, and settle the question of administrative responsibility for a national research program.

That is a large and general order. Scientific research "relevant to national interest" covers a lot of territory, and runs into a lot of money.

Previously this research has been done by private industry at considerable expense. Relieved of that expense, manufacturers with research departments would show a greater profit which in turn would benefit their stockholders and employes.

But the bill would be paid by several million taxpayers who are neither employers, employes nor stockholders in these industries. How big the bill should be and what it should pay for are things that would have to be examined carefully in writing the law that the scientists want to help draft.

But certainly there are areas of scientific inquiry, notably those pertaining to national defense and national health, in which clearer and more comprehensive programs of development are needed. National direction of these programs would seem logical.

Human use of controlled atomic energy has forced the scientists out of their laboratories and into the world of statecraft and politics. It has given them a sense of responsibility for the tremendous destructive power which they alone can devise. And most of us would feel more comfortable if they, and not the politicians, were formally assigned that responsibility.

It would probably be a good thing if we could contrive to work the research scientists more intimately into our everyday routine of government and business. For the most part they seem to be pretty good guys—honest, humble and humane, as well as wise. The world can never have too many such men helping to run its affairs.

Different Sound Effects

The Russian press accuses Turkey of "sword-rattling" because it has announced that it will resist by force, if necessary, a Russian demand for several thousand square miles of Turkish territory.

This must have been a surprising change from the knee-rattling which is the usual response to similar Russian requests.

Comrades

Sometimes it seems that the Russian people are as remote from our understanding as they are from our sight. For example, it must have seemed odd, if admirable, to many Americans that a Russian husband and wife should have bought a tank with their own money, operated it in Poland, Romania, Czechoslovakia and Germany, and killed 160 enemy soldiers.

But if the Americans read to the end of the story, they would have found that the husband did the driving and the wife did the bossing. The back-seat driver, then, is a Russian institution, too. Knowing that, we somehow feel that world brotherhood is a possibility after all.

Nothing is harder on a woman's clothes than her enemies.

Producers Promise No Dumping Of Milk If Strike Is Called

AUSTIN—(AP)—Officials of the Austin Wholesale Milk Producers Association have promised there will be no "pouring out of milk" if a threatening strike among local milk producers is called at a Friday night meeting.

Joe C. Carrington, acting president of the association, who viewed the strike almost as a certainty, said producers "will give milk away as long as there is a drop before we deny the people." Joe C. Carrington and F. M. Sherrill, manager of the association, said the action, if taken, would be an attempt to force the OPA to grant a price increase on raw milk sold to creameries. Creameries have refused to pay the hike until OPA approves the creamery price increase of half a cent per quart to be passed on to retailer and consumer.

Half of the total of canned vegetables and two-thirds of the canned fruits available to civilians in 1944 were preserved at home.

Ambassador Opposes Polish Business Plan

WARSAW—(AP)—U. S. Ambassador Arthur Bliss Lane informed the Polish provisional government Tuesday he would oppose granting of any United States funds to Poland "as long as present conditions prevail" in this country.

The ambassador was protesting against recent measures by the regime, including a decree nationalizing all basic industries employing more than 50 persons per shift.

Lane told the Polish Foreign Ministry he considered that the 1931 commercial treaty between Poland and the United States had been violated. He said this treaty permitted free entry and development of commercial enterprises within Poland by American business men.

Executives Consider 12-Month Schools

AUSTIN—(AP)—Consideration of a 12-month school year, the purchase of school supplies on a cooperative basis, and greater freedom in the choice of textbooks, were included in resolutions adopted by the 13th annual mid-winter conference of Texas school executives.

The conference, which closed here Thursday paid express tribute to the 49th Legislature for "increased financial support of public education as reflected in increased per capita, rural aid, appropriations for health and safety education, aid to exceptional children; enabling local districts to raise their local tax rates for education."

The resolution relative to textbook choice provided that "the conference recommend legislation to enable the State Board of Education, with the assistance of the State Department of Education, to select books for all courses in Texas public schools, without the necessity of having the textbook specifically named in the statutes as to subject matter."

Other resolutions asked that schools "accelerate efforts to promote more effective education for the prevention of delinquency"; promote the use of frequency modulation radio, develop a plan for awarding credit to veterans for educational experience in the armed services, encourage resource-use education and give "serious consideration to the equitable distribution of war property."

Muriel McHargue And Capt. Ivor P. Evans Are United In Marriage In Candlelight Rites Solemnized Wednesday At MAAF Chapel

In a candlelight ceremony solemnized at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday in the Midland Army Air Field Chapel, Miss Muriel McHargue, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul McHargue, of this city, became the bride of Capt. Ivor P. Evans, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Evans of Aliquippa, Pa. Vows for the double ring ceremony were directed by the Rev. Clyde Lindsley, minister of the First Christian Church, as the bridal party stood at the altar decorated with three large baskets of white gladioli. White tapers in candelabra burned in the background. Preceding the ceremony, the tapers were lighted by Richard McHargue, brother of the bride.

Pre-nuptial music was by Miss Charlotte Kinsey who played "I Love You Truly" and accompanied Miss Jo Ann Proctor as she sang "Because." Other music included the traditional wedding marches. The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore an Oxford gray suit with accessories of black. She chose a white blouse and a fuchsia hat, and for "something old," a necklace belonging to her mother. Her white prayer book was topped with an orchid from which extended streamers of stephanotis. Her gift from the bridegroom was a double-strand of pearls.

Mrs. Graham Matron of Honor

Mrs. Gerald Graham attended her sister as matron of honor. She was attired in tailored chaireuse suit with which she wore a white blouse, and black accessories. Her shoulder corsage was of gardenias. Best man was Maj. Norman Bennett. Ushers were Lt. Robert Hossley and P/O John Cox. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, 909 West Kansas. The table was centered with a bouquet of white gladioli and chrysanthemum, with white tapers in silver candelabra on either side. A miniature bridal couple topped the three tiered wedding cake which was cut with a pearl-handled knife used at the wedding reception for Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Sivalls. All silver table appointments were used.

Mrs. W. H. Pratt presided at the punch bowl and the cake was

Crusaders Inspired New Winter Fashion

By EPSIE KINARD

NEA Staff Writer

NEW YORK—Hoods which flatteringly frame the face and cover all of the hair except a possible widow's peak are fashion's answer to winter's howls. You can thank the medieval crusaders for the idea for these knitted hoods and collars which shut out cold and add a picturesque note to ensembles. Accessories with skirts, muff-bags, gloves or veskies, the hood and its mate are usually studded with nailheads, splashed by medieval embroidery, or knitted in chainmail stitches which create the illusion of armored mesh. Examples of ensembles created for daytime and evening wear are shown in two Arpad designs above. For evening glamor, the black velvet hood, truly, with flange collar embroidered in stained glass colors, is teamed with a matching bag, which picks up the medieval motif. Woolknit hood and veskit, center, with exaggerated revers and four tie-bows to keep the ensemble snug, make use of the chain-mail stitch to put across the picturesque idea.

Another versatile cover-up fashion of the season is the Lucienne

Harang-designed hood, left, which doubles as a peplum. The turnabout trick is done with the brown and yellow wool jersey scarf, which can be tied either under the chin or around the waist. A pair of matching brown wool mittens, double cuffed in yellow, completes the ensemble.

Range Cubes Are Suggested When Cotton Seed Cake Not Available

When ranchers, stockmen and farmers can't obtain cottonseed cake for winter feeding they are advised to try range cubes, a similar product, by the Midland Feed Store, which gives a complete feed service to ranch and farm owners in this territory.

Although smaller in protein value to cottonseed cake, the pelletlike range cubes have good food value to animals being feed out. A. L. Stevens, manager of Midland Feed Store, pointed out. The cubes are made from several caked feeds, high in nutrition and fattening to stock.

The Midland Feed Store is operated in conjunction with Planters Gin.

Has Plenty of Corn and Oats

"Just like in lots of other businesses, products are short but we have plenty of corn and oats to put out, and range cube feed. We are doing our best to keep our postwar feed business going right along. We invite the farmers and stockmen of Midland and its territory to drop in and talk about feed and visit with us," Stevens said.

The Midland Feed Store stocks Sweetwater Oil Mill Feeds. These fine feeds are made in West Texas at the Sweetwater Mill. The Sweetwater Mill knows the needs of West Texas and makes the feed to fill those needs. A lot of home-raised feedstuffs go into the making of Sweetwater Oil Mill Feeds. Dealers of Sweetwater Feeds have the advantage of passing on to customers the skill and knowledge of the home mill in advice about feed. That is what is meant by Midland Feed Store's promise, and record, of "complete feed service for farm and ranch."

Milk Drinkers And Ice Cream Eaters Developed By Army

Life in the Army made milk drinkers and ice cream eaters out of a lot of soldiers, and Dairyland, at 513 West Texas St., in Midland, hopes the veterans will remember their products.

When millions of men were sent to training camps all over America prior to shipment overseas, they were given fresh milk. Many of the soldiers then acquired a taste for milk. Ice cream was the soldier's favorite dessert.

During long terms overseas the soldiers had to do without milk or take it in powdered form. Ice cream was just about unheard of, over there.

Attesting the high rating of milk to the soldier's taste is the fact it is the first thing given veterans when they embark at the large ports from overseas. Asked what they wanted most and the answer was emphatic—fresh milk. And many make a beeline for a dish of ice cream soon after landing.

When the world is all settled to normalcy again, Dairyland products will still be Dairyland in quality and in taste favor. And the soldiers now civilians will find their favorites of Dairyland—milk and ice cream.

Midland Enters Stanton Tourney

Fresh from a victory over the Big Spring Steers here Tuesday night and anxious for the "B" team to redeem itself from a loss, Midland High School basketball team play in a tourney at Stanton Thursday night. Midland has drawn Stanton for both of its opening tilts and this gives the Bulldogs and B team a chance to avenge previous pastings administered them by the A and B Buffaloes. The Stanton tourney gets underway Thursday night and continues to Saturday night. Area teams are entered. High school officials Thursday morning had not announced who would be coaching the Midlanders for the tourney games. Head coach at Midland High, Gene McCollum, has been called to Hardin-Simmons, where he will mentor basketball and be assistant football coach. Jack Mashburn, B coach, and Aubra Noncaster, Bulldog assistant, probably will be at the helm of the Purple and Gold cagers for the rest of the season.

Jungmichael was three times an All-America service team guard while playing with San Diego Navy during the war.

A&M Will Play Miami At Houston In 1946

Kerr Urges Rotarians To Think Clearly

W. L. Kerr told Rotarians, at their meeting Thursday noon in the Scharbauer Hotel, clear-thought and full information are needed in America today to solve national and international difficulties. "Find out the facts and form your opinion," he urged, "but be consistent." He praised the club and its activities and predicted a happy and prosperous 1946 for Rotarians. Outlines Work Program Kerr, a former Rotary district governor, outlined the "four-lane highway of Rotary," club service, vocational service, community service and international relations. He urged Rotarians to know all members of the club and to know their customers. He also called attention to community problems, mentioning especially that of sanitation. The speaker was introduced by James T. Smith. Two new members were introduced to the club. Hilton Kaderli was presented by Fred Wemple and Newbie W. Ellis was introduced by Judge E. H. Barron. Delbert Downing announced that Tom Taylor, a former district governor of Rotary, will address the club next week. Guy Brennehan, club president, presided at the session.

More Rain Falling Aids Area Ranges

The rains came back to Midland Thursday, falling intermittently from overcast skies, and adding 27 of an inch of moisture to a previous fall of one inch. Some snow and sleet fell early Thursday. The temperature dipped to 33 degrees. Coldness of almost northern proportions gripped the city Wednesday afternoon. Farmers are ready to plough and welcomed the winter moisture. Ranchers said the almost inch and one-half rain would greatly benefit weeds and grass. The Midland County AAA administrator, William H. Wadell, said more than 3,000 acres already had been planted to cover crops for winter grazing. Moisture from rains and snow of the past few days have helped cover crops and made the soil ready for plowing, according to J. M. King, 10 miles east of Midland; D. W. McDonald, 10 miles south; A. G. Bohannon, 13 miles northwest; and J. C. Franklin, 14 miles south. Continued cloudy weather is forecast for Friday with minimum temperature of 29 degrees expected. Light rains will fall.

Midland Men Lease Log Cabin Inn

Three Midland men, L. W. (Bud) Taylor, Marvin English and Fount Armstrong, have leased the Log Cabin Inn and will operate the business located on Highway 80 near the west city limits. The deal was closed Thursday. Taylor is expected to manage the concern. Log Cabin Inn, an eating establishment, features dinner music.

A Slip Between A Nip And Slip

One nip and slip too many! The drunk was arrested by City Police when he found him in possession of a piece of woman's wearing apparel with a sales slip for it. The cops found he had given a "hot check" for the slip at a Midland store. Then he slipped, he got drunk. The chief told the drunk: "This is one too many for you, this nip you took, and the slip."

Bombardiers End Flying Program Here

The flying phase of the refresher training of returned combat bombardiers was terminated Wednesday at the Midland Army Air Field. There was no reduction in the tempo of ground training for the veterans. Indications are that a new flying program is being prepared by the Army Air Forces training experts to replace the program which was terminated.

Three Cars Involved In Automobile Crash

(Continued from Page One) Central-West Andrews County exploration, in southwest corner of section 5, block A-42, psl survey, was making hole past 7,678 feet in lime. Top of the Tubbs zone, was called from samples, at 6,716 feet, on an elevation of 3,255 feet. No New Oil Yet Humble Oil & Refining Company No. 1 G. H. Cowden, East Crane County prospector, now testing in the Devonian, through 90 casing perforations at 6,100-30 feet, treated with 2,000 gallons of acid and was swabbing off load oil and acid residue. No new oil had been recovered up to Thursday morning. Eyr & Frost No. 2 N. A. Adams is to be an outpost to production in the Dune field, in East Crane County. It will be 330 feet from north and east lines of southeast quarter of section 12, block E-24, psl survey, and 2,074 feet north of same owner's No. 1 Adams, the closest producer. The project will drill to 3,400 feet, with cable tools, starting by Jan. 15. Cored For Slope Standard and Westbrook-Thompson No. 35-A Hendrick, Central Winkler County wildcat to the lower Ordovician, about three and one-half miles west of Keimit, and in southeast quarter of section 33, block 27, psl survey, cored at 7,833-50 feet. Crop Loans Being Made In Midland

Loans now are being made to finance 1946 crop production in Midland County, according to J. J. Midlin, field supervisor for the Dallas Emergency Crop Loan office of the Farm Credit Administration, who was in Midland Thursday. Midlin takes applications for loans at the county courthouse here each Thursday from 9 a. m. to 12 noon. These loans, known as "seed loans" have been made to Texas farmers and ranchers since 1931 and especially benefit the farmer whose cash requirements are low. A maximum loan is $400. A loan to finance the purchase or production of feed is also made on livestock by the agency.

Price Control Is Discussed Here

Businessmen and merchants of Midland and Martin counties Wednesday discussed new regulations of Price Control affecting their businesses at a meeting held in Midland at the courthouse. Representatives of the Fort Worth district office of price control met with them and explained the regulations. A new automotive and repair services regulations were given full discussion by the representatives and businessmen.

Tech May Build Four New Dormitories

FORT WORTH—(P)—Further expansion of Texas Technological College's postwar building program by construction of four dormitory units instead of three, at a cost exceeding $3,000,000, was in prospect as a result of a Tech directors' meeting here Thursday. J. Irvin Shlig of Dallas, representing a bond firm, presented a contract for the purchase of $1,900,000 in 32-year revenue-bearing bonds to finance the construction of a double-unit girls' dormitory and one unit of a boys' dormitory. Discussion by members of the board revealed strong sentiment to increase the bond issue to the amount necessary to make the boys' dormitory a double unit.

Cops Call Guy Who Did This 'Reckless'

For causing this cute little pile-up, a Terre Haute, Ind., driver was arrested for reckless driving—and the picture indicates that the cops had something there. His car (right, foreground) hit an auto transport on highway between Ottawa and Lawrence, Kan., knocked off two trucks and a passenger car the transport was carrying. Wrecking cranes spent nearly five hours clearing the road.

Final Income Tax Estimate Is Due On January 15

By S. BURTON HEATH NEA Staff Correspondent NEW YORK—(NEA)—January 15 is the last day on which millions of Americans can file final estimates and complete their preliminary payments on the income tax that they will owe next March 15. Probably less than 10 per cent of income taxpayers have to do anything by January 15. Treasury experts estimate. It is up to each expert to determine whether or not he belongs to that 10 per cent. In general there are three groups who should get busy at once on their January 15 estimates. They are: 1. Farmers. 2. Those who should have filed an estimate previously, but let it slide. 3. Those who filed earlier, but whose incomes exceeded their estimates materially (or slumped off heavily) so that they must make up a deficit or, in reverse, who want to avoid a final payment to which they are committed unless they revise the earlier estimate. The purpose of the estimate is to assure that, not later than January 15, you shall have paid at least 80 per cent of the entire tax that you will owe on 1945 income. If you pass January 15 delinquent by more than 20 per cent, you will be subject to penalty. Revise Estimate No estimate is required from wage earners who received, in 1945, less than $5000 plus $70 for each personal exemption other than their own, and who did not have more than $100 of income other than from wages, salary, commissions, tips, etc. (If the total income was under $500) the amount from non-wage sources does not matter.) Unless you are certain that your final tax will come within 20 per cent of being fully paid, as of January 15, through withholdings or payments or both, you should try before that date to make a very accurate estimate, so as to know where you stand. The surest way is by preparing your final return now and filing it in place of the final estimate. Announcing re-opening of my office for the general practice of law CLIFFORD C. KEITH 308 W. EXODUS TO KITCHEN — During War 28 Per Cent Of Workers In Texas Were Women, Total Now 16.2

By ELLA TARBELL PRICE Associated Press Staff Women with war-born skills have failed to develop into the labor problem in Texas predicted for them back in the urgent production years of 1943 and 1944. V-E Day turned the trend of employment of women downward, and V-J Day gave impetus to the rate at which women are leaving their industrial jobs and returning to housework. But they are not deserting the labor force with such alacrity that employers are left without experienced help. Neither are they interfering noticeably with the employment of returning veterans by holding on to their production jobs longer than they are needed. The war has left new fields of employment open for women. Employers found many jobs formerly considered men's work which women do as well or better than men. And the women have found that, although they can do work they didn't think of trying before the war, they still prefer running a house to spot welding. Peak Is June, 1944 The percentage of jobs held by women in Texas hit a peak in June of 1944, and has been dropping gradually since that time. But it is still far above the prewar level. United States Employment Service statistics show that in the peak war production month a year and a half ago, 28 per cent of the 435,260 persons employed in over 700 Texas production industries, were women. Today women comprise 26.2 per cent of the 285,633 people employed in comparable industries. The trend is down, but it may never reach its pre-war norm of 17 per cent of the non-domestic labor force in 1940, the USES predicted. The picture in one industry formerly considered almost entirely a man's game is even more striking. In ordnance and machinery manufacturing, women made up only 4.7

per cent of the labor force in 1940. By June of 1944 they held 34.6 per cent of the jobs in this field. Today they still retain 18.3 per cent. A survey of employers shows that almost all separations are at the volition of the women employe herself. Employers are not laying off their women workers any faster than men. The involuntary layoffs occur mostly in war plants that are closing down or sharply curtailing production with the end of war needs. Still, more women are looking for jobs now than during heavy production periods, for several reasons. Mass layoffs of war plant personnel have left women as well as men without work. Many of the women affected had never been in the labor market before high war pay rates and patriotic appeals took them out of aprons and put them in overalls. Now many would like to continue earning. But they are often fitted only for limited types of work such as airplane construction no longer available. These women will continue looking for well paid jobs until they ascertain that their skills are no longer needed, that mostly low-paid unskilled work is available. Authorities expect many of them to withdraw their names from unemployment rolls when they cease to draw unemployment benefits. The majority of women whose husbands are returning from the armed services are ready to leave offices and factories. But there are also many, like Mrs. Helen Parker, of Dallas, who says it is too early to reconvert. Her husband, Jack, just out of the Navy, is going to college. And Helen thinks she ought to keep working so he can concentrate on studying for a year or two. Employers also assert that the girls are not standing in the way of returning veterans. They describe an orderly and gradual changeover, with trained women leaving about as fast as qualified veterans apply for positions. A good example of the enthusiasm with which employers regard their war-inspired women helpers was given by Houston Nichols, of the Nichols Brothers and Yellow Cab Taxicab companies in Dallas.

Murray-Young Motors Displays 1946 Lincoln

The 1946 Lincoln is on display at Murray-Young Motors, 223. East Wall St.

First of the postwar luxury automobiles to be shown to the public in dealer showrooms throughout the nation, the new Lincoln will be viewed Thursday by thousands of future owners. Announcement of prices by the OPA is expected within the next few days.

Although shortage of parts from suppliers, especially shortage of grilles and bumpers, has restricted production, the Lincoln division of the Ford Motor Company is doing everything possible to keep cars flowing from assembly lines to dealers in constantly increasing volume.

Production is expected to reach 100 units per day within a few weeks.

With new grilles, new bumpers, new color combinations, new rich upholstery, new hardware throughout, new panel instruments, new steering wheel and automatic window lifts, the new Lincoln is one of the most beautiful and finest automobiles yet offered the American public.

AND IN HIS SPARE TIME HE HELPS HIS WIFE

MEEKER, OKLA. —(P)— A. L. Marak resigned as city marshal, night watchman and water superintendent to devote more time to his other work.

Marak is an electrician, does plumbing and tinning and serves as pressman and emergency typesetter for The Meeker Herald.

In his "spare" time he helps out as waiter in a cafe operated by his wife.

Naval estimates are that 5,000 beachings by landing craft are required to put 250,000 men on a hostile shore.

SHERRYL DIDN'T THINK IT WAS SATURDAY NIGHT

SALT LAKE CITY —(P)— Mrs. George S. Perkins told her six-year-old son, Sherryl, to take a bath before dinner.

A few moments later she heard him call to her and went into the bathroom, but the youngster couldn't be seen.

A fire department emergency crew worked 45 minutes and had to remove all the pipes leading to the bathtub before the child could crawl out from his "hiding place" between the bathtub and the wall.

New York Postmaster Credits Able Staff For Record GI Mail Handling

By NEA Service
NEW YORK—"Care of A.P.O., New York, N. Y.," is not just World War II's most popular address. A.P.O., New York, is Albert Goldman, postmaster. He is a dark, bustling man with endless energy. His desk is covered with Santa Clauses and greeting cards. A wooden black cat hangs outside his window "to scare away the pigeons."
How the "mails went through to the Western Front," is more exciting to him than a best seller. He never tires of hearing new record-breaking figures and feats that he and his cohorts have performed and his genuine interest in them is contagious.
In a splendid moment, after his assistant quoted a monthly high in money orders handled overseas—$30,000,000—Goldman stepped back of his chair and said: "I like my work. If I were the yellow shining shoes on the avenue, I would give the best shine. I love to do it and I put my heart and soul in it. We've done a great job. If we had been a war plant turning out planes it would be a headline story. Also, I admire my able men and women who have done such a splendid job. They worked night and day. They were conscious that each letter was going to a soldier or sailor to add one comfort and happiness to his life."

The Army decided to turn the A.P.O. over to New York because of its experience in handling foreign mail. When Army officials came to New York City to break the ground for a new building, Goldman was out with them eagerly talking over plans. For five months until the rapid completion of the Postal Concentration Center, Goldman personally watched the gigantic building grow on the old Madison Square Bowl grounds.
"We put 41,000 people on the payroll, recruiting them wherever we could find them," he said. The Army and Navy supplied 10,000 more.
When the huge organization got moving they handled 1,000,000 parcels, prints and newspapers daily. The main office in New York handled the V-mail letters and airmail. These totaled 5,000,000 daily at the height of the war.
"It was a gigantic headache," Goldman said, as he thumbed through a book he had compiled on the project.
Each letter and package was separated according to its A.P.O. number and then it was passed on to the Army for shipment. No civilian employees ever knew what the A.P.O. stood for. It was a secure secret.
Although all the "F.P.O. New York," mail came to the main building it was separated by the Fleet Post Office in lower Manhattan and handled entirely by the Navy.
Christmases of 1943 and '44 were the biggest in postal history, Goldman said.
"There were so many packages we had to stack them in the corridors here," he said with a gesture. "Every day at least 3,555 carloads of mail sacks came into the city. There were so many bundles that we didn't have enough space to put them, so we hired a pier on the Hudson from the city and stacked it with hundreds of thousands of bags of mail. We put them in store rooms, lofts, everywhere—this city was bulging with bundles."
Goldman thrived on difficulties—boat loads of mail called back, their destinations changed, money order receipts filled out on the front lines with machine gun holes ripping the signatures; these were the challenges that spurred Goldman on through the war.
And then he loved the victories. A boat load of mail arrived at its destination before the men.
"Mail," he said happily, "was the greatest morale builder of the war. It was equal to food in importance."

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN Of Tired Kidneys

If backaches and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.
The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 2 pints a day.
If the 15 miles of kidney tubes... filters don't work well, poisonous wastes may stay in the blood. These poisons may start causing backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of appetite and energy, swelling up ankles, swelling in fingers under the eyes, headache and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes show there's something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.
Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's gives happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out the poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Try Cauliflower In Casserole

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Staff Writer
Ever try cooking firm white head of cauliflower in a casserole? It's a good, bountiful dish.
Cauliflower Casserole Supreme
(Serves 6)
Two (No. 2 1/2) cans tomatoes, 4 teaspoons salt, 2 tablespoons sugar, 4 tablespoons enriched flour, 4 cups sliced onions, 1/3 cup fortified margarine, 1 small head cauliflower.
Drain tomatoes. Combine tomatoes, salt, sugar and flour. Arrange alternate layers of tomatoes and onions in greased casserole. Do each layer with margarine. Remove tough stem from cauliflower, leaving just enough to hold head together. Parboil head only a few minutes. Drain and place on top of casserole. Press head down into tomatoes and onions, allowing just the top to extend. Cover. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 1 hour, or until cauliflower is tender.
Parsnips and rutabagas can be delicious, too. Follow these recipes.

Parsnips
(Serves 6)
Twelve medium sized young parsnips, 4 tablespoons butter or fortified margarine, 1/8 teaspoon thyme, salt, pepper, minced parsley.
Wash and scrape the parsnips. Cover with boiling salted water and simmer until tender, 30 to 60 minutes. Melt fat in heavy frying pan; add the thyme. Sauté the tender parsnips golden brown in the melted fat. Sprinkle with salt and pepper; add minced parsley and serve at once.
Mashed Rutabagas (Yellow Turnips)
(Serves 6)
Two pounds yellow turnips, 3 medium sized potatoes, 1 teaspoon salt, 4 tablespoons butter or fortified margarine, paprika.
Wash and cut yellow turnips in halves or quarters (these turnips are often too large to handle to peel whole). Peel and cut into cubes. Cover with boiling salted water and simmer 15 minutes. Add potatoes, pared and cut into halves. Cook, covered, until both turnips and potatoes are tender; try also to cook until all water is absorbed. Mash; add fat and mix well. Turn into serving dish; add dash of paprika.

Casserole Cauliflower

Cauliflower with tomatoes and onions in casserole, becomes delicious.

STOP JOHN CLAY!

By Lionel Mosher

Copyright, 1945, NEA Service, Inc.

THE STORY: A car tries to run Pike down after he leaves John Clay's house. As he approaches the Inn, Fay Tudor heads him off, says it's time they had a talk. Pike mentions Mary Butler.

"MARY BUTLER has left," Fay Tudor said.

"Left?" he asked politely.

"Last week. She resigned."

"Why?"

"I don't know. I merely know she's not with Uncle John any more, because I am doing some of her work now."

"Was she fired?"

"I don't know. I've already told you that."

She was distractingly beautiful and it was difficult to remember that she was John Clay's niece who might on that account look for an opportunity to dispose of him one way or another. He said: "Who would know where Mary Butler is now?"

"She left no forwarding address."

"Isn't that a little strange?"

"I suppose so," she said. "Why do you want to get in touch with her?"

"I think," Pike said, "she had something to tell me."

"About what?"

"The conference."

"Congress is investigating that," she said.

"Is Marcia a daughter by John Clay's first marriage?" Pike asked. She stiffened.

"Why do you ask that?"

"I just wondered. You said your aunt was 40 when she died."

"Surely, Mr. Calvin, you haven't come all the way up here just to inquire into the marital relations of John Clay?"

"I'm not quite sure why I'm here," Pike said.

"Then why stay?"

He stared at her. He flipped his cigarette into the fountain. It made a brief hissing sound. He turned and looked through the darkness into her face. He said: "Why don't you be honest with me. You've got me down here for a reason. What is it?"

"I want you to leave THE SADDLEBACK," she said.

"So does John Clay."

"But not for the same reason."

"What's your reason?"

"I rather—like you," she said. Her lips were only inches away. Even in the darkness they were red and inviting. He leaned forward and kissed her hard on the lips.

"That's for worrying about me," she said.

She slapped his face.

"That's for jumping at conclusions," she said. Briskly she fastened her wrap. "I think we had better not go in together," she said.

"No," Pike said.

"Give me five minutes."

"Yes."

She went under the trellis and turned.

"I'm sorry," she said. "I shouldn't have slapped you."

"I agree," he said.

"But then you shouldn't have kissed me."

"I have no regrets," Pike said.

WHEN Pike got back to the Inn, Mr. Hitt was behind the desk. He looked very tired, but very patient.

Mr. Hitt saw Pike and his white hands began to flutter.

"Mr. Calvin," he said. "Mr. Calvin."

Pike crossed to the desk. Mr. Hitt leaned toward him confidentially.

"Mr. Bateman was here."

"Who?" Pike asked.

"Mr. Bateman." Lesley Hitt's eyes rested attentively on Pike's lips.

"And who is Mr. Bateman?" Pike asked evenly.

"The librarian. He waited for about a half hour. Then he left."

"What did he want?"

"He didn't say," Mr. Hitt continued to look at Pike's lips.

Pike rubbed his lips with his handkerchief. A faint red stain came off. Lipstick.

"That better?" he inquired.

"He seemed very anxious to see you," Mr. Hitt said.

Pike gazed thoughtfully at Mr. Hitt.

"I have his number here," Mr. Hitt went on. "You might like to call him. It's Oneida 5 ring 3."

Mr. Hitt raised a white hand and pointed to the phone booth. He said:

"You turn the crank to signal the operator."

Pike turned the crank and got the operator. But he did not get Mr. Bateman. He sat there and listened to the faint buzzing sounds that indicated the futile ringing of a telephone somewhere in Mr. Bateman's residence.

PIKE came out of the booth and saw Mr. Bland advancing on him with those little black eyes glistening brightly.

"Did you get Bateman?" he asked.

Pike took out a cigaret. The man knew everything.

"He was here about 8:30," Bland said. "He sat in the lobby and read a book for half an hour."

"Where does Bateman live?" Pike asked.

"On the Valley Road," Bland pointed. "A stucco bungalow—hideous—with a big Grecian urn on the lawn full of red and blue flowers. I'll show you the way."

"No," Pike said. "Not tonight."

Pike went to his room. He laid his hat on his bag on the luggage stand and stood gazing out of the window and thinking about Bateman. What could he have wanted?

Fear in the distance a train whistled a soft, double-throated chord. It was all very quiet and restful. Too quiet for there where Bateman's stucco bungalow must be.

Pike put on his hat and went out. The thick-piled carpet in the corridor muffled his steps. He took the stairs and descended to the lobby.

When Mrs. Wilkinson Wagar of Atlanta, Ga., won the national mixed pair championship at the recent national tournament, it gave her two firsts in that tournament and a total of three national titles for the year. Earlier in the day she and her teammates had won the national women's team-of-four championship, and in the summer session of the nationals she was on the winning national mixed team-of-four. Mrs. Wagar always makes a good showing, and she is one of the seven women in the country who have attained the rank of Life Master.

opening club lead held the trick, and West led the seven of spades. Mrs. Wagar won with the ace when East put on the jack. She led a small diamond. East won with the jack and returned the heart. Mrs. Wagar winning with the ace. A small diamond was ruffed with the five of hearts; a club ruffed with the four of hearts; another diamond ruffed with the eight of hearts; and the jack of clubs ruffed with the jack of hearts. Now Mrs. Wagar cashed her king of hearts, led the queen of diamonds and discarded a spade from dummy. When she led the nine of diamonds, West was helpless. Whether he trumped or not, Mrs. Wagar threw away dummy's other losing spade.

Prince Business In Japan Falls Off So Hirohito's Brothers May Need Jobs

By RUSSELL BRINES
 TOKYO—(AP)—The prince business has fallen off something scandalous in Japan and things are so tough the papers are saying that even three jobless brothers of Hirohito are liable to have to go to work for a living.

Jiji News Agency made sort of an unemployment census of the imperial household and found that in all there were 12 princes out of a job.

Business began to get bad, after a few times in the early 1940's, along about the time the imperial household began to wonder where all the 'ombs were coming from that were being dumped outside the palace door.

Then, first thing anybody knew why the emperor up and declared peace, and here were all these princes in uniform and all without a war to wear them in.

And then the Americans came barging in, abolishing Japanese military outfits right and left, and the princes began looking for fresh employment.

There is something or other in the Japanese history that says princes have got to go careering in the army and navy, and anyone knows there isn't much future in that for a Japanese these days.

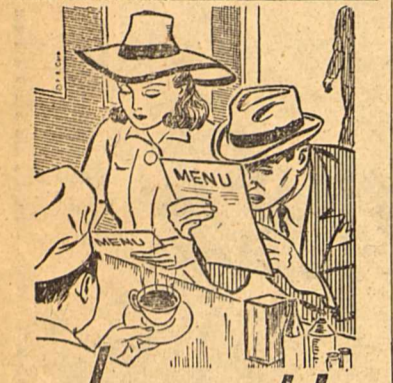

Well there were these three brothers of Emperor Hirohito—General Without Army

Prince Yasuhiro Chichibu, a major general without an army; Prince Nobushito Takamatsu, a captain without a navy (unless you want to go traipsing after it down at the bottom where Halsey left it) and Prince Takahito, a major.

There was one forlorn hope for these princes. Maybe they could kind of hang around the palace and mince along with some of the residue of the imperial household funds.

So, the agency adds, household officials figure they may just have to go out and find some jobs for all these princes.

And Then!

Applesauce Pie Is Toothsome

Applesauce cream pie . . . nutritious, palate pleasing.

By GAYNOR MADDOX NEA Staff Writer

When you combine good nutrition with taste pleasure, you are a first-class family cook. Here's a recipe for dessert everyone will enjoy and thrive on.

Applesauce Cream Pies
 (Yield: One 8 or 9-inch pie or 6 small pies)

Crust: one cup enriched flour, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 6 tablespoons fortified margarine, 1/2 teaspoon grated nutmeg, 2 tablespoons cold water. Filling: three cups applesauce, 1/4 to 1/2 cup sugar, 4 tablespoons cornstarch, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 2 eggs, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind,

1 tablespoon fortified margarine, 1/2 cup whipping cream, 1 tablespoon confectioners' sugar, 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon.

Sift, measure flour and add salt. Cut in margarine to form coarse crumbs. Stir in nutmeg and water lightly with a fork. Mixture will be crumbly. Turn out on to floured cloth and press into mound with hands. Roll with flour-covered rolling pin. Place hands under and turn crumbs from edges in to center. Roll to circle 1/2 inch bigger than pie plate, or divide and roll into 6 smaller circles for individual pies. Fold and place in plate. Unfold and press from center to edges. Crimp edges.

Bake in very hot oven (450 degrees F.) 18 to 20 minutes. Cool. Meantime, measure applesauce. Add sugar mixed with cornstarch and salt. Stir smooth. Cook until thickened and boil 2 minutes over low flame, stirring constantly. Pour over well-beaten eggs. Return to saucepan and cook a minute longer. Stir in lemon juice, rind and margarine. Cool. Turn into crust. Before serving, garnish with plain whipped cream or sweetened and mixed with cinnamon. Serve with cheese shaped in form of apples with clove stems.

Here's another wintertime fruit dessert you'll like.

Social Situations

THE SITUATION: Your husband is a professional man and he confides a great deal in you.

WRONG WAY: Let your women friends in on what you know, so that they will realize your husband tells you everything.

RIGHT WAY: Keep your husband's confidences to yourself—realizing that by talking you may hurt him and others, too.

MARRIAGE INDUSTRY CAUSES LEGAL BATTLE

VANCOUVER, WASH.—(AP)—This city's profitable marriage industry produced a legal battle over who had the right to sanction the "I do's" in the busy downtown district. Justice Paul Elwell filed suit for $3,500 damages, charging that Justice I. C. Gaspard opened up business across the street and was cutting in on Elwell's downtown business.

Superior Court ruled Gaspard belonged out in a war housing project and granted a temporary restraining order.

Grandson Duplicates Ranch Wedding Of Grandfather On Clear Fork In 1876

By JACK RUTLEDGE Associated Press Staff
 The frontier was pretty rugged when Sallie Ann Reynolds and J. A. Matthews were married in a stone ranch home on the Clear Fork of the Brazos River near Albany. It was Christmas Day, 1876.

On Christmas Day, 1945, their grandson, William Watt Blanton, married Minnie Bell Royle in the same house amid the same furniture and with three generations of Matthews, Reynolds, Blantons and Royles present.

Everything was duplicated as closely as possible—the same old-time hand-carved mantle, a wedding in candlelight, music on the same little organ used in the wedding 69 years ago, the bride coming down the same stairway.

And just like that wedding so long ago, the celebration following the ceremony was attended by ranchers from miles around. There was a barbecue of beef, turkey roasted from a spit. The scraping of a fiddle and the calls of the square dance mingled with the greetings of kinspeople, many sons and grandsons only recently returned from the warfronts scattered over the world.

The ancient old house, frequently renovated and placed in its original style with original furnishings by Watt R. Matthews, was packed.

To follow through in true society page style: the bride was charming. Best man was Lt. Joseph E. Blanton, USNR, brother of the groom. Bridesmaid was Miss Martha Beth Newby of Breckenridge. Mrs. Helon George Tobb of Albany attended the bride. Mrs. Elizabeth Price of Albany, the bride's aunt, gave her away in marriage. Blanton is the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas L. Blanton, lawyer and former-congressman. He returned a month ago from India-Burma, where he served for nearly two years in the Army Counter Intelligence Corps. He, himself, had been elected county judge just before entering the Army. He resigned at the time Mrs. Blanton had been asked to resume office.

Make This Home Recipe To Take Off Ugly Fat

It's simple. It's amazing, how quickly one may lose pounds of bulky, unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this recipe yourself. It's easy—no trouble at all and costs little. It contains nothing harmful. Just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of liquid Barventrate (formerly called Barcol Concentrate). Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Then take two tablespoonsful twice a day. That's all there is to it. If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't just seem to disappear almost like magic from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow the easy way endorsed by many who have tried this system and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloated disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.
