Pickets Patrol Fort Worth Aircraft Plant

Striking machinists' union at the Consolidated Aircraft plant in Fort Worth filed charges against Convair for "refusing to bargain in full faith" and requested full pay for all employees now on strike. Above, autos of Convair workers wait in orderly lines before company's main gate as pickets advise them of strike. Some of the cars, responding to pickets' entreaties, turned out from the line, but 726 autos and their occupants entered, union leaders said.

OPA Probes Illegal Cattle Slaughtering

FORT WORTH—(P)—District OPA enforcement officials began investigation Wednesday to determine whether cattle received at the Fort Worth market are being shipped elsewhere and slaughtered in non-compliance with OPA regulations.

The action was started as Rosenthal Packing Company here joined Blue Bonnet Packing Company in suspending cattle buying and slaughtering operations and City Packing Company announced that it had curtailed cattle slaughter by more than 50 per cent.

Suspension of slaughter operations described both as a necessity to prevent heavy losses at present high live cattle prices and as a protest against OPA regulations which the packers said make profitable operations impossible.

Beef production by the two major packers also has been drastically curtailed recently, but their purchases of cattle were expected to rise as the smaller packing plants drop out of the market.

Packers meantime estimate that there is sufficient meat in storage here to prevent decided shortage for the next week or two. Hog slaughter will continue.

The OPA investigators were checking purchases of cattle here for shipment to other points and H. L. Lewis, head of the district OPA food price unit, said a check of slaughterers who receive the animals would follow. Lewis said reports indicated that a majority of cattle coming to the Fort Worth market now are being hauled to out-of-town slaughterers by rail and truck.

Krug Named Interior Secretary

Senate Approval Of WPB Chief Is Conceded

WASHINGTON—(P)—President Truman showed Congress a fast political change of pace Wednesday by his choice of J. A. Krug as secretary of the interior—a nomination conceded speedy approval.

He also provided the lawmakers with something of a surprise for Krug, the 38-year-old former chief of the War Production Board, was the darkest of dark horses for the post.

The choice of a successor to Harold L. Ickes had Truman on a political spot, especially in view of the explosive nature of Ickes' departure from the cabinet. However, initial Capitol Hill reaction indicated a feeling that the Krug selection might do much to relieve the situation.

Among White House intimates the nomination of Krug for the hot cabinet post which Ickes filled for 13 years was interpreted as Truman's way of serving notice upon some advisors that henceforth he is taking personal command in filling top Administration jobs.

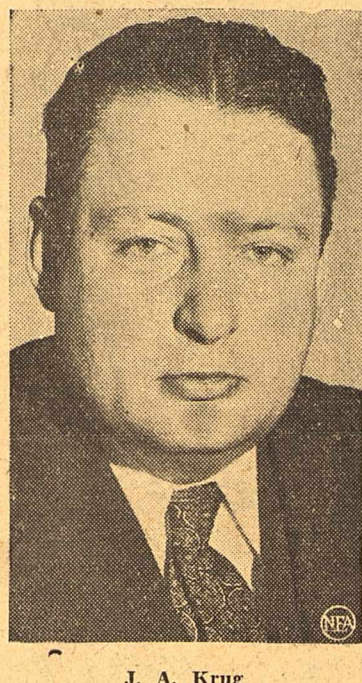

Goes Outside Ranks

Truman went outside the ranks of his old and personal friends in picking Krug to join the cabinet.

It was with considerable regret that the President allowed Krug to resign when WPB folded up last November.

Almost from the time he left college, the big, rosy-cheeked Krug has been in either state or government service. It was only after WPB's end that he set up for himself in New York as a private business consultant.

Truman first became acquainted with Krug during the latter's appearances before the Senate Appropriations Committee in 1939 as program manager for the Tennessee Valley Authority.

Meat Prices Will Rise Slightly As Packers Get Hike

WASHINGTON—(P)—OPA officials estimated Tuesday that the average American's meat bill will go up only about 80 cents a year as the result of higher wages authorized for packinghouse workers.

They made this prediction as the Agriculture Department, boss of government-seized meat plants, prepared to put an additional 16 cents an hour into pay envelopes of 131,000 employees.

While this increase approved Tuesday by the Wage Stabilization Board applies at present only to workers at 11 plants of Swift, Armour, Cudahy, Wilson and John Morrell, it becomes the pattern for the industry.

Stabilization Director Chester Bowles said price increases authorized for the packinghouses will lift retail meat prices "not more than 1 1/2 per cent" for the average family.

In Effect Next Month

OPA's present plans are to put the retail increases into effect late next month. Wholesale prices are scheduled to go up about March 11.

The new higher prices will be the first affecting the public to stem from the revised wage-price policy.

Meanwhile, the American Meat Institute termed the increases "distinctly inadequate for many companies x x x."

In a statement in Chicago the institute said the new prices will "do nothing to curb the growing black market which is taking over, at the expense of consumers, more and more of the beef business from legitimate operators, forcing them to curtail their operations and in some cases to close."

In Chicago AFL leaders urged that government-seized plants be returned to private ownership shortly so the unions can "attempt to negotiate the balance of wage demands upon the packers."

The original demands ranged up to 25 cents an hour.

Youth Critically Injured In Wreck

Joseph F. Casey of Abilene is in a critical condition in a Midland hospital Wednesday as a result of an automobile accident Tuesday night 10 miles west of Midland on Highway 80.

Casey suffered internal injuries, multiple fractures and serious head injuries.

A cousin, J. W. Martin, also of Abilene and still in military service, was injured and is in an Odessa hospital.

The two youths, driving on Highway 80, failed to take the right road at a Y. They hit a telephone post. Casey is just out of military service. He served 23 months overseas. His father rushed to Midland Wednesday to be with his son.

Parents Offer To Pay Ransom To Kidnappers

LOS ANGELES—(P)—The parents of six-year-old Rochelle Gluskoter, abducted from her grandmother's yard February 15, have offered to meet any financial demand for the return of their daughter alive.

"There are no officers near our home, nor will we notify detectives until after our child is safe and the money paid," Mr. and Mrs. Abe Gluskoter told reporters.

House Committee Would Hike Appropriations

WASHINGTON—(P)—The House Appropriations Committee recommended Wednesday the recapture of $7,112,230,059 in unspent wartime funds and spending authority.

It sent to the House floor for consideration later this week a bill adding that amount to approximately $55,000,000,000 which Congress previously ordered cancelled.

As in previous measures, the Army and the Navy took the biggest cuts. Both of the services told the committee their mighty air armadas which put Japan and Germany out of the war have dwindled to a mere shadow of their former strength.

Phantom Nazi Weapon Maker Is Captured

FRANKFURT, GERMANY—(P)—A phantom German armament maker described by an American investigator as the "greatest single power behind the Nazi war machine"—a behind the scenes force far bigger than Krupp—has been caught and unmasked by American occupation authorities.

The magnate, whose fabulous $400,000,000 secret industrial empire was whispered among a few, was identified by authorities as Friedrich Flick, 62, a steel and coal producer whose name was virtually unknown abroad or among millions of Germans.

Full details of the dealings which made Flick one of the wealthiest men in Nazi Germany still are under investigation by a Treasury and War Department de-cartelization team headed by Josif Marcun, Jr., New York.

"We consider Flick a greater criminal than Krupp for he grew with the Nazi regime and seized more personal economic power than Krupp ever held," Marcun said. He added that his team would recommend the indictment of Flick as a war criminal at the second war crimes trial.

Truman Summons Hoover, Others On Food Problem

WASHINGTON—(P)—President Truman said Wednesday American food consumption must be reduced to meet acute needs abroad and called former President Herbert Hoover and others to confer on the problem Friday.

The conference, Truman said, will be asked to work out "an aggressive voluntary program on the part of private citizens to reduce food consumption in this country."

He expressed his views in telegrams to those invited to the Friday meeting at 2 p. m. CST. The telegrams said:

"I am sure you are familiar with the acute need for food stuffs in the war-torn countries of Europe and Asia. Our national self respect and our duties as human beings demand that we do all possible to stop the spread of famine."

The telegrams were sent to Sheldon Clark, vice president of Sinclair Oil Corporation; Justin Miller, president, National Association of Broadcasters; Clarence Francis, chairman of board, General Foods Corporation; Dr. George H. Gallup, who conducts public opinion polls; Henry R. Luce, magazine publisher; James W. Young of the J. Walter Thompson Company; Dr. William J. Myers, Cornell University; Chester C. Davis, former war food administrator; Eugene Meyer, publisher of the Washington Post; Mrs. Anna Lord Strauss, president, League of Women Voters; Eric Johnston, president, U. S. Chamber of Commerce; and Mrs. Emily G. Dickinson, president, Federation of Women's Clubs.

Snyder Refutes Price Rise Of 10 Per Cent

WASHINGTON—(P)—John W. Snyder and Chester Bowles, wage-price bosses, took issue Wednesday with a statement by Marriner S. Eccles, Federal Reserve chairman, that living costs might jump 10 per cent under the administration's new policy.

Economic Stabilizer Bowles declared President Truman's wage-price policy would raise living costs no more than five per cent.

"I don't know what figures Mr. Eccles used," Reconversion Director Snyder told the House Banking Committee, and added:

"There is no reason for any runaway increase in the cost of living if we get real cooperation of industry and labor with the government agencies that administer the new wage price policy."

"I see no reason for any material increase in costs."

Billion Dollar Farm Bill Goes To House Floor

WASHINGTON—(P)—A billion dollar Agriculture Department appropriation bill to help finance "an industrial revolution on the land" went to the House floor Wednesday.

First big peacetime farm measure, it carries funds for the fiscal year starting next July 1 for the department's many activities, including rural rehabilitation and rural electrification loans and for farm conservation payments.

Along with the bill, scheduled to be debated early next week, the Appropriations Committee made public testimony of Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson predicting steadily increasing farm production.

Agriculture's experience during the war in the face of labor and machinery shortages, Anderson told the committee, foreshadows what can be done in peacetime.

"It practically amounts to an industrial revolution on the land," he commented.

Vandenberg Says U.S. Can Live With Soviet If Plain Talk Used

WASHINGTON—(P)—Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) called Wednesday for a vigorously plain-spoken American foreign policy that will match Russia's in firmness.

Reporting to the Senate on his work as a delegate to the United Nations meeting in London, the chairman of the Republican Senatorial Conference told his colleagues that the world today is asking: "What is Russia up to now?"

Without attempting to answer that question specifically, Vandenberg said in a prepared address that upon the answer may depend the future fate of world efforts to keep the peace.

It would be entirely futile, the Michigan senator said, "to blink the fact that two great, rival ideologies—Democracy in the west and Communism in the east—here find themselves face to face with the desperate need for mutual understanding in finding common ground upon which to strive for peace for both."

U. S. Must Be Vigorous

But he said the United States and Russia "can live together in reasonable harmony if the United States speaks as plainly upon all occasions as Russia does; if the United States just as vigorously sustains its own purposes and its ideals upon all occasions as Russia does; if we abandon the miserable fiction, often encouraged by our fellow travelers, that we somehow jeopardize the peace if our candor is as firm as Russia's always is; and if we assume a moral leadership which we have too frequently allowed to lapse."

Vandenberg added that "the situation calls for patience and good will, but not for vacillation."

The Michigan senator declared that in the London controversy over proposed Security Council action on withdrawal of British and French troops from Lebanon and Syria, Vice-Commissioner Vishinsky "seemed less interested in helping Lebanon and Syria than he was in (Continued on Page 4)

Police Use Clubs To Halt March On GE Co. Plant

PHILADELPHIA—(P)—Mounted police charged into 800 CIO pickets before gates to the General Electric Company plant Wednesday, swinging clubs in an effort to enforce a court injunction against mass picketing.

The melee began shortly after 7 a. m. (CST) several hours after 1,000 policemen ringed a two-block area around the strike-bound plant.

The pickets had dispersed temporarily then reformed into a parade and marched away from the plant waving flags.

Someone yelled "about face," and the flag bearer and a picket in the uniform of an Army officer wheeled and attempted to lead the pickets toward the plant gates.

Force Men Against Fences

Then the policemen, riding on horseback, rode into the parading group and forced them against fences and sidewalks.

First reports said only one picket was injured. He was taken to Mercy Hospital, where physicians said he had suffered abrasions of the head.

Six pickets were taken into police custody. They were held at a nearby police station for questioning.

Stelle, Bradley In Showdown But Reports Conflict

WASHINGTON—(P)—Confusing accounts Wednesday veiled the results of a showdown meeting between National Commander John Stelle of the American Legion and Gen. Omar N. Bradley.

The two-hour closed door session in Bradley's office Tuesday climaxed Stelle's month-old charges of inefficient operation of the Veterans Administration under Bradley. After the meeting the public was given:

1. A not-too-definite joint statement.

2. A speech by Stelle.

Bradley's recording of the conference. (Nobody could understand it.)

3. A set of Administration answers to reporter's questions.

The joint statement held forth these possibilities important to thousands of veterans:

1. Moving of long-term hospital patients to outlying institutions to make more central hospital beds available for emergency. This conceivably might result in VA taking over more hospitals than now planned.

2. Granting of temporary disability ratings by doctors in the field to veterans holding discharges on which a disability is noted. This would be done pending final handling of disability claims.

But the joint statement, result of an hour's careful preparation, did not say when or whether these steps definitely would be taken.

Two hours later, however, Stelle was telling a Legion group his version of other conference results: no contract hospitals for veterans except for emergencies; use of all available Army and Navy hospitals; more decentralization of the Veterans Administration, and help for states in supervising training of veterans on the job.

Bag Stolen From Room Of Midland Hotel

B. B. Oliver, guest at a Midland hotel, reported to city police Tuesday the theft of a suitcase bag from his room.

The bag contained his clothes. It was initiated and had an identification tag.

Soviets Say Will Leave Iran

TEHRAN, IRAN—(Delayed)—(P)—A Soviet embassy official gave assurance Tuesday that Russian troops would be withdrawn from Northern Iran but the Iranian foreign ministry and military observers said there was no apparent sign of a Russian evacuation.

An American officer said he believed it was "impossible" for the Russians to withdraw by March 2, the date agreed upon for the evacuation of all foreign troops from Iran.

Iranian officials complained a few weeks ago to the United Nations about the actions and presence of foreign troops in Northern Iran in connection with an autonomy movement in the northwestern-most province of Azerbaijan, charging there had been "a number of interventions in Iranian affairs by Soviet authorities."

Mechanical Thinking

In the summer of 1944, science announced the birth of a wonderful new electric computing machine, built for the Navy and installed at Harvard University. It promised to do to pencil-and-paper mathematics what the printing press did to hand lettering, and what the internal combustion engine did to the horse.

But now comes something said to be 1000 times faster, more miraculous and, if possible, even more incomprehensible than the previous machine. It is the Electronic Numerical Integrator and Computer, built for the Army and, in this age of designation by initial, inevitably nicknamed ENIAC.

ENIAC is 50 feet long, weighs 30 tons, and cost $400,000. It can do 10,000,000 additions or subtractions of 10-figure numbers in five minutes. It also makes long-range weather forecasts, and probably will be able to do complicated problems in astronomical mathematics in not much more time than it takes a radar echo to bounce back from the moon.

But, we read, "the calculator does not replace original human thinking." This may be disappointing, but the situation isn't hopeless.

For it does seem that much of man's best and most original thinking in the past few years has been directed toward the creation of mechanical devices which have narrowed the field of original thinking and lessened its need. The human brain is devising ever more intricate arrangements of wheels, gears and vacuum tubes in time may relegate the brain itself to a subordinate role.

Thus the scientists may be thinking themselves right out of their jobs.

But there is one catch. While much of our best and most original thinking has been devoted to developing mechanical super-brains that will make human thinking unnecessary, some of it has been devoted to developing mechanical super-destruction that makes the chances of human survival no better than even money over a long course.

So our wise men will have to take a different tack if mankind is to live to enjoy its retirement from strenuous mental work. The mechanical computer at Harvard hasn't made the world any better. What's needed now is a collection of gears and tubes which will begin to solve man's ethical and political problems.

If nations, races, religions and individuals are going to keep on being belligerent and intolerant and selfishly overbearing, and if they take to settling their differences with atomic weapons, 30 tons of electronic mathematics-worshiper won't be much help, either. The fact that it can do 10,000,000 10-figure additions or subtractions in five minutes will still be impressive, but not very practical.

The War Department Needs Your Support

The military task is peace, and to accomplish that task, Congress has authorized our history's largest and best-trained peacetime Regular Army. It now is being recruited by voluntary enlistment.

With this in mind, Americans should read, re-read, and give serious thought to what President Truman told the nation October 27 of last year: "(1) Our Army, Navy, and Air Force, in collaboration with our Allies, must enforce the terms of peace imposed upon our defeated enemies. . . (2) We must fulfill the military obligation which we are undertaking as a member of the United Nations Organization to support a lasting peace, by force, if necessary. . . (3) We must cooperate with other nations to preserve the territorial integrity and political independence of the nations of the Western Hemisphere. . . (4) In this troubled and uncertain world, our military force must be adequate to discharge the fundamental mission laid upon them by the Constitution of the United States to 'provide for the common defense' of the United States."

In fulfilling its mission as a guardian of the peace, the new Regular Army must not lose the pace of progress set during the war in technological and scientific research. This research has developed countless new devices and methods into general use throughout the Army, and more are being developed and perfected almost daily.

The new Regular Army man will have or acquire skill that equals and often exceeds many of the best paid civilian trades, and the training a young man may receive while in the service is balanced by the educational opportunities made available to him later, as an ex-service man through the GI Bill of Rights.

The Army has much to offer the youth of this country. Young men should visit the Army Recruiting Office and investigate the opportunities.

A statistician says three-fourths of our accidents are unnecessary. Just what is a necessary accident?

Most people hate to get up in the Winter, says a doctor. Isn't he forgetting Summer, Spring and Fall?

No home is complete without a few highbrow books around to make people think you read them.

LONDON—(P)—A British Foreign Office spokesman deprecated Wednesday the action of the French government in ordering the French-Spanish frontier closed on March 1. Such incidents, he said, were likely to prolong Generalissimo Francisco Franco's regime by making the Spanish chief of state "a national hero instead of a refugee." The spokesman emphasized again however, the official British line toward Spain as stated in Parliament by Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin—that Britain "detests" Franco and wants to see a "popularly supported" government in Spain.

Ford And UAW Union Sign Formal Contract

DETROIT—(P)—A new contract, believed by the Ford Motor Company to herald "improved labor relationships" will go into force between the company and the CIO United Auto Workers as soon as the union's locals give their approval. Some 103,000 Ford workers throughout the country gain an 18 cent hourly wage increase under terms of the agreement, signed Tuesday night by management and union officials. Also included in the contract, to continue in effect until May 30, 1947, are clauses providing union and company security.

The Ford wage boost, a compromise of the union's original demand for a 30 per cent increase, was agreed to by both parties January 26, but other contract problems forced continuation of negotiations until Tuesday night.

Richard T. Leonard, head of the union's negotiators, said the agreement would be submitted to the locals soon.

Ford officials previously estimated the pay raise would cost the company $38,000,000 annually.

Vandenberg -

Continued from page 1 Vandenberg said he was not interested in peace at this point than he was in friction.

Vandenberg said he was not complaining that Russia speaks as Vichinsky did in the Security Council. "I am glad she speaks," he said. "That is what the forum is for. But it is for others, too—just as Mr. Bevin used it upon more than one eloquent and courageous occasion. All should feel an equal freedom, an equal duty and an equivalent responsibility."

The Michigan senator said he had sensed in London "what seemed to be too great a tendency to relapse into power politics." He said he missed "the uplifting and sustaining zeal for a great, crusading, moral cause that seemed to imbue the earlier charter sessions at San Francisco."

Nevertheless, he expressed confidence that the United Nations had shown it can cope with world problems.

Stanolind and The Landreth Company No. 3-Q Scharbauer, discovery for lower Permian production in Northwest Ector County, on north side of the Goldsmith field, and 1,980 feet from south and west lines of section 12, block A, psl survey, flowed 109 barrels of oil in 24 hours, from the Fullerton zone, through casing perforations at 6,080-6,185 feet, and at 6,200-90 feet.

Honolulu Oil Corporation No. 3-A-9 Hudson, Southeast Cochran County exploration, 700 feet from south and 1,866 feet from east lines of section 9, block P, psl survey, and 1,448 feet due east of a discovery in the undeveloped area to the southwest of the Slaughter field, completed for a 24-hour pumping potential of 48 barrels of 32 gravity oil.

The pay at 5,114-39 feet, had been treated with 4,000 gallons of acid.

Casing Cemented

Texas Gulf Producing Company No. 1 Collins, Northwest Terry County wildcat in northeast quarter of section 4, block K, psl survey, and four miles southwest of the Slaughter field, had set 5 1/2-inch casing on bottom at 5,136 feet, with 100 sacks of cement.

The plug will be drilled out and the project drilled ahead into the San Andres zone which is the objective of the test.

Will Test Pay Zone

Texas Pacific Coal & Oil Company No. 1 Brown & Altman, possible discovery for Holt-Permian production in Central Winkler County, and located in section 25, block B-5, psl survey, developed 500 feet of salty sulphur water in 45 minutes, from perforations at 4,965-75 feet.

Operator will squeeze those holes, and perforate and test in the zone above, where oil and gas cut drilling mud, and some free oil was recovered on a drillstem test.

Ex-Service Baseball Players Will Play With Added Ginger

By GAYLE TALBOT MIAMI, FLA. —(AP)—Those who have been worrying about whether ball players returning from the service would be able to resume their diamond careers without great loss of efficiency can begin to relax.

The observations is a considered one, arrived at after a fortnight of watching the veterans perspire under the Florida and Panama suns and talking with many of them and their managers.

For one thing, the men who were carrying guns and flipping planes about this time a year ago have thrown themselves into training with a studied seriousness that no other spring ever witnessed.

In Good Condition Some of them—a specific example being Johnny Mize of the Giants—are in as good or better physical shape already than they were when they entered the service.

Manager Ott of the Giants fully agreed, saying he already had detected a difference. He mentioned a player or two who, before the war, had been known to color the Florida nights, but who had suddenly become ardent drinkers of orange juice and devotees of the simple life.

Stanton Defeats Crane, 43-41, In Thrill-Packed Cage Classic

By TANNER LAINE Granny, what a bear track! Brother, what a ball game! The undefeated Stanton High School Buffaloes continued their winning ways in the Midland High gym Tuesday night coming from behind to defeat a very potent Crane High quintet, 43 to 41.

It was that close. And Stanton's Buffs racked up victory number 27 straight for the season.

Crane's Golden Cranes lost the second game in 27. The ball game was a benefit for the Midland Memorial Hospital and sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

In a curtain-raiser, Crane "B" won 25 to 23 from a patched-up Midland team. The Bulldogs have completed the season but agreed to play the visitors.

The Stanton-Crane feud developed into a bang-up ball game. You couldn't have seen better for high schools, anywhere, anytime. The two quintets glided about the hardwood like two King snakes in battle, whipping and slithering about.

Crane got off to a fine start. They pumped in a couple of fielders but Stanton countered with two. It was 4-4 briefly then it was 6-6. Crane pulled out and led 12-7 at the quarter, Midway of the second quarter, Stanton, urged mightily by its fans, made it 15-15 and edged out in front 21 to 17 at the half.

The Buffs were in rare form in the third quarter and once got ahead by 10 points, 30 to 20. It was 36 to 28 Stanton at the whistle of the third.

Crane came surging, Stanton was ahead 40 to 30. The Cranes got 5 and Stanton 2. That was 42 to 35. From the side and from way out the Cranes fired away and caught up to 42-41 but there were seconds left. Stanton got a free toss and it was 43 to 41. Crane controlled the ball and whammed out three shots but they didn't sink.

Stanton's left-handed push-shooter Forward Billy Avery was high point man. He garnered 16 tallies (eight field goals). Crane's Bob Mathis, forward, picked up 13 points. Guard Chester Pettit of Crane was the best floor man. He also nabbed 12 points.

The two-point difference in the two teams was just about all the difference. Both are district champs and looked every bit of it.

Box score for Stanton vs Crane basketball game. Includes columns for Player, FG, FT, F, TP and totals for both teams.

Story Of Ups And Downs Of Missouri Farm Carries National Significance

By CHARLES NUTTER
AP Newsfeatures
FULTON, MO.—If a farm could talk it often could tell many a story of good times and bad, happy owners and unhappy ones, prosperity, desolation, abandonment and ruin.

This is the story of a 200-acre farm near Fulton which now is back in the hands of the same government which turned it over to pioneer homesteaders in 1832. It is a story which multiplied by thousands of similar cases of prosperity to ruin in a century becomes nationally significant.

The Boswells of this farm are local government conservationists who have traced out its history.
A little over a century ago the farm, known as the Adcock place, was covered with timber. It passed from government to private ownership in five tracts from 1832 to 1853, and was homesteaded by real midwestern pioneers. The tracts finally came together in 1891 under ownership of W. M. Adcock. Value Climbs to $15,000.

Adcock sold the farm in 1903 for $5,200 and it was sold again in 1904 to John C. Hansen for $6,000. At that time only 50 acres had been cleared, but Hansen cleared another 100 acres before 1909, when he sold it for $10,000 to John C. Douglas.

Douglas, just married and striking out on his own, built a solid four-room house and farmed the place well, specializing in livestock. The Douglases had the farm paid for in 1919 when after two children had been born on the farm, they sold it for $12,000, and moved to town. The new owners resold it the following year for $15,000 to Grove Selby.

Land prices then were at a peak just following the first world war. They were too high, and soon began causing trouble. The farm was put in the hands of tenants, who cropped it very heavily and soon the land showed the abuse. Yields dropped. Soil began washing away. The owner was killed in an accident and in 1931 the farm found itself on the courthouse steps in the hands of the sheriff, who sold it for $2,000.

A Familiar Tragedy
This fate is well known to too many midwestern farmers who paid too much for land around 1920. Sometime between 1932 and 1939 J. C. Smith bought the farm for $599, plus some court costs and taxes. In 1937 the place was abandoned, the land grew up in weeds and the gullies washed deeper and deeper as life giving top-soil disappeared. The buildings were vacant and improvements fell into an abandoned and dilapidated state, another picture well known to the Midwest.

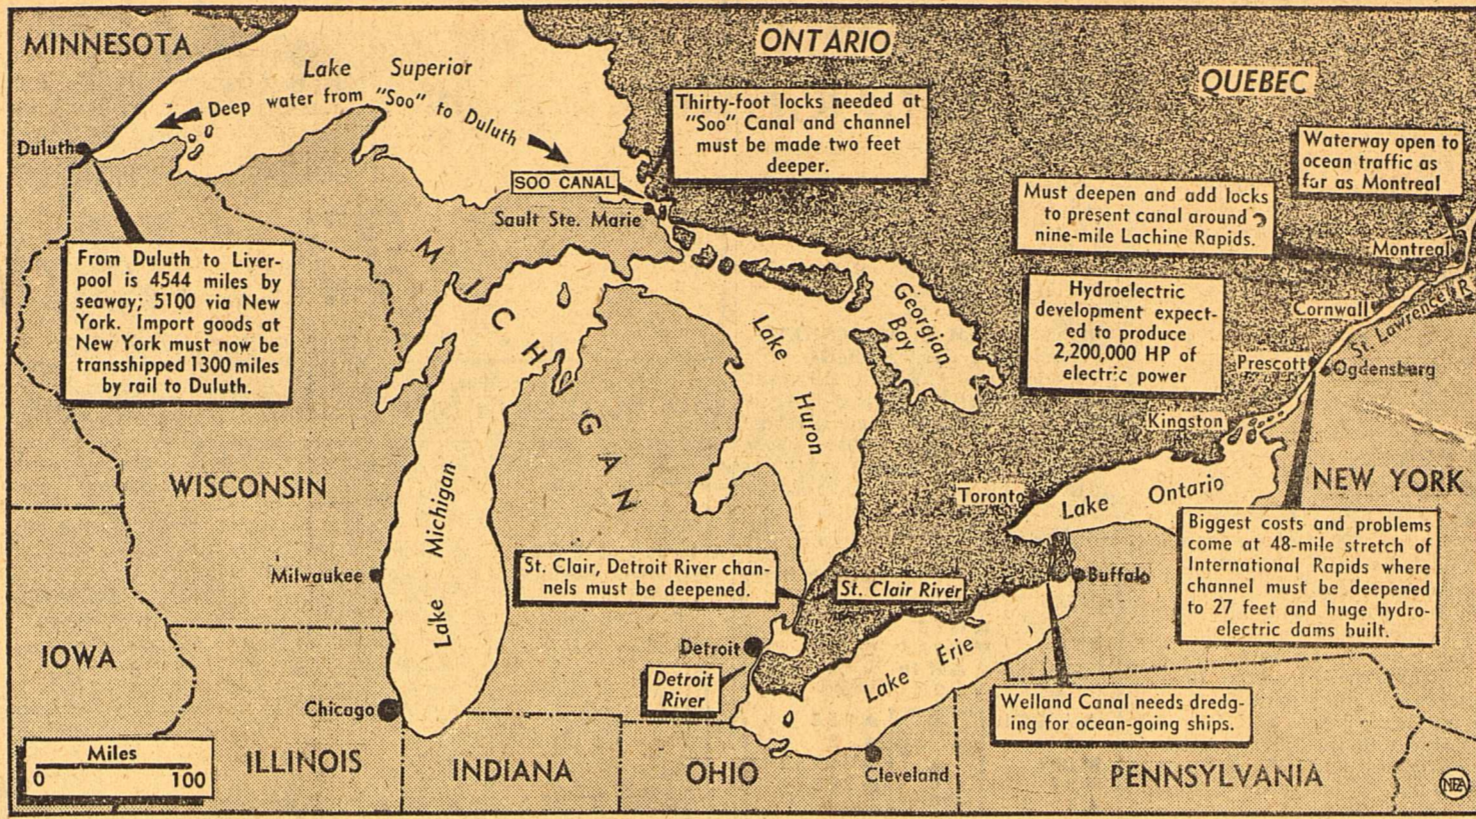

In 1939 came the crowning blow—the farm was listed as sub-marginal, meaning it was impossible without rehabilitation to sustain farming operations profitably there. The government bought it for $1,200, less than 10 per cent of what it had sold for 19 years earlier. The Long Road Back.

The land was wrapped up into the Cedar Creek forest and pasture project of the Soil Conservation Service, which has been struggling for six years to reclaim the soil. Some progress has been made and spent in the reclaiming operations, but the development is painfully slow. Fertilizer, lime and soil building crops and grass have been used extensively, and the land now is being rented at $2 an acre annually for grazing purposes.

Farmers who know the land are watching the operations with some skepticism. "You can get grass to grow on wornout land, but it won't stay," one veteran remarked. "The trouble is getting real sod. The sod is the thing."

Present operations may take a decade, or much longer before the land is reclaimed as good pasture land. The story is not typical of all midwestern farms, of course, but farmers know it is typical of too many.

Controversial St. Lawrence Seaway Now Seen as Security Measure

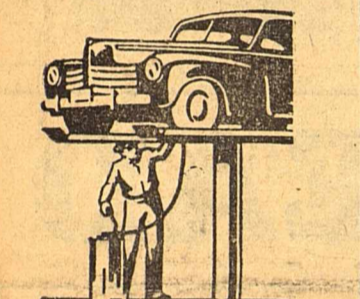

Once more Congress is considering the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Seaway project, which, although urged by several Presidents from Wilson to Roosevelt, has never been approved. The late war gave its proponents a new argument—that it is essential to national security. The Secretaries of War and Navy made a joint declaration to Congress that, in addition to its economic advantages, the development would afford shipbuilding and repair facilities in a relatively secure area; give an additional supply line for ocean shipping which would ease wartime strain on eastern ports and railroads and become a large source of cheap, dependable power without the use of coal or other war-critical materials.

Raps 'Brass'

Brig.-Gen. Herbert H. Holdridge, above, a West Point classmate of Gen. Mark Clark, added fuel to the GI fire of criticism against Army "brass" by telling Congress that the Army is "undemocratic and un-American and a feudalistic organization carried over into the atomic age."

Wavell Will Rate As One Of India's Most Important Viceroy

By HAL BOYLE
NEW DELHI.—(AP)—Lord Wavell, who may go down in history as the last of India's viceroys and certainly will be listed among its most imminent, currently is burdened with two problems: factional uproar—and national famine.

This warrior-turned-diplomat dwells in one of the world's most resplendent palaces, a cozy little $4,000,000 place, with 140 offices and rooms.

At 62, Wavell leads the life of the professional soldier who knows that one of his primary duties is to keep fit. His reward is that he looks no more than 55.

Unlike many American military men who give the impression that they are retired farmers when dressed in mufti, Wavell stands up well in civilian clothing. He was dressed in a neat gray business suit the day I called.

The best clue I had to Wavell's character was that when ever we came to a shortcut across the gardens he took it—walking across the greensward in a straight line instead of following the roundabout cement paths. The most disillusioning thing about him was that he actually enjoys porridge.

Has Many Talents
Wavell is a many talented man and talked freely on his hobbies. His study floor is carpeted with skins of tigers he has shot. One desk in the dark booklined room is covered with autographed photos of President Roosevelt, Churchill, Smuts and other world personalities, and also holds his ceremonial swords.

He rises shortly after 6 a. m. and gets in an hour's brisk ride on one of his three cavalry mounts. "Three times a week he plays nine holes of golf."

He relaxes with poetry—he has published one anthology, "Other Men's Flowers," and some verse of his own. He likes to snack on cheese sandwiches and beer.

He reads widely in history and biography, a few novels and fewer detective stories. He writes well himself.

The aides have well-indexed the library to note three cheerful exceptions snuggled together side by side—"Alice in Wonderland," "Introduction of Polo," and "Shirley Temple's Annual."

Now You Can Paint Your Gloves On

NEW YORK.—(AP)—A new chemical glove, that is merely smeared over the hands and forearms, is described in the Review of Scientific Instruments.

The glove is a special protective cream, with some unusual properties. A thin film affords protection for several hours against strong chemicals that might be poisonous on the skin. It also prevents staining of the skin.

The glove is said not to be noticeable and sheds water, although water is used to wash it off.

Accidentally Executed

WICHITA FALLS.—(AP)—Johnny Franklin Goforth, Wichita Falls drilling contractor, was electrocuted near Holliday Monday when the oil derrick guy wire on which he was working became entangled with a main power line, sending an estimated 6,400 volts through his body.

Baby Sitter

HACKENSACK, N. J.—(AP)—Add strike notes: A mother and her two-year-old child staged a short-lived sitdown strike in criminal district court here to protest a jail sentence meted out to her husband. Police soon persuaded her to give up her threat to sit in the court until her husband's case was reheard, and hubby served the sentence.

"Murder!" They Cried

By DOROTHY STALEY

Copyright, 1946, NEA Service, Inc.

XXVII
THE next morning for the first time in many years, there was no family breakfast hour at Cliff's Edge. We had all needed rest, and every one was late.

Men were coming and going from the district attorney's office all the time and there were the innumerable small things to be done which death makes necessary in any household.

We were just beginning a late lunch when the Westbrook taxi came up the drive. The twins were home. They tumbled from the taxi and swarmed over their grandmother and Betsy and their father and me, and then went tearing off through the woods to the farm. My Miss Jenny said, "Poor child." I swallowed a lump in my throat. They had never asked for Phillipa. "Poor child," my Miss Jenny repeated. "Not even her own children..."

Clara, Phillipa's colored maid, was explaining to Fletch. "I didn't tell them nothin', Mr. Willson, 'cept that we were gone home. The hotel people waked me early this morning and told me what for had happened, and they fixed for me to come right home."

The girl was ashen and it took much questioning on Fletch's part to get the whole story. Phillipa had taken the children back to their own home very early that Monday morning—so early she had had to waken Clara—and left them there with the girl. She had come back to Cliff's Edge and had taunted Fletch with the fact that he would never guess where the children were, but later apparently she had decided he might stop at his own home and so accidentally find the boys. "So just after lunch," Clara was telling Fletch, "she comes back and tele-

McKENNEY ON BRIDGE

By WILLIAM E. MCKENNEY

Editor's Note: Annually for the past 15 years, Mr. McKenney has selected the outstanding players of the year for his All-America team. This is the third of six articles on his selections.

When I came down, Andrew Stites was just leaving. He had permission from the district attorney's office to go down to his own office. At the door where Hendricks was waiting for him with the car, he turned back and coming over to me, took my hand firmly in his. "Thank you, Jemima Harrold," he said, "for all you have done for Jenay."

He left swiftly. The afternoon passed quietly and quickly. There was so much to be done. About five o'clock I made iced tea. Betsy had wakened and I persuaded her and my Miss Jenny and Dru to come down to the library where it was cooler and where Fletch and his father had been talking. So we were all there when Hendricks burst in.

"My God, Mr. Willson, I couldn't call you on account of..." His thumb jerked toward the morning room where the young man was still by the telephone. "When Mr. Stites went up to his office, he told me to wait. I waited and waited and after a while I thought I better go see if I made a mistake. My God, Mr. Willson, he had..." He looked at my Miss Jenny with her glass of tea still half way to her lips. "He was dead," he finished lamely.

"Not Uncle Andrew," my Miss Jenny said slowly. The glass in her hand tilted and the tea made a dark stain on the rug at her feet. We all stood looking at it spreading, damp and dark, and then Dru reached over and took the glass gently from my Miss Jenny's hand and put it on the table.

Community Theater Selects Comedy For First Production

"George Washington Slept Here" will be the first production to be presented by the new Community Theater according to announcement made Tuesday by Art Cole, director.

Scheduled for a late March showing, this Moss Hart & George S. Kaufman comedy hit replaces "Blithe Spirit" originally planned for the first production.

"It is our desire that each Community Theater production be as nearly flawless as a non-professional group can make it," Cole said.

The selection of "George Washington Slept Here" was made upon the basis of its wide appeal as both a stage play and motion picture.

Community Theater promises that the cast will get as much fun out of "George Washington Slept Here" as the audience, and invites all interested persons to the tryouts set for next week in the Civic Auditorium.

Telephone Brings Voice From 'Dead'

NEWARK, N. J.—(P)—City Fireman George W. Vetter, Jr. heard a voice on the telephone say cheerily, "Hello, George Old Pal, how are ya?"

George's hands shook and he was speechless. The voice was that of Felix Martinez, a buddy whom Vetter himself had listed as dead in his duties as a sergeant in a French forest in August, 1944.

Martinez, a Mt. Vernon, N. Y., resident, assured Vetter he was very much alive even though a hand grenade had exploded in front of him in full sight of his company. He had not returned that night in France, but was rescued by another outfit.

Since then Minges has been sent dollars and offers of dollars from several loyal partisans—from "a good Hickory Democrat," from Mayor H. H. Baxter and from Police Chief Walter Anderson of Charlotte.

Strange Concert By Mad Pianist Draws Widespread Acclaim

DETROIT—(P)—A strange concert, staged here recently by a mad pianist for a conference of the Music Teachers Association, is still drawing acclaim from some of the nation's topflight musicians.

Some 300 delegates to the conference heard the pianist, an inmate of the Wayne County General Hospital's psychiatric ward, execute complicated works of Chopin, Mozart, and Beethoven in a manner that one critic termed "beautiful and exquisite."

The pianist, a 45-year-old man whose name Hospital Psychiatrist Ira M. Altschuler withheld, was a well-known musician nine years ago, the doctor said.

He is still "a genius" in the opinion of Dr. Howard Hanson, noted conductor and composer of the Eastman School of Music at Rochester, N. Y.

"The man plays astonishingly well," Dr. Hanson said. "He is an extraordinary case. He would play long periods with perfect phrasing and tone quality and then would begin a curious series of erratic lapses such as adding extra beats. This made the whole thing seem strange and spooky. Then he would return to normal training."

A hospital aide stood at the pianist's side to turn pages as he played. Otherwise, the music teachers were told, he would have played the same page over and over. After the performance, the pianist, his face expressionless, bowed stiffly to his audience and left the stage amid roaring applause.

Dr. Altschuler said he staged the performance to demonstrate the value of music in aiding the mentally ill.

Build It Yourself Ends Housing Problem

RICHMOND, VA.—(P)—Major William E. Tucker, who served 27 months in the transportation corps in Europe, came to Richmond to enter the Medical College of Virginia. He couldn't find a house or an available contractor.

So Tucker, himself, applied for a building permit. "Have you ever built a house?" he was asked.

"No," replied Tucker, "but I can learn." Today, the house, to be a story and a half, with five downstairs and three rooms upstairs, is well underway, being built by Tucker and three GI helpers, all still dressed in uniforms. Tucker drew the plans from ideas he found in magazines.

Jester Not To Resign In Seeking Governorship

AUSTIN—(P)—Railroad Commissioner Beauford H. Jester says he will not resign his present position in seeking election as governor.

Jester said he considered it his obligation to perform the duties of his present office, to which he was elected for a full six-year term in 1944, "unless the people of Texas see fit to promote me to the governorship."

Jester cited the work he and the railroad commission have been doing to eliminate the waste of natural gas in Texas.

At the end of the war, unfilled orders for domestic oil burners totaled more than 100,000. Since then, the demand is increasing by thousands every month.

Spectacular Carnival Is Planned For First Postwar Mardi Gras Celebration

By RAY M. THOMPSON NEW ORLEANS—(NEA)—The "greatest free show on earth" will be held again in New Orleans on March 5, when Mardi Gras returns in all its prewar pomp and pageantry.

If past celebrations are any criterion, between 300,000 and 500,000 people will jam the streets on that day—half of them masked and parading, the other half watching the endless floats and antics of thousands of uninhibited amateur actors.

Mardi Gras means "Fat Tuesday." It is the last day before Lent and the last day of the Carnival season which begins in New Orleans on the twelfth night after Christmas. All day and all night long the city and its visitors parade and play. Dawn finds them tired and happy, thousands of them wending their way to Mass, where the cross of ashes is placed on their brow and the 40 days of renunciation to be in Carnival itself comes from "Carni vale"—farewell to flesh.

The Mardi Gras started 250 years ago, right after the founding of the city. The French aristocrats, nostalgic for their beloved Paris, celebrated the King's Party—"Soiree du Roi"—on the Twelfth Night. Out of this grew a succession of beautifully pageanted balls—with magnificent masquerade costumes depicting kings and queens and resplendent court attendants. More than 30 Carnival organizations plan to hold balls—those ornate indoor presentations where thousands of dollars are spent on costumes. Members plan extragantly detailed mythological or allegorical themes of their pageants a whole year ahead. A Carnival Ball costs its organization anywhere from $2500 to $30,000.

At first these fancy dress balls were inside evening affairs entirely. Not until the 1830s did parades on the street dramatically precede the ornate indoor presentations.

The rest of the country really began to take part in this city's famous season of fun in 1872 when, to adequately honor the official visit of the Grand Duke Alexis of Russia, the now immortal Misticik Krewe of Rex was organized.

Fantastic floats and gorgeously costumed mummers, with band after band after band, paraded before the reviewing stand and New Orleans knew that never again would they be without this daylight celebration, with everybody participating. On that day the Royal Family of Carnival gained a nation as its loyal subjects and the city of New Orleans as its capital.

Favorite Tune

It was also on that day that the official Mardi Gras song "If Ever I Cease to Love" was spontaneously started. The parade arrangers had discovered that the Grand Duke was especially fond of this number in the musical show "Bluebeard," which was then playing in New Orleans. It had a catchy tune and words: "If ever I cease to love, if ever I cease to love, May little dogs wag their tails in front, If ever I cease to love, May oysters have legs and cows lay eggs, If ever I cease to love."

The chorus of the show had altered the words to amuse the Duke—"May the Grand Duke Alexis ride a buffalo in Texas, If ever I cease to love!"—so, when the first band drew up in front of the Grand Duke and his party, instead of a Royal Russian march in his honor, the brasses blared forth with "If Ever I Cease to Love." This was the true spirit of buffoonery, and the crowd and the city and the Duke were overjoyed. And ever since, this has been the theme song of Carnival.

From that day on, Mardi Gras has followed a popular pattern. The parade of Rex starts about 11 o'clock in the morning and it merges into the night parade of Comus, God of Good Cheer, when the flickering flaming flambeaux, or gasoline torches, throw fantastic shadows and lights on the tinsel costumes of the paraders.

Many of the court costumes cost their wearers four figures. Workmen spend a year preparing a float. There is hardly a bigwig in New Orleans who is not a secret member of some Misticik Krewe with an ornate regalia tucked away for the big day when everybody goes downtown for the parades, when the entire 196 square miles of New Orleans becomes a vast playground.

A Message from President Truman

It is of the utmost importance that the American people understand the status and significance of our new Regular Army. It will be the duty of this volunteer Army to help protect the freedoms and maintain the peace we have won at so great a cost.

Atomic power has increased rather than decreased the necessity for our preparation, both in manpower and material. In the coming atomic age, the United States must maintain its military strength—to insure our national security and to promote world order.

Such grave responsibilities obviously cannot be met by anything less than the highest caliber of men. For this reason, I asked Congress for legislation to increase the opportunities of the soldier in the Regular Army. This legislation has been passed and signed by me, and is now in effect.

In serving his country, a man can now get good pay, education, travel and security—with family allowances for his dependents and a new 20-year retirement plan that compares with or excels anything in American industry. These, and the many other advantages of the new Regular Army, should be made known to all our service men and their families.

The Army has embarked upon a worldwide campaign to enlist enough men so that, in demobilizing, we shall not strip our services below the peacetime need. It is imperative that public support be given to this program. We must replace as soon as possible men who have served long and arduously, and who wish to return to civil life. We must also build an Army of volunteers adequate to all our requirements—at home and abroad—until the long-range peace terms and military policies are worked out.

I hope that every individual and group will give earnest and enthusiastic co-operation to this great effort to rebuild our Regular Army. The success of this campaign is vital to the performance of our tremendous task of securing the peace.

Harry Truman PRESIDENT

Ban On Biltong Planned To Save Wild Game

JOHANNESBURG —(AP)— A ban on the sale of biltong, South Africa's national delicacy, is recommended by a commission on wild life preservation. Biltong is made from the flesh of wild game dried in the sun. So heavy have been the raids by biltong hunters that some species of buck are threatened with extinction. Hunters drive lorries into the countryside at night and attract the game by flashlights. The commission proposes to make both the sale and purchase of game biltong a criminal offense.

Matchmaking Makes Mayor Go To Phone

BURLINGTON, N. C. —(AP)— The man in Maryland who wanted Mayor G. Marvin Holt of Burlington to help him find a wife can take his pick now from a dozen or more ambitious women in this section. And the sooner the better—for the mayor wants to get out of the mail-order business in a hurry! Since a newspaper story announced that a man in Hagerstown, Mo., had called on Mayor Holt for help in locating a spouse, numerous women have written or called to say they are "available." But Mayor Holt is tired having his office confused with a matrimonial agency. "Finding a wife is personal business, and the next time someone from far away wants a wife from Burlington, the best thing for him to do is to come here and look around a few days," he says.

A Man's World? LONDON —(AP)— In 1948 women will outnumber men in Britain by more than 1,500,000, says an actuarial report. Of a total population of 48,169,000 it is calculated 24,974,000 will be women.

This 4-column composition takes you through a full day in Austin, capital city of Texas, as Gov. Coke R. Stevenson and visiting dignitaries celebrated the 100th Anniversary of Texas Statehood. Thousands of people came from miles around to witness this 100th Anniversary of Texas' admittance to the Union. An estimated 40,000 witnessed the parade which included 9,000 persons. At the Statehood Day kickoff breakfast Governor Stevenson and other visiting dignitaries were guests of the Austin Chamber of Commerce at the Austin Hotel. Swiss Miss Misses Guess On Washington VISP, SWITZERLAND —(AP)— The editor of the local newspaper, the Walliser Bote, has a theory that Americans know more about Switzerland's hero, William Tell, than the Swiss know about George Washington. To prove his point the editor asked fellow-townsmen, "Who was George Washington?" Here are some of the answers as reported in the newspaper: A store proprietor: "Let's see, seems to me I've heard that name. Oh, yes, that was the town where Roosevelt lived." A railway employee: "He was president of the United States. He was very famous, but I can't recall just why. Didn't he build the Panama Canal?" A school teacher: "Only two weeks ago my pupils were required to write a composition on 'The War of Independence and Its Influence Upon European History.' My dear fellow, I know all about the man." A girl who had been running after American furloughees: "Wasn't he a jazz-band director?" A politician: "George Washington—why that's the chap who fought against slavery. He freed America from the British yoke and was one of the spiritual leaders of the French revolution. Finally he was assassinated in a theater."

Die-Hard Nazis Never Heard Of Eight-Ball

BUDAPEST —(AP)— Unregenerate Nazis in Germany have devised a new method of giving the verboten salute. Released Hungarian war prisoners and returned displaced persons report that around Nuremberg one Nazi greets another with "acht, acht" in sotto voce. Translated, that "eight, eight," which to these die hards indicate the eighth letter of the alphabet, or "H—H—." And that means, "Heil Hitler."

MacKENZIE'S COLUMN

BERLIN—You have to see the ruins of Berlin to get even a smattering of the truth about what the war has done to get the world's fourth largest city. Berlin is a vastly magnified Es-sen—miles upon miles of heaps of rubble and shattered walls which once were homes, business houses, churches and public institutions. In this desolation are hundreds of thousands of cave dwellers. Of course, here and there you see a building in which the damage is relatively slight. Children are going to school in one of the worst school-rooms that youngsters ever saw, and there are studying their new deNazified readin' and writin' and 'rithmetic. But despite these tiny refugees, Berlin is the most part a ghastly ruin in the midst of which the Germans exist because they are given a ration of food and fuel by conquerors. Some Berliners are engaged in gainful employment for the occupation authorities, but these folk are comparatively few, and their earnings don't benefit them greatly because there isn't much to buy. For the most part you see these "cave" people trying to make their habitations more livable, standing in queues for their rations or making their way out into the country to pick up bits of wood in the forests. Not Beaten Mentally Well now, you'd think that these followers of Hitlerism were as thoroughly beaten as a people could be, and in one sense they are. But I don't believe the Germans as a whole are beaten mentally. When they recover from their shell shock and economic chaos they will be heading for further conquests—unless something gives them a spiritual change meantime. The first time I was in Germany was at the end of World War I. The difference between the situation then and now was that in the first conflict the Germans didn't suffer actual contact with war on their home soil. They weren't beaten either physically or mentally in actual combat and certainly weren't in any chastened frame of mind when they surrendered. From then on you saw the war spirit in Germany grow. The last time I was here was just after the fateful Munich conference of 1938. I went to the great sports palace and heard Hitler make his sensational declaration that if Czechoslovakia didn't give him what he wanted, he would go and take it. This week I went to the sports palace again, and it is a mass of ruins. I visited the great marble Chancellery which Hitler built on grandiose proportions that fed his terrific ego. I saw his private office, which was big enough for a football game. I am leaving for Nuernberg to get a look at Goering in the prisoners' box. You'd think that the Germans would be about fed up with war and dictators. But, thus far, I have found nothing to support the idea that there has been any fundamental change in the mentality of these people. They most certainly must be kept under military control for a generation or more, while they are re-educated in the ways of peace.

Peale Painting Given To Princeton PRINCETON, N. J. —(AP)— Princeton University has acquired a fifth painting by Charles Willson Peale, Revolutionary artist. The painting, donated by an anonymous alumnus, is a portrait of Elias Boudinot, New Jersey, third American to serve as "President of the United States in Congress assembled" and a university trustee from 1772 to 1821. The university has Peale's famed "George Washington at the Battle of Princeton," painted while Washington's forces were quartered in nearby Rocky Hill.
