London Embassy Says Warsaw Told Delegate To Raise Issue

NEW YORK—(P)—The Spanish issue, raised unexpectedly by Poland, seemed likely Saturday night to be the next problem to plague the United Nations Security Council just when that infant peace agency hoped for a quiet period to put its rules in order.

The Polish embassy in London announced Saturday that the Warsaw government had instructed Dr. Oscar Lange, Polish delegate to the Security Council, to lay before the council the Polish view that the United Nations should break off relations with the government of Generalissimo Francisco Franco.

Police Use Tips From Citizens But Driver Not Found

City, county and state police Saturday night continued their search for a hit and run driver who ran down and killed Anna Ruth Snider, 4, on South Fort Worth Street Wednesday evening, but their efforts remained fruitless.

Driver of the car, believed to be a maroon-colored Ford or Chevrolet, did not stop although his vehicle dragged the girl's body about 30 feet. Witnesses said they believed a man, woman and two children were occupants of the death car.

City police have been busy the past two days checking information and tracing leads supplied by persons trying to assist in the hunt. Each of these tips has proven unfounded, but Chief of Police Jack Ellington said Saturday night his department appreciated the interest of Midland citizens. The police are checking all leads, he said, and will continue to do so in their efforts to find the driver. All members of the staff are assisting in the hunt.

Trips Is Fruitless
Ellington and Sheriff Ed Darnell went to Seagraves Friday after they had received information that a car answering the description of the automobile sought here had been seen in that city. Ellington reported the trip was fruitless.

The child, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morris J. V. Snider of 319 South Fort Worth Street, was walking along the street with a companion when she was struck by a car traveling north. Witnesses reported the vehicle did not slow down nor stop after striking the child.

Funeral services for the girl were held Friday.

Theory Abandoned
Police Saturday indicated they had abandoned their theory that the driver might not have known his car had hit the girl since the person had answered an appeal to report to the police station. The appeal was issued Thursday in the hope that if the driver did not know of the accident he would determine from the color of his car and the location of the accident that his car had hit the child. The accident occurred about dusk Wednesday.

It was the second traffic fatality in the city this year. Domingo Regalado was injured fatally February 17 when a truck backed over him. He died before reaching a hospital.

Bill Introduced To Sustain Wool Market

WASHINGTON—(P)—Chairman O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) of a special Senate Wool Investigating Committee introduced Saturday a bill to sustain the domestic wool market.

Beginning with the 1947 wool clip, the Commodity Credit Corporation would be directed through loans, purchases or support payments, to support a price or assure returns to producers of wool in the United States at specified levels.

The Commodity Credit Corporation could dispose of the wool at prices which would permit it to be sold in competition with imported fiber.

"The decision of the Polish government was taken in view of the fact that the present regime in Spain is endangering international peace and that peace is indivisible," the embassy announcement said.

Members of the Polish delegation here said Dr. Lange had not received official notice of his government's decision.

Thus it was not determined here whether Da. Lange would dump the Spanish question on the council table Tuesday when it convenes at 2 p. m. CST, or would wait until the council has adopted the rules of procedure to be taken up at that time.

The council's group of experts has virtually completed a draft of rules.

No Hint Of Action
There has been no hint in the two weeks that the council has been in New York that Poland would bring up the question of Franco.

For a time it seemed likely that France might do just that. But the French delegate, Henri Bonnet, made it clear only Friday night in an interview that France had decided the Spanish issue was one for the council of foreign ministers of the Big Five powers.

The British do not regard the Spanish question of such emergency importance as the Iranian matter, which the council disposed of, at least temporarily, last Thursday.

The British emphasized that there was no love for Franco in their group but that Sir Alexander Cadogan, the British delegate, might be expected to press for a decision on procedure and rules before taking up any other controversial matters.

Only 20 Votes Cast In School Board Election

Only 20 votes were cast in the Midland Independent School District trustee election Saturday, and each of the candidates for the three offices received that number of votes. No writings were recorded and no names scratched.

Percy Bridgewater, present chairman of the board, was re-elected, while Lloyd Mackey and D. W. McDonald, members by appointment, were elected to terms on the board.

Mackey was appointed to the board to succeed Paul Nelson, who moved to Brownwood, and McDonald took the place held by the late Percy Mims.

The three will officially assume their duties at a meeting of the board of trustees Tuesday night.

Holdover members of the board are Mrs. W. H. Gilmore, secretary; Vaughn Maley, Hamilton E. McKee, and George Abell.

Truman Proclaims U.S. Policy Of Opposing All Aggression

US To Compromise At Paris

WASHINGTON—(AP)—In an effort to break a deadlock brocking peace pacts for five European countries, the United States was reported ready Saturday to dump the future of Italy's pre-war colonies into the lap of the United Nations.

This disclosure came from responsible diplomatic officials on the heels of a London announcement that Britain will back Secretary of State Byrnes' surprise appeal for a spade-work meeting of the Council of Foreign Ministers in Paris April 25.

There were indications, too, that France would endorse the proposal for the meeting—one openly acknowledged by Byrnes as designed to cut through the stalemate surrounding a final wartime accounting for Italy, Finland, Hungary, Romania and Bulgaria.

Russia thus far has remained silent on the plan. Previously, the Soviet Union had urged postponement of a 21 member nation conference on treaties for the five countries on the ground that insufficient progress has been made by the four Western powers toward agreement on the issues involved.

A May 1 deadline for the 21-nation meeting in Paris had been agreed upon by the foreign ministers of the United States, Britain and Russia at their conference in Moscow last fall. Whether that deadline can be met—even if the foreign ministers get together April 25—still remains highly problematical.

Many Disagreements
American officials, surveying the long list of differences among the major powers and the lack of progress since the London meeting of the council broke up six months ago in an atmosphere of acrimony, were frankly pessimistic.

These were the major difficulties:
1. Despite a Potsdam agreement that Italy should be given priority for a peace treaty among the ex-Axis satellites, Russia has taken the position that all five treaties must be drafted before any one of them is signed.

2. Italy's colonies—the United States and Britain have supported a plan under which they would be placed under a collective trusteeship of the United Nations. Russia has advocated individual trusteeships, seeking for herself stewardship over Tripolitania on the Southern Mediterranean shore. Britain has protested this move on the ground that it would place the Soviet stridre her lifetime to the East.

3. Reparations—Russia has demanded reparations from Italy, suggesting that they could be paid over a period of years in the form of goods. Against this position, the United States has taken an unambiguous stand arguing that Italy is dependent upon relief—a vast part of which comes from this country—and is in no position to pay.

Asks Swift Army-Navy Merger

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Contending "delay itself is a process of decay," President Truman Saturday sought swifter Congressional action on his recommendation for unification of the armed forces.

He used an Army Day address at Chicago to put across anew the idea he first outlined to Congress December 19.

Unification, as well as temporary extension of the draft act and universal military training are necessary, he said, if this country is to maintain its strength and leadership.

Taking cognizance of the fears of both the Army and the Navy that one might be subordinated to the other in event of a merger, the President said:

"Unification does not mean subordination of any branch of the service. It does not mean a loss of identity. It means just that the word says—unification.

"It means a concentration and cohesion of our best military thought and our best military resources, geared to maximum efficiency. It means using our experience in World War II for the peace of the world."

WASHINGTON—(P)—For the first time since its original enactment in 1940, the draft law is likely to become a red-hot political issue in this year's Congressional elections.

That became apparent Saturday as the House Military Committee indicated a determination to throw into the lap of the new Congress the entire matter of peacetime extension of the Selective Service Act. The act expires on May 15.

Should Congress go along with the committee, many members believe, the proposition of whether to keep the law on the books through 1947 will be one of the first demanding a decision from the 80th Congress when it convenes in January.

And because of intense public interest, they believe, the voters will demand that candidates for election to the 80th Congress take a stand in their campaign.

Bystander's Leg Is Broken As Girl Flies From Carnival Ride
Tragedy interrupted the gaiety at a carnival here Friday night.

Shirley Robertson, 8, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Robertson, 1706 West Wall Street, suffered a broken left leg when a girl on a "merymixup" ride at the Harry Craig Carnival at the old ball park fell out of the swing, flew through the air more than 20 feet, and knocked the child down.

Name of the girl who fell from the ride was not learned by authorities. She was treated for bruises and minor cuts at a Midland hospital and dismissed.

Three Knocked Down
The Robertson girl was standing near the ride with her mother and brother, Gary, when the girl fell from the whirling swing. All three were knocked down, but the mother and brother were uninjured. The child was given treatment at a hospital and returned to her home.

The girl who fell from the contrivance told Sheriff Ed Darnell, who investigated, that she fainted and slipped out of the chair suspended by chains from a revolving pole. Witnesses said she was flung more than 20 feet into the crowd of onlookers.

Condition of the Robertson girl was reported as satisfactory Saturday night. Her leg was broken between the knee and ankle.

Man Builds House On Wrong Block And Lot

President Warns Russia, Britain Against Pressure

CHICAGO—(AP)—President Truman, proclaiming a new "universal" foreign policy designed to oppose aggression the world over, called Saturday for strong military forces to back it up.

Speaking before a crowd police estimated at upwards of 70,000 persons, the President declared America must remain strong to preserve the peace and protect the weak from outside "coercion or penetration."

Truman called for passage of legislation extending the Selective Service Act another year, armed forces unification and universal training, which have stout opposition in Congress, and then, departing from his prepared text, declared:

"Nobody should play politics with the national safety." He did not elaborate.

The President was cheered when he concluded his talk and interrupted by applause on other occasions, once when he paid tribute to Franklin D. Roosevelt, his predecessor.

AUSTIN—(P)—In a special Army Day ceremony on the Capitol steps Saturday Gov. Coke R. Stevenson paid tribute to American war heroes who "have become a legend of gallantry and courage."

Truman reserved for the United States the right to project itself in any situation where outside rivalries might endanger the security of any nation and endanger the peace of all.

In the strongest language he has ever used as Franklin D. Roosevelt's successor as Democracy's spokesman, the gray-haired Missourian told thousands in Chicago's Soldier Field:

"We cannot one day proclaim our intention to prevent unjust aggression and oppression in the world and the next day call for immediate scrapping of our military might."

He saw some of that might earlier when 14,000 troops of the famous Fifth (Red Diamond) Infantry passed by a Michigan Avenue reviewing stand in which he stood with Gov. Dwight H. Green, Mayor Edward J. Kelly, Senator Lucas (D-Til) and his commander, Maj. Gen. Albert E. Brown.

Geisha Girl Tip Leads Army To Find Gold Japs Had Hidden In Tokyo Bay

TOKYO—(P)—A geisha house tip which found its way into American military government circles led Saturday by Roy Furr, president of the board of trustees of the city, to the discovery of a large hoard of precious metals hidden in the mud beneath Tokyo Bay.

An informant who saw two truckloads of ingots dumped into the bay last July to conceal them from occupation forces said that Japanese army officers supervising the job had estimated there was 30,000,000 yen ($2,000,000,000) worth of gold, silver and platinum in the lot.

LT. E. V. Nielsen of Stamford, Conn., an officer in the 32d Military Government, located the hidden hoard and himself brought up the first ingot—a 75-pound hunk of platinum.

Nielsen was led by an informant to the spot where the ingots were dumped off a wharf at a former Japanese maritime school on the Tokyo waterfront.

"I stripped and went down into about six feet of water," Nielsen said, "and there, in three or four feet of mud, I could feel two areas—each about 20 feet square—which seemed to be paved with these blocks."

The dock area meanwhile has been taken over by armed guards of the 1st Cavalry Division who are keeping a close watch until recovery is completed.

The story behind the tipoff includes a weird series of "leaks" involving a laborer who helped dump the ingots, some elderly businessmen to whom he turned for protection, a geisha who heard the businessmen discussing it, and a Japanese civilian employe of the military government.

Nielsen got in touch with the girl, who led them to a small "social club" of elderly small-time businessmen. One of these finally told him the laborer who had helped dump the ingots had come to them in fear of death and was being hidden by them.

The laborer told Nielsen that, some time late in July, 1945, he and several other men were ordered by officers to "help unload some trucks" near the maritime school. They were told it was steel they were handling, but one of the men scratched some paint off a heavy bar and discovered it was gold. An officer promptly warned the men they would lose their lives if they talked.

Two Killed, 77 Hurt As Train Jumps Rails
PILOT, NEV.—(P)—Broken remains of the crack Chicago-bound Exposition Flyer lay among the shattered homes of this loading station Saturday, aftermath of a disaster which killed two and injured 77 when the locomotive and 10 cars leaped the rails as the train hit a siding.

Railroad officials identified the dead as Anthony Carckowsky, en route from Camp Beal, Calif., to visit his wife, Alice, at Burton, Ohio, and Mike Drensky, Denver.

The locomotive, with engineer Bert Kreis of Salt Lake City at the controls, and 10 coaches plunged off the tracks and overturned. Kreis escaped with a severe shaking up, reports said.

National Air Policy

American aviation remained at a standstill for seven years after World War I, while Europe soared far above and beyond us. Then, in 1925, came the report of the Morrow Board, which coordinated the 24 aviation investigations and reports made since 1918, added its own recommendations, and presented them in a coherent pattern which became the legislative framework for our belated advance in air commerce and air power.

That power reached its peak, of course, during the last four years, through broad authorities and immense expenditures under the War Powers Acts. But now, nearly a year after V-E Day, we are in a position not unlike that of 1919. We still have a national air policy based on the Morrow Board recommendations. In the light of 20 years' advancement, it is not much better than the nothing of the seven lean years after Armistice Day.

There is one cheerful prospect, however. In about a month hearings are scheduled to begin on the so-called Mitchell Bill, which would establish a National Air Policy Board of nine members appointed by the President.

The bill's author, Sen. Hugh Mitchell of Washington, would have this board report within three months on the questions which seem to be most urgent and vital to our aviation future.

Among them would be the government's policies toward technical progress in air transportation, the size of our peacetime air forces and their coordination with government agencies related to aviation and transportation, the maintenance of a balanced and expandable aircraft production, the relation of civil to military aircraft industry, the adaptation of wartime improvements to existing modes of air transportation, and, finally, the coordination, strengthening, and preservation of all types of the nation's commercial transportation.

That's a large and jaw-breaking order, but it needs filling. There are plenty of varied aviation reports available today, as there were after World War I. But again they require tying together. The single voice or experience of any one government agency, branch of service, or division of industry cannot begin to give the whole picture.

Our need of a new, intelligent national air policy is tremendous. Much has been said about the fact that our present military aircraft are obsolete. But our research and technological equipment is likewise obsolete. This is a day of revolutionary advancement in aviation. This country must start from scratch, know where it's going, get on the way, and be sure of getting there.

The Mitchell Bill looks as if it would be able to give us the needed start. It may be hoped that Congress will give it the careful consideration that its important subject matter deserves.

Delay And The Draft

Enlistments have failed to bring our peacetime Army to the size that our national strength, position, and safety require. This has been pointed out to Congress and to the public by most of our top military men, and it has been clearly implied by the Secretaries of State, War, and Navy. Their advice and warnings have pointed toward one unpleasant but inescapable solution—extension of the draft.

Yet Congress continues to temporize and dodge the issue. The latest delay is the Senate Military Affairs Committee's decision to hold two weeks of public hearings on extension of Selective Service, which expires May 15.

It is difficult to see what these hearings can accomplish, beyond the delay itself. Certainly, opposition to draft extension can be found. The continued calling up of young men, even in relatively small numbers, is painful and unpopular. But when all the objections are in, it is likely that the necessity, as set forth in expert testimony, will remain.

And worse than the delay, it seems to us, is the way that congressional opinion has shifted with shifting international currents. When tension with Russia was highest, a year's extension of the draft seemed a foregone conclusion. After Prime Minister Stalin's conciliatory statement, the temporizing was resumed.

We cannot trim our military requirements to the unpredictable changes in Russian policy. The size of our Army is a long-term consideration. It must take into account the fact that there will be many disturbances and tensions for some time to come. It cannot shrink or expand as Stalin coos or blusters.

Too Much Breath

A typical and memorable example of Winston Churchill's oratory was his description, in his Fulton speech, of the present as "this sad and breathless time."

It is just possible that Churchill, as he weighs the general reaction to and consequences of that speech, might wish that he himself had been, if not more sad, at least a little more breathless.

Secret engagements always seem to be the ones you hear the most about.

Carpenters Get 25 Cents Hourly Scale Increase

Midland carpenters Saturday were notified their pay scale has been increased from $1.12 1/2 an hour to $1.37 1/2 an hour by the Wage Stabilization Board. The board's decision was telegraphed to H. H. Hamlin, secretary and business manager of Carpenter's Local No. 1428, by Congressman R. E. Thomson.

The carpenters had appealed to the board for an increase to bring the wages in the city on a par with Odessa, Lubbock, and other cities of this area.

The $1.37 1/2 cents an hour scale applies to journeymen workers. Apprentices will receive 90 cents per hour for the first year, $1.05 the second, $1.20 the third and $1.30 the fourth. Apprenticeship consists of four years.

Approximately 200 journeymen and apprentices are members of the union. They were joined in their appeal for higher wages by 12 Midland contractors, Hamlin said.

Midland Painter's Local 1001 and the Midland bricklayers local also have asked for increased pay scales. The painters now receive $1.12 1/2 an hour and the bricklayers $1.72 1/2. Decisions on the two appeals are expected to be announced this week by the Wage Stabilization Board.

Truman -

The United States will have to be dealt in the Orient, he emphasized, because of its own interest in peace and security there.

The United Nations, which he said the United States would back "to the utmost," have a right, he declared flatly, to insist that the sovereignty and integrity of the Near and Middle East countries must not be threatened "by coercion and penetration."

Making no words, he expressed the hope of his country "for the peaceful settlement of differences which have arisen between colonial people and colonial sovereigns in all areas."

To back up his strong language, he renewed his plea for extension of the Selective Service Act another year, a program of universal training and a merger of the Army and Navy into a single department of national defense with the air forces having co-equal status.

Prior to his speech he was questioned for 20 minutes by quick-thinking Chicago high school journalists.

He told his unprecedented teen age news conference that he favored extending to 18-year olds the right to vote since boys of that age had proved in time of war their devotion to the highest principles of citizenship.

Says Training Necessary "The Army, Truman said, can be "continuously and adequately supplied for another year by the Selective Service Act." Universal training is necessary, he said, to assure the country of a trained citizenship in time of crisis.

"Next time—if there must be a next time—we are likely to be the first target," he said.

The President expressed conviction that the United Nations Security Council is "fully capable" of settling disputes between any nations in the world, however different their philosophies, traditions and interests.

"The United States," he announced at one point, "intends to join with the other sovereign republics of America in a regional pact to provide a common defense against attack."

Explaining America's interest in outside rivalries all over the globe, the President said simply: "Remember that the first World War began in Serbia, that the peace of Versailles was first broken in Manchuria and that the second World War began in Poland."

Control and reform of Japan, he said, "is only a beginning" of American policy in the Orient. In that connection he mentioned:

"The U. S. working in Korea with Korean leaders and Soviet Russian allies "to create a provisional democratic government."

Chinese leaders, through "wise counsel" of Special Envoy Gen. George C. Marshall, "on the road to achieve political unity by peaceful democratic processes."

The Philippine commonwealth on July 4 becoming "a full sovereign and independent nation."

Truman said: "We seek to encourage a quick revival of economic activity and international trade in the Far East. To do that, we stand ready to extend credits and technical assistance to help build the peace."

The President recognized "important interests" of Great Britain, Russia and other nations in the Far East, but asserted: "In return we expect recognition by them that we also have an interest in maintaining peace and security in that area."

Truman Says Poll Tax Is Matter For States

CHICAGO—(P)—In what appeared to be a peace offering to militant Southern Democrats in Congress, President Truman Saturday disclosed the view that repeal of the poll tax must be left up to the states.

His pronouncement came unexpectedly at a news conference he held for Chicago high school journalists.

The question was raised by a nervous, shy little girl, whose query escaped most of the reporters regularly assigned to cover the President.

"Do you see any immediate solutions to the poll tax in the South?" came the question.

No, he did not, the President replied. That is a matter they will have to work out for themselves.

There are a number of Southern states, the President said, that have repealed the poll tax. He expressed hope they all will eventually. But that is a matter for them to work out for themselves, Truman continued.

In architecture the term "jerkline-roofed" is applied to a particular form of gable end.

West Sterling Will Get New Wildcat; Another Deep Prospector Indicated For Nelson Area In West Andrews

R. R. Herrell of Midland, and associates, have staked location for No. 1 TXL (Texas Pacific Land Trust), a 2,750-foot wildcat in West-Central Sterling County.

It is 2,310 feet from west and 1,980 feet from north lines of section 1, block 31, TP survey, T-5-S, and is about 15 miles west of Sterling City.

Drilling will start at once with rotary. Dave Duncan of Big Spring has the contract. Herrell and associates have 640 acres in the area around the new exploration. R. R. Rhodes of Midland owns west offset acreage and Phillips Petroleum Company have close in leases.

It was reported Saturday, without official confirmation, that Shell Oil Company, Inc., has made location for a 10,500-foot wildcat in West Andrews County, about one mile southwest of No. 1 Nelson, which had created widespread interest in recent weeks.

Location for the new exploration is supposed to be 661 feet from north and 1,963 feet from west lines of section 13, block A-40, psi survey, May Run Casing.

Shell No. 1 Nelson was reported by operator to be bottomed at 10,453 feet in dolomite—likely Ellenburger. Unofficial sources reported operator was to run 5 1/2-inch casing in the project. That has not been verified.

Located 660 feet from south and east lines of section 8, block A-40, psi survey, No. 1 Nelson, is supposed to have entered Ellenburger between 10,350 feet and 10,390 feet.

Slight shows of oil and gas, in drillstem tests from around 10,350 feet to the current total depth, have been reported—but none of them have been confirmed.

It is understood that most of the drillstem tests attempted had pucker trouble and as a result none of the investigations have been considered completely satisfactory.

Likely reason for running the casing—if such is done—is to make possible getting accurate and positive tests of the sections in the hole which have shown some evidences of petroleum production.

Testing Ellenburger

Stanolind Oil & Gas Company No. 4-O University, Northwest Andrews County Ellenburger exploration, located 660 feet from north and west lines of southwest quarter of section 20, block 13, University survey, and approximately three-quarters of a mile northwest of Mid-Continent Petroleum Corporation No. 3-11 University, Ellenburger discovery on southwest side of the Fullerton field, and six miles south and east of the original lower Ordovician producer in the Fullerton field, was on total depth of 10,637 feet, in Ellenburger, taking a drillstem test.

Top of the formation was reported at 10,625 feet, which gives it a datum of minus 7,315 feet, and put it only 11 feet low on the marker to the Mid-Continent discovery.

Some indications of oil had been logged in the Ellenburger in the Stanolind prospector.

Phillips Petroleum Company No. 1-M University, in southwest quarter of section 31, block 13, University survey, northeast step-out from a Devonian discovery on the south side of the Fullerton field, flowed at rate of 372 barrels of oil per hour, in a drillstem test at 8,550-8,680 feet, and is drilling ahead. Top of the pay is at 8,297 feet, and practically all that section has shown for oil.

The Atlantic Refining Company No. 1-D-11 University, in northwest quarter of section 2, block 11, University survey, in Central Southwest Andrews County, one mile west and about one-quarter of a mile north of same company No. 1-C University, Ellenburger discovery on the southeast side of the Parker field, ran a one-hour drillstem test at 8,036-8,138 feet, in an unidentified formation. Recovery was 150 feet of slightly oil and gas cut drilling mud. The project was drilling ahead.

It had shown from flowing oil in the basal Permian and is being drilled to the lower Ordovician.

Will Test Silurian

Sun Oil Company No. 2 Martin, 1,980 feet from east and 660 feet from south lines of section 17, block A-41, psi survey, was to drill out cement, in 5 1/2-inch casing set at 8,046 feet, over plugged back total of 8,275 feet, and will test the Silurian through open hole.

That zone had indicated production when tested, while drilling was in progress.

Stanolind No. 1 Kayser, Central Ector County wildcat, in southwest corner of section 34, block 43, TP survey, T-2-S, was drilling ahead, after a one-hour drillstem test at 11,399-432 feet, in a lime and chert section, which may be Devonian.

Recovery was 150 feet of drilling mud with no shows of oil or gas. Some sources came top of the Devonian at 11,390 feet, on an elevation of 2,983 feet. That had not been confirmed at Stanolind's district office in Midland.

Phillips Petroleum Company, et al., No. 1 Eldson, Southwest Ector

County exploration, in northeast quarter of section 25, block B-15, psi survey, on northeast side of the shallow Penwell field, was on total depth of 9,020 feet, in Ellenburger lime, and was taking a drillstem test.

The section at 8,970-95 feet yielded oil and sulphur water. Results of the current test were being awaited with much interest.

East Side of Key-Ellen

J. R. Sharp and R. G. Barnes No. 2-E Crum, on east side of the Key-stone-Ellenburger field, in North Winkler County, bottomed at 9,925 feet, in Ellenburger, topped at 9,880 feet.

The producing string of pipe was cemented at 9,652 feet. After reaching total depth, operator loaded the hole with oil, and swabbed it out. In first hour after the lead had been recovered the well flowed 87 barrels of new oil. It is now being completed.

Amon Carter and The Pure Oil Company No. 13-E Walton, on northeast side of the Keystone-Ellenburger producing area, treated bottom section at 9,920-10,000 feet, with 2,000 gallons of acid. The well kicked off and flowed out the load and in the first full hour of flowing to storage produced 96.50 barrels of clean, new oil.

The project had flowing oil in two other sections up the hole. It is being completed.

Finally Finished

Sun No. 2-C Wheeler, in southeast corner of section 13, block B-7, psi survey, and on southwest side of the Wheeler-Ellenburger field, in East Winkler, completed for production of 13 barrels of oil per hour, flowing from the Ellenburger, at 10,592-640 feet.

The flow was through a 10/64th-inch tubing choke. The section had been moderately acidized. The well had potential from the Devonian for a 24-hour production of 264.64 barrels of oil, from perforations in the casing at 8,510-95 feet. It will be officially finished as a dual-completion.

About To Complete

The Atlantic Refining Company No. 1-Unit A University, Central Southwest Andrews County discovery for Ellenburger production, 1,845 feet from north and 2,035 feet from east lines of northeast quarter of section 1, block 11, University survey, one and one-quarter miles south and one mile east of nearest production from the lower Ordovician, on the south side of the Martin area, had set 7-inch production string at 9,048 feet, with 1,000 sacks of cement over total depth of 9,060 feet.

Operator will drill out the cement to above the section in the bottom which showed for sulphur water and complete through casing perforations from the saturated zones below top of the Ellenburger at 8,670 feet. That horizon had shown for a large production of oil, flowing natural, in drillstem tests.

Placid Oil Company (H. L. Hunt), and Gulf Oil Corporation No. 1 Thornberry, Central-West Andrews County exploration, in section 5, block A-42, psi survey, had reached 10,023 feet, and was drilling ahead in lime.

Drilling & Exploration Company, Inc., No. 1-D Davis, Southwest Yoakum County wildcat, in northwest quarter of section 726, block D, John H. Gibson survey, and northeast of the Jones Ranch field, in Northwest Gaines County, where the production is from the Devonian, had penetrated below 10,397 feet, in lime.

Still Making Hole

Honolulu Oil Corporation No. 9 Hovenkamp, South Yoakum exploration, in section 890, block D, John H. Gibson survey, was drilling ahead past 9,976 feet, in lower Permian lime.

Phillips Petroleum Company No. 1-E-A TXL, in northwest quarter of section 39, block 45, TP survey, T-1-S, and southeast of the TXL field, in West Ector County, had reached 11,110 feet, in sand and shale, in the Simpson, middle Ordovician, and was drilling ahead.

Stanolind Oil & Gas Company 2nd Westbrook, Thompson No. 35-A Hendrick, in southeast quarter of section 33, block 26, psi survey, about four miles west of Kermit, in West-Central Winkler County, had progressed below 10,194 feet in lime and shale.

Humble Oil & Refining Company No. 1-B G. H. Cowden, East Crane County wildcat, in southwest corner of section 14, block X, OCSD & RGN survey, had reached 7,814 feet, in lime and chert, and was drilling ahead.

Shell Oil Company, Inc., No. 1 Wilson, Sutton County prospector, in section 38, block 14, TWNG survey, was drilling ahead past 5,593 feet, in dolomite—thought by some observers to be Ellenburger.

February Production Was Below Allowable

AUSTIN —(AP)—The Railroad Commission announced Thursday that actual February crude oil production in Texas was 4,497,129 barrels under the production allowable set by the commission's February oil order.

The figure represents 7.13 per cent under production for the month. Total allowable was set at 63,077,843 barrels, but actual production was only 58,580,414 barrels.

Underproduction was 16.7 per cent in North Texas and 10.66 per cent in the Panhandle. Underproduction ranged in other districts from 2.73 per cent in East Texas to 9.88 per cent in the commission 7-B District of West Central Texas.

The Office of Malaria Control has protected approximately 1,800 war establishments in 250 areas in the United States.

New Rockets Tested in New Mexico Desert

"WAC Corporal" a 16-foot rocket, carrying stratospheric recording instruments, is lifted into position for firing at left. At right, the jet-driven rocket is fired from its platform into space for a ride of 235,000 feet. These tests are being carried out at White Sands Proving Grounds, north of El Paso in the New Mexico desert.

CONSTRUCTION STARTED ON HONOLULU BUILDING

—Construction has started on Honolulu Oil Corporation's new two-story, $150,000 office building on the northwest corner of the intersection of West Texas Avenue and North Loraine Street.

—Two of the three residences on the property have been moved to other locations and the third house will be out of the way of the construction workers early next week.

—The work of erecting the new structure is being done by Luther Bros. Construction Company, of Fort Worth, under a contract made March 16, but not officially announced until a few days ago.

—Honolulu representatives reveal that practically all material for the building was ordered several weeks ago and that commitments received regarding delivery indicate there should not be any major delays in getting the building completed.

SEVEN MORE TWO-ZONE WELLS DUE IN CRANE

—The Railroad Commission will hold a hearing in Austin on April 11 to consider application of The Atlantic Refining Company for permission to dually complete—from the Devonian, and from the Ellenburger—its wells Nos. 1-B, 1-C, 1-E, 1-F, 1-J, 1-G, and 1-K University, in the "Block 31" field in East-Central Crane County.

—Of the seven tests listed above, five of them are already drilling or testing below 10,000 feet, and the other two are nearing that level.

—Filing of official applications for the dual-completions indicate Atlantic has good reasons to believe all of them will make commercial production from both formations.

—So far there has been one Devonian Ellenburger dual-completion in the field, and one well was finished from the Devonian, without drilling below that formation.

—At the end of the week Atlantic had 17 explorations active in the field; Phillips Petroleum Company had two tests drilling on the south side of the region and Champlin Refining Company was digging another.

Kids Operate Black Market In Bubble Gum

McALLEN —(AP)—The latest black market in the Valley is in bubble gum. A McAllen distributor received a shipment, placed the gum on his counter at the regular price of one a piece. A few youngsters cornered the market by buying all he had, sold it for a dime a piece.

New Oil Explorations Are Staked In W-C Lea And In N-C Eddy Regions

HOBBS, N. M.—New oil explorations have been staked in West-Central Lea County and in North-Central Eddy County. Drilling is to start on both at once.

Lea County, No. 2 Flint, 990 feet from south and 2,310 feet from west lines of section 29-20s-34e, is the Lea County exploration. It is about two miles west of the Lynch field and is contracted to 3,500 feet.

E. Orcutt No. 2 F. E. Kepple, 1,650 feet from south and east lines of section 19-17s-27e, three and one-half miles west of closest production on the north end of the Empire field, and about seven and one-half miles east and south of Artesia, is the Eddy exploration. It is to drill to around 900 feet with a cable tool rig.

Another in Caprock Area

Deltern Oil Company No. 2-G State, 660 feet from south and east lines of section 1-13s-31e, in East Chaves County, is a new project on south side of the proven area in the two-county Caprock field.

It had drilled past 1,069 feet, in reds, and was continuing to around 3,100 feet. A string of 8 5/8-inch casing had been set at 295 feet, with 150 sacks of cement.

Humble Oil & Refining Company No. 1-B Hardison, wildcat, two and one-half miles north and slightly west of closest production on north side of the Drinkard field, in East Lea and about two miles east of Emice, completed for a 24-hour initial production of 624 barrels of oil.

One Acid Treatment

It is 1,980 feet from north and 440 feet from east lines of section 32-21s-37e. The production is from the Drinkard, lower Permian pay, through perforations at 6,420-80 feet, and at 6,500-80 feet, where 2,000 gallons of acid had been injected. Gas-oil ratio was 762-1. The oil was cut one-half of one per cent basic sediment and acid residue.

Lion Oil Company No. 1 Wylie, East Lea County wildcat, one-half mile east of closest production in southeast side of the Drinkard field, and at center of southwest quarter of northwest quarter of section 5-23s-38e, was bottomed at 8,519 feet, one and one-half feet in granite.

It was to run 5 1/2-inch casing to bottom, and follow up by testing sections in the Ellenburger below the top of the formation, at 8,396 feet, which had shown indications of possible oil and gas production, through casing perforations.

One drowning each in California and Peru completed the total.

No drillstem test was ever secured on the lower Ordovician formation. Some signs of oil stains were logged and some observers expect some sort of a producer to be developed.

Two More for Paddock

Two new producers have been developed in the Paddock field and one each has been completed in the Drinkard and in the West Roberts fields in Lea County.

Humble No. 4-S State, 660 feet from south and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 2-22s-37e, on north side of the Paddock area, tested for 43 barrels of oil per hour, flowing into tanks, after the pay at 5,115-60 feet, had been treated with 2,000 gallons of acid. The project is still in process of official completion—but is an oil well.

Neville G. Penrose, Inc., No. 2 Penrose, 2,096 feet from north and 766 feet from west lines of section 9-22s-37e, and in the same section with flowing producers from the Ellenburger, and on the north side of the area proven for production from the Holt-Permian, flowed at the rate of 102 barrels of oil per day, from pay at 5,158-68 feet, through casing perforations.

Olsen Oil Company No. 1 Boyd, 2,310 feet from north and east lines of section 23-22s-37e, and in the Drinkard field in the East Lea County multi-pay area, made an initial flowing production of 278 barrels of 38-gravity oil, per day, from pay at 6,347-6,419 feet, in the lower Permian, which had been washed with 500 gallons of acid.

In West Roberts Field

C. T. McLaughlin and Cosden Petroleum Corporation No. 2 Phillips-State, 1,980 feet from south and west lines of section 2-17s-32e, and a stepout from production in the West Roberts field, in West-Central Lea, reported a 24-hour flowing potential of 43 barrels of oil from pay in lime at 4,180-4,315 feet, which had been shot with 130 quarts of nitro.

Humble No. 1-B Federal-Leonard, Southwest Lea County exploration to the Ellenburger, in northwest quarter of section 12-26s-37e, and one-quarter of a mile north of the first producer from the lower Ordovician, in New Mexico, had reached 10,214 feet, in lime, and was drilling ahead.

Continental Oil Company No. 4-E-23 Skaggs, one location southeast of production in the Cass-Skaggs Deep field, in East Lea, and in southeast quarter of section 23-20s-37e, was testing with gas lift, over plugged back total depth of 7,585 feet, in lime.

In last test reported the well flowed 234 barrels of fluid in 19 hours. It was cut with approxi-imately 25 per cent drilling mud and fresh water, and operator was continuing to test.

Still Making Hole

Southern Union Gas Company No. 1 English, in section 26-18s-36e, Central Lea wildcat, between the Tonto and Corbin fields, had reached 4,687 feet in sandy lime, and was continuing.

Union Oil Company of California No. 1-A McMillen, South Otero County exploration, in section 9-25s-31e, had drilled below 3,463 feet in lime, and was continuing.

Southern Union No. 1 Lucas, Northwest Roosevelt County prospector, in section 5-2n-30e, has been plugged and abandoned on total depth of 7,155 feet in granite. It logged some slight shows of oil and gas—but no indications of any sort of commercial production.

Odessa Bronchos Win District Track And Field Meet

Longhorns Win Texas Relays While Abilene Takes Schoolboy Division

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
 AUSTIN—(P)—The University of Texas led the university-college-service class of the nineteenth Texas Relays Saturday but bowed to Oklahoma in producing the outstanding performer of the big track and field carnival.

Rangy Ralph Tate, the Aggies' versatile star, won both the high hurdles, in which he upset August Erforth of Rice, in 14 seconds flat, and the broad jump, in which he beat out Texas' John Robertson with a leap of 24 feet 9 5/8 inches, to be named the outstanding athlete of the meet.

There were some record-nearing performances but it again fell to the high school division to produce the only mark to go into the books when Vernon McGrew of Lamar (Houston) took the high jump with 6 feet 5 inches—three inches better than the record set in 1937 by Ted Haese, of Laveria, McGrew, who also was second in the 120-yard high hurdles was named outstanding athlete of the high school class.

Texas, which won the 100-yard dash in which Allen Lawler of Texas upset Baylor's Bill Martinson, the favorite, and the half-mile relay, rolled up 24 1/4 points as the leader of the university-college-service division. There is no official point totals in the relays but based on five for first, three for second, two for third and one for fourth, Texas was 3 1/4 points ahead of Kansas at the finish.

Kansas won only one first place—the high jump, in which Tom Scofield leaped 6 feet 6—but had one second and four thirds. Next in line was Texas A&M with 14 points. The Aggies' only first place was the mile relay which they won in 3:22 although the brilliant Desmond Kidd of Texas came from fifth place to almost nip Arthur Harnden, the A&M anchor man. Baylor won the sprint relay, Drake the distance medley, Kansas State the two-mile relay, Ward Island Naval Air Technical Training Center the sprint medley, Abilene Christian College the 880-yard relay of the college-service division, North Texas State the sprint medley of this division and George Pepperdine of Los Angeles took the mile relay of the college-service class.

Abilene Christian also won the 400-yard shuttle football relay, beating Texas, the favorite. Texas lost because a team member dropped the ball while leading the race. Fred Feiler of Drake University repeated with the 3,000 meters title, Byrl Thompson of Camp Grant, Ill., captured the shot put, Bobby Lowther of Louisiana State was first in the javelin throw, Dick Miller of Nebraska and Ted Wench of Michigan State tied for first in the pole vault and George Kadera of Randolph Field took the discus throw.

The pole vault was expected to produce a new record but Miller and Wench stopped at 13 feet, more than a foot short of the relays mark. Texas' chances of beating the football shuttle relay record went with dropping the ball. Abilene Christian College took it in 44.8, well over the record.

Lawler, in administering the first 100-yard defeat of the season to Baylor's Martinson, romped in with a time of 9.7.

Abilene Wins Division
 Abilene, which won the 440-yard relay and saw its H. D. Terry capture the 220-yard dash, wound up in first place among the high schools with 12 points. Ted Hardin was third in the 100-yard dash. Lamar (Houston) took second place with 11 points and Austin High was third with 10 while John Reagan (Houston), Thomas Jefferson (San Antonio) and Jeff Davis (Houston) all tied for fourth.

Abilene Christian College and Pepperdine tied for first in the college-service class with seven points each.

Miss Norma Stratton of Austin, sweetheart of the University of Texas, was crowned queen of the relays in ceremonies before the events started.

Title Won For Mate Who Died

By TANNER LAINE
 This story is written for Louise Synatschk, Midland High School senior, who died Thursday night following an emergency operation.

But it is a sports story for the world to read and for the sports-writer to write once in a lifetime. It has the angles of the "Cinderella Boys" of Lubbock High School who in 1939, won the Texas Schoolboy Championship with a team that wouldn't be beat because their coach died in the middle of the season after they had lost three ball games. The kids went on to win the state crown. They had always promised it to the coach. They brought it home and put it in the lap of his widow.

It has the angles of Knute Rockne and George Gipp. Gipp died while playing for "Rock" and it was years later the famous coach asked his Irishmen to win "one for the Gipper."

They did. They beat a mighty Army team, if you will remember.

Louise Was Star
 Louise Synatschk was the star of the Midland High School girls' volleyball team. The girls carried on for her Friday night at the gymnasium, sweeping to the district championship with six straight wins, beating a team, which had won the district three years in a row and which was the same veteran team to play for the title this year.

But Midland wouldn't let the trophy go this year. Just before game time, they promised to win the championship trophy for Louise and that is just what they did. They played volleyball like they had never played before. Inspired, they won six straight games for Louise—and none of the games were even close.

Here is how the girls did it. They beat Big Spring three straight, 15-3, 15-3, 15-5. They were just getting started. Up jumped Odessa, strong Odessa, the district winner three years and possessed of the same veteran team to do it again. They had beaten Midland earlier in the year.

But they couldn't do it Friday night. For the spirit of Louise Synatschk was there—right on the serve line and at the net. And they wouldn't let Louise down.

"For Louise" they mumbled every time they hit the ball. Odessa—nor any one else—could beat that kind of playing spirit if it had all the volleyball champions on its team. Midland won for Louise. The score was: 15-9, 15-5, 15-10.

Who are these "Cinderella Girls." There's Joyce Beasley, Lavena Brooks, Peggy Lands, Mary Louise Baze, Dorothy Matteson, and Katherine Chisholm.

Yes, and LOUISE SYNATSKCH. For surely she was there in spirit and played her best game.

They played their hearts out up there in Midland's gym Friday night and the city won't forget it for a long, long time.

Spring Football Training To Open Monday Afternoon

The 1946 edition of Midland High School Bulldogs open spring football practice Monday.

Suits Saturday were labeled for the boys and are ready. More than 55 boys will fill them and 25 more suits may be needed.

Coaches Barnes Milam, head man, and Earl Glassie, assistant, will direct the drills held daily on Lackey Field.

Spring practice will be a month's duration, with weekly scrimmages scheduled.

Milam invited the Midland public out to see the practice sessions.

Eleven lettermen will answer the whistle and a corps of good prospects are up from the "B" team.

Calisthenics and conditioning will require a couple of days and then the leather starts popping.

Midland Sweeps Tennis Matches

Midland tennis players made a clean sweep of matches of the district interscholastic league meet here Saturday winning boys and girls singles and doubles.

Bitsy Vertrees won over his Big Spring contestant, 7-5, 6-1, 3-6, 5-7, and 6-4 in boys singles.

Elizabeth Ann Cowden defeated a Big Spring netter, 9-7 and 6-0 in preliminaries and her opponent from Odessa withdrew in the finals. Wilbur Yeager and F. B. Hale won boys doubles, 6-3, 6-0, and 6-2, over Odessa.

Florence Larsh and Phyllis Chancellor won girls doubles over Big Spring, 6-1 and 6-4.

Seven Records Broken, Two Are Tied In Schoolboy Contests

By TANNER LAINE
 The well-balanced Bronchos from over Odessa way won the track and field meet of the district interscholastic league here Saturday, scoring 57 1/2 points. Big Spring was second with 50 1/2 points. And Midland was third with 40 points.

Records took a beating Saturday, the young athletes cracking seven of them and tying two.

Sun-tanned Dunny Goode, the Bulldog sprinter, was high-point man of the meet. He scored 15 points and popped the record in the 100-yard dash and 220-yard dash, and won the broad jump.

Dapper Byron (Santone) Townsend of Odessa was runnerup with 14 1/4 points. He broke records in the high jump and discus throw.

His prodigious toss of 120 feet in the discus was sandwiched in between high jumping and broad jumping. He won second in the broad jump. Harris of Big Spring who won second in the discus, was over the record with a toss of 117 feet, 9 inches.

Three Break Record
 Bobby Cole didn't win the 440-yard dash, his specialty, but he and the two guys, who beat him, all broke the record. Cole started fast, held it until the last 100 yards, and the three sprinters fought down to the finish line right together. The record is 55.6 seconds.

Miller of Big Spring finished in 53.6, Taylor of Odessa in 53.7 seconds and Cole in 54.2 seconds.

In the mile run, Webb of Big Spring ran a creditable 5:02 race and it broke the record of 5:18.2 held by Bobby Drake of Midland, who was second Saturday with a record 5:10.3.

The Results
 120-yard high hurdles: Kirby (Midland), first, 16.25 seconds; Williams (Big Spring), second, 16.41 seconds; Rankin (Big Spring), third, 17.1 seconds; Prickett (Midland), fourth, 17.3 seconds.
 Shot put: Harris (Big Spring), first, 41 feet; Tucker (Odessa) second, 40 feet, 3 inches; Foster (Odessa), third, 38 feet, 2 inches; Hollis (Big Spring), fourth, 37 feet, 6 inches.
 100-yard dash (tied record): Goode (Midland), first, 10:35 sec. (Continued on Page 8)

DOWN SPORTSLANE

TANNER LAINE

Master John Ray Cox, age one or about, is a little boy and he got a haircut the other day. Boy, and did he ever kick up a storm. But Johnny was a good sport after Theo Rogers, the barber, worked him over. Master John quit crying and with his grand daddy, who sponsored the occasion, shook hands with the barber.

"No hard feelings, bub," puckering Johnny's little lips mumbled or something like that. We give him the words.

The lesson is: Johnny was a good sport.

We are pretty sure Johnny's dad was a good sport before him and the grand dad. Johnny's dad could not be there. He was killed by the Japanese in the Pacific. Johnny's dad was a P-51 Mustang fighter pilot, veteran of 88 missions. On number 88 he went down and disappeared after bailing out.

We know Johnny's dad would be mighty proud of his kiddo, that little boy, who was a good sport.

The latest wrinkle in staging a golf tournament is the use of walkie-talkie radio to relay scoring to the official score boards. This will be in effect for the $15,000 Colonial National Invitation Tournament at Fort Worth May 16-19. Here goes a prospective bit of the conversation: "Hello, scorer, hello scorer, come in scorer, what is happening on number 17?" "Hello scoreboard, hello scoreboard, this is the scorer. Byron Nelson on number 17 just shot a birdie 3, and we don't mean shotgun shooting either." "This is scoreboard, Roger scorer. Byron Nelson birdie number 17. Over."

There may be other sound effects than the scores carried over the walking radio. Imagine setting the mike near a golfer, who has just pitched into a sand trap—explosions occur not only in golf strokes. We will not give you a sample of that, however. This is the Sabbath Day column.

KILROY. Now that is a name, dear to mystery. There is a fabled character in Midland by the name of KILROY. We intend asking this oracle for sports forecasts next fall and even this summer. We can see it now: KILROY predicts Midland will swamp Sweetwater. KILROY nods to Bulldogs over Odessa. And so on far into the night.

Spring Practice Opens In District 7-A Monday

MONAHANS — District 7-A football teams, their circuit strengthened with the return of McCamey, will open spring grid practice Monday.

McCamey dropped the sport at the beginning of the war because of transportation difficulties. Crane also dropped out, and the loop has been operating with only four clubs, Monahans, Wink, Kermit and Pecos.

Reports from around the circuit indicate competition will be fast and furious this fall, with Pecos listed as the main threat.

Vernon Stephens Hops Back To U. S. Baseball

HOUSTON — (AP) — Shortstop Vernon Stephens, who rejoined the St. Louis Browns Saturday after playing briefly with the Mexican Baseball League, said he rejected Saturday a new telephone offer from Jorge Pasquel to play in Mexico for $25,000 a year for five years, with $50,000 of the money to be placed in a New York bank as a guarantee.

Pasquel told him, Stephens said, that he planned to see the American ambassador to Mexico to make a formal complaint over Stephens' walkout and that he would file suit to enforce it.

"The Mexican League looks too unsettled to me—too much of a gamble," Stephens said. "I'm only 25 years old, and I should have lots of baseball ahead of me. I decided to stick to the surest thing, the big league baseball in the United States."

Frankie Lawhon And C. H. Madsen Are Wed Friday

Impressive marriage rites were solemnized at 7 p. m. Friday in the First Baptist Church for Frankie Lawhon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Gay of Corsicana, and Claron H. Madsen, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Madsen of Sholes, Neb.

Vows for the single ring ceremony were directed by the Rev. Vernon Yearby, pastor, as the bridal couple stood before the altar decorated with baskets of white gladioli.

Preceding the ceremony Miss Edith Conyers sang "At Dawning" and was accompanied at the organ by Mrs. Joe Mims. "Always" was played by Mrs. Mims as musical background during the ceremony. Other music included traditional wedding selections.

The bride chose an aqua blue wool jersey street length dress with which she wore a small black straw hat designed with a veil, and other accessories of black. She carried a white Bible and completing her attire was a wristlet of gardenias.

Mrs. R. L. Grubb attended her sister as matron of honor. She wore a black dress and cherry coker accessories. Her corsage was of white carnations.

Upon their return to Midland, Mr. and Mrs. Madsen will make their home at 705 West Kentucky. He is with Maxwell Butane Company in Odessa.

King Size Roses Bloom This Spring

By EPSIE KINARD
NEA Staff Writer

NEW YORK—Shaming the prize-winners of the Ladies' Garden Club in size are the cabbage roses that bloom this spring on little black dresses.

Printed on fabric, the cabbage rose in shock colors is so spectacularly sized that there's room for only one or two on a dress. What take up more space are green leaves, also giant-sized, and sometimes a stem that looks a yard long.

The spacing of one or two flower motifs, such as these, by textile craftsmen and the manipulation of the pose by the dress-designer to give it the proper setting are two triumphs of Yankee know-how.

But whatever the struggle through the dye vats, printing presses or cutting boards may have been, it doesn't show in the finished fashion, as the dresses pictured prove.

At left, a red cabbage rose on one shoulder balances another on the opposite hip of a black crepe afternoon dress. The news, besides mammoth blossoms printed on fabric, is an illusion silhouette—the appearance of more skirt length achieved by skillful draping.

Background for one huge, pink rose and its accompanying foliage, planted at the waist, is provided in a plain, round-necked black crepe dress, shown right. But this Miss America original also makes back talk in a bare midriff and a halter-style neckline.

Lancaster Home Scene For Play Readers Club Tea

One of the highlights of the spring entertainment season was a delightful tea Saturday afternoon held at the home of Mrs. N. A. Lancaster, 1705 West Indiana. This was the annual tea sponsored by the Play Readers Club.

Entertaining rooms were attractive with bouquets of colorful seasonal blossoms.

Featured on the program for the afternoon was a reading of the play "The Hasty Heart" by John Patrick presented by Mrs. W. T. Schneider.

The author was en route to the States from the Burma front when he wrote "The Hasty Heart" and the majority of it written aboard a ship. He had been serving with the American Field Service as a captain and was attached to the British Army while overseas.

After running into difficulties with censorship regulations, Patrick's play was produced by Lindsay and Crouse. It was not easy for the producers to cast this play as they had trouble finding a young actor who could produce a deep Scotch burr without appearing ridiculous. They found such a man in Richard Basehart who gave such a convincing portrayal in the lead role that he won immediate popularity in "The Hasty Heart" which played a long run.

Guests registered in the book presided over by Mrs. Wallace Irwin. On display during the afternoon was the club scrapbook containing clippings of club activities since its organization. In the book were reviews of popular plays and other interesting accounts.

The dining table was covered with a French cutwork Joan of Arc cloth. A color scheme of peach and blue was predominate in the centerpiece of spring flowers which was flanked with peach colored tapers in silver holders. Pale blue napkins harmonized with the floral arrangement. Silver table appointments completed the table setting.

Mrs. Fred H. Fuhrman and Mrs. J. Howard Hodge poured during the social hour.

Approximately 80 guests and the following members were present: Mmes. W. E. Anguish, Ralph Barron, E. H. Barron, John P. Butler, DeLo Douglas, Fuhrman, Hodge, Irwin, Charles Klapproth, Robert Midrow, III, William Y. Penn, Robert Roark, W. T. Schneider, R. D. Scruggs, J. E. Beakley, T. R. Parker, Carl McAdams, Harvey Herd and Wilmer Stowe.

Add up the score! There is no doubt that we are VASTLY better off than citizens of governments that are wholly or partially "socialistic."

American doctors, under our unhampered democratic system, have made more progress in raising the level of health and disease prevention, than in all the centuries before. There are vast fields of scientific and curative medicine yet to be conquered. Midland Easter Seal Sale To Be Sponsored By Service League

The annual Easter Seal is a bright herald of spring. It is pleasant to see and a satisfaction to know that each time a citizen puts one of these cheerful labels on a letter he helps crippled children and encourage others to help, too.

A less painful way of giving could hardly be conceived—nor a more effective one—for pennies, dimes and dollars accumulate into funds which provide needed services. And this widespread giving by those who wish new life and hope for crippled children means that there is a great group of sponsoring friends back of the organization dedicated to the crippled.

For 25 years the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults has coordinated programs of service to meet unfulfilled needs of crippled children and adults together with its affiliated state societies, one of which is the Midland Children's Service League.

Various Services Rendered
Nationally, these services have varied from bedside teaching to equipping special school rooms, or supplying corrective shoes, braces, crutches and wheel chairs not otherwise provided. They have included transportation to clinics, surgical and convalescent care when needed. Camping, with special physical equipment and programs, is developed for crippled children in many states. Occupational therapy for the homebound, sheltered workshops and employment placement services for the severely handicapped are special adults' services now increasing throughout the state societies. In many societies, work for the cerebral palsy child is receiving special emphasis.

Public spirited citizens who wish these valid needs filled participate by the purchase of Easter Seals, which provide funds for services to the crippled under the direction of the state societies and the national society.

Clothes Perfectionist Has Smartness

JOAN CRAWFORD: Anchors posies.

ALEXIS SMITH: Super-ensemble.

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer
Be a "perfectionist" about your clothes—their ensembling, fit and smartening up—and your looks will reflect the infinite care that you take.

Milo Anderson, Hollywood studio designer, says it's this painstaking care the stars take to perfect their looks which helps put across their box-office appeal.

Joan Crawford, he says, likes out-of-the-ordinary tricks of tying in her costume effects. To integrate flowers into a costume, for example, she has twin slits cut and buttoned into a suit jacket especially to give anchorage to the stems of her posies.

Alexis Smith's super-ensembling is another case in point, Anderson cites. If her suit lapels are faced with contrasting taffeta, that trimming is Alexis' cue for a matching hat or a snood. This idea—or variations played upon it—is a good one to remember when you want to make your suit and your accessories look as though they were made for each other.
Stars who want to score wardrobe hits are just as exacting about the fit of their clothes, says Anderson, citing the self-originated Jane Wyman trick of snapping shoulder pads to her slip-straps for wear under sweaters. Jane also snaps pads in her lingerie straps for wear with play clothes which don't come equipped with shoulder-building devices.
Rounded Waistline
To keep slim skirts from buckling across her hips, Joan Crawford has the waistline rounded in the back as much as three inches. This trick—it's particularly helpful if your skirt is topped by a brief jacket—is a good one to use for minimizing hip curves. Joan's idea of weighting her hemlines to make them hang as evenly as a carpenter's level is also one to add to your own repertoire.
So is Alexis Smith's pet trick of sewing a hooked tab fore and aft to the hems of her shirtwaist blouses. Hooked to thread loops sewed into slips, these anchors keep tuck-ins where they belong.
At the close of the Seven Years' War (1763), France ceded to Great Britain all her territory east of the Mississippi except New Orleans and Spain ceded Florida to Great Britain.

74 American Red Cross Workers Lose Lives In Overseas Service

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Seventy-four American Red Cross workers lost their lives overseas and 182 received military and civilian decorations in World War II, it was announced by Basil O'Connor, national chairman. The totals are calculated as of March 15.

"These Red Cross people died, not only in the service of their country, but in direct and unselfish service to the individual men of the American armed forces in every war theater," said O'Connor. "The girl who was killed by a bomb at the Anzio Beachhead in Italy, the field director killed by mortar fire in Manila, and the others who died on foreign duty symbolize the ideal of the American Red Cross."

O'Connor disclosed that Red Cross medals would be awarded posthumously to any workers "who died in the service of the American Red Cross during the second World War and as a result of such service."

The highest military award earned by Red Cross personnel during the war was the Silver Star "for gallantry in action." The three recipients were James P. Shaw, West Haven, Conn., Richard M. Day, Kirkwood, Mo., and John P. Ramsey, North Columbus, Miss.

The President's Medal for Merit was awarded to Harvey D. Gibson,

American Red Cross commissioner in the European Theater of Operation from 1942 to 1945, and to Stanton Griffiths, who served similarly in the Pacific Ocean Area from September, 1944, to July, 1945.

Other awards include: 93 Bronze Stars and 32 Medals of Freedom for outstanding services, 15 Purple Hearts, two of them to women. Foreign decorations have come from British, Italian, Polish, and Belgian governments, including the Italian Cross of Military Valor to Esther Richards, the first American Red Cross woman to lose her life through enemy action. Eighteen civilian war relief workers were awarded the Philippine Liberation Ribbon "to express the profound gratitude of the Filipino people for their liberation from the Japanese."

Make This Home Recipe To Take Off Ugly Fat

It's simple. It's amazing, how quickly one may lose pounds of bulky, unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this recipe yourself. It's easy—no trouble at all and costs little. It contains nothing harmful. Just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of liquid Barcolate (formerly called Barcol Concentrate). Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Then take two tablespoonsful twice a day. That's all there is to it. If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't just seem to disappear almost like magic from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow the easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

High school debaters all over the nation are using this subject for 1946 contests.

Nicknames Become All-School Famous

Nicknames seem to be quite a fad in Midland High School. Most students are more familiar with these nicknames than they are with the real names of the students involved.

A few of them are: "Ears" Edwards, "Dunny" Goode, "Dumpy" Droppelman, "Queeny" Cleveland, "Deagle" King, "Puddin'" Sivalls, "Lizzie" Cowden, "Mummy" Cowgen, "Rabbit" Velvin, "Bits" Vertrees, "Buddy" Anguish, "Willie" Lathrop, "Maggie" Goddard, "Muscles" Hall, "Wilburger" Yeager, "Flossy" Larsh.

Also: "Tiny" Brown, "Teeny" Denton, "Big Boy" Davis, "Jake" McNeal, "Marty" Murray, "Lou Lou" Arrington, "Footsie" Tull, "Little Hunch" Morrison, "Stumpy" Rountree, "Becky" Bird, "Casey" Casselman, "Blacky" Kidwell, "Top" Hale, "Sandy" Brown, "Red" Scroggins, "Hubba" Hubbard, "Killer" Anderson, and "Vangie" Theis.

Although Van Cummings is 6' 4" and Jimmy Allison is 4' 11", each is called "Monster."

Who's Who — Marilyn

Marilyn Miller

The associate editor of the Bulldog and Maggie (Margaret's inner-self) in the play "Overtones" is the blonde, green-eyed, 5-foot 7-inch senior, Marilyn Miller.

Marilyn made her entrance into the world Jan. 24, 1929, in Shreveport, La., where she lived for five months. Her adventures then turned to Roswell for seven years and Hobbs for four. At last she ended up in Midland where she has spent these last five years.

Marilyn takes physics, journalism, senior English, trigonometry, and belongs to the Sub-Deb Club. She is most comfortable in sport clothes, preferably green, and enjoys eating anything not on her diet. Her favorite actor is Bing Crosby with Ingrid Bergman favorite among actresses. She says, "My ideal boy has height, brown eyes, dark hair, and—oh well, you know." Her favorite radio program and song is the Kraft Music Hall (with Bing Crosby, naturally) and "Oh What It Seemed to Be."

Most of the time Marilyn can be heard saying, "I guess you all know—" since it ranks first among her expressions. Her hobby and pastime run along the same line—running around with the girls. Her favorite sport is football.

Marilyn plans to enter Oklahoma Woman's College this fall with chemistry as her major. This ties in with her secret ambition—to be a laboratory technician.

Second Year Girls Study Child Care

The second year clothing classes visited the hospital Thursday to see the babies. The classes have just finished studying child care and are beginning a study of dressing babies. Each girl will make a baby dress for some child she knows.

The first year girls started making summer dresses Monday. Each student will make either a sundress or a school dress of cotton.

The third year girls finished their special occasion dresses last week, and are studying accessories to be worn with them.

'Overtones' Given, Steak Fry Planned At Club Meetings

The Dramatics Club, supervised by Miss Verna Harris, served as an audience as "Overtones," the contest one-act play, was presented at club meeting Wednesday. This play is about two women and their inner-selves. Each is working for something the other woman possesses. The cast includes: Harriet (the outer-self), Billye Jean Jones; Hetty (the inner-self), Marylee Cowden; Margaret (the guest), Joan Chapman; and Maggie (her inner-self), Marilyn Miller.

Stamp Club

The Stamp Club held its regular meeting Wednesday in Room 108, with Mrs. George Philipps as sponsor. The group played a stamp game directed by Charles Shepard in which Dewayne Fritz, president, was the winner.

Refreshments of "Eskimo Pies" and soda-pop were served by Reta Livingston and at the end of the meeting the members exchanged stamps.

Party April 13

The Typing Club met Wednesday to discuss the final plans for the steak fry which is to be given April 13 at Cloverdale. It was decided that the members of the typing and shorthand team be invited and each one is to bring a guest. Transportation will be by bus.

After the business meeting, Mrs. Grace Hine, sponsor, gave a five-minute time test.

Refreshments of drinks and cookies were served.

Study Trees

Betty Joyce Gerald, vice-president, presided at the Science Club meeting Wednesday, when John Richardson discussed principles of landscaping and the care and treatment of tree diseases. Following the discussion, the club voted to go on a field-trip to Minute Inn.

Reporter Elected

At the business meeting of the Home-Making Club, Wednesday, Lady Kidwell was elected reporter to take the place of Joyce Adams who moved to San Marcus.

After the business meeting was over the club played "Gossip." The club closed the meeting by singing their club song.

Seniors Study Book About Their Grades

"Your High School Record—Does It Count?" a book by Robert D. Falk, state high school supervisor of the South Dakota Department of Public Instruction, is being studied in the senior English classes. The book answers the question, "Does it make any difference what kind of record I make in high school?"

The author has compiled into this book cartoons, quoted material, copies of rating applications of different companies, and editorial comments about the subject.

A picture cartoon, "Your High School Record—Does It Count?" is in the library. A different cartoon is displayed each day.

It Pays to Advertise.

One Day Out Equals Five Points Off

(An Editorial)
 "Let's see. The way I have it figured, I should be able to make a C, at least, this six weeks."
 Around the end of a six weeks, hopeful words such as these are voiced by many a student. But let's see what happened.

"Here's my card. Wait a minute! This says a D. I KNOW I should have made a C. What caused that?"

Upon a further investigation, this disappointed person could have found that his name was beside a minus five mark for an unexcused absence. Just one day's "playing around" gave this person a much lower grade.

Now put yourself in his shoes. Do you want a lower grade because you are "getting tired of school"? It's not very long til school is over—so stick it out!

Small Talk

Monday—School closed! Out for the day! Teachers dived under chairs to avoid being hit by books as students and books went flying out of the windows. Ice cream, cake, and soda pop were served on the school lawn. Also balloons, bubble gum, and candy were distributed by Mr. Howell. Of course, you know this is too good to be true in MHS, but what do you expect of us April Fools? Aren't we devious?

Tuesday—Whew! April fool is over and no casualties. Oops! Spoke too soon. Crash! Bang! Boom! went the debate students in assembly. They speedily clubbed each other black and blue with words; To have or not to have military training—that was the question.

Wednesday—They were all black and blue, with a touch of gold. No, we don't mean some of our inmates got mutilated. It's just that the juniors finally sent off their orders for rings, after many hours of debate as to which they would order.

Spring house cleaning has finally come. The Journalism class got industrious and cleaned out its room. The window blew and the dust flew, as we ended the day with clubs. (Not baseball bats, just clubs.)

Thursday—Well, here it is Thursday already, and some of the senior themes are still drifting in. Now we know why some of our inmates have been absent from school lately.

Some of ye old students are suffering from what they call the "ilt-a-whirl, swinging swing blues". In other words students are suffering from too much carnival life. See, our homework doesn't cause it all!

Friday—Oh boy! I'm glad the lights went out last night. I didn't know how to get that geometry anyway! The second period study hall almost trampled itself to death trying to see who could get to the window first as burning paper, ashes and smoke flew past the window. They finally thought someone had "ilt the match", but it was only the trash fire that got out of bounds! Too bad! Thus ended another abominable week.

Can't think . . . brain's numb . . . inspiration won't come . . . worse pen . . . Yours forever . . . Amen!

At the beginning of the 16th Century, the territory included in the present state of Mississippi was inhabited by three powerful native tribes: the Natchez, the Choctaws, and the Chickasaws.

April 1 Brings Varied Fools Day Wisecracks

"No more lessons or tests until the end of school!"
 "Oh, I'm moving to New York City next year? Haven't you heard?"
 These are a few of the statements that met the students of Midland High School on the "pre-historic" April 1, better known as "April Fool."

As one walked down the halls, he could hear much chattering and clapping and then some ohs and ahs as students walked into their classes and were informed they were to have an unusually hard test. They dragged out their paper and ink; a deep chuckle; and then all of a sudden hysterical laughs emitted from the students. They realized that it was April 1. So they yelled out joyfully, "April Fool!" but the teacher smugly smiled and said—April Fool we will have a test.

Aubra Nooncatser got cooperation out of his English class when he told them they would have no more tests until school was out. He gently but firmly then yelled, "April Fool!" The clapping immediately ceased and students vowed they would get revenge.

While working cautiously down the halls, one vainly looked for such booby traps as a purse on a string or a dummy lying dead in a corner.

But all things taken into consideration, Midland High School had a calm April 1.

The per cent of each class is as follows: Carden, 304, 11 per cent; Stuart, 306, 15; Harris, 101, 11; Craig, 202, 13; Jackson, 204, 23; Howard, 307, 78; Muirhead, 108, 0; Hine, 208, 11; Lowe, 305, 14; Weaver, 310, 44; Magee, 107, 2; Moore, 109, 12; Philipps, 102, 100; Klapproth, 206, 88; Miley, 205, 38; and Edwards, 309, 33.

MHS Janitresses Go On Wild Spree

The building stood quietly and peacefully then suddenly a thick fog rose from it. Had there been a noise we might have thought the chemistry class had done it again. What was it?

Well, the journalism class started a cleaning campaign Wednesday afternoon that spread like wildfire through the building. The campaign started on third floor and within an hour the first and second floors were cleaning, too.

Amid a scattering of pails, mops, brooms, dust pans, paper towels, and dust cloths and people sprawling on the floor we could barely get around to see how nice the clean trophy cases and bulletin boards looked. Everything was cleaned. Books were dusted, windows and blackboards washed, and floors were mopped.

The reason for all this energy and elbow grease was the visitors the school had Friday and Saturday attending the District Interscholastic League Contests here.

Monta Jo Glass was walking down the hall with a mop swung on her shoulder. She turned around to speak to a passing friend and hit Harlan Howell, principal, who had just walked up behind her, in the head with it. (She got away with it, too.)

All's well that ends well and the students who cleaned for Miss Ruth Carden found they had not worked in vain. She served cold drinks when they were through. Nice, huh!

3,213 Scholastics Enumerated April 1

The school census on April 1 showed 3,213 pupils in Midland, according to Supt. Frank Monroe.

Any family living in Midland on March 1 should be on this roll.

Parents who have children going to school elsewhere and who will be in school in Midland this fall are asked to contact the superintendent if they have not been enumerated.

Parents who have six year old children who have not been counted are asked to contact school authorities.

TRIM SUIT IS HELP FOR JOB EFFICIENCY

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

Wear the trim, precisely tailored suit, if you are a working woman and it helps you to forget what you have on. A suit is the American woman's uniform which speaks with authority and makes for efficiency on a job, at a committee meeting, on a charity drive.

"But peel it off when work is over," begs Rita Hayworth. "A man wants to squire around a belle, not a little tailored woman."

What's more, she insists, a little excitement in clothes, after toiling all day, is an escape for a woman.

By slipping into a very feminine dress, a tailored-suit girl can change the rhythm of her working day and her mood, says Rita. "She can change her personality by freeing curls from the confinement of a snood, tucking flowers into her hair, draping a shimmering scarf around her head, and dabbing on a sirenish perfume," concludes the actress.

Senate Passes Bill To Curb Petrillo

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The Senate passed Saturday and sent to the White House legislation designed to curb the powers of James C. Petrillo, head of the AFL Musicians Union, over radio broadcasting.

By a 47 to 3 vote, to approve a re-draft of the original bill, already cleared by the House 186 to 16.

The measure provides penalties of up to a year's imprisonment and a $1,000 fine for use of force, threats or intimidation intended to compel broadcasters to:

1. Hire more persons than they need;
2. Pay money to a union or person for services not performed;
3. Halt foreign programs or any type of non-commercial, educational or cultural program;
4. Pay unions for using phonograph records, or pay again for sending out a transcription of a program previously broadcast.

City Police To Check On Speed Of Taxicabs

Police Chief Jack Ellington said Saturday that city police will begin checking this week on taxicabs to enforce a city ordinance requiring the vehicles to have governors reducing their speed to a maximum of 40 miles per hour.

The governors will be installed on the cabs, and each will be tested by police to make certain they cannot exceed the maximum speed as set forth in the ordinance.

It's Figure Tapering Time

Unsheath your slim waist and hips from superfluous paddings of flesh, if you want (literally) to cut a figure in Easter finery. Remember that it took weeks of winter inactivity to build up those pads, and it will take as much time to exercise them off.

Actress Anna Lee, obliged to taper down for her role in "O Mistress Mine," the Broadway hit, says it took four weeks before she could slip back into a size 10 dress. She gave 30 minutes a day to exercise. Broke it up in two 15-minute stints, one each taken before breakfast and dinner.

Want her routine? Here it is, starting off with the waistline whittler.

Stand up with hands on hips. To the count of four: bend forward on one; swing and bend right on two; swing and bend backward on three; and swing and bend left on four. Come back to original position, and go the rounds again four times. Then reverse, and repeat four times more. Plan to make even more circles as you progress each day.

For the second waistline reducer, stand up with arms outstretched without bending knees, lean forward and touch the left toe with the right hand, then returning to upright position, the right toe with the left hand. Alternate, making ten touch-downs on each side. Increase the number each day.

Now for the hips. To roll off bulges lie flat on the floor with arms resting beside you, palms down, legs straight. Now, swing left leg over right leg until the big toe of the left foot touches the floor—a twist that gives you a good hip roll. Bring the leg back to position, and give the right leg and foot a similar swing, working up momentum as you roll. Begin with five swings on each side, and increase that count.

For hip exercise number two, lie stretched out on floor on left side with left arm outstretched, right arm placed in front of you for bracing your body. Slightly raise legs from floor—keeping the upper part of your body glued to it—and move legs scissors fashion. That is, one leg swings forward while the other swings backward. Turn to right side, and go through the same motions, swinging legs 15 times at first and daily increasing the count.

First Baptist -

New music and education director of the First Baptist Church in Tyler, Matthews formerly served as educational director of the Midland church and in the First Baptist Church in El Paso.

Lieutenant Jones is now on terminal leave from the U. S. Navy. He is a graduate of Oklahoma Baptist University with a major in music. He served three years in the South Pacific and recently returned home. Lieutenant Jones plans to enter Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth in September. He has done servicemen's work in Christian centers on the West Coast and at several islands in the South Pacific. He is considered one of the outstanding gospel pianist in the Southwest.

Delegation -

District officers are: Mrs. R. S. McCracken, Marfa, president; Mrs. Epley, Midland, first vice president; Mrs. J. C. Orgain, El Paso, second vice president; Mrs. A. L. Baugh, Marfa, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Morelock, Alpine, and Mrs. Orgain, appointed board members; and Mrs. J. M. Montgomery, Fort Stockton, parliamentarian.

Opening session was an executive board meeting Monday after which a dinner honoring past presidents and officers was held. Guest speaker was Dr. H. W. Morelock, president emeritus of Sul Ross College. Introductions were made by Mrs. Morelock.

The tables were attractively decorated for the dinner. Centering the speakers' table was an arrangement of sweetpeas and stock in shades of deep pink. Matching candles interspersed streamers of lace fern. Placecards were of native scenes around Alpine, handpainted by a Sul Ross art class.

Registration began Tuesday morning and was followed with the official opening of the convention. Among the officers' reports was that presented by Mrs. Epley of Midland.

Mrs. Hodge Presides

Mrs. Hodge presided at the luncheon meeting featuring a program on the theme "International Relations." Guest speaker was Mrs. Taylor. Sul Ross women again made the tables attractive with unusual decorations. The main table was centered with a bouquet of purple iris, lilacs and white stock. Similar arrangements were used on the other tables. Mounted snapshots of scenes near Alpine were used as plate markers.

In giving her talk Mrs. Taylor emphasized the following phases: "No country arises above the level of its motherhood." "The day of a club who is just going to study is past" and "our state department gives great credit to women of the country for the success of the organization of the UN."

During the afternoon a youth conservation panel was conducted by Mrs. O. M. Bunton with Sul Ross students assisting. Several of the main points brought out by the students were: They wanted their parents to act their age, and they also expected discipline and favored independence.

After visiting the college art exhibit, a courtesy tea was held in Lawrence Hall on the campus observing the tenth birthday of the district. This entertainment was also in honor of Mrs. McCracken, present president, and the following past presidents: Mrs. T. Y. Casey, Pecos; Mrs. Morelock, Alpine; Mrs. J. C. Cunningham, Fort Stockton; Mrs. Hodge, Midland; and Mrs. L. C. Brite, Marfa, life member. Presidents' Tea

At the tea past presidents lighted two candles on the birthday cake representing their tenure of office and made wishes for the district organization. Mrs. Hodge who served three years, lighted a candle for each year she served. The large white iced cake was decorated with morning glories of pink, green and yellow. Ribbon and tulle encircled the cake.

A procession of board members, past presidents, distinguished guests and 32 club presidents highlighted the meeting Tuesday evening which was directed by Mrs. Epley, Midland women in the procession were Mrs. Ernest Sidwell, Ernest Neill, M. S. Dickerson, Nelson Puett and B. R. Schabarum.

Mrs. Scott spoke on "Youth Conservation," a carry-over from the previous administration. She also gave facts on the $50,000 endowment fund to carry on the general operation of the state clubhouse. In concluding her discussion, Mrs. Scott spoke on the Clara Driscoll Memorial and the Eighth District scholarship fund which are available through the federation at Sul Ross State Teachers College and College of Mines in El Paso.

Mrs. Scott's new project is a permanent county record for war veterans.

Wednesday morning the business session was held and at noon luncheon was served at the First Methodist Church. Tulips and tallman roses were used in decorating the speakers table and on the others were centerpieces of spring flowers and individual cups of pansies.

STUDIED CRYSTALS

Pierre Curie made many experiments on the electrical properties of crystals under different conditions, and found that certain crystals changed slightly in size when subjected to certain electro-static strains. Citizens Urged To Stop Burning Trash In City

Because of an increasing number of fires, the Midland Fire Department and city officials Saturday joined in requesting and urging Midland citizens to stop burning trash in barrels or in the open.

In addition to the threat of serious fires from burning trash, Fire Marshal W. F. Prothro pointed out, there is the danger of accident from the frequent calls made by the fire trucks.

During the first three months of the year 47 calls were answered by the fire department, and 21 of these were directly attributed to the burning of trash. The majority of the 21 calls were made in recent weeks.

Only 10 of the 47 calls involved insurance losses. Most of the fires were small and were caused by carelessness, Prothro said.

All normal accumulations of trash and refuse will be hauled by city trucks to the dumping ground and disposed of under the city's supervision, Prothro said.

Sellers Enters Race For Texas Governor

AUSTIN—(AP)—Attorney General Grover Sellers announced Saturday he would be a candidate for governor in this summer's Democratic primary.

Sellers, 53, entered public life at the age of 23 as a justice of the peace in Hopkins County and subsequently became a district judge, justice of the Court of Civil Appeals, and attorney general. He said he thought his legal training, his experience as a farmer and a school teacher, qualified him for the post.

He became an assistant attorney general under Gerald C. Mann in 1940, then first assistant. He was appointed attorney general by Gov. Coke R. Stevenson in December, 1943, when Mann resigned.

Sellers said he did not want to comment now on his statement of two months ago that he would not run if Stevenson was going to be a candidate.

Tea was first used in China in the belief that it had medical properties.

About 400 Cows Tested For TB

Approximately 400 cows had been tested Saturday in the first week of a county-wide cattle tuberculosis testing program being undertaken by the U. S. Department of Agriculture in cooperation with the Livestock Sanitary Committee of Texas. More than 600 owners of other cattle have requested the check be made, M. Graham Smoot, acting director of the City-County Health Unit, said.

About 90 per cent of Midland County's cows were given the tests when the same program was carried out here three years ago. The county is enabled to hold its standing as a modified accredited tuberculosis-free area as a result of the tests.

No charge is made for the checking of cattle, but owners must provide assistance in handling their cows and must pen them for the tests. The program is open to all cattle owners. Licensed veterinarians of the federal agency are conducting the tests.

You see, milk has been used as a beauty aid since Biblical times. . . Queens of old have used it, beauties of today bathe in it . . . so it's about time we have it incorporated by a secret chemical process in beauty creams and cosmetics, isn't it?

The Mary Ann Shoppe positively enthuses about it's extra beneficial qualities, and it seems to me with such a dry climate working havoc on your skin, you gals need just such a beauty aid!

YOU WILL ALL BE GLAD to hear the Kings are soon to be back in business! Back to serve you the same fine foods they used to serve. . . And back in a new exclusive Drive-In you've always wanted Midland to boast of!

The building is the new Californian style, glass bricked front establishment you've seen going up at 401 W. Wall. The Kings' fine reputation will continue once more withummy sandwiches, ice cold drinks and Bar-B-Que as you like it!

MADE IN TEXAS by Texans. . . Lovely for your home. . . Glowing hues to blend "perfecto" with any general color scheme. . . The new Vitreous China line recently received by the Midland Furniture and Hardware Co., certainly deserves your attention!

These china vases, ice pitchers, ash trays and flower bowls are not to be confused with potteries. . . The "glow" is all their own . . . colors are gold, white and blue. . . come in many graceful shapes and sizes. . . You'll want these charming patterns for your home.

YOU'LL FIND every record on the honor roll of the nation's top tunes, at Wemple's next door to the Post Office . . . and by the best bands too.

I understood there was an acute shortage of really good records, but you'd never think it to see their marvelous selection. For instance: "Oh What It Seemed To Be", by Spivak, "Personality" by Johnny Mercer, and "You Won't Be Satisfied", by Perry Como! Of course there's an excellent stock of classics too. . . Yes, Wemple's is just full of music! Ph. 1000.

HER HIGHNESS—"Queen Cold Wave" is getting quite worried at the growing popularity of her Lady-In-Waiting, "Kooler Wave". Yes, Ma'am, The American Beauty Shop, out on W. Wall, was telling me they've had such success with their Kooler Waves that there's just been praises . . . not a complaint one!

In explanation: The machineless Kooler Wave has 4 different solutions . . . your type is found, and combined with the expert knowledge of this shop's ops, each machineless is a thrilling success!

I LIST "David The King" by Gladys Schmitt, a "must" for Lenten season! The author revives the beautiful Biblical story of the handsome young David, who soothed a mad king Saul with his music and became a great courtier.

Romances, intrigues, involvements and thrills galore in this deeply moving and delightful tale!

The Book Stall, Nat. Bank Bldg., has this and all other current best reading in their rental library just awaiting your selection . . . rates are low—15c and 10c for 3 days with 3c minimum thereafter.

EASTER GREETING — cards styled by Gibson! Sounds good . . . and they are good . . . good enough to eat (if your appetite runs to glass and gold fritters, colored sand and sachet, that is!).

Nonsense aside, these cards are found at Ray Gwyn's Office Supply, on W. Wall, and you can't help but find exactly what you want in their beautiful and varied selection.

Darling comics . . . sentimental beauties and even suede finish Bunny cards for children, are included.

See Gwyn's tomorrow . . . mind you, mail 'em early!

FOR MOST OF US — a paint brush holds charm . . . and little wonder when we see the magic results! It's especially fun if you use the Firestone paints (the only paint with a written guarantee on the can), for it creates a new enduring beauty for your home.

It's a paint that hides the surface so completely, that more surface can be covered in a single than with the usual paints. . . and less used too! See your local Firestone dealer for the paint that's more uniform . . . more lasting.

REAL TEXAS COFFEE drinkers will be interested to know the new Colin's Cafe, South Main, is serving the best coffee your reporter has sipped in Midland! Being an old coffee drinker myself, I scurried around with my palate palpitating until I found my new "coffee station"—Colin's Cafe!

There's nothing so "soul-satisfying" as an excellent cup of coffee, so while Easter shines, stop by Colin's for this refreshing beverage. They serve it iced too at the same price of 5c. . . Also good foods.

Easter's Coming!

New Floral Shop Opening Monday

Announcement is made of the opening Monday of a new floral shop for Midland at 407 West Wall Street. The business will be known as McDonald-Nelson Florists. Mrs. Virginia E. Nelson and Neal H. McDonald, who will operate the shop, plan to erect a large greenhouse here as soon as materials are available. McDonald has operated a small greenhouse here for the past two years and has specialized in yard and house plants. Prior to his connection with the oil industry in 1937 he was for several years associated with his father in the floral and nursery business at Cleburne. He is well known in oil circles, as he was connected with the Shell Oil Company from 1937 to 1944 and with Hunt Oil Company from 1944 to April 1 of this year. Mrs. Nelson came to Midland in July, 1941, and has been employed by several oil companies here. She has been associated with the oil industry since 1929. She recently returned from Fort Worth where she studied floral work under the supervision and instruction of one of the Southwest's leading florists. She has previous study in art and decoration.

Cows In Clover, Profits Ain't Hay —

Raising Of Livestock Is Just Lazy Man's Work

—SO SAYS ALABAMA ANIMAL HUSBANDMAN OF SOUTH'S INDUSTRY

West Texas cattlemen, their faces weatherbeaten and their hands calloused and toughened almost to the consistency of leather by years of hard work, may be surprised to learn their labor and worries have all been in vain.

There's no work—absolutely none—to livestock production, and as for worries, there's no reason for them. So says J. C. Grimes, head animal husbandman of the Auburn experimental station of Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

Grimes says the formula for livestock raising is simple: you just buy some land and some cattle, put the cattle on the land, find an easy chair, sit back and count your profits.

The South's Way

That's the way it works in the South, and that section is preparing to compete with the Midwest and Southwest in livestock production, according to Grimes, who is quoted in an AP Newsfeatures dispatch from Auburn. West Texas cattlemen are not, however, expected to pull up their stakes, climb on their bronchos, and start toward the land of magnolias and lackadaisical cattle-raising.

The Reporter-Telegram presents the article, by Henry Lesesne of The Associated Press, and prepares to hear from those should-be-lazy stock men who don't agree with it.

AUBURN, Ala. — Call it, if you will, a lazy man's way of farming, but the South has turned from its one-crop economy to livestock production by using lines of least resistance.

The formula is simple: You buy up non-productive worn out land at a few dollars an acre. You don't do any work, yet you build up the land and at the same time net $16 a year on every acre—and it's done with cattle without buying corn. The cattle simply graze.

A demonstration now in progress at the Auburn experimental station of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute is especially adapted to the South, but J. C. Grimes, head animal husbandman, says it could be modified for use elsewhere.

How Land Is Planted

Ten acres support four cows with two and a half acres allotted per cow. Of the acres-per-cow, one acre of lespedeza is grazed from April to October or November; one acre of kudzu affords temporary grazing and winter feed; a half-acre of manganeze bur clover is followed by grain sorghum for winter feed.

All of the crops are soil-improving legumes, except the grain sorghum, which is the only one requiring cultivation.

The calves are dropped in the fall, weaned in July, fed three pounds of cottonseed meal per head daily for 60 days, and then sold.

Netting $16 Per Acre

How does the $16 an acre come in? Last year $22 an acre was realized from the sale of cattle. Six dollars was spent for fertilizer and the cottonseed meal.

However, economists point to great obstacles to be overcome before the South ever can compete with the Midwest in livestock production.

High prices have been only one factor in the growth of the Southern livestock industry. Stock improvement, development of millions of acres of improved pastureland and creation of local markets have been others.

To get an idea of what is happening, consider a state like Alabama. While learning to produce the same amount of cotton on half the acreage it has in five years expanded its livestock industry from $26,000,000 to $80,000,000 a year.

The big question in livestock expansion in the South is feed. The South can produce an abundance of protein concentrates, but the yield of grain crops—carbohydrates—is far below the national average.

About 19 acres are required per cow in this area. Net profit per acre amounts to slightly over $2, according to figures supplied by Midland County agricultural sources. Average price per acre for grazing is about $17.

Rain Puts Farm Lands In Good Shape As Spring Planting Gets Underway

Rains throughout most of the county Thursday night greatly benefited farm and range lands, a survey last weekend reveals. The rain aided the farmers who are preparing to plant their spring crops, and helped grass conditions on grazing lands considerably.

Many farmers are planning to start planting this week, and others will follow suit in a short time.

A number of ranchers will start working cattle this week, and Geo. Glass was marking, dehorning and tattooing Saturday. A few sheep-owners are marking lambs and many others plan to mark this week, it was reported.

County Agent Vernon Young has urged farmers to treat their seed for smut before planting, and has pointed out that though the cost is small, the treatment will greatly increase yields.

Young plans to set up the county's seed-treating machine at about four places in the county this week to treat seed. Schedules will be announced later.

Police Use Psychology To Nab Their Man

GREEN BAY, WIS.—(AP)—Police men Bob King and Ray Petrosky were in municipal court when Francis X. Dugan, 37, alias Weismiller, was sentenced to state prison for one to four years for stealing an automobile.

The officers said they spotted the stolen car in front of a tavern, went in the saloon and arrested Dugan.

"How did you happen to pick Dugan out of the crowd in the tavern?" the officers were asked. "He was the only person who didn't look up when we entered," King explained.

Review And Posthumous Presentation Of Silver Star Mark Army Day Here

Marking the celebration of Army Day, a review and the presentation of the Silver Star Medal were held at the Midland Army Air Field at 10 a. m. Saturday.

The Silver Star was posthumously awarded to Technician Fifth Grade Henderson Crockett of the transportation corps for "gallantry in action at Iwo Jima, Volcano Islands, on 22 February, 1945." The award was presented by Lt. Col. Gilbert P. Noakes, commanding officer of the field, to Mrs. Henderson Crockett of 505 Northwest Fifth Street, Big Spring, widow of T/S Crockett. The citation was read by Lt. Col. Dwight E. Bonnin.

Standing in review were 280 officers of the field. Members of the reviewing party, in addition to Colonel Noakes and Colonel Bonnin, were Colonel Naramor, Major Gotanche, Major Bennett and Major Shelton.

The Silver Star presented to Crockett, an amphibian truck driver, was for gallantry in action on Iwo Jima. He was driving his amphibian truck, heavily loaded with critically needed supplies and ammunition, ashore in the face of heavy enemy mortar and artillery fire, and exceptionally heavy seas. About midway to the beach his truck snapped its rudder cable, causing him to lose control of it. Rather than transfer to another truck and lose his own vehicle and its load of valuable cargo, he volunteered to attempt to steer the truck ashore from the stern hatch by operating the rudder by hand. Before he could reach the beach the craft, which already had taken on a lot of water, was caught by a huge wave and sank within a matter of seconds. Crockett was trapped in the stern hatch of the boat and was never seen again.

Airborne Television Is Latest Device For Transmitting Battle Scenes, News

By DOUGLAS LARSEN NEA Staff Correspondent

ANACOSTIA, VA.—(NEA)—The successful development of airborne television equipment by the Navy in cooperation with Radio Corporation of America opens up many new peacetime as well as military uses, its inventors say.

It won't be long before people sitting comfortably in their homes will be able to see actual reproductions of spot news events, David Sarnoff, RCA president, predicts.

And the use of airborne television heralds something brand new in military strategy, the Navy says. It can flash battle actions back to headquarters, where commanding officers heretofore had to rely on verbal or written accounts. An entire beachhead, for example, could be relayed by television to show the actual scene of battle to the officers controlling the operation.

Operational Test The Navy will give this system its big operational test at Bikini when the atom bomb is exploded on the fleet.

Its successful development was recently revealed to the public for the first time in a demonstration at Anacostia Naval Air Station.

Dr. V. K. Zworykin, RCA television expert, is credited with originating the idea of airborne television in 1934. It was originally planned for use in guiding radio-controlled flying torpedoes.

Here are some of the new uses now being planned for this new television equipment, according to RCA experts:

In factories and large-scale production enterprises it could be used as a means of coordinating activities and the means of watching and controlling from a distance manufacturing processes and operations that might otherwise be inaccessible or too perilous to man. It could be used as a means of advertising four enterprises or other scenic spots to prospects by showing direct views.

It could be used in police traffic control. A television-equipped police plane could keep traffic headquarters posted on exact conditions in such areas and arrangements could be completed quickly to remedy congestion by re-routing or other traffic control means.

Of Great Aid Hazardous exploration and scientific expeditions would be greatly aided by preliminary views transmitted from a plane.

On spot news coverage Sarnoff foresees:

"Airborne television will open the way for coverage of events with instantaneous transmission of eyewitness views at the scene and at the exact time of their occurrence. This coverage can include fires, floods, train wrecks or other happenings of public interest, and the way is opened for development of the 'walkie-lookie', a light-weight, portable television camera with which a reporter might cover street scenes as readily as he does now with a news camera."

Secret wartime uses of the new portable television equipment included: use as "eyes" in remote-controlled aircraft; observation of gun fire; transmission of messages and charts; and for other general observation purposes.

Further development of this form of television is continuing. Research is still attempting to make the image produced on the screen clearer and scientists are trying to discover some way television can pierce fog and clouds. Size of the equipment needed for a small transmitter has already been reduced to a small package which weighs only 50 pounds.

Continental Air Lines Offering Cash For Slogan

Three prizes totaling $850 in cash are offered by Continental Air Lines in a contest announced last week to pick a slogan for its fleet of 21-passenger, twin-engine aircraft which have replaced smaller types of equipment used for the last several years.

Jim Carlson, Continental manager here, invited Midland citizens to submit entries in the contest which ends at mid-night May 15. Any person of any age may compete for the prizes, he said.

First prize is $500, second is $250, and third is $100. Slogans submitted should not be more than 10 words in length, and contestants may submit as many slogans as they wish, Carlson said. No entries will be returned, and all submitted become the property of the air line.

Entry blanks, with complete information, may be obtained at Continental's office here or at the Chamber of Commerce office in the Scharbauer Hotel building. Entries may be left at these two places, or may be mailed to Continental Air Lines office in Midland.

Unpasteurized Milk Causes Disease Hike

AUSTIN —(AP)—Consumption of unpasteurized milk and milk products Saturday was reported resulting in a sharp increase in the incidence of undulant fever in Texas during the 12 weeks of this year.

Dr. George W. Cox, state health officer, said 163 cases have been reported in the first three months of 1946, compared with 110 cases in the comparable period of 1945 and 41 cases over the same period of 1944. The State Health Department estimates 10 cases actually exist for every case reported.

Finland Meets War Debts Again, But To Russia

HELSINKI—(P)—The second year after Finland's armistice with Russia threatens to be the stiffest of all for the country which always used to pay its war debts to the United States on time.

Finland faces total reorganization of industry to fulfill war debts to the Soviet Union. War reparations payments and restitution deliveries to be paid in 1946 total more than $50,000,000, estimated to be 20 per cent of the national income. Restitution deliveries are to replace material removed from Russian territory in the 1941-44 war.

Government officials express belief that Finland by disregarding her own needs can meet both the $35,000,000 war damage compensations and the $15,400,000 restitution obligations.

Restitution will consist almost entirely of timber products, but 61.7 per cent of the reparations must be paid in metal products, for which the Finns must import raw materials. This has forced Finland to a gigantic reorganization of her export industry with emphasis on metal products. Before the war, such exports were only four per cent of Finland's total. The entire heavy metal and much of the medium and light metal industries now are working on reparations.

But Finland need not worry about a market for her heavy metal industry. Announcing the reparation pay period had been lengthened from six to eight years, Stalin said the Soviet Union could absorb the industry's products in the future.

Post Office Plans Flying Mailcars For Future

"Flying mailcars," equipped like the present day railroad postal cars but winging at 200-mile an hour speeds with a four to six ton load of mail probably will be the next step in commercial aviation. Post office Department and Air Transport Association officials already have inspected designs for the all-mail packet plane. A modification of the Army's "flying boxcar," used during the war for hauling tanks, guns, troops and supplies, it is built by the Fairchild Engine and Airplane Corporation.

Looters Stripping Airplanes Stored On Clark Field Runways

CLARK FIELD, P. I.—(P)—Millions of dollars worth of American war planes, lined up in neat rows along runways of an abandoned Japanese airstrip here, are rapidly being converted into junk by weather and looters.

Two correspondents spent hours, without authority and without being stopped or questioned, wandering through the two-mile collection of planes, which range from Mustangs to Liberators.

Rapid demobilization not only deprived U. S. Air Forces of the personnel to keep the planes airworthy—it also reduced the number of men available to guard them on the ground.

That meant that anything from fishing tackle to new machineguns was available to the first taker.

Looters also have been working over damaged and wrecked Army automotive equipment near Manila. Tires, batteries, wheels and engines disappear nightly.

Great Array Of French Art Draws Huge Crowds At Showing In Chicago

CHICAGO—(P)—A gentleman from Paris arrived on a London-Chicago plane recently, and hastened to the art institute.

He had come to see the French collection—the greatest collection of 19th and 20th century French paintings in the world.

The institute is particularly proud of its paintings of all types. It has more than 1,300 in its permanent stock. They represent all the major art movements in Europe in the last 700 years.

It also keeps abreast of the times. One feature was an exhibition which included a work of art from each of the United Nations.

Last year Associate Curator Frederick Sweet was off on a 10,000 mile trip to museums, dealers' shops and private homes in 45 communities. Scouring dusty attics and ferreting into cellar store-rooms as he went, he tracked down 164 mellow canvases. The result was the first comprehensive exposition of early American landscapes.

The institute has kept attendance at a high level. It has matched the crowd appeal of the city's leading sports attraction. Last year, 1,081,000 persons came to the institute, while 1,036,386 went to Wrigley Field sports stadium to see the Chicago Cubs, champions of the National League, play baseball. The institute occupies an imposing building close to Lake Michi-

Club Boys Thank Citizens For Aid In Annual Show

Expressions of appreciation for the whole-hearted cooperation of Midland County ranchmen, stockmen, business men and other individuals in the recent Midland Livestock Show were voiced last weekend by 4-H Club and Future Farmers of America members and their leaders.

The 4-H and FFA members said they sincerely appreciated the interest shown in their work, and the generosity shown in making their projects successful by those who gave them assistance and purchased their stock.

Royce Howard, Midland County 4-H Club president, was joined in expressing the 4-H sentiments by the county agent, and Glenn Drake, president of the Midland County FFA chapter, and the FFA instructor presented that organization's thanks.

The structure, built of limestone in Italian renaissance style, was erected in 1893. The exterior is stained by the soot of many winters. But little dust settles in the busy interior. The art school, with a current enrollment of 6,800, is the largest in the world.

CLOVIS, N. M.—(P)—Hardened railroaders were startled to see bits of white fluttering from the observation platform of a special train which went through here bearing 282 war brides from Australia.

The white squares were diapers for the 120 children with the women, washed and hung on lines on the platform to dry on the New Mexico breeze.

New 3-Cent Stamp Will Show Veterans' Discharge Emblem

By GEORGE A. SCOTT
AP Stamp Editor

Collectors of United States stamps can look forward to at least two new stamps for their albums within the next four months—the three-cent regular postage stamp featuring the Armed Services' honorable discharge emblem and the ever-popular "duck" revenue stamp. Designs of both stamps have now been disclosed by the Post Office and Interior Departments.

Thursday, May 9, has been set as the first day of issue for the honorable discharge emblem stamp, which is intended to honor all veterans of World War II. All details except the color have been announced by Postmaster General Hannegan for the stamp, illustrated here. Although the color remains to be selected, the emblem will appear against a graduated tone background. It is known that the Post Office Department has attempted, thus far unsuccessfully, to make the stamp bi-colored with the emblem in its natural gold color. The five stars in the background represent those who died in the various branches of the service.

A maximum of 10 addressed envelopes accompanied by remittance for the stamps to be affixed may be sent to the Postmaster, Washington 13, D. C., for first day cancellation.

Redhead ducks are featured on the 1946-47 "Duck" stamps which will go on sale at first and second class post offices July 1. The thirteenth in this series of revenue stamps was designed by Robert W. Hines, artist of the Ohio Division of Conservation and Natural Resources. It will show four "redheads," three males and a female, riding in the water while another male is about to make a "crash" landing. The redhead duck closely resembles the canvassback and abounds throughout the waters of North America except the North Atlantic coast. It winters from Virginia southward to the Bahamas.

The Department of the Interior reports that sales of this year's "duck stamp" already have broken all records, with 1,540,468 stamps sold from last July 1 until Dec. 31. Total sales in 1944-45 were 1,487,029 stamps.

New Russian Stamps

Returned servicemen face more danger on the home front than they did in uniform, according to statistics of the National Safety Council. Pictograph above, shows the contrast in toll of death and injury taken of servicemen and of civilians during the war period. The council estimates that the odds are one to 15 that the returned veteran will be killed in an accident before he dies of natural causes, and four to one that he will be injured.

Colonel Zohms Was Imaginary Officer Who Aided Scribes

By HAL BOYLE
ATHENS—(AP)—With April Fool's Day not far in the past, this is perhaps as good a time as any to recall the military career of Col. Harry Zohms, a large-hearted officer who won no medals but cut more red tape than any man in Army history.

Harry was the Army's best friend to harassed war correspondents. Colonel Zohms served without pay, answered to no one and was one of the most influential men in uniform. He could get more things done than generals and a half-dozen mimeograph machines.

Yet you won't find his name on an official roster. Or if you do it's strictly another Harry Zohms and Harry existed only in the imagination of a number of neely war correspondents who invented him as a kind of military Santa Claus.

In the early days of the war it was possible to move about the battlefronts freely. You just hitchhiked around and latched on to any outfit you liked and everybody was your friend. "This gypsy" life ended as our military machine overseas grew bigger.

He Cut Military Red Tape

In this emergency some journalistic genius created and commissioned Lt. Harry Zohms without benefit of Congressional sanction. His sole job was to shortcut round-about military channels.

If you wanted a case of field rations to eat on the road you just drew up a requisition for them and anybody handy signed the flourishing signature of "Lieutenant Harry Zohms, Quartermaster Corps." The rations were forthcoming immediately.

There seemed to be a certain magic in Harry's last name. "Zohms" looked so artificial nobody thought it could possibly be a fake. His authority to issue some of his grandiose orders with only the rank of lieutenant was occasionally questioned. So we gave him a well earned promotion.

He Rose From "Lieutenant"

Harry rose from lieutenant to captain, to major, to lieutenant-colonel and finally full colonel as we passed through France, Belgium, Holland, Luxembourg and Germany. At the war's end we were considering rewarding him with the star of a brigadier and putting him on the general staff.

He got us rides, coal to heat our winter quarters and fixed us up with passes for brief leaves back to Paris and Brussels. In Germany, when transportation was difficult, he got some of us captured Nazi staff cars.

Nobody knows just when Harry was mustered out of the service. His last official act was to sign permits enabling some of his old friends to keep a few battered German lugers as souvenirs.

There are 55 separate American Indian languages and many dialects.

MacKENZIE'S COLUMN

The Nazi underground plot to revive Hitlerism in Germany, disclosed during the weekend, is grim warning to those who would relax the military occupation.

It's highly significant that this revolt centered in the Hitler Youth movement, for that remains the core of the resistance to Allied authority. During my recent tour of the occupied areas mentioned in this column more than once that the dangerous element of the German population lies for the most part within the age range of from fourteen to thirty-five.

The Youth Movement fanatics represent the toughest of the human problems which the Allies have in German rehabilitation. These young people—the most vital element in the Reich—are so thoroughly Hitlerized that there appears to be small hope of persuading many of them to a change of heart. They can be kept in hand only by force, for force is their god.

Deeper Than That

But the thing cuts deeper than that. Since this age group is largely lost to the Allies, the most effective educational reform must be made among the younger boys and girls—the sprouting generation. There our main hope lies, and that is where the Allies are concentrating heavily.

However, the occupation author-

DUST MUST HAVE FLOWN AFTER ALARM SOUNDED

Reduction Of Traffic Accidents Plan Set

AUSTIN—(AP)—Reduction by 50 per cent of traffic accidents involving teen-age drivers is sought in a program to be presented at the Texas Safety Association's annual conference in Galveston April 22-24.

"One generation of properly trained drivers can reverse the whole trend of traffic accidents," said R. B. Rooper of Houston, vice-president of the association and head of the school safety section. The association recommended driver education and safety programs in all of the 1,400 senior and junior high schools of the state.

for the Right Cause" appear on the medal. Underneath is the inscription "For Victory Over Germany" and "The Great Patriotic War 1941-1945." There are two 30-kopek and two 60-kopek values. A fifth newcomer from Russia is a 60-kopek bi-colored stamp showing a soldier holding aloft a Red Flag bearing Stalin's picture. Beneath the flag is an inscription which is the Russian equivalent of "Viva Victory."

Second Assistant Postmaster General Gael Sullivan's recommendation that U. S. airmail rates be reduced forecasts new airmail stamps. . . . A map of the Antarctic area is featured on eight stamps issued for Britain's Falkland Islands Dependencies for use in Graham Land, South Georgia, South Orkneys and South Shetlands. . . . Romania has issued a set of 10 values picturing young King Michael. . . . Great Britain will issue a Victory stamp or stamps in June. . . .

Carnegie Hall next! That's the ambition of Rose La Rose, stripteuse extraordinaire who is now doing her routine—slightly modified—for a Hollywood movie. Miss La Rose contends stripping is an art, and bases her claim to classicism on the fact that she uses such classics as "The Anvil Chorus" as background for her bumps and grinds.

NO MORE MURDERING OF KING'S ENGLISH

Justice Department Adopts Rule Book Telling Lawyers 'To Write Simply'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Lawyers when they write professionally, probably do more than any other group to torture the English language.

A simple sentence in many a legal document is as rare as hair on an egg.

A good illustration of what's meant here is the way criminal cases have been handled in federal courts.

For years U. S. attorneys, in writing a murder indictment, said:

"And the said John Doe from the effect of said bullets and the mortal wounds inflicted thereby did languish, and languishing did die."

And if the victim was killed in a

U. S. postoffice, the indictment became a literary Fourth of July.

No one just deliberately killed anyone. He did "then and there knowingly, wilfully, unlawfully, purposely, deliberately, premeditatedly, and with intent to do so, kill and murder John Doe, a human being."

The U. S. attorneys weren't compelled to write this. They looked at the way other attorneys had written indictments down through the years and did the same.

This explanation comes from an attorney in the Justice Department. His job now is to help clear up some of the mess.

See How Easy It Is

Hereafter, U. S. attorneys will write murder indictments this way, even though the killing happened in a postoffice and the victim took a while to die:

"John Doe, on lands acquired for use of the United States and under the jurisdiction of the United States, with premeditation shot and murdered John Roe."

It happened this way: About 30 years ago the American Bar Association thought it would be a good idea to have uniform rules for handling criminal cases in federal courts.

The rules varied so much that a lawyer used to handling criminal cases in the federal court in one state often was virtually unable to try a case in a federal court in another state.

The Bar Association's idea for improvement kicked around for a quarter of a century. The U. S. Justice Department and lawyers thought it was good.

In 1940 Congress passed a law authorizing the Supreme Court to lay down uniform rules for handling criminal cases in federal courts.

State bar associations chipped in with ideas. So did the Supreme Court. Now the rule book has been completed.

It makes some basic changes and simplifies a number of things, even to telling U. S. attorneys how to write readable indictments.

Captured Jap Pistol Was Type That Killed 'Wild Bill' Hickok

By JACK RUTLEDGE Associated Press Staff Staff Sergeant James Garrison of Hillsboro came home lugging an old Model 2 rim fire .32 revolver he had taken from a Jap. Curious, Deputy Sheriff Charlie Garrison, the sergeant's uncle, copied the serial number and sent it to Smith and Wesson, makers of the gun.

The company answered that the Model 2 was made between June 1861 and 1865. He said 76,502 were produced. The entire output was sold to a New York firm which, apparently, resold many in Japan. It was, the company said, the same model that killed "Wild Bill" Hickok in 1876.

Senate's Parity Plan Adds Cost Of Labor In Farming

By JAMES MARLOW WASHINGTON (AP)—There's a big rumple here over a pending, upward change in a thing called parity.

If it goes through, it will do two things:

1. It will boost the price of farm products.

2. Therefore, it will boost your food bill.

The Senate has voted to increase the parity formula. Before this can become law, two things must happen:

1. The House must also approve

2. The President must sign it into law. He says he'll veto it.

But to understand it, look at what parity is, how it got that way, and what the Senate proposes.

Back in the 1930s, when farmers were having a hard time, Congress decided to help them. This was the thinking:

Even if the government had to put out money to do it, the prices farmers could get for their products should be kept fairly in line with the prices farmers had to pay for things they needed, like machinery and seeds.

But when the prices of farm goods and the things farmers need pretty well in line? That, of course, would depend on the kind of crop.

Base Periods Chosen

Normal period—called base periods—were chosen for different crops. The point was this, taking wheat as an example:

A wheat farmer should get for his wheat an amount which would buy the equivalent amount of what he bought—like machinery and seeds—back in 1910-14. That is called parity.

Since 1910-14 the cost of farm machinery, seed, fertilizer, things like that, has gone up. Well. How then does the government maintain parity between the price of wheat and the things farmers buy?

It's done this way. Suppose the Department of Agriculture decides that in order for a wheat farmer to be able to buy what he bought in 1914 his wheat ought to sell for $1.50 a bushel.

But on the open market wheat is actually selling for only $1 a bushel.

Suppose further that he simply can't get more than $1 a bushel for it.

Government Buys Wheat

In that case the government would buy the wheat from him. It wouldn't pay him the full parity price of $1.50, but pretty close to it.

The more the wheat taken off the market, the higher the market price would go, till the market price got up to parity or close to it.

The government, meantime, would store the wheat or make other use of it, but not try to sell it on the open market. If it tried that, of course, it would knock down the market price and hurt the farmer again.

Until now the cost of the farmer's labor—himself, his wife, children, and hired hand—hasn't been included when the government figured parity prices.

The Senate has voted to include such costs in figuring parity. That of course would boost the price of farm goods.

The government figures that the Senate's proposal would increase parity prices about 32 per cent.

Italians Revere As Shrine Caves Where Germans Killed 335 Patriots

AP Newsfeatures ROME—Rome has a shrine to its World War II martyrs near the Old Appian way in the neighborhood of the catacombs where the Christians buried their martyred dead.

The modern shrine is known as the Ardentine Caves. In grottoes cut from volcanic rock are row upon row of rough wooden boxes containing the bodies of 335 Italians massacred by the Germans on March 24, 1944.

The Italian government officially has declared the caves, situated on the Via Ardeatina, a national monument. Thousands of Italians, in addition to the families of the victims, visit the caves each week to pay homage to the dead.

Were Dug as Wells

Before the war, the caves, originally dug as wells, served as a city dump. The Germans, by using the dump as the site for a mass execution, unwittingly made it a shrine which now attracts larger crowds than the catacombs of St. Calixtus and St. Sebastian.

In the electrically lighted caves, the coffins of unfinished pine boards are arranged in rows on the earth floor against the walls. Relatives and friends of the victims keep the coffins covered with fresh flowers.

The bodies have been preserved by encasing them in lead.

Most of the victims were political prisoners taken from Rome jails by the Germans and shot in reprisal for the killing of 30 Nazis in a bomb explosion near the Barberini Palace during the occupation.

Among the victims were generals, enlisted men, priests and civilians, Catholics and Jews. Some were rounded up on the streets and herded with the other victims to the rubbish dump. After the mass execution, the Germans exploded mines to cover up the bodies.

Later the Italians recovered the bodies, cleaned out the caves and made the onetime dump a shrine.

Note Dropped In Sea Gets Gobs Texas Date

DENISON (AP)—Billy Forsyth of Dallas was on sea duty with the Merchant Marine off the coast of Florida. He wrote a note to Miss Tess McMains, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo McMains of Denison, asking her for a date. He placed the note in a bottle and tossed it into the ocean near Miami Beach.

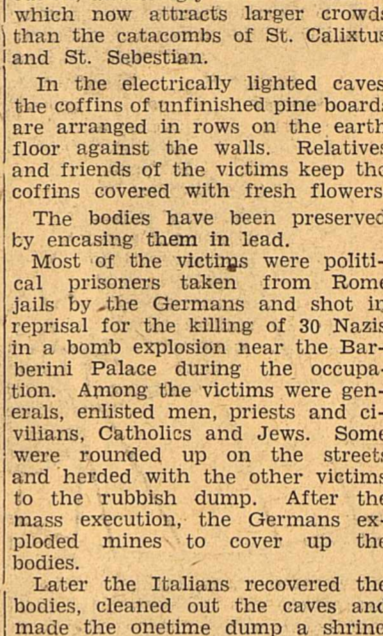

The bottle was found by a Florida vacationist who promptly forwarded it to Miss McMains. Billy got his date.

Irish Washerwomen Now Use Mine Casings

ROSSLAKE HARBOUR, EIRE (AP)—Dismantled sea mines—British and German—are being put to strange uses along the south coast of Eire, where during the war hundreds of them drifted ashore. Whoever reported a mine got the casing when the authorities had removed the explosive.

Now almost every other house along 60 miles of coast line uses mines as water butts. In farm yards they have been converted into boilers for cattle food, chicken coops and rabbit hutches. Sometimes they are gaily painted and used to hold ornamental trees. In several instances they have become dog kennels and washing tubs.

Rayburn Tells Ike He'll Save Praise Until Denison Visit

By TEX EASLEY
 WASHINGTON—(AP)—When Speaker Sam Rayburn introduced Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower at a luncheon of Texas congressmen he said he would save his choice words of praise until he and the general went to Denison April 20 to see the house where the Army chief-of-staff was born 54 years ago.

Nevertheless, he lauded Eisenhower as a man whose ability would have made it certain that he would have reached the top in any profession he might have chosen to follow. The off-the-record remarks of the general left no one with doubt on that score.

"I have never heard anyone anywhere say so much in 20 minutes in my life," commented Rep. Bob Poage of Waco as the congressman and his guests applauded the general. A moment later Poage repeated the observation personally to Eisenhower, who gave one of his famous smiles and said modestly, "Thanks."

The talk dealt with Army occupation forces, selective service, and the "caste system" complaints some people have voiced against the Army.

Without divulging anything the general wanted kept secret, it can be said that he staunchly defended in particular the Army's lieutenants and captains, and observed that 60 per cent of all officers had come up through the ranks by attending officer candidate schools.

Seated at the table near him as he talked was Capt. Rhoads Mustain of Aubrey, Texas, a doctor in civilian life who currently is on duty at Walter Reed Hospital. Wearing several service ribbons, including the Purple Heart for wounds received in action, he was the guest of Rep. Ed Gossett of Wichita Falls.

U. S. Bids For Post-War Tourist And Shipping Trade With De Luxe Liners

By S. BURTON HEATH
 NEA Staff Correspondent
 NEW YORK—(NEA)—American passenger lines are going after transoceanic travel business with a fleet of new, fast, de luxe comfort lines and a wary eye on competition from the air.

The companies believe a tourist boom is in sight, on top of very heavy business travel. They are determined to dispel the old idea that foreign ships give more comfort and better service than American. They see no good reason why our passenger ships should not be made as much superior to others as American hotels are superior to those found elsewhere.

Our 11 major operators are planning on adding at least 89 new passenger carriers, ranging from combination ships with accommodation for 12 persons each up to luxury liners with space for 400 to 500 guests.

The Maritime Commission is talking about 11 vessels that the Shipbuilders Council of America describes as superliners.

Details are not yet available, but it is understood that they would have a length of 1,000 feet, a tonnage of around 37,500, at least 29 knots speed, would provide for 1,000 passengers, and would cost from $22,500,000 to $25,000,000 each.

These vessels would be ultra modern in provision for comfort and equipped with safety devices developed during the war.

The Merchant Marine Institute, trade association of ship operators, prefers not to call such craft superliners—a term that it reserves for such giants as the Queens Mary and Elizabeth, the late Normandie, the Ile de France, the Europa, and the war-lost Bremen, Rex and Conte di Savoia.

We have no intention of going into the superliner business in that sense. The Maritime Commission, which holds a tight rein on our operators by its control of the subsidies granted to offset high American operating costs, is against them.

Ships For Both Oceans
 The U. S. Lines hope to get two of the proposed big ships, presumably for operation to Europe or to the Far East in conjunction with the 22-knot America, the 21-knot Washington, and five other passenger craft.

Shipping men conjecture that the others would go into the Pacific trade, with the American President Line (formerly Dollar) and the Matson Line regarded as likely operators.

Alcoa plans on three 19-knot luxury liners to carry up to 500 passengers each and three new 17-knot 15,000-ton combination ships for the Caribbean tourist business in which it was just getting started when war intervened.

American Export has asked for the ex-Italian Conte Grande, Conte Biancamano, Saturnia and Vulcano, all 23,000 tonners, now U. S. troop transports, to use on the run formerly made by the Italian Line.

Moore-McCormack, which plans to restore the 20,000-ton Argentina, Brazil and Uruguay to the South American east coast run, has ordered two large new liners and plans to build three more.

United Fruit is replacing the third of its Great White Fleet that was sunk during the war. The replacements are to include two 18-20 knot luxury liners that are very unorthodox in the blueprints, having lounge, bar veranda and other public rooms forward, where passengers can see where they are going, rather than aft where one can see only where he already has been.

The Grace Line is building nine new 52-passenger ships for the South American west coast run, by way of the Caribbean and the Panama Canal. Grace lost all but two of its Santa class boats during the war but hopes to get those two back soon from the government.

Air Conditioned
 The Matson Line is adding air conditioning to its two Lurline class liners in the Hawaiian and Australia-New Zealand run. Its Lurline, Matsonia, Mariposa and Monterey all survived the war.

The American President Lines, in process of being sold by the government to private operators, is acquiring two P-2 transports and building two similar liners for use this year. It plans to add three large, fast luxury liners by 1948, and intends resuming its round-the-world service with two pre-war combination liners and five chartered C-4 (transport) ships.

of a few companies' plans for going after post-war business—offering comfortable staterooms, air-conditioning on tropic runs, and relative speed, to offset the speed with which airlines are seeking to acquire both business and tourist patronage.

The British are not going to stand by idly and see us walk off with business. They start with a fleet of name ships headed by the Queens Mary and Elizabeth and including the new Mauretania, Franconia, Britannic, Samaria and Scythia.

The French hope to salvage the Ile de France, the de Grasse and the Pasteur, and are talking about three new superliners which American shipping men think are in a rather distant future.

Holland still has the Nieuw Amsterdam, Veendam and Volendam; Canada the Duchesses of Bedford and of Richmond besides the old Empress of Australia; Norway has the old Stavangerfjord and Bergensfjord.

Unemployment In Texas Increases 3.3 Per Cent Over Two-Month Period

By MAC ROY RASOR
 AUSTIN—(AP)—Steadily rising unemployment left 200,000 searching for jobs last month in Texas where not a single major labor area needs additional workers and where eight areas are cramping under critical unemployment pains.

The March report from the United States Employment Service adds Waco and Abilene to the six areas already reported suffering with critical employment ills: Texarkana, Beaumont, San Antonio, Longview, Lufkin and the Sherman-Denison area.

Corpus Christi and Houston were reclassified from areas with a balance of workers to areas having a surplus of workers. In the fever category already were San Angelo, Lubbock, Wichita Falls, Fort Worth, Dallas, Tyler, Marshall, Temple, Austin, Brownwood, Port Arthur and Orange.

El Paso, Amarillo, Borger and the Galveston-Texas City area are the only four of the state's 26 principal labor markets retaining a healthy balance in the number of job openings for the supply of workers.

C. E. Belk, USES state director, said total employment now stands at 10.8 per cent in the 26 major labor markets which represent 60 per cent of the state's major labor force of 2,700,000. He estimated unemployment at five per cent in the balance of the state.

Increase of 3.3 Per Cent
 The 10.8 per cent is an increase of 3.3 per cent over unemployment figures of 60 days ago when 7.5 per cent of the state's work force was unemployed, Belk said. The figure compares with 14.6 per cent unemployed reported in the pre-war month of April, 1940.

Major problem confronting Texas communities is the finding of suitable jobs and housing accommodations for veterans who represent 58.8 per cent of the 180,000 persons registered for jobs in local USES offices throughout Texas, Belk said. Placements were reported being made at the rate of 30,000 per month.

Belk reported "very satisfactory" response in the current drive for job listings but pointed out that veterans are returning in such large numbers that job demand is increasing at a faster rate than jobs are becoming available.

Only bright spot in the USES report was a prediction that total unemployment in major industrial centers in the state will decrease three per cent in the next two months. Belk said more than a third of the expansion demand expected will be for workers in the construction industry.

Unemployment Increases
 Unemployment percentages increases in the state's major labor markets during the past 60 days were reported as follows: Austin 4.4 to 7.5; San Antonio 9.9 to 12;

Corpus Christi 5.8 to 6.8; El Paso 5.7 to 5.9; Abilene 6.3 to 14.5; Brownwood 9.3 to 9.7; San Angelo 6.1 to 7.2; Amarillo 5.2 to 5.7; Lubbock 2.9 to 7.7; Borger 1.3 to 5.5; Waco 7.2 to 12.8; Temple 5.5 to 9.6; Dallas 8.5 to 9.9; Longview 11.4 to 20.7; Texarkana 10.2 to 24.8; Tyler 6.5 to 7.3; Marshall 7.6 to 9.9; Beaumont 13.3 to 20.4; Port Arthur 7 to 9.7; Orange 5 to 8.7; Houston-Baytown area 5.2 to 6.8; and Galveston-Texas City area 1.3 to 4.9.

Decreases were noted as follows: Fort Worth 9.7 to 9.3; Sherman-Denison 15.2 to 10.6 and Lufkin 15.7 to 14.5.

Wichita Falls held steady at 8.9 per cent.

Despite the heavy unemployment percentages, however, only three areas rose above pre-war unemployment percentages of April, 1940. Waco was up 0.8 per cent, Marshall up 1.1 per cent and Beaumont up 8.5 per cent over the comparable month six years ago. Most other figures were well below the pre-war figures.

County Has Large Agricultural Stake

Midland County's agricultural investment totals more than $4,000,000, and its annual income also exceeds that sum, figures compiled by County Agent Vernon Young in a partial survey of the industry reveal.

Thus, the county has a big stake in ranching and farming. The survey does not include structures. There are 20,000 head of cattle in the county, with a valuation of approximately one and a half million dollars. These cattle produce about 16,000 feeder calves annually, and the calves are worth about $800,000.

The county's 35,000 sheep are valued at $420,000, as figured on the present price of about $12 per

Ward County 4-H Club Work Starts

MONAHANS—Twenty-five boys met with the county agent at the high school last week to sign up for participation in 4-H Club work, and a similar meeting is scheduled soon at the junior high school in Monahans.

County Agent John L. Mogford said that projects to be undertaken include feeding of calves, pigs or lambs, planting of gardens, taking over home flocks of chickens, orchard work, breeding of Jerseys or Herefords, demonstrations of cotton, alfalfa entomology, and others.

Boys in 4-H Club work may get credit for their projects in their Scouting program, Mogford said, and as many as two high school credits may be given for completing two demonstrations. He urged youths who have not signed up to contact his office.

head. The lamb crop is worth about $196,000 annually, and the wool clip about $112,000.

Range land of the county totals 495 acres, and is worth about $834,500. The 70,000 acres of farm land are valued at approximately $280,000.

Many Farm Vehicles
The county boasts 217 tractors at an estimated value of about $150,000, and has 155 farm trucks in addition to many commercial trucks used in livestock work.

No survey of the county's agricultural income has been made in recent years, but it totaled $4,044,112 in 1942. Increased prices and production are believed to have swollen that figure for 1945.

In 1942, sales of 38,741 head of cattle averaged $60 each for a total of $2,324,460. The 15,496 calves produced that year were valued at $50 each for a total of $774,800. Income from 7,382 bales of cotton produced on 2,726 acres of land was about $733,200. The county's 3,008 dairy cows produced 1,047,010 units of dairy products for an income of $314,103, while 57,395 chickens, selling at an average of $1 each, brought $57,395.

Wool produced by 44,863 sheep in 1942 totaled 32,110 pounds which sold at 40 cents per pound average for a total of $12,044.80. The 3,900 hogs sold at $25 each brought in $75,000. Approximately 31,292 acres of land on the county's 425 farms and ranches were planted to feed in 1942.

Beans And Peas Used For Planting Exempt From OPA Regulations

The Fort Worth district office of the Office of Price Administration has announced that dry beans and peas bought for resale as seed stock are exempt from price control. If the beans and peas are to be sold for eating purposes, these sales are to be considered as subterfuge to evade the price control act and action will be taken, accordingly by OPA forces.

The office defines "seed stock" as follows: "Seed stock means any of the listed commodities which are used for planting, and which comply with the Federal Seed Act or state seed acts, particularly with respect to labeling as to kind and variety, percentage of germination, and date of germination, and, if below federal standard as set forth in the Federal Seed Act of 1939, are plainly marked 'below standard'."

Beef Sales Cut-Backs Are Reported Removed

The 20 per cent of choice and good grades of beef set aside for military use, have been removed, it has been announced.

Set-aside meat of the top grades has been purchased primarily by the Army but military services estimate they now have sufficient supplies to safeguard stocks, making current set asides unnecessary. Since choice and good beef make up a large proportion of meat slaughtered at this time of year, somewhat greater supplies of both grades now should be available on the market, it was reported.

SECTION FOUR

Effectiveness Of Cattle Spraying Is Demonstrated

The effectiveness of using a DDT spray on cattle to kill lice and horn flies was demonstrated last week on registered stock at the M. F. King No. 9 Ranch by County Agent Vernon Young. Fifty cows and between 20 and 30 calves were sprayed with the solution, and the ranchers and stockmen present were able to see the difference immediately.

The cattle were noticeably calmer and more relaxed after the spray was used. The horn flies and lice were killed within a few minutes.

The first spray is effective 10 to 14 days. The second spraying will last about three weeks, and the third from four to six weeks. A small residue of the DDT will remain on the cattle from each spraying, thus increasing the time necessary between sprayings.

Cattle may be sprayed in an average time of two minutes each.

Long Feeding Of Quality Calves More Profitable

The better the quality of calves, the longer they can profitably be fed, County Agent Vernon Young reminds 4-H Club boys and others planning to start on calf feeding.

A six month's feed period will be required to fatten well bred 400-pound steer calves. If calves are light as 350 pounds when started on feed, seven months will be required.

More rapid gains may be obtained on steer calves the second 90 to 100 days of feeding than the first. In the fattening period a calf should at least double his weight. A gain of two pounds per day may be considered satisfactory.

The amount of feed necessary to fatten a feeder calf will depend upon the condition, quality and weight of the calf and the ability of the feeder. Under ordinary conditions, if calves are of good quality, the feeder should have 1,500 pounds of shelled corn or one ton of grain sorghum heads or ear corn, 300 pounds of cottonseed meal, and from 1,500 pounds to one ton of roughage.

At the beginning of the fattening period the calves should be started on a little grain and a lot of roughage and gradually changed to a little roughage and a lot of grain.

The skill with which the feeder makes these changes largely determines his success as a feeder.

The following rations for calves have yearlings of from 400 to 600 pounds in weight generally apply:

First 15 days: 1900 pounds of grain sorghum bundles, 100 pounds cottonseed meal, and 10 pounds limestone flour.

Second 15 days: 1750 pounds grain sorghum bundles, 150 pounds cottonseed meal, and 10 pounds of limestone flour.

Second 30 days: 1,800 pounds sorghum bundles, 200 pounds cottonseed meal, 10 pounds limestone flour.

Alfalfa Is Best
Third 30 days: 1,700 pounds grain sorghum bundles, 100 pounds crushed ear corn, 200 pounds cottonseed meal, and 10 pounds limestone flour.

Fourth 30 days: 1,450 pounds grain sorghum bundles, 300 pounds crushed ear corn, 240 pounds cottonseed meal, 10 pounds of limestone flour.

The sorghum roughages show very little difference in feeding value. The quality, maturity and method of feeding will determine their efficiency. Johnson grass, sudan grass, prairie hay, and oats, wheat and barley hay cut in the dough stage are excellent roughages. All are classed as carbonaceous hays and are superior to cottonseed hulls. Alfalfa is the king of all hays and is the standard legume roughage.

Ranch-Style House Is Designed For Small Lot

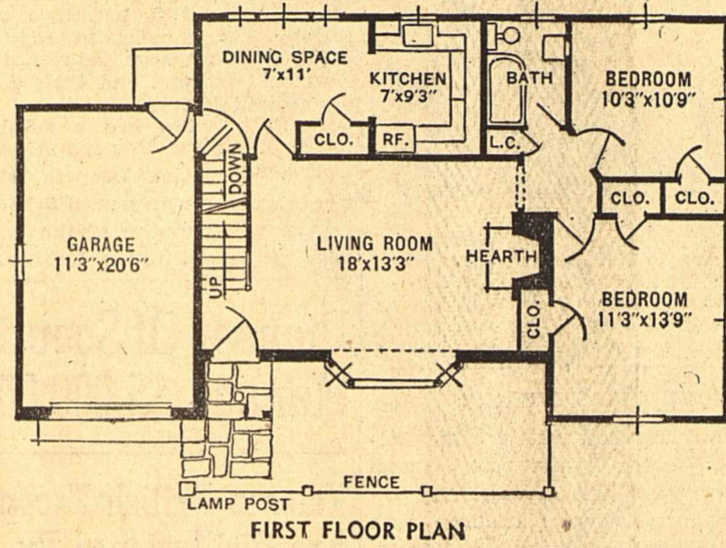

If it's something rustic you're after, this five-room ranch-style home is just the thing. It offers a one-floor plan.

Built of masonry and frame, it features a shingle roof, balanced design in front. A rail fence marking off a flagstone terrace gives a secluded look. The large view window in front provides fine natural light.

There is a single-car garage attached. The kitchen is designed for step-saving, for there is plenty of closet space close by. The interior is well-balanced.

You can build this home on a 60-foot lot. Note the attached kitchen and dinette and the hearth provided in the living room.

This is a charming, low-priced home which appears away above its price class.

Garden Soil Should Be Conditioned Before Planting Starts

By HENRY L. FREE
Written for NEA Service

The gardener who believes that a good beginning is half the job has already made preparations to start some of his long season plants either in the hotbed or in the house.

The time to sow your seeds depends upon the weather and your ability to have the garden soil in condition to receive the tender seedlings. As a rule, seed should be sown six to eight weeks before the last frost-free date in your locality.

Sixty Boys Sign For 4-H Program

About 60 youths signed up to take part in 4-H Club work at a meeting last week with County Agent Vernon Young at the Junior High School.

Young urged boys who are interested in 4-H Club work and have not signed up to visit his office. He plans to meet soon with high school students.

Youths planning to feed calves for the annual livestock show are urged to begin preparations for their projects soon.

Outwitting Cutworms Is Relatively Simple

AP Newsfeatures
Cabbage, one of the mainstays of the home garden, is subject to cut-worm and maggot attacks. To outwit these pests is relatively simple. After the plants have been hardened in a cold frame, they should be shifted to the open ground, and a strip of paper about two inches wide should be wrapped around the stems starting at ground level. Even more effective are tar-paper disks which come prepared with slots for slipping around the stems. They are inexpensive and a boon to the gardener.

Farm-To-Market Road Expansion Is Planned

MEXIA — (P) — John Redditt, chairman of the Texas Highway Commission, has outlined a broad program of construction designed to build up the Texas farm-to-market road system over the next ten years.

Described as a pay-as-you-go proposition, Redditt told 150 members of the Groesbeck and Mexia chambers of commerce that about 25,000 miles of roads will be constructed in the coming decade in Texas.

County Agent Urges Clean-Up Activities

County Agent Vernon Young, in urging cooperation with a nationwide "farm cleanup week" from April 8 to 14, pointed out Saturday that cleaning up livestock quarters and lots, eradication of disease hazards and other sanitation methods will help step up 1946 livestock production and farm profits.

He offered these suggestions:
Clean and disinfected livestock quarters: remove old straw stacks by spreading straw on the fields; drain low spots in barn lots where water stands, and fence off spots which cannot be drained; haul out all manure; and pick up nails, glass, and other sharp objects which could be swallowed by livestock.

He urged that livestock owners watch for signs of diseases to enable them to give prompt corrective measures.

Success with starting plants under glass or indoors requires considerable study, and close application to the job from the first. Too frequently entire plantings are lost because of a disease commonly referred to as "damping-off". This disease hits the seedlings just about the time they have pushed their heads up through the soil.

Damping-off is the result of one or more fungus growths which live in the soil, and there is no remedy to cure or save the affected seedlings. This disease can be prevented from striking your seedlings if soil and seed are sterilized beforehand. Sterilization of the soil is easily accomplished by drenching with boiling water a few hours before seed is to be sown.

Regardless of the time seed is sown in hotbeds, cold frames, indoors or in the garden, it should be treated with a disinfectant dust. The treatment is both simple and economical. Chemical powders, such as red copper oxide, simroot, semesan, arasan, cuprocide, spergon, and similar mercurial compounds are used, just a tiny pinch of the powder being placed in the seed packet, the flap closed, and seeds and powder shaken together until the seeds are completely coated. The amount of dust can be held on the big end of a toothpick is sufficient to treat a 10-cent packet of seed.

Chemicals Easier to Use
One of the advantages of this treatment is that these chemicals can be used dry, thus avoiding the messiness of liquid mixtures. Another advantage is that the gardener can treat his seed now and store it in a dry place until planting time without danger of injury.

Arasan is recommended for all seed except carrot, lettuce, endive, cuprocide can be used for peas, cucumbers, melon, squash and other large seeds such as spinach, tomatoes and beets—but don't use it on seed of the cabbage and onion families. Semesan is applicable to cabbage, cucumbers, melons and most seeds except lima beans and peas.

Seed treatment insures larger yields and better quality vegetables by reducing the possibilities of thin stands and weak or stunted plants.

R. O. Brooks and V. R. Drake of Midland County will show approximately seven head of their registered Jersey dairy cattle in the 19th annual Panhandle-Plains Dairy Show at Plainview April 13 through April 19. County Agent Vernon Young plans to assist the two breeders in taking their cattle to the show.

National 4-H Club Sunday Set For May

National Rural Life Sunday or 4-H Club Sunday will be observed in Midland County May 26, in cooperation with a nationwide program. It has been announced.

The special day will provide an opportunity for the value of 4-H Club work in the community to be recognized, the national committee believes.

Test To Combat Bitterweed Is Started Friday

County Agent Vernon Young Friday started an experiment to test the effectiveness of a commercial weed killer on bitterweed, and expects to be able to announce the results within two weeks.

A plot of ground containing bitterweed on the Sam Preston Ranch, southeast of Midland, was fenced in and the area sprayed with the chemical. Because the chemical is in actuality a hormone, it is claimed it will soak into the root system of the bitterweed but will not penetrate grass roots, thus sparing the grass. The solution is not harmful to livestock which eat the grass because the residue is so infinitesimal it is not toxic.

The obnoxious plant is gaining a foothold in several West Texas counties although it is not yet a serious threat to Midland County grazing lands. County agents of several counties plan to make the test.

Only a small quantity of the chemical is necessary to spray 300 to 400 square feet of land, but it is costly and may be too expensive for use in this area.

Submits Iran's Reply

(NEA Telephoto) Iranian ambassador Hussein Ala, delegate to U.N., holds his nation's reply to the Security Council's request for information on the Iran-Soviet crisis just before it was read to the United Nations Security Conference. The reply offered to withdraw Iran's charges if Russia will quit Iran by May 6. The issue was shelved on that basis.

Nazi Spies In Sweden So Accurate Only One Plane To England Missed

By NEA Foreign Service
STOCKHOLM—Where do spies get their information? It is amply evident from the mass of documentary evidence photographed by Herr X with his micro-camera at Karlavagen 59 that there were leaks all along the line in Allied government agencies, foreign diplomatic representations and firms concerned with war production.

Besides the leak at the Swedish General Staff, the Nazi spies in Stockholm counted heavily on information received from London by sea and by air. There was, of course, no regular traffic between the two countries during the war, but there was the "illegal" shipping maintained by the Norwegian resistance movement and the "courier traffic" between Stockholm and Britain.

Slipped Spies On Ships
The Nazis were supposed to know nothing, but actually they made extensive use of these "illegal" means of communications for their own purposes. This was done by occasionally slipping in a Nazi spy—usually a Quisling—among the heroic Norwegian patriots who continuously braved the hazards of the sea and German bullets to keep the communications open between the Norse underground and their government in Britain.

The Nazis also had a reliable informant at the Bromma Airport outside Stockholm. He was later identified as a man named Schaefer, the representative of the German commercial airline, Lufthansa.

Schaefer daily reported the arrivals and departures, as well as the characteristics, of each plane "secretly" traveling to or from Britain. The "Radio Bureau" transmitted a complete report of this traffic to Berlin each month. Schaefer missed only one plane during the period.

Used Plane Traffic
The Germans not only knew everything about this "secret courier traffic" between Sweden and England, but they used it in the same manner as the "underground shipping" between Norway and Britain. Their own couriers rode many of the planes.

Here is another example of the uncanny accuracy of the information available to the Nazi spies: In February, "Fandur" reported to Berlin that the representative of Swedish Air Lines in the German capital, Helge Klintborn, had been instructed by his company to remain on the spot even in the event of a Soviet occupation of Berlin. As it was, Klintborn stayed in Berlin throughout the long and bloody siege—practically all other Swedes had been evacuated—and eventually returned to his homeland via Moscow.

Did the British Secret Service know about these goings-on? It probably did, yet it permitted the traffic to continue apparently in order better to control German espionage in Britain.

Field Marshal Montgomery sized up the situation when he charged that Sweden was the "clearing country" for Allied military secrets.

Pioneer Of Scouting In Southwest To Manage $5,000,000 Ranch, Building

Veteran British Troops Are Disillusioned By Prospects Of Peace

CAIRO—(P)—There is widespread disillusion among veteran British troops in the Middle East on the prospects of permanent peace.

In such international developments at the Iran-Soviet dispute, they see the seeds of a new conflict—the age old jockeying for position among the big powers that has always led to war in the past. And to these men, whose first-hand study of history won them blood-stained diplomas, the rubs and rivalries of great nations are depressingly significant.

The realities of battle and the discomforts of military life left them a growing yearning for idealism, but also suspicious of its realization in world affairs.

I talked with one young Royal Air Force officer waiting to go home to England who said he was already resigned to fighting in another war. He has just finished one war and now he is waiting for the next to begin. He was quite calm. "The world is finished," he said. "I really believe the world is finished."

"As long as hate lives in the world what nonsense it is to talk of peace. And what did our war do to kill hate? Nothing. What lesson have we learned? None." "Every nation, every nation has its own hatreds."

This young man is not yet 30 years old. He is unmarried. And today he feels more certain of having a second war than he does of having children.

Associated Press Staff

Tens of thousands young men of the Southwest will be pleased to hear that James P. Fitch of Dallas has been promoted.

Fitch has been closely connected with Boy Scout work in Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico and parts of Arkansas and Arizona for 36 years. He has been executive of the Ninth Region since 1919.

On April 1 he will become managing director of the Phillips Properties, owned by the Boy Scouts of America. He will move from Dallas to Tulsa, Okla.

When he came to the Ninth Region there were only 12,126 Scouts and 14 councils. Today there are more than 90,818 Scouts and Cubs and over 200 full-time trained professional leaders in the area.

But it wasn't an easy job. Fitch studied his territory in 1919 and found there were at least 7,000 towns capable of supporting one or more troops.

But, if he visited each town, bucking the unpaved and unmarked roads of the era, he figured it would take approximately 19 years even if he spent just one night per town.

So he worked out a system to organize and train local men to serve their own boys. The system worked.

"The interest and eagerness of men throughout the Southwest was immediate and stimulating," he said. It also necessitated a lot of travel on his part. But by 1928 the region was completely organized.

The Phillips Properties he will now manage consist of Philmont Scout Ranch, one of the country's best-equipped, of 127,308 acres, located in the mountains of Northern New Mexico, and a large office building in Tulsa. The two properties are valued at $5,000,000 and were given to the Boy Scouts by Mr. and Mrs. Waite Phillips, then of Tulsa. Boys from all over the United States come there annually to camp and train.

Fitch was born in Johnson County, Missouri, and was graduated from Central Missouri Teachers' College. He went to Oklahoma and taught in rural schools in the eastern part of the state and later in the public schools of Lawton, where he was also director of athletics.

He first entered Boy Scout work at Vinita, Okla., in 1910 as a Scoutmaster. He served in many capacities, finally moving to Dallas in 1919 where he has been ever since.

IT took three days to complete Susie's wardrobe, and get her hair licked into shape with an expensive haircut and permanent wave. Ann regarded the finished product proudly. Susie still wasn't pretty—nothing on earth could give beauty to Susie's impish features—but she had personality, which was infinitely better. And there was something very arresting about the child, with a smart hairdress and good-looking clothes. "You'll do us credit, Susie," she informed her warmly.

Now after parking the car in the driveway, they made several trips to the house, taking all the packages into Susie's room. Then Ann left her to her unpacking, and murmured something about going for a walk. She exchanged her coat for a suede jacket, and the sun warm on her bare head, started up the road toward the Home. There was a big orchard behind the house, where Ann loved to go to think. She wanted to do some heavy thinking, and luxuriate in a new idea. She wanted to see Colin and share it, but as he wasn't in evidence, that would have to wait.

The orchard was deserted, as she had hoped, and she walked to the far end and flung herself down in the soft grass, basking in the sunlight. Beside her there was a comfortable hammock, slung between two trees, but Ann wanted to get close to earth. Presently Lord Peter came and frisked around her head, wanting to play. "Be still, imp," she ordered. "I'm not in the mood." He curled up beside her, and yawned widely. Ann yawned, too. "Oh, Peter, darling, I'm so happy," she confided to him. He opened one eye, looked at her briefly, then went back to sleep. "Not interested, huh? Well, I am!" she declared.

Ann didn't realize that her privacy had been invaded until the newcomer was almost upon her. Then she sat up, and smoothed her disheveled hair instinctively, for this was such a very neat lady. She decided to forget her resentment at being intruded upon, and be friendly. "Hello," she said. "You're new in town, aren't you? I'm Ann Drake—Mrs. Colin Drake." She eyed her appraisingly. She was a rather lovely lady—authentic silver hair, beautifully arranged, small, clearly-chiseled features, milk-and-roses skin, and large bright blue eyes. "The simple arrogance with which one says that in Port Drake! I know, my dear, from experience. I'm Millicent Roberts."

MILlicent was looking at Ann in frank appraisal. "You're not at all what I expected, Ann. You don't mind my calling you Ann, do you? I actually can't call you Mrs. Drake! I'd expected you to be—forgive me—a rather giddy girl, that Colin should have adopted rather than married."

Ann grimaced. "You must have been talking to dear Beulah, Oh, I'm sorry, I'd forgotten she is your friend—and we really aren't on first name terms with each other."

Millicent smiled. "You will be. You're misjudging me, or I don't know Mrs. Bedelle."

"You will be—if you're willing. Beulah is a good friend, but a very nasty enemy, and it will pay you to cultivate her."

"I don't cultivate people!" Ann exploded. "If they don't like me, they needn't!"

"My dear child, take my advice. When you married the leading citizen of a small town, you incurred certain obligations, along with your rights and privileges. You can learn that the hard way if you really want to, but I'd advise against it."

"Everyone else likes me all right," Ann said rebelliously.

"I'm sure they do. Let's be friends, Ann," Millicent said, holding out a slender, well-tended hand.

Ann took it, feeling unaccountably embarrassed. "I'd like to be," she said.

Millicent sat down in the hammock, and took off her hat. Ann took a packet of cigarettes out of her pocket, and proffered it. As Millicent took one, she smiled a little. "We'll sit down and smoke the pipe of peace," she murmured.

AS Ann lit her own cigarette, she wondered a little what one talked about to one's husband's first wife. But she needn't have worried, as Millicent had no intention of letting the conversation get out of the direction of her own capable tongue. She made no explanation of what she was doing in Port Drake, but talked lightly and casually of various topics of general interest that occurred to her. When she finally dropped her verbal bombshell, it was so long exploding that it was quite a while before Ann recognized it for what it was.

"How do you like Colin's last book?"

"I always like Colin's books," Ann dodged the question neatly.

"Well, you needn't be so nonchalant about it! Personally, I think it is the first bit of fiction that he's written that's been worth a hoot. Colin isn't a fiction writer, you know—he's a reporter, or an essayist. A biographer—or an historian, if you like. His novels have been pretty bad. No one on earth could believe for a minute in his heroines. They give you the impression that Colin never knew any girls. But Julie—ah, Julie—"

She continued to talk, but Ann didn't hear her. Julie! Julie was the heroine of Colin's new book—the one that wasn't out yet. The one that Colin wouldn't show her—the brief little book that Colin had thought the best thing he'd ever done. Colin had refused to show it to her, and here was Millicent, talking of it nonchalantly, naturally believing Ann knew it as well as she did.

Now he was able to cross-ruff the hand out for three-odd, and unlike rubber bridge, a part score in tournament bridge is just as important as a slam on another board would be.

Wainwright Admires Fish That Got Away

BROWNSVILLE — (P) — Gen. Johnathan Wainwright admires a fighter—even the big fish that got away.

He tried his skill at catching Rio Grande tarpon near here, hooked a six-foot silver king and battled the big fellow for 20 minutes only to have the fighter break his line.

"I have no complaints," mused the commanding general of the Fourth Army and hero of Bataan. "That tarpon just outthought me and deserved to get loose."

Col. Q. I. Holman, General Wainwright's aide, also got in some fishing but failed to hook a tarpon.

Dickie's Wild Duck Is A Mad Hatter

PITTSFIELD, MASS.—(P)—Dickie Potter, 11, out walking with his father, Harold F. Potter, spotted a wild duck which appeared to be lame, tried to catch it and missed. But the duck didn't. It grabbed Dickie's hat and disappeared under a bridge. Dickie went in after it and pulled out his hat with the duck at the other end. The bird is now convalescing in the Potters' chicken coop.

District Approves Three Farm Plans

Supervisors of the Martin-Howard Soil Conservation District approved three farm plans at their regular meeting, Herd Midkiff, district supervisor, announced Saturday. These plans for complete soil and water conservation programs, include the farms of A. A. Bryant, Kelley Lewellen, and Cecil Waldrep.

Also approved were applications for assistance in planning a conservation program on 9.725 acres for eleven additional farmers and ranchers of the district.

Soils and range surveys were made by Soil Conservation Service employees last week on the range and farm land of J. M. King, southeast of Midland. These surveys will be used in helping King complete a soil and water conservation plan in cooperation with the district program.

Artist Paints Six AP Reporters Killed During War

By PAUL FRIGGENS
AP Newsfeatures
NEW YORK A group of paintings unprecedented in art—memorial portraits of six AP correspondents who lost their lives covering war fronts—has been completed by the distinguished New York artist, Francis Vandever Kugler.

Each of the correspondents is pictured against a suggestion of the background of the war theater in which he was killed—remarkable likenesses of the men as they looked on the battlefields of the world.

The paintings now hang in The AP general offices in New York. They tell an epic story of heroism and sacrifice for the news from the South Pacific to the snows of Austria.

Five Were Reporters
Five reporters and one photographer compose the memorial group:

Edward J. Neil, fatally wounded by artillery while reporting the Spanish civil war near Teruel, Spain, January 2, 1938.

Edward H. Crockett, lost in the torpedoing of a British destroyer in the Mediterranean, February 5, 1943.

Bede Irvin, photographer, killed by U. S. aerial bombs dropped accidentally over the American front lines near St. Lo, France, July 25, 1944.

Asahel Bush, killed by Japanese aerial bombs at Leyte while reporting the American recapture of the Philippines, October 24, 1944.

Joseph Morton, executed by the Germans at Mauthausen concentration camp in Austria, January 24, 1945, after being taken prisoner with a secret rescue party sent into Slovakia to evacuate Allied airmen.

Daring And Imaginative
Boldly conceived, vigorously interpreted, such a group of canvases probably never before has been attempted. The commission was one of the most difficult. It called for daring, imagination, realism and, above all, authentic documentation.

Postal Receipts In First Quarter Show Great Drop

Postal receipts at the Midland Post Office for the first quarter of this year dropped approximately $5,000 under the figure for the same period in 1945, Acting Postmaster N. G. Oates reported Saturday.

Receipts for the quarter totaled $40,831.82, while the total for the same period last year was $46,800, Oates said. The receipts for the first three months of the year fell $13,000 under the total for the last quarter of last year, which included Christmas mailing receipts.

Oates said postal receipts were declining throughout the country and attributed it to the rapid discharge of service men, who have sent and received a large volume of the record mail the past few years. Air mail business has been greatly affected.

How Dogs Got On Ledge Is Still Big Mystery

LOS ANGELES —(AP)— Deacon and Bandit are inseparable pals, and together they were marooned on an inches-wide ledge 40 feet down the side of precipitous Chavez Ravine.

How they got there, no one could guess, because precipitous in this case means practically perpendicular. But ambulance drivers and other employees of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals hauled them to the top.

Deacon wasn't too much of a problem. He's a black and white Dalmation, weighing 50 pounds. But Bandit is 140 pounds of Great Dane.

It Wasn't Hubby's

MALTA, MONT. —(AP)— When Mrs. James Parker, British war bride, embarked at Southampton, she wondered if her new American husband had neglected to mention he was a ship-owner. Her husband, postal clerk and former GI, explained it was mere coincidence that the name of the ship that brought her to America was the James Parker.

Neither of the dogs, owned by neighbors, seemed disturbed and Deacon celebrated his release by getting into a fight with an Irish Setter which had accompanied his owner to the scene of the rescue.

What Is Free Enterprise

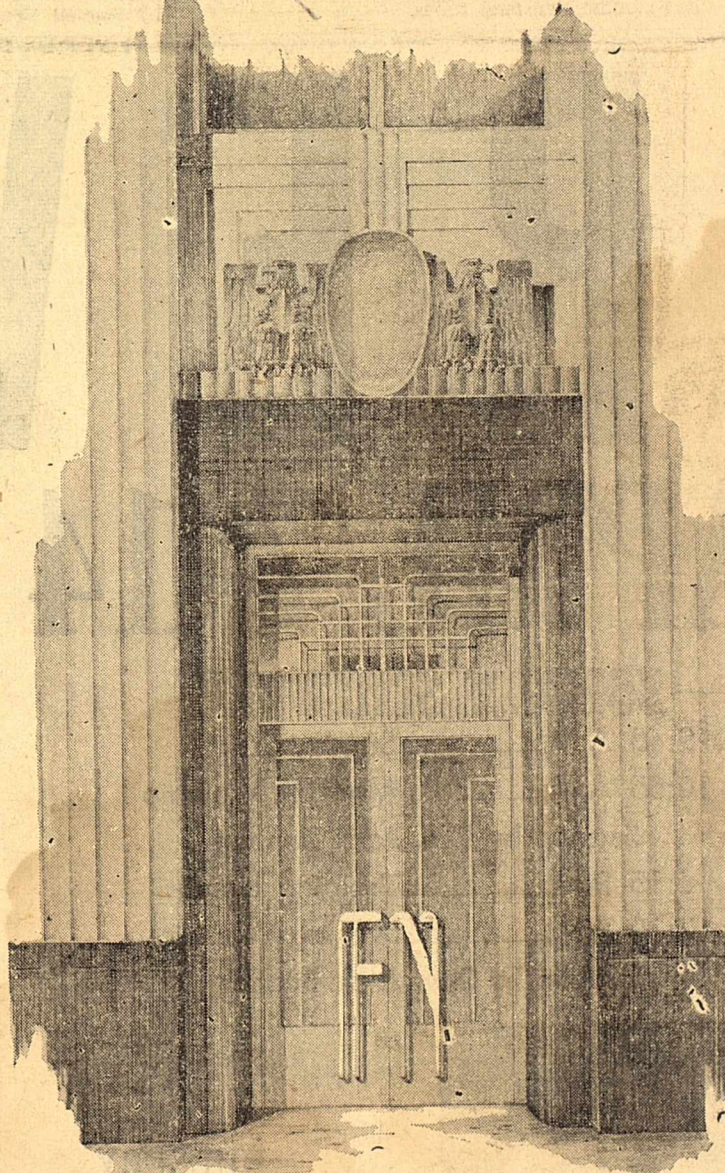

Free Enterprise is a lot of little things—and some big things, too. It's our right to live our own lives—run our ranches, farms and businesses in our own way—without needless interference. It's our right to criticize the government and those in high places, or make a speech on the public square. It's our right to go when and where we choose—to work or not, as we please.

Free Enterprise offers opportunity to all. It rewards hard work, ingenuity and thrift. It thrives on competition and raises our standard of living—encourages invention, stimulates research and promotes progress. It offers us a chance to save and invest and build and grow.

Free Enterprise is the most American thing we have. It is America. Let's keep it.

Looking forward to the time when the U. S. will have a modern and adequate merchant marine, designers are going to town on conceptions of the "ships of tomorrow." Eiffel Tower Gets Back Its Civilian Status In Paris

By ROSETTE HARGROVE
NEA Staff Correspondent

PARIS (NEA)—Paris workmen may soon start coating famed Eiffel Tower with 4,735 pounds of paint to brighten it up for the tourist rush France hopes will come in the near future.

The U. S. Army has just relinquished its radio transmitting station on the third platform of the Tower, 897 feet up, which it used to maintain contact with occupation forces in Germany. The Signal Corps took over from Gen. Jacques Leclerc's 2nd Armored Division, which in turn grabbed it from German occupying forces August 24, 1944.

Eiffel Tower Company officials resumed operating control of the building when the Army moved out. The company director was indignant at rumors that the Tower was unsafe.

"It's good for many years to come and furthermore, I defy anyone to do anything better today," he said. "It still represents an engineering feat which has no counterpart in any other country of the world. Until the Empire State and Chrysler buildings were completed, it was the tallest structure in the world."

Made entirely of steel, the Eiffel Tower is 977 feet tall, and weighs 16,400,000 pounds. There are three platforms, the first 185 feet up, the second at 374 feet, and the third at 897 feet. All can be reached by either a stairway or elevators.

Restaurants once flourished on the first and second platforms, but their business ended when the war swept into Paris. Late last summer,

Riders Of Purple Sage Turn Authors Of Adventures In Lone Star State

By JACK RUTLEDGE
Associated Press Staff

Texas is growing up, culturally. It's a big boy now.

Its riders of the purple sage are becoming writers of the purple page. Take a look at recent offerings by new Texas authors: Hart Stilwell of Brownsville has a new book on the market—a $5 job called "Hunting and Fishing in Texas." Published by Alfred A. Knopf, it's a quality product replete with photographs and color pictures.

Stilwell is the author of "Border City", a controversial novel that a night-club for Allied enlisted men was opened on the first platform, and more than 665,000 GIs and their dates came to enjoy the view and dance and drink. The club closed Nov. 12, 1945.

Built in 1889 Alexandre-Gustave Eiffel built the Tower for the Paris Exposition of 1889. Parisians in those days thought it a blot on the landscape—until it became a mecca for tourists.

During World War I it was taken over by the French Military and held until 1920. In World War II, the French Military again took control, but managed to smash all mechanical equipment, from radios to elevators, just before the Germans arrived on June 14, 1940. The Germans had to climb the hundreds of steps to the third platform to install their own transmitters before the elevators were repaired.

The city of Paris owns the Tower, and its operators pay the city an annual ground rental. A staff of 100 engineers, bookkeepers and operating personnel is employed in normal times.

Moral Leadership Needed To Shape Safe, Sane World

By DEWITT MacKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Our troubled world could profit from the striking lesson which the outspoken Gen. Douglas MacArthur has read us in calling on his Army chaplains to "exert strong and direct moral leadership" over occupation troops in Japan.

The specific occasion of this move is the fear expressed by some Americans that there is "widespread, promiscuous relationship between members of the occupying forces and Japanese women of immoral character." The general states that several times he has commended "the high standard maintained by our forces engaged in the occupation," and has "seen nothing to discount that view." Nevertheless he has acted promptly on the strength of letters received from American homes.

MacArthur, who never has been afraid to talk right out loud about spiritual and moral matters, has combined precept and action. He has taken measures to curb prostitution and to provide the troops with healthful recreation. But he recognizes that these alone are not a cure. He says moral leadership also is necessary.

Spiritual Collapse

That is particularly impressive to your columnist who has just returned from a Europe which is suffering in many areas from moral and spiritual collapse.

The Reich, of course, is one of the worst spots because Hitler deliberately debased and savaged his people so that they would follow him in his program of slaughter and conquest.

They say every cloud has its silver lining, and the bright spot in this dark picture is that there still are Germans, like the famous Pastor Niemoeller, who recognize that moral reconstruction is essential to recovery. As yet they are voices crying in the wilderness, but they are a determined lot and are joining their efforts to those of occupation authorities.

Religious bodies, irrespective of creed, are joining hands in this crusade which is being directed at all activities, including the political. I spent considerable time in the American and British zones and found the authorities utilizing to the full the efforts of these native workers for moral rehabilitation. And it is good to be able to report that progress, slow but definite, is being made.

A formal gesture of Egyptian hospitality is the serving of a small cup of coffee.

NYLONS WITH COTTON TOPS SHOULD DRY LONGER

If your new nylons have rayon tops, be sure to let them dry a full 48 hours before wearing. Cotton tops and feet also require longer drying than nylon itself.

AMBASSADOR

There are many ambassadors of goodwill, but King Cotton claims to have the most beautiful. She is Miss Gwin Earnwell of Gastonia, N. C., and Greenwood, Miss., the 1946 Maid of Cotton. Miss Earnwell is busy carrying the cotton industry's greetings to business and civic leaders of major United States cities.

One For Cacklers To Crow About

CASPER, WYO. —(P)— Sidney Gibson of Casper warmed up for some egg eating by drinking a glass of beer with two raw henfruit in it and followed this with another beer with three eggs. He then bet he could eat another dozen and did it. Bob Triplett wagered Gibson that he couldn't eat three more dozen. The egg demolisher swept through that marathon and with score 53 eggs and two beers turned to the bartender and said: "Another beer, please, with a raw egg in it."

LIGHTS FOR MAKEUP

To do a good makeup job try to have two lights, one on either side of your mirror. This will also provide good illumination for close shaves.

Advertisements For Support Of Churches Start

The first of a series of "support the church" advertisements, made possible through the sponsorship of Midland business establishments, appears in this issue. Others in the series will appear in subsequent issues throughout the year.

This particular series of "support the church" appeals has been highly praised by church leaders of various denominations and by numerous newspaper people. This series has won special commendation for the visual and human appeal of the illustrations and for the interesting and convincing nature of the script. They were designed to appeal to all Americans, both those of no church affiliations and those who are church members.

When the series was first brought to attention of The Reporter-Telegram several months ago, Midland clergymen were asked for their criticism of the copy and as to their attitude on the publishing of such copy at regular periods. Unanimously the clergy endorsed the idea.

This campaign has been designed to meet a recognized need for constructive church advertising in the secular press and is strictly non-denominational. With approximately 55 per cent of the American population un-churched and with something like 20,000,000 youth not receiving religious training, many outstanding church leaders see the need for legitimate and proper church advertising.

Australia's wool industry began in 1793 when 30 sheep arrived from Calcutta, and a few English sheep were brought from Ireland.

ANN sat up in bed, and looked across at her husband, who was still sleeping. "Colin," she said presently. Then again, louder, "Colin?"

"My dear?" he said sleepily, not opening his eyes.

"You sound familiar," Ann said musingly. "I wonder why it is that I sometimes feel I don't really know you?"

Colin yawned, then opened his eyes. "When I get out from behind these whiskers, it may help," he suggested, rubbing his chin reflectively.

"Silly! I smell bacon," Ann sniffed. "That angel Susie! Let's get up—I'm hungry."

He turned over and regarded her sleepily. "Why?"

Ann swung out of bed, and threw herself upon him. "Lazy-bones, I'm taking Susie into town, and if we want to get there in time to get anything done, we've got to start before long. We'll stay a day or two, if you can spare the car."

Colin pulled her close to him. "I can spare the car better than I can you," he murmured.

"Sweet one," she said, turning to kiss his nose. "How's your novel, duck?"

"Drake," Colin corrected her absently. "It's finished."

Ann sat up indignantly. "Where is it?"

"In the hands of my publisher—may he treat it gently."

"And I haven't seen it!"

"Time enough, my sweet. Did I ever tell you how beautiful you are? No? Remind me to tell you sometime. I can wax pretty lyrical on the subject. In fact—"

"Oh, you're hopeless!" Ann said, and vanished into her dressing room.

COLIN came out of the post office and started toward home. A car stopped beside him,

"I'm afraid I don't understand what you mean. Ann wouldn't prosecute because she was sorry for Helga. He left town because there never would be a job for him here after what happened."

"I know that, and of course everyone else should, too. But Beulah is insinuating that it was a very convenient accident—oh hell, I can't tell you. It's obviously absurd, but people will believe anything!"

"Please tell me the rest of it," Colin said, between set teeth.

Joan flushed. She was silent while she swung the car into the driveway, and stopped the engine. Then she faced Colin squarely. "The implication is that the child Ann lost wasn't yours." She caught her breath, then burst out, "It's all so hellishly, damnably rotten, and there's no way of stopping her. Oh God, why didn't somebody strangle that woman years ago?"

"I'd rather enjoy doing it myself," Colin said grimly. "Her little story certainly puts us both in a pretty light, doesn't it? Am I supposed to be a moron, or didn't she say?—never mind. Do you have any suggestions?"

Joan shook her head. "I'm hoping Ann could think of some way to shut her mouth."

"No," Colin said violently. "Ann's not to know of this—not now or ever. Good God, hasn't Ann had enough to bear these last few months? I could have Skippy fired, though I'd hate to—but then they'd leave town."

Joan shook her head. "Don't blame Skippy. I'm sure he doesn't even know about it. Beulah chooses her audience with discrimination. And that would make it worse, don't you see?"

"Yes," Colin said reflectively. "I guess you're right. Do you suppose if I saw her—no, that would not do any good. She doesn't bear me any special love, since Millie is spreading around the town. It's all very insidious, but her innuendos are worse than plain statements would be. The general idea is that you didn't prosecute Pete Carpell, but got him out of town because the accident was fortunate for Ann and she made it worth his while."

If you like to play the queen over the jack, you will enjoy today's hand, played by William B. Hill, Jr., at the Woodward Bridge Club in New York.

Hill won the opening spade lead with the jack and then led the five of diamonds. When East played low, Hill went up with dummy's king, assuming that the queen was over the jack. He played the queen of spades next, overtook with the king and led the jack of clubs.

Owl Had Hoot-Spread Of Four Blocks

TRENTON, N. J. —(AP)— Nights are quiet now in the heart of New Jersey's capital. An owl that had made the steeple of Prospect St. Presbyterian Church its home in recent weeks has been killed.

Harold A. Peterson, steeplejack shot the bird. It had a wingspread of four feet and—of more importance to local residence—a hoot-spread of four blocks.

Borden Company Pays $12,900,133 In State

The Borden Company paid out $12,900,133 in Texas during 1945, it has been announced.

Disbursements were to farmers and other suppliers of raw materials, employees and to state and local government for taxes.

In addition, 845 Borden stockholders in the state shared in the company's profits.

Three ex-GIs who know what the word service means have found that their practice of giving the best merchandise and the best service possible at the Westland Grocery and Market has gained them a good patronage.

Johnnie Carter and Lige Midkiff, former Army men, operate the modern grocery store located at the intersection of Highway 80 and the Andrews Highway, across from the Pagoda Park. L. D. "Dub" Towery, an ex-sailor, leases the well equipped and up-to-date market.

The store originally was a neighborhood grocery, but its complete stocks of high quality merchandise have brought it city-wide patronage. People from throughout the city have found that it not only is economical, but also time-saving to drive out to the well-stocked store, or to order by telephone. The store operates an efficient delivery service.

The best of foods plus the best service—and lots of both—is the policy which has brought success to the store. The ex-GIs invite a trial of both, and feel sure persons who have not yet patronized the store will continue to shop at the Westland Grocery & Market once they make their initial visit or order.

Faith Alone CAN GUIDE MAN'S FOOTSTEPS INTO THE FUTURE

In these days of swift change and catastrophic events the eyes of thoughtful men turn from the present to the unknown future. What does it hold for them, their families, their friends and their world?

Behind the dark veil that separates today from tomorrow may lie strange, new forces, treacherous tides, innumerable hidden dangers and new foes of human life and happiness. These are the great uncertainties of life.

The man of today, like his primitive ancestor, peers anxiously, even fearfully, into the future and tries to solve its mysteries, but the effort is futile. His vision is unable to pierce the darkness that shrouds tomorrow and tomorrow and tomorrow.

Yet man has risen from primitive degradation, through all the difficulties and dangers of the revolving years, to his present civilized estate. He has fought the beasts of the forests, the diseases of the jungle, the pangs of hunger and the sting of cold—and has survived.

He has survived and become preeminent in the world because he possessed faith—faith in himself and his race, and faith in a Supreme Being who drew the pattern of the universe and made the laws that govern human destinies.

This is the golden thread that runs through human history. It is the key to all the uncertainties and mysteries. It is the light that has guided man's footsteps into his eternal futures.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend and support the Church of his choice. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to Church on Sunday.
