

Limelight To Focus On Girl Scout And Brownie Play Night Activities

The finest Brownie is practicing her smile song. The intermediate is watching her dance steps. The Senior Scout is planning with determination her part. All this special activity is for the Play Night presentation by all of Midland's Girl Scouts in Lackey Field beginning at 7:30 p. m., May 3.

One girl from each Girl Scout troop will comprise the color guard whose entry on the field will start off the show. These girls have been selected by popular vote of the various troops. Next on the program comes a drill team. Here, too, all of the 200 Girl Scouts will take part.

Next on the program come the Brownies—these are the younger Girl Scouts—their ages range from seven to nine. At 10 they "fly up" and become regular Girl Scouts.

Known the country over is the Brownie smile song referred to usually by these minute Girl Scouts as "I've Somethin' in My Pocket". Midland's Brownies will sing it as well as "We Are the Brownie". These troops are under the leadership of Misses W. W. West, Sherwood O'Neal, Ben Bizzell, J. B. Zant, C. W. Farris, Troy Stephenson, E. F. Alstrin, and J. E. Bliss.

Intermediate Scouts will be in the limelight next. These are the 10 to 12-year-old Girl Scouts. They will do the Polka. Troop One led by Mrs. Delbert Downing, Troop Four, by Mrs. Walter Fleming, and Troop 12 under the directorship of Mrs. L. A. Searles will perform this dance.

Troops Two, Seven and Eight will dance Skip to My Lou for the audience. The respective leaders of these Intermediate Girl Scouts are: Troop Two, Mrs. Charles Galbraith, Troop Seven, Mrs. David Johnston, Troop Eight, Mrs. Don Johnson and Mrs. William S. Blackman.

All the Girl Scouts will participate in competitive games. The winning troop will be presented with a pennant which it can keep until the 1947 Play Day.

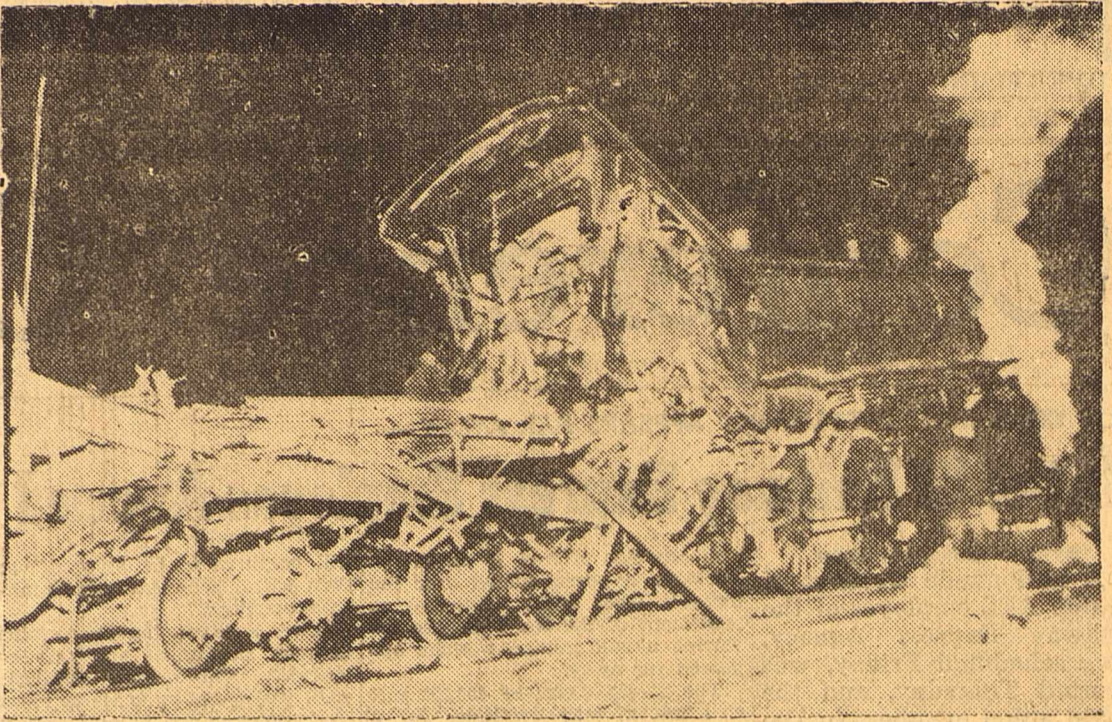

Mrs. Harold Hall is in charge of the dances and drills. Mrs. O. L. Hearlein is program chairman.

Anniversary Problems

The Big Four foreign ministers are meeting Paris exactly one year after the United Nations delegates convened in San Francisco to draft a charter for the preservation of world peace. The Paris meeting will again take up the task of settling some paralyzing differences which have endured among the great powers for seven anxious months. And until that task is done the road to peace, progress and prosperity is blocked.

The United Nations, as a world organization, has taken some impressive strides in its first year. Already it has met with difficulties and solved them in an adequate if not brilliant manner. But, for all its hopeful activity, the UN has really been marking time. For it cannot protect and maintain peace until it knows what sort of a peace it will have to deal with.

There has been nothing impressive in the activities of the Council of Foreign Ministers. Its London meeting of September-October wound up a discouraging and complete failure. At the end of 22 days the ministers were so completely at odds that it was not even possible to issue a final communique. There was not one positive accomplishment or any plans for the future.

A subsequent meeting in Moscow accomplished little more than to set the date for the forthcoming conferences. The ministers remained stalled on the question of a treaty with Italy, which had top place on the agenda. There are numerous questions there which so far have been irreconcilable. And there are other matters awaiting discussion which promise to be equally troublesome until certain fundamental differences are ironed out.

Key differences were all too apparent at the London meeting. Russia, rather typically, insisted that the three most powerful prosecutors of the war should make all the decisions regarding the peace. In practice, it developed that Russia had certain demands to make from which she would not budge, and until they were met there would be no progress toward peace treaties or lasting peace.

At London, and later at Moscow, Secretary Byrnes did not show to particularly good advantage. He appeared to be handicapped by the lack of a definite, positive, long-range foreign policy.

Since the Moscow meeting in December, however, the American government's attitude has stiffened perceptibly, even though its foreign policy is still the vaguest in the Big Three, and there remains a strong popular and congressional disposition to reduce our armed forces below the danger line.

That attitude must be maintained, not to override other powers and impose our will upon them, but to impress upon them that compromise is the only solution, and that it must be arrived at quickly.

Justice or inequity, contentment or unrest, war or peace, and the fate of millions, are intimately concerned with the results of these compromises. No one nation can force its nationalistic aims upon the world.

Battle Of Building Begins

Housing Administrator and Expediter Wilson W. Wyatt has been on the job three months and a half, in which time he hasn't built one new house.

Early in February he announced his emergency program to build 2,700,000 houses by Jan. 1, 1948. It has taken two and a half months since then to get legislation authorizing him to start to work.

Even so, that's something of a record for speed. When the Wyatt program was first presented to Congress, the most optimistic predictions were that it would take six months for passage. Getting the job done in less than half that time is the expediter's first good break.

In announcing his program, Wyatt said every month's delay in getting started would mean a loss of 75,000 housing units. The loss so far in 1946, therefore, represents more housing than was built in all of 1945.

It really isn't quite that bad. While the government has been getting organized, private industry has been getting started. Construction figures on the first three months of 1946, just released by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, show $517,000,000 worth of new residential construction begun. This represents less than 20,000 family units per month, however, and it isn't nearly enough. It will have to be five times that much in order to achieve the goal of 2,700,000 new units in the next two years.

Too many people hunt for an argument—only to lose it.

London recently had a record fog, suggesting a new slogan for the city—now you see it, now you don't!

U. S. May Cut Use Of Flour By More Than 25 Per Cent

WASHINGTON —(P)—Americans may have to take a still sharper cut in flour supplies than the 25 per cent reduction ordered to make more bread available for hunger sufferers abroad.

This possibility arose Thursday as the government pressed a wheat buying program which has the effect of closing the market to other buyers, including millers and food processors. Grain thus obtained will be used to help feed famine areas.

The government is in a position to dominate the wheat market because it has been authorized to pay farmers a 30-cent-a-bushel bonus over current market prices which are at ceiling levels. Other buyers cannot meet the government offer without violating OPA price ceilings.

As a result, millers are limited to supplies of wheat they have on hand. Some have reported they have enough to last them less than two weeks. By May 1, all mills must reduce their supplies to 21 days' requirements, if they have more than that amount. Stocks above the 21-day supply must be sold to the government.

Just what mills will do for wheat after their 21-day supply runs out is the big question being asked by the industry.

Agriculture Department grain authorities say it is possible that virtually all the wheat remaining in the country, except reserves held by farmers, will be owned by the government by late May. But some of these authorities doubt there is enough wheat remaining to fill export commitments and to supply Americans with flour at the 75 per cent rate.

Best War Memorial I Know

There's an old war memorial in our town that I like to stop and look at now and then.

Back in 1865, folks gathered up all the bitter relics of battle and put them in a pile: cannon, battered rifles, broken swords, and rusted bayonets. Some of them from our side, some captured from the enemy.

They melted them down, and from this litter of war sprang a monument to friendship, tolerance and understanding—a promise that the bitterness and hatred were forgotten.

Wainwright To Honor Texan Credited With Killing 30 Germans

EDINBURG —(P)—Three Army generals and one admiral arrive here Thursday to honor Pedro Cano, a former private first class who is credited with killing 30 Germans.

Heading the list of high-ranking officers is Gen. Jonathan Wainwright, Fourth Army commander and of Corregidor fame, who presents the one-striper doughnut the Distinguished Service Cross, the nation's highest military award, with the exception of the Congressional Medal of Honor.

The admiral is Rear Adm. J. J. (Jocko) Clark, commander of the Naval Air Intermediate Training Command at Corpus Christi.

From Mexico Gen. Eulogio Ortiz, division commander of Monterrey, heads a group of high-ranking officers.

Cano, a Latin-American resident of Edinburg, won the medal for action in European combat. He was reported mopping up Bazooka cleaning out German machinegun nests in the Hurtgen Forest. After counting up the 30-odd Nazi soldiers for whom he had accounted, he was promised a promotion. A buck private at the time, he is still not sure, he says, whether he got that pie stripe or not.

Farmers Union Endorses National Health Bill

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The National Farmers Union "unqualifiedly" endorsed the Administration's national health insurance bill Thursday. James G. Patton, the union's president, called the measure "the first real attack ever made on the health problems of rural people."

In a statement prepared for the Senate Labor Committee which is studying the program Patton challenged critics who contend the bill envisions "state socialism." This is "nonsense," he declared, adding that "every advance in the use of governmental power for the people has been greeted with the same phrase."

Patton asserted that voluntarily health plans, while commendable, will not do the job because they cannot give complete coverage.

Poland To Acquire U. S. Industrial Equipment

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Poland won assurances Thursday of $90,000,000 worth of badly-needed American industrial equipment after promising anew to hold free elections and not to discriminate against the United States in international trade.

The State Department Wednesday night announced that the government had granted Poland a $40,000,000 loan and also had arranged for that country to acquire surplus United States property in Europe valued at $50,000,000.

Mother Of Carol Ann Says $75 Not Enough

HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — The question of $75 weekly to support Carol Ann Berry was left in the hands of three appellate court justices. Joan Berry, 26, mother of 2-year-old Carol Ann, says $75 is inadequate and not commensurate with the worth of Charles Chaplin, which she estimated at $3,000,000. But attorneys for the actor, 56, adjudged Carol Ann's father, asked the court to set aside the paternity judgment on the ground that it was not based on evidence.

Cigaret Multiple-Pack Prices Hiked Slightly

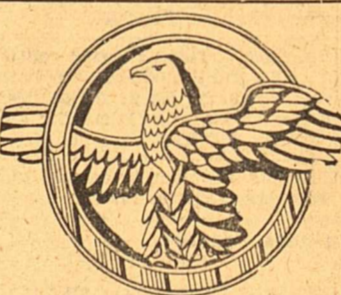

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Retail cigarette prices are up Thursday—except on single-pack over-the-counter sales.

The price hike is a half-cent a pack on multiple pack sales, five cents on a carton of 10, and one cent a pack on vending machine sales.

The reason for the higher prices is an increase of almost 50 per cent in tobacco costs since the start of the war, OPA said in announcing the new schedule Wednesday night.

Texas Star To Adorn Cathedral In London

AUSTIN—(AP)—The Lone Star of Texas may shine in a stained glass window in a chapel in St. Paul's Cathedral in London soon.

Plans are under way in London for a memorial chapel to commemorate Americans who lost their lives and were buried in England, or those who died in operations from bases in the British Isles. Gov. Coke Stevenson was notified by U. S. Army authorities in London.

It has been suggested that each state send a reproduction of its coat of arms for inclusion in a stained glass window of the chapel, Stevenson was informed.

Francis J. Henshaw, state librarian, found that the Texas coat of arms and its state seal, both dating back to 1839 when Texas was still a Republic, have the same design.

The coat of arms, however, is in color, a white star on an azure background, encircled by an olive branch and a live oak branch.

This was reproduced by Bill Short, World War II veteran and tutor in the University of Texas school of architecture, and will be sent to London by the governor.

The independence movement began in Chile in 1910, with the ousting of the Spanish ruler Captain General Antonio Garcia Carrasco.

Charles Chennault Re-Enlists In AAF

MOBILE, ALA.—(AP)—A slender, dark-haired young man walked into the Army recruiting office here, said he was Charles L. Chennault and wanted to re-enlist in the Army Air Forces.

"Any relation to Maj. Gen. Claire L. Chennault?" kidded the recruiting sergeant.

"Certainly, he's my old man," Chennault replied.

A few minutes later, 28-year-old S/Sgt. Chennault was sworn in for another hitch in the AAF in the Mobile Air Technical Service Command's recruiting office.

Beginner's Luck For Rookie Cop

RIO DE JANEIRO—(AP)—The rookie policeman brought in his first prisoner, a negro lad charged with carrying a knife. He proudly presented the boy to the captain of the district police station, remarking: "He resisted arrest but I brought him in without much trouble."

The captain took one look at the prisoner and shouted:

"Great Scott! That's the famous murderer, Ze da Ilha!"

The new policeman was so astonished that he had to sit down and have a glass of water.

Ducks Nearly Wreck British Flying Boat

DURBAN, SOUTH AFRICA—(AP)—The British Overseas Airways flying boat Caledonia arrived two days late. The craft was coming down to land at Malakal and had just crossed the edge of the Nile, which is lined with reeds and bushes, when a flock of ducks flew up. One duck collided with a wing and then wrapped itself round the forward wing stay of the float.

The captain brought the plane down skilfully. Passengers were unaware that the leading edge of the wing had been pushed back about a foot. It took the crew two days to make repairs.

Unsigned Letter To Jap Scientist Was Dropped With Nagasaki's Bomb

By TOM L. SHAFER (Copyright, 1946, by NEA)

TOKYO — A few minutes after Nagasaki was rocked by the second atomic bombing of Japan, an unsigned, handwritten letter to Japan's leading nuclear physicist floated down on Omura naval base.

The mission of the pencilled note was to urge the Jap scientist to persuade the general staff to surrender, but he did not receive it until early October; by then, the urging was hardly necessary.

Existence of the letter was revealed by the man to whom it was addressed—Prof. Ryokichi Sagane of the Imperial University—when he turned the missive over to Dr. Wilson Compton of the American Education Mission to Japan. Dr. Compton has taken the letter back to the United States and will give it to his brother, Dr. K. T. Compton, president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, who played a prominent role in the atomic drama. Found August 9.

Prof. Sagane said the letter was found by a Japanese naval officer at Omura, not far from Nagasaki, on August 9. It was concealed in the base of a four-foot aluminum tube which contained, besides the letter, an oscillator designed to record pressure waves set up by the atomic bomb.

Although the unique method of "mailing" did not bring the letter to Prof. Sagane until long after it was dropped, it apparently excited the curiosity of Japanese high officials; when he finally received it, the letter was given him by Vice Admiral Nakamura, who was in the top echelon of naval command.

Sagane, who was in another part of Japan when the letter—and the bomb—were dropped, believes other copies of the letter were dropped, since the one he received was in carbon. But he never received any others.

The letter was headed as coming from "three of your former scientific colleagues during your stay in the United States." Sagane, speculating on the authorship, recalled several prominent American physicists with whom he became acquainted during the year he spent studying cyclotrons at the Radiation Laboratory of the University of California in 1935. He thought of a Dr. Serber and a Dr. Louis Alvarez, among others, and of Dr. P. Abelson, Dr. G. Richardson, and a Dr. Paxton.

Planned Cyclotron
The studies Sagane made in the U. S. have run the full circle in those 11 years; the Japanese cyclotron was built under his direction according to plans he had submitted. Not long after surrender, it was destroyed by U. S. War Department order.

The text of the letter follows:
Headquarters
Atomic Bomb Command
August 9, 1945

To: Prof. R. Sagane
From: Three of your former scientific colleagues during your stay in the United States.

We are sending this as a personal message to urge that you use your influence as a reputable nuclear physicist, to convince the Japanese General Staff of the terrible consequences which will be suffered by your people if you continue in this war.

You have known for several years that an atomic bomb could be built if a nation were willing to pay the enormous cost of preparing the necessary material. Now that you have seen that we have constructed the production plants, there can be no doubt in your mind that all the output of these factories, working 24 hours a day, will be exploded on your homeland.

Within the space of three weeks, we have proof-fired one bomb in the American desert, exploded one in Hiroshima, and fired the third this morning.

We implore you to confirm these facts to your leaders and to do your utmost to stop the destruction and waste of life which can only result in the total annihilation of all your cities if continued. As scientists, we deplore the use to which a beautiful discovery has been put, but we can assure you that unless Japan surrenders at once, this rain of atomic bombs will increase manifold in fury.

Trainman, Spare That Horse—For Fertilizer

ARKANSAS CITY, KAN.—(AP)—A small negro boy's cries for help, mingled with a not-too-distant train whistle, brought neighbors scurrying to the Spring Creek railroad trestle.

A tired, old horse the boy had been leading had wedged a leg between the ties.

Flagging the train, the neighbors and crewmen pulled the horse free. Then someone asked the boy why he was crossing the trestle with the horse.

"I was taking him to the rendering company to be ground up into fertilizer," he said.

Flier's Classmates Regard French Village

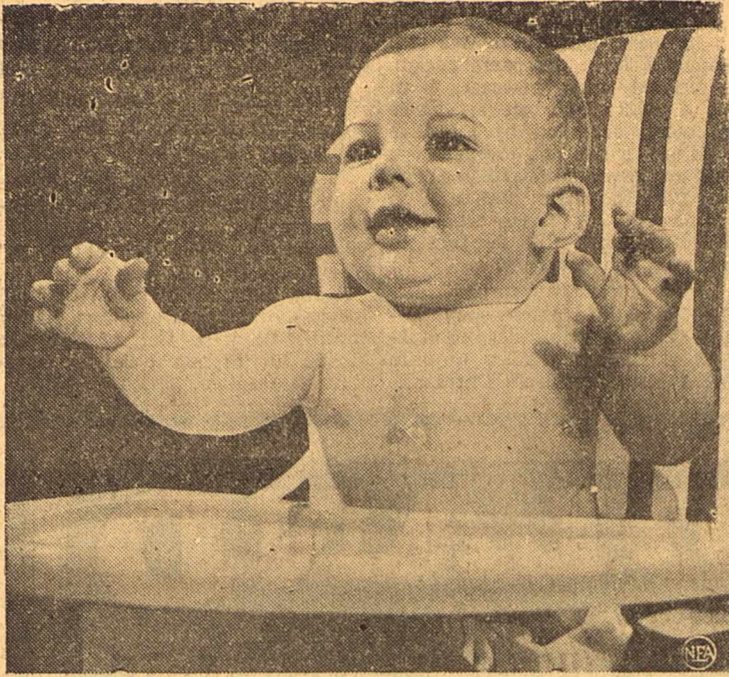

NEW WILMINGTON, PA.—(AP)—The kindness the little French village of Auxonne showed an American flier who escaped from a German prison train and sought refuge there, is going to pay dividends. The flier, William McChesney, returned to his studies at Westminster College and told the story in chapel one day. Now the student body is sending food and clothing to Auxonne.

BUSMAN TAKES SERVICEMEN ON TRIP ON NICKEL FARE

WICHITA, KAN.—(AP)—Dale Cook, a bus driver, picked up a soldier and sailor in downtown Wichita and let them off at a highway where they could hitch-hike a ride west. That evening Cook and his wife left in the family car for Colorado. When they reached Las Animas, there were the soldier and sailor, thumbing a ride. Cook took them to Canon City. "That," remarked the sailor, recalling the five cents fare he paid for the bus ride in Wichita, "was the longest ride I ever got for a nickel."

Five Key Factors Govern Growth

G. I. Joe, Jr.—All-American boy with an All-American appetite.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Staff Writer

Next Saturday, the 27th, National Baby Week begins. May 1st is celebrated as Child Health Day.

Children need many food elements for healthy growth. These indispensable nutritional elements, listed with the foods in which they are found most plentifully and with the functions they serve, are:

PROTEIN: Milk, meat, fish, eggs—To repair worn out tissues; to build new tissues.

MINERALS: Milk, green vegetables, fruit, egg yolk, meat, fish, whole-grain cereals—To maintain body processes; to build bones, teeth, blood and other parts of the body.

There are four nutritionally-important vitamins: VITAMIN A: Whole milk, cream, butter, egg yolk, cod liver oil, liver, dark green leafy vegetables. (Vitamin A is lacking in margarine except that made from beef fat.)—For growth; to increase resistance to infections; and to prevent xerophthalmia (an eye disease); VITAMIN B1: Vegetables (especially leafy vegetables), whole-grain cereals (especially those containing the germ of the grain), fruit, and, to a slight extent, milk—For growth; to stimulate appetite; and to prevent beri-beri (a disease of the nervous system); VITAMIN C: Raw fruit (especially citrus fruit—oranges, grapefruit, lemons), raw or canned tomatoes, raw cabbage, raw carrots, raw turnips (pulp or juice)—For growth; to help build good teeth; and to prevent scurvy; VITAMIN D: Cod liver oil, egg yolk—To prevent rickets; and to help build good teeth.

ROUGHAGE: Fruit, vegetables, whole-grain cereals, and bread—To regulate bowels and prevent constipation.

WATER: Fruit, vegetables, milk, and soups. (In addition, some drinking water must be taken every day.)—To help build and maintain blood and tissues; to provide proper elimination by kidneys and intestines; and to help regulate body heat.

HOUSINGER HEADS TEXAS PIONEER ASSOCIATION

SAN ANTONIO.—(AP)—Edward W. Housinger is the new president of the State Association of Texas pioneers, succeeding Buck West, also of San Antonio. The election was held here as registration began for the association's 28th annual conference.

MacKENZIE'S COLUMN

One of the most momentous of the Allied post-war conferences is underway in Paris—the meeting of the Big Four foreign ministers: Byrnes of America, Molotov of Russia, Bevin of Britain and Bidault of France.

It isn't going too far to say that the fate of the United Nations peace organization may turn on this meeting.

This parley is concerned with drawing up the terms of the peace mania, Bulgaria and Finland. Its importance lies in the fact that the realignment of the Anglo-Russian spheres of influence is heavily involved in these pacts.

The conference is likely to provide a showdown between Moscow and London in the maneuvering for strategic positions.

Mediterranean Is Issue

An outstanding issue is the Mediterranean area, which not only is a vital link in Britain's lifeline to the imperial connections in the Far East but is one of the chief bulwarks of England's influence in Europe, North Africa and the Middle East. Russia has made it known in no uncertain terms that she intends to gain a place in the Mediterranean sun.

So the Soviet Union's challenge to British influence is the paramount problem at this writing.

Word from the French capital is that French sources express a desire to achieve conciliation in the matter of the Italian treaty. Some quarters, however, express doubt that Britain and the United States will be able to see eye to eye with Russia.

We know Russia and England can't see eye to eye over this, though we may hope that they will.

American officials are inclining to the view that the British Empire system is so important to general peace that Uncle Sam can't afford to see it disrupted.

Apparently French officials are battenning down the hatches in anticipation of bad weather. The conference is being held in secrecy. Newspaper folk are permitted to get near, and it is said that there will be no announcements prior to the end, to indicate what progress is being made.

One thing we do know. There will have to be some vigorous horse-trading if the conference is to succeed.

Wife Gets Divorce From Sergeant Who Fathered Quads

PITTSBURGH—(P)—Mrs. William Thompson, 27-year-old beauty operator, asked a divorce Wednesday from her ex-GI husband, who fathered quadruplets by an English WAAF and after a 10-minute hearing Judge Thomas M. Marshall said he would grant her uncontested plea "right away."

Mrs. Thompson testified that "the case's notoriety" had subjected her to "indignities." She said "curious" people embarrassed her, that she was "pointed out" on the street, spent "many a sleepless night," and lost 23 pounds.

The pretty brunette, modishly garbed in cerise and black, said she first received word of the case March 1, 1944, when a newsman telephoned from New York to say her husband, then an Army Air Forces sergeant, was the father of quadruplets in England.

Judge Marshall congratulated Mrs. Thompson for charging indignities rather than "other

Rubber Firms To Surpass Goal Of 66,000,000 Tires

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Good news for motorists: the rubber industry bids fair to surpass its towering production goal of 66,000,000 new passenger tires this year.

Civilian production officials made this encouraging forecast Wednesday, saying the record output drive is being helped by new cotton yarn controls protecting tire cord supplies.

The industry's goal is 13,000,000 tires more than the estimated 53,000,000 passenger casings produced in the previous banner year of 1941.

Despite the present bright outlook, however, CPA officials cautioned motorists that retail dealers probably will continue to run a week or two behind on tire deliveries throughout the summer, catching up with day-to-day demand only in the final quarter of the year.

As advice to intending vacationers, one CPA spokesman offered: "Put yourself on a dealer's list in plenty of time, expect delivery in 10 days to two weeks, have one of the old tires recapped for a spare."

Yarn Production Helps

Fair in the forefront of reconversion, tire manufacturers so far this year have eclipsed 1941's peak production rate but are crowding the limit of their materials supply.

One major difficulty, the shortage of yarn for tire cords which has plagued manufacturers in recent weeks, should be relieved by the emergency "freeze" of cotton yarn mill spindles on May 1, CPA rubber officials predicted.

The freeze will restore to essential production all spindles which were making the needed garment and industrial yarns on December 31. It is accompanied by a price increase as a "production incentive" and a set-aside to prevent the yarn from being diverted into non-essential uses.

"With this threat removed, there seems to be no reason why the tire industry cannot beat its 1946 production goal," a CPA spokesman said. "Prolongation of the coal strike could hurt badly, however."

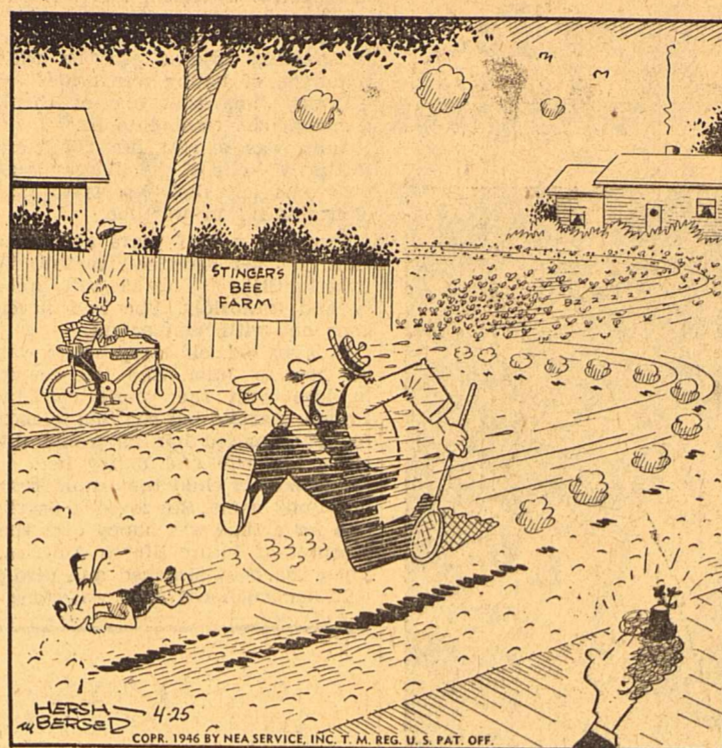

The shortage of truck and bus tires already has eased off to such an extent that dealers in some sections are building up some inventory supplies. The same is true of tractor and other farm-vehicle tires in certain areas.

In the passenger tire field, however, the expected 25 per cent increase in demand during the summer probably will offset the ahead-of-schedule progress of the tire companies, CPA officials said.

How to conserve bread

The Famine Emergency Committee has asked Americans to cooperate during the present food emergency to conserve bread so that starving people in other lands may be fed. We offer in the following suggestions ways to save precious bread.

WHEN YOU BUY BREAD—Buy the size loaf that fits your family... small loaves for small families, large loaves for large families. Plan to have no bread left over from one shopping trip to the next. If you must buy bread for several days' use, get two small loaves rather than one large loaf.

TO KEEP YOUR BREAD FRESH—Open the wrapper at one end of the loaf only. Remove the heel, take out only the slices needed, replace the heel, and fold over waxed paper.

TO FRESHEN DRY BREAD—If your bread becomes slightly dry, sprinkle the wrapper around the bread with water or put the bread in a paper sack and sprinkle. Place in a moderate oven (350° F.) for about 10 minutes or until bread is heated through. Serve immediately for a homemade-bread flavor.

MELBA TOAST—Use leftover sliced bread. Place on a baking sheet in a single layer and dry out in slow oven (250° F.) about 1 1/2 hours or until a tempting tawny brown. Store in an airtight container and use as needed. Use in place of bread for breakfast, lunch, dinner or as a snack.

Let Finishes 2 Years Of High School In 2 Days

NORMAL, ILL. —(P)— Jay Carter breezed through the last two years of high school in two days. The 23-year-old former infantry captain enrolled in the Veterans School at Illinois State Normal University. After attending classes under a special tutoring plan for 18 hours, he decided to take the examinations and qualified for a diploma.

Europe's War Orphans Given Chance To Build Security Foster Parent Plan In Europe Is Helping To Give Orphans Of War Chance To Rebuild Lives

Remnants of war-broken families, these four Dutch children typify the condition of tired and hopeless orphans brought to foster parent colonies for rehabilitation. Dispair marks their faces, undernourished by a five-year diet of sugar beets and tulip bulbs.

By KAY SHERWOOD
NEW YORK — (NEA) — Five minutes ago, the comfortable dining hall had been a peaceful, quiet, orderly room. Then pandemonium broke loose. With less warning than a rocket bomb, 20 small children, all of them orphans from areas shattered by war, began screaming and sobbing hysterically. Tables and chairs overturned. Dishes crashed on the floor. The scene was Little Bradford Hall, near Braintree, Essex, in England, where the uncontrollable outburst had happened before, and will happen again. The children are not incorrigible or delinquents; they were born and reared in the terrible thunder and scream of war, and sometimes the impact of the new quiet that has come with peace is more than they can bear. Impossible? Not at all. Psychologists find strange things have happened to the minds of these children. Such hysteria is only one of the problems the child psychologists and social workers face in the delicate task of rebuilding the lives of thousands of these battered little remnants of war-torn families. Many agencies, American and European, are contributing to their relief. But a sympathetic, personalized approach to the problem has been the goal of the American Foster Parent Plan for War Children in its work to rebuild Europe's homeless children—waifs taken from concentration camps, found wandering along roads, or sitting bewildered in a ruined city. Started 10 years ago during the Spanish Civil War, the Foster Parent Plan has sheltered more than 40,000 children since then. It is financed by voluntary contributions and maintains 56 "colonies"—usually large old homes or chateaux—in England, France, Belgium, Holland, Malta and Italy. "Homeless and hungry children, shaken by the war, need more than food and clothing," reasons Mrs. Edna Blue, executive chairman. "They must be taught to be children again. They must be given back the sense of security that comes with normal home life." Here's how the plan works: The "foster parent" (who may be an individual, a school group or a club) agrees to contribute money, personal interest and long-distance affection for at least a year to help his "ward." There are no legal contracts and children cannot come to America to live with foster families. It costs $15 a month to "adopt" a child. This feeds, clothes, houses and educates him. Renewing the child's sense of security in the world begins when he is told in detail about his American friend who has chosen him to help. The "foster parent" receives the child's picture and history. Letters must be exchanged at least once a month through the executive offices in New York; birthday cards and occasional small gifts increase the bond between them. In nearly every case a marked improvement in the child's progress is noted when the letters start coming and he feels his "foster parent" really does care. One French orphan adopted by a California high school was given honorary membership in classes and school activities, and letters about studies, football games and parties of which he is "spiritually" a part fly back and forth across the Atlantic. The children's letters, usually accompanied by a florid crayoned drawing of their colony, are poignant testimony of their eagerness for friendship. "The world isn't such a friendless place anymore," writes a French orphan. "My sister writes you and you write her. Would it be all right if I wrote you, too?" hints an English orphan. "May I call you Auntie Helen?" is another timid inquiry. One English boy from London's East End, summing up war experiences that included injuries, a wrecked home and separation from family and friends, concluded matter-of-factly that "thanks to the dreadful war, though, I now live in a house with a bath." Reports from children too young to write are sent by social workers. To give the restless refugees a feeling of family life within the colony, they are divided into groups of three or four and a trained social worker is their "mother." The colony personnel is recruited from the social workers, teachers, doctors and nurses of the country. Native languages and customs, as well as practical training courses are taught to prepare the young people to help in the rebuilding of their own countries. What is the future of these youngsters? Some, as concentration camp records are clarified, will be reunited with their relatives; others will be placed in homes. Many will grow up in the colony. At present there are 2,800 children, ranging in age from a few months to 16 years, in the colonies. But Mrs. Blue points out grimly that these are the neediest, most desperate cases. There is still a waiting list of several thousand.

Captain Didn't Answer Letters, Girl Shoots Self

ROME—(P)— The liner Vulcania is speeding toward America with hundreds of happy war brides. Pretty Julia isn't one of them, although she wanted to be. Julia was a real life "Madame Butterfly"—one of the thousands of girls who lost their hearts to foreign soldiers in wartime. Two and a half years ago Julia first met her American captain in Caserta. She was only 19—soft, pretty and unworried. She had never gone out with men before. It is an old, old story but it was all new to Julia. She fell deeply in love with the young captain. He was married but she told friends he had assured her he would divorce his wife and marry her. She bore a child that could bear no family name. She loved it dearly and for a time was happy over the prospect of future life in America. Then the baby sickened and died. In her loneliness, Julia was cheered only by thoughts of that life ahead in the New World with her captain. But six months ago the captain returned to the United States, his Army service completed. "I will be back for you in six months," he told her. "If I am not back in six months I will never come."

Only two letters came. In both the captain said his wife was seriously ill and that he feared to see her for a divorce. After that Julia's letters and cablegrams went unanswered. She brooded for weeks. On Holy Friday Julia was to meet her sister, Carla, but she had no heart for the gaiety of Rome's pre-Easter crowds. From a drawer she pulled a pistol and held it to her body and pulled the trigger. And with the bright agony of that first bullet flaming within her she squeezed the trigger a second time and died.

Make This Home Recipe To Take Off Ugly Fat

It's simple. It's amazing, how quickly one may lose pounds of bulky, unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this recipe yourself. It's easy—no trouble at all and costs little. It contains nothing harmful. Just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of liquid Barconate (formerly called Barcol Concentrate). Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Then take two tablespoonsful twice a day. That's all there is to it. If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't just seem to disappear almost like magic from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow the easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active. MIDLAND DRUG AND ALL OTHER DRUGGISTS

Spring Flight

By WILLIAM MAIER

THE STORY: Gun-wise Debby Weeks of Cape Cod still acts and dresses like a tomboy at 19. Her sister Agnes warns her she'll never find a husband unless she changes her ways. Debby goes duck-shooting with Ellie, Bart and Joel despite bad weather. She and Ellie want to take Joel to another spot for better shooting, he leaves Debby reluctantly.

BART had come over from the other blind, and for the first time in her life Debby felt awkward and self-conscious with Bart Wyman. And of course he had to ask right away, "How do you like Joel?"

She kept her head turned away from him, so he couldn't see her face, and her fists were working inside her mittens. "He's nice," she said.

Bart nodded. "Good guy. Good-hearted guy. I know. I lived with him for two years."

She squinted out at the Meadow. It was hard to see much through the sand that swept across the bay. She had watched them go, the bow of their boat pointing diagonally to windward, creeping half-crawling toward the Meadow under Ellie's short, monotonously rhythmic strokes. Then, dimly, she had seen them walking about, Ellie setting the decoys and Joel balling out into the middle of the bay. Soon he was far to the west of the Meadow, a faint gray spot in the mist. "This may not be so funny," Bart said.

Debby pushed the boat off and stepped in. "Glad you've got two pairs of oars," she said.

BART already had the boat turned around. Debby, sitting in the forward rower's seat, slipped her jacket off and picked up the other oars. Bart rowed like Ellie did and it was easy to keep stroke with him.

Suddenly Debby stopped rowing. "Bart!"

He didn't break the rhythmic of his stroking. "Yeah?"

"How about Joel?"

He looked at her over his shoulder, scowling, and she was leaning on her oars. "We got to go to the Meadow first," she said. "Look, it'll take us an hour to get back there from where Ellie's boat is, against that wind. And the tide will be covering the Meadow long before that."

Bart continued to go through the motions of rowing, without putting any power into it. "By God," he said after a moment, "I guess you're right."

He pointed the bow up to windward of the Meadow, and Debby could see he was pulling harder, and he was grunting as he applied the pressure to each stroke.

When they got to the Meadow Joel had the decoys in the sack, and he heaved them into the bow. The water was already up near his boot-tops.

Bart nosed the boat into the grass. "Well, wade around the Meadow and tow the boat," he said, and there was urgency in his voice. "Be quicker than rowing."

"That's what I figured," Debby said. She grabbed a handful of marsh grass, holding the boat in to shore.

Bart was clambering out over the side. "Then I'll drop you and Joel over on the mainland."

"Drop Joel," said Debby. "I'm going back with you." She climbed out after him.

"No sense in that," Bart said. He was up at the bow, towing the boat with the anchor-line, and she was wading between the boat and the shore, holding it off with her hand. "I'll have to give Ellie that pair of oars, so you'd just be dead weight coming back—and it's coming back that counts."

Safe Safety Pin For Baby To Swallow

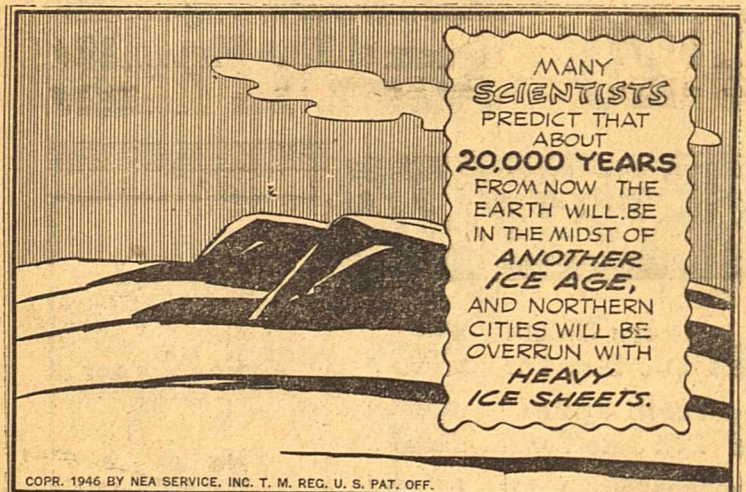

PORTLAND, ORE. — (P) — C. W. Johnston, Portland manufacturer, has started mass production of what he considers an "unswallowable" safety pin. It's really two pins, fettered together by a chain. Theory is that when baby swallows the first pin, his yell of discomfort will bring mother running in time to grab the second pin and tug the chain and swallowed pin back out.

Landlord Wants Ceiling Hike Because Broken Out

JOHNSTOWN, PA. — (P) — A landlord from nearby Altoona has "ceiling" troubles, but Area Rent Director Leo Akers says the OPA can't do anything about it. The landlord asked Akers if he could evict a tenant from a second-floor apartment because "the tenant weighs 400 pounds and I can't keep a ceiling on the first floor."

Here is an interesting hand from H. O. Teeple of Westfield, N. J., but my first comment must be a criticism of South's opening bid of three hearts. An opening three-bid should indicate at least six to the ace-king-jack, with nothing on the side.

There is no necessity, therefore, for a three-bid opening on this hand, but North could not be excused for that reason for his jump to seven hearts, which of course could not be made.

North should realize that even if his partner held seven hearts to the ace-king-jack, the hand could easily be off a heart trick. If North wanted to jump to seven of anything,

Sweden May Give Jobs To Displaced Persons

STOCKHOLM — (AP)— Thousands of Europe's displaced persons may be able to make a new start in life in Sweden if this government approves a proposal for planned immigration advocated by Swedish industrialists to relieve the labor shortage.

To fill the labor gap in the next decade and to safeguard industrial expansion which would otherwise be jeopardized, the Swedish Industrial Investigation Institute and Industria, periodical of the industrialists association, propose encouraging immigration of from 100,000 to 200,000 foreign workers.

Industria suggested the establishment of an immigration board representing both employers and employees if the government decides to support an active immigration policy. Sweden with its wealth of natural resources and high technical standards easily could absorb more than 100,000 foreigners, the publication said.

August Lindberg, president of the Swedish Trade Union Congress, said the main question in consideration of such large-scale planned immigration would be whether foreign labor can be admitted without inducing unemployment and lower wages among Swedish workers.

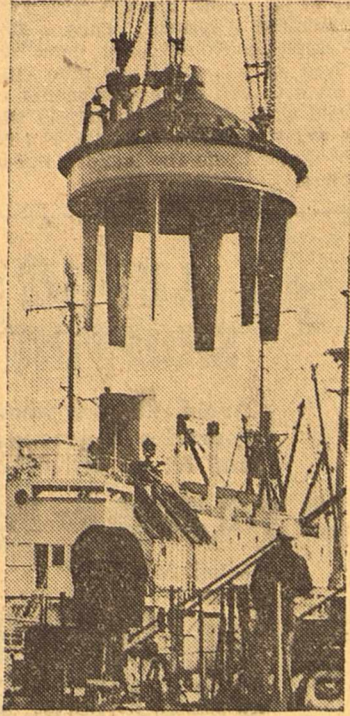

TEN FORMER GIs HELP NAVY MAN BUILD HOUSE

MUNDELEIN, Ill. — (AP)— W. F. Traynor's new home will be, for the most part, GI built.

When they learned that Traynor, former gunner's mate in the Navy, planned to construct a five-room frame bungalow, doing the work himself, 10 former service men came over to help him, pouring the concrete in three hours.

Other GIs, with seven other Mundelein residents, have undertaken to complete the house.

That's a ship propeller, being hoisted aboard a Navy landing ship for experimental installation at the Pacific Shipbuilding and Drydock Company's plant at Everett, Wash. Cycloidal propulsion is said to triple a ship's speed.

Gen. McNarney Orders Disciplinary Action On Troops In Europe

FRANKFURT, GERMANY — (AP)— Gen. Joseph T. McNarney Wednesday ordered a disciplinary crackdown on all American troops in Europe because "discipline in certain localities and commands in this theater has deteriorated to the point of discrediting the fine performance of our troops in general."

In orders issued to unit commanders, the theater commander declared "all commanders and their subordinates must now devote themselves to the reestablishment of discipline."

"This," he said, "becomes their most important immediate function." "Due to rapid demobilization and frequent changes of station of units and assignments of enlisted men and officers, firm ties of unit pride have been weakened. The traditional concern of officers for the welfare of their men and consequent mutual loyalties have been difficult to maintain during the transition period. Teamwork often has been forgotten."

The general reported participation on black market activities and excessive indulgence in drunkenness, high AWOL, automobile accident, and venereal disease rates; general lack of smartness in appearance and conscientious observance of military courtesy; and a complaining attitude toward constituted military authority and those duties essential to maintain high standards of soldierly efficiency.

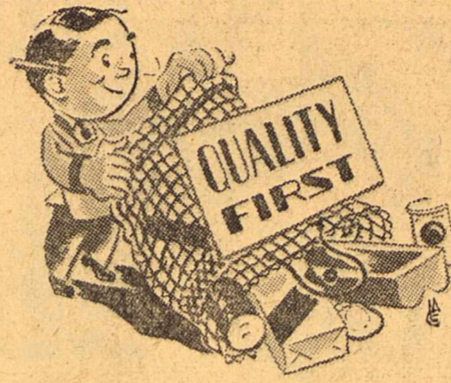

Senator Who Joined Army To Run Again

BOSTON — (AP)— Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., who resigned in the second year of his second term as U. S. senator to enter the Army in 1944, has announced his candidacy for that seat in this year's election.

With the announcement, one of the most sensational senatorial battles in Massachusetts' political history was assured for the former Army lieutenant-colonel will be running against Senator David I. Walsh (D), 73-year-old veteran chairman of the Senate Naval Affairs Committee who will seek his fifth term.

Lodge is the only announced candidate for the Republican nomination with the state primaries only eight weeks away. Walsh is not, and seldom has been, opposed for the Democratic senatorial nomination.

Czechs Regain Foreign Trade At Steady Pace

PRAGUE (AP)—Czechoslovakia, combining her postwar recovery program with broad nationalization of industry, has increased her foreign trade steadily since liberation last May from German occupation. Exports exceeded imports in December and January—the latest two months for which figures are available. In May, 1945, there were no exports. Imports aggregated $2,390. Almost every month since then has shown a steady rise in both exports and imports. In December, according to an official government report, imports totaled $1,985,770 and exports $1,208,520. The January figures were: imports, $1,652,395; exports, $1,708,500. More than one-third of Czechoslovakia's export goes to Switzerland. Soviet Russia and Sweden are the next best customers. One-third of Czechoslovakia's imports come from Russia. Switzerland is the second greatest supplier. Chief exports, by value, are hardware, fruit and herbs, glass and glass products, and sugar.
