French Say Siam Invasion Was Only Search For Rebels

Saigon Asserts Siamese Wished To Get Sympathy

NEW YORK—(AP)—France indirectly answered Friday a protest by Siam to Trygve Lie, United Nations secretary general, against "unjustified aggression" by French forces from Indo-China. The Siamese message to Lie has been circulated to Security Council delegates without result thus far.

The French high commission in Saigon, Indo-China, declared officially that French forces entered Siamese territory recently in pursuit of "Annamite and Laotian rebels" who raided French Indo-China.

The commission said these were the incidents "that seem to be the basis for the campaign carried out by the Siamese authorities to stir up world public opinion."

Meanwhile the United Nations Economic and Social Council took up the report of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt's commission on human rights and the Russian delegate immediately objected to emphasis given freedom of information.

The commission report called for setting up a sub-commission of 12 members to study the free flow of information.

Nikolai J. Feonov, Soviet representative, said it appeared that "discrimination against minorities" and other questions were considered "less important than freedom of the press."

Texas Counts Millions Of Dollars In Flood, Rain, Hail Damages

By The Associated Press
North and South Texas Friday counted millions of dollars in damage from floods, rain, hail and high winds and the peak of the damaging floods still had not been reached in North Texas.

Apparently hardest hit were the Fort Worth and Dallas area, where the upper Trinity River was expected to reach a crest of between 41 and 42 feet. Creeks feeding the river were out of their banks.

At Dallas, the Trinity had broken through levees in several places and water forced people out of homes and damaged business houses. Rail and highway traffic was snarled, with several trains bypassing Dallas because of a wreck and washouts. Thirty-five flood victims were being cared for by the Texas State Guard at Dallas.

Arnold Holleman, 19, of Palmer was drowned when flood waters swept him from his horse while he was attempting to rescue cattle.

More than 40 planes were damaged by high winds at private fields at Dallas. The Dallas County engineers estimated $500,000 damage to roads and bridges.

Mrs. Marie Wall Leaves Post With Price Board

The resignation of Mrs. Marie Wall, price clerk of the Midland Price Board, became effective Friday as she left that post after a year and five months of service.

Prior to becoming a paid member of the staff, Mrs. Wall had served more than 2,000 hours as a volunteer worker on the board.

Mrs. Buster Charlton, chief clerk, will be assisted in conducting the work of the office by Mrs. Dorothy Moore and a clerk to be appointed next week.

Mrs. Wall's future plans are indefinite.

Stettinius Offers To Quit UN Post But Truman Balks

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., has submitted his resignation as this government's representative on the United Nations Security Council, but President Truman said Friday he will refuse to accept it.

Truman told a news conference both he and Secretary of State Byrnes want Stettinius to remain as the United States delegate and he believed that Stettinius would agree to do so.

It was the third time Stettinius had advised Truman that he was ready to leave government service and return to private life.

This time it is understood; he has informed the President that he considered his major work in the United Nations accomplished since the organization is now a going concern.

There have been persistent reports that Stettinius was not particularly pleased with the role of UN representative. After Truman and Secretary of State Byrnes made clear that policy was being shaped in Washington rather than by the UN delegate in New York, Byrnes also had twice moved in on United Nations meetings to handle the difficult Iranian and atomic control issues.

Calf ropers on deck for Friday night include Raymond Quigg, Troy Fort, Ralph Thompson, Lefty Wilken, Lanham Riley, O. L. Harris, Ed Guy Branch, Junior Fisher, Max Horne, E. W. Bridge Blown in Manchurian War

Colorful Parade With 250 Riders And Horses Seen
A large colorful horseback riders parade Thursday wound through Midland's business district as thousands looked on at the event which marked the opening of the 1946 World Championship Rodeo.

More than 250 horses were in the parade, which began at the high school building and came noisily and gayly down the business district streets lined solidly for blocks with onlookers.

Motorcycle Officer Willard Opp guided the parade, which was headed by the Odessa High School band, official rodeo music makers. John Dublin, Jr., and Buster Cole on white horses carried the American and Texas flags.

Behind the flag bearers came John Dublin, Sr., Everett Colborn and Roy Parks, rodeo officials. Jack Favor and Howard Brown, rodeo judges, rode next.

Other rodeo officials in the parade included Clarence Schabauer, Jr., H. C. Bedford, T. Paul Barron, parade officials, and others.

The 40 pretty cowgirl sponsors came along in two's and received the applause of onlookers.

Then wave after wave of cowboys and cowgirls on horseback clopped the streets.

Specialty entries included: the Ranch House gang of cowgirls, City Bus, a jeep, and twin riders Imogene and Emogene.

Young Lee was judged the most typical old timer. The most typical modern cowboy was Flop Roberts; best appearing cowgirl 15 years or over, Pat McCaskill; best appearing cowgirl under 15, Martha May Schabauer; best junior cowgirl, 15 years or over, John C. Locklar; and best junior cowboy under 15, Sammy Cook.

Prizes were contributed by Midland merchants.

Lon Tyson served with Barron and Bedford on the parade committee.

Workers Leave Mines

NEW YORK — (AP) — Pennsylvania's 75,000 hard coal miners struck Friday at 12:01 a. m. after union and operator negotiators failed to agree on a new contract, shutting down the state's anthracite fields.

An AFL United Mine Workers representative at the Lehigh Valley Coal Company in Hazleton, Pa., declared that reports from the hard coal districts showed that "the whole region is idle."

"There are no colliers in the anthracite fields working," said Jack Reno, chairman of the grievance committee, Hazleton shaft, of Lehigh Company.

Meanwhile a high government official in Washington who could not be quoted directly said President Truman had been counseled by his advisers against seizing the mines.

Top government officials expressed belief that agreement could be reached within a short time along the lines of the bituminous contract which Lewis signed with the government Wednesday.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Senator Byrd (D-Va.) asserted Friday the terms for settlement of the soft coal strike constituted a "government surrender" to John L. Lewis, mine workers' chief.

In signing the new coal contract with the government, Byrd told the Senate, Lewis "won his greatest victory." It was the fourth time, he added, that the government had bowed to the United Mine Workers' pressure.

Praise for the agreement came from Senator Pepper (D-Fla.), however, during the Senate debate on President Truman's emergency labor legislation.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Truman said Friday he is still wholeheartedly in favor of the emergency strike-draft legislation he has asked of Congress.

His proposal to induct men who strike against the government, the President told reporters, has been grossly misrepresented and misunderstood.

It was not intended as a provision to draft labor, he said, but to draft citizens in an emergency. (Already, the Senate has knocked out the strike-draft section of the emergency legislation Truman asked last Saturday. The bill came under fresh Senate attack Friday.)

He merely wanted authority to deputize experienced men to work for the industries seized by the government, Truman explained.

The President's assertion at his news conference have been chosen by A. F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Trainmen that he had signed his political death warrant in forcing an end to the railroad strike.

Directors are Ed Pritchard, Roy Minear, R. D. Scraggs, C. W. Van Alstyne.

Roy Tugler was re-elected secretary-treasurer and the Rev. Clyde Lindsey is tall-twister.

John J. Redfern, Jr., is retiring president.

REMOVAL PERMIT NEVER CAME FOR SOCIALIST FOUND DEAD — 'I. W. W. John' Buried After 29 Years In Funeral Home

AMARILLO—(AP)—The body of "I. W. W. John," street-corner Socialist, whose death provoked an investigation that trailed off into time, was buried in Sapulpa, Okla., this week after 29 long years.

Mrs. Irene Payton of Amarillo told the story Friday. Mrs. Payton and her late husband, Charles Payton, were employees of the Buffington Brothers Funeral home at Sapulpa when the sheriff brought in the body in 1917.

The dead man's name was never known. He was tall, slim and wore his black hair in a pompadour. To residents of Sapulpa, he was just "I. W. W. John."

In 1917, the Industrial Workers of the World was in its hey-day in Oklahoma. "I. W. W. John" was the Sapulpa exponent of the organization's theories.

Sapulpa received him with disfavor and a little suspicion. He had no home there, and identified himself simply as "John."

John mounted the soap box on street corners and preached the Socialist ideologies. He was found dead one morning after a street oration the previous night. His body was brought to Buffington Brothers.

Held For Investigation
An inquest was held, and Buffington was instructed to retain the body until an investigation could be held. Under the law, a removal and burial permit had to be issued before the body could be interred. None ever came.

The body was stored in a packing case in the corner of the Buffington store room. In order to conserve space, a muslin band was tied around the corpse and the box was stood on end.

And there "I. W. W. John" stood for 29 years.

When the Paytons left Sapulpa in 1926, the body was almost perfectly preserved, Mrs. Payton said. "I. W. W. John" was forgotten until his body was found by Harold Rammpp who recently purchased the funeral home. Bert Buffington died years ago, and no one in Sapulpa could give a clue to the identity of the man who had stood in a corner for 29 years.

Rammpp said the corpse was in good condition.

Mrs. Payton is writing a letter to Creek County Attorney G. B. Corryell to explain the story.

And "I. W. W. John" had a Christian funeral and was buried in Sapulpa Monday afternoon.

LATE NEWS FLASHES

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Truman said Friday he will use every means in his power to keep the ships running in the event of a nationwide maritime strike.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The Pearl Harbor Committee heard testimony Friday that President Roosevelt telephoned Admiral Harold R. Stark the night of Dec. 6, 1941, to say that Japanese-American relations were serious.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Truman asserted Friday that he was in no hurry to choose a new chief justice when asked if he planned to fill the Supreme Court vacancy in June.

Faculty Censures Act, Pledges Cooperation

AUSTIN—(P)—A compromise Friday apparently had ended faculty protest over Dr. T. S. Painter's acceptance of the permanent presidency of the University of Texas after he had once told the teachers he was not interested in the job.

After considering half a dozen proposals ranging from outright censure to unqualified support, the faculty at a closed meeting Thursday approved a resolution which: Regretted Dr. Painter's failure to confer with it before accepting the presidency; recognized the faculty's responsibility to carry on its work in teaching and research "despite this omission"; and pledged support for all measures "conducive to the success and sound progress of the university."

Mrs. Herbert Emery Gives Vivid Portrayal Of 'State Of The Union' For An Audience Of About 150 Women Thursday At Log Cabin

In a vivid portrayal of the play "State of the Union," Mrs. Herbert Emery of Dallas took her audience of approximately 150 women through the campaign of a Republican candidate for President of the United States at the review presented Thursday afternoon at the Log Cabin Inn. The luncheon and review was sponsored by the Woman's Auxiliary of the Trinity Episcopal Church.

The play is currently running on Broadway and is the 1945 Pulitzer Prize play. Mrs. Emery who has the gift of penetrating through the printed surface of the page and making the audience feel the characters and the story as a living experience, lived up to her true form as she took her audience on the campaign tour with Grant Mathews and his wife, Mary.

The plot centers around a prominent American who has been persuaded by his friends to run for president of the United States. He has only the highest ideals; he is neither Republican nor Democrat, nor does he have any connections with labor or Communism. The trouble he runs into is his race for the office because of these high ideals gives the play its high humor and comedy.

Mrs. Emery held the attentive interest of her audience throughout the review of the three-act play, one all New York critics have reviewed with approval, an almost unadorned occurrence. A cue was never missed by Mrs. Emery to bring to light the humorous incidents in the play. The audience sensed the sincerity with which the reviewer presented the play written by Russel Crouse and Howard Lindsay. The authors began talking about "State of the Union" for a year and a half before the first words were typed. Dealing with political aspirations and ideals, the play necessarily had to be timely. Trying to keep up with the headlines became a problem for the writers. Attempting to fathom what would be the political subject discussed in the winter of 1945 became a task for political seers, not playwrights.

Surplus Military Property

There is enough ominous rumor and disturbing evidence at hand to make the Senate Mead Committee's investigation of surplus property disposal highly appropriate.

Whatever the excuses may be, the fact remains that a mountain of usable military property is moving out of military hands, through the War Assets Administration, and into the hands of civilians with glacial speed. This is doubly regrettable.

In the first place, the tardy release of this property misses a chance to give our faltering economy a shot in the arm. Automobiles and trucks, cloth and clothing, lumber and other scarce materials—which the Army and Navy surely had on hand in great quantities—would help get us over the hump of stalled production and also put some potentially inflationary money into circulation.

In the second place, the delay in moving surplus property may bring its eventual release up to a time when national production has finally got into stride. To swamp the market then with cheaper competing goods from the store of military leftovers would be almost certain to deliver our limiting reconversion another body blow.

Without attempting to find too large a silver lining in our present clouded economic picture, it might be pointed out that strikes and anti-OPA sitdowns did offer the surplus property people one way out of a dilemma.

Surplus property presents a problem in any industrial country after any major war. There is the choice of dumping it all on the market immediately and getting the damage over with at once, or of releasing it gradually and running the risk of hoarding by the purchaser and a flooding of the market later on. Either course might lead to unhappy results, though the first one might promise the least harm in the end.

But the end of World War II, as it turned out, offered no such problem. There was a chance to put a great many scarce items into the hands of people who needed them and had the cash to pay. These goods would not have offered competition to production, which was not yet under way. And there was enough pent-up demand to assure a good market for similar products when they finally did get into retail channels. But instead, there has been delay all along the line.

The Mead Committee has the chance to do a real public service by getting to the bottom of the delay, finding the trouble spots, cutting red tape, cracking bottle-necks, and getting the stuff moving while it still is needed.

Fascism And Big Business

Perhaps a top-off on Juan D. Peron's course as president of Argentina can be found in the nationalization of that country's banking system—decreed by President Farrell, but obviously dictated by the president-elect.

This nationalization move can give Peron a powerful hold on credits and personal deposits, and thus put in the new president's hands control of the nation's business, and, very largely, its whole economy.

It will be recalled that Mussolini and Hitler achieved that result by similar methods. Yet many people continue to speak of "fascism" and "big business" as if they were synonymous. If these people have forgotten what happened to "big business" in Italy and Germany, perhaps the almost certain fate of Argentine business will refresh their memories and point up the inaccuracy of their conclusions.

Hirohito Calls On General MacArthur

TOKYO —(AP)— Emperor Hirohito, a quiet little man in a plain business suit, made his secretly-arranged second call on General MacArthur at the U. S. embassy Friday. The two reportedly talked of food, of reconstruction, and of the vast changes in Japan since Hirohito had come hat in hand to MacArthur's door for the first time last September 27.

Hidemasa Terasaki, of the imperial household ministry, acted as interpreter and was the only other person in the room. He told newsmen only that a variety of topics had been discussed. Other sources in the household ministry divulged the general subjects covered in the hour and a half meeting of emperor and conqueror.

The meeting came just three days ahead of the scheduled opening of international war-crimes trials in Tokyo.

The emperor's power has waned so perceptibly since his September visit to MacArthur's residence that Friday's meeting will cause little of the repressed indignation provoked by his first call.

Old Age Pension Grant Is Cut $1.50 For June

AUSTIN —(AP)— Each old age pension recipient in Texas will get $1.50 less than his authorized grant in June because of increasing rolls and the ceiling on available funds.

Stalin Declines Request To Visit United States

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Truman announced Friday he invited Marshal Stalin to visit Washington about 30 days ago, but Stalin declined because his doctors advised him against a long journey.

At a news conference, Truman said that he asked Stalin to make a social visit here while the Paris conference of foreign ministers was in progress. The conference ended two weeks ago.

It was his second invitation to Stalin to visit Washington, the President said. The first was made the time of the Potsdam Conference last summer and refused by Stalin for the same reasons of health.

You don't have to be a prophet to know that some day he'll graduate. He'll leave the "hallowed halls of Alma Mater" to become a man in a world that honors manhood.

His cap and gown will be for that day the emblems of knowledge and ability. But only the years will prove his right to wear them. He'll have to succeed where some fail. He'll have to win the battles that many lose.

And victory and success will depend not only on knowledge and ability, but on other qualities that no high school or college can adequately instill. Christian character must be the foundation of his success. Christian courage and faith must win his victory. Yes, these spiritual qualities, even more than the fruits of study, will make him the man you want him to become.

Our government requires that every child receive an education. But in true religious freedom we choose ourselves the church in which our children's lives will be molded. Choose now—and help the church of your choice with your active support.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend and support the church of his choice. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church on Sunday.

Spring Flight

By WILLIAM MAIER Copyright by William Maier. Distributed by NEA Service, Inc.

RE-AWAKENING
XLI

OTHING was changed, it seemed to her. The Meadows the same brown line across water, dark and still, the bay same rippling, shoal-mottled deep of gray and gray-green, the rise the same slow-gathering banishment of light over the eye ridges and the ocean. The tweed of the blind had that she had almost forgotten. The wind swerved round the point the south end of the Island and decoys bobbed sluggishly. And when the ducks started to fly, they were the same too. They followed the same old lines of flight, and they made the same wide circles at the same and their under-les glistened like silver, just as they always had. It seemed as though they must be the very same ducks, the same ones that had been here three years ago, and four years ago, and five years ago. But as they sat there Debby got thinking that they probably weren't the same ducks at all, most of them. Probably some of these were the great-grandchildren of those ducks they had shot at years ago. The only thing that was the same was the flight, the whole raft that settled out there on the flats when the sun began to slip over the trees. She guessed that you could pick out any one duck and find out all about what had been happening to him, maybe by putting a band on his leg the way they were planning to do, you'd find out things had been changing slowly for that one duck, going north and rearing a family and moving round from week to week and finding food here and not finding any there and maybe getting shot at or having some of his family or friends get shot or killed by foxes or oil or something else. Things would have changed plenty for him, she guessed. Just as they had for her.

BY 10 o'clock, Ellie and Debby had only three ducks. It was warm and pleasant in the blind, but Debby was beginning to feel restless. "Think we better go in and get something to eat," she asked.

Ellie said, "Guess we might as well."

They sat there a while longer, scanning the horizon, and finally Debby said, "I don't get the kick out of it I used to, Ellie."

He said, "I noticed that."

"You feel that way too?"

Ellie looked straight out ahead of him, across the bay. "I guess I'll always like gunning," he said impassively.

Debby was sorry she had brought the subject up. She said, "Maybe I'll get over being so restless sometime." And after a while she asked, "When you going to start the house, Ellie?"

"Pretty soon."

"Why don't you start it now? I'm not much good, but I could help some. I feel more like doing something like that."

They picked up the decoys and went in to dinner, and that afternoon they got the first load of lumber at the yard in Orleans and took it out to the high land and unloaded it beside the barn, and all the next day they made trips from Orleans with lumber and supplies. The day after that, the stone-mason and the carpenter Ellie had hired started work, and Debby worked with the three of them, doing a little of everything, driving stakes in the ground and shoveling and grading and mixing mortar and carrying things in the wheelbarrow. This was just what she felt like doing, and when night came and she was sore and caloused and aching in all her muscles, that was so much the better.

ONE morning in early November the wind went around to the east, and by night it was blowing a gale. The rain started about midnight, and when morning came it was driving in from the ocean in alternating drizzles and down-pours.

Debby put on her oilskins and buttoned a suit vest over her chin and walked in the rain all the way out the Beach Road to the ocean. As she reached the top of the last dune, the wind pounded against her jacket like something alive. It was carrying sand and fine particles of mist and they bit into her face as though they were shot from a gun. She turned her back to the wind and glanced sideways from under the brim of her hat. The sun was a seething cauldron of boiling white and emerald green, and the white water reached out as far as she could see, all the way to the horizon.

She started down to the beach, her head down, fighting to move one leg ahead of the other as though she were walking in water against a strong tide. The roar was deafening, and the wind whistled around the brim of her hat, swerving and screaming. She got down to the line of foam, where the rushing, oncoming breakers were finally spending themselves. Here there was no driving sand, and she could look up at the water.

The gulls were dipping and rising and swerving out over the waves twice as fast as they usually dipped and swerved, and their screams were faint in the roar of the surf. Everything was hurrying, rushing, roaring. Debby stood braced, her head back and her eyes half-closed, letting the mist beat against her face; and she was keen and alive, filled with an intense excitement, a strange feeling of exhilaration that was somehow mixed with awe, with humility before this overwhelming power of the wind and the surf. Whatever it was, this feeling that was in her, it was like water after a long thirst, quenching a burning fire deep in her breast. She couldn't get enough of it, and she stood still drinking it in.

McKENNEY ON BRIDGE

By WILLIAM E. MCKENNEY
The treasurer of the American Contract Bridge League, Bertram Lebar, Jr., known to radio fans as sports commentator Bert Lee, has a keen sense of humor. I asked him for a good bridge hand recently, and he gave me this one.

East cashed two club tricks and shifted to the king of spades. "Now," Lebar asked, "what is the only play that will make the hand?"

It's a safety play—a lead of the jack of diamonds to dummy.

Declarer needs two entries to

♠ 9	♠ K 10 9 5 3	♠ 8
♠ 3 2	♠ 10 8 4 2	♠ Q 8 4 2

dummy, one so he can lead the ten of hearts and take the finesse; then when he fineses the jack of hearts and catches the ace, he has to get back into dummy to pick up the queen of hearts with his king. He can ruff a spade for one entry, and he creates the second entry by the play of the jack of diamonds. Of course, if West refuses to win with the diamond queen, declarer does not have to lose a diamond trick and therefore he can afford to give one heart.

Red Sox Beat Nats In Double Header As Dodgers Split Pair With Cardinals

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

With the exception of Hal Newhouser and Dave Ferris, last year's select six of the big league hurling brigade—the 20-game winners—are finding it difficult to regain their winning stride.

Four of the big six—the Chicago Cubs' Hank Wyse and Hank Borowy, St. Louis Cardinals' Charlie Barrett and Washington's Roger Wolf—strode to the hill in Thursday's Memorial Day double headers, but only Wyse walked off with a victory under his belt. Not one of the other three succeeded in going the route.

The other big winners of 1945, Cleveland's Steve Gromek, and the Cardinals' Ken Burkhardt also continued to find the going rough. Gromek dropped his fourth decision while Burkhardt was shelled from the mound.

Borowy, who won 21 games last year, has now failed to finish in seven of his eight starts and owns a 1-3 win and lost record. Barrett, the senior circuit's biggest winner last year with 23 victories, has appeared in eight games for the Cards and has yet to come up with his initial triumph. Wolff, who won an even 20 games for the Senators last year, has been victorious in only three of his 10 starts.

Wyse, a 22-game winner last year, has a so-so 3-3 record including his four-hit 6-2 win over the Cincinnati Reds in the opening game of Thursday's twin bill.

Borowy attempted to give the Bruins a clean sweep of the two games but the roof fell in on the former Fordham flinger and the Reds banged out a 7-6 triumph and an event split.

Despite the poor pitching of Barrett and Burkhardt, the Cardinals managed to divide their double header with the Pittsburgh Pirates before 34,984, winning the second encounter 12-11 after the Bucs had walked off with the opener 9-3.

The Boston Red Sox continued to roll up one of the best early season records in American League history when they defeated Washington's Senators 6-5 and 7-2 for their 32nd triumph in 41 games.

The New York Yankees blasted the tail-end Philadelphia Athletics 6-1 and 6-3.

Cleveland and the Chicago White Sox exchanged shutouts as Bobby Feller snapped a White Sox winning streak 3-0 in the opener. Bill Dietrich and Ralph Hamner collaborated to pitch the Sox to a 4-0 nightcap win.

The Brooklyn Dodgers held onto their two-game National League lead over the Cards. After Kirby Higbe had blanked them 5-0 in the opener for Brooklyn, the Braves outslugged the Dodgers 10-8 in the finale.

The Tigers had to be satisfied with a split with the St. Louis Browns. After Dizzy Trout had beaten the Browns 7-1 in the opener, the Browns copped the second 2-1.

The Philadelphia Phillies won their first double header of the season when they upset the New York Giants twice 8-5 and 3-1.

Robson Wins 30th Speed Classic At Indianapolis Race

INDIANAPOLIS —(AP)— George Robson, 30th winner of the 500-mile international sweepstakes at Indianapolis Motor Speedway, figures the foul luck that had been dogging him simply wore itself out before Thursday's race.

The Los Angeles driver, who had the pleasant task Friday of picking up a check for $33,800—$20,000 for first prize and $13,800 for leading in 138 laps—had tried twice before to capture the Memorial Day classic but motor trouble stopped him both times.

Robson's elapsed time for the distance was 4:21:16.70, giving him an average speed of 114.820 miles an hour—a figure bettered by only three other speedway winners. The record for the event—117,200 miles an hour—was set by the late Floyd Roberts in 1938.

The Pacific Coast driver engaged in a nip and tuck battle with Jimmy Jackson, Palm Springs, Calif., for the last 300 miles. Robson led his rival except for a few fleeting seconds at 220 miles, when Jackson momentarily snatched the lead.

Jackson finished second, only one minute and four seconds back of Robson. Ted Horn of Paterson, N. J., was third, with Emil Andres of Chicago fourth and Sam Hanks of Alhambra, Calif., fifth, as relief driver for Jole Chittwood, Cherokee Indian, of Reading, Pa.

One American Left In British Tourney

BIRKDALE, ENGLAND —(AP)— Young Frank Stranahan from Toledo, Ohio, must wait at least one more year to duplicate the feat of Bobby Jones, Lawson Little and other Americans who have romped off with the British amateur golf championship.

Stranahan joined Chick Evans of Chicago on the sidelines as the tournament gets with California-born Bob Sweeney, long a resident of Britain and winner of the title in 1937.

With Evans eliminated earlier, the only United States interest in the tournament rests with California-born Bob Sweeney, long a resident of Britain and winner of the title in 1937.

Doug Jones of Abilene shot a 72 and was carded by Bill Davidson of Odessa and Bill Maxwell of Abilene.

Hen's teeth are comparatively plentiful

FRANKLY, Arrow Shirts are still mighty scarce. Scarcer, we sometimes think, than the tooth of the hen.

From time to time shipments do arrive. But they always disappear from our shelves like ice cream at a picnic. However, if you keep dropping in, you may be lucky enough to find an Arrow in your size.

Some day, in the not too distant future, we hope you'll be able to buy all you want of the only shirt with the Arrow collar and the Jim Mitoaga figure fit.

Meantime, please grin and bear with us when we can't meet your needs. And remember—this shortage is neither our fault nor Arrow's... they still aren't able to catch up with demand.
